But his mercy is extended toward all mankind, and all shall live, because he, (Christ) lives. It is enjoined upon all, however, that they must believe the gospel of the kingdom, repent and be immersed into the all-saving name of Jesus Christ, after which a submitting of their erring wills to the unerring divine will—in other words, lead a godly life. This is essential to salvation.

In creation of man God took control of part of his physical organism. His will—the involuntary will—controls the action of the vital organs in each individual to maintain the body in health. This divinely directed force is exercised in the direction of building up the new material into the body and tearing down and removing the worn out particles. He also gave each a will—a voluntary will—to do as he pleased. But at least one-third of the day, in adult life, and a much greater proportion in infancy the voluntary will must succumb to the involuntary in sleep, at which time the divinely directed force upon the body and maintains it in a healthy state.

When this voluntary will is exercised against the laws of health, in time it produces ill-health, disease and suffering, and death follows sooner or later. But here comes the mercy of the all-wise Creator, and the involuntary force controlled by him is exercised in the direction of mending the injuries caused by the violation of the health laws. This same force which maintains man in health is directed towards bringing him back to health when laws are violated, and this is disease. Disease is a vital effort to mend or purify the body. This inherent Savior principle was placed in the body in the creation, is divinely directed, and it is wrong to interfere with its work by hindering it with taking into the system poisonous drugs.

God speaks through Moses to the children of Israel in Ex. xv. 26, thus: "If thou will diligently hearken to the voice of the Lord thy God, and will do that which is right in his sight, and will give ear to his commandments, and keep all his statutes, I will put none of these diseases upon thee which I have brought upon the Egyptians: for I am the Lord that healeth thee." David again raises his voice in praise in these words, Psa. ciii. 2, 3, "Bless the Lord, oh my soul, and forget not all his benefits who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases." But healing comes only upon condition that we cease from violating the laws of our physical being relating to health.

I was brought back to health by respecting God's mercy which was being exercised toward me in trying to repair the wrongs I had committed against my body. I learned that his mercy endureth forever, and by doing those things which favored the work of this divine saving principle in me I soon regained health.

This grand truth which has been revealed to me has been a great blessing and has shown me that God is indeed a merciful God, "not willing that any should perish" physically before they had lived out their allotted time, but that they might live longer and thereby be able to do more good in this life. If a bone is broken or the flesh wounded this involuntary force begins at once to repair the injury, and can be assisted mechanically by setting the bone or placing together the wound and doing other things to favor the work of healing, but God alone through this divine healing power creates and mends it. So when the body becomes foul from retained impurities, a diseased effort, (a Savior, principle divinely directed,) sets to work to bring it back to health and this effort should never be hindered in its work of purification by taking into the system more poison in the form of drugs. Favor the diseased effort by baths, applying heat and moisture, eating pure food and breathing pure air, and in many other ways. If one is at a loss what to do, it is better to do nothing than to hinder the chances of life by taking drugs.

I had never realized the greatness of God's mercy to me until I learned the truths relating to my physical self, and I rejoice to-day that I can say as fervently as ever David did—"His mercy endureth forever." And I feel it my duty to tell it to all, because there are many dear ones I know who are suffering from ill-health because of transgressed natural laws and are laboring under the great delusion of drug medication.

Christ was the personal manifestation of this divine savior principle which was with the Father in the beginning. If we believe on him and accept the conditions of pardon through him we shall be saved to a life eternal, and if we believe on the indwelling principle in our bodies and comply with the conditions laid down in nature for bodily health, we shall be pardoned and length of days will be ours. Then will we rejoice in the mercy of God as David did. "His mercy endureth forever." "He healeth all thy diseases."

Submitted in love to all dear ones, by your sincere brother in Christ.

EDGAR HAVEN.

Notice of Debate.

Editor Restitution:

I desire to state through the columns of THE RESTITUTION, that having been challenged by Elder F. S. Sawley a representative of the doctrines of the Latter Day saints, to discuss the following propositions, viz:—

1. Is the reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, in fact the Church of God, harmonizing in faith, doctrine, organization and practice with the Church of Jesus Christ set up by divine authority 1800 years ago? Elder F. S. Sawley to affirm, Geo. Kidwell to deny.

2. Was Joseph Smith a prophet of God, and is the Book of Mormon of divine origin? Elder F. S. Sawley affirms, Geo. Kidwell, to deny.

That I will discuss these propositions with Elder Sawley at Spout Springs Hickory Co., Mo., five miles east of Garden City, known as "Cross Timbers," commencing at 10 o'clock, A. M. on Monday after the 2nd Sunday in August, 1898.

I desire to invite all the brethren of the Church of God, and friends of the faith, together with all the readers of THE RESTITUTION, in fact, everybody interested in the study of the Holy Scriptures.

I will here say to the visiting brethren and friends from a distance, that the people of Spout Springs and vicinity are hospitable and great-hearted, and abundantly able to lodge and entertain all who will attend. I take especial pleasure in mentioning the names of James, Albert, Obadiah and Thomas Driskell, brethren of the Church of God, to whom any one desiring to do so, may write for information as to how to get to the place.

I will state that on Thursday, before the 1st Sunday in August, at 7 o'clock P. M., I will begin a series of meetings at Sister Mary E. Howard's six miles east of Climax Springs to be continued one week. Let all the brethren in that country make ready to attend.

I have just received a letter from J. R. Fisk, of Caldwell, Kansas, informing me that he and his estimable wife will meet me at Climax Springs, also tendering me his services as moderator during the discussion. I extend a special invitation to Brother J. W. Carroll of Alabama being, personally acquainted with him.

Being aware of the indisputed ability of Elder Sawler in defending the doctrine of Latter Day Saints, I ask my brethren to assist me with any information in their possession, by letter, pamphlet, treatise or otherwise any available help, that I may be fully able to meet his arguments, and to defend and uphold the truth.

If any brother or sister has any history or writings on the life and character, officially or otherwise of Joseph Smith, I will esteem it a great favor to have such forwarded to me, to be returned after the discussion, if so desired, on which all return charges will be prepaid by me.

Now, brethren, let me admonish you one and all, to "be up and doing," wide-awake, on the sharp look-out for the coming of the Lord, to establish his eternal kingdom in the land of promise, between the River of Egypt and the great River Euphrates, and be seated upon his throne in Jerusalem, upon Mt. Zion, to reign before his ancients gloriously instead of in Western Missouri, or in Salt Lake City, Utah, as stated in the Mormon Book of Doctrine and Covenants as stated by Joseph Smith and others of the mormon prophets. Lift up your eyes, little flock, and take a view. The signs of his near approach in the gathering of the ever darkening war-cloud, seeing the elements are red with warfare, unrest among the nations, and the great running to and fro, knowledge being increased, men's hearts failing them for fear of the things that are coming on the earth. Without natural affection, one toward another, all of which are signs of his near approach.

Brethren, let us be ready that we may enter into the kingdom as helpmeets for the Lord in carrying out the blessing promised to Abraham through his seed to all the families of the earth. Glorious thought! Come, Lord Jesus, quickly come.

Much more could be written in this article, but lest your readers be weary I will now close and await another writing. As I do not know Brother Carroll's address will he please write to me at Witter, Ark.

DR. GEORGE KIDWELL.

Report of Ministerial Meeting.

As per announcement the ministerial meeting convened at Argos, Ind., Thursday evening, March 24, 1898, and continued over Sunday. All who were assigned subjects were present except Bros. Cordill and Smith, who were unable to attend. Bro. Vanvactor was also unable to be present all the time.

The plan of the programme was adhered to and carried out. The meeting took on the form of an investigation, the subjects being presented by those to whom they were assigned and then the matter was open for discussion, by any and all who wished to participate, which called forth many timely hints and suggestions, and thus by comparison of ideas much could be brought out, making the meeting one of interest, and we trust much profit derived therefrom. There were so many good things said, and so much that ought to have been heard and remembered by all, that we can only speak of it in a general way, and say it was good, and that we hope this will not be the last one, for we need more like it. We fear that the term "ministerial" as applied to the meeting conveyed the wrong idea that it was specially for the benefit of the ministers. Well, in one sense that is correct, but we wish to call attention to a paper read by Bro. Zilmer relative to this matter, showing the origin and original use of the term clergyman, and that there is no Bible distinction between them and the laymen so-called, but that we are all ministers together so that should you see another ministerial meeting advertized, you need not think it for the preachers alone, but all who desire to attend.

The following resolution was unanimously passed, thanking the Central Passenger Association for the favors granted the ministers in the way of half fare passenger permits:—

Inasmuch as we as ministers of the Gospel of the Church of God of the Abrahamic faith in Indiana are enjoying the courtesy of ministerial half fare passenger permits,

Resolved: That we heartily appreciate the favor thus shown us, and that we hereby extend our hearty thanks to the Central Passenger Association through their Commissioner Mr. Donald, for the courtesy so kindly extended to us.

We shall also endeavor to guard against abuse of this privilege, and work to the interest of the Association as much as lies within our power. A marked copy of these resolutions to be sent to Mr. Donald.

The attendance was not large until Sunday when there was a good sized audience, but on account of rain many were prevented coming from a distance, but nevertheless the interest was good throughout and we trust much good may result.

F. L. AUSTIN, Pres.
A. C. ROBERTS, Sec'y.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

Mrs. Mary A. King,	.75
Hannah Musselman,	.50
Emma Perrine,	.50
Mrs. John Sipes,	.50

A Card.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:

I embrace the this means of informing you of my intention to visit the West, and it would be a great pleasure to be permitted to meet and worship with you. If you also esteem it a privilege and wish me to call on you please write a card at once, so I can make a list of appointments. I wish to leave Philadelphia about the middle of April. Address me at 2714 Montgomery Ave., Philadelphia, Pa.

Yours in hope.

C. C. RAMSEY.

The woman's mortification can be imagined.

"Beautiful Winona."—A Delightful Summer Haven.

Winona Lake, Indiana, (formerly Eagle Lake) is an attractive summer haven on the Pennsylvania Lines near Warsaw, Indiana. As the site of Winona Assembly and Summer School, has grown into favor very rapidly. Improvements made on the two hundred acres of romantic woodland which stretches nearly two miles along the eastern shore of Winona Lake, a beautiful sheet of water, include all the comforts and conveniences for a highly enjoyable sojourn. Ample facilities are at hand for satisfactory entertainment at reasonable rates at the commodious hotel which adjoins the railway station at the entrance to the grounds, in cosy cottages, or in tents as may be preferred.

Persons who may desire to combine devotion, entertainment and instruction with rest and recreation will find Winona Lake the ideal spot for invigorating both mind and body by instructive entertainment and study and health-giving recreation. The educational work of the Summer School is in charge of well known instructors. The college halls are equipped with all required paraphernalia; the large auditorium in which the assembly meets, and in which prominent lecturers are heard during the season, has a seating capacity of over 3,000. An amphitheatre, race track and other facilities for athletic pastimes are provided. The fishing, bathing and boating are fine, the large fleet of boats being of the best.

The season of 1898 will open May 15th. Commencing on that date excursion tickets with fifteen day limit will be on sale via Pennsylvania Lines. They may be obtained during May, June, July and August. The sale of season excursion tickets will begin June 1st, and continue daily until September 30th. Season excursion tickets will be good returning until October 31st.

Full information about the attractions at "Beautiful Winona," its Assembly and Summer School, etc., will be cheerfully furnished all who address Mr. Sol. C. Dickey, Secretary, Winona Lake, Ind. Inquiries about excursion rates, time of trains, etc., should be addressed to Passenger and Ticket Agents of the Pennsylvania Lines, or to F. Van Dusen, Chief Assistant General Passenger Agent, Pittsburg, Pa.
—may 30.

Our Love Feast.

Dear Restitution:

Perhaps it is rather late to send in our yearly greeting, but we will endeavor to send a few words if it is late. As we sit this pleasant night in our comfortable room, with kind friends around us, our mind goes back over the past and we are reminded that another year has passed and gone with its joys and sorrows. We ask ourselves the solemn question, What have I done for the cause of our soon coming King? Have we made any sacrifices for the cause of truth? Our mind reverts back about 1800 years over into the Judean plains and view the shepherds watching their flocks one beautiful night, when behold they see a bright light shining around them. They look, and behold a heavenly messenger, who said unto them, "Fear not, for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a Savior which is Christ the Lord." This was the most exalted being that was ever born into this world. As we follow him through the journey of his life, and behold the wonderful works that he did, we see him feeding the hungry, healing the sick, and at his command the dead are restored to life. We behold him tossed on a tempest sea, and hear the plaintive cry of his fellow passengers, "Lord, careth thou if we perish?" He had only to speak the word and the sea obeyed him. Again, we see him led as a Lamb to slaughter. Then the question, "Art thou the King of the Jews?" His plaintive answer, "To this end was I born, for this cause came I into the world." We look again and we behold him nailed to the cross. We hear him still pleading for his enemies, "Lord, forgive them for they know not what they do."

The earth is veiled in darkness; he is laid in the tomb; his friends go away filled with sorrow. All was gloom and darkness for three days and three nights, but what was the astonishment of his disciples on that memorial morning, when they came to the tomb and found him gone. But what was their surprise and joy when they saw him alive. How glad they must have been to meet him and talk with him. We follow him for forty days, and see him "ascend into heaven" as they stood looking after him as he ascends they see two messengers in shining raiment who say, "This same Jesus shall come in like manner as ye see him go into heaven." We remember that he said while he was here, "If I go away I will come again." Our beloved Paul said, "Unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation." Yes, we are looking for him. Then are we ready to meet him? He says, "Therefore be ye also ready; for in such an hour as ye think not, the Son of Man cometh." Yes, this same Jesus is coming again, but not as the man of sorrow, but as King of the whole earth. "When the Son of Man shall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory." "To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne." He is not coming as the man of sorrow, nor to wear a crown of thorns, and be led as a Lamb to the slaughter; but to wear a crown of life. Those hands that were pierced with those rugged nails to sway a sceptre of righteousness and peace; to put down all wicked, selfish rulers, and "fill the earth with the knowledge of the Lord as the waters cover the sea." Then the announcement of the angel will be fulfilled, "Behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people." "And they sung a new song saying, Thou art worthy to take the book and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood, out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation; and hast made us unto our God kings, and priests; and we shall reign on the earth. And I beheld and I heard the voice of many angels round about the throne and the beast and the elders; and the number of them was ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands. Saying with a loud voice, Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honor, and glory, and blessing. And every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them heard I saying, Blessing, and honor, and glory, and power unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever."

We believe Jesus is soon coming to enter upon this grand and glorious work. You and I, dear brother, can have the privilege of sharing this honor with him. "To them who by patient continuance in well doing, seek for glory and honor and immortality, eternal life." Is it any wonder that it is written, "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the thing which God hath prepared for them that love him." Remember though the road be dark and gloomy, though we have to wear a crown of thorns, our Lord wore one before us. He traveled the same road that we have to. We must bear the cross before we can wear the crown. He was tried, so must we be, for the promise is unto the overcomers. We should keep our eyes on the recompense of reward. Paul says, "Let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith; who for the joy that was set before him, endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God. The same writer says, "For I reckon that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us." We hear our Savior say, "I am he that liveth, and was dead. And, behold, I am alive forever more. Amen." And have the keys of hell and of death. He is coming to use these keys to unlock those old and musty graves and "set the captives free" and destroy "him that has power over death," and remove the curse. Then we will have the privilege to walk those gold paved streets of the new Jerusalem, and drink of the pure water of the river of life. Will we be there?

Submitted in love.

S. C. & E. B. OLIVER.

Dear Restitution:

We are always eager for the next issue of THE RESTITUTION. We get sweet peace and comfort in reading and our hearts are often, yea often, made glad and to rejoice, and we are made to cry out, "Bless the Lord," while our eyes are blinded by gushing, happy tears. As was the case this day and especially when we read Brother Julius Saunder's letter. Oh, how it made our hearts leap with joy. We shouted out "Blessed be God," and my wife sanctioned, "amen!" Oh, that the world might know of such a faith and such a hope as ours. It is indeed anchored. Our faith is a precious faith. Rarest jewels, gems, gold nor silver, can buy such sweet peace of mind, such comfort and such happiness. Our hope is an eternal hope reaching out and on and on.

We are looking for the return of Jesus and a home in the kingdom, and when we get there we will still be living for the age of ages in which no doubt our joy and happiness will continue to increase as the ages roll on. Who knows the height and depth, the length and breadth of God's love to us people. "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and all that is within me bless his holy name." Jesus says, "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life. He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life." Our life is hid with Christ in God. Brethren, oh, how we long to be clothed upon with our house from heaven. When Jesus who is our Life shall appear, then shall we appear with him in glory. Come, Lord Jesus, Come quickly, and give us a home in thy kingdom. Yes, may thy kingdom soon come, and thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven. Jesus says, "My sheep hear my voice and they follow me," also tells us "Straight is the gate and narrow is the way that leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it." Then, we should not be discouraged on account of the few and scattered ones of the household of faith. The true and saving faith and doctrine has never been popular in the world. It is not now and never will be. Jesus said, "When I return shall I find faith?" he also said, "Every plant which my heavenly Father hath not planted shall be rooted up." These sayings alone are enough to shake to the foundation all the popular religious faith and doctrines in the world today. Has all these thousands of faiths and doctrines a source from God? There is but one God. Has he changed, and become fickle like man, or to suit man's opinions and imaginations?

Brethren, we are dealing with the only One God, the same yesterday, today and forever. Let us make no mistake nor deceive ourselves. Jesus tells us to be "wise as serpents and as harmless as doves."

Brethren, we know that Jesus is coming soon, coming personally, coming to establish on earth, yea, to restore the kingdom of God that has been overturned, overturned, overturned, until he comes whose right it is to set upon the throne of David and to order it. Jesus' coming does not seem so interest the world; you seldom hear it mentioned in sermons of popular religionists, seem to have no use for it, and really it is a useless thing if their immortal soul throne be true. Jesus' coming will be as a thief to the world, but, brethren, did be not tell his followers that it had not come upon them unawares if they remember his words "watch." "Be not deceived," says Jesus.

Oh what must be the disappointment of those deceived, seemingly honest, sincere religionist, in the time to come, when Jesus will say, "Depart I know you not." No wonder there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth when they have to take their place with the sinner. Deceived, self deceived. Oh, may this not be, but now while they have opportunity during this day of grace. May he examine himself and see if he be in the faith, and oh, Lord assist each honest enquirer by this holy spirit to know that he is a child of God. O Lord, our God may we have eyes to see, ears to hear, and hearts to understand, and wills to obey thee and do thy will. Thy Law, oh Lord is perfect, converting the soul. There is but one Lord Jesus Christ, one faith, one baptism, one hope. The devil deceived our first parents which brought sin and death into the world. Through sin and disobedience the antediluvians were destroyed. Through sin and disobedience the Jews lost the kingdom of God and have been a curse and a wanderer for 1900 hundred years. Through sin and disobedience we too may be blinded to God's will, like Esau, sell our birth-right for pottage. We must not overlook these lessons of the past and think that anything short of doing God's will in God's way will do. We must be doers of his Word. Lord help us to be faithful.

Yours waiting and watching for Jesus.

B. Y. FRETWELL.

Cheap Rates to the West and Northwest.

On April 5 and 19 the North-Western Line (Chicago & North Western R'y) will sell Home Seekers' excursion tickets at exceptionally low rates to a large number of points in Northern Wisconsin, Michigan, Northwestern Iowa, Western Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota, including the famous Black Hills district. Better own a farm! Start now! Apply to nearest ticket agent or address C. Traver, Marine National Bank Building, Pittsburg, Pa., or W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth Avenue, Chicago, Ill.—apr 9

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

P. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Burton, Mich.
L. M. Chesebrough, Galesburgh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. S. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 155 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio.
W. L. Skeels, Scholls, Ore.
E. Hoyt, Box 284, Grand Rapids, Mich.
S. Roxana Wance, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Bean, Dudley, Worcestershire, England.
J. S. Butcher, Sidesville, Ind.
J. W. Nibs, Elizabeth, Pa.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 254, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Odanville, Ark.
J. J. Cady, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prime, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kean, 4607, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Olsen, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hall, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Side, Ia.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Oswego, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
D. M. Hudler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. B. Haupt, Laurel, Neb.
E. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, Okla.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
H. P. Baker, Box 1006 Decorah, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Cottonwood, Cal.
J. R. Oglesby, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Marmont, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 327 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Steffe, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 44, Viola Idaho.
Elder H. M. Williams, Perry and, Kan.
B. Wilson, 1905 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
D. T. Hubbard, Rensselaer, Ind.
John Foore, 2012 West Corning Ave. Pasadena, Kansas.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 284 Grand Rapids, Mich

Of 12,000 miles which form the land girdle of China, 6,000 touch Russian territory, 4,800 British territory, and and 400 French, while 800 may be described as doubtful.

List of Churches.

The Church of God, San Diego, California, meet for worship, and study of the Scriptures in Grand Army Hall, 6th St., between G & H every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. All Bible students are welcome.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:30 p. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., as follows:—Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

Church of God at Selma, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:00, for devotional services. Any brethren passing through thereby are cordially invited to meet with us.

The Church of God, in Andover, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Mills Hall. Andover is on the direct line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St Paul R. R., going west to Aberdeen, thirty miles west thereof.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Pearce Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have a regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Sarah Sellick Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:00 p. m, followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. The church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. Lectures known to this church, or coming properly endorsed by introductory letter, will be heartily welcomed. At present we meet in the School House on top of the hill; cable cars come very near, and ferry brings from Seattle.

The brethren of the Church of God at Rush Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Kessler, or H. L. Johnson, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, La., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthon, Elder.

The Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Brewer Hall, on Willoughby Ave., near Broadway.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches in God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trundell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 19th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okla., meet at the Arbor every Sunday one and one half miles north-east of Linden on the third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet twice a month for the purpose of breaking bread and social services, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth meet with us. Services at 2 o'clock p. m. Lizzie Woods, Whiterocks, Ill., Sec.

The Church of God of Waterville, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Mountainview School House, near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Cotbuley, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 p. m. for worship, in private homes. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Gover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Faithfully yours, Grant Mechanicr.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays in each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver, Pastor.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1231½ Euclid Ave, near Prospect Ave. Cleveland, Ohio, where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:00 a. m. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder. S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt binding, fifth edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Twelve Words;" one of "Early Lessons;" and one of "Honoring the Son,—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

NICKEL PLATE

13-14-08

All trains arrive at and depart from the Union Passenger Station, Van Buren Street, Chicago. Unlimited Colored Porters attend first and second class day coaches on through trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars en route.

Eastbound. | All Nickel Plate Trains Daily | Westbound.

Table of Nickel Plate trains: Chicago, Clarke, Valparaiso, So. Wanash, Knox, Cleveland, Berea, Buffalo, New York, Boston.

Light type A. M. Dark type P. M.

Dining cars a la carte. Parlor cars (Buffet, Library, Observation) Coaches, Reclining Chair Cars and Seats, only to Toledy, Wheeler and Fremont, no Seats only on Toledy, Toledy and Saturday.

Drawing Room Sleeping Cars on Nos. 2, 8 and 6 through to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston; on Nos. 5 and 1 to Chicago. Meals are served at up-to-date Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at reverse meal hours. Baggage checked to destination. On inquiry you will find our rates are always lower than via other lines, service considered.

For rates and detailed information, address J. Y. Hooper, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agent.

Pittsb'gh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Div.

Pennsylvania Lines.

Schedule of Passenger Trains Central Time.

Westward. | 9 | 15 | 59 | 3 | 55

Table of Pittsburgh, Ft Wayne & Chicago Div. trains: Pittsb'gh, Alliance, Canton, Massillon, Wooster, Mansfield, Crestline, Ft Wayne, Arcola, Columbia City, Larwill, Pierceton, Eagle Lake, Warsaw, Glen Green, Bourbon, Inwood, Plymouth, Grovertown, Daniel, Davis, Hanna, Wanatah, Valparaiso, Wheeler, Hobart, Liverpool, Clarke, Chicago.

Eastward. | 29 | 8 | 4 | 6 | 30

Table of Pittsburgh, Ft Wayne & Chicago Div. trains: Chicago, Clarke, Liverpool, Hobart, Wheeler, Valparaiso, Wanatah, Hanna, Davis, Daniel, Grovertown, Plymouth, Inwood, Burton, Bourbon, Glen Green, Warsaw, Eagle Lake, Pierceton, Larwill, Columbia City, Arcola, Ft Wayne, Van Wert, Lima, Sycamore, Crestline, Mansfield, Wooster, Massillon, Canton, Alliance, Pittsb'gh.

L. P. LORRY, General Manager. E. A. FORD, General Passenger Agent.

13-28-F PITTSBURGH, PENN'A.

For time cards, rates of fare, through tickets, baggage checks, and further information regarding the running of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect Dec. 5, 1897.

Trains leave Plymouth (Ind.)

GOING NORTH.

No. 6, Ex. Sun. For St. Joseph..... 12:08pm
No. 8, " " " " 10:11pm

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute..... 6:33a m
No. 3, " " " " 12:43pm

For complete Time Card giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc. address T. A. Dowas, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. FORD, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Louis, Mo

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some one person as New Year present for 1898. The cost is only three cents a week

Books and Tract List.

A LETTER TO A FRIEND

[redacted]

quantities will raise hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory, and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Pop[illegible] tures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ," "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O.

Aids to Bible-Study and Mission-Work.

1. The gospel of the Kingdom, avocated in a series of Ten discourses. A volume of 263 pages, Cloth 25c. a Leather-bound beautifully embossed and gilt edged $1.00. 2. Twelve Words or the true meanings of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Partake, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as gathered from their uses in the Holy Scriptures. A tract of 40 pages 10cts a copy. Intended as a substitute for and an improvement on the same writer's Key-Words. 3. The gospel of the Kingdom. An 8-page double column tract 10cts. per dozen; 75cts. per hundred. 4. Who are Led by the Spirit? A 4-page tract 25cts per hundred. 5. Seeking and Finding. A 4-page tract 25cts. per hundred. 6. Honouring the Son. An 8-page tract 25cts per dozen. 7. Early Lessons. 30 pages 10cts. copy. Suitable for old or young.

Written and for sale by WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

Notice.

WILL our friends please remember that we do not have the books and tracts at this office that are advertized by Brother Joblin, or Brother Wiley Jones. Do not send to this office for them, but send to their address as given in the advertisement. This will save both trouble and delay. PLEASE REMEMBER.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL,

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

What is Good?

"What is the real good?"
I asked in musing mood.
"Order," said the law court;
"Knowledge," said the school;
"Truth," said the wise man;
"Pleasure," said the fool;
"Love," said the maiden fair;
"Wealth," said the miser;
"Beauty," said the lover;
"Freedom," said the rover;
"Home," said the sage;
"Fame," said the soldier;
"Equity," the seer.
Spake my heart full softly:
"The answer is not here."
Then within my bosom
Softly this I heard:—
"Each heart holds the secret: Kindness is the word."

—John Boyle O'Reilly.

Communicated.

Immortality of the Soul.

At the Universalist State Convention at Lansing, in session, the President of the meeting, Mr. Illman said that their creed should be modified. That "the Church, by having too old doctrines, was in danger of losing its balance;" that it was suicidal for Universalists to close their eyes to the changed conditions, and that the church must step forward or sink backward to an ignoble decay."

It seems to me that many other sects would do well to lay aside tradition and popularity, and search the Scriptures carefully to know the truth, would see fit to change their creed somewhat. The first great error that prevails among the churches, and is the parent of many other errors, is the doctrine of "the immortality of the soul." That God gave to Adam and Eve in creation an immortal soul, and they have transmitted it to all their posterity.

Nothing is said in the creation of man of an immortal man or soul. The Hebrew word translated soul is Nephesh. That word is translated life in the Bible 475 times. It is translated life 120 times, and translated "man," person, fellow, etc., 39 times, but never called immortal. After Adam and Eve had eaten of the forbidden tree, the Lord said, lest he put forth his hand, and take also of the tree of life and eat, and live forever (in misery), he guarded the tree of life with a flaming sword. The Serpent said, "Thou shalt not surely die." The Lord said to Adam: "In the sweat of thy face thou shalt eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken; for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return. The first man's disobedience may be properly called a spiritual death. I once heard a Universalist minister say at a funeral that this spiritual death is the only death there is. But we read in Gen. v. 5, "And all the days that Adam lived were 930 years and he died," (a literal death.) "And the Serpent said unto the woman, Ye shall not surely die."

The creed as nearly all the sects very much needs to be revised, for they teach that all men, good and bad do not literally die. Which shall we believe, God or the Serpent? The Universalist believes that all men, good and bad, go to heaven when they appear to die. The orthodox think the good will go after death to a heaven of endless bliss, and the wicked to a hell of endless torment.

Now the Bible teaches that man is mortal and not immortal in this life. Those who "seek for immortality by a patient continuance in well doing" will surely find it at the first resurrection, and thus gain eternal life. Rom. ii. 7. "Shall mortal man be more just than God?" Job iv. 17.

Paul says, 1 Cor. xv.: "Behold, I show you a mystery. We shall not all sleep, but we shall be changed in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed. For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality. Then death is swallowed up in victory. But thanks be to God who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. Then immortality will be gained by all who have sought for it by well doing. Then the Son of Man shall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory. Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world." But from the left hand, they go into everlasting punishment. Can that be everlasting misery? Let an inspired man answer, "Those who obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ, shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and the glory of his power." 2 Thess. i. 9. "The wages of sin is death."

The phrase "immortal soul" is not once used in the Bible. But that Book does say "the soul that sinneth shall die;" also, "He that converteth the sinner from the error of his way, shall save a soul from death, and hide a multitude of sins." Joshua was commanded to drive out the wicked nations out of the land promised to the patriarchs and their posterity. But Joshua had to fight them. "He took the city of Lachish and smote it with the edge of the sword, and all of the souls therein. He next smote Hebron with all the souls therein, with the edge of the sword." See John x. 34. The souls were not immortal or they could not be put to death. It is never said in the Bible that the immortal souls of the righteous go to heaven at death, or the wicked to an endless hell of torment. Sleep is often used to represent death in the Bible. "So David slept with his fathers and was buried in the city of David." The same is said of nearly all of the kings of Israel. Before he died he said, "As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness. I shall be satisfied when I awake in thy likeness. Psa. xvii. 15.

Isaiah says, "Thy dead men shall live together with my dead body shall they arise. Awake and sing, ye that dwell in dust: for thy dew is as the dew of herbs." Isa. xxvi. 13. Again, the prophet Daniel is told that Michael the great Prince, who stands for thy people and there shall be a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation. And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt, and they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars forever and ever." Dan. xii 1, 2, 3.

Peter declared to the great crowd on the day of Pentecost, "The patriarch David is both dead and buried: and his sepulchre is with us unto this day." "For David is not ascended into the heavens." If David is not ascended into the heavens yet, it is pretty sure that other good men have not gone there, but if dead in their graves as David was, will be awakened at the sound of the trump of God.

The first martyr Stephen was stoned, calling upon God, and saying, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit (breath or life)." "And he knelt down and cried with a loud voice, Lord, lay not this sin to their charge. And when he had said this he fell asleep." Acts vii. 59, 60. When will he wake out of that sleep? Paul declares to his brethren at Colosse, Col. iii. 3, "For ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God. When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory." We cannot appear with Christ in glory until he shall appear.

Again, "Our citizenship is in heaven; from whence also we look for the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body." Phil. iii. 20. "For what is our hope, or joy, or crown of rejoicing? Are not even ye in the presence of our Lord Jesus Christ at his coming?" "But I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them who are asleep that ye sorrow not, even as others who have no hope. For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also who sleep in Jesus will God bring with him." "For this we say unto you by the Word of the Lord, that we who are alive and remain unto the coming of the Lord shall not prevent (go before) them who are asleep. For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God, and the dead in Christ shall rise first: Then we who are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord. Wherefore, comfort one another with these words." See 1 Thess. iv. 13. Those mourning Christians were not comforted by an inspired Apostle by words of going to heaven at death. Why did not Jesus, when he "lifted up his eyes," call Lazarus down from heaven if he was up there, and why did not he tell his friends what he saw there? Some one in the N. Y. Witness split a sentence in the words of comfort spoken to Martha just before the call of her brother out of the grave, in order to prove immortality of the soul. Then it read, "Whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die." The first part of the sentence reads, "He that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live." "And never die," after that. As there was no proof that the widow's son, they were carrying out to bury, was a disciple, he went to hell and came back, and told his friends how glad he was to get out of that awful place! Did he? The "orthodox" better let out that job to the Spiritualists!—they are skilled in that business of bringing back "immortal" souls.

E. HOYT.

The Resurrection.

Dear Restitution:

A question arose in our paper as to the true day that Christ arose from the dead. Was it on the seventh or first day that his resurrection took place? One writer believed it occurred at the close of the seventh day and fulfilled this Scripture, "So shall the Son of Man lie three days and three nights in the heart of the earth." But there are several reasons why this Scripture (I think) does not refer to his resurrection and his death. For one reason, his tomb was not in the earth at all. It was new and hewn out of a rock. Mark xv. 46. This fact is against the thought of this text. Here is a text referring to his resurrection, Hosea vi. 1, 2, 3, "Come and let us return unto the Lord for he hath torn and he will heal us, he hath smitten and he will bind us up, after two days will he revive us, in the third day he will raise us up and we shall live in his sight. Then shall we know if we follow on to know the Lord, his going forth is prepared as the morning." The same prophet wrote, "And called my son out of Egypt," which Matthew tells us was fulfilled in the infancy of Jesus. That this Scripture was fulfilled is confirmed by Cleophas who said unto him, Luke ii. 4, "Art thou only a stranger in Jerusalem and hast not known the things which are come to pass there in these days. And he said unto them, What things? And they said unto him, Concerning Jesus of Nazareth, which was a prophet mighty in deed and word before God, and all the people, and how the chief priests and our rulers delivered him to be condemned to death, and have crucified him. But we trusted that it had been he which should have redeemed Israel, and beside all this, today is the third day since these things were done." What things? The delivering up the condemnation, the crucifixion, the burial, the resurrection, and the third day not yet ended when this conversation occurred; for early that morning before sunrise, the tomb was found empty. I have not found any authority in the Bible where Israel kept more than one Sabbath, or more than one day from evening to evening, and that was the day of atonement on the tenth day of the seventh month. This was the yearly Sabbath, "It shall be unto you a Sabbath of solemn rest, and ye shall afflict your souls, in the ninth day of the month at even from even to even shall ye keep your Sabbath." Lev. xxiii. 32. Note how it reads "in the ninth day of the month at even" prove that the days were not counted from, nor began at evening. Only this one yearly Sabbath day. I know that Sabbath keepers claim that the weekly Sabbath begins Friday evening, but there is no Bible authority for it that ever I could find.

As we have shown the proof that the days did not end at sundown, did they begin after midnight—so I should think, for we have the midnight watch, the cock-crowing and the morning watches taught us by our Lord. If he arose at cock-crowing, or earlier, he would be gone ere the women arrived at the tomb, and it would be at the end of the Sabbath at midnight before the first day began. They would not go to the tomb until that was passed. It is written, "My Word shall not return unto me void." Mark xv. 42. "And now when the even was come, because it was the preparation, that is the day before the Sabbath." Now notice, if the Sabbath began at even this act of his would not have been lawful, neither would it have said the day before the Sabbath. For at this time (at even) it would have been the Sabbath, according to Sabbath-keepers. So we find in the record that God gave of his Son, that at even Friday, Joseph took his body, and laid him in a sepulchre hewn out of a rock, and rolled a stone unto the door of the sepulchre—no earth about it. Friday night, Sabbath day and night until early on the first day of the week he laid in the tomb. Then on the third day early, the angels came and told the wonderful news, "He is not here; he is risen." Glorious news to us who soon shall now see him in his beauty. But some will ask, why does John describe that Sabbath day as a high day? Because it came at Passover time they regarded it (even as the churches regard Easter Sunday today) not as an added Sabbath, but as a high Sabbath occurring in Passover time, or during the week of the feast of unleavened bread. The law of the Passover reads, "These are the set feasts of the Lord, even holy convocations (the Scriptures do not teach that all the days called holy convocations are Sabbaths, which ye shall proclaim in their appointed season." In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, between the two evenings (Hebrew, see margin) is the Lord's Passover." Lev. xxiii. 4. So we see that Christ kept the true time of the law in the Passover, if when midnight arrived he eats his last supper with his disciples, after which he retires with them in the garden, and while they sleep during his agony, he awaits the sure fulfillment of the law and the prophets. For Judas comes and the dreadful suffering during the hours of that fourteenth day of the month is at last fulfilled, and he is laid in the tomb. This all occurred on the fourteenth day of the month, on which the Jews prepared their lamb the Passover, in the evening of the 14th instead of from "even to even" as Jesus did. But what of this other text in question, the three days and three nights? Look up the various Scripture texts of heart and earth, and see what they teach.

E. K. HOLT.

The Essentials of a Saving Faith.

"The essentials of a saving faith in Christianity are constants and admit of no addition, or subtraction. They are:

(a) The recognition of the totality of man's inherent sin.

(b) A belief in the unique birth and divinity of the Lord Jesus Christ as the promised Messiah; repentance and baptism (no doubt "immersion.")

(c) In his death, burial resurrection and bodily ascension, exactly as recorded in the gospels.

(d) In the fullness and freeness of the "grace" to all who accept of the propitiation effected by him, and by him only, whose untainted "blood," or "life," was absolutely "poured out," and a commemoration of this death in the Lord's Supper till he comes again.

(e) And finally in his literal return, or second advent in order to cleanse the vineyard, receive his kingdom, and give those who have previously accepted him, their promised Sabbath—"one thousand years" of rest and right rule upon earth—a millennium for weary humanity. We have had a pretty tough lesson through the past six working millenniums of history: it is not only high time for a day of rest, but the "set time" approaches.

One who accepts these tenets will "repent" ipso facto, and will endeavor to live a right life. The man who rejects them will inevitably perish (no matter how we define this term) because, unless a man accept a condition, he cannot legally, under any "code of law" be said to live, even constructively under it. How much more must this be so, as to the Millennial state, the sine qua non of entrance into which is necessarily a previous faith in its "condition!"

I have copied the preceding declaration of faith from Professor Totten's, "The Millennium,—the Hope of History." (Pages 78 and 79.) Not only to answer the enquiries of several warm friends of "THE RESTITUTION," regarding his belief, especially on baptism, but also with the design of showing how plainly he makes it stand out, that all who reject these essential tenets, and refuse to repent, in fact, will inevitably perish.

There are those who will go away into everlasting punishment, and this punishment is destruction. The wicked and rebellious of earth, are but the chaff of the harvest field; their doom is to be burned,—literally burned, root and branch.

The Professor prefaces the quotation I have made, with these words,—"I do not believe that 'an apostle,' or a 'primitive Christian' would recognize 'the faith once delivered to the saints' in its developed modern outcome."

In the "Introduction" to the book, he says, "Few Christians misunderstand the 'signs' about us. That they are indicative of 'the Times of the End,' all who are genuine in faith, believe. Indeed, we are bold to make this the criterion of the saving faith in Jesus Christ; for such as believe, are more or less conservative with his teachings—taken at first hand from the Bible itself—and (unwise) by the Higher Critics) they proclaim his literal advent, with no uncertain sound, as the chief end of our hope.

In Adam, we are condemned to death, and at the goal of individual existence, we pass away and are no more seen. The dead know nothing at all, nor is there any recollection in the grave. What then is our hope, save Christ's return. His second advent to complete our redemption by our resurrection, and bring in everlasting righteousness, in that then he will give eternal life unto his own? * * * Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter—'Behold, I come quickly.'—i. e. suddenly—and my reward is with me; watch, therefore, for ye know not in what hour the Son of Man cometh!'"

S. ROXANA WHITE.

Matthew xviii. 36.

"Will some one give an explanation in your paper of the text, 'My kingdom is not of this world, if my kingdom was (were) of this world, then would my servants fight, but now is my kingdom not from hence.'"

E. W. MEAD.

Not having seen any response to the above request, the following is offered as an effort in that direction.

As there is no mention made of any particular point upon which explanation is desired, the writer supposes the point to be to produce harmony between Christ's kingdom as advocated by the writers of THE RESTITUTION, and as advocated by those who hold to a present spiritual kingdom. The text, which is found in Jno. xviii. 36, is certainly self explanatory when carefully read. And instead of its being a strong text in favor of a present spiritual, or church kingdom, it is one that is in direct antagonism to that doctrine. This text is often quoted in proof that the kingdom, is not of this world—meaning earth. Allow for a moment that the term "world" refers to "earth." That if the word "hence" which stands at the close of this sentence bears an important part. It is an adverb. Suppose it is here an adverb of place, or locality, as it would be if "world" means "earth." It would then signify that the kingdom was at a distance from the place where Christ was when speaking, or possibly distant from the earth altogether. That would not do, as all believe that the kingdom in some form or another is or is to be on the earth. But there is another little word in this clause which qualifies the word "hence." Namely "not." Still allowing "hence" to be an adverb of place and using "not," the meaning would be that the Kingdom is not at a distance from the place where Christ was when speaking. Let us paraphrase this portion of Holy Writ, interpreting the different words as above. "My kingdom is not of this earth: if my kingdom were of this earth, then would my servants fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jews: but now is my kingdom not at a distance." Then pray tell where it is. If it is not here on earth, nor away from the earth; where in God's universe is said it be" This interpretation would not admit of a kingdom at all. It will therefore be necessary to review the text.

Peter writing concerning the flood in Noah's day, 2 Peter iii. 6, says, "Whereby the world that then was, being overflowed with water, perished." The word "world" here is the same in the Greek as in John xviii. 36. What perished on the account of the flood? Certainly not the earth. The inhabitants perished. So also did all animate objects, as well as did the inanimate objects that were upon the earth. In fact the old order of things perished. A new order was ushered in as the waters assuaged. An age had drawn to its close and a new age received birth. Suppose this to be the meaning of the word "world" in the text under consideration. The adverb "hence" will now be one of time, and not of place, and its meaning would be "from this time forward." The text would then be paraphrased as follows, "My kingdom is not of this time, age, or order of things; if my kingdom were of this age, then would my servants fight,.....but now is my kingdom not from this time forward." This certainly brings harmony between the first and last clauses of the verse. Not of this age. Not "from hence." from this time forward. Then when is his kingdom to be ushered in? Not until he "shall come in his glory and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory." Matt. xxv. 31. Where will he sit? "At that time they shall call Jerusalem the throne of the Lord; and all nations shall be gathered unto it, to the name of the Lord, to Jerusalem." Jer. iii. 17.

F. L. AUSTIN.

Nowadays it is not "anxious for nothing," but anxious about nothing.

The words of a fiery Christian are not set to heavenly music.

There are passes which are easily taken; they are trespasses.

When we walk inwardly with God, outwardly we stray not.

A Christian is not a success, when he wants Jesus as only a Sunday companion.

Our greatest glory consists not in never falling, but in rising every time we fall.

"Faith, hope and courage gird up the loins, equipping one for achievement and victory; fear, doubt and discouragement dissipate strength and disarm and defeat the man in whose breast they lurk."

"If the dew of morning sparkles like diamonds in the meadows it is because the sunlight touches each drop, transforming it into a gem. If in this world of pain, hardship, disappointment and death, our lives shine, it will be because some ray of the divine love lights up our hearts."

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, APRIL 13, 1898. NUMBER 15.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Office Editor.

Editorial Committee:
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON.
WM. RAHLSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JORDAN, Special Contributor.

Plymouth, Ind. April 13, 1898

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "The Restitution, Plymouth Marshall Co., Ind."

Remittances should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is only to think that you can hold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take matters more carefully.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "The Restitution."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertized in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above rules you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

Sunday, April 3rd, was another day of rejoicing for the Church in Cleveland. Bro. George Neil, (son of our Bro and Sister Neil), aged 17, and a member of the special senior class in the Sunday School, sometime ago appointed by the Superintendent, Bro. Shourds, for the benefit of such scholars as may be seriously contemplating a union with the body of Christ. This was an excellent arrangement that others may adopt with profit judging from results here. God be praised, four of the members have already yielded obedience. May God bless this latest born babe, we pray.

For Bro. J. B Wince.

Dear Brother:

The Rev Gillespie must have been in great straits for proof to heaven as his future home, if this is the best he can find: "Since conversation is used in the sense of citizenship, therefore, we are but sojourners here, and heaven is our native country." According to this he was born in heaven, and emigrated to this world, and is anxious to get back again for some reason or other. Probably he thinks he is not properly appreciated here. But what silly twaddle this is to justify him in offering to perishing mortals baseless hope! If a person deserves a penitentiary sentence for a fraudulent transaction in real estate that relates to mortal life,—what does he deserve who teaches lies in the name of the Lord in reference to an everlasting home?

We are wondering if the Rev. gentleman ever read in the 6th of Hebrews that God has set a hope before men based upon his Word and oath? Has, does he think that Phil. iii. 20 contains the promise which God confirmed by an oath? If not, why does he not turn to that oath-confirmed promise and show it to his people so that they may have strong consolation?

Is it thinkable, that God should want people to fit themselves for heaven above, and offer them a home thereby using "conversation" in the sense of citizenship? What can the man be thinking about? Does he not know that not one in ten thousand of his fellow mortals has the mental acumen to see the alledged offer in that verse? Of course it is not in the gentleman's power to explain it to every body, and what will be one of these? Can the poor man sleep and eat with this load on him?

We presume the gentleman had no fear that his people would ever read the last clause of the verse in question and so discover his ignorance or something worse. It says, "For our commonwealth begins in heavens, out of which also a Savior we look for, Lord Jesus Anointed [To be King of God's kingdom—he having gone there to receive that kingdom, or be invested with royal authority and return, (see Lu. xix. 12) to set up that kingdom] who will transform the Body of our humility into conformity with his glorious Body, according to the energy by which he is able even to subject all things [in this world] to himself."

He who is the beginning of the commonwealth was expected to come back to earth, and those who had known him to hear his voice and come forth out of grave to everlasting life. John v. 28; and change all the living ones of the same class in a moment,—in the twinkling of an eye, to rise in company with the resurrected ones to meet the Lord in the air. 1 Thess. iv. 16-18. But they are next seen on the Mount of Olives in company with the Lord so that they do not remain with him above. And we next see him seated upon the throne of his glory (Matt. xxv. 31) on earth, and saying to his saints, "Come ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world." The Lord will be King over all the earth, Zech. xiv. 9; and under the whole heavens.—Dan. vii. 27, and all people, nations and languages shall serve him, Dan. vii. 14; and the saints of the Most High take the kingdom and possess the kingdom for ever-even for ever and ever;" all agreeing with Jesus' words that "the meek shall inherit the earth," not heaven. Is not this better than declaring conclusions?

Law or Gospel—Which? No. 5.

One last article closed with the remark that it was the lack of faith that made the law from Sinai necessary for a time, as clearly shown by God in Heb. 19, where in enjoining the existence of the law, although the inheritance could not be obtained by obedience to it.

We trust our reader will realize that their long servitude and isolation in Egypt had made heathens of Abrahamic literal descendants, God had to make himself known to them when about to take steps to deliver them from bondage, see Exo. xx. 5. They were even threatened with fury before leaving Egypt because they would not cast away the abominations of their eyes nor forsake the idols of Egypt, see Exo. xx. 7, 8. It was this fearful condition of things that had to be dealt with, and referred to as transgressions by the Spirit in Paul. Gal iii. 19

Degraded as this people were, Jehovah's sworn purpose required that they should be kept separate from the rest of mankind till the seed should come to whom the promises were made, Gal. iii. 16; and then expire, having served its purpose. These things must be borne in mind, if we would have a clear conception of the truth as it is in Jesus. As surely as we begin in the middle we will end nowhere; and we mean to reiterate these bottom facts. The Israelites were too low down in the scale of beings when they came out of Egypt to be governed by the principle of faith and loving obedience; and after experiencing the Red Sea deliverance and destruction of Pharoah and his host, and hearing the thunders at Sinai, they began to realize something regarding the living and true God, and consented to do as he told them, in order to enjoy in peace and plenty the land of Canaan.

6 Jesus has been made a pledge of a better hope, founded upon a better covenant, which was established upon better promises—that is, promises of better things. Heb. viii: 6; vss: Jesus has been made the pledge of the better hope, by being himself made a priest forever, showing that the covenant he is the Mediator of bestows everlasting benefits,—far better than the Sinai covenant. this,—unspeakably better.

7. The Law made men with infirmities High Priests,—mortal and sinful men, (Heb. vii: 28) but Jesus, the Mediator of this Better Covenant was holy, harmless, undefiled and separate from sinners (Heb. vii. 26) and by oath of God was made High Priest, (Heb. vii: 21) "who is perfected for evermore, (Heb. vii: 28).

8. Every High Priest is ordained to offer gifts and sacrifices (Heb viii: 3) wherefore it is of necessity that this man [our Great High Priest] have somewhat to offer.

This Everlasting Priest is Mediator of a new covenant. He has nothing to do with the covenant which Moses was Mediator of. If this be reflected upon it will be clearly seen that he is not officiating to secure anything for us, which the old covenant offered. If he is not officiating under the old covenant, Who is? If no one is, how can any benefits be derived from it? We mean, of course supposing it to exist; but it does not.

Heb. viii: 6 says he [Jesus] is Mediator of a better covenant. Why not believe this? Adherance to the inferior is evidence that we do not believe in the better. Why is the news sent to us of a better covenant, with an everliving High Priest to officiate in our behalf under that covenant, if not to induce us to abandon the old, which has no High Priest now, is infallible proof that there is no old covenant now.

9. It is a solemn and intensely interesting fact, that our Great High Priest is [illegible] all [illegible], and if faithful [illegible], we Christ's then are we Abraham's Seed, and heirs [of the inheritance] according to the promise to Abraham. Gal. iii. 29. The inheritance is not of the law, Gal. iii. 18; neither can the law constitute us righteous in the sight of God, nor give us future life. Gal. iii 21. The law was a ministration of death, while in force. It has been done away. And the Two-Law Theory is a Latter Day Myth.

13. The Old Covenant was dedicated with the blood of beasts. The new required dedication by a better sacrifice; and Jesus said, "This is my blood of the NEW COVENANT, which is shed for many; and in Heb. xiii 20 we have divine evidence (1) That the New Covenant is the Everlasting Covenant,—and this means that the old was not to be everlasting. (2) That the New Covenant gives life after death. It reads:—"Now the God of peace that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, that great Shepherd of the sheep [By what means?] By the exercise of his Almighty Power, independent of any SYSTEM OF MEANS? No, indeed! but THROUGH the Blood of the Everlasting Covenant." Therefore, man could not give life without the blood.

Is it any wonder that Paul warned the foolish Galatians that if they sought righteousness by the law [from Sinai] Christ's death was in vain?

Ought we not to have a high estimate of the truth stated in Heb. xiii. 10 that we have an altar, whereof they have no right to eat who serve the tabernacle?"

In Advent literature we find that they call Jesus their Advocate as complacently as if Jesus' Blood was the blood of the Old Covenant they cling to, and it is enough to make one's heart ache to see them utterly regardless of the fact that the blood of Christ was the blood of the New Covenant not the Old.

Another supposed difference between the moral and ceremonial law, is as follows:—

14. God declares that the moral law shall stand forever and ever. Psa. iii. 7, 8.—"The Apostles declare there is made of necessity a change of the Ceremonial law." Heb. vii. 12.

We are compelled to say that Psa. iii. 7, 8 says nothing at all in regard to the moral law, so called; neither does Heb. vii. 12 make any reference to the so-called ceremonial law. Both of these statements are based upon the assumption that there is a moral law in distinction from a ceremonial law, which we have most abundantly disproved. Reference to the 111th Psalm will show that the covenant referred to there is one that is to stand forever, and is therefore the one dedicated by the blood of Christ. And it is entirely misleading to say Heb. vii. 12 refers to the ceremonial law, as we have already seen that that passage proves the change of the whole law given by Moses for that given by Christ.

15. It is said:—"Christ did not come to destroy." Matt. v. 17. We are then told that Ephes. ii. 15 teaches that he (Christ) abolished the ceremonial law.

Was our author short of ink or paper, or what?—that he did not quote enough to mean anything bearing on this subject. It reads, "Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets, but to fulfill [the law and the prophets]: for verily I say unto you, till the heaven and earth pass, one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass from the law, till all be fulfilled." The whole statement completely refutes what the garbled extract is intended to teach. To fulfill the prophets is to do exactly what they predicted should be done. To fulfill the law is to obey its requirements perfectly. The lawful inference is that the law in its entirety would pass away after every jot and tittle had been fulfilled

But why could not any portion of the law pass away before it was fulfilled, or perfectly obeyed?

1 Because God set forth Jesus Christ a propitiation through faith in his blood, ...that he might be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus How did he manifest God's righteousness? Ans. By receiving the condemnation of sin in his flesh, although personally sinless.

2nd, Because Jesus was the antitypes of the temple, altar, High Priest, and mercy-seat, etc., etc., under the Sinai covenant, which was only added till the Seed (Christ) should come, and perfectly fulfill every jot and tittle of it; and in that way work out a perfect legal righteousness that no one else could. In this way he magnified the law and made it honorable by demonstrating its perfect efficiency when obeyed.

3rd The law had said the Jews should observe their ceremonies in hunger and thirst and nakedness and want of all things if disobedient: and Jehovah should send against them a nation of fierce countenance and besiege them, destroy the fruit of their labor, and scatter them over the whole earth, see Deut. xxviii., with many additional horrors; and Jesus reaffirms all this in Luke xxi. This of course abolished the kingdom and temple and the law—and its divine service. Every jot and tittle of it was then fulfilled. It did not pass away, it must be because Christ failed to fulfill it. But his resurrection proves that he did fulfil it. It served its purpose, and expired. And then what? Why

16. The Blood of the New Covenant was shed. The explanation of this is found in Rom. xv. 8, 9, where it says, "Jesus Christ was minister of the circumcision for the truth of God." [In what respect? How did he serve the Jews in regard to the truth of God? Ans.] To confirm the promises made unto the Fathers: [450 years before the law was added] and that the Gentiles might glorify God for his mercy," etc. These promises are found in Gen xii 3; xiii. 15; xv. 18; and in referring to these promises in the 17th chapter the Lord spoke of them as a covenant. It was the ancient custom to confirm a covenant by cutting an animal into two, and the parties thereto passing between the halves, see Jer. xxxiv. 18, 19. A similar ceremony was enacted in connection with the Abrahamic covenant. In answer to Abraham's question, "Whereby shall I know that I shall inherit it. (the land) the Lord commanded him to take a heifer, a she goat, and a ram, and divide them in the midst. And it came to pass that when the sun went down, and it was dark, behold a smoking furnace and a burning lamp passed between those pieces: a miraculous typical confirmation of the covenant, which assured Abraham that it should duly be fulfilled, Gen. xv. 8-17. We call this a typical confirmation, the reason we so say is, that Heb. ix 19 says that Moses dedicated the Sinai Covenant with blood of calves and goats with water and scarlet wool, and hyssop, saying, "This is the blood of the testament, or covenant, [which related to this life]. A covenant which ensures a future life to human beings needs to be confirmed by something superior to the blood of rams or heifers. This requirement was found in the person of the Lamb without blemish and without spot, 1 Pet. i. 9. The typical confirmation which Abraham witnessed bears the same relation to that effected by Jesus, that the Mosaic sacrifices bear to the suffering of the body of Jesus Christ on the cross. The words of Jesus, "This is my blood of the New Covenant which is shed for many;" Mark xiv. 24; and Heb. xiii 20, "Now the God of peace, that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, that Great Shepherd of the Sheep, through the blood of the everlasting covenant," infallibly explains the meaning of Rom. xv. 8, 9, "Now I say, that Jesus Christ became a servant of the Circumcision [Jews] on account of the Truth of God, in order to confirm [with his own blood] the promises of the Fathers." Bagdott.

This brought into force the new covenant the moment the old was nailed to the cross. Abraham and all the faithful of the past received not the promise. Heb. xi. 39; and how could they? It had not been dedicated by the blood of the spotless Lamb. Thank God it has now been dedicated, or confirmed, and its power to give life after death demonstrated; and the Great Shepherd himself was the first raised by the blood that confirmed it.

17. It is further said on p. 11 of the "The Two Laws," that "He came to magnify and make honorable, the Moral Law." Isa. xlii. 21. "He took the Ceremonial Law out of the way at his death." Col. ii. 24.

18. "Every jot and tittle of the Moral Law shall stand till heaven and earth pass away." Matt. v. 18. "The Ceremonial Law was only added till and then passed away when the Seed came." Gal. iii. 19.

We ask our readers to consult the passages referred to, to see if they find anything like the last two paragraphs,—and consider if a more shameful mutilation of God's Word was ever witnessed? What sort of a doctrine worth that needs such methods for its support.

19. Of this, [the Moral Law,] Christ says, "Whosoever therefore shall break one of these least commandments shall be called the last in the kingdom of heaven." Matt. v. 19. Of the other, [the ceremonial,] the apostle said, "We gave no such commandment that ye should keep the law." Acts xv. What a wicked perversion of the Text." Consult the passage to settle it

Communicated.

What Constitutes a Minister.

First: He must be in Christ, a new creature.

Second: He must have an intellect capable of learning and knowing the truth.

Third: He must be energetic enough to study so as to show himself a workman, that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth.

Fourth: He must have moral courage enough to tell the people what God says, and not one word more. Remembering the charge to Timothy, 2 Tim. iv. 1-4.

What a solemn charge that was. If it was applicable to the preacher Timothy is it not equally applicable to each one of us today.

O, brethren, are we faithfully discharging our trust or are we holding back a part of the God given message for fear of offending some of our hearers?

Are we catering to the ears of the congregation instead of thundering forth in plain language the God-given message, the word?

We have reason to believe that there are ministers who know more of the message than they communicate and when interrogated as to why they withhold the blessed truths that God has given them, they answer that if they should speak the whole counsel of God, many would be offended and leave the congregation, and, as they do not hold these truths to be vital they choose to withhold them.

Remember brother, you are charged in the presence of God, in the presence of Christ, by his appearing and by his kingdom to preach the word and not just a part of it.

Not such as human wisdom may choose but the entire message and if we fail dear brother, God will hold us responsible for what he has required at our hand.

Let us do our whole duty, preach the word regardless of consequences, God who called you is able to take care of the results. Sow the good seed let some other brother come along and water it.

But God giveth the increase. Let us be faithful to our trust that we may hear the "well done thou good and faithful servant. Thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things."

May this be the happy lot of all my fellow laborers, myself included, is my prayer.

H. F. Combs.

Confusion.

Orthodoxy proclaims to the world in one breath that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures and that he was buried, and that he rose again the third day according to the Scriptures. In the next breath says he ascended to paradise that same day with the thief, and also went on a mission to hades to preach to the spirits of the antediluvians. That is, the Christ, did not die, he only laid down his body. That it was only his body that was buried and rose again the third day. That his soul was not left in the Spirit world where the thief went, neither did the body of God's holy-one see corruption. They say he died that we might live and that he became a sacrifice for sin. That a human sacrifice could not save us, it required a divine Saviour. Yet he offered only his body, his humanity only died for the sins of the world.

Of man, they affirm his freedom from death in that his soul is immortal and he only moves out when he appears to die. That his house falls to ruin and will be restored to the soul at the last day. That during the interval between apparent death and resurrection the soul moves into its house in heaven and at the last day will vacate its heavenly house and move into its earthly house.

It follows then, that the Lord is coming not for those that look for him but only for their houses That if a man die shall his house live again. That the dead houses in Christ shall rise first. Could anything be more foolish than such theories?

Let us accept the truth as it stands revealed in its simplicity: that Christ died, and was buried; rose again, and is alive forevermore. If we believe in him though we should die yet we shall live again and die no more.

He did not come to save us in death, but to save us from death and to give us eternal life at the resurrection.

A. B Wince

If you cannot get your own way, do not own disagreeable ways.

The man who is ruled by the Spirit, will be ruling his spirit.

Poetry.

The Coming of His Feet.

In the crimson of the morning, in the whiteness of the noon,
In the amber glory of the day's retreat,
In the midnight, robed in darkness or the gleaming of the moon,
I listen for the coming of his feet.

I have heard his weary footsteps on the sands of Galilee,
On the temple's marble pavement, on the street,
Worn with weight of sorrow, toiling up the slopes of Calvary,
The sorrow of his coming feet.

Down the minster arches of splendor, from between the twist the cherubim,
Through the worshiping throng, with motion strong and fleet,
Sounds his victor tread, approaching with a music sad and dim—
The music of his coming feet.

Sandaled not with chasm of silver, girdled not with woven gold,
Weighted not with shimmering gems and colors sewed,
But white-winged and shod with the Tabor-light of old—
The glory of his coming feet.

He is coming, O my spirit! with his everlasting peace,
With his life-redness immortal and complete,
He is coming, O my spirit! and his coming brings release,
I listen for the coming of his feet.

Communicated.

The Origin of the Trinity.

PINE WOODS BIBLE CLASS

investigation of ancient and modern gnostics, or

THE TWO NATURES OF JESUS CHRIST.

Teacher. In the first epistle of John what particular sect or class of people does John refer to where he says: "Every spirit that confesseth not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh, is not of God."

Lucy. Irenæus, who flourished in the second century, says John was controverting the Christian Gnostics of his time. And Tertullian says he was opposing both the Gnostics, and the doctrine of Ebion. Dr. Hursley says he refers solely to the Gnostics.

Teacher. What was the basis of the Gnostic philosophy?

Lucy. "It was the basis of the Gnostic philosophy that all matter was essentially evil, and an annoyance to what was spiritual: but that God, on the other hand, was a benevolent Being, perfectly free from all evil." See Mosheim, Vol. I, p. 86.

Teacher. But the Gnostics believe in an inferior deity to Jehovah, which John opposes in his gospel?

Lucy. Yes, I quotens follows: "The Gnostics entertained the idea of a Divine Being distinct from God, and inferior to him, called the Word. In opposition to this, John declares the Word was not a distinct Being, but belonged to God, and was God himself." Modern Gnostics say that the Word is the second person in the Holy Trinity, which is about the same philosophy.

Teacher. What notion did the Gnostics have about creation?

Lucy. "They said that creation was not the work of God himself, but of a being less perfect than God." See Mosheim, Vol. I, p. 86, and Michaelis, Vol. III. Part I, p. 201.

John says it was the work of God, by means of the Word of his power. Modern Gnostics say Jesus Christ, the second person in the Holy Trinity, created the world, so weese all are not yet extinct.

Teacher. We know that Irenæus flourished in the second century. Does he say anything about these Gnostics, and the first chapter of John's gospel, as refuting the doctrine of the Gnostics?

Carrie. Yes, Irenæus says: "John, the disciple of the Lord, desiring by the publication of his gospel to root out the error which had been sown among men by Cerinthus, (a Gnostic leader) and some time before by those who are called Nicolaitans, (Gnostics, 'which I also hate.' Rev. ii 6.) Who are a branch of that science, which is falsely so-called, that he might confute them, and satisfy all that there is ONE GOD, who made all things by his Word, and NOT as they say, one who is the Creator of the universe, and another, the Father of the Lord, etc.: the disciple, therefore, of the Lord, wishing to cut off these errors, and to appoint a rule of truth in the church, that there is ONE GOD ALMIGHTY, who by his Word made ALL things visible and invisible."

Teacher. To whom did John allude to, when he said: "Who is a liar but he that DENIETH that JESUS is the CHRIST."

Carrie. Irenæus, and other early writers, say he referred to the Gnostics. The Gnostic, and also a branch of the Gnostics, known as Cerinthians, Nicolaitans or Docetes, said that Jesus, born of the flesh through Mary was NOT the Son of God, or the Christ, that the Son of God, or the Christ, but was a Divine Eon, a SPIRITUAL being, which dwelt in Jesus of Nazareth, born of Mary, as a mere receptacle or house, and consequently they denied by this teaching that the Christ the Son of God had come in the flesh, but came as a previously existing spirit and being. Trinitarians are modern Gnostics, they also deny that the flesh body born of Mary was the Christ, the Son of God, but affirm that the Son of God was a SPIRITUAL being which previously existed, and was co-equal and co-existent with the Divine Father, and dwelt in the flesh body as a receptacle. Their doctrine is identical with the ancient Gnostics. John denounced such teachers, and those who believe such teaching, as "liars," and "anti-christs."

Teacher. I think it will be well to read the passage from Irenæus, referred to by Carrie, and note how closely it fits our modern Trinitarian Gnostics. Arlen, please read it.

Arlen. I will. It is as follows: "The gospel acknowledges no other Son of Mary except him who was BORN of Mary, and who suffered. It knows nothing of the CHRIST flying from JESUS, previous to His passion. It knows only him who was BORN, viz.: Jesus the Christ, the Son of God, who, still the same person, suffered and rose from the dead: (the Gnostics and Trinitarians say Christ never died) as John the disciple of the Lord confirms, saying, 'But these are written, that ye might believe that JESUS is the CHRIST, the Son of God; and that believing, ye might have life through his name;' guarding against those blasphemous doctrines which DIVIDE the Lord as much as possible, affirming him to consist of this substance and the other. On which account also, he (John) hath testified in his Epistle, 'Little children, it is the last time: as ye have heard that Antichrist shall come, even now there are many antichrists,' whereby we know that it is the last time. They went out from us, but they were not of us: for if they had been of us, they would no doubt have continued with us: but they went out that they might be made manifest that they were not all of us.' 'Who is a liar but he that denieth JESUS is the CHRIST.' This is anti-christ—that homicidal opinion of theirs, which diminishes and divides into pieces the Son of God (like the Trinitarian Gnostics, who have him PART God, and PART man) was what the Lord forewarned us to beware of, and what his Apostle John, in his Epistle, enjoins us to shun, saying, 'For many deceivers are entered into the world, who confess not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh.' (Trinitarians say the FLESH was only a HORSE for the real Christ, like the Gnostics did). This is a deceiver and an anti-christ. Look to yourselves that, ye loose, not those things which ye have wrought. * * * 'Hereby know ye the Spirit of God: every spirit that confesseth that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh, is of God;' and every spirit that divides Jesus Christ is NOT of God, but of antichrist. On which account he again says in his Epistle: 'Whosoever believeth that JESUS is the Christ, (the real flesh born of Mary) is born of God; well knowing (that Jesus the Christ is ONE and the SAME, to whom the gates of heaven opened—who shall also in the very same flesh in which he suffered, come again revealing the glory of his Father."

Teacher. This is an important extract from an early teacher,—and shows that those who deny that the real flesh man born of Mary is the Christ, the Son of God, are deceivers and antichrists. Trinitarians and Gnostics say, that Christ, the Son of God, was a spiritual being, which only dwelt in the flesh body, called Jesus, and hence as John said, deny that Jesus the Christ is come in the flesh. I will ask Albert to read the following extract from Forrest.

Albert. It reads as follows: "Both the Cerinthians and Docetes (branches of Gnostics) affirmed that Jesus of Nazareth was a mere receptacle in which the Christ dwelt, as I have said, and NOT THE CHRIST HIMSELF,' who was a spiritual being. Now it was to the Christ, thus distinguished from Jesus, that these Gnostics attached all their ideas of glory, including the title of Son of God. It followed, therefore, that they MUST DENY that Jesus, the mere receptacle of the Christ, was the Son of God, but that Jesus WAS NOT; thus provoking the rebuke of the Apostle John, as against persons who were in REALITY DISBELIEVING the Son of God." See Michaelis Introd. Vol. IV. pp. 409, 410.

Teacher. Please also read this extract from page 67.

Albert. It reads as follows: "This view is proved by John's Epistle itself, and ecclesiastical history bears it out. That it was those who SEPARATED THE CHRIST FROM JESUS, who also denied the Son of God, (like modern immortal soul Trinitarians do) according to John is proved by two verses in his Epistle v. 1: 'Whosoever believeth that JESUS is the CHRIST (Gnostics and modern Trinitarians do not so believe) is born of God.' 'Who is he that overcometh the world, but he that believeth that JESUS (born of Mary) is the SON OF GOD?' It is evident from these two verses that a belief that Jesus of Nazareth (who had no personal existence before born of Mary) was the Christ, and not a different person. This view is also suggested by chap. ii. 22: 'Who is a LIAR, but he that denieth that JESUS is the CHRIST, (and not some previously existing spiritual person). He is antichrist that denieth the Father and the Son." Trinitarians say the Father and Son are the same, and not different personalities. when they affirm that Jesus of the New Testament, was none other than the Jehovah of the Old Testament. So that there is, according to their false teaching, practically no Son of God at all, as no one can possibly be the author, or father of his own being, or co-existent with his Father.

The above extracts prove that the ancient Gnostics, and modern Trinitarians, both equally deny the Christ has come in the flesh, by affirming that Christ, the Son of God, merely dwelt in the flesh Jesus, born of Mary.

W. H. WILSON.

Man, What is he, and What is his Destiny?

How was man created? "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground." Gen. ii. 7.

How did he become a living soul? "And the Lord God breathed into his nostrils, the breath of life." Gen. ii. 7.

What was the breath of life? "What God breathed into the man's nostrils.

What does man breathe? Air.

What does it give man? Life. "The Spirit of God hath made me, and the breath of the Almighty hath given me life." Job xxxiii. 4.

"As God liveth, who hath taken away my judgment; and the Almighty, who hath vexed my soul; all the while my breath is in me, and the Spirit of God is in my nostrils (that is the breath which God gave him, margin); My lips shall not speak wickedness, nor my tongue utter deceit." Job xxvii. 2-4.

"And they went unto Noah, into the ark, two and two of all flesh, wherein is the breath of life." Gen. vi. 5.

"Thus saith the Lord God unto these bones: Behold, I will cause breath to enter into ye and ye shall live. And I will bring flesh upon you and cover you with skin, and put breath in you and ye shall live." Ezek. xxxvii. 5, 6; read also 9 and 10 ver. Also Dan. v. 23; Acts xvii. 25; Rev. xiii. 15, margin.

Can man live without this breath? No. "And all flesh died that moved upon the earth, both of fowl and of cattle, and of beast, and of every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth, and every man: all in whose nostrils was the breath of life, (the breath of the spirit of life, margin) of all that was in the dry land died. And every living substance was destroyed which was upon the face of the ground, both man, and cattle and the creeping things, and the fowl of the heaven; and they were destroyed from the earth: and Noah only remained alive, and they that were with him in the ark." Gen. vii. 21-23.

What caused Noah and all in the ark to live while all outside perished? Those in the ark were kept above the water in the air, so they could breathe air. Those outside went down into the water and their nostrils filled with water, and they died; because the nostrils were made to convey air, (which is the breath of life) to the lungs, and when anything else fills the air passages death is certain.

Why should this process kill animal and fowl life? "For that which befalleth the sons of men, befalleth beasts; even one thing befalleth them, as the one dieth, so dieth the other; yea, they have all one breath; so that a man hath no pre-eminence above a beast: all go unto place; all are of the dust, and all turn to dust again." Eccl. iii. 19.

"And they smote all the souls that were therein with the edge of the sword, utterly destroying them: there was not any left to breathe." Josh. xi. 11 and 14.

How did they destroy the souls? By the edge of the sword, so they could not breathe. Therefore a soul must breathe in order to live.

"Thou takest away their breath, they die, and return to their dust." Psa. civ. 29. "His breath goeth forth, he returneth to his earth: in that very day his thoughts perish." Psa. cxlvi. 4. Whose thoughts perish? The one that the breath is gone from. They can neither live or think without breath.

"Woe unto him that saith to the wood, awak; to the dumb stone, arise; it shall teach! Behold it is laid over with gold and silver, and there is no breath at all in the midst of it." Hab. ii 19.

"For as the body without the spirit (breath, margin) is dead, so faith without works is dead also." James ii. 26.

But says one the Scriptures say, "Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was, and the spirit shall return unto God who gave it." Eccl. xii. 7.

What was the spirit that God gave to man to make him a living soul? The air was breathed into his nostrils. When Adam was 930 years old, he quit breathing, and the air which he breathed returned to God's great store house, the atmosphere. The Scriptures say Adam lived 930 years and died. Who died? Adam. How much of Adam died? All that had been alive. What was he when alive? A living soul. What when dead? A dead soul. I breathing into his nostrils made him a living soul; ceasing to breathe made him a dead soul.

Is this the final end of all men? No. "For as in Adam all die, so even in Christ shall all be made alive." 1 Cor. xv. 22.

Who is it that dies? All that are in Adam.

Who are in Adam? All of the human race.

Then all die? Yes.

Who are made alive? All that are in Christ.

Who are in Christ? All that obey his commands. "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature; he that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." Mark xvi. 15. "For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ." Gal. iii. 27.

Is that the only class that is made alive? "But every man in his own order; Christ the first fruits, afterwards they that are Christ's at his coming. "For as many as have sinned without law shall perish without law: and as many as have sinned in the law shall be judged by the law." Rom. ii. 12, 13.

Who are without law? Those out of Christ; they perish without law. Who are in the law? Those that are in Christ. They shall be judged by the law. "For not the hearers of the law are just before God, but the doers of the law shall be justified." Rom. ii. 13. "For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." Rom. vi. 23. For the wages of sin is death to who? To all that do not come to Christ for eternal life. Do all that come to Christ obtain eternal life? Yes, if they come believing and obeying the true gospel. "But now being made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and in the end everlasting life." Rom. vi. 22.

What is done for those that come to Christ? Their names are recorded in the Book of life. What is their condition then? They have the promise of eternal life, when Christ comes.

Is there any chance of losing that promise? Yes. "Yet now if thou wilt forgive their sin; and if not blot me I pray thee, out of thy book which thou hast written, and the Lord said unto Moses, Whosoever hath sinned against me, him will I blot out of my book." Ex. xxxii. 32, 33. See also Deut. ix. 14; xxix. 20. "He that overcometh, the same shall be clothed in white raiment, and I will not blot out his name out of the book of life." Rev. iii. 5.

What is the condition of those that have their name blotted out of the book of life? "For if after they have escaped the pollutions of the world, through the knowledge of the Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, they are again entangled therein, and overcome, the latter end is worse with them than the beginning." 2 Peter ii. 20, 21; also Heb. vi. 4 to 6; Heb. x. 26, 27.

Why is their condition worse than one that never joined Christ's body? Because now they have to answer for the deeds done in that body, and if they had never joined Christ's body, they would have died in Adam. For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ; that every one may receive the things done in his (Christ's) body according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad. 2 Cor. v. 10; Rev. xx. 12-15.

In conclusion, "Man was formed of the dust of the ground." Given life by breathing in his nostrils. Continuing a life in Adam brings eternal death. Living this present life in Christ brings eternal life. Leaving Christ and going back to the World brings a judgment to be judged when the books are opened for that purpose at the last final judgment.

Submitted in love.

E. W. KNAPP.

Immortality.

From infancy to womanhood I was taught to believe on the immortality of the soul. My parents, brothers and sisters belonging to the United Brethren church

When very young I was converted, as all orthodox call it, and was sprinkled into the church (instead of being baptized into Christ.) As I grew to womanhood there arose a great question in my mind, Do the righteous dead go right off to heaven, while the wicked dead are cast down to hell, there to burn forever, and ever?

I did not read the Bible very much, but always remembered what my minister taught. After I married my mind was fully centered on the Word of God. After hearing the true teaching I was baptized into the faith, I now believe, to. I then found out that I had been taught a lie from the very beginning, and in searching the Scriptures I found that man was naturally mortal and perishable, or corruptible in nature. But; should we, without opening our Bibles, endeavor to form an opinion of its teachings from the current phraseology of modern theology, we should conclude it to be full of declarations in the most explicit terms that man is in possession of an immortal soul, and a deathless spirit, for the popular religious literature of today which claims to be a true reflection of God's most holy Word, is full of expressions in like manner. But in turning to the Bible our true source of information we learn that the opposite is true. In Genesis iii. 22, we find, "And the Lord God said, Behold the man is become as one of us to know good and evil, and now lest he put forth his hand and take also of the tree of life and eat and live forever." In Genesis ii. 17, we hear God instructing the sinless pair regarding the tree of knowledge of good and evil. That if they would eat of it, in that day they should surely die. Of all other trees they were freely permitted to eat of even the tree of life. But after they eat of the forbidden tree they were not allowed to partake of the tree of life again and it was then and there the sentence pronounced on them began to be verified. Consequently the tree of life was intended to perpetuate life, and man did not possess inherent immortality even before the fall and it is self-evident he has not come into the possession of it naturally since. But what a blessing it is that man was not permitted to take of the tree of life after his disobedience for had he been he would then become an immortal in his sins, an immortal sinner, forever shut out of the kingdom of God. Imagine, dear reader, this world filled up with immortal sinners from four to six thousand years old, while there could be no hope of their miserableness ever ending, and although it brought death on us all we must admit that God was an all-wise Creator.

Death natural is the penalty we pay for our hereditary nature in consequence to Adam's transgressions, for we read that the wages of sin is death but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. While the second death is the result of sins we commit in our bodies Rev. xxi. 8. We find again in Job v. 17, "Shall mortal man be more just than God? Shall a man be more pure than his Maker? How can we say then that man is immortal? Is that all the proof we have? Let us turn to 1 Tim. vi. 15. What does that say as to the nature of man. Dear Brothers and Sisters do 'you think we need any more proof? Turn again to Romans and read these words. "To them who by patient continuance in well doing seek for glory, and honor, immortality, eternal life." Why seek for something we are already in possession of if such be the case" Would it not be foolish, and God through inspiration the author of it?

In Cor. xv. 53, 54, the apostle Paul says: "For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality. So when this corruptible shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory." The last proof, I will note from what source we get Immortality is found in 2 Tim. i. 10. Here is the true source which is made manifest by the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ, who hath abolished death and brought life and immortality to light through the gospel. There could have been no life or immortality without this for man was sentenced to death through sin, for the wages of sin is death. So we find Christ has abolished death by dying for man and rising again a victor over death, and it is only for those who will accept his work has he wrought this work, but those who reject it will meet the same fate that would have been the lot of all man-kind had not Christ undertaken the work of redemption for us. Thus through the gospel the good news of our salvation by his suffering and death he has brought to light a way by which we may gain immortality.

Thanks be to God which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. Which according to his abundant mercy hath begotten us again into a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead.

Dear Brothers and Sisters, I rejoice to know I am resting on a sure foundation, patiently waiting the coming of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, and may he say to all his children. Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world.

Your Sister in the blessed hope.

MRS. GEORGIE OSBORN.

The Coming of Jesus.

I am like Omer that Sister Wince spoke about. When THE RESTITUTION comes to hand, about the first thing I do is to glance over the headlines to see if there is anything in the paper about the coming of Christ, and thank the Lord I am frequently made glad. In the paper for March 9th, I find an article from the pen of Bro. J. A. Moyer, that I can say amen to. And in my humble way I want to add to what he has already said.

First I will ask a few questions and then attempt to answer them.

1. What powers do the dragon, the beast and the false prophet of Rev. xvi. 13, symbolize?

2. What do the frogs symbolize?

In Rev. xii. the great red dragon symbolized the Roman kingdom under its pagan form of worship. And in chapter xiii. the beast that the dragon gave his seat, power and authority to symbolized the Roman kingdom under its papal form of religion. While the false prophet symbolized the third grand division of the ruling religions of the world, Mohammedanism. And out of the mouths of these ruling religions of the world, shall go forth spirit-like frogs. Before following out this part of our inquiry, let us first inquire what we are to understand by the word spirit in the text. The word spirit as used in the Bible has three primary definitions.

1. A being. As God is a spirit.

2. The spirit, the breath, the air.

3. An influence emanating from a being. And it appears that the third definition is the only one that we can use in the text under consideration. Now, we are ready to go back and answer the question, What do the frogs symbolize?

Frogs are among the lowest type of animal life. Now if frogs symbolize an influence that shall emanate from the people governed by the three ruling religions of the world, what influence can be of a lower type than pure selfishness? And has not the spirit of pure self-interests of those peoples, or of the dragon, the beast and the false prophet already gone out into the world to gather the nations (already prepared for war according to Joel iii. 9, 12) to the battle of the great day of God Almighty? And do we not already hear the muttering sounds of the gathering hosts, all under the one ruling spirit of self-interests? Then let us lift up our heads and rejoice for the time of our deliverance is very near. Yes, thank the Lord, the time for Jesus to come as a thief in the night is at hand. Amen.

J. B. CRATON.

"Buried in Baptism.

Brother Sanford McLelland and his sister Martha J. McLelland were buried in baptism by the writer a few days ago, from thence to walk in a new life. We pray God that they may adorn the doctrine of God and our Savior Jesus Christ, by a Godly walk and conversation, and that they may have an abundant entrance into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ

J. S. HATCH.

Our Love Feast.

Dear Restitution:

We read the many good letters you bring to us each week from the household of faith. I have just read one from the pen of Bro. and Sister Morse, and it made my heart burn within me. Like those that conversed with the Savior after his resurrection as they journeyed towards Emmaus, and do you want to know why it stirred me up so much? I answer, for two reasons, and the last one is not least. 1st, it was well written, full of grace and truth, full of Bible. Their every day walk is like their talk—or as the Apostle James puts it, "They show their faith by their works, doers of the Word;" and you know the same writer says, "By works is faith made perfect." O brethren of like precious faith I fear we do not fully realize the importance of practicing what we preach, do not fully realize the influence we have upon each other by our conduct, for good or bad, encouragement or discouragement. How true is it, that actions speak louder than words.

In closing, I would say with Paul, Let us not cast away our confidence, which hath great recompense of reward. Our experience has taught us, that just in proportion as we have faith in our Father in heaven and in his promises, in that same proportion we have that peace which passeth all understanding, which makes life worth living; and while this is the greatest confidence we can possess—confidence in each other is a blessed possession, but in order to have this we must strive to be living epistles known and read of all men—must walk as we talk. Let us thirst for more righteousness, more like the Savior in minds and disposition, that we may at last be made like him when he comes to reward every man as his works shall be. Amen.

J. T. & M. A. PUSEY.

Editor Restitution:

With pen in hand I will try and write a few lines for the paper. I have taken it, at different times as I could get the means, for a number of years, and I can say of a truth, that it is the best religious paper I know of, and I consider it next to the Bible for gospel truth. I enjoy perusing its pages very much.

I am living at Greenville, Michigan, where there is no preaching but fables and doctrines of devils. I would be glad if some one of the Abrahamic faith would come here and raise up a church of that denomination, as I believe God has a few people here who would come out and take a decided stand for the truth if they could hear the gospel preached, and I am convinced that there are quite a number that would accept it. Last evening I attended a meeting of the Methodist persuasion, and he commenced speaking upon the coming of the Lord, and for a while he went all right, and I was quite delighted, as I had not heard any one preach upon that subject for a long time, and I felt in my heart like shouting, but my joy soon ceased, as he soon switched off the track and ended up by saying, that the righteous went to heaven and the wicked into endless torment, to remain forever and ever, throughout endless ages; and said that he could prove it by the Bible, making out God to be a terrible being. I thought to myself, that I did not wonder that infidelity was abroad in the land, when people have to hear such preaching as that. Sabbath after Sabbath. Well, I just felt glad down deep in my heart as never before, that my heavenly Father had revealed his truth to me, and I felt like crying out and saying, "Ye do err, not knowing the Scriptures;" but I was obliged to keep silent, but how I did wish that I was a preacher and could preach upon these different subjects pertaining to the gospel. I would soon show some of those blind leaders of the blind where they stood. O, how essential it is that those who can rightly divide the Word of truth should bestir themselves and wake up and cry aloud, "Spare not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet, and show the people their transgressions, and the house of Jacob their sins."

The third chapter of Timothy is truly being fulfilled. Lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God; having a form of godliness, but denying the gospel power. Amusements seem to be the prevailing element. It can well be seen that we are as in the days of Noah, for as it was before the flood, they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day Noah entered the ark, and knew not until the flood came and took them all away; so shall it be at the coming of the Son of Man. Yes, dear ones of the Abrahamic faith, we are truly living in the days like those before the flood, and the generation is almost expired that is to bring the final consummation. Do you remember what Jesus answered his disciples, when they questioned him in regard to the end of the world or age, when they asked him what should be the sign of his coming, etc. Now, if he had been a mortal man we might have doubted his word or answer, but we have a "thus saith the Lord," visions shall fail and tongues shall cease, heaven and earth shall pass away, but the Word of the Lord abideth forever. Do you suppose that he gave them an evasive answer to their question? I do not, as he told them plainly what the signs should be. He spoke of Jerusalem being destroyed, and of the tribulation that should follow; and says, that immediately after those days the sun and moon should be darkened or refuse to give light. Well, that was fulfilled May 19 1780, and in November 13, 1833, was the falling of the stars. And he says that generation shall not pass away till all be fulfilled. "For as it was in the days of Noah, so shall it be at the coming of the Son of Man." Noah preached 120 years, so counting from 1780 and the midnight cry was proclaimed by Wm. Miller in 1840, is just 60 years. Now, I will leave it with you to add up the other 60 years, which will make the 120 years—a Bible generation.

Dear brothers and sisters, how do we stand, are we giving meat in due season, and improving the talent that God has given? Let us awake to a realization of these things before it is too late, and improve what little time there is in filling and trimming our lamps, so to be ready to go out and meet the Bridegroom when he comes, is the prayer of a Sister trying to be an overcomer.

MRS. W. WETHERBEE.

Dear Restitution:

I don't want to do without the good old paper, for it and my Bible is the most preaching I have. Bro. Richard Humphreys preaches once in a while for us, he would more often but it seems that people would rather not hear the truth.

I ask all the Brethren and Sisters to pray for me, that I may be worthy of the high calling of God's elect, of which the world is in darkness. Your sister in hope of eternal life, when Jesus comes.

BETSY HUMPHREYS.

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing. Said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 20th of April, 1898, providing notice is given through THE RESTITUTION that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all remittances to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 340, Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. S. J. Sla'er,	$10.00
J. L. Wince,	5.00
F. L. Austin.	10.00
Edgar Hatch.	1.00
Agnes Dilworth,	2.00
Mrs. Mary E Thompson,	15.00
One who believes that God from little offerings can work out great results.	10.00
A Friend of Truth.	1.00

A Card.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:

I embrace the this means of informing you of my intention to visit the West, and it would be a great pleasure to be permitted to meet and worship with you. If you also esteem it a privilege and wish me to call on you please write a card at once, so I can make a list of appointments. I will to leave Philadelphia about the middle of April. Address me at 2714 Montgomery Ave., Philadelphia, Pa.

Yours in hope.

C. C. RAMSEY.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

"Beautiful Winona."—A Delightful Summer Haven.

Winona Lake, Indiana, (formerly Eagle Lake) is an attractive summer haven on the Pennsylvania Lines near Warsaw, Indiana. As the site of Winona Assembly and Summer School, has grown into favor very rapidly. Improvements made on the two hundred acres of romantic woodland which stretches nearly two miles along the eastern shore of Winona Lake, a beautiful sheet of water, include all the comforts and conveniences for a highly enjoyable sojourn. Ample facilities are at hand for satisfactory entertainment at reasonable rates at the commodious hotel which adjoins the railway station at the entrance to the grounds, in cosy cottages, or in tents as may be preferred.

Persons who may desire to combine devotion, entertainment and instruction with rest and recreation will find Winona Lake the ideal spot for invigorating both mind and body by instruction, enjoyment and study and healthful giving recreation. The educational work of the Summer School is in charge of well known instructors. The college halls are equipped with all required paraphernalia; the large auditorium in which the assembly meets, and in which prominent lecturers are heard during the season, has a seating capacity of over 3,000. An amphitheatre, race track and other facilities for athletic pastimes are provided. The fishing, bathing and boating are fine, the large fleet of boats being of the best.

The season of 1898 will open May 15th. Commencing on that date excursion tickets will be sold via the Pennsylvania Lines. They may be obtained during May, June, July and August. The sale of season excursion tickets will begin June 1st, and continue daily until September 30th. Season excursion tickets will be good returning until October 31st.

Full information about the attractions at "Beautiful Winona," its Assembly and Summer School, etc., will be cheerfully furnished all who address Mr. Sol. C. Dickey, Secretary, Winona Lake, Ind. Inquiries about excursion rates, time of trains, etc., should be addressed to Passenger and Ticket Agents of the Pennsylvania Lines, or to F. Van Dusen, Chief Assistant General Passenger Agent, Pittsburg, Pa. —may 30.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

P. B. Stouffer, Boyard, Iowa.
G. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. M. Chessbrough, Galesburgh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 455 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio
W. L. Skeels, Scholls, Ore.
E. Hoyt, Box 384, Grand Rapids, Mich.
S. Roxana Wines, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Miss Gem, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Sniderville, Ind.
J. W. Niles, Edinboro, Pa.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Chismville, Ark.
J. J. Ealy, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prine, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychauer, Ghidbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kean, 4507, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Glean, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hull, Dexter, Ill.
L. C. Conner, Sidell, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Onawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
D. M. Rudler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. G. Haupt, Laurel, Neb.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, Okla.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conway, Bullard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
H. T. Baker, Box 1068 Decorah, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Cottonwood, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas
G. W. Smith, Marmont, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Dailey, 627 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Stella, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 54, Viola, Idaho.
Elder H. M. Williams, Portland, Kan.
B. Wilson, 1905 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
D. T. Habel-ad, Rensselaer, Ind.
John Foore, 2012 West Cording Ave. Parsons, Kansas.
J. C. Mikesh, Crowley, La.
Miss Elnora Jackman, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 834 Grand Rapids Mich

The latest estimate of the population of the globe has been made by M d'Anfreville, who places it at 1,479,729,000. The number of inhabitants to the square mile in Asia is 48; in Africa, 15; in America, 8; in Oceanica and the polar regions, 3; in Australia, 1. The yearly increase of the population of the earth is about five to every 1,000.

List of Churches.

The Church of God, San Diego, California, meet for worship, and study of the Scriptures in Grand Army Hall, 6th St., between G & H, every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. All Bible students are welcome.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 620 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St. as follows: Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

Church of God at Sol on, Ohio, meet every Sunday at the week at 10:30, for devotional services. Any brethren passing through the city are cordially invited to meet with us.

The Church of God, at Andover, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Mill Hall. Anderson on the direct lines of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R., going west to Aberdeen, thirty miles east thereof.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Centre Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Sarah Sellick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:30 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. Brethren known to this church coming properly endorsed by introduction either will be heartily welcomed. At present we meet in the School House on top of the hill, cable cars come very near, and ferry brings from Seattle.

The brethren of the Church of God at Beach Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 when prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knipe, Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, La., meet every Sunday at 2:30 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthon, Elder.

The Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Benner Hall, on Willoughby Ave., near Broadway.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychauer. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trusdell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the Kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okla., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles north-east of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood at our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet twice a month for the purpose of breaking bread and social services, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth meet with us. Services at 2 o'clock p. m. Lizzie Woods, Winterrhode, Ill., Sec.

The Church of God of Waterville, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Mountainview School House, near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Cherbaley, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 P. M. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Glover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to stay and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Faithfully yours, Grant Mackenzie.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays in each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver, Pastor.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 A. M. in hall on 3rd. Floor No. 1203, Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:00 a. m. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder. S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt binding, fifth edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Twelve Works;" one of "Early Lessons;" and one of "Honoring the Son,—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

NICKEL PLATE

10-24-98

All trains arrive at and depart from the Union Passenger Station, Van Buren Street, Chicago. Uniformed Colored Porters attend first and second class day coaches on through trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars en route.

Eastbound.	All Nickel Plate Limited Trains Daily.	Westbound.
Lv.		Ar.
7 10	Chicago	7 00
11 05	Columbia	3 12
11 45	Ft. Wayne	2 30
2 40	Bellevue	1 05
3 40	Milan	12 05
4 10	Norwalk	11 30
5 30	Shelby	10 05
6 30	Mansfield	9 05
7 30	Crestline	8 05
8 30	Galion	7 05
9 10	Bucyrus	6 30
10 30	Crestline	5 05
11 55	Ft. Wayne	3 30
2 50	Berlin	1 05
3 45	Shelby	12 05
4 55	Norwalk	10 55
5 30	Milan	10 15
6 00	Berlin	9 45
6 45	Bellevue	9 00
8 00	Ft. Wayne	7 45
10 55	Columbia City	4 50
11 45	Warsaw	4 00
12 30	Rochester	3 15
1 10	Logansport	2 40
2 30	Kewanna	1 20
3 15	Winamac	12 35
4 00	Monterey	11 50
4 30	Hamlet	11 20
5 15	Knox	10 35
6 15	Bass Lake	9 35
7 00	Plymouth	9 00
7 30	Bremen	8 30
8 30	Chicago	7 30

Lv. Ar.
Daily except Sunday. Stop on signal.
Local freight carries passengers. Trains Nickel Plate and Knox only on Knox. W Shelby and Tiffin; westbound, only on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Drawing Room Sleeping Cars on Nos. 2, 4 and 6 through to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston; on Nos. 2, 3 and 10 to Chicago. Meals are served at a la-carte Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at opportune meal hours. Baggage checked to destination. On inquiry you will find our rates are always lower than via other lines, service considered.

For rates and detailed information, address R. P. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Nickel Agent.

Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Ry.

Pennsylvania Lines.

Schedule of Passenger Trains—Central Time.

Westward.	9	15	35	3	55
	AM	PM	AM	PM	PM
Pittsb'gh, lv.	7 20	12 30		4 15	9 30
Alliance, ar.	9 50	3 10		6 45
Canton, lv.	10 35	3 57		7 30
Massillon, "	10 53	4 15		7 48
Wooster, "	11 18	4 40		8 13
Mansfield, "	12 15	5 36	6 30	9 12
Crestline, ar.	12 55	6 10	7 05	9 50
Galion, "	1 25	6 40	7 35	10 20
Upper Sandusky, "	2 05	7 20	8 15	11 00
Findlay, "	2 44	8 05	9 07
Van Wert, "	3 32	8 50	10 03	12 37
Ft. Wayne, "	4 50	9 55	11 30	1 50	5 21
Arcola, "			12 04	2 24
Columbia City, "	5 03	10 23	12 16	2 36	5 37
Larwill, "			12 31	2 51
Pierceton, "			12 37	2 57
Eagle Lake, "			12 44	3 04
Winona, "	5 31	10 55	12 50	3 10	6 37
Kno Green, "			12 55	3 15
Burrton, "			1 00	3 20	6 51
Inwood, "			1 04	3 24
Plymouth, "	5 48	11 31	1 10	3 30	7 14
Grovertown, "			1 21	3 45
Handel, "			1 25	3 52
Hoyt, "			1 29	3 56
Hanna, "			1 32	4 00
Wanatah, "	7 02		1 42	4 10
Valparaiso, "	7 25	6 30	2 10	4 39	8 36
Wheeler, "			2 16	4 45
Hobart, "			2 21	4 50
Liverpool, "			2 26	4 55
Clarke, "			2 31	5 00
Chicago, ar.	8 00	8 05	3 05	5 30	9 55
	PM	AM	PM	PM	PM

Eastward.	20	8	4	6	60
	AM	PM	PM	AM	AM
Chicago, lv.	12 30	4 00	10 25	7 20	11 15
Clarke, "	3 23			12 20	3 41
Liverpool, "	3 45		12 40		4 01
Hobart, "	3 50		12 50		4 06
Wheeler, "	3 56		12 55		4 11
Valparaiso, "	4 20	4 30	1 20	4 05	4 37
Wanatah, "	4 37		1 37		4 54
Hanna, "	4 41		1 41		4 58
Hoyt, "	4 46				5 03
Hamlet, "	4 50		2 12		5 11
Grovertown, "	4 59				5 20
Plymouth, "	5 38	5 48	2 45	6 15	5 58
Inwood, "	5 52		2 58		6 12
Lapaz, "	6 00		3 06		6 20
Burrton, "	6 05		3 11		6 25
Winona, "	6 09		3 15		6 29
Pierceton, "	6 23		3 29		6 43
Larwill, "	6 29		3 35		6 49
Columbia City, "	6 44		3 50		7 04
Arcola, "			3 55
Ft. Wayne, ar.	7 30	7 30	4 40	7 00	7 50
	PM	AM	PM	AM	PM
Van Wert, "	1 10	1 45	5 36
Lima, "	2 11	2 48	6 38
Hooyres, "	2 41	3 18	7 08
Crestline, ar.	3 45	4 20	8 15
Mansfield, lv.	3 57	4 32	8 27
Wooster, "	4 30	5 07	9 00
Massillon, "	4 55	5 32	9 25
Canton, "	5 13	5 50	9 43
Alliance, ar.	5 58	6 30	10 28
Pittsb'gh, ar.	7 55	8 30	12 30
	AM	AM	PM

L. P. LOREE, General Manager. E. A. FORD, General Passenger Agent.

1368-F PITTSBURGH, PENN'A.

For time cards, rates of fare, through tickets, baggage checks, and further information regarding the running of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect Dec. 5, 1897.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.

GOING SOUTH.

No. 5, Ex. Sun. For St. Joseph.....12:40pm
No. 8, " " " 10:15pm

GOING NORTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute.....5:30a m
No. 3, " " " 12:45pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Bowser, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. FORD,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo.

SEND THE [illegible] TION to some poor person for New [illegible] year's [illegible]. The cost is only three cents a week.

Books and Tract List.

A LETTER TO A FRIEND.

This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. Many of our readers already know of the good that has been accomplished through its circulation. 10 cents each.

FUTURE PROBATION.

Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 136-page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moncrieff. We have a good supply and will send them post paid for ten cents per copy.

GLAD TIDINGS OF THE KINGDOM OF GOD.

This tract contains 12 large size pages, and is a reprint of a work issued many years ago. It is clear and comprehensive. 5 cts each or 30 for $1.00.

THE COMING NATION.

A lecture by R. V. Reed. This clearly sets forth that the Coming Nation will be the nation of Israel restored to Palestine, with the Scriptural reasons given. 25 pages. 10 cts each or three or 25 cts.

Necessity or Baptism. Written some years ago by J. M. Stephenson. It is good. Also Bible Plan of Salvation, with Scriptural interpretations. 2 cts each or 15 cts per dozen.

Modern Events in the Light of Prophecy. A Sermon preached by H. V. Reed at Anacada, put in tract form. 5 cents each, or 30 copies for $1.00.

Passages Supposed to Teach Consciousness after Death, by W. H. Wilson which shows that eternal life is not inherent. 3 copies each, or 25 cents for 12.

Where do the Dead Sleep. These are Bible texts given in answer to this question. A 32 page tract 2 cents each or 15 cents per dozen.

Babies. A Bible sermon on this place with proof texts. Ten copies for 5 cents.

Death Compared to a Sleep. This represents death as a sleep and gives texts on it. Ten copies for 5 cts.

The Wicked Dead and Their Future. The two combined. 2 pages ten copies for 10 cents.

"Word of Man vs. Word of God," by H. V. Reed. A contrast between the two. 2 cts each or 15 for 25 cts.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters. Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory, and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O.

Aids to Bible-Study and Mission-Work.

1. The gospel of the Kingdom, avocated in a series of Ten discourses. A volume of 283 pages. Cloth 25c. a Leather-bound beautifully embossed and gilt edged $1.00. 2. Twelve Words or the true meanings of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptable, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as gathered from their uses in the Holy Scriptures. A tract of 40 pages 10cts a copy. Intended as a substitute for and an improvement on the same writer's Key-Words. 3. The gospel of the Kingdom. An 8 page double column tract 10cts. per dozen; 75cts. per hundred. 4. Who are Led by the Spirit? A 4-page tract 25cts per hundred. 5. Seeking and Finding. A 4-page tract 25cts. per hundred. 6. Honouring the Son. An 8-page tract 25cts per dozen. 7. Early Lessons. 30 pages 10cts. copy. Suitable for old or young.

Written and for sale by WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

Notice.

WILL our friends please remember that we do not have the books and tracts at this office that are advertized by Brother Joblin, or Brother Wiley Jones. Do not send to this office for them, but send to their address as given in the advertisement. This will save both trouble and delay. PLEASE REMEMBER.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL.

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50, Six Months 75 Cents, Three Months 40 Cents.

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, APRIL 20, 1898. NUMBER 16.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of no things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

Poetry.

His Mother's Songs.

Beneath the hot midsummer sun
The men had cut and bound all day;
And now beside a ripp'ling stream
Upon the grass they lay

Tiring of games and idle jests,
As swept the hours along,
They called to one who stood apart,
"Come, friend, give us a song."

"I fear I cannot please," he said;
"The only songs I know
Are those my mother used to sing
For me long years ago."

"Sing one of those," a rough voice cried.
"There's none but true men here;
To every mother's son of us
A mother's songs are dear."

Then sweetly rose the singer's voice
Amid unwonted calm,
"Am I a soldier of the cross,
A follower of the Lamb?

And shall I fear to own his cause?"—
The very air was stilled.
And hearts that never throbbed with fear
With tender thoughts were filled.

Ended the song; the singer said,
As to his feet he rose,
"Thanks to you all, my friends, good night,
God grant us sweet repose."

Communicated.

[Paper read at Ministerial Meeting, Argos Ind.]

The Duties of a Minister.

What is duty? It is that which we are bound to perform from a divine or a governmental law. Hence the topic assigned me is one of vast importance, so we are taught through the Word of truth to love God and keep his commandments for this is the whole duty of man. So in the commandments are enforced the duties of the minister to God, to his family, to his church, fellow men and government.

My first duty is to God; I should love God with all my heart, soul and mind, who created the heavens and the earth, who decked the heavens with its stars and the earth with its buds and blossoms. God is a God of love and a God of justice and as darkness and gloom hung heavy over this earth in its beauty and glory, and the Gentile was without hope, God's love was made manifest to the children of men by heaven's precious gift, the Son of Righteousness. No grander or better gift could have been given than the adorable Redeemer, the Lord Jesus Christ. Therefore we should consecrate ourselves and all our interests wholly to the Lord, and present our bodies a living sacrifice to him and his service, which he says would be only our reasonable service. I must first seek the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and if I fail to do this I do not do my duty to God, to my family, church and government in which my lot has been cast as a minister. My second duty is to my family, the ones I have declared before God and man I would love and protect. My duties to them do not cease when I have provided the necessaries of life to make them comfortable and happy. Those things are necessary, but there are higher and more nobler attainments to be achieved. I should instruct them in the way of truth and righteousness.

Brother ministers, the responsibilities and duties that fall along our pathway of life are as numerous as the stars that deck the heavens on a clear night, and those duties should stand out as bold to the world as the star that guides the lonely saint on his homeward journey. And I as a minister, often should call those loved ones around me and read to them of the power of Jesus to save, and point out to them the Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world, and only through him can they obtain immortal life and a home in the kingdom of God; and at the family altar there implore the divine blessings of Almighty God upon us and our labor of the day, and our keeping through the night; and as we are assembled in the family devotion I must not forget to impress the necessity of faith, repentance and obedience to God and to add the seven Christian graces, that they may enter into the kingdom of God with all of its beauty and glory. I should teach them humility and thankfulness, that they should be as thankful to God as they are dependent on him. Friends, if I fail to do so I do not do my duty to God and the family I have promised to love and protect.

There is much that could be said on the line of family duty of the minister, but with these few brief thoughts I will pass lest I weary your good patience.

Dear friends, my third duty is to the Church of God, the household of faith. How our hearts go out for those loved ones, and how we long to meet with them and take them by the hand and say as we often have heard Bro. Joblin say, Are you rejoicing in the hope, that blessed hope? Brother ministers, our duties do not stop here, as God has given to our trust through his Son, the grandest mission that could be bestowed on mortal man, yes, far nobler and grander than the presidency of this or any other temporal government, when he said, Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature. Yes, ring out to the world the good news, the glad tidings of a coming Savior, the resurrection of the righteous dead, the final destruction of the wicked, the establishment of the kingdom of God on earth, with Christ as King and the immortalized saints co-rulers with him, and the restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all the holy Prophets. Yes, it is my duty speak the Word that becomes sound doctrine, teaching the Church to observe all things which Christ has spoken, and he says, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." I know many times our heart has been sad when it has become necessary to impress on the church some neglected duty; but as minister it is our duty to warn the flock of an approaching danger that may reveal itself to us. So brethren, the paths of a minister are not always strewn with the beautiful flowers of the valley; but oftimes with thorns and thistles, false brethren, that is those who profess to love Christ, and have not his spirit; and if it was not for the flowers and gems we gather from the words of truth, the ministry would be dark and gloomy, but Jesus says, "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life." Yes, it is my duty to impress on the Church the way of truth and holiness, and not forgeting myself less after I have taught others I should become a cast-away.

But let us return briefly again to the language of Christ, when he said, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel." I am glad he did not command us to go hungry and naked and destitute, and to leave the home we love wanting the necessaries of life to make them comfortable. But how shall I go? It seems to me I can hear some good brother or sister saying, Go trusting in the Lord. Yes, that is my duty; I am not afraid to trust the Lord. But often times I am afraid to trust the brethren.

Friends, may I deviate for a few minutes from the subject under consideration being in my home church? Those remarks may come from a sincere heart, we could not doubt that they are as honest as we, but let us remember that a minister's wife must be clothed and fed, his children eat the same as other children, they must be clothed and educated the same as yours. The minister must have literature in order to instruct an intelligent audience, he must have time to prepare his sermons in order to avoid the ridicule of his church. The minister must pay car fare and frequently sleep at hotels, because the street would be a very uncomfortable sleeping apartment when the mercury would be dancing at 10 and 15 degrees below zero. Friends, it is my duty to help support the gospel; is it your duty? God has given us the talent and health to earn money, and some of that which we earn belongs to the service of the Lord. Yes, ministers are very useful beings, how we like to have them call when we are on beds of affliction. Yes, it is your duty to visit the sick and speak words of encouragement, and lend a helping hand, and when they have passed the way of all mortality, to assist in laying them away to await the coming of the Master. Yes, this world could not get along very nicely if we had no ministers. It would be as dark as the dark ages of the past. So let us remember while the minister is duly bound to the church, the church is under some obligations to the minister, what is that obligation? Can we tell? Is it to stay at home from our regular preaching service and let the preacher talk to empty seats, or is it to stay away from the Thursday evening prayer service, thinking the minister can run that by himself; is it by staying away from the Sunday school, thinking it is only for children; or is it by coming to the house of God and setting still and not helping the minister in his services, which he so frequently needs? No, it is my duty as a member of the household of faith, as well as that of a minister, to try and be present at all services, when the duty of the Master does not call me in other fields of duty; but our duties as a church do not stop here of course, we have other duties, and what are they? Let us let the words of truth tell the story, let the Word speak, "Even so hath the Lord ordained, that they which preach the gospel should live of the gospel." I am thankful this is not my words, no, but the Lord ordained it. So my duty, even though I sometimes try to preach a little, is to help support the ministering brethren as the Lord has prospered me; for I know from my short experience, the laborer is worthy of his hire, or at least of what he gets. So let us not become weary in well-doing, for we are laborers together with God—God's husbandry and building.

Kind friends, am I talking too plain, if so, please pardon. Our Lord and Master was a plain talker and the common people heard him gladly, and I always liked plain talk, being one of the common people I could understand it so much better. So now let us return again to the duties of the minister. As ministers we are citizens of one of the grandest governments that exists today under Gentile rule, and it is my duty to be submissive to its laws and regulations, but it is not my duty to be a participant with the Gentiles in the ruling of this government. It may be yours, that you must determine

The Children of Israel, God's chosen people had a very sad experience on this line when they appealed to the Prophet Samuel for a ruler, that they might be ruled and judged as other nations of the world. Oh, how sad Samuel's heart was when he laid before the Lord their desire, and how heavily must have fallen the Word of God on that people, when he informed them through the Prophet Samuel, that they did not reject him, (that is Samuel) but they do reject me (that is God) that I should not rule over them. Yes, it is true, we have a republican form of government, where each individual under the statute law has the right of franchise, and by his ballot has the right to say who shall rule over him. While it is my duty as a minister to be thankful to God for the privileges I receive from the Gentile rule, which has become drunken on the drugs of Rome, and which is so full of corruption that her sins will reach the throne of Almighty God; and evil men and seducers are waxing worse and worse, and through these unjust laws the poor and needy are oppressed.

But, friends, I read of another law that is far grander and more noble, and it comes from the throne of God, and speaks in thundering tones to me, and says, "Come out of her, my people that ye be not partakers of her sins." It is my duty as a minister to come out, and I did come out, although very unpopular at this day and age of the world, when you can hardly distinguish the difference between a minister and a politician during the campaign. Yes, the minister talks as much politics, and makes as many political speeches as the politician, and runs in arm in arm he goes to the ister's duty to the young: how our polls and votes for the same ruler to rule the same Gentile government in which he has his citizenship; and so he preaches, works and votes to try and build a government in which God says he will destroy for its corruption and wickedness. So brethren, it is my duty to let God rule over me, and for me to keep myself unspotted from the world, for I must give an account to God, and not to man. One may say, My brother, this is a matter that does not concern you. So far as my right of franchise is concerned I am aware of that fact; it does not concern me, but it does concern the Lord, and it is my duty as a minister. Though far younger than some I am talking to it is to stir up your pure minds in a way of remembrance that we may all do our duty and reap the rewards of the faithful.

In love I submit these few brief thoughts for your criticism. So I will proceed at once to the fourth and last proposition of the topic under consideration, the duties of a minister to humanity. In the daily pursuits of life we come in contact with humanity in all its various forms. We meet the Christian with his various beliefs, the infidel who says there is no God, the moral and the immoral, the old and the young are frequently in our company, and so it is my duty to come before them with a pure heart and clean hands, for the world is a close critic. It is the duty of the minister to the unconverted, that I desire to notice and that briefly. In the daily transaction of business I should try to be as punctual as possible in all my obligations with them and try and gain their confidence and love. It is my duty to visit the homes of the unconverted, and become acquainted with them and their surroundings, and then lend a helping hand if needed in the time of trouble and distress, and point out to them the path of life, and tell them God is love and through his love the dark clouds of despair will soon pass away. It is my duty to show them by my faith and works that there are higher attainments to be gained, and that only can be gained through the living or resurrected Christ; invite them to our homes and our preaching service, and their children to our Sunday School, and when they come it is the minister's duty to make them feel at home, even though they are not clothed in fine linen or costly apparel, or a gold ring on the finger; it is my duty to put myself on a level with them, and let them know that I love them, and God loves them.

Friends, there is power in the love of God to humanity, if we could only get the selfishness out of our hearts and let the beautiful sunshine of God's love in, and do our duty to God and humanity. Nevertheless, it is true, there are individuals who have reached a very low ebb in human society, almost we might say to that of the lower order of animal creation: yes, wallowing in the ditch like the hog, and at one time they were some mother's babe, and no doubt while she looked on the little bud that bid fair to blossom, it was with the brightest of anticipations; probably reared in a Christian influence and home, and in the midst of the luxuries of this life. Yes, says one, what has that got to do with the duties of a minister? Friends, my love goes out to that one; he needs my help and God's love; it is my duty to play the part of the good Samaritan, for truly he has fallen in the midst of thieves, and they have robbed him of his judgment, money and manhood.

Brethren, if I only be an instrument in the hand of God of converting one such an individual, and they gain a home in the kingdom of God, my ministerial life would not be a failure. It is my duty to show him there is a better way of life, and no drunkard can inherit the kingdom. Yes, it is my duty to go in the highways and hedges and sound the gospel trumpet to a lost and ruined world and warn them of the judgments to come and approaching danger.

So now let me note briefly the duties of a minister's duty to the young: how our love and sympathy should go out to those who have never learned much of this world from net inexperience, surrounded as they are with all the vices and sins of this wicked age. It is my duty to set the Godly example before them, how shall I do this? Can I lead them to Christ by attending the theatre and invite them to follow me by attending the circus with all of its immorals; is it by my presence at the Sunday base ball game, that has become so popular; is it by preaching a short discourse on Sunday morning to myself and the church members and their families and take the electric, A. M. excursion train for some park or pleasure resort, there to learn from the slums of some great city, their vices and wickedness; is it by me inviting them to my home, there to be participants in the fashionable card party, that some ministers have sanctioned from the pulpit and through the press; is it by me encouraging the young to attend the social dance, that cost John the Baptist his life, and Christ and his disciples sorrow; visit by me dancing in the hands of the young the impure literature of the day and sanctioning its instruction." No brethren, this is not my duty to the young. From the young as well as the old the household of faith must be built up, they soon must take our places in the great drama of life. Brethren, it is my duty to take a bold stand for Christ, and denounce from the pulpit as elsewhere, all evils that will lower the standard of humanity, and make sad hearts in the homes. Brethren, let us speak boldly of the evils of this world, regardless the condition of men. I have no compromise to make with the evils of this world. Let us sound forth the gospel message, and do the work of an evangelist. The time is short, the nations are becoming angry, the sound of war is ringing in our ears, and our Lord will soon appear, so come Lord Jesus, and come quickly, and gather thy children unto thyself, and may God bless you all.

CHARLES FOSS.

John xxi. 15-17.

Editor Restitution:

Being a subscriber to your paper, and also a believer of its doctrine, I take the liberty to pen you a few lines, and if it may be worthy of publication well and good. I would like the liberty to comment through its columns on the 21st chapter and 15th, 16th and 17th verses of the Lord's gospel according to St. John. In those verses we read of Jesus talking to one Simon Peter in this wise "Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me more than these. He said unto him, Yea, Lord, thou knowest that I love thee. He said unto him, Feed my lambs." He saith unto him again the second time Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? He said unto him, Yea, Lord, thou knowest that I love thee. He said unto him, Feed my sheep. He said unto him the third time, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? Peter was grieved because he said unto him the third time, Lovest thou me? And he said unto him, Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee. Jesus said unto him, Feed my sheep.

Now dear reader, the impression brought to my mind here, is a command; a command to what? A command to feed. To feed what? To feed my lambs. Does the Savior here mean, literally a flock of lambs? Not by any means. If not literal lambs, what then? do with me to God's Word, and we will see if we can find in it the meaning of "My lambs." First, turn with me to John i. 29 and 36. First, we read where John addressed Jesus as the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sins of the world. Jno. i. 29. Second, we read where John on the next day was standing with two other disciples, and seeing Jesus walking by said, "Behold the Lamb of God." John i. 36. Now, this will show us that Jesus being the Lamb of God, his followers would also be lambs.

But let us turn and see what more the Scriptures say in regard to "My lambs." In Luke x. iii., we read, "Go your way, behold I send you forth as lambs among wolves." Now, looking at the beginning of this chapter, we see who it is that is to go their way. And they are sent as lambs among wolves; how great then is the necessity that we follow the Lord's command and feed his lambs. Those then that are trying to follow the Lord's commands and uphold his gospel are the ones to feed.

But let us see if we cannot find something more in regard to "My lambs." Rom. viii. 16, says, "The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit that we are the children of God." Gal. iii. 26 says, "For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus." 1 John iii. 10. "In this the children of God are manifest." Then in Eph. iv. 14, we are taught to be no more children tossed to and fro, but speaking the truth in love, may grow up into him in all things, which is the head, even Christ. Now, these few passages will suffice to show us who "My lambs" signify.

Now, as to the sheep, they are both practically the same, only a more advanced stage; but there are a few passages in regard to sheep that I wish to call the attention of the reader to. Turn, if you please, to Acts xx. 28, there we find it recorded that ye are to "Take heed therefore unto yourselves, and to all the flock over which the Holy Ghost hath made you overseers, to feed the Church of God which he hath purchased with his own blood. Then it is the Church of God we are to feed, that is we are to look after Christ's children, Christ's flock of which he is the head; in fact, we are to look after one another, be of one mind toward another; mind not high things, but condescend to men of low estate; be not wise in your own conceits." Rom. xii. 16. Now as we are to feed his flock, what are we to feed them with, and how and what will be the reward?

We see in 1 Tim. iv. 16, "Take heed unto thyself and unto the doctrine, continue in them, for in well doing thou shalt both save thyself and them that hear thee." Now, dear readers, would this not be recompense enough for any one, saving our own souls and not ours only, but others also. And now as to how are we to feed the flock. Turn with me to the 1 Epistle of Peter v. 2, there we read, "Feed the flock of God, which is among you, taking the oversight thereof, not by constraint, but willingly; not for filthy lucre, but of a ready mind." How did Paul feed the flock? We see in 1 Thes. ii. 9, that Paul labored night and day to keep himself unchargeable, and still Paul preached unto the people the gospel of God. Again, we see in 2 Cor. xi. 9, and when I was present with you and wanted, I was chargeable to no man for that which was lacking to me, the brethren which came from Macedonia supplied, and in all things I have kept myself from being burdensome unto you, and so will I keep myself. Here we see a duty to feed our flock when they are lacking.

Now see what Paul went through as recorded in 2 Cor. xi. 24-28 inclusive, how much more had we ought to heed the command. Now, in these latter days, we do not have to go through what Paul went through. But if it be the pleasure of the Almighty to try us as gold, tried in a furnace, had not the words of our Lord ought to be sufficient atonement. When he says, "Blessed are ye when all men shall persecute you, and say all manner of evil against you falsely for my name sake." And now, dear reader, as we are feeding the flock, let us be sure we are feeding them the bread of life, which is the Word of God.

C. S. BROWN.

To walk in the light of truth, to drink in the sweet spirit of charity, to be warmed by sympathy, to be united in the bonds of love, to be inspired by the same blessed hope, to co-operate in benevolence, to work in concert, and to continue steadfast in faith, will make a strong and spiritual church membership.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAHLSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, IND., APRIL 20, 1898.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, post-office, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth Marshall Co., Ind."

Remittances should be sent by bank draft, post-office money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk; money sent in common letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

If there are any brethren in Nebraska within a reasonable or moderate distance from Gesing, Nebraska, (Scott's Bluff Co.) who could go there to instruct, and assist some who are anxious to obey the truth, will they please write to M. Joblin, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio, to that effect?

"Passing Events in the Light of Prophecy."

In view of the preparations for war now going on in this country, being about the only considerable power not hitherto on a war-footing, it looks as if the proclamation by the Spirit through Joel will be as literally fulfilled as any of the predictions concerning the advent of Jesus. Yes, the last of the nations is now preparing war, and waking up the mighty men; and although some have thought the United States outside the field of Joel's prophecy, we are persuaded that she too will have a part to play in the struggles which end with Gentile Times—"all the men of War," include those of America. They are not preparing war for nothing; neither do we think that the complications with Spain account altogether for the naval and military preparations now in progress; even though those in authority may think so. Evidently the Spanish trouble has furnished the motive for arming, and that being done, the nation will be ready to "draw near," and "come up" to the great battle-ground.

The Scotsman says:—"Calm as the surface of European affairs appears to be, there are not wanting signs or prophecies that before the end of the century, or probably before the end of the year, upheavals and disturbances that will recall the great revolutionary movements of the middle of the present and the close of last century.

Glad Tidings says the "Chinese problem seems further from a solution than ever. Demands either for territory or concessions have been made in succession by Germany, Russia and France. Britain looks on, asserting that she wants no territory, but declaring that the ports must be kept open for the commerce of the whole world. In this she has the approval of her "kin beyond the sea,"—the United States. Britain possesses 82 per cent of the total foreign trade with China. It amounts, including that of the Straits Settlements, in round figures to about 130 millions annually.

It is said Japan will not stand idly by and see China partitioned. She is restless and watchful, and is preparing for eventualities. She is getting an enormous number of warships built in Britain, Germany, France and America.

Russia has been steadily sending troops to the Far East by her volunteer fleet it is now computed she has 30,000 in in that quarter. An Imperial ukase has been issued, authorizing an extraordinary expenditure of 90,000,000, roubles (about £14,000,000) on war vessels. Throughout the winter months Russia has been increasing the number of her troops stationed along the Turkish frontier in Asia Minor.

Although Great Britain is said to desire peace the Government is determined to be prepared for whatever may arise. They have asked Parliament for twenty-five and a half million pounds for the navy the coming year. In 1872 Britain's naval expenditure was only nine and a half millions. The first Lord of the Admiralty made some grave statements when introducing the navy estimates. He said, "The nation might with ever increasing confidence look forward to this, that if there was peace, which God grant, it might be peace enshrined in honor; and if there was war, which God forbid, it might be war crowned with victory."

The London Times correspondent says that the attitude of Turkey and Bulgaria on their respective sides of the Macedonian frontier inspires mutual distrust; and the Daily Telegraph Constantinople correspondent telegraphs that both Bulgaria and Turkey are still concentrating troops on the frontier.

France is said to have quieted down a little since the Zola trial, but the anti-Jewish feeling is still very strong; and the unrest, the instability of the Republic, and the prostration of the people before the army is evidence that France is just what she was a century ago. No one can tell what may happen there, if another Napoleon were to arise at this moment. What the mad violence of the outbreak of 1789 would have resulted in, had not a Napoleon appeared who was able to control its forces and make them subservient to his own ends it is impossible to say; but most people will agree that the only reason why another ruthless despotism does not emerge from the weltering chaos in France is solely because there is not a man of unscrupulous, daring and genius to say it shall be done.

M. Dumont, the editor of the Libre Parole, has written as follows upon the present state of affairs in that country: "It seems a serious statement to make, but to tell the truth, as things are, I see no way out of the present awful situation except by a general revolution, which will sweep away our present masters, and replace them with some form of one-man power, not necessarily an emperor or a king, but some kind of a dictator, a strong, patriotic man who will put an end to Jewish supremacy, and clean out our Augean stables of vice and corruption."

These are remarkable words to issue from the pen of a writer in freedom-loving France. How such language leads one to look forward to the future when prophetic utterances shall be fulfilled. We know of one man who shall rule the world in righteousness, and before whom all rule and all authority of mortal men shall be abolished. One of whom it is written that "the Spirit of the Lord shall rest upon him, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the Spirit of council and might, the Spirit of knowledge and of the fear of the Lord," etc.

Law or Gospel—Which? No. 6.

In exposing the weakness of Law-advocates' arguments we refer to the following:—

20. "Paul delighted in the moral law." Rom. vii. 22. "Neither he nor the Fathers could bear the ceremonial law." Acts xv. 10.

We have abundantly proven that the law of Moses was called the Law of God,—and the law of God was called the law of Moses, because it was all given by God to Moses for the people. The two law theory is held tenaciously, there being no other way to make a plausible showing. In the above paragraph the foundation of it is assumed as usual. We ask our readers to examine the passages cited and ascertain if there be anything in them respecting either the Moral or Ceremonial law.

21. "The moral law is established through faith in Christ." Rom. iii. 31. "The Ceremonial law was our schoolmaster to bring unto Christ." Gal. iii. 24, 25.

Reference to these Scriptures will show that it was the apostles who say they establish the law. The writer must know that the apostles could not make the law perpetual by faith; and therefore the word establish is not used in that sense. It means to prove or confirm, and it is used by Jesus in Matt. xviii. 16; and by the same apostle who wrote Rom. iii. 31, it is used in that sense in 2 Cor. xiii. 1; it says, "This is the third time I am coming to you. In the mouth of two or three witnesses shall every word be established," that is, confirmed, or proven.

The apostles confirmed both the truth of the law and its purpose, by their faith in Christ. Its provisions would give life if obeyed. But the weakness of the flesh prevented any obtaining it in that way; but God showed the law was perfect, and the default was on the part of the people, by sending his own Son, who obeyed it perfectly and thus earned a perfect righteousness, and demonstrated its efficiency. 2ndly. The writer of Rom. iii. 31 also wrote Gal. iii. 24 which says, "The law was our schoolmaster unto Christ, [not longer] that we might be JUSTIFIED BY FAITH" [seeing we could not obey the law perfectly, and be justified in that way.] But after that faith is come, we are no longer under a schoolmaster [either moral or ceremonial, if words mean anything] "For [here follows the reason why they were no longer under a schoolmaster] ye are all the children of God by faith in Jesus Christ, [the very person the law had brought them to, and so there was no further use for it.—it had served its purpose. It had been added till the seed should come to whom the promises were made.—the seed had come, and so the law expired.

Let it not for one moment be thought Paul would say the law was perpetuated in Rom. iii. 31, and they were not under it since Christ had come. Just so sure as that construction makes two Scriptures contradict each other, so sure is it that that construction is wrong.

It will be no harm to consult Paul still further. In Gal. iii. 21 he asks: "Is the law then against the promises?" [And then answers] God forbid: for if there had been a law which could have given [the people] life, then verily righteousness should have been [attained to] by the law. But the Scripture hath concluded all Jews under the law and Gentiles not under the law] under sin [for what purpose were all alike considered as sinners? Ans.] that the promise,—by faith of Jesus Christ—might be given to them that believe."

Let us take things deliberately: Jews were sinners and Gentiles were sinners, so far as God's Great Salvation was concerned. The Jews had their own righteousness of the law; but they reaped their reward for legal obedience in mortal life, in temporal blessings. The Gentiles were debarred those blessings altogether. The Law hedged the Jews in, and hedged Gentiles out of the commonwealth of Israel, and made them aliens, and strangers to the covenants of promise, see Eph. ii. 12, and, in consequence, were hopeless and godless. They had no benefits under the law, nor the prospect of any benefit from the covenant of promise made 430 years before the law.

Observe, when the Jews were relieved of the law, the obstruction of or to the Gentiles was broken down, Eph. ii. 11, so they were brought nigh to the covenants of promise; that is, had access to them, equally with the Jews, as we read Gal. iii. 27.

"For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ, have put on Christ: there is neither Jew nor Gentile,—there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male or female [distinctions now] for ye are all one in Christ Jesus. And if ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's seed and heirs according to the promise."

If the whole legal fraternity had tried with might and main, could they have gotten farther away from the truth than they are when they say the Moral Law is established, or made perpetual through faith in Christ?

22. "The moral law contains the commandments of God which it is the whole duty of man to keep, Eccles. xii. 13, which are brought to view in the third message Rev. xiv. 12, which the remnant of the seed of the woman were keeping when the dragon made war upon them. Rev. xii. 17, and which will insure to those who observe them access to the tree of life, Rev. xxii. 14." The Ceremonial Law is the law of commandments contained in ordinances, Ephs. ii. 15, "a shadow of good things to come." Heb. x. 1, and was disannulled for the weakness and unprofitableness thereof." Heb. vii. 18.

Truly we cannot begin to do justice to this paragraph. Positive and absolute proof is furnished that men are taught by our author that they can be

1. Saved without faith in Christ.

2. Saved without faith in the gospel of Christ.

3. Saved without keeping the commandments of Jesus.

4. Saved without the sacrifice of Christ.

5. Saved without loving God.

6. Saved without loving our neighbor.

7. Saved without repentance toward God.

8. Saved without atonement for the remission of sins.

9. Saved without living godly in Christ Jesus.

10. Saved without putting on Christ.

11. Saved without putting off the Old Man.

12. Saved without becoming new creatures in Christ Jesus.

13. Saved while strangers to the covenants of promise.

14. Saved without being begotten to a hope of life by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead.

15. Saved without justification by faith.

16. Saved without the words of him who spake as never man spake.

17. Saved without any of the apostolic epistles.

18. Saved without the New Testament at all.

19. Saved without a Mediator.

20. Saved without hope.

21. Saved without a resurrection.

22. Saved without obtaining the only name under heaven whereby men can be saved.

23. Saved without reconciliation with God.

24. Saved without obtaining life from Christ as a gift from God.

25. Saved without grace or favor, instead of by grace, because

26. Salvation has been EARNED by keeping the ten commandments which is the whole duty of man, and which will ensure to those who observe them, access to the tree of life.

Here is the blasphemous assertion in all its nakedness. And it explains why throughout the literature of that community we see ten times more reference to law than to gospel and why the one command of God to hear the prophet like unto Moses is so lightly esteemed; and why the new and living way is almost ignored for the old dead law; and God's gracious law of pardon is kept in the back ground.

Let it be borne in mind that we do not say they in theory ignore the saving system of means revealed in the New Testament; but we do say they are so drunken with the wine poured out at Battle Creek, Michigan, that they cannot see the logical conclusion of their premises. That the ten commandments contain the whole duty of man, and will ensure to those who observe them, access to the tree of life, nullifies the gospel of the grace [favor] of God, and substitutes for it the law of works, Rom. iii 27, in direct opposition to verse 20, that by the deeds of the law, there shall be no flesh justified in his sight:" and also verse 21 which says,

"But now the righteousness of God [the righteousness obtained through means appointed by God] without the law is manifested, being witnessed [that is, attested] by the law and the prophets." [But what is it the Apostle says the Law and the Prophets testified to? They testified beforehand, to what in Paul's day had already taken place. What was that? Why that "the righteousness of God without the law," [was obtainable; but in what way without the law? Ans. v. 22:] "By faith of Jesus Christ." [But by whom was the righteousness of God obtainable without the law? Ans. v. 22] "unto all, and upon all them that believe [in Jesus the Anointed: but Paul, how is this? How comes it that the gate is thrown wide open now, to all who believe? Ans. v. 22:] "For there is no difference; for all have sinned, [the law had not made those under it saints] and come short of the glory of God." [But, Paul where is there no difference? Ans. Gal. iii. 28] "There is neither Jew nor Gentile, there is neither bond nor free,—for ye are all one [Body] in Christ Jesus." [And Rom. iii. 29:] "Is he the God of the Jews only? Is he not also [now God] of the Gentiles? Yes: [God] of the Gentiles also, seeing it is one God which shall justify the circumcision [Jews] by faith, and uncircumcision [Gentiles] through faith. Do we then make void the law through faith? God forbid; yea, we confirm [the truth of] the law [it, justification by faith of Jesus Christ] being witnessed [both] by the law and the prophets." What would happen if these zealous law-advocates should see that the law as well as the prophets testified, foretold—that the time would come when both Jews and Gentiles would attain to righteousness through faith without the works of the law? Would they close up their law offices? If not, why not? Would there be any reason why, except that their legal ship would sink if they did?

XVI. We now propose to show that the ten laws written on the tables of stone were not all moral laws. To appropriate the language of the lesson-sheet L. C. Thomas, where on p. 23 of "The Law, The Covenants and the Sabbath" he shows that moral "principles, being co-existent and co-eternal with the Deity, as his will, or the great law of Right, never had therefore either beginning or end, and are both eternal and immutable." We believe this statement will bear the strictest analysis. But the fact that we are told by our Lord that the Sabbath was made for the man, is conclusive evidence that it is not one of the eternal principles of Right and Duty, and therefore was not binding upon man until he was commanded to keep it holy. We know how this is in our own country, and state. The governments and the people alike treat some laws as essentially wrong in themselves, but it is only wrong to many others when laws are enacted and take force.

It was just so in regard to the Sabbath. Was the Seventh day in itself different from any other day? Did not the same Sun rule that day which ruled the others? Is it not plain that for the reasons given, God commanded that it be kept holy, that is set apart from the other days, and not do any work thereon, and making it sin not to so keep it? In wantonly thus perverting I do this, and make it binding upon all peoples and nations, or only upon one nation if it so pleased him; and to ordain that it should remain force only till the dawn of a new dispensation, or continue to the end of time.

Not so could it be with the other nine commandments. They have their foundation in God. It can never be other than sinful to have other gods, and bow down to serve them; and to take the name of the Lord in vain, or not to honor father and mother, and to kill, and to commit adultery, and to steal, and to covet what is our neighbors."

On page 3 of "What the Gospel Abolished," it says,—"If there were not two laws, then, not only the ceremonial law but the ten commandments, in fact all the moral precepts of the Old Testament were done away by Christ. For is it reasonable that God should abolish such precepts as these—"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart;" "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." "Thou shalt not kill," etc.?

This is said with the idea that opponents of the law suppose that no moral laws or principles are in force today. The above remarks should dispel this idea. We hold moral principles to be as Eternal as God. And when we say that the substance of nine of the ten commandments are incorporated with the commandments of Jesus, including the alterations or amendments he made in them, such as those mentioned in Matt. v. 21-36, it should silence all opposition, from the point of view that we were utterly without moral law.

And when we add that Jesus, the prophet Jehovah sent to supersede Moses as a Law-Giver according to promise added more than a hundred moral laws not mentioned in the Decalogue, we think every honest person should see that the morality of the Jesus code is as extensive as the Mosaic, and of a far higher type, seeing it requires obedience from the heart. Question? Why was the fourth commandment omitted?

Communicated.

Our Hope.

In 1 Cor. xv. 16-18, we read. "For if the dead rise not, then is not Christ raised: and if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain, ye are yet in your sins. Then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished."

Rom. viii. 22-23, says. "For we know that the whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain until now. And not only they, but ourselves also, which have the first fruits of the Spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves, waiting for the adoption, to wit, the redemption of our body."

Phil. iii. 20-21. "For our conversation is in heaven; from whence also we look for the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ; who shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body, according to the working whereby he is able to subdue all things unto himself."

Acts xxiv. 14-15, "But, this I confess unto thee, that after the way which they call heresy, so worship I the God of my fathers, believing all things which are written in the law and in the prophets. And have hope toward God, which they themselves also allow, that there shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just, and of the unjust."

Acts xxvi. 6-8. "And now I stand and am judged for the hope of the promise made of God unto our fathers: unto which promise our twelve tribes, instantly serving God day and night hope to come, for which hope's sake I am accused of the Jews. Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you that God should raise the dead?"

---

2 Cor. v. 1, "For we that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened: not for that we would be unclothed, but clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life."

Heb. ix. 27-28, "And as it is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment. So Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many; and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation."

---

1 Thess. i. 9-10, "For they themselves show of us what manner of entering in we had unto you, and how ye turned to God from idols to serve the living and true God. And to wait for his Son from heaven, whom he raised from the dead, even Jesus, which delivered us from the wrath to come."

---

1 Thess. ii. 19, "For what is our hope, or joy, or crown of rejoicing? Are not even ye in the presence of our Lord Jesus Christ at his coming?"

---

1 Thess iv. 13-18, "But I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorrow not, even as others which have no hope. For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him. For this we say unto you by the Word of the Lord, that we which are alive and remain unto the coming of the Lord shall not prevent them which are asleep. For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first. Then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air, and so shall we ever be with the Lord. Wherefore comfort one another with these words."

---

1 John iii. 2-3, "Beloved, now are we the Sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that when he doth appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is. And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure."

Luke xii 35-40, "Let your loins be girded about, and your lights burning; And ye yourselves like unto men that wait for their Lord, when he will return from the wedding; that when he cometh and knocketh, they may open unto him immediately. Blessed are those servants whom the Lord when he cometh shall find watching: verily, I say unto you, that he shall gird himself, and make them to sit down to meat, and will come forth and serve them. And if he shall come in the second watch, or in the third watch, and find them so, blessed are those servants. And this know, that if the good man of the house had known what hour the thief would come, he would have watched, and not have suffered his house to be broken through. Be ye therefore ready also: for the Son of man cometh at an hour when ye think not."

Titus ii. 11-15, "For the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared unto all men. Teaching us that, denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously, and godly in this present world. Looking for that blessed hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Savior Jesus Christ, who gave himself for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity and purify unto himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works. These things speak, and exhort, and rebuke with all authority. Let no man despise thee."

MRS. C. W. EASSLEY.

Self interest is the basic principle of all business.

The first and only law of the kingdom of God is the perfect law of love.

"A man too busy to take care of his health is like a man too busy to take care of his tools."

"Many of the waves of trouble, like those of the ocean, will, if we await them calmly, break at our feet and disappear."

The advice, "Pray devoutly and hammer on stoutly," reminds us of Oliver Cromwell's charge to his soldiers: "Trust in God, but keep your powder dry."

"Many passages of Scripture are sadly misread," says an exchange. "Many a wise-wise good people seem to think there is one which reads: "Feed, if you've received, feebly give."

Poetry.

[Selected by H. F. Cardell.]

Harmonicus.

I've heard them preach and sing and pray,
Exhort and testify.
Declare men go to heaven or hell
The very day they die.
Now this would be all right to me,
If I could find the text,
But as I don't I seem to be
Most terribly perplexed.

For instance: One he teaches thus,
O, sinner, to soon to hell,
He's sure to go, pursuing, lying still,
And yet, He death all things seal
Till Gabriel's Day is rolling on.
The Judge will come in power,
When, as we read, some men, burning there
Might [illegible] some more.

And some who took their flight to heaven,
Had even left a child,
May find there's been a sad mistake
Yet won't be satisfied
Till all the good in store to be seen,
Have gone from this dark shore,
Here is a verse that bothers me worse
Than ever I was before:

"The dead men A. shall live, together with my dead B. shall they arise. Awake and sing, ye that dwell in dust: for thy dew is as the dew of herbs, and the earth shall cast out the dead." Isa. xxvi. 19.

I've heard them say "That children A. B. C. Much more than they that live"
This he'll prove to, because you see
He DIE they did not give.
And when I tried to find it
I got mixed up worse and worse,
I hardly knew just what to do:
I believe I have found the verse.

"For in death there is no remembrance of thee: in the grave who shall give thee thanks?" Psalm vi. 5.

"His breath goeth forth, he is turned to his earth; in that very day his thoughts perish." Psalm cxlvi. 4.

Such things as these some do not mind,
But pass them lightly by,
But I am very much inclined
To know the reason why.
Some say they walk the golden streets,
And praise the Lord up there;
I guess I've found the very text,
I am glad I do declare:

"The dead praise not the Lord, neither any that go down into silence." Psalm cxv. 27.

They can't make no difference,
Just as we are sinners,
Yet dear said, "Christ is the Lord
And few that enter there."
I fear they will awake some day:
Be filled with end surprise
Find they have "reaped iniquity."
And eat the fruit of lies. Hosea x. 13.

Yes, death's the gate to endless joy,
The only way to heaven;
I believe so, prove it I will quote
A text that Paul has given:

"The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death." 1 Cor. xv. 26.

—Mary E. Welch.

Communicated.

A Distinction without Warrant. Psyche—Zoe.

The above is the caption of a criticism made by an editor of another religious publication, with regard to an article of mine which appeared in THE RESTITUTION of March 9. The editor said:

"Quite frequently visitors and speakers come to the surface, that make an attempt to draw a distinction between the ideas indicated by the word "Psyche" and the life as indicated by the word "Zoe." This distinction is certainly without warrant, both as to fact and as to Scripture usage. The last effort we have seen is by our much esteemed brother W. H. Wilson, in his article on "Everlasting Life" in THE RESTITUTION of March 9th."

It is certain this editor could not have looked very deep into his topic, when he ventured the assertion in the above extract that "this distinction is certainly without warrant both as to fact and as to Scripture usage." The words "WITHOUT A WARRANT," means no warrant at all, that not in a single case, will the Scriptures admit of a distinction between psuche and zoe. I wonder that he dare make such an assertion. In point of fact, in Scripture usage, the differences are marked and abundant.

DISTINCTION AS TO SCRIPTURE USAGE.

I will say to the readers, whenever you see either the word psuche, or zoe, enclosed in parenthesis in a Scripture quotation, it means that is the word in the original, in the passage quoted. Please be particular and notice the distinction in the passage quoted. And also please note that when you see the word nephesh, that it is the Hebrew equivalent of the Greek psuche, and means the same.

Psuche, in the New Testament is the ONLY WORD rendered soul, there is not another, no, not even the word zoe. Is it not strange that zoe is not also rendered soul, as well as psuche if the distinction is "without warrant."

I will now give the readers a clear distinction between the two words as to "Scripture usage," from which there

IS NO VARIATION.

It is found in this: That wherever the phrases, "everlasting life," and "eternal life," occur in the New Testament, the word "life," is from the Greek word zoe, EVERY TIME, without a single exception. Psuche NEVER APPEARS with the qualifying adjectives "everlasting" and "eternal." Of the two words psuche and zoe zoe has an EXCLUSIVE MONOPOLY as to the "Scripture usage" of the adjectives "eternal" and "everlasting," as far as it relates to the so two words. Was this Scripture discinction, if the two words are equivalents, and as my critic says, "without distinction," "as to Scripture usage?" The primary use of zoe in Scripture, relates to the higher life, while psuche is descriptive of the animal life. The distinction is so finely drawn in Scripture that single verses some times use both words, where the higher and the animal life is mentioned in that verse. Let me give you a sample and please note the distinction. It is so and in John xii. 25: "He that hateth his life (psuche) in this world shall keep it unto (zoe aionios) life eternal." Why does Scripture use the two words in one sentence, if there is no warrant for such usage? The readers cannot fail to observe that psuche in this text relates to "life in this world" and zoe to "life eternal." Two conditions in different ages, described by different words.

I wish also to call attention to 1 John v. 12: "He that hath the Son hath life; (zoe) he that hath not the Son of God hath not (zoe) life." Here are two classes of people, one class hath the Son, and the other hath not. ONE class is said to have "life," while the other hath not life." Both classes are alive, both alike moe living, moving creatures. This being the case, where does the distinction come in? The harmony is right here. Both classes have the psuche—animal life, but only those who have the Son, have (zoe) life. Don't you see a distinction here? Where is this life that those who possess the Son have?

1 John v. 11: "This is the record, that God hath given unto us (aionios zoe) eternal life, and this (zoe) life is IN his Son." And it must remain there, until we exchange the psuche for the zoe life. The psuche and the zoe life cannot dwell at the SAME TIME, in the same person. The environment and life must harmonize.

When will it become a personal possession? See Col. iii. 3, 4: "Your life (zoe) is hid with Christ in God. When Christ who is our life (zoe) shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory." Our psuche life is not "hid with Christ," that we possess now. Christ does not give us the psuche life, we have that by natural generation from our parents, the same as the rest of the animal creation. Here we must see the source of both the psuche and zoe life. To the same purpose, is John xvii. 2, "Thou (the Father) hath given him (the Son) power over all flesh, that he should give eternal life (aionios zoe) to as many as thou hast given him."

Let me give a few quotations drawing a comparison as to the psuche and zoe life, as applied to Christ. We read: "They are dead which sought the young child's life." (psuche).

"The good Shepherd layeth down his life (psuche) for the sheep." This life which he sacrificed for the sheep, was the psuche life, he derived from his mother. Having given this up for his sheep, the Father conferred upon him another and higher life. "As the Father hath life (zoe) in himself, even so gave he to the Son also to have life (zoe) in himself."

Peter says: "Ye have killed the author of life." (zoe). We know of a certainty he was not the author of the psuche or animal life, he derived that himself from the same natural channel as ourselves. He is "the author of life," (zoe) as the Second Adam, in the same sense as the First Adam was the author of the psuche—animal life. Our psuche life was derived from him, as the fountain head of the psuche—animal life. But our zoe life is to be derived from the Second Adam as the fountain head. "Thou (the Father) hath given him (the Son) power over all flesh (in whom is psuche life,) that he should give eternal life, (aionios zoe) to as many as thou hast given him." John xvii. 2.

Speaking of his sheep, Jesus says: "I give unto them (aionios zoe) eternal life." If there is no warrant for a distinction between zoe and psuche why don't we occasionally read of aionios psuche?

My critic makes a desperate effort to prove that the psuche life, will be resound again, and to prove it, quotes Matt. xvi. 25: "For whosoever will save his life (psuche) shall lose it, and whosoever will lose his life (psuche) for my sake shall find it." He presumes that because it was the psuche life that was lost, for Christ's sake, he will find the same life that was lost. God pity us, if we do. We all of us have all we want of the psuche life, in this age. You will notice that nothing is said in this passage, as to the nature of the life found. Mr. Settle presumes that it will be the PSUCHE life, from the use of the word "it." This is altogether a presumption.

We must consult parallel passages if we would know the nature of the life found by those who sacrifice the psuche life to find it. A companion passage is found in John xii. 25: "He that hateth his life (psuche) in this world, shall keep it unto (zoe aionios) life eternal." He disregards the psuche life, and finds the zoe aionios—life eternal. "Everlasting" and "eternal," never attaches to psuche, in a single instance.

My critic also quotes John x. 17: "I lay down my life (psuche) that I might take it again." The word "it" refers to the taking again of life, and not to its nature. The life he laid down was his psuche life, animal life. We know as a positive fact that he took a much nobler life than the animal. Psuche does not apply to anything higher than the animal.

We have only to examine the Scriptures and learn what the nephesh or psuche life is, to be definitely certain that he never took that again. See Deut. xii. 23: "Be sure that thou eat not the blood: FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE; and thou mayest not EAT THE LIFE with the flesh."

How did he lay down his life? "He POURED OUT his soul unto death."

The life of the flesh is the nephesh or psuche life, and "THE BLOOD is the life" of the flesh.

Now apply this definition of nephesh or psuche, to the passage my critic previously quoted. "For whosoever will lose his life (psuche) for my sake shall find it." Now suppose he finds the psuche life; what does he get? Nothing more than the flesh and blood life. What would be the result of such a find? See 1 Cor. xv. 50: "Flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God."

My critic next finds three passages where the word zoe has a different phase from the bulk of places where it occurs. It is not a correct method of Scripture study to modify the great mass of testimony by an exceedingly small minority. Many words, in any language, have some minor shades of meaning, differing somewhat from the primary signification, but they must not be allowed to alter or change the BASE and true PRIMARY meaning. Shrewd scholars do not so misuse language.

I will quote a few passages where the words psuche and zoe occur, that the readers may see the difference.

Lev. xvii. 14: "Ye shall eat the blood of no manner of flesh; for the life (Heb. nephesh; Gr. psuche) of all flesh IS THE BLOOD."

John v. 24: "He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, (aionios zoe) and shall not come into condemnation, but is passed from death unto life" (zoe). No psuche—animal blood life here.

Col. iii. 3, 4: "Your life (zoe—not blood life) is hid with Christ in God. When Christ who is our life (zoe) shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory."

Mark iii. 4: "Is it lawful to do good on the Sabbath days, or to do evil? to save life (psuche) or to kill." This miracle was to save natural life.

John x. 10: "I am come that they might have life," (zoe). They already possessed the psuche—soul, animal flesh and blood life; but not the zoe The difference is great.

W. H. WILSON.

The Reward of Faith is Sure

I have just read a letter from our much esteemed Sister S. R. Winer; who by her earnest devotion always begets a new degree of enthusiasm and religious fervor in my heart for a season, and fires me with new resolves to do more for the Master's cause. Would to God there were more like her; always filled with the fullness of Christ. Overflowing with faith, hope and charity, one would very naturally be led to think that such lives as hers and her beloved husband lead, would be the means of taking their neighborhood for Christ, and the Truth. Alas, how little does the world heed the power of the gospel, or the influence of holy example. We are not once reminded of the word of Jesus, "A servant is not greater than his Master." The Scriptures assure us, however, that the sower of precious seed, though he scatters with tears, he shall reap with rejoicing, and bring his sheaves with gladness into the Land of the harvest. It is a blessed thing to have full confidence in the Lord all the time. He will keep a record for such as fear him and keep his Word, and they shall be his when he arranges his jewels in his crown: "And they that turn many to righteousness shall shine as the stars forever and ever." What need of patience must we have when we are met by the scoffs of infidelity, and the jesting flings of the profane rabble. Our Master endured it all and more yet no word of murmur escaped his lips. He gave no sign of giving up his grand work of redemption; nor swerved from the line of duty, the cross in fact to the death on the cross. It was written of him in the volume of inspiration, that he came to do the will of our Heavenly Father, and was so fulfilled. Let us be thankful that he was faithful, and as we are in full assurance of faith, that we will perform all that God has given him to do, "That he will save unto the uttermost, all who come unto God by him. Could we brethren encourage a larger hope?

A. B. WINER.

In Memoriam.

Eliza McCrodan was born in Jamestown, Ottawa Co., Mich., Nov. 26 1871. At three years of age her parents, Wm. and Francis McCrodan, came with their family to Dutton, Kent Co., where she with them resided until her marriage with Charles Anderson, May 18, 1895, ceremony performed by Elder Hoyt, of Grand Rapids; to this marriage was given two children, a daughter aged 3 years, and a son 19 months old.

She died March 29, 1898, of quick consumption, at Vermontville, Mich., where her husband was employed as station agent by M. C. R. R., and which place had been their home since last July. Cut down in the very bloom of life, leaving a grief-stricken husband, the two little children, a father, mother, six sisters, one brother and many other friends and relatives to still suffer on and wait until they too may rest beside her. Well do we remember when Elder Woodward led her down into the water to take the all-saving name upon herself, standing by the water's edge with several others, and my Effie's arm around her, waiting for the burial; her great brown eyes spoke the joy she felt. They both sleep now almost side by side, sleeping until the blessed resurrection life.

We spoke to a large audience from James iv. 14. "What is your life." This life freighted with its cares, and pains and death, will not always last, there is a better life awaiting the faithful ones and we may meet again. Our heart aches for the lonely ones, but out of all the gloom of today hope comes to the rescue, for we know that "Joy cometh in the morning."

M. A. WOODWARD.

A Sad Death.

Just before repairing home from Sister Eliza Anderson's funeral, the horrid news reached us, "Goldie Good is very badly burned." We hurried to the bedside of the little sufferer, and found her tossing and screaming in her agony. Medical aid was immediately summoned and every thing was done that lay in human power; but it was all of no avail; the awful fire had done its work; she lived five hours and fell asleep to awaken in "God's beautiful city." She said to her mamma only a few days ago, "Mamma, I do want to be good and be in God's beautiful city when Jesus comes." The parents are nearly crazed of grief at the terrible death of their only daughter. The mother already frail is prostrated with grief, they have two little boys left them. Goldie was a lovely child of six years, a quiet, loving, peaceable child; how she will be missed at the fireside, but "she will come again from the hand of the enemy" in God's good time with immortal beauty. No ugly scars on her little form, in her voice no wailing cry for help, but a sweet glad joy, for mamma and papa will stand ready to receive their darling, where the heartache has ceased, tears are exchanged for songs of victory, with no more curse, for God rules over all. We spoke to a very large concourse of people from Jer. xxxi. 15, 16. The entire community mourn with the grief stricken parents, and God's promises alone can comfort

MARY A. WOODWARD.

National maladies can only be cured by gospel remedies. God's grace has a matchless power to redeem the individual and thus reform the nation.

Obituary.

Died on the 24th of March, 1898, in Decatur Co., Kansas, in the 58th year of his age, Henry Rathbun (better known as "Pat Rathbun.") He was a son of Sister Mary Rathbun, of Cedar Bluffs, Kan., who chose the text for the funeral sermon, which was Job xiv. 14. Henry requested some time before he died that the writer should preach the funeral sermon. He was taken off very suddenly dying of paralysis of the heart. As far as was known he retired at night as well as he ever was, having worked all day on a new house he was building, but was dead the next morning.

I had held a ten days meeting near his house in the last of January and first of February. He attended every meeting and said he was a believer, but he never was baptized. I learned while I was back there that he intended to have been baptized at my next meeting, having deferred being baptized on account of others who expected to come in the Church when I went back.

He was born in Ogle Co., Ill., Mar. 1, 1851; moved from there in Jan., 1873, to Clay Co., Neb., from there to Decatur Co., Kansas, in May, 1873. Was married to Mary Hemper, May 13, 1880, whom he leaves a widow with three children to mourn his loss. He was a member of the I. O. O. F., who buried him in the honors of that Society.

J. P. GLENN.

Selected.

Where do Saints Receive Eternal Life?

1. At the resurrection of the dead.

"Many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake; some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt." Dan. ix 2.

"The hour is coming, in the which all that are in their graves shall hear his voice, and shall come forth; they that have done good to the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil to the resurrection of damnation." John v. 28, 29.

2. At the last trump.

"We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed. For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality. So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory." 1 Cor. xv. 51-54.

3. At the end of the Christian course.

"Being now made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life." Rom. vi. 22

"Strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, that leadeth unto life." Matt. vii. 14.

4. In the way of rewards and punishments.

"When the Son of Man shall come in his glory.....before him shall be gathered all nations: and he shall separate them one from another as the shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats.....And these shall go away into everlasting punishment: but the righteous into life eternal." Matt. xxv. 31, 32, 46.

5. At the harvest of the world. (which is the end of this age.) Matt. xiii 39.

"He that reapeth receiveth wages, and gathereth fruit unto life eternal." John iv. 36.

"He that soweth to the Spirit, shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting." Gal. vi. 8.

6. In the world to come.

"Jesus said unto them, Verily I say unto you, There is no man that hath left house, or parents, or brethren, or wife or children, for the kingdom of God's sake, who shall not receive manifold more in this present time, and in the world to come life everlasting." Luke xviii. 30.

7. In the time of regeneration, or regeneration.

"Peter said, Behold, we have forsaken all and followed thee; what shall we have therefore? And Jesus said unto them, Verily I say unto you, that ye which have followed me in the regeneration, when the Son of Man shall sit on the throne of his glory, ye also shall sit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.....and shall inherit everlasting life." Matt. xix. 27-29.

Every form of personal and social happiness springs from obedience to the two-fold command of love to God and your neighbor.

How Believers have Eternal Life Now.

IN CHRIST IN TRANSIT.

"This is the record that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his Son." 1 John v. 11.

"Life which is in Christ Jesus." 2 Tim. i. 1.

"Your life is hid with Christ in God. When Christ who is our life shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory." Col. iii. 3, 4.

IN PROMISE.

"This is the promise that he hath promised us, even eternal life." 1 John ii. 25.

"Bodily exercise profiteth for a little time; but godliness is profitable unto all things, having promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come." 1 Tim. iv. 8.

"Paul, an apostle of Jesus Christ, by the will of God, according to the promise of life, which is in Christ Jesus." 2 Tim. i. 1.

"Blessed is the man who endureth temptations: so that when he is proved he may receive a crown of life, which God hath promised to them that love him." Jas. i. 12.

IN FAITH WHICH RECEIVES THE PROMISE.

"Fight the good fight of faith, lay hold on eternal life, whereunto thou art also called." 1 Tim. vi. 12.

The rich are to be "laying up a store, a good foundation against the time to come that they may lay hold on eternal life." 1 Tim. vi. 19.

CONSEQUENTLY IS HOPE.

"Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his abundant mercy hath begotten us again unto a hope of life by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead." 1 Pet. i. 3.

"Paul, a servant of God.....in hope of eternal life, which God that cannot lie, promised before the world began." Titus i. 2

"That being justified by his grace, we should be made heirs according to the hope of eternal life." Titus iii. 7.

Wooden Swearing.

"I hope, dear children," said a mother, "that you will never let your lips speak profane words. But now I want to tell you of a kind of swearing I heard a good woman speak about not long ago. She called it wooden swearing. Its a kind of swearing that many people besides children are given to when angry. Instead of venting their feelings in oaths, they slam the doors, kick chairs, stamp on the floor, throw the furniture about, and make all the noise they possibly can. Isn't this just the same as swearing? It is just the same kind of feeling exactly, only they do not say those awful words; but they force the furniture to make the noise, and so I call it wooden swearing. I hope dear children, that you will not do any of this kind of swearing either. It is better to let alone "wooden swearing" and all other kinds of swearing."

Home Seekers' Cheap Excursions to the West and Northwest.

On May 3, 17, June 7 and 21, the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western Ry) will sell Home Seekers' excursion tickets at exceptionally low rates to a large number of points in Northern Wisconsin, Michigan, Northwestern Iowa, Western Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota, including the famous Black Hills district. Better own a farm! Start now! Apply to nearest ticket agent or address C. Traver, Marine National Bank Building, Pittsburg, Pa., or W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth ave. nue, Chicago, Ill.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donor request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

If our religion means anything, it means composure, heroism, serenity, loyalty at all times and in all places. It must be able to stand the strain put upon it, if it is to recommend itself to the world.—Rev. Garret Wyckoff

"A good thought," says an old writer "is a great boon, for which God is to be first thanked, then he who uses it, next to utter it, and then it is a lesser but still to a considerable degree, the man or woman that can be said to speak it well.

Our Love Feast.

Dear Restitution:

This seems a very appropriate time for me to say a few words through our beloved paper; although, not a writer: there are very few that are born writers—a very few that become kings, queens, or presidents: and it is well that it is so. Hour lives were all queens and drones, we should have no honey. Yes, I am thankful that I am the of common people, for they heard him most gladly. He gathered the disciples and the martyrs from the common people: they were with him through all his trials; they were with him at the cross and the burial and they are now looking, waiting and longing for his soon return. May God bless all such waiting ones is my humble prayer. Dear brethren, write, if you were not born with a pen in your hand. All men crave sympathy, and of all others, we need it through your kindly letters.

A. P. L.

Dear Restitution,

I find many good things in the paper. What a wonderful time we are now living in. Is not Scripture fulfilling so fast that we scarcely keep up with it, unless our eyes are kept wide open to the occurrences. All the nations in the world seem to be in the same condition, just ready for the match. How we long for the redemption of our body, and if things continue much longer the whole creation will be groaning in pain to be delivered, and even they were more subject to vanity, not willingly but by reason of him who hath subjected them in hope; but thanks be to the dear Father they all shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God. Rom. viii. But they as well as we must learn the lesson for without the knowledge of good or evil, no one could understand the good. Gen. iii. 22. Not one jot or tittle of his law can go unfulfilled. Oh, what a wonderful work there is in the ages to come, (I mean the work of regeneration, after the marriage of the Lamb.) Is not this first work the restoration of Israel, and then Israels work on the nations following, at least, that is the way God's plan is opening out to me. I bless the Lord for all things, knowing that all things will be for the best in the end, for all things are of God. Rom. xiii. 1. Even by him kings and princes reign. Prov. viii. 15–16. For there is no power only from above. John xix. 11. I create the fruit of the lips, Isa. lvii. 18–21. And will he not make men more precious than gold, Isa. xiii. 12. O how good our God is as he knew the end from the beginning. He knew all things, and said, thus far and no farther shalt thou go. We are his workmanship and it will all be done in a God-like manner, and we can lie down by the still waters in green pastures, and the nearer we come in harmony with God, the more love we will have for one another; for God is love, and that is the test, the more love we have for one another, the more of God we will have in us. Bless the Lord. Yours in love.

J. GREENWALT.

Dear Restitution:

With pleasure I write a few lines to to the brothers and sisters. Another year has come and gone since we had our love-feast of letters. Let us all strive to do more for our Savior this year than we have in the past. Let us awake from our lethargy, cleanse our hearts, purify our lives and actions and be ready to work for our Savior, whatsoever we find to do, so that when our Master comes we may be worthy to enter the kingdom and sit down with him on his throne.

Your brother and sister, in Christ.

MR. & MRS. ARTHUR ZECH.

Editor Restitution:

We wish to add our testimony with those who love the dear Master, and are waiting for his return. THE RESTITUTION comes each week as a blessing from God, and we accept it as such and are trying to use them to forward the truth, by giving them to all around us who are willing to read them. Pray for us, dear ones, that we may be able to do something for the Master. O, I long for the time when we can look in each others faces and hear each others voices. I often think when I read the letters from the brothers or sisters, shall we know each other there? May we all have our lamps trimmed and burning, for we know not what hour we may hear the cry, Behold, the Bridegroom cometh! go ye out to meet him.

Yours in love.

WM. A. O. COLLE.

Dear Restitution:

We are still waiting and watching for the glorious appearing of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, that we may hear him say well done good and faithful servant.

Yours in hope,

MR. & MRS. S. A. STORY.

Dear Restitution:

Home does not seem like home without THE RESTITUTION'S weekly visit and now in these times of turmoil and and dissensions we need it more than ever. Oh, is it possible that the world wide communion means Christ's soon coming. If it does, all hail the day. Come Lord Jesus and come quickly, is the prayer of your unworthy sister.

MRS. C. F. RANDOLPH.

Dear Restitution:

We have been taking THE RESTITUTION for some two years now and can say that it is a source of great consolation to us, as there are but few here that believe as we do, and of course we never have opportunity to hear preachin on these subjects. My husband and I are firm believers in the blessed truths set forth in your paper. Yours in hope.

JENNIE MCCRORY.

Household of Faith,

I will join in the love feast once more, and I want to tell you all that I am still looking for the appearing of our Lord and Savior who is to come and change this vile body, and fashion it like unto his glorious body just to think of a new body free from pain. But few can comprehend the change; to the most of mentality is composed of pain in some form.

O, to be new, all new, like Christ, and free as those sinful natures of ours who war against the spirit and causes our hearts to ache; for to be spiritually minded is life and joy and peace. I have been seeking to become more spiritually minded. Seeking is a good thing, but to enjoy the thing sought after is far better, and by the grace of God, I mean to enjoy a more spiritual life this year than ever before. I wish for more spirituality in the paper. The doctrine is all right, and is brought out very plainly, but will doctrine save us? There are so many who so thoroughly know the doctrine but do they manifest the spirit of Christ? Without the spirit no one shall see God.

Now I don't wish to be misunderstood. Don't think I have become a spiritualist, for that is as far from my mind as it ever had been, and I believe the gospel just as strong as ever, but feel a lack in our paper of real spiritual food. We can believe a thing and then not accept it, and my daily prayer is to have full confidence in God. An increase of faith and to live in the spirit of Christ, that I may be able to meet him with joy and gladness, and to lift the burdens of this life. If we could be like good old brother Paul and say "these light afflictions;" but how many of us are like Paul? From the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. What is our speech? vain words, or are they spirit and life? How often do we stop and think what we are talking about? We are so apt to judge some one else, how careless we get when together. Many times instead of talking of our hope, our joy, our interest in the eternal welfare of some friend or neighbor, we talk of their downfall, of some who have gone wrong, and pass a harsh judgment upon them. Is that Christian love and charity?

Your Sister in Christ.

MRS. CLARA J. CHAFFEE.

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing. Said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 20th of April, 1898, providing notice is given through THE RESTITUTION that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all remittances to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 310, Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. S. J. Sigler,	$10.00
J. D. Wince,	5.00
P. L. Austin,	10.00
Edgar Hatch,	1.00
Agnes Dilworth,	2.00
Mrs. Mary E. Thompson,	15.00
One who believes that God from little offerings can work out great results.	10.00
A Friend of Truth,	1.00

The best pot prevents many from taking the cup of salvation.

"Beautiful Winona."—A Delightful Summer Haven.

Winona Lake, Indiana, (formerly Eagle Lake) is an attractive summer haven on the Pennsylvania Lines near Warsaw, Indiana. As the site of Winona Assembly and Summer School, has grown into favor very rapidly. Improvements made on the two hundred acres of romantic woodland which stretches nearly two miles along the eastern shore of Winona Lake, a beautiful sheet of water, include all the comforts and conveniences for a highly enjoyable sojourn. Ample facilities are at hand for satisfactory entertainment at reasonable rates at the commodious hotel which adjoins the railway station at the entrance to the grounds, in cosy cottages, or in tents as may be preferred.

Persons who may desire to combine devotion, entertainment and instruction with rest and recreation will find Winona Lake the ideal spot for invigorating both mind and body by instructive entertainment and study and health-giving recreation. The educational work of the Summer School is in charge of well known instructors. The college halls are equipped with all required paraphernalia: the large auditorium in which the assembly meets, and in which prominent lecturers are heard during the season, has a seating capacity of over 3,000. An amphitheatre, race track and other facilities for athletic pastimes are provided. The fishing, hunting and boating are fine, the large fleet of boats being of the best.

The season of 1898 will open May 15th. Commencing on that date excursion tickets with fifteen day limit will be on sale in Pennsylvania Lines. They may be obtained during May, June, July and August. The sale of season excursion tickets will begin June 1st, and continue daily until September 30th. Season excursion tickets will be good returning until October 31st.

Full information about the attractions at "Beautiful Winona," its Assembly and Summer School, etc., will be cheerfully furnished all who address Mr. Sol. C. Dickey, Secretary, Winona Lake, Ind. Inquiries about excursion rates, time of trains, etc., should be addressed to Passenger and Ticket Agents of the Pennsylvania Lines, or to F. Van Dusen, Chief Assistant General Passenger Agent, Pittsburg Pa. [illegible] 30.

Y. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

P. D. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
R. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. M. Chesebrough, Galesburgh, Mich.
Newton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 155 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio.
W. L. Skeels, Scholls, Ore.
E. Hoyt, Box 364, Grand Rapids, Mich.
S. Bowman Wines, Plymouth, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Heun, Dudley, Worcestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Sidneyville, Ind.
J. W. Niles, Edinboro, Pa.
J. F. Wingater, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Odenville, Ark.
J. A. Culy, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prince, Elkton, Ky.
A. J. Eychaner, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kean, 4507, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Glenn, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hull, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Sibley, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Osawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
B. M. Butler, Wesanthe, Iowa.
J. O. Haupt, Laurel, Neb.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, Okla.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Pelmmer, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Ilke, Ind.
H. P. Baker, Box 1088 Decorah, Iowa.
A. T. Moyes, Cottonwood, Cal.
J. B. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
O. W. Smith, Marmont, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Ruthbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Steffa, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 44, Vista, Idaho.
Elder H. M. Williams, Portland, Kan.
R. Wilson, 1966 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
O. F. Rairdon, Kenneston, Ind.
John Peare, 2012 West Greene Ave. Parsons, Kansas.
J. C. Mitchell, Crawley, La.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 884 Grand Rapids, Mich.

The supposed grave of Eve is visited by over 40,000 pilgrims in each year. It is to be seen at Jeddeh, in a cemetery outside the city walls. The tomb is fifty cubits long and twelve wide. The Arabs entertain a belief that Eve was the first woman that ever lived.

[illegible] were there [illegible]

List of Churches.

The Church of God, San Diego, California, meet for worship, and study of the Scriptures in Grand Army Hall, 6th St., between G & H, every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. All Bible students are welcome.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. B. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and Ogdenville Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., and Rowe—Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

Church of God at Salem, Ohio, meet every day of the week at 10:00, for devotional services. Any brethren passing through the city are cordially invited to meet with us.

The Church of God, at Andover, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Mills Hall. Andover is on the direct line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R., going west to Aberdeen, thirty miles east thereof.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Frame Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Sarah Sellick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. Brethren known to this church, or coming properly endorsed by introductory letter, will be heartily welcomed. At present we meet in the School House on top of the hill; cable cars run every hour, and ferry brings from Seattle.

The brethren of the Church of God at Brush Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 after prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Keesler, or H. L. Coleman, West Millgrove, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, Ia., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthon, Elder.

The Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., meets every Sunday at 9:30 a. m. in Benwar Hall, on Willoughby Ave., near Broadway.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The church at Elder and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Ransom Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Frost-D.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Fallis or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Hoar of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Scientific Fire, See.

The Church of God at Linden, Okla., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles northeast of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet twice a month for the purpose of breaking bread and social services, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth meet with us. Service at 2 o'clock p. m. Elder Woods, Winterrhode, Ill., Sec.

The Church of God at Walterville, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Mountainview School House near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Reuben Corbaley, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 p. m. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Glover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday school every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo D. Ayer, Elder, Evasion Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to stay and all of these gatherings

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Faithfully yours, Grant Mechanic.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in charge [illegible] Attica for preaching [illegible] and 4th [illegible] each month at [illegible] Elder [illegible] S. C. Oliver, Pastor.

The [illegible] meet every Sunday at [illegible] and Rose to 123[illegible] [illegible] Ore. [illegible] where [illegible] we welcome.

The Church of God at first for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:00 a. m. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder. S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt binding, fifth edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Twelve Words;" one of "Early Lessons;" and one of "Honoring the Son,"—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

NICKEL PLATE

12-3466

All trains arrive at and depart from the Union Passenger Station, Van Buren Street, Chicago.

Uniformed Colored Porters attend first and second class day coaches on through trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars enroute.

Leave and Arrive. | All Nickel Plate Dining Trains Daily. | Westward.

Eastern Time							Central Time
7 10	11	3	6	8	Chicago	8 00	7
11 05	3	7	10	12	Valparaiso	4 17	3
12 35	4	8	11	1	So. Wanatah	3 00	2
1 45	5	9	12	2	Kouts	2 05	1
2 10	5	9	12	2	Hebron	1 45	1
2 30	5	9	12	2	Argos	1 25	1
3 00	6	10	1	3	Bourbon	1 00	12
3 20	6	10	1	3	Claypool	12 40	11
3 40	6	10	1	3	Warsaw	12 20	11
4 00	7	11	2	4	Ft. Wayne	12 00	10
6 30	9	1	4	6	Cleveland	9 30	8
10 30	1	5	8	10	Buffalo	5 30	4
11 30	2	6	9	11	New York	4 30	3
7 10	11	3	6	8	Boston	8 00	7

Light type A. M. Dark type P. M.

Daily (except Sunday. † Stops on signal. Limited Express Service. Sleeping, Dining, Parlor and Buffet Cars. Local Express Service. Sleeping, Dining and Buffet Cars. Knox, only on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, westbound, only on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Drawing Room Sleeping Cars on Nos. 2, 4 and 6 through to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston; on Nos. 5, 3 and 1 to Chicago. Meals are served at up-to-date Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at opportune local hours. Baggage checked to destination. On inquiry you will find our rates are always lower than via other lines, service considered.

For rates and detailed information, address P. P. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agent.

Pittsb'g, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Div.

Pennsylvania Lines.

Schedule of Passenger Trains—Central Time.

Westward.	9	15	39	3	35
	AM	PM	AM	PM	PM
Pittsb'gh, lv.
Alliance, ar.
Orrville, lv.
Mansfield, ar.
Mansfield, lv.
Crestline, ar.
Bucyrus, lv.
Leiss, ar.
Van Wert, ar.
Ft Wayne, lv.
Arcola,
Columbia City,
Larwill,
Marcellus,
Eagle Lake,
Warsaw, ar.
Rose Green,
Bourbon,
Inwood,
Plymouth,
Grovertown,
Hamlet,
Davis,
Hanna,
Wanatah,
Valparaiso,
Wheeler,
Hobart,
Liverpool,
Clarke,
Chicago, ar.

Eastward.	20	8	4	6	30	38
	PM	AM	PM	PM	AM	PM
Chicago, lv.
Clarke,
Liverpool,
Hobart,
Wheeler,
Valparaiso,
Wanatah,
Hanna,
Davis,
Hamlet,
Grovertown,
Plymouth,
Inwood,
Bourbon,
Rose Green,
Warsaw,
Eagle Lake,
Marcellus,
Larwill,
Columbia City,
Arcola,
Ft Wayne, ar.
Ft Wayne, lv.
Van Wert,
Leiss,
Bucyrus,
Crestline, ar.
Mansfield,
Wooster,
Massillon,
Canton,
Alliance, ar.
Pittsb'gh, ar.
	AM	AM	PM	PM	PM	PM

L. F. LORER, General Manager. F. A. FORD, General Passenger Agent.

13-26-1f PITTSBURGH, PENN'A.

For time cards, rates of fare, through tickets, baggage checks, and further information regarding the running of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook of Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect Dec. 5 1897.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH

No. 6. Ex. Sun. For St. Joseph	12:08pm
No. 8, " " "	10:11pm

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute	6:18 a m
No. 3, " " "	12:43pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for all information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Bowes, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

L. A. FORD, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Louis, Mo.

Books and Tract List.

A LETTER TO A FRIEND.

This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. Many of our readers already know of the good that has been accomplished through its circulation. 10 cents each

FUTURE PROBATION.

Is there a waiting age in the world to come? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Owen Moore, B. D. We have a good supply and will send them post paid for ten cents per copy.

GLAD TIDINGS OF THE KINGDOM OF GOD.

This tract contains 12 large size pages and is a reprint of a work issued many years ago. It is clear and comprehensive. 5ct. each or 30 for $1.00.

THE COMING NATION.

A lecture by H. V. Reed. This clearly sets forth that the Coming Nation will be the nation of Israel restored to Palestine, with the Scriptural reasons given. 24 pages. 10 cts. or three for 25 cts.

Necessity of Baptism. Written some years ago by J. M. Stephenson. It is good. Also, Bible Plan of Salvation, with Scriptural interpretations. 2cts each or 15 cts per dozen.

Modern Events in the Light of Prophecy.—Sermon preached by H. V. Reed at Antioch, put in tract form. 5 cents each, or 30 copies for $1.00.

Passages Supposed to Teach Consciousness after Death, by W. H. Wilson, which shows that such can be not inherent. 3 cents each, or 25 cents for 12.

Where Do the Dead Sleep. These are Bible texts given in answer to this question. A 3-page tract 2 cents or 1 or 15 cents per dozen.

Hades. A Bible account of this place with proof texts. Ten copies for 5 cents.

Death Compared to a Sleep. This represents death as a sleep and proof texts are given. Ten copies for 5 cts.

The Wicked Dead and Other Truths. The two combined. 2 pages ten copies for 10 cents

"Word of Man, vs. Word of God," by H. V. Reed. A contrast between the two. 2cts each or 15 for 25 cts.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory, and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O.

Aids to Bible-Study and Mission-Work.

1. The gospel of the Kingdom, advocated in a series of Ten discourses. A volume of 283 pages, Cloth 25c. A Leather-bound beautifully embossed and gilt edged $1.00. 2. Twelve Words or the true meanings of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptable, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as gathered from their uses in the Holy Scriptures. A tract of 40 pages 10cts a copy. Intended as a substitute for and an improvement on the same writer's Key-Words. 3. The gospel of the Kingdom. An 8-page double column tract 10cts. per dozen; 75cts. per hundred. 4. Who are Led by the Spirit? A 4-page tract 25cts per hundred. 5. Seeking and Finding. A 4-page tract 25cts. per hundred. 6. Honouring the Son. An 8-page tract 25cts per dozen. 7. Early Lessons. 80 pages 10cts. copy. Suitable for old or young.

Written and for sale by WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

Notice.

WILL our friends please remember that we do not have the books and tracts at this office that are advertized by Brother Joblin, or Brother Wiley Jones. Do not send to this office for them, but send to their address as given in the advertisement. This will save both trouble and delay. PLEASE REMEMBER.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL,

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—
A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher
—FOR THE—
CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
W. D. THOMPSON.
J. H. WILLEY.
A. R. UNDERWOOD.
WM. RAUSHACK.
D. T. DALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50; Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 50 Cents.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, APRIL 27, 1898. NUMBER 17.

Poetry.

The Crisis

[illegible]

Communicated.

The Gospel Recovered. No. 9.

[illegible]

The preceding pages of this series have been mostly occupied with the religious movement originated and carried on for upwards of twenty years in the United States by Walter Scott and Alexander Campbell. The principles as enunciated by those reformers were corrected in some details in our own writings, and were criticised with the idea of showing how far they came short of the faith and evidences of the gospel of The Kingdom of God as revealed in the Scriptures.

We now come to the appearance on the scene of our first emigrant from the old country. He joined the "Reformation" referred to, but afterwards became identified with the position he found himself in when visited by the Scripture.

In the year of 1832, after a rough passage of eight weeks in a sailing vessel, and a narrow escape from shipwreck on the coast of Nova Scotia, Dr. Thomas at the age of 27 arrived in New York. His purpose was to see the country with a view to the settlement of himself, his father and his father's family. He had been loved as a physician, which profession he had practised for three years in London, England, his native city. He was provided with letters of introduction to several gentlemen, both of New York and in Cincinnati, Ohio, which latter city was his primary destination. His father, who had originally been in the East India Civil Service in London, but while yet a young man had become, first an Independent and afterwards a Baptist minister, losing patience at the delay, had taken ship and arrived in New York only three days later than his son. They both started in September for Cincinnati. Calling on a gentleman to whom he had a letter of introduction, he was next day introduced to a member of the "Reformation" body named Daniel Gano, who was Clerk of the Supreme Court of the United States. The Doctor and his father received from Major Gano an invitation to dinner. On the following Sunday the Doctor was next introduced to Walter Scott, who was then located there. The result was that at that first interview with Scott, the Doctor after a few hours conversation, was immersed. The incident may be given as recorded by the Doctor, 28 years afterwards in the "Herald of the Kingdom, Vol. X. p. 80—"Mr. Scott persuaded him, and it was not difficult to persuade a truth-seeking ignoramus of ingenious disposition) by a dexterous use of Acts ii. 38, and the case of Philip and the Ethiopian, that all he had to do was to believe that Jesus is the Christ, and thereupon to be immediately immersed for the remission of sins and the gift of the Holy Spirit. He was accordingly immersed by Mr. Scott the same hour of the night in the Miami canal."

Dr. Thomas experienced great kindness from Major Gano, who invited him to make his house his home, which he accepted and resided with him during his stay in Cincinnati, which was seven months. He found his office, however, an unpromising place for the practice of his profession. He says, "it was full of physicians" and he elected on removing to one of the Atlantic cities.

At this period Alexander Campbell had been, in the 23rd year for upwards of twenty years, the latest of which in connection with Walter Scott. The "Christian Baptist" had run its course for seven yearly volumes, and the "Millennial Harbinger" was in its third year. The Doctor says that during his residence in Cincinnati he had "discourse[d] on Christian Baptist and the Millennial Harbinger," for seven months as he supposed, were studying it for himself." Confession and Adoption 1847. He "had become since his immersion thoroughly instructed in all the traditions of the Campbellian Baptist, Millennial Harbinger, and 'Evangelist,' as far as these periodicals." "Herald of the Kingdom," Vol. X. p. 81. Walter Scott had urged him to speak on religious subjects which he positively declined. He said, "he had nothing to say which he could not have said in two minutes.....and he regarded it as the greatest presumption possible for a young convert to present himself before an audience of old, and, as he then supposed, therefore enlightened professors, to teach, exhort, or preach," Herald of the Kingdom, Vol. X. p. 81.

On leaving Cincinnati he was provided with letters of introduction to Dr. Richardson of Wellsburg and to Mr. Campbell of Bethany, both in Virginia. At the house of Dr. Richardson he met Mr. Campbell, who invited him to spend some time at his establishment at Bethany. This he accepted, and experienced the hospitality of Bethany for a month. Mr. Campbell managed to bring him out as a speaker in his first attempt, almost without notice, being what he knew of Rollin's Ancient History on the great Apocalyptic image in Daniel ii. He speaks very highly of Mr. Campbell.

With letters of introduction from Mr. Campbell he passed on to Somerset Court House in Pennsylvania. He refused here all offers to become a preacher. After sixteen days passing to Baltimore where he was pressed to preach every evening for a week, the subject being the "Ancient Gospel," determined to break away from a preaching career which was being forced upon him, he moved on to Philadelphia. Here he remained eleven months in the hope of getting into the practice of his profession, preaching, etc., however still barring the way. Here he married a wife, and started a periodical, (May 1834) called the "Apostolic Advocate." The Prospectus was published and favorably noticed by A. Campbell in the Millennial Harbinger." After the issue of the first number he leaves Philadelphia for Richmond, stopping on the way for several weeks at Baltimore. Making a fair start at Richmond in the practice of his profession during the first year, there was a falling off in the following year owing to his frequent absence in preaching.

It was here his differences with Mr. Campbell began. In the sixth number of the "Apostolic Advocate" (about October 1834) appeared an article entitled "Anabaptism." His principal was, in the words of his biographer "No immersion is valid that is not based on an intelligent faith on the part of the subject of it at the time of the immersion." Of this his own statement, given in the first volume of the "Herald of the kingdom," (1851) is, "The principle which first turned up as the result of proving all things was that the immersion of an individual whose faith was not the faith of the gospel was a valueless immersion—it was not Christian baptism. This principle has been a leading one in plied, if not expressed in all the Editor's teaching from 1834 to 1850. From this he has never swerved and cannot possibly depart as long as conscience holds her own" p. 2

J. CAUDLE.

(To be Continued)

Enlightening Every Man.

"The TRUE LIGHT was that which coming into the world, enlightens every man." John i. 9: Diaglott.

A correspondent in Nebraska has requested me to explain in what sense are we to understand our Savior to be the True Light of every man.

I would apply to Christ the expression, "coming into the world." Applying it to "every man" would be quite unusual, but amongst the descriptions of Christ it is frequent. Compare John xii. 46: xvi. 28: xviii. 37: 1 John iv. 9: 1 Tim i. 15; etc.

By his coming into the world "every man"—whether Jew or Gentile—was enlightened in the same general sense that the apostles preached the gospel "to every creature." Mark xvi. 15; Col. i 23. Not that every individual without exception was savingly enlightened, for Christ was in the world, and yet "the world knew him not." Jno. i 10. John came to bear witness in order that "all men" through him might believe on the True Light: but they have not all believed. "For Esaias saith, Lord, who hath believed our report?" John i 7: Rom. x. 16. Our Heavenly Father "maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good," yet the Lord sent not. Mal. v. 4, 5. So "the light of the gospel of the glory of Christ" shines for every man, yet, "because of the blindness of their heart," millions are never savingly enlightened by it, for "their eyes they have closed." 2 Cor. iv. 4: Eph. iv. 18: Mal. viii. 15.

The text affords no ground for the following notions.—

1st. The Quakers' creed that every individual has "a sufficient light within" to save him. If such were the case we might expect idolators and others to be saved by their "light within." But an idolator, however cultured, a destitute of God's Word, "Feedeth on ashes; a deceived heart hath turned him aside, that he cannot deliver his soul, nor say, Is there not a lie in my right hand?" Isa. xliv. 20.

2d. The notion that deceased heathen nations, after being raised from the dead, will be savingly enlightened in the Millennium. The destiny of such heathen is foretold by Paul who says, "As many as have sinned without law shall also perish without law .....in the day when God shall judge the secrets of men by Jesus Christ according to my gospel" Rom. ii. 12, 16. Their sinning is past, as shown by the past tense "have sinned." Their perishing is future as shown by the future tense, "shall also perish."

3d. The notion that none but the once enlightened and baptized will be raised and judged. I once heard a man (blinded by this third error) misquote Rom. ii. 12 as though Paul had said, "As many as have sinned without law will have perished without law." But this would not be "according" to Paul's gospel: and any one perverting that gospel will be "accursed." Gal. i. 7, 8, 9.

These three classes of errorists make extensive use of "the leaven of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees." Luke xii. 1, that is, to prove their tenets

"They quote what texts they are inclined to,
But leave out those they have no mind to."

So did the Pharisees who readily ad-mitted that Christ is Son of David, but cunningly o-mitted that twin truth inscribed alongside of it, namely, that he is also Son of GOD. 2 Sam. vii. 12, 14; Luke i. 32; 35. They had not the honesty of Peter to confess that Jesus, "the Son of man" is also "the Son of God." Matt. xvi. 18, 16.

We should studiously "beware of" any doctrine or "leaven" compounded by the Pharisaic process.

WILEY JONES.

The Triumph of Peace.

The song of the angels at the birth of the Savior, was a prophecy of peace on earth and good-will to men. The good will part has been our constant inheritance from that day to this. The peace has been deferred to the time of the end; when the King of Salem shall have conquered his enemies, and raised the white banner of peace over a redeemed earth, and a saved and rejoicing church. Jesus says, "My peace I give unto you. My peace I leave with you." Yet, it is only in anticipation that we are enabled to rejoice. It is only in hope that we are enclosed to that within the vail. The sword must be unsheathed first; yea the whole armor of God put on, and a vigilant strife kept up against sin during the entire campaign.

Our foes are two fold, flesh and sin, and sins flesh within. We must not yield an inch of ground to either. The one must be put to death, and the other forced to fly, if we would be overcomers at last. We must fight the good fight of faith, to lay hold on eternal life.

A. R. WILSON.

"Well Done, Good and Faithful Servant."

Those are comforting words of the blessed Master, that will fall from his blessed lips in the great day of accounts,—fall upon the ear of the faithful servant who has been faithful to his trust and occupied his time and talents, not in his own way, or simply doing his own work as the world does, but in doing the Master's will, and imitating the noble example in trying to lead some poor souls to Christ. O, brothers and sisters, our dear Savior is soon coming to gather his people to himself, are we ready? are we living and working for him, or for ourselves? The coming day will soon declare it, and tell which side we are on. O that we may be found among the faithful ones is my prayer. Let us awake to our duty, for the time is short and there are some of that have not heard the gospel as it is in its purity. May we be found among the [illegible]

C. THOMPSON

For Our Children.

Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep.

The fire upon the hearth is low,
And there is stillness everywhere;
Like troubled spirits, here and there
The flickering shadows flutter go.
And as the shadows round me creep
A childish treble breaks the gloom,
And soft as dream in darker room
Comes "Now I lay me down to sleep."

And, some how, with that childish prayer
And that sweet treble in my ears,
My thought goes back to distant years
And lingers with a dear one there.
And, as I hear the child's amen
My mother's faith comes back to me,
Crushed all her sad heart seems to be
And mother holds my hands again.

Oh! for an hour in that dear place!
Oh! for the peace of that dear time!
Oh! for that childish trust sublime!
Oh! for a glimpse of mother's face!
Yet, as the shadows round me creep,
I do not seem to be alone,
Sweet angels of that treble tone
And "Now I lay me down to sleep."

—Eugene Field.

The Story of Israel. No. 79.

AS CONNECTED WITH ZACHARIAS AND JESUS.

In our lesson on "The Day of Atonement," we said that our next paper would be about Zacharias and Jesus. We want the little ones, as they go along with us through this great and wonderful book, to keep their eyes all time "fixed upon Jesus." He was "the end of the law" given at Sinai; all those strangely solemn ceremonies, and sacrifices pointed to him as "the Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

Therefore to understand the Old Testament you must keep turning to the New, that you may see the connection between, and how beautifully the one explains the other.

At the time Jesus was born Palestine was divided into three provinces, "Judea by to the south." Its capital was Jerusalem, and in Jerusalem was the temple of the Lord, where all the people came to offer sacrifices, and to hold the solemn feast. In the northern part of Palestine lay the province of Galilee, with its beautiful lake. Between these two provinces lay the district of Samaria. This strip of country had once been the home of the ten tribes of Israel, but they went to worshiping heathen gods, and were carried captive out of their own land, into a region bordering on the Caspian Sea, where the Armenians and Kourds now live. The king who made them captive, colonized their country with his people. And we call this heathen colony, Samaritans. The tribe of Judah lived in Judea, and the tribe of Benjamin in Galilee. Rulers appointed by the great Roman Emperor, Augustus Cesar, were ruling over these provinces. Herod, though an Idumite, was one of these governors. He reigned in Judea. But the Jews still kept up the temple worship, and the priests served in twenty-four divisions, or courses, each course would come to Jerusalem and serve a week, and then go home. Every course was divided into seven classes, one class served one day, and another the next, and so on, until all had served. Each priest of the class for the day had his part of the service, or worship, set apart to him by lot.

If you remember there was a daily incense offering, morning and evening, on the altar that stood in the Holy Place. It took two priests to perform this service, one carried the incense in a beautiful vessel, and the other some glowing coals of fire in a golden fire pan, from the altar of burnt-sacrifice.

Zacharias, whose story is told us in the first chapter of Luke, lived in these days. He and his wife Elizabeth were very old people, and they had always done right before God. Is that any different, do you think, from doing right before men? I should say "yes," because things that look right to men are sometimes wrong in God's sight. These old people had always "walked in all the commandments, and in all the ordinances of the Lord blameless." They never asked, "Does it matter much whether we believe Jesus is come in the earth or not," or whether the incense is sprinkled on the inside, or outside altar?" Such questions would have been thought the height of blasphemy. For Zacharias was a priest of the course of Abia. When it came time for his class to serve the lot, to offer incense fell upon him. No priest was allowed to perform this service more than once. So there must have been a great many priests. Zacharias dressed himself in his white robes, carried his head, and when the bell sounded, went into the Holy Place, for the sacrifices unseemly to be burned, and the incense, that was the symbol of the prayers of the people must go before.

The helper of Zacharias placed the coals on the altar, and went out. He was left alone. The incense was emptied on the coals, and Zacharias prayed: all the people were praying outside. Some of them were looking for the dear Savior to come. They longed for deliverance. The wicked Parthians had destroyed so many of their cities and killed their people. The Samaritans and wild Edomites had filled their capitol city with pillage and slaughter. A great earthquake had killed 10,000. Herod was a cruel ruler. They thought if the Savior came, he would be their King, and they would be saved from all their enemies. Zacharias and his wife must have believed these things. We think so, because he was shown great favor from God. While the people were praying, an angel suddenly appeared on the right side of the altar of incense. Zacharias was frightened. He must have been asking God to give him a son, who would prepare the way for this coming Savior. For the angel said, "Do not be afraid. Zacharias: God has heard your prayer; your wife Elizabeth shall bear you a son, and you shall call his name John." "You shall have joy and gladness and many shall rejoice at his birth. For he shall be great in the sight of the Lord," etc. You must read the rest for yourselves, for this dear child was to be a wonderful man. He was to make the people ready for the Lord. Zacharias doubted, after all, whether his prayer would be answered or not: and the great angel whose name was Gabriel, told him that because he did not believe, he should be dumb until the thing promised had come to pass.

All this time the people were wondering why Zacharias staid so long in the temple. The incense could not be laid on the altar until he came out, nor could they go home until he had blessed them. They were trembling lest something dreadful had happened. And when he came out he could not speak: he could serve no more in his course: he could give them no blessing: he could not even dismiss them. He told them by signs what had happened, and went home to Hebron. The people could not imagine what it all meant. Their priests smitten with dumbness! I wonder if Zacharias knew that enforced silence of his was a sign of? Can the little ones guess? The law given at Sinai had been talking to the children of Israel and Judah a long time. It stopped talking to Israel, when they became idol-worshippers. They had broken the covenant that bound them to God, and were not his people. They were like a wife, who forsakes her husband, and he let them be carried off and be called "Gentiles." But the law kept on talking to Judah. It was all this time talking of Jesus. It was the "schoolmaster that was to bring them to Christ." All those sacrifices, the shed blood, the incense the priesthood, that stood between the people and God were object lessons of Jesus. And now Jesus was going to come and that schoolmaster would be needed no more; he would stop talking; he would be dumb. The people must go to another teacher; they must learn other lessons; they must come under another Covenant. The Sinai Covenant will vanish away. They will have no need of sacrifices of slain animals, for Jesus will be their sacrifice; there will be no need of priests to mediate for them, for Jesus will be their Mediator. The Passover will end, for Christ is our Passover. No feast of first fruits, for Christ is the first fruits unto God of the New Creation. No feast of Ingathering, for Christ is to bring about that great harvest of rejoicing at the end of the gospel age; no great day of atonement every year, (or Jesus will go into the Holiest Place of all, into heaven itself, to make atonement for them.

All came to pass just as the angel had said. John, the messenger, that was to go before and tell the people that Jesus was coming, was born. And not long afterward, the Savior's birth at Bethlehem, took place. Many believed the beautiful story that was told by the wilderness prophet, were baptized into the faith of a coming Savior, and were ready to go into the school of Jesus when he began to teach. He did not keep school very long, only about a year. Then he was put to death, raised from the grave, and went up to his Father in heaven. He has been the High Priest of the people ever since. It is in his name that we come to God and are forgiven.

"The Marvel from Sinai to Canaan" will be our next lesson.

AUNTIE WISE.

I would not give much for your religion unless it can be seen. Lampads not talk, but they do shine. A lighthouse sounds no drum, it beats no gong; and yet, far over the water its friendly spark is seen by the mariner. So let your actions shine out your religion; let the main sermon of your life be illustrated by all your conduct, and it shall not fail to be illustrious.—Spurgeon.

There is One who cannot be deceived. He sees through our prayers and under our broad phylacteries. He looketh upon the heart—he trieth the reins. Though we make our own nest in the highest clefts, yet will he bring us down. At the sounding of the resurrection there will be a shaking off of gold dust and flint; men will come out of their graves and blush when they read their own epitaphs. Then shall we see face to face and know as we are known. The play will be over, the footlights out, the costumes laid away, the playhouses shut. No more acting! We shall stand forevermore in the clear light of God.—David J. Burrell, D. D.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of no things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints of our ages with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel, the literal resurrection of the dead, the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Upon a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and faith in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, (pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, IND. APRIL 27, 1898.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Marshall, Co., Ind."

Remittance should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk. money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertized in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

WE have received $1.25 from Blairsburg, Iowa, with no name given. Will you please send us the name.

BROTHER RAMSEY expects to be in Plymouth on Sunday, May 8th. We hope for a good meeting, and to be strengthened by his being with us.

SISTER Huldah Bennett writes thus: Editor Restitution:

"I do wish some of the preaching brethren would come to Skiatook, I. T. An able brother—one that has on the whole armor of God. I think much good could be done." We hope that some one will answer this call.

A CONTEMPORARY Journal states that during the last three weeks nine communications have been received from Hebrews in Russia, and each one shows there is among the Jews in Russia a decided spiritual movement towards the person of the Lord Jesus; and adds that the desire for Christian literature in that land is simply enormous.

"NATHANIEL WEST says:—"Tholuck was only right when saying, "The idea that the perfected kingdom of Christ is to be transferred to heaven is properly a modern notion. According to Paul and the Revelation to John, the kingdom of God is to be placed on earth, in so far that this itself has part in the universal transformation."

PROF. Totten says, "In our opinion France is going to pieces as a republic. The Zola trial and conviction prove that its army and judiciary are arrayed and united against "Justice" as such; and her people are anti-Semitic, as in Austria or Germany. Were I a Rothschild, I would transfer all my funds to London or America and leave Europe to her fate—Armageddon."

A SEMI-official organ of the Holy See says it sees signs of the justice of God at work in the anti-Semitic movements and manias, to prevent a deicide race, which had rejected heavenly blessings from making off with all the blessings of earth. The people who do the pillering and the killing are only an unconscious instrument in the wonder-working hand of God; It is a supernatural and sublime punishment wrought without human will, though with human hands. We are wondering if the editor ever read the words of the Spirit in Zech. i. 14, 15, "Thus saith the Lord of hosts, I am jealous for Jerusalem and for Zion with a great jealousy; and I am sore displeased with the Gentiles that are at ease: for I was but a little displeased and they helped forward the afflictions; therefore thus saith the Lord I am returned to Jerusalem with mercies," etc.

Now It Is War.

Since the sinking of the Warship Maine in Havana harbor the United States and Spain have each endeavored with their utmost energy to prepare for war. The cruelties of Spain in her dealings with Cuba and the sinking of the vessel, her refusal to stop the one and make amends for the other, have at last resulted in formal declarations of war by both countries. The President gave Congress the communication informing it that war existed and had been active from the date of April 21, 1898, and war was accordingly declared. The United States warships have blockaded Havana and other Cuban ports, some few trading vessels have been taken, fortifications have been placed to guard every American port, and every available ship has been prepared and others are being made ready with a rapidity that only "Yankee" energy ever displayed. President McKinley has called not only the regular army, but for State militia to the number of 125,000 men. Congress has furnished money by the million, and it looks as if there was to be a gigantic struggle very soon.

Spain on her side has strained every nerve to get all ready, and has sent her ships to sea with all the engines of destruction that are known in this age. She proposes to battle to the death if need-be. She has tried to engage the other nations of Europe with her, but while she will be aided by some in secret, yet openly to one have yet declared for her. Austria and France are both likely to render her all the aid they have to. Russia professes friendship for America, yet every student of the character of nations well knows that this "king of the north" is for herself first and last.

The complications that are likely to arise are so many that to attempt to say how they will work would be unwise, and yet a French paper gives utterance to the following: "This is the first step in an inevitable struggle between the Latin and Anglo-Saxon races, between the Catholic and Protestant religion, between the old and the new civilization." Theides comes to the mind of the prophetic student, will England unite with America? And here we give an extract from a daily paper that will show, as straws, the way the wind blows.

IS AN ALLIANCE PROBABLE?

"An immense amount of interest has been excited in this country by the report that an officer of the American embassy in London has returned to Washington in the interest of an Anglo-American alliance. Ordinarily the arrival of the secretary of the embassy would not be the occasion of remark, but the veil of secrecy that has attended the advent of Mr. White, his close relations with the state department and the report from London that such a proposal is intended by the British government gives the whole affair a most peculiar significance.

As a further indication that Great Britain is attempting to secure closer relations with the United States it may be mentioned that the Spanish officials are about as bitter against the position that England has taken as they are against this country, and yet the British government has done nothing that is not clearly within her province as a neutral power. There can be little doubt that much of the feeling against England that exists in Madrid is inspired by the Spanish minister to St. James, who cannot help seeing the drift of public sentiment in London, even if he is not advised as to the possible import of Mr. White's return to the United States.

Another evidence of the truth of the report is the position of the pro-Spanish press of Paris in discussing the present complications. These papers make no secret of the idea that Great Britain and the United States have a common interest in this war, and that an alliance between the two has been or will be consummated. These papers class this country and England together as "robbers," and threaten them with the direst punishment. This would not, perhaps, be important were it not for the fact that the movement for alliance between the two Anglo-Saxon countries is publicly believed to have proceeded beyond the province of surmise and to have become a feature of international negotiations.

It is not likely that we shall require the active help of any power in Europe for the present, but the moral support of Great Britain would assist us and tend to a speedy termination of hostilities."

England makes no attempt to conceal the fact that she sympathizes with this country. Spain is also likely to have a revolution. The Queen-Regent is a near relative of the Emperor of Austria, and is looked upon by many in Spain as a foreigner, and of course her son, King Alfonso XIII. being only twelve years old can add no strength to her cause. Some want a Dictator chosen in the person of General Weyler, and some of the wealthier classes are looking to Don Carlos to lead an uprising of his followers. We may expect something in the way of modern warfare in the next few days, and whatever the outcome the Church of Jesus Christ can look calmly on, knowing that the finger of God is pointing the way for the nations of earth, and we are but rushing on to the Great Consummation.

Law or Gospel—Which? No. 7.

In continuing our examination of the arguments of the Law Advocates we invite attention to the following:—

21. "The Moral Law was a Law of Liberty." Jas. ii. 12. "The ceremonial Law was a yoke of bondage." Gal. v. 1.

What effrontry to make such assertion to those who have Bibles. Surely this must have been written as instruction to the initiated, and not for the eye of the stranger.

The Moral Law, so-called which sentenced a man to death for picking up sticks on the Sabbath, is called a law of liberty; just think of the willfulness wrapped up in that assertion! If it had said the man who broke the law of the Sabbath should be deprived of the rest and peace and protection and long-life and plenty, etc., to be awarded to keepers of that law in the land of Canaan, and it was for him to choose his own way about it, it could have been called a law of liberty with some reason; but when in addition to that he was immediately stoned to death, we do not see that he had much liberty, except to choose to be stoned rather than not to have the sticks.

In order to show the true inwardness of these last assertions, we ask if any more liberty attached to what is called the Moral Law, than to the Ceremonial? We call for a definite answer! Could one violate any of the provisions of the Law in the Book with impunity? The answer can only be no! Could any one violate a law or command written on the tables of stone, with impunity? The only answer is no. Hence we demand to know what the alleged liberty of the one, and the bondage of the other consisted of? And we think before they have a scriptural answer ready they ought to realize that the assumption of Two Independent Laws, to found a church upon, is a very sandy foundation.

Let us examine the context of Gal. v. 1, to which we are directed for proof that the Ceremonial Law was a yoke of bondage. Yes; sure enough there are the words, the yoke of bondage, but that verse does not say the Ceremonial Law was the yoke; we have to see what has led up to these words, "the yoke of bondage." Of course our readers know that the divisions of the Books into chapters did not occur for many hundreds of years after the New Testament was written, and subjects are often divided in the midst, and this is one of such cases. At verse 21 of the 4th chapter the apostle addresses those who desired to be under the law, tells them

1. That Abraham had two sons.

2. One was by a bondmaid, the other by a freewoman.

3. That he of the bondwoman was born after the flesh (naturally,) but he of the freewoman by promise [of God,—the being post age at the time.]

4. That these things are allegorical of two covenants, the one [covenant] from the Mount Sinai, which gendereth to bondage, which is Agar.

So sure as this is the word of the Spirit here, the covenant from Sinai, not a portion of it, not one of two covenants, but "THE ONE [covenant] from the Mount Sinai" gendereth, [breedeth] bondage.

5. This Mount Sinai [represented by Agar] answereth to Jerusalem which now is, and is in bondage with her people.

6. We know from the life and sayings of Jesus, and the teachings of the apostles that the inhabitants of Jerusalem were in bondage to the whole Sinai Covenant. Only one covenant was given from Sinai.

7. The son of the free woman by promise, represented the other of the two covenants referred to,—the covenant of promise. As plain as words could make it, the son of the bondwoman represented BONDAGE to the Sinai Covenant,—the son of the freewoman represented liberty, under the covenant of promise.

8. The bondage of the Sinai Covenant was a fact,—the then present Jerusalem was in bondage with her children, and would not be set at liberty from the covenant that enslaved them. That was the saddest feature.

9. The above or exalted Jerusalem, had not yet come; the covenant of promise, (which represented the city Abraham looked for) had not yet been fulfilled. It was still the subject of promise, as is evidenced by verse 28, where Paul and his brethren are placed in the Isaac column, and not in the Ishmael column. He says, Now we, brethren, as Isaac was, are the children of promise, not realization. And this noble defender of the gospel, Paul, who in Eph. iv. says there is only one hope,—tells us in Acts xxvi. 6, that his hope was "The hope of the promise made of God unto our Fathers." He was not hoping for anything promised in the Sinai Covenant.

10. The apostle in verse 29 of Gal. iv. shows that it was in the past, i. e. as Ismail persecuted Isaac, so those who adhered to the Sinai Covenant, persecuted those who embraced the covenant of promise.

11. In verse 30 the solemn announcement is made on Scriptural authority, that adherents to the bondage breeding covenant shall not inherit the covenants of promise, or be heir with the freewoman.

12. Verse 31 says, "So then, brethren, we are not children of the bondwoman, but of the free. Could words make it clearer that Paul and his brethren were not in bondage to the Sinai Covenant? And why should they, when by so doing they would lose all claim upon the covenant made 430 years before the Sinai Covenant was added for a time and purpose because of transgressions? And so

13. In verse 1 of chap. v. the very next verse, the apostle says, "Stand fast, therefore [in view of the reason just given, that they were children of promise, and were persecuted by the children of the Law, and that the law adherents should not be heirs with the children of promise.] Stand fast, therefore in the liberty, wherewith Christ has made us free."

What in the name of the Truth set forth in this allegory, had Christ made Paul and his brethren free from, if he had not freed them from the Sinai Covenant that gendered bondage, then words have no meaning. How had Christ freed them from the Sinai law?

1. It was only added till the Seed should come to whom the promises were made [i. e.] Christ had come.

2. Christ had confirmed with his own blood the covenant made with Abraham and brought it into force, or operation: and God demonstrated its force by bringing again from the dead he who was slain for us. Heb. xii. 20.

3. He had perfectly kept the law, which no one else did; and thus by perfect obedience, even to the command to die, as prefigured he would, by sacrifices under the law, he magnified it and made it Honorable.

4. He came to do God's will, because he, (God) had no pleasure in the sacrifices and offerings and burnt-offerings which were offered by the law. Then he said, "Lo I come to do thy will, O, God." [What God's will was, is disclosed in the next words.] He taketh away the first [will or law that offered sacrifices] that he may establish th second [will or testament] by the which [second will] we are sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all .....For by one offering he hath perfected forever them that are sanctified. Heb. x. 9, 10, 14. The points to be noted here, is, that the first will or testament is taken away, the second is established. See v. 9; so that we know now, how Christ made Paul and his brethren free from the Sinai Covenant, or law, or testament, or will,—He took away the first or Sinai Covenant, and established the second by confirming it by the blood of himself.

We now see the force of the exhortation following. Having been made free, stand fast in the liberty, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage,—the Sinai Covenant,—seeing ye are not children of the bondwoman, but of the free.

We claim that the above testimony proves the assertion that the moral law was a law of liberty, is altogether untrue. On the contrary, the Law from Sinai, of which the writing on the tables of stone was a part, gendered to bondage, while the newly confirmed covenant originally made with Abraham, together with the things concerning Jesus Christ set men free from that yoke of bondage.

But we must turn to the testimony of the Spirit in Jas. ii. 12, where our author tells us the Moral Law is "called "a law of liberty." Respecting persons on account of their social position is the evil course corrected in this chapter. "My brethren, have not the ten commandments in respect of persons." Does it read that way? No; have not the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord of glory, with respect of persons."....."Hearken, my beloved brethren, hath not God chosen the poor of this world rich in faith and heirs of the kingdom which he has promised to them that love him; but ye have despised the poor.....If indeed, royal law ye complete, according to the writing, [what writing? Ans.] "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself—ye do well."

Strangely as it may appear our author says the moral law the—ten commandments—are the Royal law, and if we keep that law, we will love our neighbor as ourself. The truth is the command to love our neighbor as ourself was not written on the tables of stone, and yet he who is the Anointed-to-be-King, has declared this command, to love our neighbor, to be greater than any on the tables; and we hold that these facts justify us in saying it is the Royal Law spoken of in James ii. 12, and that the Decalogue is not the Royal law.

This is further proven by what follows: "But if ye have respect to persons, ye commit sin and are convinced [convicted] of the law as transgressors; for whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all." whether in the Book or on the tables.

Then follows the injunction to so speak, "and so do, as they that shall be judged by the law of liberty." In addition to what we have already said in regard to the law of liberty we may add that we find Jesus saying in John viii. 31, 32, "If ye continue in my Word, then are ye my disciples indeed: and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free..... "If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed." To be free is to have liberty. And Gal. v. 13 says, "For, brethren, ye have been called unto liberty.—only use not liberty [from the law, Gal. v. 1,] for an occasion to the flesh, but by love serve one another," [instead of serving because commanded to serve.] Following this is the injunction to "walk in the Spirit;" and "But if ye be led of the Spirit ye are not under law."

It is now time to decide what the law of liberty is, by which the brethren of James are to be judged. Jas. ii. 12 In chapter i. 18, we learn that God had begotten them with the Word of Truth. What Word of Truth could this be but the gospel of the kingdom which Jesus said should be preached in all the world? Matt. xxiv. 14; and which was styled by Paul the gospel of Christ, the gospel Christ himself preached, and which he declares to be the power God employs to save people, see Rom. i. 16? And the 5th verse of Jas. ii. shows it was this word of the kingdom his brethren had believed, and had been begotten to a hope of, and become heirs to.

Yes; it was the good news that the Anointed Jesus, the heir to David's throne, had been raised from the dead to occupy that seat of authority and had obtained power and authority to raise all believers to reign forever with him, and that repentance and remission of sin was preached in his name. This is what begat thousands at Pentecost, and is the begetting agent still.

It is this gospel of Christ which makes men amenable to judgment. Responsibility is the basis of judgment with God, for we find Jesus saying of those who had heard his message of love from God respecting life everlasting in the coming kingdom,—"He that rejecteth me and receiveth not my words hath one that judgeth him; [that is, God, because, as verses 49, 50 show, God commanded him what to say, so he adds:] The word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day." So we have certainly ascertained what the Law of Liberty is which James intimates shall judge his brethren, viz., The word of the kingdom Jesus preached; in other words the gospel invitation. Said he of those whom he had invited, "If I had not come and spoken unto them, they had not had sin; but now they have no cloak for their sin."

We think it has been abundantly proven by the Word of the Spirit that James' brethren will not be judged by the so-called Moral Law as claimed, neither will any one else. So sure as that Hebrews ii. 2 contains the words of the Spirit, every transgression and disobedience of that law RECEIVED A JUST RECOMPENSE OF REWARD! And having served the divine purpose, it was done away.

This confirms what we have said, —that every jot and tittle of it related to the life that now is, and not that which is to come.

Cheap Rates via Vandalia.

The G. A. R. National Encampment at Cincinnati, O., Sept. 5th to 10th.

The Supreme Lodge of K. of P. and Uniform Rank Encampment at Indianapolis, beginning Aug. 30th.

For the above occasions the Vandalia Line will make a rate of One cent per Mile.—T. A. Downs, Agent.

Important Note.

Dear Restitution:

I have received a letter from Sister Heyes, the widow of our late brother, Henry Heyes whom some of us well remember. We met him personally during a visit of a week or more at our house in Plymouth. Our Sister is now in the seventy-eighth year of her age, and without means. Will not the friends of THE RESTITUTION extend a helping hand to her now in the time of her need? I feel sure that they have only to know of the circumstances to open their big hearts, and help with joy and gladness. Will not the churches send something from their poor funds, and will not individuals also send whatever they can spare to assist this aged sister? "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto me." As she is in England some one will have to take charge of the matter, procure drafts, etc., and thus avoid the expense of each one sending separately. I will gladly render this service, and all funds for her use may be sent to me. I will acknowledge the amounts sent in THE RESTITUTION, unless otherwise directed by the donors. Please address me at 41 Seeley Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Cordially thanking you all in advance, I remain your Sister in hope,

MRS. H. V. REED.

[This paper is opposed to publishing appeals for money, as we think that each locality should care for the distressed ones among them. They can know if the case is worthy and when the needed relief is fully furnished. A general appealing leads to injustice and is liable to abuse. Hence we have avoided them. This case is, however, peculiar and as Sister Reed knows all about its needs, she will not suffer any injustice to be done, and we commend the case to those who are able to donate to this aged Sister.—ED.]

Announcements.

The Annual Conference of the Church of God, in Michigan, will be held (D. V.) at Dutton, Kent Co., Thursday evening, June 2, 1898, and continue over the following Sunday. A hearty invitation is extended to all of like precious faith. Ample provision will be made for all visiting brethren. The brethren at Dutton wish that as many as can, could arrange to be there at the first meeting. Dutton is situated on the Michigan Central R. R., ten miles southeast of Grand Rapids. Come with hearts filled with love. Let the one great aim be to cheer and encourage each other on the way, and by so doing better prepare ourselves to overcome the trials and temptations we may have to endure. "Blessed is he whom the Lord when he cometh will find watching," for if we are watching we are also longing and waiting, and if we are longing and waiting, then do we keep ourselves in readiness for the coming of our Lord and Savior.

EMMA JACKMAN, Sec.

Editor Restitution:

The Young People's meeting of the Church of God in Southern Kansas will meet at Crescent school house, near Bitter Creek post office, the 28 and 29 of May. The business meeting will be held Saturday evening. There will be two meetings on Sunday, the one 2.30 and the other at 7.30 P. M. All young people interested in the Truth are invited to be present and prepare papers on the subject, which is "Christianity."

MARY I. BARNER, Sec.

Special Rates via Vandalia Line.

Travelers Protective Association at Muncie, Ind., April 29 and 30, One fare for round trip.

Meeting of Elks at New Orleans, La., May 6 and 8, One fare for the Round trip.

Indiana League of Clubs at Bloomington, Ind., May 10 and 11. One and one-third fare for Round trip.

Knights Templar Convention at Indianapolis, May 13 and 14. One and one-third fare for Round trip.

Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. Convention at Indianapolis, May 16 and 17. One fare for Round trip.

G. A. R. and W. R. C. Encampment at Columbus, Ind., May 16, 17 and 18. One Cent per Mile.

Grand Lodge A. F. and A. M. at Indianapolis, May 23 and 24. One fare for Round trip.

Indiana University Alumni Reunion at Bloomington, Ind., June 10 and 12. One and one-third fare for Round trip.

For full information inquire of T. A. Downs, Agent.

Poetry.

(Affectionately dedicated to R. H. Voss.)

May God be thy Refuge.

May God be thy refuge, dear cousin and friend!
'Tis peace, and 'tis comfort, to know till the end,
Whatever of sorrow the shifting world brings,
All safe are they hidden who rest neath his wing.

May God be thy refuge, when dangers assail,
And luring temptation, is like to prevail!
O cry to thy God! Thy strength he will be,
A fortress, a tower, a helper to thee!

May God be thy refuge! This parting farewell
Breathes faintly the wishes I'm longing to tell.
Hides in it the love, that would rain for thy own
Choose the best and the sweetest that comes from the throne.

May God be thy refuge! These words are a prayer,
That what I hope for my dear cousin may share.
The rest, the rich beauty, the glory of home,
When back to this earth the dear Master has come.

S. ROXANA WIVE.

Communicated.

Who was the Author of Life

A correspondent writes from Los Angeles, California, asking questions about the use of the Greek word zoe—life. I will refer my correspondent to an article written in answer to another, which practically answers his questions.

I would like to offer a thought suggested by the above caption. "Ye denied the holy and righteous one, and KILLED THE AUTHOR OF LIFE."

The word "life," in the above passage, is from zoe. They took life (psuche) away from him who is "the author of (zoe) life." Was he the author of the life they deprived him of? Was he the author of his own existence? Or is he not the author of a HIGHER LIFE than that which they took away from him, when they "KILLED the author of life?" Is there not a difference between the life taken from him, of which life he was not the author, and the life of which he is the author? Was not the first Adam the real author or channel from which he derived the psuche—life, which was taken from him? Is there not a difference, when the New Testament attaches the adjectives aionios—eternal and everlasting, to (he zoe) the life, of which he is the author, but NEVER to (he psuche) the life taken from him? Can reasoning men and scholars observe such a marked difference, and honestly contend that there is no difference between the life taken from him, and the life of which he is the author? In Rom. x., zoe is spoken of as being "life from the dead." The zoe life in its general Biblical use, signifies the resurrection life—"life from the dead." The life to come. I know there are a very few passages which carry a different signification, but these limited exceptions do no more govern the general Scriptural use of the word, than do the minor exceptions to other words, as for instance: We have ruach and pneuma, (spirit) the primary use of which is applicable to "wind, air and breath," yet we find a few exceptions in which the words signify physical man, a person. Now, compare this, with I Cor. xv. 45: "The first man Adam was made a living (psuche) soul"—a person. Now would it be reasonable for a critic to affirm that we have no warrant to draw a distinction between pneuma (spirit), and psuche, (soul) because in some minority exceptions pneuma (spirit) the word is used to signify a person, the same as psuche—soul? We also know that the primary use of nephesh (Heb.) and psuche (Greek), signifies—person and life, and yet, we have an exception, where nephesh is rendered "breath," while the proper and general words used for breath, are ruach and pneuma (spirit). So we see critics do not reason soundly when they say, we have no warrant to draw a difference between psuche and zoe, because a minority correspondence is seen between them, while the general use, between zoe and psuche, is as wide apart, as the East is from the West. To show this, I will give a few passages where the word zoe occurs in the passage quoted, and the same with psuche, and I desire the reader to note specially the difference between the Scripture texts quoted under the head zoe, from those cited under the head psuche.

ZOE.

Rom. ii. 7: "Seek for glory, honor and immortality, eternal life."

Rom. v. 21: "Reign through righteousness unto eternal life."

Rom. vi. 22: "Fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life."

Verse 23: "The gift of God is eternal life."

Luke x. 25: "What shall I do to inherit eternal life?"

Luke xviii. 30: "And in the world to come, everlasting life."

John iii. 15: "Should not perish, but have everlasting life."

John iv. 14: "Well of water springing up into everlasting life."

John vi. 4: "May have everlasting life."

Verse 63: "Thou hast the words of eternal life."

John x. 28: "I give unto them eternal life."

Matt. xix. 16: "What good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life?"

Verse 29: "Shall inherit eternal life."

Gal. vi. 8: "Shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting."

I Tim. i. 16: "Believe on him to life everlasting."

I John iii. 15: "No murderer hath eternal life abiding in him." But he has the psuche.

The above are a few of the passages where the word "life," is from the word zoe.

Now I will give a few passages where the word life is from psuche, that you may see the contrast.

PSUCHE.

Matt. ii. 20: "They are dead which sought the young child's life."

Matt. xx. 28: "To give his life a ransom for many."

Mark iii. 4: "To save life or to kill?"

Mark viii. 35: "Shall lose his life for my sake."

Luke vi. 9: "To save life or destroy."

Verse 56: "Is not come to destroy men's lives."

Luke xii. 22: "The life is more than meat."

Luke xiv. 26. Hate "his own life."

Luke xvii. 33: "Seek to save his life shall lose it."

John x. 11: "The good Shepherd giveth his life for the sheep."

Verse 15: "I lay down my life for the sheep."

John xiii. 37: "I will lay down my life for thy sake."

John xv. 13: "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

Acts xv. 26: "Men that have hazarded their lives for the name of the Lord Jesus Christ."

Acts xx. 10: "Trouble not yourselves for his life is in him."

Verse 24: "Neither count I my life dear unto me."

Acts xxvii. 22: "There shall be no loss of any man's life."

Rom. xi. 3: "They seek my life."

Rev. viii. 9: "Third part of the creatures which were in the sea and had life died."

Now, the above are but a sample of passages that may be given under the heads psuche and zoe, and I am persuaded that any person reading them possessing ordinary perception, can discern a marked difference as to the class of passages cited under their several heads. An editor who recently criticised my use of the word zoe, said it was without Scriptural warrant. Again, this editor says:

"We feel aggrieved when we find such men as Bro. Wilson and Pettingill in his 'Life Everlasting,' drawing these unwarranted distinctions, making us feel like keeping such articles and works in the background, from the view of first class scholars."

He here calls them "UNWARRANTED DISTINCTIONS," and feels like hiding them "from the view of first class scholars." If he would hide them, of course he would not admit of a reply in his paper, although it professes to be open to free investigation.

He need not hide such books and articles "from the view of first class scholars," they cannot be led astray by "unwarranted distinctions," they know whether there is warrant for the distinction or not. He had better hide them from the unlearned, if they must be hid at all. Any person, whether learned, or unlearned, if endowed with ordinary perception, cannot fail to mark a distinction, after reading the above lists of Scripture passages. Read them again, and study over them. I am not at all afraid of God's Word. And again, I would ask, if there is no warrant for distinctions, why do we find the words eternal and everlasting attached to zoe, but NEVER IN ONE INSTANCE to psuche? This is a distinction drawn by inspiration. In the face of this, who dare say it is an "unwarranted distinction?" If there is no distinction, why did Jesus give his psuche—life for his sheep, and his zoe—life to them? When Jesus promised future eternal life on condition of faith and obedience, why did he always use the word zoe, and never psuche? Why did Jesus say "in the come that they might have (zoe) life, if they already had it?

W. H. WILSON.

"Letter to a Friend."

Dear Friend:

I was glad to hear from you, but sorry to hear that you still believe that there is no such thing as death, or that death is the separation of parts. Now I will write, separation of parts instead of death, and see how it sounds. Rom. vi. 23. "The wages of sin is separation of parts." So the righteous suffer the same penalty as the sinner, instead of receiving the gift of God, which is eternal life. Psa. vi. 5. "In separation of parts there is no remembrance of thee," (the Lord) so the separated parts have no memory of God. The separated (dead) praise not the Lord, neither any that go down into silence. Eccles. ix. 5, "The living know that they shall die, but the separated know not anything." So you can see by these Scriptures, that the dead, or separated, as you are pleased to have it, praise not the Lord, and have no memory, and know not anything. Psa. cxlvi. 4, speaking of man says, "His breath goeth forth, he returneth to his earth, in that very day his thoughts perish." You say the thoughts are the immortal part, so according to the Psalmist your immortal part perishes. You, or the Psalmist must be wrong, for immortality cannot perish.

I know that we have to figure it out some way, that people do not die, or we will make the serpent a liar, for he says in Gen. iii. 4, "Ye shall not surely die." You say it makes no difference whether we believe we lay in the grave or not, if we live a Christian life, we will be all right. You talk positive, but fail to give one word of Scripture to substantiate that belief. I believe it makes a vast difference, whether we preach what God told Adam, or whether we preach what the serpent told the woman.

Listen to some of our Savior's words, Matt. xxiv. 14, "This gospel shall be preached in all the world," etc. Take notice, it is not a gospel. Mark xvi. 15-16, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel. he that believeth (that definite gospel) and is baptized, shall be saved." Listen once more, Gal. i. 8, "Though we or an angel from heaven preach any other gospel, than that which we preached unto you, let him be accursed." That don't sound like just anything would do, just so long as we are honest. You say the soul of man is immortal and cannot die, but give no Scripture to prove it. I Thess. v. 21, "Prove all things, hold fast that which is good." Notice what is recorded in James v. 20. "He which converteth the sinner from the error of his way, shall save a soul from death," the part that you say leaves the body at death. Ezek. xviii. 4, "The soul that sinneth, it shall die." Psa. xxxiii. 18-19. "Behold the eye of the Lord is upon them that fear him, upon them that hope in his mercy, to deliver their soul from death," the part that you say leaves the body. Now, if the soul is immortal and immaterial, and death means separation and division, come to divide something that is already immaterial, nothing surely would be the result. I believe that my soul is material, and weighs 135 pounds.

I will give a few of the many reasons why I believe it. Rev. xvi. 3, "And every living soul died in the sea," not on or by the sea. Psa. lxxiv. 19, "O, deliver not the soul of the turtle dove unto the multitude of the wicked." That soul surely was material, and something that the Lord's poor could use for food. Joshua xi. 11, "And they smote all the souls with the edge of the sword, utterly destroying them." Somebody is mistaken again, either you or Joshua, for if the soul was immortal he could not destroy it, and if immaterial he could not have smote it with the sword.

You quote Mark ix. 2-5, and say that is good evidence that there are immortal, disembodied souls, for Peter wanted to make three tabernacles; for Jesus, Moses and Elias. Now, if those tabernacles were bodies for their disembodied souls to live in, (as you say) what became of the body that Jesus had, when he took Peter, James and John up into the high mountain? And don't you think that God would be the one to make new bodies? You say that is plain literal language. Please read the same account in Matt. xvii. 9, "Jesus charged them, saying, tell the vision to no man, until the Son of Man be risen again from the dead."

Your next stronghold is Luke xxiii. 42-43, "And he (the thief) said unto Jesus, Lord remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom." Do you think the thief was perfectly ignorant of what he asked? He asked to be remembered when Jesus came, not now, or when he went. 43rd verse, "And Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, today shalt thou be with me in Paradise." You say I have no right to change the punctuation, so we will leave it where it is, and see if we can get anything out of it for you, or the thief. Luke xxiv. 6, 7, also 34th and 46th verses. The Son of Man, the Lord, and Christ are all names that are used for the part that suffered, and was crucified, laid in the grave three days, rose from the dead, and also the part that the third saw and talked to. Matt. xvii. 23, "And they shall kill him, and the third day he shall be raised again. the same he that was killed." Now, if there was a Christ that was not lain in that new sepulchre for three days after the crucifixion, then we have two Christs: the one that was crucified and laid in the sepulchre was called in John iii. 18, the only begotten Son of God. I have failed to find a record of any other. Mark viii. 31; Acts xvii 3; I Cor. xv. 3-5, 4 verse, "And that he was buried, and that he rose again the third day," the part that was called the Son of Man is the part that was slain. Luke ix. 22. Rev. i. 18. "I am he that liveth and was dead." Now, as we have no record of any other Lord, Christ, or Son of Man, that did go some other place that day, if the punctuation is in the right place we are forced to the conclusion that the sepulchre (or grave) is Paradise. So the thief had just as well have kept still, for he would have been taken there any way. I think it is a good idea for a person to question every belief they have; find the reason for it, and then investigate that reason thoroughly, it is apt to lead one into the truth, of which I am a great lover.

Hoping to hear from you again in the near future, I remain your true friend,

G. W. CALDER.

Obituary

Fell asleep in Jesus at his late residence, in Rome township, Lenawee Co., Mich., on the morning of April 13th, Bro. Wm. Penn Winter, aged 83 years, 1 month and 3 days. Bro. Winter was born at Warren, Pennsylvania, Mar. 4th, 1815. He moved to Adrian, Michigan, in 1833, where he was married to Hannah Rosetta Comstock, in 1838. Their union was dissolved by the death of the wife in 1847, leaving one son, Zina, who survives the father. In the year 1849 he was married to Permelia Comstock, who survives him. To this last union there has been born seven children, three of whom are living, Ida, Harry and Ella. Bro. Winter very early in the Advent movement embraced the doctrine of the second coming of Christ, and subsequently the other kindred truths, as conditional immortality, the restitution of all "things spoken of by the prophets," the resurrection of the dead, Christ's joint reign with his saints and baptism for the remission of sins. His was ever a consistent life, an "epistle known and read of all men," a good neighbor, kind husband and father; ever earnest in his contention for the faith and careful for the feelings of others. He often expressed a desire to live until the coming of the Lord, but it was not so to be. The writer spoke the words of comfort from the mouth of Uz, "And where is now my hope." We laid him with the inhabitants of the "silent city," to await the coming of his Redeemer. He died as he had lived, peaceful and trusting.

L. C. CHASE.

Another old soldier of the cross has yielded to the monster death. On April 7, 1898, at his residence in Madison County, Missouri, Joshua P. Bailey was born Nov. 11, 1815, age 83 years, 4 months and 26 days. He was one of the first settlers in Tipton Co., Ind., near Windfall. From there he moved to Alder, Hardin Co., Iowa, and then to Dade Co., Mo., and from Dade to Madison Co., Mo., where he has lived for 27 years up to his death. He was baptized by old Uncle Fid Plummer, about 50 years ago, into the Church of God; and ever since he has lived a consistent Christian life, believing in the soon coming of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ and kingdom of God, and has been the means of saving others by the distribution of good tracts and THE RESTITUTION. Two years ago while Bro. J. S. Hatch was here in Madison Co. preaching, and baptized four others, Bro. Bailey became dissatisfied with his 3 name baptism, and Bro. Hatch buried him in his liquid grave into the all-saving name of Jesus. Oh, what a sight to see those two old feeble brothers, yet strong in faith, as Bro Hatch led Bro. Bailey with his left hand while the right was uplifted to the all wise Father; both their heads made white by the frost of many winters, of which the angels of heaven would rejoice. The last few weeks that Bro. Bailey lived he was almost in constant prayer. He leaves a wife and 8 children to mourn his loss. But not like others who have no hope, for I do believe that all who live faithful will meet Bro. Bailey at the time Paul speaks of in I Thess. iv. 13 to 17, and help him to sing the glad song John the Revelator speaks of in Rev. v 9-10. May we all strive to be there.

Yours in hope,

P. J. GRAHAM.

Sister E. J. Card died March 16, 1898, near Waterville, Douglass Co., Washington, after a short illness produced by copious bleeding of the nose. Sister Card's maiden name was Hand. She was born in the State of Tenn., Jan. 27, 1831, aged 67 years, 1 month and 20 days. She was married to G. W. Card in March, 1848; crossed the plains to California in 1849, and lived in that State until the year 1886, leaving the old home near Kelseyville, Lake Co., Cal., after having lived there 27 years. She has lived in Washington 11 years. Her husband preceded her in coming under the power of the enemy only a few years. She has left four sons and three daughters. One son lives in San Francisco, Cal., and one daughter who lives in the State of Nevada. The remaining five live near where she died. Sister Card was for many years a member of the Christian Church. About twenty years ago she and her husband attended some series of meetings held by the writer, accepted the doctrines of the Church of God, attached themselves to that Church, and lived devoted Christian lives to the end of their race. The mourning children have strong hope of meeting their parents in the first resurrection. And from the signs now so prominent they believe that great event is near at hand. May we all be prepared for that time. The writer spoke words of consolation to the friends at the funeral. The theme was the second coming of Christ and the resurrection. Till then we bid our Sister adieu.

In hope,

RICHARD CORBALEY.

"Man goeth to his long home and the mourners go about the street." Bro. John F. Wilson died April 7th, 1898, at his home in Blythedale, Mo., surrounded by his family and brethren in the faith. Bro. Wilson was born near Lewisville, Indiana, April 24, 1840. He was raised up in the Quaker faith, moved to Iowa, about 1859, and joined the Christian Church soon after. June 24, 1861, was married to Nancy C. Harrold. Moved to Missouri in 1867, was baptized in the faith of Abraham in 1872, by Bro. R. J. Hill at Ravenna, Mo. Bro. Wilson was the father of twelve children, eight of whom with their mother were at the bedside when he died, the other four preceded their father. I first met Bro. Wilson at Ravenna, Mo., in 1873, and have known him more or less intimately ever since, and have spent many pleasant hours under his roof. He was respected by the community in which he lived as a straight-forward, upright man, and by his brethren as an uncompromising defender of the truth as he saw it. Bro. Wilson died of a disease contracted in the army when a young man, and was unable to work for some time before taking his bed, and then was bedfast for several months, but always zealous for the faith, and met death with the calm resignation of a righteous man. May we all meet him in the kingdom of God.

W. J. ORKE.

The little son of Bro. Geiselman and wife of Stark Co., Ind., departed this life April 12, 1898, aged one year, one month and fourteen days. Thus we see the great enemy holds universal sway over the human family, and one by one it claims us as its victims. Though our eyes may be dim with tears and our voice hoarse with weeping, and we may lift our feeble voices, and our cheek be scorched with tears, still death comes, and one by one we see our little buds plucked from the rosebush to wither and decay. When we see a precious blossom that we tended with such care rudely taken from our bosom, how our hearts almost despair. Oh, mother refrain thy voice from weeping, and thine eyes from shedding tears, for thy work shall be rewarded, and our loved ones shall come again from the land of the enemy. If in this life only we have hope, we are of all men most miserable. The funeral services conducted by the writer, for our lesson Job xiv., text I Cor. xv. 26. The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death.

G. W. SMITH.

The Indiana Conference.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:

The time is drawing near to have another meeting at Antioch, commencing Thursday evening, June 9, 1898, and continuing over Sunday. We trust the brethren will feel an interest and put forth an effort to come and partake of the feast of the words of truth, and help to make the meeting to fully serve its purpose, to build each other up in the most holy faith, and impart strength to withstand the trying times which seem to be so near approaching.

F. L. AUSTIN, Pres.
A. C. ROBERTS, Sec'y.

PROGRAMME FOR THE INDIANA CONFERENCE.

THURSDAY P. M.

7.00 Song Service.
7.15 Salutatory. Israel Roberts.
7.30 Response. F. L. Austin
7.45 Sermon, Heb. x. 24, 25. A. H. Zilmer.

FRIDAY A. M.

9.30 Social Meeting led by Geo. W. Smith.
10.30 Reward of the Faithful. F. C. Myers.
11.30 Meeting Executive Board.

FRIDAY P. M.

1.30 Business Meeting.
2.30 Paper—Upon what things should a Church be united to work harmoniously? A. R. Underwood, followed by Discussion.
7.00 Social Meeting led by Wm. Railsback.
7.30 The Ideal Church. Miss Flora Harris.
8.00 What is True Religion? J. F. Wagoner.

SATURDAY A. M.

9.30 S. S. Session led by D. E. Vanvactor.
9.40 Song Service, and Report of S. S. Delegates.
10.00 Relation of the Church to Sunday School. D. E. Vanvactor.
10.15 Song by Plymouth S. S. pupils.
10.20 Relation of the S. S. to Church. J. H. Willey.
10.35 The S. S. as the Nursery of the Church. Mrs. M. J. Price.
10.50 Song by Argos S. S.
10.55 Paper—How can we Encourage and Retain Young People in Church Work? Miss Mattie Benjamin.
11.10 With what Spirit should Young People work in their Religious Societies and by whom should they be led? Mrs. S. R. Wince.

SATURDAY P. M.

1.30 Social Meeting led by A. Drew.
1.45 Bible Study. W. D. Thompson.
2.00 The One Faith. Chas Fish.
2.35 Our High Priest. F. L. Austin.
7.00 Social Meeting. H. F. Cordill.
7.45 The Hand of God in History, a Gleam of Coming Glory. J. F. Wagoner.

SUNDAY A. M.

9.30 Social Meeting led by J. H. Willey.
10.30 Sermon—Nature of Man, 1st, by Creation; 2nd, by Adoption; 3rd, by Resurrection. A. H. Zilmer.

SUNDAY P. M.

2.30 Communion Service. J. L. Wince.
6.30 Social Meeting led by J. F. Wagoner.
7.30 Second Coming of Christ. F. L. Austin.

It is important that all Sunday Schools appoint delegates, and we hope all will come in the Spirit of the Master. Committee on programme,

J. H. WILLEY.
D. E. VANVACTOR.
A. C. ROBERTS.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

Mrs. A. L. Weatherwax,	.50
H. Shoemaker,	1.00
Mrs. J. P. Graham & Irene Shockey,	2.50
A. P. L.	1.00
J. W. Hardy,	4.50

Let nothing be done through strife or vain glory.

Let no man seek his own, but each another's welfare.

The most irrational ground for unbelief is alleged impossibility.

Our Love Feast.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

I feel it my duty as a follower of the blessed Lord, to testify to his goodness through the love feast column of the dear RESTITUTION. How I enjoy reading the letters from the brothers and the sisters, and I shall consider it a privilege to occupy a short space in this delightful column. I am one who firmly believes in the restitution of all things as spoken by the prophets, and the sooner the Lord comes and restores all things to their former purity and happiness, the better it will be for his people. But let us all remember, we must be faithful to the end, for in due time we shall reap if we faint not. I rejoice to know that the Lord will be with us even "Through the valley of the shadow of death." While I am writing this I am tingering between life and death, "But I will fear no evil for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me." Dear brothers and sisters, pray for me that I may regain my health, and be the means through the Lord of bringing many to Christ.

Yours in the one hope,

P. A. SMILEY.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:

This morning as I write my heart is so full of sadness and sorrow, seeing so much poverty, sickness and sorrow in the world, and then to see the world so completely in darkness and ignorance to any of the ways God has planned, whereby all may be saved and have future happiness in Christ Jesus. And also happiness in this life in spite of poverty and any tribulations that may come. When I see all these things, and so very little that I can do, it causes my heart to cry out to God, to send the dear Jesus who can and will do the great work of restoring. And O, when he comes I do crave an entrance into his dear kingdom, and to have a share in this work, no difference how humble my position may be. Oh, that I may ever be kept unspotted from the world and have on the robe of righteousness and true holiness, when Jesus does come to claim his own, is my heartfelt prayer, and also for the whole church. May it stand blameless in that time, having on the whole armor of God, and be united in the one spirit of Christ, and bonds of true holiness and piety. May God bless you in all things that may be to the honor and glory of his dear name.

Yours in hope of eternal life when Jesus comes,

MRS. MARY A. KING.

Dear Household of Faith:

Yes, that faith that works by love and purifies the heart, and that faith we find spoken of in the Word of God, it is not a mere confession of God's promises, but it is the faith that is exemplified in every day life. Jesus said, "When the Son of Man cometh shall he find faith on the earth?" Today there are multitudes of faith, but I so praise God there is but one faith, one hope, and one immersion, even as we are called in one hope of our calling. This leads me to the thought expressed in Hebrews xii. 7: "Looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith, who for the joy that was set before him, endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God."

This morning Bro. W. H. Wilson spoke of Jesus made perfect through suffering, and it struck my mind very forcibly, what was the cause of his suffering? Was it not because he obeyed his Father, spoke his Father's Word, brought out the hatred of that day, the religious Word, God's own professed children; yet looking unto Jesus again, what do we see but the spirit of love, tenderness and forbearance. Here he has in his own company one who at last betrayed him for thirty pieces of silver; and here is another who so confidently is willing to die for his sake, but could not endure a maid saying that he was one of them. But cursed and denied that he knew the man. Oh! the contrast between the human and the divine. . . . how Christ towers up, to see him by the eye of faith that grand character, a look of that blessed Christ brought tears to that stout hearted Peter, and he wept bitterly, and at his resurrection the blessed Savior mentioned Peter especially, saying, "Go tell Peter I am risen."

Brothers and Sisters, we need to look indeed unto Jesus; that that spirit indeed may be in us. Is it not true, dear ones, a great part of our chastening comes to us on account of disobedience to God; either contracting relationships with those with whom it becomes a snare. Will you not read prayerfully the 11th to the fair in profession. 17th verses inclusive of Heb. xii. Now is there any joy set before us as there was before Jesus? Yes, praise God.

In Rom. viii. 19, "For the earnest expectation of the creature waiteth for the manifestation of the sons of God." Notice it says "sons." Ver. 20. "For the creature was made subject to vanity not willingly, but by reason of him who hath subjected the same in hope." Ver. 21, "Because the creature itself shall also be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God." Ver. 22, "For we know that the whole creation groaneth and travaileth together until now." Ver. 23, "And not only they but ourselves also, which have the first fruits of the spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves, waiting for the adoption, to wit, the redemption of our body." (Please notice in the 19th it says "sons.") Bro. Wilson speaking today spoke of Christ bringing many sons unto glory.

Dear brothers and sisters, run you and I say as Paul did, "We are forgetting those things which are behind, and pressing toward the mark of the high calling of God in Jesus Christ." Hence the necessity of the discipline today and the chastening to be exercised by them that we may become partakers of his holiness, then we will indeed reflect the spirit of Christ.

Yours in the blessed hope,

M. ASLAKSEN.

Dear Restitution:

THE RESTITUTION is all the paper that I take; it does me so much good to read the news and faith of others; it renews my hope in the dear Redeemer. May we grow in favor with our dear Redeemer and in the knowledge of the truth as it is in Christ, and have him renewed in us day by day. May the time soon come when the great King will redeem us poor mortal creatures. Brother Halstead held some meetings here, and two were added to the little band here, which Brother Halstead organized 26 years ago. He is a good teacher of the gospel.

Submitted in love to all the dear ones in Christ,

J. T. BROTHERTON.

Dear Restitution and faithful ones everywhere:

The sorrows and perplexities of 97 are in the past. We should feel impressed with the Psalm that Mrs. Edwards calls to our attention, "Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? or who shall stand in his holy place? He that hath clean hands and a pure heart." And as she adds, "We may have the faith, and a hope, but unless we have clean hands, and a pure heart, it will profit us nothing." Let us keep this continually before us during the year 98. As we shall all have our trials, perhaps not different from the past, as we cannot hope to be free of separations, disappointments and anxious hours over our friends, and every day affairs. But of one thing we can feel assured, that if we but trust and have confidence in him that giveth his beloved sleep, he will give us the living courage.

EMMA C. A. COX.

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing. Said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 20th of April, 1898, providing notice is given through THE RESTITUTION that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all remittances to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 3.0, Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. S. J. Sigler,	$10.00
J. L. Wince,	5.00
F. L. Austin,	10.00
Edgar Hatch,	1.00
Agnes Dilworth,	2.00
Mrs. Mary E. Thompson,	15.00
One who believes that God from little offerings can work out great results.	10.00
A Friend of Truth,	1.00

Friendliness is responsive, loveliness in man or woman is attractive. Raise your aims, your ideals, your actions, your life, and you yourself will rise in the estimation of your fellows. Conform your character to Christ's, and some will look to you, while others give glory to God.

When the wheels of a clock move within, the faces of the dial move without: when the heart of a man is sound in conversion, the life will be not read prayerfully the 11th to the fair in profession.

"Beautiful Winona."—A Delightful Summer Haven.

Winona Lake, Indiana, (formerly Eagle Lake) is an attractive summer haven on the Pennsylvania Lines near Warsaw Indiana. As the site of Winona Assembly and Summer School, has grown into favor very rapidly. Improvements made on the two hundred acres of romantic woodland which stretches nearly two miles along the eastern shore of Winona Lake, a beautiful sheet of water, include all the comforts and conveniences for a highly enjoyable sojourn. Ample facilities are at hand for satisfactory entertainment at reasonable rates at the commodious hotel which adjoins the railway station at the entrance to the grounds, in cosy cottages, or in tents as may be preferred.

Persons who may desire to combine devotion, entertainment and instruction with rest and recreation will find Winona Lake the ideal spot for invigorating both mind and body by instructive entertainment and study and health-giving recreation. The educational work of the Summer School is in charge of well known instructors. The college halls are equipped with all required paraphernalia: the large auditorium in which the assembly meets, one in which prominent lecturers are heard during the season, has a seating capacity of over 3,000. An amphitheatre, race track and other facilities for athletic pastimes are provided. The fishing, bathing and boating are fine, the large fleet of boats being of the best.

The season of 1898 will open May 15th. Commencing on that date excursion tickets with fifteen day limit will be on sale via Pennsylvania Lines. They may be obtained during May, June, July and August. The sale of season excursion tickets will begin June 1st, and continue daily until September 30th. Season excursion tickets will be good returning until October 31st.

Full information about the attractions at "Beautiful Winona," its Assembly and Summer School, etc., will be cheerfully furnished all who address Mr. Sol. C. Dickey, Secretary, Winona Lake, Ind. Inquiries about excursion rates, time of trains, etc., should be addressed to Passenger and Ticket Agents of the Pennsylvania Lines, or to F. Van Dusen, Chief Assistant General Passenger Agent, Pittsburg, Pa. —may 30.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

P. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Patton, Mich.
L. M. Chesebrough, Gobleskeugh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 155 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio.
W. L. Skeels, Schoills, Ore.
E. Hoyt, Box 384, Grand Rapids, Mich.
S. Roxmon Winey, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Rean, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Scirdeville, Ind.
J. W. Niles, Edinboro, Pa.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Chisneville, Ark.
J. J. Cody, Hallbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prime, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kean, 4507, S. X. St. Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Glean, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. H. B. Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Sidell, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Onawkie, Kan.
S. F. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
D. M. Hudler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. G. Huopt, Laurel, Neb.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, Okl'a.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Printzner, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
H. T. Baker, Box 1008 Decorah, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Cottonwood, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Marmont, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy 627 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Steffa, Panama, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 44, Viola, Idaho.
Elder H. M. Williams, Portland, Kan.
R. Wilson, 1006 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
D. T. Halstead, Rensselaer, Ind.
John Poore, 2012 West Corning Ave. Parsons, R. S. Dwiggins, Rensselaer, Ind.

Kansas.

J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 884 Grand Rapids, Mich.

"Many people regard religion very much as they regard small-pox. They desire to have it as light as possible, and are very careful that it does not mark them." Such religion however is not the kind of which James speaks chap. i. 27.

Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness.

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church cor. Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:30 p. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. P. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope 826 Woodland Ave. Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Brethren and sisters and all lovers of truth never left unwelcomed. Come. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and Lake in Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:30 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan st. and will preach ing by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

Church of God at Salem, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00, for Sunday School service. Any brethren passing through the city are cordially invited to meet with us.

The Church of God, at Anderson, S. D. holds services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Modern Hall. Anderson is on the line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R. going west to Aberdeen, thirty miles west thereof.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Icenoe Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton Elder; Sarah Selleck, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. Brethren known to this church, or coming properly endorsed by introductory letter, will be heartily welcomed. At present we meet in the School House on top of the hill; visiters come very near, and very many from Seattle.

The brethren of the Church of God at Beech Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Kessler, or H. L. Lehmann, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, La., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Authon, Elder.

The Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Bowne Hall, on Willoughby Ave., near Broadway.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Cuse.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trask-2.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. All are welcomes.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the Kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okl'a., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles northeast of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet twice a month for the purpose of breaking bread and social services, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth meet with us. Services at 2 o'clock p. m. Lizzie Woods, Winterrhode, Ill., Sec.

The Church of God of Waterville, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Mountainview School House, near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Cathcart, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 p. m. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Gover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Faithfully yours, Grant Mechanor.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays in each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver, Pastor.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1231, Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio, where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co. Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood 11 miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 11:00 a. m. Sunday, and 3:00 Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

Presents for Friends

Here is what one of our brother brethren says of "The Love of the Kingdom" besides it binding with edition of one hundred pages "Wonders" one of "Daily Lessons" and one of "Honoring the Son," all for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

Write J. . . Marion, Ohio.

All trains arrive at and depart from Union Passenger Station, Van Buren St., one square. Call for rates, tickets, sleeping car reservations, etc. Time tables, maps and folders free on application to Drawing Room Sleeping Cars, Dining Cars and Cafe Cars on all through trains. Meals are served a la carte. Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at reasonable rates. Baggage checked from hotels and residences by our transfer agents. Ask ticket agents for tickets via Nickel Plate Road. You can save money by so doing. Rates as low as by other lines. Time as quick as the fastest. Service unexcelled. For rates and full information, address C. P. Dilworth, P. Hennig, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agent.

Pennsylvania Lines.

Schedule of Passenger Trains Central Time.

Westward.	No. 18	No. 20	No. 8	No. 6
Pittsburgh, lv.	6 30	1 35	3 55	10 50
Alliance, ar.	9 05	4 05	6 30	1 20
Canton, "	9 50	4 50	7 15	2 05
Mass. Junc., "	10 25	5 30	7 50	2 40
Wooster, "	11 00	5 50	8 25	3 15
Mansfield, "	11 50	6 35	9 10	4 00
Crestline, "	12 35	7 20	9 55	4 45
Bucyrus, "	12 50	7 35	10 10	5 00
Leipsic, "	1 20	8 05	10 45	5 30
Van Wert, "	2 05	8 50		6 15
Ft Wayne, "	4 35	11 20	1 15	8 45
Arcola, "		11 31		8 54
Columbia City, "	4 53	11 50		9 12
Larwill, "		11 57		9 19
Pierceton, "		12 04		9 26
North Lake, "		12 12		9 34
Warsaw, "	5 30	12 45		10 05
Etna Green, "		12 52		10 12
Bourbon, "		1 00		10 20
Bremen, "		1 10		10 30
Plymouth, "	5 40	1 20		10 40
Robertson, "		1 30		10 50
Grovertown, "		1 35		10 55
Hamlet, "		1 40		11 00
Bucks, "		1 45		11 05
Donnie, "		1 50		11 10
Wanatah, "	7 02	2 10		11 30
Valparaiso, "	7 21	2 30		11 50
Wheeler, "		2 37		11 57
Hobart, "		2 44		12 04
Lowell, "		2 51		12 11
Clarke, "		2 58		12 18
Chicago, ar.	9 00	4 50	5 00	12 15

Eastward.	No. 19	No. 21	No. 7	No. 5
Chicago, lv.	7 00	3 00		12 15
Clarke, "	7 33	3 37		12 53
Hobart, "	7 45	3 49		1 05
Wheeler, "	7 52	3 56		1 12
Valparaiso, "	8 04	4 07	5 00	1 24
Wanatah, "	8 22	4 25	5 18	1 42
Donnie, "	8 37	4 40	5 33	1 57
Bucks, "	8 42	4 45	5 38	2 02
Hamlet, "	8 47	4 50	5 43	2 07
Grovertown, "	8 52	4 55	5 48	2 12
Tiocsa, "	8 57	5 00	5 53	2 17
Bourbon, "	9 05	5 08	6 01	2 25
Etna Green, "	9 12	5 15	6 08	2 32
Warsaw, "	9 20	5 23	6 16	2 40
North Lake, "	9 53	5 56	6 49	3 13
Pierceton, "	9 59	6 02	6 55	3 19
Larwill, "	10 06	6 09	7 02	3 26
Columbia City, "	10 23	6 26	7 19	3 43
Arcola, "	10 30	6 33	7 26	3 50
Ft Wayne, ar.	10 50	6 50	7 45	4 10
Van Wert, "	1 10	9 10	10 05	6 30
Leipsic, "	1 55	9 55	10 50	7 15
Bucyrus, "	2 10	10 10	11 05	7 30
Crestline, ar.	2 35	10 35	11 30	7 55
Mansfield, "	3 20	11 20	12 15	8 40
Wooster, "	3 55	11 55	12 50	9 15
Massillon, "	4 21	12 21	1 16	9 41
Canton, "	4 55	12 55	1 50	10 15
Alliance, ar.	5 40	1 40	2 35	11 00
Pittsburgh, "	8 15	4 15	5 10	1 35

L. P. DEREE, Gen'l Manager. E. A. FORD, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

KISS-F Pittsburgh, Penn'a.

For time cards, rates of fare, through tickets, baggage checks, and further information regarding the routing of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

VANDALIA TIME CARD.

In effect Dec. 5, 1897.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.
No. 6, Ex. Sun. For St. Joseph	12:08pm
No. 8, " " "	10:11pm
GOING SOUTH.
No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute	5:33a m
No. 3, " " "	12:43pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars etc., address T. A. Bowers, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. Ford,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as New Year present for 1898. The cost is only three cents a week.

Books and Tract List.

A LETTER TO A FRIEND.

This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. Many of our readers already know of the good that has been accomplished through its circulation. 10 cents each.

FUTURE PROBATION.

Is there a future probation? A 150 page pamphlet by Wm. Hicks Moncrieff. We have a few copies only and will send them post paid for ten cents per copy.

GOOD THINGS OF THE KINGDOM TO COME.

This tract contains 12 large size pages, and is a reprint of a work issued seventy years ago. It is clear and concise. Sent free, 5 cts each or 30 for $1.00.

THE COMING NATION.

A Sermon by H. A. Read. Conclusively sets forth the fact that our Nation will be the nation referred to in Psalms, with the [illegible] pages. 10 cts each or 2 cts each.

[illegible] Years Ago. Written some years ago by Mary [illegible]. Price, post paid, 10 cts each or 3 cts each.

[illegible] Proof. A Sermon by H. A. Read on Antichrist. Price, 5 cts each, or 30 copies for $1.00.

[illegible] Proposed to Test Christianity. A book by [illegible]. Price, 10 cts each, or 3 cts each, or 25 cts for 12.

Where Do the Dead Sleep. These are Bible readings in answer to this question. A 32-page tract 2 cts each or 15 cts per dozen.

[illegible] A Bible account of this place with [illegible] Cents. Ten copies for 25 cents.

The Gospel of the Kingdom. This represents [illegible] and proof texts are given. Ten cents each.

The Devil Dead and Plain Truths. The two are sold 2 [illegible] Complete for 10 cents. "Second Message to the World of God," by H. V. [illegible] contained in the two. 2 cts each or 15 cts per dozen.

A Bible for Beginners, Plymouth, Ind.

Popular Lectures by M. Jobl'n.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory, and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O

Aids to Bible-Study and Mission-Work.

1. The gospel of the Kingdom, avocated in a series of Ten discourses. A volume of 283 pages. Cloth 25c. a Leatherboard beautifully embossed and gilt edged $1.00. 2. Twelve Words or the true meanings of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptable, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as gathered from their uses in the Holy Scriptures. A Tract of 40 pages 10cts a copy. Intended as a substitute for and an improvement on the same writer's Key-Words. 3. The gospel of the Kingdom. An 8-page double column tract 10cts. per dozen; 75cts. per hundred. 4. Who are led by the Spirit? A 4-page tract 25cts per hundred. 5. Seeking and Finding. A 4-page tract 25cts. per hundred. 6. Honouring the Son. An 8-page tract 25cts per dozen. 7. Early Lessons, 30 pages 10cts. copy. Suitable for old or young.

Written and for sale by WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

Notice.

WILL our friends please remember that we do not have the books and tracts at this office that are advertized by Brother Joblin, or Brother Wiley Jones. Do not send to this office for them, but send to their address as given in the advertisement. This will save both trouble and delay. PLEASE REMEMBER.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

The Restitution.

—PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY—
A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher
—FOR THE—
CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

Undoing.

There was chance for loving service
We did not improve when then.
There were messages for saying,
We neglected to go.

There was a plea we would not hearken.
"Mid [illegible]
But I [illegible]
Till there was none to hear.

Yet I shall have a welcome
With no echo of regret,
Nor know I failed my Lord,
And passed Him unaware.

Communicated.

The Pre-existence of Jesus, the Christ, before his Manifestation as the Babe of Bethlehem.

In the Bible account of the creation we are informed that "God created man in his own image." Gen. i. 27. And again, "The Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul." Gen. ii. 7. The marginal reference shows that the "breath of life" was the breath of lives and that "Living soul" means a living being, so that the immortal soul doctrine is not Scriptural. On the contrary, it is a philosophy not to be sought for in Scripture as admitted by Dr. Watt in his essay on the Separate.

God's purpose in creating Adam was that he might glorify him and enjoy him forever. But by the interposition of the devil, Adam disobeyed God, and as a result death followed. The pronouncement of God for Adam's sin was, "Dust thou art, and to dust thou shalt return."

By genealogy we find recorded in Luke iii. 38, that Adam who was created in the image of God was his son, and Adam, the son of God was the father of Seth, etc. Thus proving that the created Adam was made in God's own image, and not the breath of life, which was breathed into his nostrils. Hence when he sinned God said, "Dust thou art and to dust thou shalt return."

But God's purpose in creating man was not to be defeated. The man whom he created brought death upon himself and his seed; yet the wisdom and love of God devised a plan of redemption, and this mystery is unveiled in the 8th chap. of Prov., but particularly in the 31st verse, where it is recorded concerning the wisdom of God, "Rejoicing in the habitable part of his earth; and my delights were with the sons of men." It was impossible therefore for God to allow the "sons of men to perish;" hence immediately after the fall the promise is given that the Seed of the Woman should bruise the Serpent's head.

The mystery of redemption was only dimly revealed before the birth of our Savior. But in the fulness of time "God sent forth his Son made of a woman made under the law." Gal. iv. 4. The first Adam was God's Son by creation; but the second Adam is begotten by the Word of his power. In the gospel by John i. we read. "In the beginning was the Word and the Word was with God, and the Word was God * * All things were made by him; and without him was not anything made that was made." In the beginning God and the Word were inseparable The Word was the executive power by which "All things were made." Therefore when God the Father purposed to manifest himself otherwise than by his creative works; his Word went forth as recorded by Isa. vii. 14, "Behold a virgin shall conceive and bear a son and shall call his name Immanuel." And again Psa. ii. 7, "Thou art my son, this day have I begotten thee." Here we see that the same Word which said, "Let there be light" was the power by which the virgin conceived, hence when she bore a son he was begotten, not created; yet the Son of Man as the Seed of the Woman. In this manner Jesus was "made a little lower than the angels." Heb. ii. 9; but with a higher moral character than the descendants of the first Adam not subject to temptation. "Tempted like as we are, yet without sin." In Luke ii. 4, we read, "And the child grew and waxed strong in Spirit." Here we find conditions of growth which warrant us in believing that physically his growth was like any other child under like favorable circumstances. But there is a difference in the spiritual power manifested according as the child grew and waxed strong in spirit which go to prove that the child which "grew and waxed strong in spirit" was not God the Almighty Father, but the begotten of the Father. This is further illustrated by the Prophet Isa. xlii "I have put my spirit upon him." vi 2. "The Spirit of the Lord shall rest upon him." And many other passages equally clear and comprehensive. The teaching of the creeds in our opinion are misleading and tend to confuse when they allege that the soul is as eternal as God the Father. The very term soul implies succession and should teach us that in some things at least natural laws are in the spiritual world. We find recorded in Scripture that the Lamb was slain before the foundation of the world. Also "Behold I will send my messenger and he will prepare the way for me." Mal. iii. But we are not to infer from these passages that either the Lamb or the Messenger literally existed in heaven, and of course no intelligent person does. Why then should we persist in dogmatizing that Jesus the Christ existed in heaven before he was born? It is only when we consider the wisdom of God as recorded in the 8th chap. of Prov. in connection with the Word of God as his executive power that we can form any conception of the mystery of Christ's birth into this world. God is invisible and his Word was his executive power and continued to be such until the virgin conceived. But when the Word was made flesh a transformation took place and the Word of God no longer continues his executive power, for Jesus says "All power is given unto me in heaven and in the earth." Matt. xxviii. 18.

Our Savior's humanity is further proven by his being subject to temptation in the wilderness forty days. If Satan had succeeded natural death would have followed, and the whole human race would have been doomed. But Jesus resisted all temptations, and therefore attained to perfection preceding immortality, by his pure and sinless life. Consequently he never would have died a natural death; which fact was not unknown to himself. Hence he offered himself as a sacrifice pure and holy. "Without blemish or without spot * * Who by him do believe in God that raised him up from the dead and gave him glory; that your faith and hope might be in God." Because he was obedient unto death, even the death of the cross. He became "The end of the law for righteousness to every one that believeth." Rom. x. 4. The first covenant is made away with that he "may establish the second." Heb. x. 9. The sacrifice made by our Savior was voluntary and altogether prompted by love; a love inherited of God and co-eternal with God as declared by the wisdom of God in Prov. viii. 31. Therefore God the Father says, "Ask of me and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possessions." When suffering on the cross he exclaimed "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me." Thus clearly manifesting his humanity and realizing as he never did before a separation between himself and his Father, which proves his humanity; notwithstanding his being divinely begotten, by the Word of God distinguishing between the second Adam, who was begotten, and the first Adam, who was created from the dust of the ground.

Jesus poured out his soul unto death. But his soul was not left in hades—or the grave. It was impossible that death could hold him. For he did no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth. Therefore he was "Declared to be the Son of God according to the Spirit of holiness by the dead." Rom. i

It was by the resurrection from the dead that our Savior was declared to be the Son of God. His mysterious birth, and his holy life and miracles only would not be sufficient. But when God raised him from the dead, and he manifested himself alive as conqueror over death and the grave. His Sonship was declared. He is declared to be the Son of God accepting to the Spirit of holiness. And having ascended to the right hand of the Majesty on high, he becomes the intercessor until he comes again. For the believers are to hope for his second coming, as recorded in Phil iii. 20-21, as follows. "For our conversation is in heaven from whence also we look for the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ. Who shall change our vile body that it may be fashioned like his glorious body, according to the working whereby he is able even to subdue all things to himself." From the foregoing passages from Holy Scripture and many others equally clear, I state it as my conviction, that our Savior did not exist as a separate part of God, the Father until the Word was made flesh by the power of God, and by the mysterious conception and birth by the virgin Mary. That Jesus was separate from God when suffering on the cross. That he died and rose again, and is now alive forevermore, will come again and raise the righteous, and immortalize his saints, who through him will receive eternal life. That when all things are subdued, the Son himself will become subject to the Father, that God may be all in all. "That they all may be one as thou Father art in me and I in thee, that they may also be one in us that the world may believe that thou hast sent me." Here we find that as God and his begotten Son are one, so also are the believers one in Christ. This is also a mystery which can only be realized in future glory when we shall see face to face. Now remaineth faith, hope and charity, but the greatest of these is charity.

A BIBLE STUDENT.

The Gospel Recovered. No. 10.

JOHN THOMAS, M. D., 1832 to 1847, CONTINUED.

The period here indicated occupies in "Life and work" by R. Roberts, 230 pages out of 317 of which it consists. The remainder covers the subsequent period of the Doctor's life of twenty-four years. A few comparatively brief extracts must suffice for the purpose to be served by this series of papers.

For fifteen years subsequent to 1832, the Doctor continued to be connected with the "Reformation." It has been mentioned that he published in 1834 an article on Anabaptism, advocating the re-immersion of persons whose faith was defective at their previous immersion. Mr. Campbell opposed this in his "Harbinger" although in certain cases he practiced re-immersion himself. What the Doctor wrote was not allowed to appear in the "Harbinger." The Doctor published four letters to Mr. C. occupying twenty pages of small print, besides a long letter to the church at Baltimore.

Later on (December 1835) the Doctor, feeling the responsibilities of editorship in his new position, and being expected to furnish answers to correspondents on Bible subjects, published a list of 34 questions with the heading "Information Wanted." These questions were chiefly concerning the nature of man, embracing the immortality of the soul, the resurrection of the dead, etc. Questions 14 and 17 touch the question of amenability to judgment of certain classes of persons, a subject which within recent years has been the occasion of a description of fellowship among certain believers calling themselves by the name Christadelphian. It is important to note that questions 6, 26, 27, 28 indicate an approach to a Scriptural knowledge on the part of the editor concerning God.

It was, however, the non-immortality of the soul which excited the greatest amount of controversy. The editor of the Millennial Harbinger was much opposed to the idea of the non-immortality of the soul. He did not hesitate to refer to the Doctor as a "materialist" and as of "no soul mensuration," etc. The Doctor on the other hand, pled the favorite text of Mr Campbell "Prove all things," etc. complained of him as assuming to be "arbitrator as to what may or may not be discussed" in 23 "Life and Work."

This controversy on immortality ultimately led (in 1838) to an attempt being made by the mutual friends of both editors to bring about an agreement between them. There was a three days' debate and a three hours' private conversation, between the two editors. The friends drew up a resolution which they recommended for adoption, the substance of which was that the Doctor was recommended to discontinue the discussion of certain things in relation to the mortality of man." Thus the Doctor agreed to, but he contends that the certain things referred to, being regarding the non resurrection of infants, idiots, and pagans; do not affect the real issue, which is, he says—re immersion and the absolute necessity of the natural man."

We have from the Doctor's own pen, an account of his labors from 1831 to 1847, in connection with the various periodicals he issued during the period mentioned. In the "Herald of the Kingdom," Vol. I. p. p. 1-4, the editor says, "Since 1834 the Editor of this paper has published 11 or 12 volumes of periodical numbers. Six were styled the "Apostolic Advocate," one the "Investigator," and five the "Herald of the Future Age." The first of these was to advocate what he then supposed to be the doctrine of the Apostles, under the impression that the New Testament, as expounded by certain writers, was a sufficient rule or measure of faith and practice. But in process of time he perceived that this impression was not made upon his mind by the Scriptures of truth. From the study of these he discovered that the measure of a man's faith was exceedingly defective, which did not embrace an intelligent belief of the Old Testament as well. The words of the Apostle to the Gentiles supposed in his ears that he "testified to the people and their rulers, saying none other things than those which the prophets and Moses did say should come." Acts xxvi. 22. * * * The paper was accordingly named the "Apostolic Advocate and Prophetic Interpreter." This went on till 1839.

Coming later to know from the Scriptures the Age to Come, and the necessity of a resurrection from the dead to inherit it, he says, "To advocate the claims of this Age.....the editor recommenced his literary labors, and bestowed upon the periodical devoted to it the name of the "Herald of the Future Age." He was the more induced to designate it by this title, because he believed that the Age was at hand or fast approaching. If he had thought that it was far off, he would not have styled it the Herald of that Age.....He therefore heralded forth that announcement though upon different principles from the 'Cry' that was then sounding throughout the land."

It would seem from this latter statement that the Second Advent Message with its extreme urgency had some influence in producing on the Doctor's mind the reasons he here gives for giving his periodical the name of the "Herald of the Future Age. William Miller was in the field as early as 1831, and the movement continued for at least 12 years to be prosecuted vigorously.

The extracts just given carry us forward to March, 1847. In the same article the Doctor says, "His faith had now attained an amplitude it had not possessed before. It embraced the hope of God's calling to his kingdom and glory in the name of Jesus as the future Lord and Sovereign of the world. He now perceived what the faith of the gospel was that was necessary to constitute an immersion Christian baptism. It was nothing less than the gospel of the kingdom of God and name of Jesus as the Christ, and he discovered accordingly that if a man would inherit that Kingdom he must believe with an honest and good heart the things concerning it. It was not simply a Future Age of glory, but it was a "kingdom, glory, and dominion in that age with honor and immortality" that were the glad tidings of the truth as it is in Jesus." To become a joint-heir with him of this kingdom the editor was immersed in 1847.

The Doctor adds, "Here is a thousand-fold more than I ever observed the gospel himself, he forthwith commenced its announcement to others in the United States, and after words in Britain. Thousands upon thousands have loved the joy felt and during the two years that are past and if it be God's will that it should be still further proclaimed in these States the Editor holds himself in readiness to do it to the full extent of the means afforded him."

J. CAMERON.

(To be Continued.)

Selected.

Who the Carlists are Claims on which They Base their Present Pretensions to the Spanish Throne.

The talk of Carlists rising in Spain, and particularly the rumor that the person known as Don Jaime de Bourbon proposes to put himself at the head of the Carlist party, may incite a curiosity in some to know who the Carlists are and what they stand for in Spain. Ferdinand V., who came to the throne of Spain after the earth had settled from the Napoleonic earthquake, by his fourth wife, married Maria Christina, daughter of the King of Naples, a sister of the Duchess de Berri and niece of Queen Marie Amelia, wife of King Louis Philippe of France. Ferdinand, always a miserable creature, like most Spanish monarchs, became more miserable after his fourth marriage. He fell completely under the dominion of his handsome, energetic, ambitious, and thoroughly unprincipled wife, says the Kansas City Star.

Queen Maria Christina was determined that the crown of Spain should descend to her family. But governing the desire was the decree of Philip V., which had been a law in Spain for 120 years and which declared that no woman could rule in Spain where there lived a male descendant of Philip IV. In default of male heirs from the marriage of Ferdinand V. and Maria Christina, the lawful successor under the decree of Philip V. was Don Carlos, Ferdinand's brother. As it turned out the first child born to this couple was a girl, Isabella, who, fourteen months later, was followed by a sister. Even before the birth of Isabella, the Queen Maria Christina began a movement for the setting aside of the law of Philip V. Ferdinand, for a considerable period, resisted, but yielded at last, and on April 6, 1830, that an incomplete decree by Charles IV., in 1789, which appeared to repeal the Salic law, should be published and made perpetual. All the Bourbons protested, and the King endeavored to undo his action by what was called a "decree of derogation," but on his death-bed he declared that his act was the result of misrepresentation and was, therefore, null and void. This restored his act intended to make his daughter Isabella his heir. When Ferdinand died Maria Christina was reigning as Queen Regent and the little girl Isabella was the heir apparent just as the Maria Christian reigns in the name of the little boy known as Alfonso XIII.

The brother of Ferdinand, usually known as Don Carlos, but who indulged in the name and title at home of Carlos Maria Isidor de Borbon-y-Borbon, infant of Spain, entered his protest before the death of Ferdinand against all the proceedings setting aside Salic law admitting the female line, and declared himself the lawful heir apparent to the throne of Spain. Immediately on the death of Ferdinand the northern province of Spain arose and declared for King Charles, as he was styled, and these people were called Carlists, a name which continues to exist. Those who adhered to the existing government of the Queen Regent were popularly called Christinos.

The cause of Don Carlos, dear to the Spanish heart as standing for loyalty and despotism, seemed at one time likely to triumph, but was betrayed by some of the generals. Meredith Don Carlos fled from Spain and in 1811 abdicated in favor of his son, the second Don Carlos. Cabrera headed Spain in 1845, but he neglected his former practice of murdering and mutilating in prisoners, and the efforts were not supported with the former enthusiasm. The second Don Carlos attempted to enter Spain in 1855 and again in 1860, when he was arrested and signed a renunciation of his claims to the Spanish throne. The present pretender is a third Don Carlos, grandson of the first, a son of Don Juan. The last made several attempts to overthrow the government of Spain; the most formidable beginning in 1873 and lasting until 1876. The Don Jaime, who is described as desirous of mixing in Spanish affairs as head of the Carlists, is the son of the third Don Carlos.

It is a noticeable fact in Spanish history that no rule ever permanently departs from Spain. One permanent affliction of Spain is what may be termed Carlism. In no other country is such a party as the Carlists possible. It is a party that is willing to shed its blood for a government of the worst type of the fourteenth century. There have been many Carlist risings, and they are perpetually expected.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

All is Uncasiness.

The Hon. John Wanamaker is reported in the Chicago Inter-Ocean as saying in the Third Presbyterian church, in Chicago, May 23, 1897: "The year of our Lord 1897 has not brought much peace. In the world of commerce seen to be borne down by commercial and spiritual controversy. Social and financial questions are raised. We grope in the daytime with fear and trembling for the future. Poor, distracted man is tossed over the night to a more distraught tomorrow. May we not be looking too low? Instead of talking to each other shall we not talk to God? We need a new reading of the old Bibles, and let us come to a new starting point. It is inspiration, not reformation, that the world needs.... I make bold to say to you, in the friendliest way, that we do not believe that God will come down, and take the scales from our eyes, and the bitterness from our hearts, and the uncertainty from our souls. We are unbelieving. But the key to the confidence that the world wants and the progress we are looking for is this Word of God. Yet we are afraid to bring it into our business and life. Yet it is the Word of God."

These are important words from one filling such a high position; but when May 23, 1898, arrives, he will see stronger reasons for making a similar statement.

Our greatest glory consists not in never falling, but in rising every time we fall.

When water freezes it expands with a force of 30,000 pounds to the square inch. No substance has been found which will withstand such a pressure.

Unless you have helped to uplift some one in the name of Christ, you have not enjoyed the richest blessing or the highest pleasure of Christian living.

Never bear more than one kind of trouble at a time. Some people bear three kinds—all they have had, all they have now and all they expect to have.

An hour of solitude, passed in sincere, earnest prayer, will teach us more effectually awaken the faculty and form the habit of reflection, than a year's study in the schools without it.

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, MAY 4, 1898. NUMBER 18.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final Restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As it seems to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the transmutation of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites or the forgiveness of sins, and a belief in, as essential for final salvation.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, IND., MAY 4, 1898.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Marshall, Co., Ind."

Remittances should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertized in that.

When desiring a change of address, give us your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

We give in this issue of our paper several selections as regards the present trouble with Spain. We have been asked by some of our isolated brethren to do this. Some do not have access to the daily papers that others have.

W. M. IVES recently wrote, among other things that—"It is very difficult for a soldier to march with a fellow-soldier who will not keep step;" and that "a family raised on 'dont do this and dont do that,' soon becomes a family of dant do anything."

IN last week's issue we announced that Brother Ramsey would visit the Plymouth Church on the 8th of May. Since then we have received a card from him saying that his visit here would be later, notice of which will be given in due time. Will our friends please note the change.

THE late Dr. A. J. Gordon said, "If we listen to our Lord's great eschatological discourse, we hear prediction after prediction of wars and famines, and pestilences and apostasies, and false christs, together with a world-wide preaching of the gospel for a witness; but instead of any gleam of glory in the solemn prophecy we find it culminating in such a time 'as it was in the days of Noah.' And this is our Savior's answer to the question, "What shall be the sign of thy coming and of the end of the age?"

ACCORDING to the New York Sun, Father Ducey of St. Leo's Roman Catholic Church, New York, in an address before the Workingmen's Club, said we are approaching a crisis that cannot be avoided. On one side is a banner inscribed 'Industrial Slavery by capitalists,' on the other the inscription is 'Industrious Liberty of the people!' He said the millionaire's Lord's Prayer is as follows:—"My Father who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name; my kingdom has come on earth; thy will be done in heaven; my will be done here. Give me this day all the income I want. Give me my debts in violence against humanity, in foreclosures against my debtors. Deliver us this day from all the isms that destroy our power to enslave humanity. Mine is the kingdom and the power, and thine be the glory forever. Amen."

"Higher Criticism."

We see that Professor Briggs of Higher Criticism notoriety has left the Presbyterian body, and is now a candidate for holy (?) orders in the Episcopal Church, where he expects to have smoother sailing. Has it come to that, that the Episcopal Church can swallow the Presbyterian vomit? If so, then of course it must agree with what Briggs says on page 243, that "Higher Criticism comes into conflict with the authority of the Scripture when it finds that its statements are not authoritative, and its revelations are not credible." Cannot Bob Ingersoll say the same thing? He and all other infidels see much to admire in the Bible, and if they are permitted to reject those statements which, in their judgment, are not authoritative, and those revelations which they think are not credible, of course they will accept the Bible. There is no difference between Dr. Briggs and Ingersoll, except that the former is "a man who who stole the fivery" of an Ecclesiastical Body to serve the adversary in.

The War.

As announced last week, War with all its awfulness exists, and how long it may last no one can tell. The United States Squadron under command of Admiral Sampson has blockaded Havana harbor, and incidentally while patroling the coast of Cuba last week thought best to destroy and stop the further erection of fortification at Matanzas east of Havana. This was done in eighteen minutes after the first gun was fired, the Spanish works being demolished, and no loss to the Americans. At Cabanas west of Havana a similar work was done, and now the vessels are drawing in closer to Havana. Troops of the regular and volunteer army of the United States are being gathered at Tampa, Florida, and ships are almost ready to embark them, and it looks as if they would soon be landed in Cuba, a base of action be established, a juncture made with the Cuban army, and with a land force and the War-ships, the taking of Havana may be but a short way off. However fear of the diseases that are sure to attack an army that is not acclimated may prevent the hastening of troops over to Cuba, and the war may drag on for some time.

In the mean time the Spanish flotilla has left the Cape Verde islands, and the part that is able to cross the ocean is supposed to be on its way. The Flying Squadron with its base at Hampton Roads, is watching our Atlantic coast, and it is fully prepared to deal with this aggregation of warships.

But all this on the Atlantic has been child's play to the terrible events in the Pacific. Commodore Dewey with his Squadron left Hong Kong for the Philippine Islands and not meeting with opposition on last Saturday night steamed into Manila Bay, and on Sunday morning fought the Spanish fleet there, completely demolishing it. Some vessels were burned, others were blown up and some were sunk until nothing remains. He has gone on and silenced the batteries at Cavite near Manila, has demanded the surrender of Manila and of the entire Islands under Spain. The fact that he is able to do this is evidence that his fleet has sustained no severe loss, though most of the dispatches come through Spanish cables. The whole world stands in wonder at the rapidity and awful effectiveness of the American guns and gunners, and at the immense preparations that this country has made in a few months. Nearly $36,000,000 was appropriated by our Congress on Monday for the support of the army of invasion, and a call is up now for the addition of many millions of dollars worth of new vessels for our navy.

The victory in the Philippines has caused the outbreaking of revolution in Spain, the people thinking their government has deceived them. Martial law was declared in Madrid, and we may expect to hear of much trouble for this old country. The complications that are likely to arise in view of the United States being now an active factor in Chinese waters can not be well even outlined. Certain it is that England and Japan will not be displeased to have America so near and so deeply interested there, while Germany who has been wanting for so long to get just the footing that America has now won is likely to be very hostile. Whatever pleases England will displease Russia. We can but look on and watch the events that come on so rapidly. The nations are getting in shape to be formed under two leaders—the king of the north, Gog—and the power that will oppose him—England and those with her. When all is ready the end will come. Watch alway.

Law or Gospel—Which? No. 8.

XVII. We now propose to examine more closely the claim that the Decalogue or ten commands graven on stones was a perfect code, and contained "the whole duty of man, and will ensure to those who observe them access to the tree of life."

If all this be true we give unqualified assent to it; but is it true? It is the assertion of a mortal and therefore fallible man; it would be criminal to accept it without heeding the injunction to prove all things and hold fast to that which is good. To get down to business basis, we also make an assertion for others to treat in the same way. It is this:—

The Decalogue is not a perfect code. It does not contain the whole duty of man. It will not ensure to those who observe it, access to the tree of life. We would state the issue plainer than this if we knew how, but we do not, and so at once proceed to give the reasons for our assertion:—

1. God himself did not regard the Decalogue as a perfect code, that contained the whole duty of man, because he added ten times ten other laws to the same covenant, at the same time, through the same Mediator, to the same people, for the same purpose. We think we could safely rest the case here, but we will not do it, although it is the incontrovertible truth of God, because:—

2. God's Son did not regard it as a perfect code, and as containing the whole duty of man, as proven by the unqualified assertion—authoritative assertion, infallible assertion (a) that two laws found in the book of the law were greater than the whole ten on the tables of stone, inasmuch as they not only added most essential duties and moral principles, but in fact embodied all the commands of the Decalogue, see Matt. xxii. 35-40. (b) The Son of God actually had to amend and supplement a number of the ten commandments written upon the tables of stone. (c) The Son of God incorporated the First and Great command, and the Second which was like unto it, into his code of laws, without any emendation at all.

3. The Son of God enacted numerous moral laws in addition to those of both the book of the law and to those on tables of stone,—and in view of this fact what presumption to say that the Decalogue is a perfect code, and contains the whole duty of man! The cause of this stupendous blunder is this: (1) It is ignorantly supposed that the Decalogue was given for salvation purposes; that is to say, salvation from sin and death to life and immortality. (2) Ignorance of the fact that an Everlasting Covenant that would ensure Everlasting Life had been made with Abraham 430 years BEFORE the Law and was confirmed to Isaac and Jacob, and vastly amplified to David, a long time AFTER the law; making it absolutely certain that it was independent of the law, and Gal iii. 17 proves that the Law was as independent of the Covenant as the covenant was independent of the Law.

Gal. iii. 21 proves positively that the law was not against the covenant of promise; and v. 17 proves that it did not interfere with, or annul the covenant of promise; and again verse 21 proves that the reason why the covenant of promise did not conflict with the Law Covenant was this:—(1) The one was given to secure righteousness and life, and the other was not. (2) One was an Everlasting Covenant, Heb. xiii. 20, and the other was only added till the Seed should come to whom the promises were made. Gal. iii. 17.

4. The Spirit in Hebrews says that the first covenant was not faultless, for it says, "For if that first covenant had been faultless, then should no place have been sought for the second." If it was not faultless, it was faulty; and if faulty how could it contain the whole duty of man,—and if it did not contain the whole duty of man, how could it ensure man access to the tree of life?

5. Paul in Rom. iii. 19 says, "We know that what things the Law saith, it saith to them who are under the law, that every mouth may be stopped." If a person talks hatred about his neighbor, will the ten commandments stop his mouth? No: we have to go to the book of the law to get something to stop it. Is it not immoral to talk hatred? If so, and the ten commands do not stop it or correct it, is it a perfect code? Does it contain the whole duty of man?

6. It is certainly an essential moral principle to "Love the Lord with all the heart, and soul and mind." Matt. xxii. 37. Can the Decalogue be a perfect code when this command is not found there?

7. All the moral principles of the Decalogue grow out of the two Great ones mentioned by Jesus in Matt. xxii. 37, and found in the book of the law admitted to have been abolished. If the foundation of the Decalogue has been destroyed, what does it now stand upon? If it stands at all, is it a perfect code?

8. We will now dismiss this part of the subject by enumerating some of the essential moral principles which the Decalogue does not contain:—

It contains no command to love God; nor to love our neighbor, nor condemn hatred, variance, impatience, strife, wrath, envy, evil-speaking, backbiting, selfishness, pride, boasting, malice, bigamy, incest, witchcraft, cheating, sorcery, vulgar talk, drunkenness, scolding, pride, selfishness, busy-bodies, whisperers, boasters, heediness, fierceness, an unforgiving spirit, unmerifulness, pleasure loving, heresies, revellings, love of the world, sedition, nor uncleanness; all of which exclude from the kingdom. How can it be a perfect code as claimed?

In addition to all that, it does not enjoin watchfulness and prayer. Is it a perfect code for Christians? No! a thousand times no. And when we look for God's law of pardon and peace and reconciliation and do not find it, we say ten thousand times no! And when we find in it not one solitary ray of hope to cheer us on in the narrow way of Life, we say no! a million times no! IT IS NOT A PERFECT CODE. It will not insure to those who observe it access to the tree of life.

It saddens our heart to read on the first page of "The Law of God," that "the first four precepts relate to our duty to God, embracing in short ALL THAT WE OWE TO HIM!!! The last six relate to our duty to our fellow-men, summarily covering all our relations to one another!!"

It makes our head swim to read such a foul blasphemy as those words contain, and think of God's amazing love as manifested in the past and present, and the vastness of his beneficent purpose for the future.

It would seem enough to astonish men and angels to hear that all we owe to the Lord God, gracious and merciful, and abundant in goodness and truth, is, NOT TO DO THREE THINGS, and TO DO just ONE THING!! And what is that one thing? Ans. To Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy." And that is done by DOING NOTHING on that day. If that is not the most ridiculous DO NOTHING SYSTEM of religion ever invented by man, which is? We give it the palm!

The word summarily in the quotation above from "The Law of God," gives the lie to both contentions. That there are Two Laws, and that one of them is a perfect code, and contains man's whole duty. It says "The last six relate to our duty to our fellow-man, "summarily covering all our relations to one another.

If they only summarily cover all our relations to one another where are the details? Is it a perfect code without the particulars? Sure enough. The particulars of all our relations to our relations to one another are not found in the last six commands of the Decalogue. Where shall we find them? Shall we go to another law to find out the particular stipulations of this one? Would not such be an unheard of procedure? And yet law-advocates ask us with effrontery to do that silly thing, and that too after staking their whole system upon the perfection of the Decalogue,—and the Two-Law Theory!!

In order to show the matter in its true light, we will for a moment allow their claims of the perfect code, and two-laws,—one of which has been abolished, the other remaining in force, and it forbids the having of other Gods; forbids the making of images and worshipping them; forbids the profanation of the Lord's name. These three laws forbid three things being done; and commanding nothing to be done. The Fourth law commands to Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy. This is said to embrace all that we owe to him. Just one thing to do and three things not to do. An easy and cheap system of salvation, surely. But what is the reason it does not say in reference to our duty to God the same as it says in reference to our duty to our fellow man, that these four laws or commands "summarily" cover all our relations to God? Ah, the Perfect code-claim would not permit of that; and so now the perplexing question comes up,—where shall we find out how to keep the Sabbath holy? How can we know what, if anything, can be done, and what cannot be done? What penalty, if any, is attached to the law? Who executes the penalty,—and when is it executed? And how is it executed? And suppose we can find no particulars, or no specifications, what then? Is the naked law or command to keep it holy all there is to it? What reward is offered for keeping it holy? What punishment is dealt out for not keeping it holy? Where can we learn all these important points of interest? Can the law be in force or enforced without all this information? If it is in force it must be possible to get the information we call for. Not to furnish it would be contrary to all the revealed history of God's dealing with man.

The facts of the case are these—For certain subtle reasons Law-Advocates have separated the ten commands on tables of stone from those written in the book, in the face of the fact that no specifications, or penalties, or promises are attached to the laws on the stones. For the same subtle reasons (apparently subtle to the ignorant) they claim that the ten laws are a complete or perfect code without any particulars, or penalties, or blessings!! And so, calling the contents of the book ceremonial, say "it was that which was abolished by Christ," so as to save the ten commands to build another apostate Church upon.

Hence the dilemma they were in—having a law to keep and nothing for keeping it; a law to keep while in ignorance of its provisions; a law in force without any penalty attached to it. But they think they have mastered that difficult situation, in this way:—A seer has been seeing things, and she claims to have seen [had revealed to her] a new penalty, and a new set of rules for observing or keeping holy the Sabbath day, and new promises of good things, and also saw that eli-matic differences and other circumstances prove the day can be kept holy without keeping it holy, all of which are very convenient, of course.

To show the difference between what God offered the Israelites providing they would keep the Sabbath day law and all the rest of the laws in the book and on the stones, and what the peerless now offers for obedience to the ten commands alone, we will quote from the authorities in each case Divine authority first.

BLESSINGS FOR OBEDIENCE TO THE COMMANDMENTS:—

of the King of Israel upon the throne it says, "He shall write a copy of this law in a book out of that which is before the priests the Levites, and it shall be with him, and he shall read therein all the days of his life that he may learn to fear the Lord his God, to keep all the words of this law, and these statutes, to do them, that his heart be not lifted up above his brethren, and that he turn not aside from the commandment [all the words of the law and statutes are called the commandment] to the right hand or to the left: [note well what follows:] to the end that he may prolong his days in his kingdom, he, and his children in the midst of Israel." Deut. xvii. 18-20. That is what the King would get by obedience to all the words in the book.

Of the whole nation it says, "But your eyes have seen all the great acts of the Lord which he did [in bringing them out of Egypt, and in the wilderness unto Dathan and Abiram, see Deut. xi. 3-6.] Therefore shall ye keep all the commandments which I command you this day, that ye may be strong and go in and possess the land whither ye go to possess it, and that ye may prolong your days in the land which the Lord swore unto your Fathers to give unto them and to their seed, a land that floweth with milk and honey; for the land whither thou goest in to possess it, is not as the land of Egypt, from whence ye came out, where thou sowest thy seed and wateredst it with thy foot, as a garden of herbs. [Watering with the foot is in allusion to the making little watercourses for water to reach some crops, and we have read that it is a common thing to see men use the foot to raise the sides of the little canals to prevent the water leaking away before it reaches its distinction] But the land whither ye go to possess it is a land of hills and valleys, and drinketh water of the rain of heaven. A land which the Lord thy God careth for; the eyes of the Lord thy God are always upon it, from the beginning of the year even to the end of the year. And it shall come to pass, if ye hearken diligently unto my commandments which I command you this day, to love the Lord your God, and to serve him with all your heart and with all your soul, That I will give you the rain of your land in his due season, the first rain and the latter rain, that thou mayest gather in thy corn, and thy wine, and thine oil. And I will send grass in thy fields for thy cattle, that thou mayest eat and be full. Take heed to yourselves, that your heart be not deceived, and ye turn aside, and serve other Gods, and worship them. And then the Lord's wrath be kindled against you, and he [here follows the penalty—reflect upon it well] shut up the heavens, that there be no rain, and that the land yield not her fruit; and that ye perish quickly from off the land which the Lord giveth you. Therefore shall ye lay up these my words in your heart and in your soul, and bind them for a sign upon your hand, that they may be as frontlets between your eyes. And shall teach them to your children, speaking of them when thou sittest in thy house, and when thou walkest by the way, when thou liest down, and when thou risest up. And thou shalt write them upon the door posts of thine house, and upon thy gates—[Here follows the reward of obedience—it is nothing but what pertains to the present life] That your days may be multiplied, and the days of your children, in the land which the Lord sware unto your fathers to give them, as the days of heaven upon the earth [it should be their land perpetually in other words] for if ye shall diligently keep all these commandments which I command you, to do them, to love the Lord your God, to walk in all his ways, and cleave unto him then [here follows the blessing for obedience] will the Lord drive out all these nations from before you, and ye shall possess greater nations and mightier than yourselves. Every place whereon the souls of your feet shall tread shall be yours from the wilderness unto Lebanon, from the river Euphrates, even unto the uttermost sea [the Mediterranean] shall your coast be. There shall no man be able to stand before you, for the Lord your God shall lay the fear of you and the dread of you upon all the land that ye shall tread upon, as he hath said unto you. Behold I set before you this day a blessing and a curse."

In Deut. viii. 6-10 we find similar testimony proving the statement we have repeated several times, that the law was not given for salvation purposes, but that it promised temporal blessings for obedience, and punishments in kind.

It says:—"Therefore thou shalt keep the commandments of the Lord thy God, to do his ways and to fear him,—for the Lord bringeth thee into a good land, a land of brooks of water, of fountains, and depths that spring out of valleys and hills,—a land of wheat, and barley, and vines, and fig trees, and pomegranates; a land of oil, and honey; a land wherein thou shalt eat bread without scarceness, thou shalt not lack any thing in it, a land whose stones are iron, and out of whose hills thou mayest dig brass. [The work mechusheth should be rendered copper-dark.] When thou hast eaten and art full, then thou shalt bless the Lord thy God for the good land which he hath given thee."

Deut. xxviii. contains additional blessings for obedience, viz., They were to be set above all nations, v. 1. They should be blessed in the city and in the field; blessed in the fruit of the body and the fruit of the ground, and of the cattle, kine and sheep, v. 4. Blessed in basket and store,—blessed in going out and coming in. Their enemies should be smitten, v. 5, 6, 7. They should be blessed in all they set their hand to, v. 8. They should be a holy people unto God, and all people should see they were called by the name of the Lord, v. 9, 10. They should have rain in its season, and should be able to lend to many nations, and be the head and not the tail of the nations, v. 12, 13. On the other hand, if disobedient, they were to be cursed in each of the above particulars, besides vexation, pestilence, consumption and fever, and inflamation, and the sword, and blasting and mildew, and madness and blindness and a great number of other curses, all temporal. See whole chapter.

If the Sinai covenant only offered temporal blessings to the obedient,—and only bestowed temporal blessings upon the obedient; and only threatened the disobedient with deprivation of temporal blessings, and the shortening of mortal life instead of lengthening mortal life,—what are Law-advocates going to do about it? Reader, examine carefully the blessings and curses God set before Israel for the obedient, and disobedient, and then compare them with the blessings and curses set before the people now by the Law-Advocates:—Prophetess, and then you can make an intelligent decision as to whether the Sinai Covenant, covenanted temporal or spiritual blessings.

It is the art and secret of Christianity, if I may use the phrase, to manage our actions to the best advantage, and direct them in such a manner that everything we do may turn to account at the great day when everything will be set before us.

The Westminster Confession of Faith has gone out of print in Scotland. The British Weekly says that, next to the Bible, this is the last book of which such a thing might have been expected.

A cablegram from Prague, Bohemia, says: Anti-Semitic riots have occurred at Pribram. The windows of the synagogue and of the houses occupied by Jews, have been smashed by the mobs.

The new Chicago directory has 517,122 names.

myself are members of the same Church. We look for the dear old paper as we do our meals. I don't know how we would do without it, as we hardly ever get to hear any preaching of the truth of the gospel we live so far away from any of our people. We are in a part where none live, but my own family. We are persecuted very much, though I think through the help of the God of heaven. We are able to bear it all: we expect to wear the crown when our Lord returns to receive his own.

R. J. WHITAKER.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

Let us keep pushing forward to the mark of high calling. What is the mark? It is eternal life in Christ's kingdom. It looks as if we are going to have war. Dear brothers and sisters, let us not worry about the war; we have something more important to think about—Christ's kingdom and how to get there. Good by, and may we meet when Christ comes.

SEL. WATKINS.

Dear Restitution:

I have been reading this morning in our dear RESTITUTION from some dear ones that belong to the household of faith, which made me feel that I for one more wanted to send in my mite. Though I am cast down with sadness, which I cannot express here, yet there is nothing that should ever cause me to deny my Lord and Master, which I am still trying to serve, but it is in a feeble way; yet I am more determined to keep trying, for without God there is no hope. Finally, dear sisters and brothers, pray for me, and my prayer is come Lord Jesus and do not tarry. From one so lonely and sad, ever your loving Sister,

MRS. EMILY COLLETT.

Dear Ones of the Blessed Hope:

I will attempt to write a few words of greeting to the isolated ones. I believe the time is not far distant when the kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ is at hand; our blessed Savior who promised us eternal life through obedience of his glorious gospel. I hope and pray that we all may be found ready and waiting, with our lamps burning, and that he will say to us, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of thy Lord." Let us watch and pray, lest we fall into temptation, for Jesus says, "Suffer little children and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Yours in hope of eternal life,

LETTSIE MITCHELL.

Dear Restitution:

I am now teaching in an Indian day school on the Rosebud Sioux Reservation, and I am 75 miles from a town and 35 miles from the Indian Agency with no white person nearer than four miles, and then only two families. We are in the midst of an Indian camp. We (my husband and myself) teach the Indian children to read, write and other English branches: also how to do domestic work. The work is confining, yet we like it, if it was not for being so isolated. I am glad wherever the dear old paper reaches us, for while I have full faith in the gospel of the kingdom, I cannot understand many points, and while I have the Bible and THE RESTITUTION together then I am enlightened. All the precious thing I receive is the Bible and the paper. Dear brothers and sisters in Christ, I am determined to strive for the kingdom as long as I live and have my mind, and I pray daily for the saints everywhere, also that the Bridegroom will soon claim his Bride, that the many sorrows and trials will end and I, with others, will be troubled no more. Remember me in your prayers, is the desire of a sorrowing Sister,

H. E. PADDOCK.

Dear Restitution:

I am glad of the invitation to say a word for the Master, as I live near no one of like faith, and am looking for the return of our Lord and Savior to claim his own for he said (through his angels) as his disciples were gazing after him when he ascended, "This same Jesus which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven;" and if we are looking for him, how hard we should strive to make ourselves ready that our calling and election may be sure, "for the Son of God cometh in an hour when ye think not." That we may be ready with our lamps trimmed and burning, is the prayer of a Sister,

EMMA L. CRONK.

Dear Restitution:

If the editor will allow me space I will write a few thoughts to the interest of its readers. Paul says, "Speak often to one another." I think that means just the same as "write often to one another." Would it not be a good suggestion for the isolated ones of the one faith to draw them closer to one another, and so get acquainted. It only costs about two cents to write a letter, and I think the good it would do would be worth more than the expense; try it. I have just come out of the yoke of bondage by so doing. The eleven questions given by Bro. A. N. Seymore to the Review and Herald, Battle Creek, Mich., some years ago, have just been answered by a prominent Adventist of Iowa. Any one wishing to know the answers can have them free by addressing the writer at Macksburg, Iowa,

A. C. BALDWIN.

Dear Restitution:

We do not wish to be without the paper, as it brings to us many good thoughts to encourage us toward the kingdom. I wish to say to the brothers and sisters abroad, that I am still anxiously looking for our dear Redeemer. Oh, may we all strive to live better Christians, and do more for the cause of Christ the coming year than we have ever done before.

Your Sister in the faith,

MRS. W. S. YOUNG.

Dear Restitution:

It gives me great pleasure to read so many letters from brothers and sisters of the one faith. Our home at present is 3 miles northeast of Thomasville, Ga., (Oak Hill Farm): should there be any of the faith in this vicinity we would be pleased to meet with them.

A Sister waiting the soon coming of our blessed Lord.

MRS. WALKER PERRINE.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

I for the first time mingle in the love feast in praising and glorifying our Savior, with all those that are faithful: thanking him for all his goodness and benefits during the past year, and I ask him to continue to bestow upon all his people his goodness and benefits, "For he saith all power is in his hand, in heaven and in earth." So dear brothers and sisters, I ask your prayers that I may hold out faithful till the Master comes.

Yours in hope of eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.

MARTHA WAYMIRE.

Our Love Feast.

Editor Restitution:

The nice encouraging letters make me want to tell my experience. About sixty-two or three I united with the Christian Church. Not being as familiar with the Bible as I should have been I thought they had the truth. By misapplying the Scripture they proved that we were already born of the spirit, and had an immortal soul that went to heaven when we die, and that Christ's kingdom was already set up and we were in it. All these things I firmly believed. I don't know how I would have learned better had they not made me an elder of the church. Then I thought an elder ought to know something so I commenced searching the Scriptures and soon found the false teaching. Of course I had to obey Jude's advice, "to contend earnestly for the faith once delivered to the saints," which I could not do by saying nothing about it. That raised a great persecution. My Church, the Baptists, Methodists and Presbyterians all united against me for several months. Some called me a soul-sleeper and some an infidel. Finally when the Church found they could not whip me back they withdrew from me, and put in elders that they called sound in the faith, and soon commenced kicking to pieces. Several times, one time in particular after they had withdrawn from me, I was invited to serve on a committee to settle a difficulty they could do nothing with. I served and settled it before leaving the house, to the satisfaction of all parties. How their hearts must have smote them. About that time I first learned there was such a paper as THE RESTITUTION, and hastened to subscribe for it and have taken it ever since. Hold up your heads for your redemption draws nigh.

JOHN TEAGUE.

Dear Restitution:

As my daughter has written to the paper, I thought I would try and write. I never wrote to the paper before, but thought that I might say something. I have been reading the paper for several years, some friend has been sending it to me. I have been striving for the faith, and looking for the Lord Jesus, who is to be King of kings, to rule and subdue all of his enemies. I have been a member of the Church of God about twenty years. My troubles and trials have been many. Have lost three grown daughters. One son, one daughter, wife and myself are members of the same Church. We look for the dear old paper as we do our meals. I don't know how we would do without it, as we hardly ever get to hear any preaching of the truth of the gospel we live so far away from any of our people. We are in a part where none live, but my own family. We are persecuted very much, though I think through the help of the God of heaven. We are able to bear it all: we expect to wear the crown when our Lord returns to receive his own.

R. J. WHITAKER.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

Let us keep pushing forward to the mark of high calling. What is the mark? It is eternal life in Christ's kingdom. It looks as if we are going to have war. Dear brothers and sisters, let us not worry about the war; we have something more important to think about—Christ's kingdom and how to get there. Good by, and may we meet when Christ comes.

SEL. WATKINS.

Dear Restitution:

I have been reading this morning in our dear RESTITUTION from some dear ones that belong to the household of faith, which made me feel that I for one more wanted to send in my mite. Though I am cast down with sadness, which I cannot express here, yet there is nothing that should ever cause me to deny my Lord and Master, which I am still trying to serve, but it is in a feeble way; yet I am more determined to keep trying, for without God there is no hope. Finally, dear sisters and brothers, pray for me, and my prayer is come Lord Jesus and do not tarry. From one so lonely and sad, ever your loving Sister,

MRS. EMILY COLLETT.

Dear Ones of the Blessed Hope:

I will attempt to write a few words of greeting to the isolated ones. I believe the time is not far distant when the kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ is at hand; our blessed Savior who promised us eternal life through obedience of his glorious gospel. I hope and pray that we all may be found ready and waiting, with our lamps burning, and that he will say to us, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of thy Lord." Let us watch and pray, lest we fall into temptation, for Jesus says, "Suffer little children and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Yours in hope of eternal life,

LETTSIE MITCHELL.

Dear Restitution:

I am now teaching in an Indian day school on the Rosebud Sioux Reservation, and I am 75 miles from a town and 35 miles from the Indian Agency with no white person nearer than four miles, and then only two families. We are in the midst of an Indian camp. We (my husband and myself) teach the Indian children to read, write and other English branches: also how to do domestic work. The work is confining, yet we like it, if it was not for being so isolated. I am glad wherever the dear old paper reaches us, for while I have full faith in the gospel of the kingdom, I cannot understand many points, and while I have the Bible and THE RESTITUTION together then I am enlightened. All the precious thing I receive is the Bible and the paper. Dear brothers and sisters in Christ, I am determined to strive for the kingdom as long as I live and have my mind, and I pray daily for the saints everywhere, also that the Bridegroom will soon claim his Bride, that the many sorrows and trials will end and I, with others, will be troubled no more. Remember me in your prayers, is the desire of a sorrowing Sister,

H. E. PADDOCK.

Dear Restitution:

I am glad of the invitation to say a word for the Master, as I live near no one of like faith, and am looking for the return of our Lord and Savior to claim his own for he said (through his angels) as his disciples were gazing after him when he ascended, "This same Jesus which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven;" and if we are looking for him, how hard we should strive to make ourselves ready that our calling and election may be sure, "for the Son of God cometh in an hour when ye think not." That we may be ready with our lamps trimmed and burning, is the prayer of a Sister,

EMMA L. CRONK.

Dear Restitution:

If the editor will allow me space I will write a few thoughts to the interest of its readers. Paul says, "Speak often to one another." Would it not be a good suggestion for the isolated ones of the one faith to draw them closer to one another, and so get acquainted. It only costs about two cents to write a letter, and I think the good it would do would be worth more than the expense; try it. I have just come out of the yoke of bondage by so doing. The eleven questions given by Bro. A. N. Seymore to the Review and Herald, Battle Creek, Mich., some years ago, have just been answered by a prominent Adventist of Iowa. Any one wishing to know the answers can have them free by addressing the writer at Macksburg, Iowa,

A. C. BALDWIN.

Dear Restitution:

We do not wish to be without the paper, as it brings to us many good thoughts to encourage us toward the kingdom. I wish to say to the brothers and sisters abroad, that I am still anxiously looking for our dear Redeemer. Oh, may we all strive to live better Christians, and do more for the cause of Christ the coming year than we have ever done before.

Your Sister in the faith,

MRS. W. S. YOUNG.

Dear Restitution:

It gives me great pleasure to read so many letters from brothers and sisters of the one faith. Our home at present is 3 miles northeast of Thomasville, Ga., (Oak Hill Farm): should there be any of the faith in this vicinity we would be pleased to meet with them.

A Sister waiting the soon coming of our blessed Lord.

MRS. WALKER PERRINE.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

I for the first time mingle in the love feast in praising and glorifying our Savior, with all those that are faithful: thanking him for all his goodness and benefits during the past year, and I ask him to continue to bestow upon all his people his goodness and benefits, "For he saith all power is in his hand, in heaven and in earth." So dear brothers and sisters, I ask your prayers that I may hold out faithful till the Master comes.

Yours in hope of eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.

MARTHA WAYMIRE.

Selected.

United States, Spain and Cuba.

The revenue of the United States is $400,000,000, while that of Spain is but $155,000,000, the revenue of the United States being two and a half times greater.

Spain's peace army comprises 350,000 men, while that of the United States is only 30,000. But on a war footing the United States would have 3,000,000 soldiers, twice as many as Spain, which would have 1,500,000.

In area the United States is ten times as large as Spain, Uncle Sam's territories including 3,602,990 square miles, against 366,076 in the country ruled by Alfonso and the queen regent.

Spain has 25,000,000 population. That of the United States is 74,500,000, two and a half times greater.

The tonnage of the armored vessles built and building owned by the United States is 152,000 tons while that of Spain is 90,000 tons. The United States is thus 1.7 larger, and this does not include the old monitors.

In unarmored displacements, including gunboats under 500 tons displacement, the United States is twice as strong, having 100,000 tons while Spain has but 50,000 tons.

The tonnage of the merchant steam vessels flying the American flag is 1,200,000 tons against 814,000 tons for Spain, the United States exceeding Spain nearly four to one in this respect.

Spain has one-third more torpedo craft than the United States, its fleet numbering twenty-seven vessels while we have twenty-one.

In commerce the United States is five and a half times as great as Spain, having a foreign trade of $1,800,000,000, while that of Spain is but $345,000,000.

The two countries have about the same debt—$1,800,000,000.

Cuba was discovered by Columbus on his first voyage, in 1492.

The first organized attempt made by the Spaniards to colonize Cuba was in 1511 by Diego Velasquez, who brought over a small force from Santo Domingo, the large island to the east of Cuba. Velasquez was a typical Spanish conqueror, and resorted at once to typical spanish methods. The gentle and simple natives were frightened when they saw the Spaniard on horseback, and fled before them. Velasquez pursued them and trampled them beneath the horses' hoofs.

In the course of the first fifty years after Velasquez settled Cuba the native population of 500,000 beings was swept away and exterminated.

Spain has occupied Cuba for 387 years, except that its capital, Havana, was captured by the English in 1762. The British ships engaged in that conquest were chiefly manned by American colonists, who enlisted in the colonies of the Atlantic seaboard, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Delaware and Virginia.

Spain has always restricted the commerce of the island, with a view to reaping all its benefits herself. She forced the inhabitants to draw from Spain most of their supplies of all kinds by imposing prohibitory duties on the products of other nations.

One insurrection has followed another since the first organized outbreak against the Spanish power in 1826. In each war the Spaniards have practiced the most fiendish cruelties on the Cubans, but never until the present war has there been an organized and deliberate attempt made to exterminate the women and children as well as the male residents of the island. This reminds us the crowning infamy of "Butcher" Weyler's life.

The governor general of Cuba is endowed by law with despotic power. He is even authorized to disregard the laws of Spain, which are applicable to Cuba, at his pleasure. In fact, his will is the only law of the Cubans, and all the judges, police officials, civil officers and military are his creatures.

The volunteer military force, of which a detachment is located in every town and city of the island, and which is known as the "civil guard," has always been one of the most corrupt and dangerous military bodies known on earth. It is composed of the dependants and hangers-on of the official class, and the ultra-loyal party in Cuba. Such has always been the power of this party and its "civil guard" that no administration of Spain has ever been able to adopt any measure affecting the government of the island without its consent.

The area of Cuba is estimated at 15,883 square miles, including the adjacent Isla de Pinos, the smaller islands and keys. The population in 1890 was 1,631,687. Sixty-five per cent of the population is white, and the rest negroes, mulattoes and Chinese. Havanna has a population of 250,000. Other important cities are Matanzas, 87,760; Santiago de Cuba, 71,307; Cienfuegos, 65,067, and Puerto Principe, 46,641.

The public debt of Cuba before the war was $135,000,000. The so-called debts of 1878 and 1880, and the floating debt up to 1886, amounting to $124,000,000, were consolidated by royal decree. The annual income of the inhabitants is estimated at $80,000,000. The taxes, direct and indirect, amount to about $25,000,000, besides the sum of $8,000,000 levied in local taxation by 153 municipalities.

Cuba has 777 public and 583 private schools. There is an institution of secondary instruction in each province and a university at the capital. Thirty-five per cent of the white population can read and write and twelve per cent of the colored population. Education is compulsory.

The United States imported from Cuba before commerce was disturbed by the present war almost one and a half billion pounds of sugar, valued at $45,040,333 per year. The average annual import of molasses was over 16,000,000 gallons, valued at $1,700,000, and over 16,000,000 pounds of tobacco, worth about $1,600,000.

In the year 1891 the total imports of the United States from Cuba amounted to $61,714,355.

The principal products of Cuba are sugar, tobacco, molasses, rum, bananas, iron ore, manganese color and mahogany. The island is wonderfully fertile.

Before the war Cuba produced about 646,000 tons of sugar a year and 150,000 tons of molasses. The yearly product of tobacco was 300,000 bales.

The commerce of Cuba in times of peace amounted to about $53,000,000 in imports and $100,000,000 in exports. Most of the commerce is with Spain, the United States and Great Britain.

In a period of eight months in 1891, when the imports amounted to $35,000,000, more than $11,000,000 of products from Cuba went to Spain, about $10,000,000 was shipped to American ports and $8,000,000 to British ports. Germany and France sent to Cuba about $1,500,000 each in the same period.

Meats and dairy products exported to Cuba from the United States in the year 1891 amounted to $2,787,608. Iron and steel manufactures brought $3,120,270, breadstuffs $874,979, coal $776,526, and wool and manufactures $1,190,616.

There are 1,600 miles of railroad in Cuba, and 2,201 miles of telegraph lines doing business at 157 telegraph offices and sending yearly about 462,000 messages.

Of the land in Cuba but ten per cent is under cultivation. Throughout the island are large tracts of land which are still unexplored, and the value of which may not be known for years.

At the close of 1892 the number of landed estates on the island was 907,989. The value placed on these was $220,000,000, with a rental value of $17,000,000.—Chicago Times-Herald.

The End of Spain

In none of our wars from the days of the revolution to the days of the rebellion has there been another warrant for the American eagle to flap its wings and scream with exultation. The battle in Manila harbor resembles the battle of the Nile, where Nelson wiped out the French, and the battle of Trafalgar, where Spain was wiped out, though it had the help of France. As the outcome of Sunday's conflict Spain has substantially lost its Asiatic empire. Its strongest vessels are burned, blown up or sunk. Those which are left, if there are any left, may be reckoned as non-combatant.

Pending the time our fleet was on its way from Hongkong to Manila the world was given to understand by Spain that swift retribution awaited it. It would go out of sight as completely as Pharaoh and his hosts under the waves of the Red Sea. The press and people of that country declared that the slowness of our naval operations indicated our inability to adopt any serious offensive measures. The Governor General of the Philippines failed to see the handwriting on the wall, and last Wednesday issued his dambyant proclamations informing his Filippinos that the North Americans were "social excrescences" with whom "the struggle will be short and was unmanned by foreigners possessing neither instruction nor discipline, pretending to be inspired by a courage of which they are incapable." It was announced that Admiral Montojo would not wait in Manila harbor for our squadron, but had sailed out to sea with his seven cruisers and eleven gunboats, and from his lair in Subig Bay would hurl his fleet upon our four cruisers and two gunboats and send them "down among the dead men" in the twinkling of an eye. Notwithstanding these braggart boasts, bluff Commodore Dewey sailed steadily on, like a man with important business on hand, past Subig Bay, through the Chinese Sea, past the Corregidos Islands at the mouth of Manila harbor, with their batteries, through the narrow mouth and into the bay, where he found the Spanish vessels lying under cover of the batteries of Sabinas, Cavite, and Manila. When the sun set that day it saw another sight. The Spanish fleet was in ruins. Shot and shell, fire and explosion had done their work. The first battle for Cuban freedom was fought and it was a victory also for Philippine freedom. It was the first chapter in the stirring drama of revenge for the Maine. Three proud cruisers burned and shattered were at the bottom of Manila harbor. The men of the Olympia, the Baltimore, the Boston, and the Raleigh had remembered their murdered brothers of the Maine. The blow fell swift and hard. The Spanish taunts of cowardice and inefficiency were answered with a blow Spain will not soon forget.

The battle of Manila harbor was the first real test of the fighting qualities of modern ironclad vessels with high power guns in a contest between civilized people, if the Spanish can be counted as civilized. The American vessels were not the strongest in the navy, but they were splendid specimens of second-class protected cruisers. The Spanish vessels were a conglomerate of iron and wood, largely exceeding our own in number and in guns, with one or two exceptions, but the outcome showed they were inferior in gun power. The result was also due in part to the excellent American gunnery which evidently astonished the Spaniard just as it did the British in 1812 with its accuracy and its range, and if this result was accomplished with 8-inch guns, what would have been left of the Spaniards if the guns so deftly served had been twelves and thirteens?

In a recent interview astute and far-seeing Crispi, the ex-Premier of Italy, said Spain was already lost. Will it recognize the fact, resign its place among the nations, and cease to be an independent power? It has been a fraud and a failure for centuries. It has disgraced itself as a nation. Its record is one of abominable misrule and hideous cruelty. It is about to lose its last colonial possession. What better can it do than annex itself to France or Italy, disappear from the stage of action altogether, and end its execrable history?—Chicago Tribune.

Reduced Fares to Various Points via Pennsylvania Lines.

Excursion tickets will be sold via Pennsylvania Lines as indicated in the following paragraphs. Although concessions in fare are authorized for meetings of certain Orders, tickets may be obtained by any person whether a member of the Order or interested in the event. The reduced rates will be open to everybody.

To New Orleans, La., May 6th, 7th and 8th, account meeting B. P. O. Elks. Return limit fifteen days.

To Warsaw, Ind., (Winona Lake) May 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, 20th, and 21st, good returning until June 3d, account Presbyterian General Assembly.

To Naperville, Ill., (Burlington Park near Chicago) May 23, 24th, 27th and 28th, for German Baptist Annual Meeting; good returning until June 24th, with privilege to extend limit until June 30th.

To Dallas, Texas, June 11th and 12th, account meeting of Nobles of Mystic Shrine. Return limit June 28th.

To Toledo, Ohio, June 15th and 16th, good returning until June 20th, account United Brethren in Christ Church Young People's Biennial Convention.

To Louisville, Ky., June 19th and 20th, for Gr. O. U. A. M. National Council Meeting. Return limit June 26th.

To Washington, D. C., July 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the National Educational Association Meeting. Good to return July 15th, with privilege to extend return limit until August 31st.

To Chicago, Ill., July 12th and 13th for Young People's Christian Union, Universalist Church. Good returning July 21st, with privilege to extend until August 10th.

To Buffalo, N. Y., July 12th 13th, 14th and 15th, good returning until July 19th, with privilege to extend until September 1st, account Baptist Young People's Union International Convention.

To Saratoga, N. Y., August 1st and 2nd, account Young People's Christian Union, U. P. Church. Return limit August 10th, with privilege to extend until August 31st.

To Richmond, Ind., August 19th and 20th, good returning until August 29th, account Society of Friends Conference.

To Cincinnati, Ohio, September 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the G. A. R. National Encampment. Good returning until September 13th, with privilege of extension until October 2d.

To Pittsburgh, Pa., October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th 12th and 13th, good returning until October 17th, account Knights Templar Triennial Conclave. Return limit may be extended until October 31st.

During the excursion season special rates will also be in effect via Pennsylvania Lines for special and local events. For particular information please apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines or address C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.

The British Museum has books written on bricks, tiles, oyster shells, bones, and flat stones, together with manuscripts on bark, ivory, leather, parchment, papyrus, lead, iron, copper, and wood. It has also three copies of the Bible written on the leaves of the fan palm.

Many members of the Russian nobility profess that they can trace their descent direct from the line of King David. Four princely houses in particular, with whom nearly all the aristocratic Russian families are connected by marriage, claim this honor.

It is said that letters dropped in the post office of Paris are delivered in Berlin in an hour and a half, and sometimes within thirty-five minutes. The distance between the cities is 750 miles, and letters are sent by means of pneumatic tubes.

"One of the biggest fools in the world is the man who think the devil won't go him because his wife belongs to church."

The Indiana Conference.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:

The time is drawing near to have another meeting at Antioch, commencing Thursday evening, June 9, 1898, and continuing over Sunday. We trust the brethren will feel an interest and put forth an effort to come and partake of the feast of the words of truth, and help to make the meeting to fully serve its purpose, to build each other up in the most holy faith, and impart strength to withstand the trying times which seem to be so near approaching.

F. L. AUSTIN, Pres.
A. C. ROBERTS, Sec'y.

PROGRAMME FOR THE INDIANA CONFERENCE.

THURSDAY P. M.

7.00 Song Service.
7.15 Salutatory. Israel Roberts.
7.30 Response. F. L. Austin.
7.45 Sermon. Heb. v. 24, 25. A. H. Zilmer.

FRIDAY A. M.

9.30 Social Meeting led by Geo. W Smith.
10.30 Reward of the Faithful. P. C. Myers.
11.30 Meeting Executive Board.

FRIDAY P. M.

1.30 Business Meeting.
2.30 Paper—Upon what things should a Church be united to work harmoniously? A. R. Underwood, followed by Discussion.
7.00 Social Meeting led by Wm. Railsback.
7.30 The Ideal Church. Miss Flora Harris.
8.00 What is True Religion? J. F. Wagoner.

SATURDAY A. M.

9.30 S. S Session led by D. E. Vanvactor.
9.40 Song Service, and Report of S. S. Delegates.
10.00 Relation of the Church to Sunday School. D. E. Vanvactor.
10.15 Song by Plymouth S.S. pupils.
10.20 Relation of the S. S. to Church. J. H. Willey.
10.35 The S. S. as the Nursery of the Church. Mrs. M. J. Price.
10.50 Song by Argos S. S.
10.55 Paper—How can we Encourage and Retain Young People in Church Work? Miss Mattie Benjamin.
11.10 With what Spirit should Young People work in their Religious Societies and by whom should they be led? Mrs. S. R. Wince.

SATURDAY P. M.

1.30 Social Meeting led by A. Drew.
1.45 Bible Study. W. D. Thompson.
2.00 The One Faith. Chas Fish.
2.35 Our High Priest. F. L. Austin.
7.00 Social Meeting. H. F. Cordill.
7.45 The Hand of God in History, a Gleam of Coming Glory. J. F. Wagoner.

SUNDAY A. M.

9.30 Social Meeting led by J. H. Willey.
10.30 Sermon—Nature of Man, 1st, by Creation; 2nd, by Adoption; 3rd, by Resurrection. A. B. Zilmer.

SUNDAY P. M.

2.30 Communion Service. J. L. Wince.
6.30 Social Meeting led by J. F. Wagoner.
7.30 Second Coming of Christ. F. L. Austin.

It is important that all Sunday Schools appoint delegates, and we hope all will come in the Spirit of the Master. Committee on programme,

J. H. WILLEY.
D. E. VANVACTOR.
A. C. ROBERTS.

Guide to Washington, D. C. sent free to Teachers and Tourists.

It contains special information about places of interest, also complete and comprehensive map of the National Capital, time of through trains to Washington via of Pennsylvania Short Lines, and reduced rates over that route for the National Educational Association meeting in July. Just the thing for teachers and any one going to Washington. Address C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio, enclosing 2 cent stamp. The Guide is worth much more. jmo 1

We all complain of the shortness of time, and yet have much more than we know what to do with. Our lives are spent either in doing nothing at all, or in doing nothing to the purpose, or in doing nothing that we ought to. We are always complaining that our days are few, and acting as though there would be no end of them.

Competition is the essence of all strife.

Announcements.

The Annual Conference of the Church of God, in Michigan, will be held (D. V.) at Dutton, Kent Co., Thursday evening, June 2, 1898, and continue over the following Sunday. A hearty invitation is extended to all of like precious faith. Ample provision will be made for all visiting brethren. The brethren at Dutton wish that as many as can, could arrange to be there at the first meeting. Dutton is situated on the Michigan Central R. R., ten miles southeast of Grand Rapids. Come with hearts filled with love. Let the one great aim be to cheer and encourage each other on the way, and by so doing better prepare ourselves to overcome the trials and temptations we may have to endure. "Blessed is he whom the Lord when he cometh will find watching," for if we are watching we are also longing and waiting, and if we are longing and waiting, then do we keep ourselves in readiness for the coming of our Lord and Savior.

EMMA JACOBS, Sec.

Editor Restitution:

The Young People's meeting of the Church of God in Southern Kansas will meet at Crescent school house, near Bitter Creek post office, the 28 and 29 of May. The business meeting will be held Saturday evening. There will be two meetings on Sunday, the one 2.30 and the other at 7.30 P. M. All young people interested in the Truth are invited to be present and prepare papers on the subject which is "Christianity."

MARY L. PARRIS, Sec.

Special Rates via Vandalia Line.

Meeting of Elks at New Orleans, La., May 6 and 8. One fare for the Round trip.

Indiana League of Clubs at Bloomington, Ind., May 10 and 11. One and one-third fare for Round trip.

Knights Templar Convention at Indianapolis, May 13 and 14. One and one-third fare for Round trip.

Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. Convention at Indianapolis, May 16 and 17. One fare for Round trip.

G. A. R. and W. R. C. Encampment at Columbus, Ind., May 16, 17 and 18. One Cent per Mile.

Grand Lodge A. F. and A. M. at Indianapolis, May 23 and 24. One fare for Round trip.

Indiana University Alumni Reunion at Bloomington, Ind., June 10 and 12. One and one-third fare for Round trip.

For full information inquire of T. A. Downs, Agent.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

J. W. & Susan Sissle,	1.25
Mrs. Emily Collett,	1.00

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing. Said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 20th of April, 1898, providing notice is given through THE RESTITUTION that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all remittances to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 340, Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. S. J. Sigler,	$10.00
J. L. Wince,	5.00
F. L. Austin,	10.00
Edgar Hatch,	1.00
Agnes Dilworth,	2.00
Mrs. Mary E. Thompson,	15.00
One who believes that God from little offerings can work out great results.	10.00
A Friend of Truth,	1.00
Mrs. S. A. Wickizer,	5.00

"If the dew of the morning sparkles like diamonds in the meadows it is because the sunlight touches each drop, transforming it into a gem. If in this world of pain, hardship, disappointment and death, our lives shine, it will be because some ray of the divine love lights up our hearts."

"Beautiful Winona."—A Delightful Summer Haven.

Winona Lake, Indiana, (formerly Eagle Lake) is an attractive summer haven on the Pennsylvania Lines near Warsaw, Indiana. As the site of Winona Assembly and Summer School, has grown into favor very rapidly. Improvements made on the two hundred acres of romantic woodland which stretches nearly two miles along the eastern shore of Winona Lake, a beautiful sheet of water, include all the comforts and conveniences for a highly enjoyable sojourn. Ample facilities are at hand for satisfactory entertainment at reasonable rates at the commodious hotel which adjoins the railway station at the entrance to the grounds, in cosy cottages, or in tents as may be preferred.

Persons who may desire to combine devotion, entertainment and instruction with rest and recreation will find Winona Lake the ideal spot for invigorating both mind and body by inspective entertainment and study and health giving recreation. The educational work of the Summer School is in charge of well known instructors. The college halls are equipped with all requisite paraphernalia; the Lirge auditorium in which the assembly meets, and in which prominent lecturers are heard during the season, has a seating capacity of over 5,000. An amphitheatre, race track and other facilities for athletic pastimes are provided. The fishing, bathing and boating are fine, the latter fleet of boats being of the best.

The season of 1898 will open May 15th. Commencing on that date excursion tickets with fifteen day limit will be on sale via Pennsylvania Lines. They may be obtained during May, June, July and August. The sale of season excursion tickets will begin June 1st, and continue daily until September 30th. Season excursion tickets will be good returning until October 31st.

Full information about the attractions at "Beautiful Winona," its Assembly and Summer School, etc., will be cheerfully furnished all who address Mr. Sol. C. Dickey, Secretary, Winona Lake, Ind. Inquiries about excursion rates, time of trains, etc., should be addressed to Passenger and Ticket Agents of the Pennsylvania Lines, or to F. Van Cleve, Chief Assistant General Passenger Agent, Pittsburg, Pa. may 30.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons contesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

P. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. M. Chesebrough, Galesburgh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 1810 Saratoga st Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
V. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 155 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio.
W. L. Skeels, Scholls, Ore.
E. Hoyt, Box 884, Grand Rapids, Mich.
S. Roxana Wince, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Heath, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Scottsville, Ind.
J. W. Niles, Edinboro, Pa.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Chisonville, Ark.
J. J. Cody, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Price, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eyebauer, Hindbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Keas, 1507, S. X. St., Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Olson, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hall, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Sidell, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Osawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
D. M. Hedler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. G. Rampt, Laurel, Neb.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, Okla.
W. B. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Bothell, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
H. T. Baker, Box 1068 Decorah, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Cottonwood, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Marmont, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Buthbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave, Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Stella, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 41, Viola, Idaho.
Elder H. M. Williams, Portland, Kan.
B. Wilson, 1205 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
O. T. Halstead, Rensselaer, Ind.
John Peters, 2012 West Corning Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
R. S. Driggins, Rensselaer, Ind.
Kansas.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 384 Grand Rapids, Mich.

Cheap Rates via Vandalia.

The G. A. R. National Encampment at Cincinnati, O., Sept. 5th to 10th.

The Supreme Lodge of K. of P. and Uniform Rank Encampment at Indianapolis, beginning Aug. 30th.

For the above occasions the Vandalia Line will make a rate of One cent per Mile.—T. A. Downs, Agent.

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Turtle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 926 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Sister Ver. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and Ogden ave Ave. meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Avon, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., as follows:—Preaching by J. P. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God at Salem, Ohio, meet every Lord day of the week at 10:00, for devotional services. Any brother passing through Derby are cordially entitled to meet with us.

The Church of God at Vulcover S. D., hold services every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Mills Hall. Vulcover is on the direct line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R., going west to Aberdeen, fifty miles west of Huron.

The Church of God in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Union Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have room in parsonage. Jason Welton, Elder. Sunday School, Sec'y.

Viborg, S. Dak., Sunday School every Sunday at R. Olsen's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and social services every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Brethren known to this church, coming properly endorsed by introductory note will be heartily welcomed. At present we meet in the School House on top of the hill; cable car service every hour, and ferry brings from Seattle.

The brethren of the Church of God at Rush Creek, Okla. meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 when prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Rittenhouse, Ind., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthon, Elder.

The Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Brewer Hall, on Willoughby Ave., near Broadway.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gaithbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eyebauer. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Ready and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Rainbow Cabin is presided over by Brother L. C. Oliver.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trinsdell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grout of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okla., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles northeast of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet twice a month for the purpose of breaking bread and social services, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth meet with us. Services at 2 o'clock p. m. Lizzie Woods, Winterhode, Ill., Sec.

The Church of God of Waterville, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Mountainview School House, near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Corlmley, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 P. M. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Gower, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Faithfully yours, Grant Mechanner.

The Church of God at Aitken, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Aitken for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver, Lec.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1231½ Euclid Ave, near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. B. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10.00 a. m. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. B. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt binding, fifth edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Twelve Words;" one of "Early Lessons;" and one of "Honoring the Son,"—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

NICKEL PLATE

All trains arrive at and depart from the Union Passenger Station, Van Buren street, Chicago.

Uniformed Colored Porters attend first and second class day coaches on through trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars outside.

Eastbound. | All Sold. | Westbound.
Time Passes It

Lv.	Ar.	Trains Daily.	✠	✠	✠
7 30	11 15	Chicago	8 00		3 05
10 05	2 55	Valparaiso			12 05
11 30	4 30	Wanatah			10 45
7 00	10 35	Ar.	11 30		6 15
7 00	10 35	Lv.	11 45		6 15
11 55	3 45	Hobart			1 55
12 20	4 10	Kouts			1 30
1 15	5 00	Wheeler			12 40
1 35	5 20	Kersey			12 20
1 45	5 30	Gifford			12 10
2 00	5 45	Ft. Wayne	1 30		11 55
2 30	6 15	New York	6 00		7 30
2 30	6 15	Boston	6 00		7 30
10 20		Lv.	1 30		10 00

Eastbound. | All Sold. | Westbound.

Lv.	Ar.	Trains Daily.	✠	✠	✠
7 30	11 15	Chicago	8 00		3 05
10 05	2 55	Valparaiso			12 05
11 30	4 30	Wanatah			10 45
7 00	10 35	Ar.	11 30		6 15
7 00	10 35	Lv.	11 45		6 15
11 55	3 45	Hobart			1 55
12 20	4 10	Kouts			1 30
1 15	5 00	Wheeler			12 40
1 35	5 20	Kersey			12 20
1 45	5 30	Gifford			12 10
2 00	5 45	Ft. Wayne	1 30		11 55
2 30	6 15	New York	6 00		7 30
2 30	6 15	Boston	6 00		7 30
10 20		Lv.	1 30		10 00

Daily except Sunday. ✠ Stop on signal.

Local trains run between Stony Island and Kouts, also on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, between Kouts and Porter, Thursday and Saturday.

Dining Room Service Cars on Nos. 2, 4 and 8 through to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston; on Nos. 3 and 5 to Chicago. Meals are served at appropriate Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at respective meal hours. Baggage checked to destination. On quality you will find our rates are always lower than via other lines, service considered.

For rates and detailed information, address R. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agent.

Pittsb'g, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Div.

Pennsylvania Lines.

Schedule of Passenger Trains Central Time.

Westward.	6	16	50	4	38	2
	AM	PM	AM	PM	PM
Pittsb'gh, lv.	7 00	2 30		1 30		7 30
Alliance, ar.	9 50	5 20		4 20		10 20
" lv.	10 05	5 30		4 30		10 30
Canton, "	10 55	6 20		5 20		11 20
Massillon, "	10 54	6 40		5 40		11 40
Wooster, "	11 16	10 03		9 03		12 03
Mansfield, "	12 01	10 47	6 37	9 47	1 55	12 47
Crestline, ar.	12 45	11 30	6 55	10 30	2 40	1 30
Bucyrus, lv.	1 01	11 46	7 13	PM	2 56	1 46
Lima, "	2 10	12 55	8 20	12 40	4 05	2 55
Van Wert, "	3 35	2 00	9 43	1 47	5 30	4 20
Ft Wayne, ar.	4 55	3 15	11 15	AM	6 45	5 50
" lv.	4 30	3 15	6 30	2 30		5 50
Arcola, "			6 44	2 45		6 04
Columbia City, "	4 53	4 23	7 02	3 00		6 24
Larwill, "			7 08	3 06		6 30
Pierceton, "			7 14	3 12		6 36
Eagle Lake, "			7 20	3 18		6 42
Warsaw, "	5 31	4 55	7 30	3 28		6 57
Leesburg, "			7 37	3 35
Bourbon, "			7 50	3 48		7 20
Inwood, "			7 56	3 54
Plymouth, "	6 10	5 30	8 02	4 00		7 33
Grovertown, "			8 10	4 08
Hamlet, "			8 16	4 14
Davis, "			8 20	4 18
Hanna, "			8 26	4 24	4 40
Wanatah, "	7 02		8 37	4 35	4 51
Valparaiso, "	7 21	6 45	8 52	4 50	5 07	8 30
Wheeler, "			8 57	4 55	5 12
Hobart, "			9 11	5 09	5 27
Ellsworth, "			9 14	5 12	5 30
Clarke, "			9 20	5 18	5 36
Chicago, ar.	9 00	8 00	11 05	7 35	9 55	11 30
	PM	AM	PM	PM	PM	PM

Eastward.	10	8	1	3	9	5
	AM	PM	PM	PM	PM	PM
Chicago, lv.	7 20	3 00	11 30	7 15	10	5 45
Clarke, "	7 33		12 06		7 51	6 28
Liverpool, "	8 42		12 49		8 58	7 35
Hobart, "	9 01		1 07		9 16	7 53
Wheeler, "	9 05		1 07		9 20	7 57
Valparaiso, "	9 19	4 26	1 20	8 00	9 30	8 10
Wanatah, "	9 25		1 29		9 39	8 19
Hanna, "	9 31		1 34		9 45	8 25
Davis, "	9 36				9 50	8 30
Hamlet, "	9 40		2 13		9 54	8 34
Grovertown, "	10 18				10 32	9 12
Plymouth, "	10 36	5 40	2 45	9 15	10 50	9 30
Inwood, "	11 02		3 25		11 16	9 56
Bourbon, "	11 08		3 30	9 15	11 22	10 02
Leesburg, "	11 12		3 36		11 26	10 06
Warsaw, "	11 30	6 27	3 53	9 57	11 44	10 24
Eagle Lake, "	11 38				11 52	10 32
Pierceton, "	11 43		3 57		11 57	10 37
Larwill, "	11 49	6 43	4 06		12 03	10 43
Columbia City, "	12 15	7 09	4 32	9 45	12 29	11 09
Arcola, "	12 21		4 51		12 35	11 15
Ft Wayne, ar.	12 50	7 35	5 16	10 20	1 00	11 40
" lv.	1 10	7 45	5 30		1 10	11 45
Van Wert, "	2 48	9 24	7 07	11 58	2 48	1 23
Lima, "	3 55	10 30	8 20	PM	3 55	2 30
Bucyrus, "	5 10	11 45	9 35	1 00	5 10	3 45
Crestline, ar.	5 50	12 30	10 15	1 45	5 50	4 30
Mansfield, lv.	6 00	12 40	10 25	1 55	6 00	4 40
Wooster, "	6 51	1 27	11 12	2 42	6 47	5 27
Massillon, "	7 03	1 51	11 36	2 56	6 59	5 39
Canton, "	7 20	2 35	12 20	3 40	7 16	5 56
Alliance, ar.	7 45	3 00	12 45	4 05	7 41	6 21
Pittsb'gh, ar.	10 25	5 50	3 45	6 45	10 20	9 00
	AM	AM	PM	PM	PM	PM

I. F. LORER, General Manager.
K. A. FORD, General Passenger Agent.
13-98-P PITTSBURGH, PENN'A.

For time cards, rates of fare, through tickets, baggage checks, and further information regarding the running of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect Dec. 5, 1897.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING SOUTH.

No. 6, Ex. Sun. For St. Joseph	12:08 pm
No. 8, " " " "	10:14 pm

GOING NORTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute	6:33 a m
No. 3, " " " "	12:43 pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. Ford,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo.

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as New Year present for 1898. The cost is only three cents a week.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. B. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10.00 a. m. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. B. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt binding, fifth edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Twelve Words;" one of "Early Lessons;" and one of "Honoring the Son,"—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

NICKEL PLATE

All trains arrive at and depart from the Union Passenger Station, Van Buren street, Chicago.

Uniformed Colored Porters attend first and second class day coaches on through trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars outside.

Eastbound. | All Sold. | Westbound.
Time Passes It

Lv.	Ar.	Trains Daily.	✠	✠	✠
7 30	11 15	Chicago	8 00		3 05
10 05	2 55	Valparaiso			12 05
11 30	4 30	Wanatah			10 45
7 00	10 35	Ar.	11 30		6 15
7 00	10 35	Lv.	11 45		6 15
11 55	3 45	Hobart			1 55
12 20	4 10	Kouts			1 30
1 15	5 00	Wheeler			12 40
1 35	5 20	Kersey			12 20
1 45	5 30	Gifford			12 10
2 00	5 45	Ft. Wayne	1 30		11 55
2 30	6 15	New York	6 00		7 30
2 30	6 15	Boston	6 00		7 30
10 20		Lv.	1 30		10 00

Eastbound. | All Sold. | Westbound.

Lv.	Ar.	Trains Daily.	✠	✠	✠
7 30	11 15	Chicago	8 00		3 05
10 05	2 55	Valparaiso			12 05
11 30	4 30	Wanatah			10 45
7 00	10 35	Ar.	11 30		6 15
7 00	10 35	Lv.	11 45		6 15
11 55	3 45	Hobart			1 55
12 20	4 10	Kouts			1 30
1 15	5 00	Wheeler			12 40
1 35	5 20	Kersey			12 20
1 45	5 30	Gifford			12 10
2 00	5 45	Ft. Wayne	1 30		11 55
2 30	6 15	New York	6 00		7 30
2 30	6 15	Boston	6 00		7 30
10 20		Lv.	1 30		10 00

Daily except Sunday. ✠ Stop on signal.

Local trains run between Stony Island and Kouts, also on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, between Kouts and Porter, Thursday and Saturday.

Dining Room Service Cars on Nos. 2, 4 and 8 through to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston; on Nos. 3 and 5 to Chicago. Meals are served at appropriate Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at respective meal hours. Baggage checked to destination. On quality you will find our rates are always lower than via other lines, service considered.

For rates and detailed information, address R. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agent.

Pittsb'g, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Div.

Pennsylvania Lines.

Schedule of Passenger Trains Central Time.

Westward.	6	16	50	4	38	2
	AM	PM	AM	PM	PM
Pittsb'gh, lv.	7 00	2 30		1 30		7 30
Alliance, ar.	9 50	5 20		4 20		10 20
" lv.	10 05	5 30		4 30		10 30
Canton, "	10 55	6 20		5 20		11 20
Massillon, "	10 54	6 40		5 40		11 40
Wooster, "	11 16	10 03		9 03		12 03
Mansfield, "	12 01	10 47	6 37	9 47	1 55	12 47
Crestline, ar.	12 45	11 30	6 55	10 30	2 40	1 30
Bucyrus, lv.	1 01	11 46	7 13	PM	2 56	1 46
Lima, "	2 10	12 55	8 20	12 40	4 05	2 55
Van Wert, "	3 35	2 00	9 43	1 47	5 30	4 20
Ft Wayne, ar.	4 55	3 15	11 15	AM	6 45	5 50
" lv.	4 30	3 15	6 30	2 30		5 50
Arcola, "			6 44	2 45		6 04
Columbia City, "	4 53	4 23	7 02	3 00		6 24
Larwill, "			7 08	3 06		6 30
Pierceton, "			7 14	3 12		6 36
Eagle Lake, "			7 20	3 18		6 42
Warsaw, "	5 31	4 55	7 30	3 28		6 57
Leesburg, "			7 37	3 35
Bourbon, "			7 50	3 48		7 20
Inwood, "			7 56	3 54
Plymouth, "	6 10	5 30	8 02	4 00		7 33
Grovertown, "			8 10	4 08
Hamlet, "			8 16	4 14
Davis, "			8 20	4 18
Hanna, "			8 26	4 24	4 40
Wanatah, "	7 02		8 37	4 35	4 51
Valparaiso, "	7 21	6 45	8 52	4 50	5 07	8 30
Wheeler, "			8 57	4 55	5 12
Hobart, "			9 11	5 09	5 27
Ellsworth, "			9 14	5 12	5 30
Clarke, "			9 20	5 18	5 36
Chicago, ar.	9 00	8 00	11 05	7 35	9 55	11 30
	PM	AM	PM	PM	PM	PM

Eastward.	10	8	1	3	9	5
	AM	PM	PM	PM	PM	PM
Chicago, lv.	7 20	3 00	11 30	7 15	10	5 45
Clarke, "	7 33		12 06		7 51	6 28
Liverpool, "	8 42		12 49		8 58	7 35
Hobart, "	9 01		1 07		9 16	7 53
Wheeler, "	9 05		1 07		9 20	7 57
Valparaiso, "	9 19	4 26	1 20	8 00	9 30	8 10
Wanatah, "	9 25		1 29		9 39	8 19
Hanna, "	9 31		1 34		9 45	8 25
Davis, "	9 36				9 50	8 30
Hamlet, "	9 40		2 13		9 54	8 34
Grovertown, "

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RABLSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

The Old Melodies.

The heart grows sad as through endless toil
I plain to hide sad things away
With many a wail to the angels
For tender pity and sympathy.
Though memory's sprinkler, we think,
Bedecks it forever in holy things—
The stones dispersed when we recall
The songs of the home and loved ones.

When came at noon them, the old voices,
In "Days on Alcdeo" clear and sweet"
Who does not thrill with "Happy Day"
When through the years he came to greet
"Wait on the Wonder" "Safe Home"
"Tom Moore" —oh how they rise and ring
And seraph harps each note recognize
Than songs that never need be sung.

Communicated.

Judges, Chapter 1.

1. And it came to pass after the death of Jesous (Joshua" C. V. and R. V.) and the sons of Israel were asking through the Lord, saying, Who shall go up for us against the Chananaites, us leaders to make war against them?

2. The Lord even said, Jondas shall go up; Lo, I have given the land at his hand.

3. And Jondas said unto Simeon, his brother, Do thou go up with me in my lot, and let us array ourselves against the Chananaites, and I will also go with thee in thy lot. And Simeon went his way with him.

4. And Jondas went up: And the Lord gave the Chananaite and the Pherezaite into their hands, and they cut them down in Bezek to the number of ten thousand men.

5. And they overtook Adonibezek in Bezek and arrayed themselves against him, and they cut down the Chananaite and the Pherezaite.

6. And put Adonibezek to flight; and they ran after him and took him;

7. And Adonibezek said, Seventy kings who had their fingers and toes cut off were accustomed to gather the crumbs beneath my table: Even as I did therefore hath God given me in return. And they led him into Hierousalem, and they took it and smote it with the mouth of the sword and they burned the city with fire.

9. And after that the sons of Jondas went down to war against the Chananaite who inhabited the mountain range and the south and the plain;

10. And Jondas went his way against the Chananaite dwelling in Chebron, (Hebron C. V. and R. V.) And Chebron went out in opposition; and the name Chebron was formerly Kariatharboksopher; And they smote Sessi and Achimas and Tholmi descendants of Enak.

11. And they went up from there against the inhabitants of Dabor now the name of Dabir was formerly Koriatbsopher, a city of scribes.

12. And Chaleb said, Whoever shall smite the city of the scribes and shall take it first, to him will I give Aska my daughter for a wife.

13. And Gothoniel a son of Kenez a brother of Chaleb, his youngest son took it first, and Chaleb gave him his daughter Aska for a wife.

14. And it came to pass, as she was going in, Gothoniel induced her to ask from her father a field: and she was murmuring and crying out from the beast of burden. In a land of the south give me: And Chaleb said unto her, What is thy request?

15. And Aska said unto him, Give me a blessing, give it me in a land of the south, and give me a redemption of water: And Chaleb gave her according to her heart, a redemption of high lands and low lands.

16. And the sons of Iothor (Jethro C. V.) the Kinaite, the relative of Mouses by marriage, (not his "father-in-law" because Hrageuel was his father-in-law) went up out of the city of the palm trees along with the sons of Jondas into the wilderness that was on the south of Jondas, which is by the declivity of Arad, and took up their abode along with the laity.

17. And Jondas went his way along with Symeon his brother, and cut down the Cananaite inhabiting Sephor and utterly destroyed them: and he called the name of the city Anathema.

18. And Jondas did not inherit Gaza nor the boundaries thereof, nor Askalom, nor the boundaries thereof, and Akkaron nor the boundaries thereof, Azotos nor the sown fields thereof.

19 And the Lord was with Jondas and he inherited the mountain, because they were not able to utterly destroy those inhabiting the valley because Hesiah put an injunction on them

20. And they gave Chaleb Chebron even as Mouses had said: and he inherited therefrom the three cities of the sons of Enak.

21. And the Jebousaite dwelling in Hierousalem the sons of Beniamin did not inherit: and the Jebousaites have dwelt in Hierousalem in the midst of the sons of Beniamin to this day.

22. And the sons of Joasseph they also went up to Baithel, and the Lord was with them:

23. And they pitched camp and took a look down on Baithel: and the name of the city was formerly Louza.

24. And the watchmen saw, and lo, a man was going his way out of the city: and they took him, and they said unto him, Show us the entrance into the city, and we will show thee mercy:

25. And he showed them the entrance to the city: and they smote the city with the mouth of the sword, and the man and his kindred they sent out

26. And the man went his way into Chettin, and built there a city and called the name of it Louza: This is the name of it to this day.

27. And Manasse did not take Baithsan which is a city of Skuthoi ("Scythians") nor the daughters thereof, nor the environments thereof: nor Thanuk nor the daughters thereof, nor those who inhabited Door, nor the daughters thereof, nor the inhabitant of Balak, nor its environments, nor the daughters thereof: nor the dwellers of Magedoo, nor the environments, nor the daughters thereof: nor the inhabitants of Jebbam, nor the environments, nor the daughters thereof: and the Chananaite began to take up their abode in this land.

28. And it came to pass when Israel had become strong, he also made the Chananaite subject to tribute and did not exterminate them.

29. And Ephraim did not exterminate the Chananaite dwelling in Gazer; and the Chananaite dwelt in Gazer in their midst, and became subject to tribute.

30. And Zabouloon did not exterminate the inhabitants of Kedroon, nor the inhabitants of Daanaan; and the Chananaite dwelt in their midst and became subject to tribute.

31. And Aseer did not exterminate the inhabitants of Akebon, and they became tributary to him; and the inhabitants of Sidoon, and the inhabitants of Dafaph, the inhabitant of Aschazi, and Chelsba and Nai and Ereoo.

32. And Aseer took up his abode in the midst of the Chananaite inhabiting the land, because he was not able to exterminate them.

33. And Nephthali took up his abode in the midst of the Chananaite inhabiting the land, and the inhabitants of Baithsamus, and the inhabitants of Baithanuk, he did not exterminate: and Nephthale took up his abode in the midst of the Chananaite inhabiting the land; but those dwelling in Baithsamus an Baitheneth became tributary to them.

34. And the Amorraite drove out the sons of Dan into the mountain, because they did not allow them to come down into the valley.

35. And the Amorraite began to take up their abode in the mountain as it were of potsherds, in which were the bears, and in which were the foxes in Murshuooni and in Thalabin; and the hand of the house of Joseph was heavy upon the Amorraite and they became tributary to them.

36. And the boundary of the Amorraite was from the ascent of Akrabin from the rock and upward.

Chapter 2.

1. And an angel (messenger) of the Lord went up from Galgal unto Baithel and unto the house of Israel and said unto them, Thus saith the Lord, I conducted you up out of Aiguptos, and I led you into the land which I swore unto your fathers, and I said, I will not dissipate my covenant with you forever.

2. And ye shall not have made a covenant with those who are occupants of this land, nor shall ye worship their gods: but their sculptured things shall ye break in pieces. Their altars shall ye tear down, and ye have not hearkened unto my voice, because these things have ye done.

3. And I've said I shall not take them away from your face, and they will be bonds upon you, and their gods be a stumbling block unto you.

4 And it came to pass when the messenger of the Lord had talked these words unto all the sons of Israel, the laity even lifted up their voice and lamented.

5. And they named the name of that place Lamentations, and they sacrificed as to the Lord there.

6. And Jesous sent away the laity and each man went into his inheritance to inherit the land.

7. And the laity served the Lord as bond-servants all the days of Jesous, and all the days of the elders as many as prolonged their days after Jesous, as many as had known all the great doing of the Lord all the things he had done in Israel.

8. And Jesous, son of Nauee, came to his end, a bond-servant of the Lord, a son for one hundred and ten years.

9. And they buried him in a boundary of his inheritance, in Thamnathares, in Mount Ephraim, north of Mount Gaas.

10. And all that generation were added to their fathers; and there arose another generation after them, who did not know the Lord and the work that he had done in Israel

17. And the sons of Israel did that which was wicked in the sight of the Lord and served the Baal-ites for hire.

12. And forsook the Lord God of their fathers, who had led them out of a land of Aiguptos, and went their way after other gods from the gods of the nations round about them, and worshiped them, and provoked the Lord to wrath.

13. And they forsook him and served Baal for hire and the Astarte-rites.

14. And the Lord became wrathful with anger at Israel, and gave them up into the hands of those who were plundering them, and they plundered them exceedingly; and he gave them up into the hands of their enemies round about, and they were no longer able to withstand the face of their enemies.

15. All those in among whom they went their way: and the hand of the Lord was against them for calamities even as the Lord had said, and even as the Lord had sworn unto them, and he wore them out with tribulation exceedingly.

16. And the Lord raised up judges and saved them out of the hands of those who were plundering them.

17. And forsooth they did not hearken to the judges, because they had gone off in fornication after other gods and worshiped them, and they had inclined away quickly from the way, in which their fathers had gone, to hearken to the words of the Lord They did not do in this wise.

18. And do it because the Lord had raised up judges for them, and the Lord was with the judge, and had saved them out of the hands of their enemies all the days of the judge, because the Lord had helped them by reason of their sighing before the face of those who were besieging and afflicting them.

19. And it came to pass when the judge had died they even turned away, and became again more corrupt than their fathers in going their way after other gods to serve them for hire and worship them: they did not cast away their devices and their hard ways.

20. And the Lord became wrathful with anger at Israel and said, because of all the ways in which this nation have forsaken my covenant which I enjoined on their fathers, and because they have not hearkened to my voice.

21. Jakes will not repent delivering a man of influence from the nations that Jesous son of Nauee left behind in the land with which.

22. "To try Israel, to see whether they could watch to guard the way of the Lord, to go the way as their fathers did, to watch to guard it or not

23. And the Lord left these nations even of not driving them away speedily; and he did not give them up speedily; and he did not give them up at the hand of Jesous.

Comment

The Polychrome Bible now being issued under the auspices of the John Hopkins University will soon be before the general public we are told in the outlook, which has given some extracts with appropriate comment from the advance sheets. It will be a translation, we are told, in the interest of the "New Theology" as it is called, and will exemplify the best scholarship of that school, which is distinctively Hebraistic—that is the school that still adhere to the tradition that there is no text worthy of notice or investigation, except the so-called original Hebrew, and this too in the face of the fact that it has been over and over again shown to be the most corrupt of any contemporaneous text extant: "The Masoretic fragments" from which it was compiled in the fifteenth century, were notoriously fragmentary and the lacunae had to be supplied from Hebrew sources that were also notoriously inimical to Christianity and the very word "Masoramenta traditum, against which Christ specifically warned his disciples. The reader will do well to compare, if he has access to the Ptyerotome translation of this book of Judges, which as I stand is now long issued, and is said to embody the latest research in this textual field.

The 1st chapter is of course introductory and minutely particular in its outline of the conduct of the twelve tribes of Israel in their relation to the covenant under which they had been conducted in to inherit the land, and how each tribe without exception had ignored the specific terms of God's conditions of mercy made clear to them, and so confessed by them as here stated—the terms namely of the blessing and the curse.

Notwithstanding all this they soon lapse into Baalism and a conformity to its corrupting influences and environments with all the attendant calamities so clearly predicted by God through Moses.

The second chapter reviews in brief the interpositional mercy of God in raising up men of influence called judges to repeatedly deliver them for the time being from the resulting bondage of their now disobedience, only to lapse again into a state each time worse than the first as herein stated. And this leads us up to a recital history of Israel's experience under the rule and leadership of the judges so called, which gives name to the book, and with which the third chapter opens.

CHAS. GARDNER

Our Love Feast.

Dear Restitution:

As I have never written anything for the paper, and see so many letters from the brothers and sisters that strengthen me and give me courage to press on, I thought a few words from me might benefit others. I am 62 years old, have lived in the Christian Church 35 years. I was immersed three years ago by Brother Eychoner, and now I am determined to walk the straight and narrow way, and make no compromises with error. By the grace of God I am determined to stand firm, turn neither to the right nor the left. There are many things coming up to draw us away from the truths. Brothers and sisters, beware of vain philosophy and divine heroes. They will deceive the very elect if possible. Take the Bible for your guide, search the Scriptures, and see if those things are so. Walk the straight and narrow way. Jesus says: "Will the Son of Man find faith on the earth when he comes?" Think of it, brothers and sisters, stand firm in the faith once delivered to the saints. Some of our brothers and sisters are being led astray by false theories, and some have become cold and indifferent. Oh, how sad to think of. The Master will soon be here once more. I entreat you to wait, have your lamps trimmed and burning, don't be deceived, endure to the end and receive reward. Take The Restitution, it is the best paper, it advocates sound doctrine.

Two thirty-hundred virgins.
Sound with the old answer,
Let us stay and expect the
The Bridegroom draweth nigh.
May all our lamps be burning,
Our lives well guarded by
Each bright work and preparing,
With joy the meeting.

Your Sister in the one faith.

LIZZIE ANTHONY.

Editor Restitution:

I can not give up my paper. I do not hear the true preaching up here. I read my Bible and my paper. I do not know what I would do if it was not for the dear Restitution, for I love to read the letters from the brethren and sisters. I am looking for the soon coming of my dear Savior. I hope we will all be ready when he comes to claim his own.

From your Sister,

Miss IDRA HERRON.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

For a long while I have longed to send something to the "Love Feast," that the few who know me may know that I am alive and well, but most of all to let them know that I am still in this blessed faith, and that I, with all the true ones of God's family, am looking and longing to see the dear King, our blessed Jesus, returning in his majesty and power, to set all these crooked ways right. But when I read the letters from the dear brothers and sisters, I see so many that express my very thoughts so thoroughly, that I would think, there is no need for me to write, for I should say nothing but what has already been said, and is being said every week. But this is the very thing that makes our relationship so very dear to each other. We are all children of one loving family; all of one mind; all building upon the one "Rock;" all with the same love for our dear crucified Savior; all with the same crosses and trials; taking up the cross daily, that we may thereby win the crown. As our dear elder brother Paul has said, "Glorifying in our tribulations," etc. Paul also says, "Our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory."

"Nations are angry—by this we do know.
Jesus is coming very soon!
Knowledge increases to and fro,
Yes, Jesus is coming very soon."

Oh, what joy it gives us (who are so weary and heart-sore) to see the signs of his soon coming, and to understand, and know, that very soon we shall be at rest in his beautiful kingdom, where sorrow and sin cannot enter, and when tears shall be wiped away forever. Dear ones, pray for me, that my faith may be made stronger from day to day, so that when he does appear, I may not be afraid or ashamed to look him in the face, and also that I enter in with all the loved and waiting ones.

Your loving Sister.

M. E. B.

Dear Restitution:

I am still living in hope of the glorious appearing of our Lord and Savior. I have belonged to the Church of this faith nearly two years. The waiting time seems long, but we must work while it is day. Pray for me that I may have my loins girt about with Truth, that I have on the whole armor of God, that I may be able to stand fast in this evil day. Oh, how much we need to exhort one another and pray for one another; how much we need to be knit together in love compassion and tender heartedness, with all lowliness, meekness, long suffering, endeavoring to keep the unity of the Spirit, striving to be of one mind of doctrine. I ask again, pray for me that I may be found in him, not in my own righteousness, but the righteousness which comes by faith in God, through our Lord Jesus Christ, that my life may be hid with Christ in God.

From one who hopes for the restitution of all things, which God has spoken by the mouth of the holy prophets since the world began. The Lord help us all who are striving to be like him.

H. HUSER.

Dear Restitution:

I am of the Abrahamic faith, but have not been immersed yet. There are but few of our faith here. We are laughed and scorned at, but thanks be to God, we don't care. I am glad to know there are so many of us scattered over the broad land as there are. I don't know many that write to The Restitution, but we will know each other when King Jesus comes and calls us, and we are gathered to New Jerusalem to inherit the grand glorious blessings.

We are asked, what is the true condition of the dead between death and the resurrection? Let the Bible answer, "The dead know not anything. There is no work, nor device, nor knowledge in the grave where thou goest." Leave with either pleasure or pain it is night when no man can work. In the very day when his thoughts perish, "The dead knoweth not until they are brought up." Then O, grave, where is thy victory? Oh, death, where is thy sting? Then that sleep in Jesus will God bring with him. In the same sense that he brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus. Let me say to all who are walking in the light, that God gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. John iii. 16. And so the whole blood washed throng of heirs after his death, as well as them before, will meet in the resurrection and unite with thankful hearts and voices in the song of redemption. "Thou was slain and thou hast redeemed us to God out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation, and hast made us unto our God king and priests, and we shall reign with Christ.

Asking an interest in your prayers,

LOVELL HURST.

Editor Restitution:

I should miss the weekly visits of The Restitution very much, as it is nearly all the preaching I hear from my own faith. But I must tell you of the good meetings we have had at Fulton, Mich., by Brother and Sister Woodward. For sixteen sermons we listened as they held up the truths of the Bible, and I enjoyed it so much. It seems to strengthen our hope and encourage us to hear such preaching of our own faith, the more so as we are so few among the many orthodox believers here. Our numbers are few, but we are firm in the faith once delivered to the saints. We expect to have the pleasure of hearing from our able preachers again, and we hope some may see the beauties and satisfaction of trying to live Christian lives, and join our numbers.

As ever your Sister in the one faith,

MRS. EMMA B. CULP.

Dear Restitution:

It is with pleasure I take my pen in hand to thank you for writing on my subscription. May God bless you, for the sending of the paper is a great blessing to me. I can say by God's help I am journeying on towards the kingdom, which is soon to appear. My desire is to live to see the King come, but God's will be done. The blessed Master has said, "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life. Dear brothers and sisters, the crown is worth waiting and working for: it fadeth not away. Are we letting our light so shine before men that they may see the great plan of redemption? There is no time to lose life, for Christ will soon come, and will we be found ready? I feel every day like exclaiming with good old Peter, "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his abundant mercy hath begotten us unto a lively hope, by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. With all this in view, how beautiful the prayer we daily offer to our heavenly Father, "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." May the glad day soon come and bring life and immortality, is the prayer of a Sister.

SARAH BOWMAN.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, MAY 11, 1898. NUMBER 19.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
B. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, IND. MAY 11, 1898.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Marshall, Co., Ind."

Remittance should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk. money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

ACCORDING to LeMatin, there exist in France 72,000 Jews in a population of nearly 38,000,000.

THE Light says Christ has glorified poverty, failure and suffering, as this world counts such things.

WE see that a preacher at Douglasville, Ga., recently said to his congregation:—"Brethren, let me exhort you, when you come into the house of God to please leave your tobacco outside on a log or stump. I assure you that neither a goat nor a hog will touch it, and after the service is over, you can go back and get it."

THE English Department of War has directed that facilities shall be given for Jewish soldiers to observe the Passover on April 7, 8, 13, and 14; Pentecost May 27 and 28; the New Year, Sept. 26, and the Feast of Tabernacles, Oct. 1, 2 8 and 9. This indicates that quite a number of Jews are found in English uniform, of which fact we had no idea.

THE Ram's Horn says:—

"Keeping eye on Christ, keeps it off the world."

"The dews of God's Grace fall during the night of sorrow."

"God's Son was without sin, but not without temptation."

"The more perfect the trust, the more perfect the peace."

"God will do as much for us as we will submit to have done."

READER, do you wish to know what God requires a believer of his promises to do in order that he may inherit them? The answer to such is, Do what Peter commanded the same class to do in Acts ii. 38. Do what is prescribed in Acts iii. 19. Do what the Samaritans did in Acts viii. 12-16. Do what the Ethiopian did, Acts viii. 38, 39. Do what Paul did in Acts ix. 18. Do what Peter commended devout Gentiles to do in Acts x. 48. Do what the Corinthians did in Acts xviii. 8. Do what the Philippian household did, Acts xvi. 33, for they all did the same thing by divine direction.

WE received this card from Brother Zilmer. We are truly glad to get such encouraging reports.

Dear Restitution:

I am glad to report that the meeting at Delta, Ohio, from April 20th to May 5th, was a success. Seven persons embraced the truth, and upon confession of their faith in the things concerning the kingdom of God and the name of Jesus Christ, were baptized. Our brethren are greatly encouraged. Yesterday I came to North Lewisburgh, Ohio, where I will remain a short time.

Yours in the Blessed Hope.

A. H. ZILMER.

MR. LEON VON OSSKO, of Lancaster, Pa., who for the past six years has been traveling through the world, looking into queer places and making pictures of them, recently said in answer to a question of a reporter, "What kind of a country is the Holy Land nowadays?" said, "It is a fertile country. The hills have grown up a vegetation which makes it a pretty place. I rode out on my bicycle one morning to Bethlehem, some twelve miles from Jerusalem, and I do not believe I ever rode through a prettier country. I found many pretty pictures to sketch while there. All along between Jerusalem and Bethlehem the Jews have settled, and I found many of them speaking English, having come from European countries; and I heard while in Jerusalem of hundreds of families who had moved there to make homes, having acquired wealth in other countries." Mr. Ossko believes the Jewish nation is still the beloved nation, and that their destinies are still being watched over by a higher power, and that their prosperity all over the earth is traceable to this power.

Toil On

Jesus says, "Whosoever, therefore, shall be ashamed of me and my words, in this adulterous and sinful generation, of him also shall the Son of Man be ashamed when he cometh in the glory of his Father with the holy angels." Matt. viii. 35. This emphasizes what he said in the 5th chapter, "Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father who is in heaven." Beloved, how do you stand in relation to this solemn warning, and this positive command? Are you witnessing faithfully for the truth as it is in Jesus? or, does the offence of the cross and the crown in these evil days cause you to obscure the rays of divine light entrusted to you? Passing events indicate that it will soon be too late to win a bride for the glorious Lord. There is no time to lose if you want to hear Jesus say "Well done, good and faithful servant,—enter thou into the joys of thy Lord." Work while it is called today, the wages follow after. If you have begun to do the work of the Lord keep steadily at it,—abound in it,—your labor will not be in vain, although apparently it yield no fruit. Not a prayer you offer nor a word you speak, nor a step you take, nor a tear you shed, nor a hand you hold out to the perishing, nor a warning you give the careless brother, nor a visit paid to the widow or fatherless, nor a loaf of bread you lay on a poor man's table, but is faithfully registered,—so beloved, toil on,—be steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord. 1 Cor. xv. 58.

Our War with Spain.

But little news other than the full detail of the battle at Manila has reached us. It has been a week of waiting for something to happen. It appears that Admiral Dewey's fleet at Manila came through the fight with only a dozen wounded, none killed and no vessel even badly damaged. He is just holding what he gained, and waiting for orders and reinforcements to come and enable him to land and take possession of the Philippine Islands. Of course the question is, What will the United States do with them? We do not wish to be considered as being able to see far into the future, but if this nation is to take a part in the great events of the world in the future, we think she will keep these islands, and whatever else she can; if not directly governing them, then indirectly, by having them dependent upon her. She will thus have them when she needs them for a base of action.

Admiral Sampson has taken his fleet to the waters about Puerto Rico, and may meet the Spanish fleet there. It is not known where the Spaniards are, but if they are this side of the Atlantic they should be near this island. Troops are being equipped ready for landing in Cuba so soon as the whereabouts of the fleets are known, and there is a conflict at sea.

In the meantime there has been much trouble in Spain. Don Carlos, Weyler and the administration, dividing the people. Riots in the cities, martial law being in force in many places, and distress of all kinds. The powers might be induced to intervene for peace were England not opposed to it. Some strange and unlooked for events will likely startle the world before long. The Bible student can see the outlines of some of them now. Keep on the watch tower. Hasten the work that yet remains for us to do, for the time may be very short that we shall have to work.

Law or Gospel—Which? No. 9.

Our No. 8 closed with the sum of all the good things obtainable by obedience to the Covenant from Sinai. It contained not a single promise relating to future life and blessedness, for the reason we have often given already, viz; that a perfect system for obtaining a title to everlasting life had been in force 430 years when the Sinai Law or Covenant was given. And we have repeatedly proved from the Word of the Spirit in Gal. iii. 17, that that perfect system was not annulled by the Sinai Covenant, but remained in force as before. We have many times tried to make this matter clear, whether successfully or not we do not know, and so present it in still other words:—

1. The Covenant made with Abraham, and by which he became heir of the world (Rom. iv. 13) continued in force as if no Sinai Covenant had been made; but

2. It was not in force with that multitude of heathens just freed from Egyptian slavery. If any of our readers ask why it was not in force with them, we reply, Because they were not under that covenant. They were not a party to it. They would not come under it. There was only one way to come under it, and that was the way Abraham came under it, and that was by faith in the covenant blessings, and then living a life of obedience to its discipline, as that worthy patriarch did, see Gen. xxvi. 5. That vast multitude were too low down in the scale of being to be governed on the principle of faith and obedience, and had to be placed under an arbitrary law, with the sword of Justice suspended over them, the descent of which was averted by the divine service instituted for that purpose. There is something here which demands the attention of those who place themselves under the law now. Can they not see that such action proves them to be without faith in God's saving power, the Gospel?

XVIII. It is stoutly maintained by the legalists that the Decalogue is of universal application to earth's inhabitants. But how untrue this must be seen to be when we consider

1. That no uncircumcised Gentile could approach God by the typical sacrifices of the Aaronic priesthood? Would a Just God make men amenable to a law impossible for human nature to obey perfectly, and then debar a portion of them from the merciful justifying system of means belonging to it? Heb. ix 1. Would he?

2. God, instead of giving the Decalogue to all people, and offering them the land of Canaan flowing with milk and honey, together with the other temporal blessings enumerated in our No. 8, he set Israel upon the nations in that land and commanded them to extirpate them, so that they should not, and could not share them with Israel. And if any other rewards for obedience to it were ever given, let them be brought to light.

3. Positively the Gentiles were not under the law; Rom. ii. 14 says so, and the same apostle writing to the Corinthians says that to the Jews he became as a Jew that he might gain the Jews; to them that are under the law, as under the law that I might gain them that are under the law; to them that are without law, as without law, that I might gain them that are without law.

4. Positively the law was a wall of separation between Jew and Gentiles, Eph. ii. 14. If both Jews and Gentiles had the law, how, in the nature of things, could it have been a cause of enmity between them?

5. In Gal. iii. 24, Paul says "Wherefore the law was our Schoolmaster unto Christ." If the Gentiles had had the law unto Christ would it not have been THEIR Schoolmaster too? Would it not have constituted Gentiles God's people as well as it did the Jews? Instead of that in giving the Law to the Jews did he not say that they were to be a peculiar treasure to him above all people? If Jews and Gentiles alike had the oracles of God committed to them could Paul in Romans iii. have said as he did, that the Jew had much advantage over the Gentile because unto them (Jews) were committed the oracles of God? Was not the Sinai covenant included in the oracles of God?

Paul in Rom. ix. 4 positively teaches the same thing again, for he shows that the adoption, the glory, and the covenants, and the giving of the Law, and the service, and the promises pertain to his brethren according to the flesh,—and not to the Gentiles, as proven by the 25th verse where he quotes from Hosea ii. 23 the prediction of what had actually been recently done by the instrumentality of Peter, himself, and others, viz: "I will call them my people, which were not my people, and her beloved which was not beloved."

This same apostle in writing to the Ephesians says, chap. iii. 5, in other ages it was not even made known that the Gentiles should be fellow-heirs and of the same body, and partakers of his promise in Christ by the gospel; and further says the favor of showing all such this great truth that had been hidden from the beginning of the world had been given him. see verses 9, 10.

6. Jesus commanded the apostles to go into all the world, but so foreign was the Gentile call to them that they only at first went about among the Gentile nations to preach to their own brethren scattered abroad. And, to overcome this inbred idea it was necessary to work several miracles, and then Peter proclaimed the gospel to the Gentile soldier, see Acts x.

And it is a remarkable providence that at the conference held at Jerusalem to hear Peter's report and to settle the matter of preaching the gospel to the Gentiles,—yes; it is a remarkable providence that the chairman or president, James, says, "Simon [Simon Peter] hath declared how God at the first, did visit the Gentiles to take out of them a people for his name." Here, for the first time God's saving truth was proclaimed to Gentiles; here the first one was taken out for God's name: all of which is in perfect agreement with our previous findings.

Just think of the immense amount of evidence—divine evidence—that the Gentiles were never under when it was in force, and then think of the consummate folly of making it the means of salvation to Gentiles near 1900 years after it was nailed to the cross of Christ—abolished! Think of it after Paul says to the Gentiles in Rom. vi. 14, "Ye are not under law, but under grace;" and Gal. v. 4, "Christ is become of no effect unto you, whosoever of you are justified by the law, ye are fallen from grace."

Again in Rom. vii. 6, he says, Now we [himself a Jew and the Gentiles and others in the church at Rome] are delivered from the Law, and we serve in newness of spirit [it was heart-work now, not merely mechanical obedience] and not in the oldness of the letter.

Sabbatarians reply to this that the words not under the law means not under its curse. This is entirely gratuitous. Lexicons and common sense and Scripture alike show that it means to be under its authority. Will they apply their definition to the Gentiles whom Paul says desired to be under the Law? Did the Galatians desire to be under the curse of the Law? Is not that too absurd altogether? Hence the only conclusion we can come to is, that they wanted to keep it, and have a righteousness of their own like that which Paul repudiated for that "which is through the faith of Christ,—the righteousness which is of God by faith." Phil. iii. 9.

Observe well what the apostle says to these erring Galatians, "Ye observe days and months and times and years [exactly what the law required, and the result was what was expressed in the next words] "I am afraid of you, lest I have bestowed upon you labor in vain, [preached the gospel of the grace of God to them in vain; or as he expressed it in Gal. ii. 21, "If righteousness come by the law, then Christ is dead in vain."]

This is just what the Sabbatarians are doing themselves, and compassing sea and land to induce others to do, enslave themselves to the law and so far as they are concerned, make the death of Christ entirely useless. This is the apostolic decision respecting those who say the Decalogue or the law contains our whole duty to man, and ensures a right to the tree of life. Law and Gospel principles will not mix. It must be one or the other. We have decided for gospel against law, as our readers should know by this time.

But before us lies a letter from a dear brother who gently informed us some days ago that we were only following the lines of the Sabbatarians, and suggested some of their late literature should be consulted as they had changed their front somewhat, and were trimming their sails to suit the breeze. We took the hint without delay, and sure enough, under the heading of "Righteousness, Where found? and How may it be obtained?" and, to our astonishment, "Justification by Faith" etc., they are actually trying to make use of a little gospel truth, by mixing it with law. But such another religious jumble we never before saw. Of course after all that has been said and published in reference to obedience to the law of commandments as a means of salvation it could not be ignored, exactly, in the tract "Righteousness,—Where is it to be found? How is it to be obtained?" So, after quoting the words of Jesus, "Seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness," it is presently said, "We learn that God's law teaches what the principles of righteousness require,—"Thy testimonies that thou hast commanded are righteousness and very faithful." Psa. cxix. 172, etc. And adds: "All unrighteousness is sin, 1 John v. 17; and sin is the transgression of the law, 1 John iii. 4; Rom. vii. 7. This is the law of ten commandments, for the Apostle Paul in the latter text quotes the tenth commandment to show what law was meant. Therefore, as the law of God condems all sin, and forbids all unrighteousness, it must embrace in itself all unrighteousness."

In answer to this we say, What a pity the writer does not know what the righteousness of the Law secured to the obedient! How painful to see that he does not realize that the righteous principles contained in the Law were competent to ensure all the blessings promised. And how doubly painful to see that the amendments, and many scores of additional laws enacted by Jesus, have no place in this statement. To one instructed in the truth the reason is obvious. They do not know, or, if they know, do not believe, that the changes, and additional laws of Jesus, the prophet like unto Moses he promised to raise up, were with a view to salvation from death and eternal glory, instead of long mortal life and temporal blessings in Canaan, by the law of commandments. The one included intellectual assent, and Mediatorial obedience. The other required heart-belief, and the loving obedience springing out of their faith.

Law advocates often carry things with a high hand with the popular preachers, who not having the truth, they are like those the prophet Isaiah describes as dumb dogs which cannot bark, and are literally talked down. On the other hand Law Advocates have suffered enough Waterloos at the hands of our brethren to make them exceedingly cautious about debating. The preachers have to get permission, as we recently learned from a contemporary paper, which stated that the reply to a request for permission to debate publicly was, that "the time for debate was past." But the next quotation we make will show that defeat has so hurt them that they are trying to change the issue. We quote as follows:—"Yet, while it is true that God's law expresses righteousness, it is also true that we cannot be made righteous by the law. A sinner searching in the law for grace and strength, will find only condemnation for himself."

In the name of truth and commonsense we ask, how, then can the law contain the whole duty of man? And how can it insure one of access to the tree of life, as quoted from "The Two Laws?" Could two statements be more diametrically opposed to each other?

We congratulate the Law Advocates for having learned enough to make them abandon a point they cannot successfully defend, providing they abandon it with the ignorant as well as with those who know better.

But, is it not singular that a people who claim supernatural means of knowing the mind of God, in addition to the Scriptures of truth, should, during a great part of its history, make such egregious blunders as to be obliged to so change their front, as to practically undermine the foundation of their organization, and expose the false claims of its prophetess?

Do they not see that by trying to mix law and gospel they are doing what Jesus warns them against doing?—putting new cloth on an old garment,—or putting new wine into an old bottle? And so making a worse rent, or bursting the bottle? Why do they not forsake all and follow Christ God bids them hear him. Is that not enough? Christ himself says, he that believes the gospel and is baptized, and observes all things which he has commanded shall be saved. If they believed that they would have no use for law or the Lord from Sinai.

XIX. We now offer additional Scripture proof that the question of Law Observance by Believers of the gospel of Christ has been apostolically settled for all time!

1st. Col. ii. 16, 17 teaches that:—The saints and faithful brethren in Christ have perfect liberty as they think proper in regard to what they shall eat or drink, or in respect to keeping holy days, or of a new moon,—or of Sabbaths, which are a shadow of things to come (future entirely when first instituted, but the substance of many of them has long since come, others are still future,) but the body (or substance casting the shadow, or which were shadowed by these things) is of Christ." They pointed forward to the ministration of the Spirit instituted when Christ finished the work given him to do at his first appearance, and still exists. The things specially shadowed by the Sabbath were the peace and rest the weary and heavy laden find in him now, Matt. xi. 28; and the rest [or keeping of a Sabbath] that remaineth for the people of God, during the seventh thousand years, soon to dawn upon us. Heb. iv. 9.

Gal. iv. 10, says: "Ye observe days, and months, and times and years: I am afraid of you, lest I have bestowed upon you labor in vain."

Rom. xiv. 5: "One man esteemeth one day, [the Seventh] above another: but another esteemeth every day, [alike]. Let each one be fully assured in his OWN mind. He who minds not the day, minds it not for the Lord," Diaglott trans., and no fault is found, each has perfect liberty. V. 1, proves that those who keep it are the weak in faith: so if their faith were stronger they would not keep it. Besides this Paul was afraid of those who kept those days. Gal. iv. 10-12.

The word Sabbath occurs 60 times in the New Testament. In 59 of these the Sabbatarians admit that it means the 7th day Sabbath: but in their desperation they maintain that the word Sabbaths in Col. ii. 16 refers to the feast days of the ceremonial law. The truth is that only one day in the year is ever called a Sabbath, from Sabbaton. "The word Neorties is the term which embraces all the feast days." By reference to Numbers 28th and 29th chapters, and 1 Chron. ii. 4, and 2 Chron. viii. 13, and 2 Chron. xxxi. 3, and Neh. x. 33, and Ezek. xlv. 17, and Ezek. xlvi. 1, 3, 11, and Hosea ii. 11 our readers will see the precise list given by Paul in Col. ii. 16, and so the silly idea that Paul meant Feast days, and new moons, and Feast days is exploded. He said what he meant, Feast days are Feast days; new moons are new moons, and Sabbaths are Sabbaths, one of them came around every week. In Hosea ii. 11 we find feast days, new moons, and Sabbaths, plural. And in addition to this, the last passage quoted predicted that all three of these holy days should cease; and we know from the pen of Paul that they had ceased when he wrote. The law containing them had been nailed to the cross,—abolished, done away, is the way he speaks of it.

The Indiana Conference.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:

The time is drawing near to have another meeting at Antioch, commencing Thursday evening, June 9, 1898, and continuing over Sunday. We trust the brethren will feel an interest and put forth an effort to come and partake of the feast of the words of truth, and help to make the meeting to fully serve its purpose, to build each other up in the most holy faith, and impart strength to withstand the trying times which seem to be so near approaching.

J. F. L. AUSTIN, Pres.
A. C. ROBERTS, Sec'y.

Special Rates via Vandalia Line.

Knights Templar Convention at Indianapolis, May 13 and 14. One and one-third fare for Round trip.

Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. Convention at Indianapolis, May 16 and 17. One fare for Round trip.

G. A. R. and W. R. C. Encampment at Columbus, Ind., May 16, 17 and 18. One Cent per Mile.

Grand Lodge A. F. and A. M. at Indianapolis, May 23 and 24. One fare for Round trip.

Indiana University Alumni Reunion at Bloomington, Ind., June 10 and 12. One and one-third fare for Round trip.

For full information inquire of T. A. Downs, Agent.

Palestine is reported to be fast becoming a land of drunkenness. In Jerusalem there is a brewery which turns out 1,500 gallons of beer annually, and in Nazareth there are 53 licensed places.

On an island off the mainland of Africa, called Dacheiba, is a monument composed of crossbones and skulls, which was built in 1284, from the bones of the victims who fell in a religious war between the Christians and the Mohammedans at the time when the island came under Spanish rule, and the inhabitants made a successful revolt.

In a leading article the Madras Mail sets forth the views of the Hindu astrologists concerning impending events, chief among which is the declaration that 'Vishnu will abandon this world in April, 1900.' So implicitly do the Hindus believe that serious calamities are about to befall the world that they are planning special acts of worship in view of this. The Theosophists, who are allied in belief to the Hindus, also put forward the prediction that the present state of the world will close within a few years.

Troubles are not blessings, but opportunities to secure blessings. Not the troubles themselves, but what we get out of them are to be included in our spiritual assets.

Poetry.

HYMN.

TUNE—"RING THE BELL, WATCHMAN."

The truth Christ has taught us shall spread o'er the world;
"The Faith" is our watchword, our banner's unfurled.
Forward! our cry, we'll advance to the fight,
We'll keep 'round our banner, for 'tis truth and the right.

CHORUS—
Forward to battle! Onward press!
Christ gives the victory. Yes! Yes! Yes!
He never yet wanted opposed, his promises we'll tell.
He, who fought our fight and conquered even death and hell.

Our ranks may be thin, but our Captain leads,
He never lost a battle, he never recedes.
Then on to the victory, on west till it's won,
We'll storm the ranks of error, 'till the're all overcome.

CHORUS—"Forward to battle," etc.

Traditions must yield, and give place to our might,
Darkness loses ground, more bane into the light.
Their rule has been evil, and ours love, their hate,
We'll fight the sectarianism of Truth, we'll fight 'till they're slain.

CHORUS—"Forward to battle," etc.

We'll close up our ranks, and with banners on high,
As Holy crusaders, if needs be we'll die;
But we never will surrender, we never will yield
Advancing ever onward, 'til the truth holds the field.

CHORUS—"Forward to battle," etc.

WALTER SKINNER.

Communicated.

Life, New and Old, Contrasted.

The old life is that which originates in the blood, not "of the will of the flesh."

As to the new life The Book of Life, says: "Which were born, NOT OF BLOOD, (the psuche—life) nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God." John i. 13.

"He that hath the Son hath life, (zoe) he that hath not the Son of God, hath not (zoe) life." John v. 12. "He that hath the Son" hath the life "born not of blood," which (zoe) life, he that hath not the Son, does not have. Both have psuche—life, but only one hath zoe –life. These two Greek words express the difference, as between the eternal and the animal life. My critic says, "This distinction is certainly without warrant, both as to fact, and Scripture usage."

The new life is the eternal and everlasting life, which is shown by the fact, that as between the words zoe and psuche, zoe has given it the entire use of those adjectives. With this significant fact as to Scripture usage of these important words, the difference is established beyond all controversy, with thoughtful Bible students. It means something, when as between those words, psuche represents the animal life, and never the eternal, but zoe has all the eternal adjectives, to the absolute exclusion of psuche. These are significant facts of Scripture usage, which no man can by any means whatsoever set aside. Added to this, we have nearly the entire list of Scripture evidences where the word zoe occurs, pointing to the higher life, and these passages will not bear the rending in of psuche—animal life, in place of zoe, which it should do, if zoe and psuche are equivalents. Try it and be convinced.

Take for example, Matt. vii. 14: "Strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life; (zoe) and few there be that find it."

The psuche—animal life comes to the entire animal creation without their seeking, while with regard to zoe —life "FEW there be that find it." Don't you see a Scripture warrant for such distinction?

Again, "Jesus saith unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of Man, and drink his blood, ye have NO LIFE (zoe) in you. Whoso eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, hath eternal life: (aionion zoe,—hid with Christ in God,) and I will raise him up at the last day." The psuche—life gives no warrant to its possessor of "eternal life," neither the promise, I will raise him up at the last day." To secure this, we must eat the flesh, and drink the blood, of the Son of Man, otherwise, "Ye have no life in you," except the psuche—life, and that comes to us not, the very moment man's breath goeth forth. In almost every instance, the zoe—life is conditional. See Matt. xix. 17: "If thou wilt enter into life (zoe) KEEP THE COMMANDMENTS." This cannot be said of psuche,—animal life.

The psuche—life is a present inheritance, and does not relate to the future, the zoe—life, is yet to come. See Luke xviii. 30: "Receive manifold more in this present time, and in the world (aion—age) to come (zoe aionios) life everlasting." Zoe aionios, and psuche are never used as equivalents. Says Jesus, "Ye will not come to me that ye might have (zoe) life." John v. 40. The phrase, "might have life," signifies that they had not the life Jesus had to give. They had the psuche life, derived from their parents, but that was likely to flee from them at any moment, and failing to come to him for zoe—life, Jesus would say to them, "Ye have no life in you," and so hope of his promise—"I will raise him up at the last day."

There is a special way in which to travel, in order to obtain the zoe—life, which is not the same with the psuche—life, this text has already been quoted: "Strait is the gate, and narrow is the way which leadeth unto life: (zoe) and few there be that find it."

The way to find zoe—life, is so exceedingly "strait and narrow," that few care to travel in it, and the cause, queries is, "few there be that find it." This way must positively be traveled, by all who possess the psuche—life, or they will never receive the zoe—life, and can have no claim to Jesus' promise, "I will raise him up at the last day."

In my last paper, I referred to my critic, as using Matt. xvi. 25: "For whosoever will save his life (psuche) shall lose it, and whosoever will lose his life (psuche) for my sake shall find it." I wish to look at it again. He uses this passage to show that should any one lose the psuche—life for Christ's sake, he would find his psuche —life again at the last day. To do so he places his argument on the word "it," and presumes that is the life he will find. I will call attention to a few passages where a contrast is drawn between the life that now is—the psuche, and the aionion zoe—eternal life, and at the same time use this same word "it."

I Cor. xv. 42: "It is sown in corruption, it is raised in corruption."

He loses his psuche—life, and turns to corruption, and it is an absolute fact that there is not a single instance where the words eternal or everlasting are associated with psuche, hence the "it" which turned to corruption, but was "raised in incorruption," could not be the psuche—animal life, but the life Jesus promised: "In the world to come (zoe aionios) life everlasting." Luke xviii. 30.

Again, "It is sown a natural (or animal) body; it is raised a spiritual body."

The life one loses for Christ's sake is that which pertains to the "natural" or animal body, but he finds in place of it, the "spiritual body." Now, we know of a certainty that the life (psuche) which animated the "natural body," can never dwell in the "spiritual body." The life and environment must harmonize. The psuche—animal life, pertains to this world, or age, but "in the world (aion—age) to come, (zoe aionios) life everlasting.

This word zoe is often prefaced with the definite adjective "the"—the "life" thus drawing a clear distinction as referring to the higher life, in contrast with the psuche, lower, or animal life. I will quote a few samples where zoe is prefaced with the definite adjective "the," to show this fact.

THE LIFE.

John xi. 25: "Jesus said to her: I am the resurrection and the life."

John xiv. 6: "I am the way, the truth, and the life."

Acts v. 20: "Go stand and speak in the temple all the words of this life."

Eph. iv. 18: "Having the understanding darkened, being alienated from the life of God through the ignorance that is in them (ignorant of the gospel) because of the blindness of their heart."

Jas. i. 12: "Blessed is the man that endureth temptation, for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him." "The crown of life" can never be indicated by psuche, that is solely the present animal life.

I John v. 11, 12: "This is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life (in the original "the life,") is in his Son. He that hath the Son hath the life; he that hath not the Son of God, hath not the life." If psuche is the equivalent of zoe, we should be able to read it into such texts as these.

Rev. xxi. 6: "I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life, freely."

While zoe alone, has the adjectives describing it as the eternal or higher life, as contrasted with psuche—animal life, yet it has plenty of occurrences without these descriptive adjectives, which any one can see, at a glance, relates to the higher life, without the aid of these adjectives.

ZOE WITHOUT ADJECTIVES.

John iii. 36: "He that believeth not the Son shall not see life."

John v. 26: "As the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself."

Verse 40: "Ye will not come to me, that ye might have life."

John vi. 33: "Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of God, and drink his blood ye have no life in you."

John x. 10: "I am come that they might have life."

John xx. 31: "Believing that ye might have life through his name."

Acts xi. 18: "God also to the Gentiles hath granted repentance unto life."

Rom. v. 17: "Shall reign in life by one, Jesus Christ."

Rom. viii. 6: "To be spiritually minded is life and peace."

Phil. ii. 16: "Holding forth the words of life."

Phil. iv. 3: "Names are in the book of life."

2 Tim. i. 1: "The promise of life which is in Christ Jesus."

Ver. 10: "Abolished death and brought life and immortality to light through the gospel."

Heb. vii. 16: "After the power of an endless life."

1 Pet. iii. 7: "Heirs together of the grace of life."

In all of the above passages the word zoe occurs without the definite adjective the, yet no one can fail to see that they all refer to the higher life, while those indicated by psuche—animal life, do not.

My critic says: "Quite frequently visitors and speakers come to the surface, that make an attempt to draw a distinction between the life as indicated by the word "Psuche" and the life word "Zoe." This distinction is certainly without warrant, both as to fact and as to Scripture usage."

Our readers can certainly see, by this time, whether the Scriptures warrant a distinction as indicated by the words psuche and zoe, or not.

There are a few occurrences where the word zoe applies to the lower life, but the great mass relate to the higher life, most emphatically. While zoe uses ALL the adjectives describing eternal life, psuche has NONE WHATEVER, but relates primarily to animal life. This is the distinction as to Scripture usage, and is so clear that none need make a mistake.

W. H. WILSON.

For Our Children.

The Violet.

Here is she again, the dear,
Sweetest vestal of the year,
In her little purple hood
Brightening the lonesome wood.
We who, something worn with care,
Take the road, find unaware
Joy that heartens, hope that thrills,
Love our cup of life that fills
Since in spring's remembered nooks,
Lifting fair familiar looks,
There again with cat'ying grace,
In the same dear lowly place
God his annual sign hath set
In the tender violet.

—Margaret E. Sangster.

The Story of Israel. No. 80.

THE CAMP AND THE MARCH FROM SINAI TO CANAAN.

Shall we review a little before we go on? I think that would be best.

In what book was it, that you learned about the beginning of this Israelitish nation? Genesis. Of course it was! It told us how Abraham sprang from Adam through the good Seth, Enos, Cainin, Mahalaleel, Jared, Enoch, Methusaleh, Lamech, Noah, Shem, Arphaxad, Salah, Eber, Peleg, Reu, Sereg, Nahor and Terah, for Terah was Abraham's father. Then there was Isaac and Jacob's twelve sons, and the story of Joseph, and of the happy time in Egypt, under the rule of King Thothmes.

The book of Exodus, told us the story of Israel's bondage under the cruel Edomite Kings—Seti I, and Rameses II.

God had planted the seed of the nation in the land of Canaan; the little plant, was taken down to Egypt, and grew fast in the bright sun of prosperity; then God made rough winds blow on it to harden and toughen it for the time when it must stand alone and become "a tree of righteousness," in that rock-girt school-house at Sinai. For not until the Israelitish nation had camped at the base of the mountain was their separation from all other nations considered complete.

It was at Sinai, that they were fenced off for God, by the giving to them of a law that was sent directly from heaven by an angel. He did not give this law to any other people. He had "borne them, on eagle's wings and had brought them to Himself."

In Exodus, we learned about the Plagues, the Passover, the crossing of the Red Sea. The miraculous stone, the bitter water, the desert journey, the battle with the Amelekites, the firey mount, the making of the idol-calf, the punishment that fell on the people, the broken tables of the ten commandments, the new tables, the various laws, the story of the great annual feasts, how the tabernacle and its furniture was to be made, and how the priests must be dressed, and also where the cloudy-pillar would rest when the tabernacle was set up. It is a book full of prophecies as you will see by reading the book of Hebrews.

In Leviticus, we learned what the work of the priests was to be, about the setting apart of the Levites to wait on the priests—in the place of the first-born of all the tribes; of the different kinds of offerings, of the sin of Nadab and Abihu, in offering strange fire, and how they were devoured by fire; of the beasts and fish and birds, that were clean and might be eaten, and of the unclean ones, that they must never touch; of the dreadful idol Moloch, that the heathen worshiped; of the wicked, familiar spirits, that so many people, even now, like to talk with, of the great reverence due to God; and of the law of love, that embraces both God and our neighbor, telling us to be kind to all.

We might learn many more things about the plague of leprosy, that is so much like sin; about marriage, and how carefully it was guarded; about the blessings that would come upon the nation, if they kept God's commandments, and the awful punishments that would follow disobedience, but, some of these things we can learn about another time.

We want to study the Camp of Israel now, for the people are about ready to start on their journey to Canaan. They have been covenanted to God, in Exodus. In Leviticus, the manner of approach to him is given. In Numbers, the men of war are counted that they may be prepared to go forth and fight. We will begin with the first chapter of Numbers.

It says, "Take the sum of all the congregation of the Children of Israel, after their families, by the house of their fathers, with the number of their names, every male, by their polls."

"From twenty years old and upward, all that are able to go forth to war in Israel; thou and Aaron shall number them, by their armies," (or tribes.) As each tribe is numbered, the same words are repeated—"All that are able to go forth to war." There were 603,550 soldiers; the Levites, were not numbered. 46 and 47 verses, "The Children of Israel were to pitch their tents, every man by his own camp, and every man by his own standard," for the Israelites carried battle flags, just as our soldiers do. Our soldiers are also like the Israelites in another thing, they do not go from one regiment to another; each man pitches his tent in his own regiment and by his own standard.

The tribes of Israel encamped in a hollow square. Inside of the square the Levites pitched round about the tabernacle of testimony, that no wrath might be upon the congregation;" they "kept the charge of the tabernacle of testimony." They took it down and set it up if a stranger came near it, he was put to death.

When the tribes marched, it was in four divisions, and when they went into camp it was the same, (Numbers ii. 1-34) each tribe had its own captain.

Judah was placed on the east side of the tabernacle. Its standard was a lion. The tribes of Issachar and Zebulon, marched under the standard of Judah. Its standard, and the three tribes under it always set out first. On the south side was the standard of Reuben, with his two tribes, Simeon and Gad; his standard had the symbol of a man. This division marched in the second rank. But the tabernacle with the Levites was always kept in the midst of the camp. On the west side was the standard of the camp of Ephraim. Manasseh and Benjamin were under this standard. Their symbol was that of a bull. On the north side was the camp of Dan, with his two tribes Asher and Naphtal. Their symbol was an eagle.

Do you remember "the four living creatures," in Ezekiel, that we had such a time trying to explain? You will find them described in the very first chapter of Ezekiel. The living creatures have the same standards or symbols, of "a man," "a lion," "an ox or bull," and "an eagle." There are four divisions or wings to the army. Every division has two others. The noise of the wings is like the voice of speech, as the noise of an host. There was a throne above them and a man upon it.

We understand it now, don't we? Ezekiel saw in vision the moving army of the tribes of Israel, marching like wheels, with the tribe of Levi, for the inner wheel,—the pillar of fire going with them, God, their King, and the Spirit, their guide.

We find the same "living creatures" in Rev. iv. 6-8; only, they each, have six wings, or divisions. They are called "beasts," but the Greek word here does not mean "beasts," it means creatures. They were living beings or men, for they gave thanks and honor and glory to Jesus. Mr John Cummings thinks these living creatures represent the Jewish church. It looks like it, for they are full of eyes before and behind. These eyes are the eyes of prophecy. We can look backward, through fulfilled prophecy, and forward through that which is yet to be fulfilled. The creatures that Ezekiel saw had eyes in their wings or divisions.

But we must go back to our lesson. It was on the first day of the second month of the second year, after they had come out of Egypt, that the tribes were numbered. The Passover had been kept before in the first month, on the fourteenth day at even, in the wilderness of Sinai (Num. ix. 5) the little passover was kept on the 14 day of the second month, or two weeks after the census was taken.

The Levites were numbered by themselves. They belonged to the Lord for the service of the tabernacle, and were presented to Aaron, to minister unto him. Aaron was of the same tribe, but God had given him a higher place in the worship, just as he has given Jesus a higher place among his brethren. Aaron and his sons had the priesthood. They encamped on the east of the sanctuary. The Gershonites camped on the west side, the Kohathites on the south, and the family of Merari on the north. There were 22,000 Levites.

Another census had to be taken of the children of Israel. This time all the first males born had to be numbered, from a month old and upward. There were 22,273—two hundred and seventy-three more than there were of the Levites—these must be redeemed with money. They must give 5 shekels a piece, or about $2.50. The money was given to Aaron and his sons. Num. iii. 1 51.

All the Levite males were numbered, from a month old and upward, when they were to be matched against the first-born sons of the other tribes, but when they were numbered for the service of the tabernacle, only those were counted who were from thirty years old up to fifty.

The army of God had a good deal to do to get ready to start, but on the 20th day of the second month, just a week after the little passover was eaten, they set out in the order of march given in the second chapter, Num. x. 11, 29.

AUSTIE WINCE.

Announcements.

Editor Restitution:

The Young People's meeting of the Church of God in Southern Kansas will meet at Crescent school house, near Bitter Creek post office, the 28 and 29 of May. The business meeting will be held Saturday evening. There will be two meetings on Sunday, the one 2.30 and the other at 7.30 P. M. All young people interested in the Truth are invited to be present and prepare papers on the subject, which is "Christianity."

MARY I. BARNES, Sec.

The Third Quarterly Conference of the Church of God in Nebraska will be held in Furnas County, at the Prime School House, about two miles south of Arapahoe, beginning the Lord willing, on Friday, June 3rd, and holding over Sunday. Come, all who can. Attend this meeting, and help to make it a pleasant and profitable one. We hope that before that time, that each congregation will send in its votes for the conference officers it desires for the coming year, and also in regard to the place of holding the annual meeting.

M. D. NEWELL, Pres.
RENA GORDON, Sec.y.

The hill near Jerusalem where the crucifixion of Jesus occured is formed of limestone. The shores of the Dead Sea are lined with pumice stone showered out of some volcano that destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, which cities finally sank beneath the waters of the Dead Sea.

The Michigan Conference.

The Annual Conference of the Church of God, in Michigan, will be held (D. V.) at Dutton, Kent Co., Thursday evening, June 2, 1898, and continue over the following Sunday. A hearty invitation is extended to all of like precious faith. Ample provision will be made for all visiting brethren. The brethren at Dutton wish that as many as can, could arrange to be there at the first meeting. Dutton is situated on the Michigan Central R. R., ten miles southeast of Grand Rapids. Come with hearts filled with love. Let the one great aim be to cheer and encourage each other on the way, and by so doing better prepare ourselves to overcome the trials and temptations we may have to endure. "Blessed is he whom the Lord when he comes, will find watching," for if we are watching we are also longing and waiting, and if we are longing and waiting, Oh! do we keep ourselves in readiness for the coming of our Lord and Savior.

EMMA JACKMAN, Sec.

PROGRAMME OF THE MICHIGAN CONFERENCE.

THURSDAY P. M.

7.00 Song Service, conducted by C. L. Austin.
7.15 Address of Welcome, President.
7.20 Response, Vice President.
7.35 Sermon, Brother Winchester, "The Lord's Second Coming."
8.35 A Poem, Omer Plover, "The Lord is coming."

FRIDAY A. M.

9.00 Song Service, conducted by A. K. Richardson.
9.15 Social Meeting, R. Lake, subject, "God's Love to Man."
10.00 Paper, "Parent's duties in teaching the Children the Truth," Sister Hoyt. Discussion.
10.30 Sermon, C. L. Austin, "Methodism Work."

FRIDAY P. M.

1.30 Business Meeting.
Paper, "Christ, Our Example," Sister West.
7.00 Song Service, conducted by C. L. Austin.
7.10 Social Meeting, Sister Chaffee, "Workers with God."
7.45 "The future Life as concerns you and me," Bro. Chase.

SATURDAY A. M.

9.00 Song Service, Bro. Chase.
9.10 Social Meeting, Lottie Barnum, "Why and how much does God allow us to be tempted."
10.00 Paper, "What are the requirements of a true minister of the Gospel," K. N. Woodward. Discussion.
10.30 Paper, "The Lord's time, What are we doing with it?" Sister Wince.
Recitation, Ester Richardson.
11.30 Sermon, "The duties of the Church to the Minister," L. C. Chase.

SATURDAY P. M.

1.30 Report of Churches and their Spiritual Needs.
Business Meeting, if necessary.
7.00 Social Meeting, R. W. Woodward.
8.00 Sermon, Bro. Chase, "God's hand in the Affairs of Man."

SUNDAY A. M.

9.00 Song Service, A. K. Richardson.
9.15 Bible Black board Lesson, "The Vine and the Branches," with Bible Reading and Talks, C. L. Austin.
10.30 Sermon, L. C. Chase, "The Marriage Supper."
Collection.
Communion.

SUNDAY P. M.

1.30 Paper, Bro. Wince, "The Lord's money and service." What are we doing with them?
2.30 Sermon, R. W. Woodward, "Darkness before Dawn."
6.45 Social Meeting, F. L. Austin, Divine Union.
7.35 Sermon, L. C. Chase, "The New Era."

Committee on programme,
EMILY BARNUM.
M. A. WOODWARD.
EMILY JACKMAN.
A. K. RICHARDSON.

The Kin-Pun is the name of the oldest newspaper in the world. It has been published continously for nearly one thousand years. It began as a monthly. In 1361 it became a weekly, and a daily in 1800. It publishes three editions a day, each edition being on a different colored paper. It is the official organ of the Emperor of China, and is published at Pekin.

If your way is not God's way, you may know that it is not the right way.

Selected.

German Interests in the Philippines.

Reports to the effect that Germany is trying to induce England to make a joint representation to the United States against a blockade of the Philippines may not be true, but undoubtedly a protest has been made by German firms represented in those islands against the proposed action of our ships.

British and German business interests in the Philippines are much greater than those of the Spanish themselves. It is stated that of the 33 great trading houses at Manila 5 are Spanish. Of the remainder, 14, including 4 Swiss, are German, 12 are English, 1 Dutch, and 1 Belgian. Of the 13 large factories only 6 are Spanish. There are in addition to the above 11 other German firms there, which do an extensive business.

The City of Manila has a population variously estimated, but probably of about 125,000, of which the Europeans number some 15,000, not including the troops. The foreign element is almost exclusively Spanish.

Germany has hoped some day to grab the Philippines, and the prospect that under the operations of war the United States may secure control of the islands has stimulated a fear that this country may take permanent possession of them. From our point of view, we know that there is no ground for that apprehension, but it is impossible to make Europe understand that this country is not making a war of conquest. We are supposed to be animated solely by a desire to get possession of Cuba and, incidentally, of as many more of Spain's outlying possessions as may fall into our hands.

This consideration has intensified the bad feeling against this country in the German press and among the German people. With the progress of the war, however, there may be a change of sentiment. The German government has pursued thus far a cautious but not unfriendly course towards ours, and it is not probable that there will be any breach in their official relations with each other.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

This Country's Marvelous Wealth.

The government returns of the grain crop of 1897 are now complete. They make almost a startling showing of the wealth of the country in soil production.

Of corn we produced 1,902,967,933 bushels for which the farmers received—for farm prices only are considered—no less than $501,072,952, or about one-half the entire national debt.

Of wheat we produced 530,149,168 bushels, which poured into the laps of the farmers the sum of $468,547,121.

Of Oats we produced 698,767,809 bushels, yielding $147,974,719.

Thus on three grain crops alone our tillers of the soil earned $1,077,594,792.

This does not include barley, hay, beef, mutton, wool, pork, eggs, chickens, garden vegetables, fruits, butter, milk, or any other of a hundred farm products that together exceed these three recorded crops in value. It does not include the 7,000,000 bales of cotton, or the rice or the tobacco, or anything else than three grain products.

What a country ours is, to be sure, when one year's crops yield to the cultivators six or seven times our national debt! What limit shall be set to the power and glory of a country so marvelously fruitful?—The New York World.

A map of Palestine in mosaic, over 1,500 years old has been found in uncovering the ruins of an old temple in that country. The mosaic map formed the pavement of the building, and though many parts of it are missing, the section containing the City of Jerusalem is practically intact.

Guide to Washington, D. C. sent free to Teachers and Tourists.

It contains special information about places of interest, also complete and comprehensive map of the National Capital, time of through trains to Washington via of Pennsylvania Short Lines, and reduced rates over that route for the National Educational Association meeting in July. Just the thing for teachers and any one going to Washington. Address C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio, enclosing 2 cent stamp. The Guide is worth much more. june 1

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing. Said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 20th of April, 1898, providing notice is given through THE RESTITUTION that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all remittances to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 340, Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. S. J. Sigler.	$10.00
J. L. Winer.	5.00
F. L. Austin.	10.00
Edgar Hatch.	1.00
Agnes Dilworth.	2.00
Mrs. Mary E Thompson.	15.00
One who believes that God from little offerings can work out great results.	1.00
A Friend of Truth.	1.00
Mrs. S. A. Wickizer.	5.00

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donor request, or when left to the publisher to decide, only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

J. N. Beck.	.50

Reduced Fares to Various Points via Pennsylvania Lines.

Excursion tickets will be sold via Pennsylvania Lines as indicated in the following paragraphs. Although concessions in fare are authorized for meetings of certain Orders, tickets may be obtained by any person whether a member of the Order or interested in the event. The reduced rates will be open to everybody.

To Warsaw, Ind., (Winona Lake,) May 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, 20th, and 21st, good returning until June 3d, account Presbyterian General Assembly.

To Naperville, Ill., (Burlington Park near Chicago) May 23, 24th, 27th and 28th, for German Baptist Annual Meeting; good returning until June 24th, with privilege to extend limit until June 30th.

To Dallas, Texas, June 11th and 12th, account meeting of Nobles of Mystic Shrine. Return limit June 28th.

To Toledo, Ohio, June 15th and 16th, good returning until June 20th, account United Brethren in Christ Church Young People's Biennial Convention.

To Louisville, Ky., June 19th and 20th, for Jr. O. U. A. M. National Council Meeting. Return limit June 26th.

To Washington, D. C. July 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the National Educational Association Meeting. Good to return July 15th, with privilege to extend return limit until August 31st.

To Chicago, Ill., July 12th and 13th for Young People's Christian Union, Universalist Church. Good returning July 21st, with privilege to extend until August 10th.

To Buffalo, N. Y., July 12th 13th, 14th and 15th, good returning until July 19th, with privilege to extend until September 1st, account Baptist Young People's Union International Convention.

To Saratoga, N. Y., August 1st and 2nd, account Young People's Christian Union, U. P. Church. Return limit August 10th, with privilege to extend until August 31st.

To Richmond, Ind., August 10th and 20th, good returning until August 29th, account Society of Friends Camp Meeting.

To Cincinnati, Ohio, September 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the G. A. R. National Encampment. Good returning until September 18th, with privilege of extension until October 2d.

To Pittsburgh, Pa., October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th 12th and 13th, good returning until October 17th, account Knights Templar Triennial Conclave. Return limit may be extended until October 31st.

During the excursion season special rates will also be in effect via Pennsylvania Lines for special and local events. For particular information please apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines or address C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.

"Beautiful Winona."—A Delightful Summer Haven.

Winona Lake, Indiana, (formerly Eagle Lake) is an attractive summer haven on the Pennsylvania Lines near Warsaw, Indiana. As the site of Winona Assembly and Summer School, has grown into favor very rapidly. Improvements made on the two hundred acres of romantic woodland which stretches nearly two miles along the eastern shore of Winona Lake, a beautiful sheet of water, include all the comforts and conveniences for a highly enjoyable sojourn. Ample facilities are at hand for satisfactory entertainment at reasonable rates at the commodious hotel which adjoins the railway station at the entrance to the grounds, in cosy cottages, or in tents as may be preferred.

Persons who may desire to combine devotion, entertainment and instruction with rest and recreation will find Winona Lake the ideal spot for invigorating both mind and body by instructive entertainment and study and health giving recreation. The educational work of the Summer School is in charge of well known instructors. The college halls are equipped with all required paraphernalia: the large auditorium in which the assembly meets, and in which prominent lecturers are heard during the season, has a seating capacity of over 3,000. An amphitheatre, race track and other facilities for athletic pastimes are provided. The fishing, bathing and boating are fine, the large fleet of boats being of the best.

The season of 1898 will open May 15th. Commencing on that date excursion tickets with fifteen day limit will be on sale via Pennsylvania Lines. They may be obtained during May, June, July and August. The sale of season excursion tickets will begin June 1st, and continue daily until September 30th. Season excursion tickets will be good returning until October 31st.

Full information about the attractions at "Beautiful Winona," its Assembly and Summer School, etc., will be cheerfully furnished all who address Mr. Sol. C. Dickey, Secretary, Winona Lake, Ind. Inquiries about excursion rates, time of trains, etc., should be addressed to Passenger and Ticket Agents of the Pennsylvania Lines, or to F. Van Dusen, Chief Assistant General Passenger Agent, Pittsburg, Pa. —may 30.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

S. R. Chickenbeard, Bonham, Texas.
P. R. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
R. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. M. Cressbrough, Gibsburgh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 155 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio.
W. L. Skeels, Scholls, Ore.
E. Hoyt, Box 284, Grand Rapids, Mich.
S. Roxana Wines, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Bean, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Scheelsville, Ind.
J. W. Niles, Edinboro, Pa.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Fadwell, Chiswville, Ark.
J. J. Cady, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Price, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kean, 4507, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Glean, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hall, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Sidell, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va
T. E. Adams, Osawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Atlen, Kan.
D. M. Butler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. G. Hamp, Laurel, Neb.
J. R. Fick, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, Okla.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Oswego, Ia.
Mollie Rabacek, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Bullard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
H. T. Baker, Box 1038 Decorah, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Cottonwood, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
H. W. Smith, Marmont, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave, Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Steffa, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 15, Viola, Idaho.
Elder H. M. Williams, Portland, Kan.
B. Wilson, 1905 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
D. T. Halstead, Rensselaer, Ind.
John Fuate, 2012 West Corning Ave, Pasadena, Cal.
H. S. Bwiggins, Rensselaer, Ind.

Kansas.

J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 884 Grand Rapids, Mich.

Cheap Rates via Vandalia.

The G. A. R. National Encampment at Cincinnati, O., Sept. 5th to 10th.

The Supreme Lodge of K. of P. and Uniform Rank Encampment at Indianapolis, beginning Aug. 30th.

For the above occasions the Vandalia Line will make a rate of One cent per Mile.—T. A. Downs, Agent.

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 m. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., midwayse—Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:30, for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren or the one faith passing through thereby, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by addressing, or calling on Eld. V. Baker's, 260 West Day St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God, at Andover, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:30 a. m. in Mills Hall. Andover is on the direct line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R., going West to Aberdeen, thirty miles east thereof.

The Church of God, in Freeburn, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Prairie Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Sarah Sellick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. Brethren known to this church, or coming properly endorsed by introductory letter, will be heartily welcomed. At present we meet in the School House on top of the hill; cable cars come very near, and every hour from Seattle.

The brethren of the Church of God at Beech Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday-school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, La., meet every Sunday at 2:30 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Antlon, Elder.

The Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Bonwar Hall on Willoughby Ave., near Broadway.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Ridds Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trasdell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 40th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the Kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okla., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles north-east of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet twice a month for the purpose of breaking bread and social services, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth meet with us. Services at 2 o'clock p. m. Lizzie Woods, Whitethade, Ill., Sec.

The Church of God of Waterville, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Mountainview School House, near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Corbidge, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 p. m. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Dewey, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church of Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Faithfully yours, Grant Mackamer.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 3th Sundays each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver, Pastor.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 12315 Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio, where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:30 a. m. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt binding, fifth edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Twelve Words;" one of "Early Lessons;" and one of "Honoring the Son,"—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

NICKEL PLATE

10-3646

All trains arrive at and depart from the Union Passenger Station, Van Buren Street, Chicago. Uniformed Colored Porters attend first and second class day coaches on through trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars en route.

Eastbound. | All Solid Vestibuled Pullman Parlor & Sleeping Cars. | Week Days. | Daily. | Daily. | Daily

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—
A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher
—FOR THE—
CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

On The Banks.

East wind and west wind,
Joy and care there be,
Pain and strife that come in life—
Let them come to me.

Cold wind from the North,
Heat from Southern clime,
[illegible]
Through the ages of time.

Whate'er be the lot,
Common to our life,
Let me share the joy and care
Fairly as the rest is.

And if I do work,
And am set to plod,
Let me do it cheerfully all,
Lest I sell out my mind.

Communicated.

Words of Admonition.

Dear Restitution:

I want to say a few words through your columns to the brothers and sisters of our common faith. And if our Editor thinks they are worthy to escape the waste basket assembly, I would like to see them in print.

Now, what I have to say is an admonition to the Church. I do not intend to set myself up for a judge over any one, because we are taught not to do it. But we can admonish one another as our brother Paul has told us. In our little contributions for our paper I have noticed too often, and with a sorrowful heart too, that some of us are too apt to speak too freely about what our neighboring churches believe, and we are apt to give them a wide berth.

Now, if we think our neighboring churches, or our neighbors even do not believe the truth according to the Scriptures, is it our place to stand one side and let them go on, it might be to destruction? I for one say emphatically, no. But we should do them all the good we can. And how can we do them good. Is it not by mingling with them in a friendly way, and letting our light shine in more ways than one. I do not believe in being too clannish. I believe in free speech: I believe every man is a free moral agent, and can choose for him or herself. And if we think that God in his great goodness has made the light to shine in our hearts so that we can see the beautiful plan of salvation, is it not our place and our duty to try to teach some other poor soul the way of life? Therefore, I believe if our neighboring church people will not come in with us, let us go to them

Do we claim to be more holy than the Lord that bought us? Although our Savior was sent to the Jews first, did he ever refuse to heal any one, either Jew or Gentile? Did he not sit at meat with publicans and sinners? Did he not heal the Syrophenen woman's daughter and she a Greek heathen? When Jesus sent out his disciples to preach, on his return, John said, "Master, we saw one casting out devils in thy name, and we forbade him because he followeth not us." Probably the disciples thought that they would be commended for their thoughtfulness. But not so, our Savior said, "Forbid them not, for he that is not against us, is for us." Now do not be too quick to judge other people. You will say, "By their fruits ye shall know them." That is true. Are not other people doing good in the world? I believe so, and I believe also that they will have their reward. But it will be left to the righteous Judge to give them their reward, and to whoever is so blessed is to obtain the better resurrection. Then they will be more competent to give a righteous judgment than now.

I fear sometimes that we drive people away from the truth by our remarks that are not Christ-like. When we tell a man or a woman that the Church of Rome is the harlot and the orthodox churches are her daughters, will that draw men to Christ, who have been brought up to believe that their church is right? They will not believe that until they are taught. Now many, and I might say nearly all, are conscientious in their belief. I do not intend to be understood that it is all right with them because they are honest in their belief. But I do intend to say that they can be driven off from the truth, or from searching for it by such remarks. It was so with myself. I heard the gospel preached quite a number of years before I accepted it, because some would talk out as if railing out against other churches was a part of the gospel. I could see no glad tidings in that. But when I commenced to study for myself I could see the glad tidings in the gospel. Now let us never do it; it will never bring one soul to Christ, but talk with them with the spirit of love. "Charity suffereth long and is kind." to say such things is not kind. When we know those we are talking to have been brought up to believe that way, and never had any other teaching. A good many of us older people belonged to other churches before we joined with the Church of God, and were we not like Paul, honest in our belief, and did we feel that it was kind when any one would tell us our church was one of the daughters? Christ is our pattern, we must not go beyond what he taught us to do or say. The good Book says that those that are led by the Spirit of God are the sons of God, if sons, then heirs according to the promises of God. If we are led by the Spirit of God, we would know how to teach, how to talk to our neighbors on Bible topics; how to pray for them. We have a right to pray for the unconverted; Christ prayed for those that should believe through the Word.

Some of us may have a hobby; let us not ride it to the destruction of ourselves and others. And if we happen to write an article on some subject, and our good patient Editor should think by printing it, it might bring on a discussion which possibly might do more hurt than good; let us trust him to decide for us. He is in a place that we (or most of us) could not fill. He has so many to deal with and please, yet he knows he must do right, regardless of consequences. We should be careful not to show wrath, which is the works of the flesh, but the rather the fruits of the Spirit.

Now, I am going to make a confession to you. Not because I feel that I ought to, only to let you know that I know what I am talking about. Several years ago there had been a discussion in THE RESTITUTION (or through its columns, I should say), on a certain subject. One of the parties made a statement, which I did not think she could prove by the Bible. I thought the matter over a spell, I concluded I would write an article on the other side of the question. I did so, and sent it in. The Editor (Bro. Underwood) sent it back to me, with a private letter, which I will make public, or a part of it. He said he rather liked my views of the subject, but if it was printed it naturally would bring on a discussion; told me to write on some other subject, it would do more good. I thanked him by letter as well as I did in my heart. He knew as well as I that I could not carry on a discussion that would be edifying to any one, or make any one any better. I never would once think of trying it. But suppose I had got offended and told him to stop our paper, would I have been showing forth the fruit of the spirit, or the works of the flesh? Let us be careful what we write, what we say, and above all, how we take well meant advise.

Now, concerning our Sunday schools over this broad land of ours. Let us always try, God helping us, to work in them. It is there we can do good. Some of the isolated brethren complain they have no meetings, no Sunday schools to go to. Now, I would advise those brethren to go the Sunday schools of the other churches; work in them if they will let you; if you are not allowed to work in them, be a scholar, be patient in this respect also, and by and by we shall reap, if we faint not. I remember long before I united with our church, how a good brother in Michigan would always go to the Sunday school. He did not go to let them see how he could argue, but whenever he had a chance to give his views, he did so in meekness, and his words live today in many a heart. Yes, let us work in the Sunday school, in the prayer meeting, for it is there we can do good by a word now and then. "A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver." We know not what a great matter a little fire kindleth. How are people to know the right way unless they are taught. If they will not come to us, let us go to them. Let us be home missionaries. Paul although an apostle to the Gentiles, yet he preached to the Jews, went where they were, in their synagogues and taught all that would listen to him.

But I must stop. I am afraid I have written more now than I ought. But in conclusion let me say, we must not trust an intellectual knowledge of God's plan altogether. An intellectual knowledge is all right. It is just what we need to make good Christian workers. But we want an experimental knowledge to go with it. How often when I hear people talk, and seem to think because they believe so and so, that they are fit subjects for the kingdom of God. Let us go with God's love in our hearts out in the by-ways and hedges, and compel men to come in with us. By compelling them I mean, teach the Word so plain to them that they will see God's great love, and will give up all and follow the Master. And so I say, let us not be content with our own salvation, but try to bring in sheaves fit for the Master's use.

"Can we go and empty handed,
Can we meet our Savior so;
Not one soul with which to greet him,
Can we empty handed go?"

God has given all at least one talent. Let us use it to the best advantage. How can we do it any better, than to help others to the knowledge of God and to the beautiful plan of his salvation. Now, can we do this by drawing ourselves in a shell as it were, and say we are to come out from among them? Oh, no, that is not what he meant when he said that, "But we were not to partake of their sins." It was with the common people that Jesus was with most, and they heard him gladly, and with publican and sinner also. Let us follow his plan. Go where we will find people that need our help; work in their Sunday schools and prayer meetings, they will let you, and ere long you will reap, if you faint not. Now, let us do this. If we will do it, we will in a short time look in vain for those mournful letters that come out now and then through the columns of THE RESTITUTION. When I read them I feel that our brethren are not doing their duty. "Cast thy bread upon the water and thou shall reap after many days." "The night is far spent, and the day is is at hand." Let us work while the day lasts, for the night cometh when no man can work. I know by experience that we can do good in this way. When we write for our good old paper, let us write in such a way that we can send it out into the world, and feel that it can do missionary work too. Let us send it out broadcast over the land, and feel that others will see our good works, and glorify our Father who art in heaven. Let us proclaim the restitution of all things that were spoken by the holy prophets since the world began. But let us be careful that we do not go beyond what the holy prophets have said. Let us pray the Lord to hasten the time when righteousness shall cover the earth as the waters cover the sea. Amen.

Submitted in love,
ALMIRA BROOKS.

Review.

HOW DID THE LORD JESUS VIEW HIS MESSIAHSHIP? CONCLUDED.

The Messenger: A Magazine.....specially advocating the kingdom of God, the Return of the Lord Jesus, and the Hope of Eternal Life. Editor R. K. Strang, Glasgow, Scotland. September, 1897.

In the second paper on this subject, three points were specially dealt with —The question put by John the Baptist to our Lord, "Art thou he that should come or do we look for another?" The assertion that our Lord was King of Israel "in fact." The question of the disciples, "Lord, wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel?"

2. A strong point is further sought to be made from our Lord's frequent use of the designation "Son of Man" as applied to himself. It is said to be quite Messianic, occurring as it does in Dan. vii. 13, 14, where he is to receive dominion over "all peoples and nations, and languages"—a "wide and universal description, and within which every de ail (Luke i. 32) must fall." It is quite true that "all peoples and nations and languages" are more extensive than the 12 tribes of Israel; but it is nowhere stated in Daniel or elsewhere, that this wide dominion is a function that properly belongs to the Messiahship. The title Son of Man is nowhere said to be Messianic "in its significance." It was applied many times to the prophet Ezekiel, and might with equal propriety be said to be Prophetical in its significance.

3. The matter viewed historically stands thus. Five hundred years before Daniel prophesied, Jehovah made a covenant, promising that a descendant of his should sit upon his throne for ever. 2 Sam. vii. The same David in the 2nd Psalm, where the Messiahship is the theme, represents Jehovah as saying, "I have anointed my King upon my holy hill of Zion," and adding, "Ask of me, and I shall give thee (my Anointed One) the heathen (nations) for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession." This shows conclusively that the dominion of our Lord over "all peoples," etc., was a superaddition to the Messiahship. Hence when he goes forth to "unite the nations" he is represented as having on his vesture and on his thigh a name written, King of kings, and Lord of lords." In the 110th Psalm where David's Lord is described as "striking through kings in the day of his wrath," and "judging among the nations," it is said "Jehovah shall send the rod of the strength out of Zion." Mount Zion is the Messianic center; the nations "under the whole heaven" constituting the extended dominion of the Lordship. This Lordship of Jesus is often recognized in the New Testament. His disciples addressed him as Lord. Upwards of a score of times he is termed the "Lord Jesus," and upwards of 30 times "the Lord Jesus Anointed." The Pharisees could not answer his question, "How doth David in spirit call him Lord?" It is strange that such facts as these are ignored in an article professing to answer the question, "How did the Lord Jesus view his Messiahship?"

4. Allusion is made to our Lord's use of the term Christ as applied to himself less frequently than "Son of Man." The fact is that all the instances of its occurrence in the gospels where any distinct characteristic of it is traceable, show that the kingly office is the true one. Herod in relation to the visit of the wise men; the Sanhedrim and our Lord's reply: Pilate, the Roman governor; his own allusion to it, and his being the Son of David; the confession of his Apostles in connection with their so-called "deep-rooted prejudices," and yet approved by their Master; and above all, the special form of Nathanael's confession; all conspire to prove that "the Anointed" signifies "King of the Jews." In the absence of evidence pointing distinctly to any function beside this, I prefer to abide by this definition.

5. But just here the crowning proof of the position maintained in the article is reserved for the close of it. It is said "a passage of supreme importance in this inquiry.....is Luke iv. 18. It is our Lord's own Divine conception of his commission as the Christ," etc. This passage may indeed be well described as "of supreme importance," for it is really the only one quoted in the article which possesses a semblance of proof that the Messiahship embraces more than Royalty. I feel convinced, however, that it fails to prove any such thing. The words "Anointed me to preach" certainly occur, and it becomes a matter "of supreme importance," to ascertain the true meaning of the passage. It may be considered that any attempt to set aside such plain language must savour of higher criticism and special pleading. But I have to found one criticism other than my own.

6. It is admitted that our Lord's Anointing was primarily at least for Royalty, although his mission embraced the prophetic, priestly, and apostolic offices as well. This has to be kept well in mind.

7. The criticism as regards this text is simply that of punctuation. Scholars differ from the Common Version here. The Revisors place a colon (:) after the word "poor." This at least makes a broad distinction between being "anointed to preach the gospel" and being "sent to preach" other things. I venture to suggest here that the preaching of the gospel, that is, "the kingdom of God," thus attributed to the Anointing is simply one of the prerogatives of royalty, which is to proclaim the kingdom pertaining to it. But this only by the way.

8. Other translators go a step further, and place a semi-colon (;) after "Anointed me"—Nathaniel Scarlett (Translation of the New Testament. London, 1798:) and William Thomson, (The New Testament, translated from the Greek, and the four gospels arranged in a Harmony, etc., Kilmaonock, 1816). The punctuation adopted by these scholars places a complete severance between the Anointing and the preaching both of the gospel and the other items following. These are all ascribed to his apostleship, that is his being "sent." Without any alteration of the words, therefore, except a slight transposition of the phrase "he sent me," the passage is brought into agreement with our Lord's statement in verse 43 of this same chapter—"I must preach the kingdom of God to other cities also: for therefore am I "sent." It thus also accords in form with the parallelism in Isaiah lxi. (which our Lord read in the synagogue) as we find it in the Paragraph Bible:

"The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me;
For the Lord hath anointed me;

To preach glad tidings to the meek he hath sent me,
To bind up the broken-hearted;

To proclaim liberty to the captive,
And to open prison doors to them that are bound;

To proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord."

In giving this extract, I have, in accordance with the suggested punctuation, inserted in the first couplet, a semi-colon after "anointed me." I have also connected the phrase "he hath sent me" with the first number of the second couplet as in Mr. Thomson's translation, but in the order given in the Common Version. I quote a note on the passage in Luke by Thomson, showing that others held the view of the punctuation which he had adopted. He says, "I agree with those who think there should be a point after 'he anointed me,' and that apostellei, 'he hath sent' should be construed with all the infinitives.....'to preach glad tidings to the poor' as well as with what follow." Mr. T. does not mention who "those" are he refers to; but I find that in the Latin Vulgate, the Spanish and the Portugese, the point used in Isaiah xli. is a colon (:). In the German it is a full stop (.) In the Greek and in the Italian the point used in Luke iv. 18 is a colon (:) in the French and Welsh a semi-colon (;) In the Hebrew Bible there are no points corresponding to those used in modern languages.

9. I have only to remark in leaving this passage that considering such variety of construction as I have indicated, this text cannot be adduced as adequate proof of the complex Messiahship maintained in the article under consideration.

10. I have thus noticed all the more salient points of the article and conclude by submitting to the candid consideration of the reader, that it fails to substantiate the position taken up by the writer.

J. CAMERON.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, MAY 18, 1898. NUMBER 20.

The Michigan Conference

The Annual Conference of the Church of God, in Michigan, will be held (D. V.) at Dutton, Kent Co., Thursday evening, June 2, 1898, and continue over the following Sunday. A hearty invitation is extended to all of like precious faith. Ample provision will be made for all visiting brethren. The brethren at Dutton wish that as many as can, could arrange to be there at the first meeting. Dutton is situated on the Michigan Central R. R., ten miles southeast of Grand Rapids. Come with hearts filled with love. Let the one great aim be to cheer and encourage each other on the way, and by so doing better prepare ourselves to overcome the trials and temptations we may have to endure. "Blessed is he whom the Lord when he cometh will find watching." for if we are watching we are also longing and waiting, and if we are longing and waiting, then do we keep ourselves in readiness for the coming of our Lord and Savior.

EMMA JACKMAN, Sec.

PROGRAMME OF THE MICHIGAN CONFERENCE.

THURSDAY P. M.

7.00 Song Service, conducted by C. L. Austin.
7.15 Address of Welcome, President.
7.20 Response, Vice President.
7.35 Sermon, Brother Winchester, "The Lord's Second Coming"
8.35 A Poem, Omer Clover, "The Lord is coming."

FRIDAY A. M.

9.00 Song Service, conducted by A. K. Richardson.
9.15 Social Meeting, R. Lake, subject, "God's Love to Man."
10.00 Paper, "Parent's duties in teaching the Children the Truth," Sister Hoyt. Discussion.
10.30 Sermon, F. L. Austin, "Methodical Work."

FRIDAY P. M.

1.30 Business Meeting.
Paper, "Christ, Our Example," Sister West.
7.00 Song Service, conducted by C. L. Austin.
7.10 Social Meeting, Sister Chaffee, "Workers with God."
7.45 "The future Life as concerns you and me," Bro. Chase.

SATURDAY A. M.

9.00 Song Service, Bro. Chase.
9.10 Social Meeting, Lottie Barnum, "Why and how much does God allow us to be tempted."
10.00 Paper, "What are the requirements of a true minister of the Gospel," K. N. Woodward. Discussion.
10.30 Paper, "The Lord's time, What are we doing with it?" Sister Wince.
Recitation, Ester Richardson.
11.30 Sermon, "The duties of the Church to the Minister," L. C. Chase.

SATURDAY P. M.

1.30 Report of Churches and their Spiritual Needs.
Business Meeting, If necessary.
7.00 Social Meeting, B. W. Woodward.
8.00 Sermon, Bro. Chase, "God's hand in the Affairs of Man."

SUNDAY A. M.

9.00 Song Service, A. K. Richardson.
9.15 Bible Black board Lesson, "The Vine and the Branches," with Bible Reading and Talks, C. L. Austin.
10.30 Sermon, L. C. Chase, "The Marriage Supper."
Collection.
Communion.

SUNDAY P. M.

1.30 Paper, Bro. Wince, "The Lord's money and service." What are we doing with them?
2.30 Sermon, B. W. Woodward, "Darkness before Dawn."
6.45 Social Meeting, F. L. Austin, Divine Union.
7.35 Sermon, L. C. Chase, "The New Era."

Committee on programme,
EMILY BARNUM.
M. A. WOODWARD.
EMILY JACKMAN.
A. K. RICHARDSON.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Office Editor.

Editorial Committee:
J. H. WILLEY,
W. B. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, Special Contributor.

Plymouth, Ind. May 18, 1898.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "The Restitution, Plymouth, Marshall Co., Ind."

Remittance should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "The Restitution."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

A WAR ATLAS.

The exact locality of many places mentioned in the news of the War between the United States and Spain is not known to the general reader, and no recourse is had to geographies. We have decided to offer our readers a complete War Atlas of sixteen pages of maps, showing all the territory where a conflict can occur, besides some valuable statistics. This will be mailed to you for 25 cts. Send orders at once, and get the position of the places named that you can better understand how the various complication will affect the nations of the world. Address,—The Restitution, Plymouth, Ind.

We have received a number of papers from Bitter Creek, Kan., written by the young people, and read at their late meeting. We are glad to get them, and will gladly give them place in our paper in regular order.

Brother A. H. Zilmer was at North Lewisburg, Ohio, Sunday, May 8, and baptized three more into the sin-covering name. He was at Roll, Ind. the 15th, and will be in Plymouth next Sunday. He is doing good work for the Master.

Brother Joblin has been quite sick and unable to write as usual. We have the continuation of "Law or gospel," but too late for this paper. Trust he will be able to give us his usual copy for next issue. The war news occupies much attention at this time, and we give some of that in place of Brother Joblin's writings this time.

We would call attention of the brethren in Michigan and Indiana to the very excellent programmes prepared for the conferences to be held in June. Presuming that they will be carried out in the main as arranged. You cannot afford to lose any part of them. Make your calculations so as to be there all through. You will not regret the time spent. Word comes to us that Brother P. H. Bouk of Fonthill, Ont. will attend both these meetings. We should welcome him among us.

War and its Effects.

Matters are getting no better fast in Italy. The "bread-riots" are taking a most serious turn. It seems that they are mere incidents in the deeper schemes of revolution in that country. Italians are heavily taxed to support a first class army and navy on the resources of a third rate country, hence the monarchy is in danger of being overturned. Sir Charles Dilke said some years ago that Italy would drift to the brink of a great disaster on the tide of a fatally pernicious system of taxation. The events of the last ten days have shown the verification of this prophecy. Spain is bad off, but Italy is worse. But the system governing Italy is so vital to the other members of the triple alliance (Germany and Austria) that it must be maintained if possible. France would welcome the downfall of this system, as it would result in an Italian republic that would likely side with France as against Germany. Hence the efforts by Germany to uphold the present King.

Sagasta is striving with all his might to form a strong cabinet for Spain, and so bolster up the tottering administration. He has much opposition, and the enemies in his own house seem to cause as much anxiety as the ones outside.

In England matters of the gravest import are before the government. Lord Salisbury's speech at a meeting of bankers last week produced a "more serious effect on the country than many of his strongest published utterances, and the word "war" is being coupled with the word France in a thousand English mouths today. It is not that the Premier made any direct reference to France, but he warned his hearers in words which could not be explained away that there was real danger of a struggle near. Then he left them to name for themselves the quarter whence that danger was coming.

One who heard the speech informs me that he himself left the meeting convinced that within a few weeks France would either have conceded England's claims with regard to the Niger and Lagos Hinterland or would have thrown down the gauntlet. The Premier's impressive gravity seemed almost to prophesy that France would not come to terms.

Another speech, this time from Birmingham has powerfully moved his people. Seldom since the days of John Bright in that city has such cheering been heard as greeted Chamberlain's expression of the hope that in some great and noble cause the Stars and Stripes and the English flag could wave together over an Anglo-Saxon alliance."

Lord Chamberlain, the Secretary for British Colonies in a speech openly advocated an alliance between America and Britain, and it has stirred the English people to the highest pitch Could such a thing be brought about it would enable England to face Russia and her allies with a bold front. The American people, with the "Monroe doctrine" and the "Policy of Washington" deeply imbued within them, will no doubt be slow to favor such a union, but it will surely come about. It may at first be indirect, and not amount to an "alliance," but it will nevertheless mean "understanding." Mr. Chamberlain said. "The time had arrived when Great Britain may be confronted by a combination of powers and our first duty, therefore, is to draw all parts of the empire into close unity, and our next to maintain the bonds of permanent unity with our kinsmen across the Atlantic."

He spoke of this country as "a powerful and generous nation" and declared that—

"Terrible as war may be, even war itself would be cheaply purchased if in a great and noble cause the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack should wave together over an Anglo-Saxon alliance."

Many prominent men in this country have hinted at just such a union within the past few weeks, and we may look for startling developments very soon.

The fleet under Admiral Sampson on last Thursday bombarded and reduced the fortifications at San Juan, Porto Rico. Other vessels sent to Cienfuegos on the South coast of Cuba had a desperate fight on Friday when they attempted to cut the cable between Cuba and Spain. One of Admiral Dewey's ships sank a Spanish War ship in Asiatic waters last week. Supplies and ammunition with men and vessels are being hurried on to aid Dewey at the Philippines, and at the same time a powerful fleet is being made ready at Cadiz to go to the relief of the Spaniards at Manila.

It is stated in late despatches that Sagasta and the Spanish ministry have handed their resignation to the Queen, and a new ministry will be formed. An American vessel sank several of Spain's ships and reduced the fortifications at Cardenas. This is the same port where the Winslow was almost completely disabled last week. The Spanish fleet is reported to be at Curacao Island north of South America across the Carribean Sea. Where they will next be found is not know. The cloud of war is gathering blacker and blacker. Watch for the lightning's flash.

Selected.

Waterway Across Russia.

It has been freely stated that the monumental railway enterprise of the nineteenth century will be the Transsiberian railroad. Considering that when this tremendous length of line is completed the Pacific littoral will be brought into direct railway communication with the North Sea, one cannot but pause for a moment to admire the enterprise of a nation which in some quarters has been looked upon many years as more or less barbaric.

There is no question that Russia is marching onward with firm and vigorous steps, and in engineering bids fair to compete with any of the older and, presumably, more intelligent countries. Its latest engineering scheme is one which is likely to put into significance any other undertakings of a like character. It is nothing less than to build a gigantic waterway from the Black Sea to the Baltic, in other words, a canal deep enough and wide enough to carry cargo steamers from the north of Russia to the south, or vice versa. At the present time the country of Russian Poland in the watershed of the Dneiper is being actively surveyed toward this end, and early next year it is expected that the work of constructing this gigantic canal will begin. The estimated cost is $100,000,000, which includes a system of electric lights along the canal's whole length of 1,000 miles.

A glance at the map will reveal the fact that in western Russia the low flat marsh land adjacent to the Dneiper should afford excellent opportunities for rapid work in connection with the enterprise in hand. The scheme at present is to take advantage of the River Duna from the port of Riga on the Baltic coast to the town of Dunaberg in Poland. Here a canal will be cut to the River Beresina, which flows into the Dneiper, which itself, after passing through Kiev and Ekaterinoslav, empties into the Black Sea at Kherson, close to Odessa. The canal will, when completed, be in every way as great in its possibilities as the present Suez Canal, for not only is it intended for the development of commerce, but it will be built large, deep, and wide enough to allow of the passage of ironclads and ocean going steamers.—New York Herald.

Bread Riots.

"The so-called bread riots that have taken place in Milan and other cities of Italy indicate a condition of affairs that is more desperate than appears on the surface. It is true that the people are suffering for bread, for it so happens that in every great wheat-producing country in the world the crop of 1897 was a short one. In Germany, France and England, where a considerable portion of the wheat consumed is usually of domestic production, almost the entire consumption, has had to be obtained abroad. The store-houses, besides the United States, from which those countries have depended for their wheat have been Russia, India, Egypt and Argentina, but last year Russia had no surplus to export, India had very little, Egypt next to none, and Argentina harvested only enough for home consumption. The result is that bread is dear and the people are hungry.

Italy is in a worse situation than any of the countries importing wheat for domestic consumption. She has impoverished herself by attempting to maintain a standing as a military and naval power that was beyond her possibilities. What Germany and France did, Italy strove to duplicate. She wished to be classed as one of the great powers of Europe, and she has drawn the life blood out of her people in the attempt, realizing only failure. She entered into a triple alliance with Germany and Austria, and has tried to maintain a position of equality with each. With a population of about 30,000,000, she keeps a permanent peace establishment of 216,235 men, with a compulsory reserve of 1,911,000. The members of this reserve, while not constantly in service, are compelled to spend from three to nineteen years in the army, which is a fearful drain on the productive energies of the country. Besides this large number of soldiers the Italian navy has 21,724 men on the active list and 19,600 on the reserve list, making a total of nearly 2,250,000 men who are not only withdrawn from the various industries of the kingdom but have to be supported in idleness. The result is that general stagnation in business and enormous taxation are universal in the country, labor is unemployed, and those who find work receive starvation wages. The increase in the price of bread, even if it is small, brings want and hunger to people who are always on the verge of starvation. The high price of bread is only an incident that drives the people to riots which show the really intolerable conditions of affairs all over Italy. That country is attempting to do what the frog did when it sought to rival the ox, and possibly a similar result may follow the attempt.

To Hold the Islands.

"The English people believe that the time has come for the United States to become a colonizing nation. If George Washington were alive today he would counsel that the doors be thrown open and that the United States give up its policy of non-intervention and take an active part in the affairs of the whole world—seize Cuba and hold it to guard the coming Nicaragua Canal, annex Hawaii, keep the Philippine Islands, and with these possessions stand with England to aid in forwarding that ideal of Anglo-Saxon progress which is to rule the world."

These were the words in which Amyas Northcote, son of Sir Stafford Northcote of England, and member of the Chicago firm of Aldis, Aldis and Northcote, epitomized last night the sentiments which he said were his own, and which he declared he had found during a stay of several months in England to be also those of the entire English people.

"During all the time I was in England," he said, "I met but one person who did not side in an outspoken manner with the United States and its cause. The one exception was a romantic girl who had lived for a while in Spain.

"Up to the time the Maine was destroyed by the Spaniards Englishmen generally though friendly to America, had not paid much attention to the Cuban question. That aroused them and they want to see vengeance. It is the same with Englishmen everywhere. The London papers have been generally conservative, even in indorsing American action, but many of the papers in smaller cities have declared for an active alliance with this country for the purpose of immediately wiping the Spanish nation off the face of the earth.

"I make the positive statement that England stood out against a European plan to intervene in behalf of Spain, and that but for England's decided assertion that it would neither intervene nor consider interference by others a friendly act the United States would today find itself opposed to the concert of Europe.

"I was not in England when Dewey destroyed the Spanish fleet, but I know that England is overjoyed not alone at the result of the battle but the method of it.

"I believe that the United States should keep the islands. I believe, too, that they will open a mission for this country. The Anglo-Saxon is a born colonizer, and he owes colonization as a duty to civilization. The United States has proved its capabilities by colonizing a continent. Let it keep on to the westward. Hawaii is a step, the Philippines another. The islands can go only to Great Britain or to Japan if the United States gives them up. If the United States gives them up the Eastern question will be tenfold more complicated, but if they are retained England will feel that they are in the hands of a friend.

"The English people do not want an alliance any more than do Americans, but they do want to feel that if every other country joins to fight Great Britain then the United States will step up alongside."—Chicago Tribune.

Anxious for War to End.

We clip the following from the Chicago Tribune of May 15, it being from a London correspondent:—

"Public attention is now centered upon the maneuvers of a small but fast and powerful fleet against stronger but scattered squadrons, whose speed is that of their slowest ships. Every naval expert has his theory respecting Admiral Cervera's objective point, whether it be San Juan, Santiago, Havana, or Key West, but conjectures require no attention when news of a decisive battle for the supremacy in the West Indian waters may come at any hour. Criticism after the event will be more informing than futile guesswork based on individual capacity for naval strategy.

The chief lesson of the week, with daily broadsides of war information, is that the Spanish government has a brilliant talent for keeping its secrets, misleading the American press, and making war in the dark. It is well served by its secret agents in the West Indies, and by its absolute control at home of the press and telegraph has succeeded in concealing the real line of operations of its fighting squadron.

One point on which there is general agreement is that the appearance of a Spanish fleet in the West Indies is a sign that the war will be shortened. If the squadron obtains some temporary success by attacking an inferior force of blockading vessels of Cuba or menacing Key West, the Spanish government will have a better chance of reconciling the public at home to the negotiation of peace, Spanish honor having been saved. If the Spanish fleet be disabled or destroyed, the continuance of a hopeless struggle will be out of the question, and European pressure will be brought to bear strongly upon Madrid against battling with the inevitable.

Whatever may happen in West Indian waters will send up Spanish 4s by promoting the chances of peace, and with the terrible signs of social unrest and organized revolt against the government and law in Italy this result will be welcomed with a feeling of relief throughout Europe.

The Italian revolt is regarded in England as a movement almost as mysterious as the struggle from the darkness to light witnessed in 1848. The agitation for cheap bread is not attributed to wheat speculation in America or to the exhaustion of the world's reserved stock of food supplies: it is described as a movement partly socialistic, partly religious, partly sectional, but wholly inspired by discontent with existing political conditions by which the masses are overwhelmed with taxation and poverty.

Socialist organizations are known to have been making great headway during recent years in northern Italy, and the clerical party is charged with encouraging the movement. The main weight of taxation has fallen upon the northern provinces, which have become dissatisfied with the costly policy of armaments and the results of the unification of Italy. Every traveler who spends the winter in Italy returns with the conviction that it is a self-centered country, ignorant of what is going on in the world, and wholly engrossed with its own misery and with the religious controversy over the re-establishment of the temporal power of the Vatican. That the American attack upon another decaying monarchical state has been the signal for an anti-monarchical movement in Italy is an assumption which cannot be reconciled with the indifference of the people to what is happening abroad; it is more reasonable to believe that the Italian mobs have been starved and taxed into disaffection until they are ready to fight the troops in the streets.

The Ministers are afraid to let the truth be known, and have recourse to stern measures of repression. The most ominous signs are the wide diffusion of revolutionary ideas among the poor, who are armed only with the courage of despair, and the incapacity of the governing classes to consider grievances until the only method of meeting them is by bayonet charges.

Apart from the apprehension caused by the democratic revolt on the continent, with cheap bread as the watery, there is a clear perception here of the truth that the forces of Europe are now in process of rearrangement. France is assuming the leadership of the Latin races, sympathizing with the Italian government in its hour of fiery trial and openly favoring Spain at Martinique in defiance of neutrality, and lending money to the Madrid government.

The triple alliance is well nigh shattered when Italy is honeycombed with socialistic discontent, France, with Russia in alliance, and Italy drawn toward her, and Spain dependent upon her, looms up with new resources of power and prestige.

Lord Salisbury is quick to perceive her increased importance, for he has appalled the well fed London bankers with an ominous display of pessimism, and has reopened the press discussion of the questions at issue in Bousa and the Lagos Hinterland. No minister, unless it be Chamberlain, seems to know whether there is really ground for fighting in West Africa, but every diplomatic expert understands clearly that French ascendancy among the Latin races, with a disturbing of the triple alliance, will carry Germany toward England and the Anglo-Saxon side.

What is unmistakable is the fact that Europe is profoundly affected by American intervention in Cuba and the Philippines, and by the evidence that its own security depends upon an uninterrupted cheap food supply from the United States. So great is the area of disturbance that the continent desires to have the war brought to an end as quickly as possible for its own peace of mind before all existing diplomatic combinations are shattered."

The dews and rich showers of God's grace slide on the mountains of pride, and fall on the low valleys of humble hearts, and make them pleasant and and fertile.—Leighton.

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing. Said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 20th of April, 1898, providing notice is given through The Restitution that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all remittances to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 340, Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. S. J. Sigler,	$10.00
J. L. Wince,	5.00
F. L. Austin,	10.00
Edgar Hatch,	1.00
Agnes Dilworth,	2.00
Mrs. Mary E. Thompson.	15.00
One who believes that God from little offerings can work out great results.	16.60
A Friend of Truth,	1.00
Mrs. S. A. Wickizer,	5.00
Mrs. A. M. Sipe,	10.00
Mrs. Mary J. Riggs,	2.00

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending The Restitution to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

Mrs. J. Pardow,	.50
Friend at Kendallville, Ind.	1.00
Lucy A. Campbell,	1.00
Mrs. E. V. McLenathan,	.25

Notice.

Bro. Underwood:

We want a preacher at Wenatchee, Wash. We have a small church organized here, but have no regular preacher and I thought you might know of one we could get; or you may make our wants known through The Restitution. Any one writing please give the amount they would want a year. Address us at Wenatchee, Wash. Yours in hope,

Harry W. Patterson.

[We give the above notice as sent to us, hoping that some one may be found to fill the place.—Ed.]

It is said that a poor woman who keeps a small fruit stand in New York gives regularly twenty-five dollars to the cause of missions. Her whole income is not over two hundred and fifty or three hundred dollars a year. Certainly she merits the encomium pronounced by the Savior on one of her sex—"She hath done what she could." If her example were imitated, as it should be, how soon the treasury of missionary societies would overflow! It is not the large gifts of the few rich, but the small gifts of the many in straightened circumstances, that support the cause of world-wide missions.—Religious Intelligencer.

Never be cast down by trifles. If a spider break its web twenty times, twenty times will he mend it again. Make up your mind to do a thing, and you will do it. Fear not, if trouble comes upon you; keep up your spirits, though the day be a dark one.

Men will not forever fight about mere memories. He is the wisest who leaves the dead to bury their dead, and who follows the Master into the new fields of present duty.—Rev. Woodford.

O how sweet are God's precepts, when we read them not alone in books, but also in the precious wounds of the Savior.—Luther.

Summer Havens.—Attractive Resorts For Rest and Recreation.

Illustrated information about American's popular summer resorts is being distributed by Passenger and Ticket Agents of the Pennsylvania Lines. It includes descriptions of leading places of summer sojourn along the Ocean, in the Mountains of the East, and in the Lake Region and Northern Michigan, all of which are within easy reach over the Pennsylvania Route. For a copy please apply to nearest Pennsylvania Lines Ticket Agent, or address your request to C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio. 11

Send to this office and get a "War Atlas" only 25 cts post-paid.

Poetry.

Coming for His Bride.

Behold he cometh for his bride.
Jude 14; Rev. xxi. 9, 10.
All clothed in purest white,
Matt. xvii. 2; Rev. iii. 4.
As down the azure vault he rides,
Acts i. 11.
In majesty and might.
2 Peter i. 16; Eph. vi. 10.

The hills and dales and mountains quake
Matt. xxvii. 51.
At the thunder of his word.
Rev. xix. 2; 1 Thess. vii. 16.
The sleeping dead in Christ, awake,
1 Thess. iv. 16.
To meet their coming Lord.
1. Thess. iv. 16.

Clothed with immortal robes of life.
Rev. vii. 9, 13.
On Zion's Mount they stand.
Rev. xix. 1; Psa. xlviii. 2.
With him as brother, sister, wife.
Matt. xii. 50; Rev. xvii. 7.
Redeemed from every land.
Rev. v. 9, 10.

With joy the victor's palm they wave,
Rev. vii. 9.
As with one voice they sing.
Rev. v. 9, xv. 3.
Where's thy victory now, O grave?
1 Cor. xv. 55; Hosea xiii. 14.
Where now, O death, thy sting?
1 Cor. xv. 5; Isa. xxv. 8.
Dr. J. H. Thomas.

Communicated.

The Last Days.

Dear Restitution:

We are living in the very last days of Gentile times. We do not realize the magnitude of the things which are taking place around us. Until within a few weeks it was generally supposed, by Bible students, that this country would not be drawn into the last great contest between nations, which will result finally in the great battle of Armageddon. This nation was at peace with herself and with all the world, and we are so far from what is to be the scene of the conflict, that it has been generally supposed that we would escape. But what is the outlook now? As an act of humanity we interfere in behalf of the starving Cubans, and lo, the whole kaleidoscope changes. Who can foresee or foretell the end of the struggle between this government and Spain? Who would have thought a few short weeks ago, that the month of May would be ushered in by the bombardment, by our warships, of a city of more than one hundred and fifty thousand people, whose shores are washed by the waters of the China Sea. Truly facts are stranger than fiction.

Is it not strange that the first thing our government does, after declaring war with Spain, is to send our warships right into the territory for the possession and control of which, the governments of Russia, Germany, England, France, Japan, Spain and China are contending. Each of these nations has a fleet of war ships near the Philippine Islands. Why was Commodore Dewey and his fleet stationed at Hong Kong, China? It was because of threatened trouble between Russia, Germany, France, England, Japan and China over the possession and control of Port Arthur and other ports in China. Dewey was there with his fleet to watch the interests of this country. In the late war between Japan and China, Japan was victorious and in the settlement between those two nations it was agreed by China, that Japan should have the country of Corea and the harbor of Port Arthur, which is the best harbor in Chinese waters. No sooner was this settlement made between these two nations, than Russia stepped in and forbid its being carried out, for no other reason, than that she wanted the possession of Corea and the absolute control of Port Arthur. She did not claim that she had any right to either Corea or Port Arthur, or that she had any right to interfere with the settlement made between Japan and China, but she wanted Corea, and she wanted Port Arthur, and she would not therefore permit Japan to have either of them. England took the side of Japan as against Russia, and Germany sympathized with Russia and at once hunted up a port in Chinese waters, which she wanted and took possession of it, and still holds it. The nations at once sent their fleets of war ships to the place of trouble. This country sent Dewey and his fleet. Why we sent a fleet no one can explain. Our statesmen and newspapers claimed all the while that we had nothing to do with the trouble over there. All said this country is in favor of the "Monroe doctrine," which being interpreted means "America for Americans." We said let the European nations take care of the Orient, we will control the Occident.

The newspapers have been telling us from week to week, for months past, that England and Japan on one side and Russia and Germany on the other, would certainly get into a war over the possession and control of these Chinese ports. But what happens? We declare war with Spain and Commodore Dewey is ordered to take his fleet and attack the Spanish fleet in Manila harbor, and get control of the Philippine Islands. The war was declared by us for the purpose of freeing Cuba. We commence by bombarding the Spanish fleet in Manila Bay and by bombarding the forts of the City of Manila, which is more than ten thousand miles from the Island of Cuba. Why didn't we commence by bombarding Havana? That could have been just as easily done and the would have been getting at the matter direct? I am not condemning the policy of President McKinley, on the contrary I am rejoiced that Commodore Dewey has had such good success. But still the question, why is our fleet on the other side of the world actively engaged while our fleet in the Gulf of Mexico, near Cuba, is doing comparatively nothing, remains unanswered. In other words, why did this country go to Asiatic waters to commence this conflict instead of commencing it in the waters surrounding the Island of Cuba? The answer is "man proposes, but God disposes."

The purpose of this government in the present conflict is to free Cuba, God's purpose is much broader and far reaching. This war is one of the many skirmishes which will finally lead up to the great battle of Armageddon.

The Philippine Islands lay at the very gateway into the China, Yellow and Japan Seas. These are the waters on which the fleets of Russia, Germany, France, England, Japan and China will fight in case these nations shall get into war over the troubles now threatened. In the event of such a war the nation which controls the Philippine Islands would have a great advantage as they could be used as a base of supplies.

Does prophecy point to a conflict between the nations on these waters? I think it does. In Ezek. xxxviii. 4. we read "I will turn thee back, and put hooks into thy jaws, and I will bring thee forth." At first blush this would seem to be a contradiction. Immediately after the close of the late Turko-Russian war, which was brought to a close by the Berlin Conference, against the wishes of the Russian government, Russia commenced the building of a railroad to the Pacific Ocean in order that she might have a port of entry that does not freeze up. So that she can have communication with the outside world at all seasons of the year. The Russian government has been trying for more than two hundred years to accomplish this, by getting possession of Constantinople, which could give her an outlet through the Mediterranean Sea. But she has failed in this, and after making her last effort, in the Turko-Russian war aforesaid, she adopted a new policy. She wants Port Arthur for the very purpose of making that the terminus of this railroad, which she is building to the Pacific.

In the great final contest the country of Persia will be allied with Russia. See Ezek. xxxviii. 5. This would give Russia control of the Persian Gulf. Troops could be carried by water from Port Arthur to the Persian Gulf and landed at the north end of that gulf, and marched across the country of Persia to within a short distance of "the mountains of Israel." Ethiopia will also be allied with Russia. This country lays south of Egypt, bordering on the Red Sea. This would enable Russia to have a foothold on that Sea. Thus we see that after laboring in vain for two hundred years to get an outlet through a port that does not freeze, the Lord took hold of "Gog" (Czar of Russia) turned him back and put hooks in his jaws, and led him to build this railroad to the Pacific, which will furnish him a base of operations that will enable him to carry forward the great prophetical war, which is to break the war spirit of the Gentile nations. The war spirit of the Jews and Israelites has been most thoroughly broken by their long persecutions. That is the reason that Joel's proclamation to prepare for war is made only to the Gentiles. I have no doubt but that Russia will attack both from the north and the south. She will not carry all her troops to the Pacific Ocean, but she will take some of them there, and she will also march an army direct from the north, and attack from that quarter as well as by the way of the Persian Gulf and Persia.

War is a terrible calamity, but it must come. It has been so ordered by our heavenly Father. "When ye see these things come to pass lift up your heads and rejoice."

R. S. Duncans.

Curious People

We do not mean by this heading that the people to whom we refer have the organ of marvelousness largely developed, but that their expressions in waiting for our Restitutions are at times exceedingly curious. To one who sees the ludicrous in life some of these expressions seem very funny.

If these glossy memories were due to a lack of natural talent it would be sad indeed, but in most of cases it is a lack of care in the preparation of the manuscript for the printer and such people deserve a kindly reproof.

Perhaps the best way to do this is to point out some of these "funny-isms," so that they may be noticed and avoided in future:

Some writers, (preachers they are) have a way of announcing their appointments something like this:—"I will preach at the Brown Schoolhouse in Brother McCarthy's neighborhood on Thursday evening before the Third Sunday in May, and continue over Sunday the Lord willing."

Well, where is the Brown Schoolhouse? and who is McCarthy? If this announcement should come into a McCarthy neighborhood where there is a "Brown" schoolhouse the McCarthy's might know for whom it is intended. Then, again, the speech that the preacher is to make is an exceedingly lengthy one commencing on Thursday and continue over Sunday:? McCarthy and his neighborhood will be exceedingly fortunate if the Lord is not "willing," and the preacher fails to come. But Mc.'s brain must be clear and able to catch a backhanded expression if he can tell just what day the "Thursday before the third Sunday in May" will be.

Another writer, who otherwise gave us a fine exhortation, began by saying "With pen in hand I will try to write a few lines." Well, how in this world could you write a few lines unless you did it with your pen in your hand?

An intelligent brother with whom we have an intimate acquaintance, and a preacher too, rounded up after the western style, and truthfully showed our failings, which we deserved and even more, yet the odd thing about it was it ended with the usual "amen." It is scarcely to be supposed that the good brother desired that state of things to continue and yet the Amen—so be it he—as it is now used, would express his approbation of our shortcomings.

Another writer tells us in a lengthy article in "Report of Meetings" how few will listen to the truth, and that only a few will be saved: and yet he informs us that he baptized several persons "into the All Saving Name." It is just to suppose the name referred to is the name of Jesus. Is it possible that he will save all?

The "Church Directory," or "List of Churches," deserves a little friendly criticism. One church meets "On top the hill" in a schoolhouse on Sunday. If a person desired to find some of the brethren in that large city he might find some of them if he could find the schoolhouse, but it would puzzle him to find any of them on a week day, as there is no name given of any person as Elder or Deacon, or any one to whom a letter may be addressed. We venture the assertion that the brethren of that church are not troubled with visiting brethren or with those of "like faith," even if it is a church with a blessed hope. No one could find them out unless he was an expert detective.

There is another church which meets in a hall on a certain Avenue on Sunday, but no name of elder—no address where a letter may be directed or a caller in the great city may find a brother. Don't they want any one to call on them at all? What is the object of stating that there is a church there, or of putting it into the Restitution?

There is an announcement of a church at another place. They say all are welcome—to come to the hall—of course—but whom could we address telling we would be there at a certain date to speak for them or to visit them or to write an epistle of brotherly good-will and exhortation. It may be the style of large cities to do things that way, but to a western man such an announcement looks as if it was intended to keep people from finding out where any of those brethren live.

Another church tells us that it meets on the "third floor" and no doubt the stairway is dark and crooked, so they are pretty sure not to be found even on Sunday; but if any are of the same precio is faith and succeed in finding them, they are assured that they "are welcome."

Many of our people have long ago learned a passage of Scripture. We do not remember ever having heard the whole verse quoted by them; but that part which refers to "a peculiar people," seems to have an exquisite charm in it; and judging from the fruits displayed they are living it out to the letter—the peculiar part.

There is one more class of curious people among us. They must have been born as naturalists. They manifest a decided preference for animals, and while they never write about birds or fishes they are great on beasts. They are always talking and writing about the "beasts of Daniel and John" and especially about one which they name a "Non descript," which seems to be a favorite one in their menagerie.

Brethren, suffer the word of exhortation from a curious brother.

A. J. Eychaner.

[The foregoing article is somewhat out of the ordinary, and we give it for what it is worth. If any are guilty of course they will mend their ways. In the meantime it our able brother will kindly take his pen in hand" and give us an article on "The Coming of Christ," or "What must I do to be Saved?" we will gladly give it place. —Ed.]

In Memoriam

James Roby, an excellent Christian man, was a member of the Church of God, and had been for many years. The writer knew him and his estimable companion as far back as the early part of the sixties, at Silver Creek, Ill., when the Church at that point was supplied with preaching by such men as J. M. Stephenson, D. P. Hall, A. N. Bostwick, Dr. Jacob's and Elders Whitney and Speers. It was under the preaching of these able men that our departed brother, and his excellent companion who survives him, first heard and embraced the glad message of the promised kingdom, and was baptized into Christ, the Anointed One. Bro. Roby by Dr. Jacobs and Sister Roby by Eld. A. N. Bostwick. This aged couple who had an extensive acquaintance among the brotherhood and enjoyed their esteem and confidence, will be favorably recognized by many of the readers of The Restitution, and especially so by our dear Bro. A. J. Eychaner, who in those by gone days, in company with the writer, used to attend the Silver Creek meetings. Father Roby, as he was familiarly called in this County, died at the home of his widowed daughter, Mary Ballard, near Springview, Neb., April 19, 1898, at the ripe age of a few months over eighty-eight years. He was born in Washington County, Maryland, Jan. 10, 1810; was married May 12, 1835 to Miss Sarah Coffman. In 1850, emigrated from Maryland to Illinois, and located near Mt. Morris, in Ogle County, where he lived for some sixteen years, when he and his wife emigrated to Marshall County, Iowa; in 1884, they moved to Hall County, in Nebraska; and in 1888, they moved to Keya Paha Co., locating near Springview, the County seat, where he resided up to the time of his death. This couple walked in unison with each other for nearly sixty-three years. To them were born eleven children, of whom two are dead and nine are living, one son dying quite young in Maryland, and one in the Civil War. The daughters and sons living are scattered over the different States. James Roby, Jr., Adalton, Neb.; George Roby, Croton, Neb.; Simon Roby, Belogot, Neb.; Frank Roby, Adalton, Neb.; Mary Ballard, Springview, Neb.; Susan Kims, Gleeburg, Ind.; Sariah Davenport, Haddbrook, Iowa; Libby Baker, Denberry, Iowa; Sophia Wallace, Brighton, Col. These nine children, an aged companion, a number of grand children and a large circle of friends are left to deeply mourn the loss of a true husband, a loving father, a generous neighbor and a respected citizen; while the Church has lost a member who was true to her noble mission, firm and steadfast in the faith, intelligent in the things concerning the kingdom, ever ready to defend the faith, hope, doctrines and principles of Bible Christianity.

Yes, Father Roby, our beloved brother and true friend of former years, has closed his life work. He has finished his course, fought a good fight, and kept the faith, henceforth, there is laid up for him a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give him in that day when he shall come to judge the quick (living) and the dead. 2 Tim. iv. 7. This was our brother's faith and hope, and in this divine faith and blessed hope he was laid away in the lone and silent grave to sleep the calm, sad sleep of death, until the ushering in of the morn of resurrection life and glory, so long foretold by prophets true and old. When the "Sun of righteousness shall arise with healing in his wings," and in the light of his glorious life-giving, shine away the darkness of the tomb, heal the infirmities and diseases to which flesh is heir, and destroy even death itself. Mal. iv. 2; 1 Cor. xv. 26. Then if faithful to our trust and mission, we shall meet our loving Christian fathers and mothers, together with the good and holy of all ages past, and with them share in the immortal joys and unsullied glories of our Father's kingdom.

In conclusion I wish to say, that Sister Mary Ballard deserves great credit and praise for loving her affection and kindness to her parents. She is truly a noble and dutiful daughter, and in due time will receive a rich reward in the coming kingdom. The writer was credibly informed that the same can be said of her family, which speaks well for the grandchildren in this age of great moral and religious declensions, when sin and vice in all of its varied forms abound on every hand. I speak of this on account of the spirit of disobedience and unfaithfulness on the part of children toward their parents, which is every where prevalent in this day and age of the world. We should read Paul's prophecy found in 2 Timothy iii., and be convinced from the photograph of this world as given by Paul, that we are living in the last days of this dispensation, standing as it were upon the very eve of the promised restitution age. This was our aged brother's belief, and he died in the faith that he should sleep but a little while, only a night; that the morning light would soon appear, when he should awake in the likeness of Christ fully satisfied. Psa. xvii. 15. This is the Christian's hope. Let us live for and joyfully await its consummation.

A. F. Bugbee.

Report of Meeting.

Editor Restitution:

I desire to make a report of the excellent meetings held here in the Church of God at Niagara Falls, N. Y., from April 24th and closing Sunday evening May 8th.

Sister Kathleen Greenbaum the converted Jewess of Chicago doing the speaking. Though our Savior says, Luke vi. 26, "Woe unto you, when all men speak well of you." Paul adds Rom. xiii. 7, "Render honor unto whom honor is due." So I must give honor unto her who has done well, like Paul speaking fearlessly as a servant of Christ.

On inquiry Brother W. H. Wilson wrote me, "She is brim full of zeal and earnestness, a deep devotional spirit and takes well with the people, breaking down prejudice. She knows the first principles and tells them with greater effect than any one I have yet met." I can only add to his words, Sister Greenbaum is a host in herself, and how well might we as brethren and sisters copy from her the zeal, earnestness and deep devotional spirit and like her give all glory to God.

Many came to hear her and she has set many to thinking. We opened up the way for her to speak to the ladies of the W. C. T. U. here, and the Jews in their synagogue. Several of them came to our meetings. Her animated discussion with them at their meeting has very much impressed one of the young men. It strikes me very forcibly that if we as a people, who claim to have the light and truth, were filled as full of zeal and earnestness, which she possesses and which we certainly should have in the Master's service, we could, like Paul, turn the world upside down. I wonder sometimes if we are a peculiar people, zealous of good work? Yes, we are very peculiar, or rather some, so slow, lacking energy to get together on time, giving freely and working in the Master's vineyard.

Sister Greenbaum's last sermon, "What Must I Do to be Saved?" was given to a good audience Sunday evening, was handled differently and better than I have ever heard it, full of instruction and was listened to with rapt attention by all. At the close, many, if not all the audience went up to shake her by the hand.

The brethren have had food for reflection and appear well satisfied. Only the all-seeing eye can tell the good these meetings have accomplished. The little flock have sown in weakness. Sister Greenbaum has well watered in due season and in his own good time God will give the increase. May God's richest blessing go and abide with the Sister is my prayer.

On Wednesday, 12 M. May 4th Sis. Greenbaum had the pleasure of attending a marriage-feast, when my daughter, Jennie Elizabeth was united in marriage to Frank Leslie Birchard, both of them belonging to the household of faith.

Yours in the Master's service.

Fred Greiner.

Dear Restitution:

We have just had a fifteen days meeting at Baker Union Church, Delta, Ohio, conducted by Bro. Zilmer of Plymouth, Ind. We had good attendance for the time of the year, and we find in Bro. Zilmer, one able to divide the Word of Truth. He wields the Sword of the Spirit with great power, and false teaching receives no quarters from him. His arguments are all backed by "Thus saith the Lord." On Sunday, the 1st. of May, two were baptized into the Christ, and on the 4th five others became obedient to the faith. We have had Bro. and Sister Woodward and others here at different times preaching the gospel, and we find in Bro. Zilmer a preacher of the same old gospel, so that this part of the country is without excuse in that respect, in not hearing it taught. There were some almost persuaded, but Satan hindered. The meeting closed on Thursday evening, May 5th. The Seed is sown, and the Lord said, "My Word shall not return unto me void." May it yet bring forth much fruit.

S. J. Elton, Sec.

Editor Restitution:

Bro. W. J. Orem came up to Blythedale, Mo., April 4, and leaving us on the 11th. While here he preached four discourses to a fair congregation. Oh, it did our hearts good to hear the words of truth proclaimed once more. Bro. Orem is an able proclaimer of the gospel. He was present with us at the bedside of Bro. J. F. Wilson when he died, April 7. As Bro. Wilson was a firm believer in life only in Christ, and "when Christ who is our life shall appear we shall all appear with him in glory." His request was that Bro. Orem should preach on Sunday April 10th. on the Resurrection, which he did to a well filled house, and they gave good attention, but as he told them, "If I throw out the life line and you don't take hold of it, what good will it do you?" He made things, plain, I don't see how they could help from grasping the line. Bro. Wilson wanted to live to see Christ come, but as his disease baffled all the physicians; and the grim monster death slowly but surely stealing upon him, he told his companion there was no way into the kingdom for him, except through death. He was a firm believer in the personal second coming of Christ, and that he would restore again the kingdom to Israel, and raise the sleeping saints from their dusty beds and give them life, yes, eternal life; and change the living saints, and they will be made kings and priests in his kingdom on this earth. Bro. Wilson had all the care that mortal hands could give him. He was confined to the house most of the time for eighteen months; his wife and children ready and willing at any and all times to do all they could for him; but alas, a kind husband, a loving father, a good neighbor, a firm believer in the Abrahamic faith is taken from us.

Yours waiting for the King,

Jesse Harrold.

50,000 Copies.

I have lately received from the printer 50,000 copies of my eight-page double-column tract, "The Gospel of the Kingdom." The price of this new edition is exceedingly low,—10 cts per dozen: 50 cts per hundred: $4.00 per thousand. It is a clear and systematic statement of the gospel of the kingdom. Please send orders to Wiley Jones, Manchester, Va.

Very Low Rates to Denver, Colorado.

Via the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western Ry.) Excursion tickets at exceptionally low rates to Denver and return (with stop-over privileges under certain liberal conditions at the Trans-Mississippi and International Exposition, Omaha, Neb.) will be sold June 2, 4, and 5, account of American Medical Association meeting; and will be sold June 16, 17 and 18, account of meeting of Federation of Women's Clubs, all with favorable return limits. For rates and other information ask your nearest Ticket Agent or write, C. Traver, Marine National Bank Building, Pittsburg, Pa., or W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago, Ill.

The Indiana Conference.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:

The time is drawing near to have another meeting at Antioch, commencing Thursday evening, June 9, 1898, and continuing over Sunday. We trust the brethren will feel an interest and put forth an effort to come and partake of the feast of the words of truth, and help to make the meeting to fully serve its purpose, to build each other up in the most holy faith, and impart strength to withstand the trying times which seem to be so near approaching.

F. L. AUSTIN, Pres.
A. C. ROBERTS, Sec'y.

PROGRAMME FOR THE INDIANA CONFERENCE.

THURSDAY P. M.

7.00 Song Service.
7.15 Salutatory. Israel Roberts.
7.30 Response. F. L. Austin.
7.45 Sermon, Heb. x. 24, 25. A. H. Zilmer.

FRIDAY A. M.

9.30 Social Meeting led by Geo. W. Smith.
10.30 Reward of the Faithful. F. C. Myers.
11.30 Meeting Executive Board.

FRIDAY P. M.

1.30 Business Meeting.
2.30 Paper—Upon what things should a Church be united to work harmoniously? A. R. Underwood, followed by Discussion.
7.00 Social Meeting led by Wm. Railsback.
7.30 The Ideal Church. Miss Flora Harris.
8.00 What is True Religion? J. F. Wagoner.

SATURDAY A. M.

9.30 S. S. Session led by D. E. Vanvactor.
9.40 Song Service, and Report of S. S. Delegates.
10.00 Relation of the Church to Sunday School. D. E. Vanvactor.
10.15 Song by Plymouth S. S. pupils.
10.20 Relation of the S. S. to Church. J. B. Willey.
10.35 The S. S. as the Nursery of the Church. Mrs. M. J. Price.
10.50 Song by Argos S. S.
10.55 Paper—How can we Encourage and Retain Young People in Church Work? Miss Mattie Benjamin.
11.10 With what Spirit should Young People work in their Religious Societies and by whom should they be led? Mrs. S. R. Wince.

SATURDAY P. M.

1.30 Social Meeting led by A. Drew.
1.45 Bible Study. W. D. Thompson.
2.00 The One Faith. Chas. Fish.
2.35 Our High Priest. F. L. Austin.
7.00 Social Meeting. H. F. Cordill.
7.45 The Hand of God in History, a Gleam of Coming Glory. J. F. Wagoner.

SUNDAY A. M.

9.30 Social Meeting led by J. H. Willey.
10.30 Sermon—Nature of Man, 1st, by Creation; 2nd, by Adoption; 3rd, by Resurrection. A. H. Zilmer.

SUNDAY P. M.

2.30 Communion Service. J. L. Wince.
6.30 Social Meeting led by J. F. Wagoner.
7.30 Second Coming of Christ. F. L. Austin.

It is important that all Sunday Schools appoint delegates, and we hope all will come in the Spirit of the Master. Committee on programme,

J. H. WILLEY.
D. E. VANVACTOR.
A. C. ROBERTS.

Guide to Washington, D. C. sent free to Teachers and Tourists.

It contains special information about places of interest, also complete and comprehensive map of the National Capital, time of through trains to Washington via of Pennsylvania Short Lines, and reduced rates over that route for the National Educational Association meeting in July. Just the thing for teachers and any one going to Washington. Address C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio, enclosing 2 cent stamp. The Guide is worth much more. june 1

The mind is like a trunk; if well packed it holds almost everything; if ill packed, next to nothing.

Things may be seen differently and differently shown, but actions are visible, though motives are secret.

The humble man, though surrounded with the scorn and reproach of the world, is still in peace, for the stability of his peace resteth not upon the world, but upon God.

Announcements.

Editor Restitution:

The Young People's meeting of the Church of God in Southern Kansas will meet at Crescent school house, near Bitter Creek post office, the 28 and 29 of May. The business meeting will be held Saturday evening. There will be two meetings on Sunday, the one 2.30 and the other at 7.30 P. M. All young people interested in the Truth are invited to be present and prepare papers on the subject, which is "Christianity."

MARY I. BARBER, Sec.

The Third Quarterly Conference of the Church of God in Nebraska will be held in Furnas County, at the Prime School House, about two miles south of Arapahoe, beginning the Lord willing, on Friday, June 3rd, and holding over Sunday. Come, all who can. Attend this meeting, and help to make it a pleasant and profitable one. We hope that before that time, that each congregation will send in its votes for place of holding the conference the coming year.

M. D. NEWELL, Pres.
RENA GORDON, Sec'y.

Reduced Fares to Various Points via Pennsylvania Lines.

Excursion tickets will be sold via Pennsylvania Lines as indicated in the following paragraphs. Although concessions in fare are authorized for meetings of certain Orders, tickets may be obtained by any person whether a member of the Order or interested in the event. The reduced rates will be open to everybody.

To Warsaw, Ind., (Winona Lake,) May 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, 20th, and 21st, good returning until June 3d, account Presbyterian General Assembly.

To Naperville, Ill., (Burlington Park near Chicago) May 23, 24th, 27th and 28th, for German Baptist Annual Meeting; good returning until June 24th, with privilege to extend limit until June 30th.

To Dallas, Texas, June 11th and 12th, account meeting of Nobles of Mystic Shrine. Return limit June 28th.

To Toledo, Ohio, June 15th and 16th, good returning until June 20th, account United Brethren in Christ Church Young People's Biennial Convention.

To Louisville, Ky., June 19th and 20th, for Jr. O. U. A. M. National Council Meeting. Return limit June 25th.

To Washington, D. C., July 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the National Educational Association Meeting. Good to return July 15th, with privilege to extend return limit until August 31st.

To Chicago, Ill., July 12th and 13th for Young People's Christian Union, Universalist Church. Good returning July 21st, with privilege to extend until August 10th.

To Buffalo, N. Y., July 12th 13th, 14th and 15th, good returning until July 19th, with privilege to extend until September 1st, account Baptist Young People's Union International Convention.

To Saratoga, N. Y., August 1st and 2nd, account Young People's Christian Union, U. P. Church. Return limit August 10th, with privilege to extend until August 31st.

To Richmond, Ind., August 19th and 20th, good returning until August 29th, account Society of Friends Conference.

To Cincinnati, Ohio, September 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the G. A. R. National Encampment. Good returning until September 18th, with privilege of extension until October 2d.

To Pittsburgh, Pa., October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th 12th and 13th, good returning until October 17th, account Knights Templar Triennial Conclave. Return limit may be extended until October 31st.

During the excursion season special rates will also be in effect via Pennsylvania Lines for special and local events. For particular information please apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines or address C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.

Special Rates via Vandalia Line.

G. A. R. and W. R. C. Encampment at Columbus, Ind., May 16, 17 and 18. One Cent per Mile.

Grand Lodge A. F. and A. M. at Indianapolis, May 23 and 24. One fare for Round trip.

Indiana University Alumni Reunion at Bloomington, Ind., June 10 and 12. One and one-third fare for Round trip.

For full information inquire of T. A. Downs, Agent.

"Beautiful Winona."—A Delightful Summer Haven.

Winona Lake, Indiana, (formerly Eagle Lake) is an attractive summer haven on the Pennsylvania Lines near Warsaw, Indiana. As the site of Winona Assembly and Summer School, has grown into favor very rapidly. Improvements made on the two hundred acres of romantic woodland which stretches nearly two miles along the eastern shore of Winona Lake, a beautiful sheet of water, include all the comforts and conveniences for a highly enjoyable sojourn. Ample facilities are at hand for satisfactory entertainment at reasonable rates at the commodious hotel which adjoins the railway station at the entrance to the grounds, in cosy cottages, or in tents as may be preferred.

Persons who may desire to combine devotion, entertainment and instruction with rest and recreation will find Winona Lake the ideal spot for invigorating both mind and body by instructive entertainment and study and health-giving recreation. The educational work of the Summer School is in charge of well known instructors. The college halls are equipped with all required paraphernalia: the large auditorium in which the assembly meets, and in which prominent lecturers are heard during the season, has a seating capacity of over 3,000. An amphitheatre, race track and other facilities for athletic pastimes are provided. The fishing, bathing and hunting are fine, the large fleet of boats being of the best.

The season of 1898 will open May 15th. Commencing on that date excursion tickets with fifteen day limit will be on sale via Pennsylvania Lines. They may be obtained during May, June, July and August. The sale of season excursion tickets will begin June 1st, and continue daily until September 30th. Season excursion tickets will be good returning until October 31st.

Full information about the attractions at "Beautiful Winona," its Assembly and Summer School, etc., will be cheerfully furnished all who address Mr. Sol. C. Dickey, Secretary, Winona Lake, Ind. Inquiries about excursion rates, time of trains, etc., should be addressed to Passenger and Ticket Agents of the Pennsylvania Lines, or to F. Van Dusen, Chief Assistant General Passenger Agent, Pittsburg, Pa. —may 30.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. H. Stevens, Shawnee Mound, Mo.
S. B. Clinkenbeard, Bonham, Texas.
P. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. M. Cheesbrough, Gobleburgh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4820 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Rollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 155 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio.
W. L. Skeels, Scholls, Ore.
E. Hoyt, Box 384, Grand Rapids, Mich.
S. Roxana Wince, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Rean, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Ratch, Scircleville, Ind.
J. W. Niles, Edinburg, Pa.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Chisanville, Ark.
J. J. Cady, Holbrook, Ari.
J. T. Prime, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eyelsimer, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Keim, 4507, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Glenn, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hull, Bentee, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Sidell, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Osawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Atlen, Kan.
D. M. Hudler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. G. Haupt, Laurel, Neb.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linton, Okla.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
H. T. Baker, Box 1498 Decorah, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Cottonwood, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Marmont, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Stolls, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 44, Viola, Idaho.
Elder U. M. Williams, Portland, Kan.
B. Wilson, 1005 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
D. T. Hubbard, Rensselaer, Ind.
John Foore, 2012 West Corning Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
R. S. Dwiggins, Rensselaer, Ind.
Kansas.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 884 Grand Rapids, Mich.

Cheap Rates via Vandalia.

The G. A. R. National Encampment at Cincinnati, O., Sept. 5th to 10th.

The Supreme Lodge of K. of P. and Uniform Rank Encampment at Indianapolis, beginning Aug. 30th.

For the above occasions the Vandalia Line will make a rate of One cent per Mile.—T. A. Downs, Agent.

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., as follows:—Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:00, for devotional service, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the one faith passing through thereby, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by addressing, or calling at Ella V. Baker's, 209 West Hey St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God, at Andover, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Mills Hall. Andover is on the direct line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R., going west to Aberdeen, thirty miles east thereof.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Frame Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Susan Sollick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb, Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:30 p. m, followed by services at 2:30. All are welcome.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. Brethren known to this church, or coming properly endorsed by intendituary letter, will be heartily welcomed. At present we meet in the School House on top of the hill; cable cars come very near, and ferry brings from Seattle.

The brethren of the Church of God at Beach Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 when prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, La., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthon, Elder.

The Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Benwar Hall, on Willoughby Ave., near Broadway.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychimer. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Elden and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The elder is W. W. Trundell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prasser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meeting at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okla., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles north-east of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet twice a month for the purpose of breaking bread and social services, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth meet with us. Services at 2 o'clock P. M. Lizzie Woods, Winterrhode, Ill., Sec.

The Church of God of Watervills, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Mountainview School House, near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Corbaley, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 2:30 P. M. for worship, in private homes. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Gover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Faithfully yours, Grant Machamer.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays of each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver, Pastor.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 A. M. in hall on 3rd. Floor No. 12319 Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave., Cleveland, O., where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. B. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:00 A. M. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. B. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt binding, fifth edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Twelve Words;" one of "Early Lessons;" and one of "Honoring the Son,—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

NICKEL PLATE

10-24-98

All trains arrive at and depart from the Union Passenger Station, Van Buren Street, Chicago. Uniformed Colored Porters attend first and second class day coaches on through trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars outside.

Eastward.	All Nickel Plate Passenger Trains Daily.	Westward.
Lv.	Under Daily.	Ar.
9:30 A. M.	Lv. Chicago, Ar.	4:00 P. M.
11:05 "	Valparaiso,	2:25 "
11:45 "	Ar. Wanatah, Lv.	1:45 "
12:00 M.	Kouts,	1:30 "
1:05 P. M.	Hobart,	12:30 "
1:25 "	Lake,	12:10 "
1:40 "	Merrillville,	11:55 A. M.
2:05 "	Kirby,	11:30 "
2:25 "	Ft. Wayne,	11:00 "
3:30 "	Carnegie,	9:45 "
3:45 "	Leipsic,	9:30 "
4:30 "	Ar. Toledo, Lv.	8:45 "
7:00 "	Ar. Cleveland, Lv.	6:15 "
10:20 "	Ar. Buffalo, Lv.	3:00 "

Lake Shore & M. S. Div. Lake Erie & W. Div.
(Underground Crossing. L. Shore and M. S.)

Fast Night Express Daily between Chicago and Buffalo, via Nickel Plate, Wheeling and Lake Erie; Westward, only to Toledo, Thursday and Saturday.

Dining Room Sleeping Cars on Nos. 2, 4 and 8 through to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Rosbury on N. Y. & Lake Erie R. R. Meals are served at up-to-date Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at opportune meal hours. Baggage checked to destination. On inquiry you will find our rates are always lower than the other lines, service considered.

For rates and detailed information, address R. P. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agent.

Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Div.
Pennsylvania Lines.
Schedule of Passenger Trains—Central Time.

Westward.	9	19	29	3	25
	AM	PM	AM	PM	PM
Pittsb'gh, Jv.	7 00	2 30		7 35
Alliance...ar	9 05	4 30		9 30
Canton	10 26	5 50		10 50
Massillon	10 37	6 00		11 00
Wooster	11 10	6 40		11 30
Mansfield	11 51	7 20		12 10
Crestline...ar	12 20	7 50		12 40
Galion	12 41	8 10		1 00
Delaware	1 07	8 40		1 25
Lima	2 03	9 37		2 20
Van Wert	2 50	10 27		3 07
Ft Wayne	4 45	12 15	3 30	4 55
Arcola			3 51	5 16
Columbia City			4 08	5 33
Churubusco			4 23	5 48
Wawaka			4 33	5 58
Kendallville			4 45	6 10
Orland			4 58	6 23
Angola			5 10	6 35
Pleasant Lake			5 20	6 45
Fremont			5 30	6 55
Eagle Lake			5 40	7 05
Waterloo			5 50	7 15
Auburn			6 00	7 25
Garrett			6 15	7 40
Butler			6 30	7 55
Ft Wayne	6 10	5 30		7 45
Pittsburgh	7 00	6 20		8 35
Chicago...ar	9 00	8 05	7 35	10 40	9 55
	AM	PM	PM	PM	AM

Eastward.	29	8	4	6	20	24
	AM	PM	PM	AM	AM	PM
Chicago...lv	7 30	3 00		12 15	12 30	5 45
Hobart	9 30					7 46
Liverpool	9 40					7 56
Kouts	9 51					8 07
Wheeler	9 56					8 12
Valparaiso	10 10	4 22		1 00		8 26
Wanatah	10 27			1 17		8 43
Hanna	10 31			1 21		8 47
Davis	10 39					8 55
Hamlet	10 42			1 32		8 58
Grovertown	10 49					9 05
Plymouth	10 58	5 47	2 45	4		9 14
Inwood	11 03		2 53			9 19
Bourbon	11 08		3 00	5 15		9 24
Sina Green	11 13		3 05			9 29
Wyman	11 20	6 27	3 12	5 27		9 36
Eagle Lake	11 30					9 46
Pierceton	11 40		3 30			9 56
Leesville	11 49		3 44	6 05		10 05
Columbia City	12 00	7 00	4 00	6 15		10 15
Arcola			4 16
Ft Wayne	12 35	7 35	4 50	6 52		10 50
Van Wert	1 20	8 20	5 30	7 35		11 35
Lima	2 10	9 10	6 20			12 25
Bucyrus	3 05	10 05	7 15			1 20
Crestline...ar	3 40	10 40	7 50			1 55
Mansfield...lv	3 50	10 50	8 00			2 05
Wooster	4 30	11 30	8 40			2 45
Massillon	4 43	11 43	8 53			2 58
Canton	4 53	11 53	9 03			3 08
Alliance...ar	5 18	12 18	9 28			3 33
Pittsb'gh...ar	7 15	2 15	11 25			5 30
	AM	AM	PM			PM

Parlor Cars on Nos. 19, 8 and 4.

L. P. LOREE, General Manager. E. A. FORD, General Passenger Agent.
14-M-F PITTSBURGH, PENN'A.

For time cards, rates of fare, through tickets, baggage checks, and further information regarding the running of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect Dec. 5, 1897.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.

No. 6, Ex. Sun. For St. Joseph.....12:08pm
No. 8, " " " " 10:11pm

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute.....5:38 a m
No. 3, " " " " *12:41pm

For Complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. Ford,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo.

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1898. The cost is only three cents a week.

Books and Tract List.

A LETTER TO A FRIEND.

This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. Many of our readers already know of the good that has been accomplished through its circulation. 10 cents each.

FUTURE PROBATION.

Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moncrieff. We have a good supply and will send them post paid for ten cents per copy.

GLAD TIDINGS OF THE KINGDOM OF GOD.

This tract contains 12 large size pages, and is a reprint of a work issued many years ago. It is clear and comprehensive. 6cts each or 50 for $1.00.

THE COMING NATION.

A lecture by H. V. Reed. This clearly sets forth that the Coming Nation will be the nation of Israel restored to Palestine, with the Scriptural reasons given. 20 pages. 10 cts or three or 25 cts.

Necessity of Baptism. Written some years ago by J. M. Stephenson. It is good. Also, Bible Plan of Salvation, with Scriptural interpretations. 2cts each or 15 cts per dozen.

Modern Events in the Light of Prophecy.—Sermon preached by H. V. Reed at Antioch, put in tract form. 5 cents each, or 30 copies for $1.00.

Passages Supposed to Teach Consciousness after Death, by W. R. Wilson, which shows that eternal life is not inherent. 3 cents each, or 25 cents for 12.

Where Do the Dead Sleep. Three Bible texts given in answer to this question. A 3-page tract 2 cents each or 15 cents per dozen.

Rules. A Bible covenant of this place with proof texts. Ten copies for 5 cents.

Death Compared to a Sleep. This represents death as a sleep and gives texts are given. Ten copies for 5 cts.

The Wicked Dead and Plain Truth. The two combined. 2 pages text equivalent to 10 cent tract.

"Word of Man, vs. Word of God," by H. V. Reed. A contrast between the two. 2cts each or 15 for 25 cts.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory, and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O.

Aids to Bible-Study and Mission-Work.

1. The gospel of the Kingdom, avocated in a series of Ten discourses. A volume of 283 pages, Cloth 25c. a Leather-bound beautifully embossed and gilt edged $1.00. 2. Twelve Words or the true meanings of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptable, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as gathered from their uses in the Holy Scriptures. A tract of 40 pages 10cts a copy. Intended as a substitute for and an improvement on the same writer's Key-Words. 3. The gospel of the Kingdom. An 8-page double column tract 10cts. per dozen; 75cts. per hundred. 4. Who are Led by the Spirit? A 4-page tract 25cts per hundred. 5. Seeking and Finding. A 4-page tract 25cts. per hundred. 6. Honouring the Son. An 8-page tract 25cts per dozen. 7. Early Lessons. 80 pages 10cts. copy. Suitable for old or young.

Written and for sale by WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

Notice.

WILL our friends please remember that we do not have the books and tracts at this office that are advertized by Brother Joblin, or Brother Wiley Jones. Do not send to this office for them, but send to their address as given in the advertisement. This will save both trouble and delay. PLEASE REMEMBER.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU ? : X IT?

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

Spin Cheerfully.

Spin cheerfully.
Not tearfully.
Though weakly you plod,
Spin earnestly.
Spin prayerfully.
Bur to see the thread to God.
The Author of his purpose wove
To carry out his own design
Seek not reason to disapprove
His work, nor yet assign
Dark motives when with silent dread
You view each scatter'd thread.
For he, within each darker thread,
There shines a thread of gold.
Spin cheerfully,
Not tearfully.
He knows the way you plod;
Spin earnestly,
Spin prayerfully,
But leave the thread with God.

Communicated.

Review —No. 2.

HOW DID THE LORD JESUS VIEW HIS MESSIAHSHIP? CONCLUDED.

The Messenger: A Magazine.....specially advocating the kingdom of God, the Return of the Lord Jesus, and the Hope of Eternal Life. Editor R. K. Strang. Glasgow, Scotland. September, 1897

In the previous article on this subject I dealt in a general way with a paper bearing the above heading in the "Messenger." I showed that the writer by mixing up the Lordships and the Priesthood of Jesus with his Messiahship produces in effect a complex idea of the latter which is not warranted by the Scriptures. I also noticed one special argument drawn from the alleged disappointment of the disciples, derived from the question, "How long dost thou cause us to doubt? If thou be the Christ, tell us plainly."

2. I now come to examine another argument employed to prove this disappointment drawn from the message sent to our Lord by John the Baptist from his prison. The writer says, "John, anguished and helpless in his dungeon, cried out, 'Art thou he that should come, or do we look for another?'"

3. This allegation is based on an assumption that John had seen cause to doubt the Messiahship of Jesus. The only proof offered for this is the fact that John sent two of his disciples to our Lord with the question above quoted. This question certainly implies doubt, but not necessarily on the part of John. The writer of the article does not seem to be aware that eminent authorities have, even from the early centuries of the Christian era, held the view that the doubt was not John's but his disciples.

4. What, then, are the facts and circumstances? And what the fair inferences and probabilities, in the case?

5. Fact number one:—John had very shortly before, as a divinely authorized witness, borne public testimony to the Messiahship of Jesus. Inference: the extreme unlikelihood of John's lapse from this position.

Fact number two:—Our Lord had publicly referred his adversaries to this testimony of John, and it was not gainsaid.

Fact number three:—The question sent from John was put to Jesus on a public occasion, and there is no record that any one ever threw suspicion on John's steadfastness.

Fact number four:—John sent two messengers with the question to Jesus. But why two? If the question was John's only, was not one messenger sufficient?

Fact number five:—The question, in its terms, is not strictly a personal one from John to Jesus. It is not, Do I look for another? but "Do we look for another?" True, the question may have included John, but not necessarily. It certainly included the two disciples.

Fact number six:—John was possessed of the Holy Spirit from his birth, and there is no evidence of the withdrawal of that wonderful endowment. Inference:—There was no need for information on the part of John.

Fact number seven:—On the occasion when the question was put to Jesus, he bore ample testimony to John's prophetic office. "What went ye out to see? A prophet? Yea, I say unto you, and much more than a prophet." Whatever we may reasonably infer here, it must not be forgotten that Jesus infallibly knew whether John doubted his Messiahship. But he gives no hint that such was the case; rather the opposite.

Fact number eight:—John's two messengers had not become the disciples of our Lord. The reason can hardly be conceived to be a satisfactory one. Some of the most important of our Lord's disciples had previously been disciples of John. They were certainly circumstances fitted to keep persons of "little faith" back from discipleship. Expulsion from the synagogue of such as should confess that Jesus is the Christ, had been decreed by the authorities. Some of our Lord's disciples "went back and walked no more with him." Even a good man like Joseph of Arimathea is recorded to have been "a disciple of Jesus, but secretly, for fear of the Jews." John was the very opposite of this character. Of his two disciples, however, we know nothing; but there is little wonder that in the circumstances mentioned, they should hold back and even cherish doubts of his Messiahship, from the fact that their Master notwithstanding the miracles of Jesus was allowed to remain a prisoner.

6. From what has been advanced on this point, I must decline to endorse the libel on the memory of John the Baptist. I have no hesitation in affirming that the narrative, with the facts mentioned, is consistent with the more reasonable view that John sent his disciples to Jesus with their question, and not his.

7. The following statement in the article calls for a remark. "He (Jesus) was the great Christ of God, not only in view of glory to be revealed, but the Christ then in fact—the King of Israel—and I see no cause to postpone the fact." As this reads, our Lord was King of Israel in fact. This is simply not true. To be the Christ in fact, that is, being Anointed, is one thing, to be the King of Israel in fact, is quite another thing. For this latter proposition G. G. M. offers no proof. It is a purely gratuitous assertion, the purpose of which it is difficult to imagine. True, Nathanael said, "Thou art the King of Israel;" but he did not add, "in fact." Our Lord said to Pilate, "I am the King of the Jews:" but both he and Pilate were quite aware that he was not so "in fact." The Jews belonging to the chief priests' party, said to Pilate, "We have no king but Cæsar," they had no need to add "in fact," for it was well known. Jesus was "born King of the Jews," and he affirmed this truth to Pilate (John xviii. 37) but he was not, "the Christ" or Anointed, till he was 30 years of age. It will not be disputed that from his birth till his Anointing, both his Messiahship and his kingship "in fact" were in abeyance. I know of no evidence to prove that he was more than "King of Israel" by right—in the words of the prophet—"He whose right it is," and that even down to his crucifixion. No believer of the gospel of the kingdom will maintain that, even in his exalted position at the right hand of God, our Lord is King of Israel "in fact." The prophet places his kingship "in fact," at the "coming of the Son of Man with the clouds of heaven." Dan. vii. 13, 14.

8. The question put by the disciples to our Lord on the eve of his ascension—"Lord, wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel," is quoted to show that our Lord, during his forty days teaching of "things pertaining to the kingdom of God," had not informed them as to the time when it should be restored. This is followed by the remarks—"a slight tone of disapproval is discernible in his reply." Their minds "had to be schooled to relinquish the immediate gratification of a fondly cherished dream, and to patiently acquire the full spiritual perception of a Christ and kingdom not of earth-born conception," etc. Whatever was the design of the writer in penning these statements, their expressed sense is certainly plain enough, although one can hardly imagine how they could be expressed by a professed believer in the gospel of the kingdom, or find a place in the "Messenger." That sense I fail to perceive to be anything but this: the restoration of the kingdom to Israel was "a fondly cherished dream," the immediate gratification of which "dream" had to be relinquished. That this "dream" was concerning "a Christ and kingdom of earth-born conception;" and that the true conception of Christ and his kingdom was of a "spiritual" character quite foreign to their idea. If this is not the "spiritual kingdom" of popular theology, the language used is certainly well-fitted to give expression to it, and in the absence of any explanation to the contrary to mislead.

9. So far from this, however, we have in another paragraph a confirmation of the sense indicated above. It is said, "there is abundant evidence to show that he (our Lord) was well aware of his terrible task to preach a Christ and a kingdom to a large extent neither looked for nor wanted." Here one has to wonder why even a small selection of this "abundant evidence" is not communicated to the reader. The fact is that our Lord's task was performed in preaching the approach of a kingdom, while he kept his disciples entirely ignorant as to any "mistaken notions" they "indulged" concerning its nature, which he certainly must have been aware of, if they had been really entertained.

10. The "slight tone of disapproval discernible in his reply" to the question of his disciples—"Wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel?" is not nearly strong enough if it is intended to apply to the real point of the question—"at this time." His reply was a direct negative, when coupled, as it was, with their mission to "the uttermost part of the earth." "It is not for you to know the times or the seasons of which the Father hath put in his own power." Does this not imply his own ignorance of the time, as he said on a previous occasion—"that day knoweth no man but my Father only." If the "slight tone of disapproval" is intended to apply to the disciples "mistaken notions" as to the nature of the kingdom, the passage affords no ground for such an idea, but rather the opposite. Their question showed that they still held the Israelitish idea of the kingdom, and he uttered not a word to correct it, when so suitable opportunity offered.

J. CAMERON.

Judges. Chapter 3.

1. And these are the nations that the Lord left to try Israel with, all those who had not known the wars of Canaan:

2. And for the sake of the generations of sons of Israel to teach them war; moreover for the sake of the five satrapies facing them who did not know them:

3. The five satrapies of the other tribes, and all the Canaanitish nation and the Sidonian and the Evaite that inhabited the Libanos from the Amorite mountain unto Laboosemath.

4. And this took place to test Israel with them, to know whether they would obey the commandments of the Lord which he had enjoined on their fathers at the hand of Moonsees.

5. And the sons of Israel took up their abode in the midst of Canaanite and the Chettaite and the Amorraite and the Pherezaite and the Evaite and Jebousaite.

6. And they took their daughters unto themselves for wives, and they gave their own daughters unto their sons and they served their gods for here.

7. And the sons of Israel did that which was wicked in the sight of the Lord, and they ignored the Lord their God, and they served the Baal rites and the groves.

8. And the Lord became wrathful with Israel, and the Lord gave them up at the hand of Chousarsathaim king of Syria of the rivers: and the sons of Israel became bond-servants of Chousarsathaim for eight years.

9. And the sons of Israel cried unto the Lord: and the Lord raised up a Savior for Israel, and he saved them—namely Gothoniel son of Kenez, a brother of Chaleeb, the one younger than he.

10. And the Lord's spirit came to be upon him and he judged Israel: and he went out to war against Chousarsathaim: and the Lord gave up Chousarsathaim king of Syria of the rivers by his hand, and his hand became a controling one over Chousarsathaim.

11. And the land became quiet for forty years: and Gothoniel son of Kenez died.

12. And the sons of Israel repeated doing that which was wicked in the sight of the Lord; and the Lord strengthened Egltoun king of Mooab against Israel, because they had done that which was wicked in the sight of the Lord:

13. And he gathered unto himself all the sons of Ammoon and Amalek, and went his way and smote Israel, and inherited the city of the palm-trees.

14. And the sons of Israel served Egltoun king of Mooab twelve years as bond-servants.

15. And the sons of Israel cried unto the Lord; and he raised up for them a Savior, namely Aood, son of Geera, a son of Jemeni, a man with two right-hands (that is dextorous with either right or left hand): and the sons of Israel sent votive gifts by his hand unto Egltoun, king of Mooab.

16. And Aood made for himself a two-edged short-sword (or dagger) a span the length thereof, and he girded himself with it beneath his woolen-short-cloak upon his right-thigh:

17. And went his way and brought the votive-gifts to Egltoun, king of Mooab; and Egltoun was a very urbane man.

18. And it came to pass when Aood had finished bringing the votive-gifts; and had sent away those bringing

19. And had himself turned away from the idols those common in Galgal, Aood also said, mine is a secret word with thee, O King: and Egltoun said unto him: Be silent; and he sent away from himself all those who were standing in his presence;

20. And Aood approached him; and he was seated in his own upper-chamber, his summer apartment alone by himself; and Aood said, Mine is a word of God with thee, O king: And Egltoun stood up and out from his throne near to him.

21. And it came to pass straightway as he arose that Aood extended his left hand and took the dagger from his right thigh and thrust it into his belly.

22. And buried the handle back of the blade, and the fat closed down over the blade, because he did not withdraw the dagger from his belly.

23. And Aood passed out of the ante-chamber and out through those stationed there, and closed the doors of the upper-chamber and fastened them tight.

24. And went out: and his (the king's) servants came and saw, and lo, the doors of the upper-chamber were fastened, and they said; He is uncovering his feet in the summer-chamber, is he not?

25. And they waited until they were ashamed; and lo, no one openeth the doors of the upper-chamber: and they took the key and opened it, and lo, their Lord had fallen dead upon the floor.

26. And Aood was saved while the tumult was going on, and there was no one noticing him; and he passed by the idols and arrived safe in Seteiroothia.

27. And it came to pass when Aood had come into the land of Israel and had blown in a ram's horn on Mount Ephraim, the sons of Israel were come down along with him from the mountain and he in front of them.

28. And he said unto them, Come down after me, because the Lord God hath delivered our enemies, the Moabites, into our hand. And they came down after him and first took possession of the Monbitish crossings of the Jordanos, and did not allow a man to cross over.

29. And they smote Mooab that day about ten thousand men, every fat thing and every man of influence, and there was not a man of mark saved

30. And Mooab was subdued that day beneath the hand of Israel, and the land became quiet for eighty years; and Aood judged them until he died.

31. And after him arose Samegar a son of Dinach, and he smote the other tribes to the number of six hundred men with the ploughshare of the cattle and he saved Israel also.

COMMENT.

This third chapter opens with a statement of a more than passing interest to the Christian pedestrian, to clear statement in fact of God's imminence, and that however it may seem to us within the scope of our finite vision, inspiration assumes and unequivocally states that God does this and that gives as a good reason why he does it—in short assumes that God is ruling in the councils and counsels of men, whether they recognize him and this great fact or not. In other words we are allowed a glimpse of the higher court where sits the Judge of all the earth and a glance at its judicial procedure and we are permitted to see that God is a God not only of his own chosen people, but of "nations also," as Paul so clearly reasons in Rom. iii. 29.

The nations of the earth, and to-day, realize this great truth too little even now, notwithstanding we as Christians are in the noontide radiance of the nineteenth century with all past history open before us, and confirming this great truth more and more every day. We may possibly see why God raised up a Pharaoh, but we do not see why he raised up a Napoleon: we may see why God allowed "other tribes" to educate his chosen people through wars and tribulations; but we do not see God's hand in the wars and tribulations that arise out of "the Eastern question." We see perhaps in in history how God has prodded a prosperous nation but in different to the despairing cries of suffering and oppressed humanity at its door, so that its own selfish interests have finally impelled it to do what long before its better instincts ought to have prompted it to do as an arbitrator of the higher law of regard for neighbor: but we do not see God's hand prodding us in the horrid catastrophe of "the Maine incident."

The lessons of this third chapter are too apparent even to the casual reader for further comment, the lessons of retribution individual and national for persistent and hardened disobedience and the constant renewal of mercy accompanying confession and repentance.

CHAS. GARDNER.

If our religion does not prove a stay and support in times of trial and affliction; if it affords no consolation when "storms of sorrow lower;" if it brings no comfort to our hearts, so often made to ache, then, indeed, is our religion vain. The religion of Jesus was designed to do all this and much more. It "has the promise of the life which now is, and of that which is to come." It is useful to us only as we enjoy an assurance of its reality. When we believe God, as the little child said, "take him at his word," then, come what may, we shall find peace in believing and joy in the Holy Spirit. But when once we begin to doubt the full and personal application of God's precious promises to our own individual case, from that moment our comfort flies, and religion ceases to be a comforting power. Away, then, with doubts. Knowing in whom we have believed, let us trust him fully.

God who prepares his work through ages, accomplishes it, when the hour is come, with the feeblest instruments. —D'Aubigne.

Children have more need of models than critics

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

The Michigan Conference.

The Annual Conference of the Church of God, in Michigan, will be held (D. V.) at Dutton, Kent Co., Thursday evening, June 2, 1898, and continue over the following Sunday. A hearty invitation is extended to all of like precious faith. Ample provision will be made for all visiting brethren. The brethren at Dutton wish that as many as can, would arrange to be there at the first meeting. Dutton is situated on the Michigan Central R. R. ten miles southeast of Grand Rapids. Come with hearts filled with love. Let the one great aim be to cheer and encourage each other on the way, and by so doing better prepare ourselves to overcome the trials and temptations we may have to endure. "Blessed is he whom the Lord when he cometh will find watching," for if we are watching we are also longing and waiting, and if we are longing and waiting, then do we keep ourselves in readiness for the coming of our Lord and Savior.

EMMA JACKMAN, Sec.

PROGRAMME OF THE MICHIGAN CONFERENCE.

THURSDAY P. M.

7.00 Song Service, conducted by C. L. Austin.
7.15 Address of Welcome, President.
7.20 Response, Vice President.
7.35 Sermon, Brother Winchester, "The Lord's Second Coming."
8.35 A Poem, Omer Clover, "The Lord is coming."

FRIDAY A. M.

9.00 Song Service, conducted by A. K. Richardson.
9.15 Social Meeting, R. Lake, subject, "God's Love to Man."
10.00 Paper, "Parent's duties in teaching the Children the Truth," Sister Hoyt, Discussion.
10.30 Sermon, C. L. Austin, "Methodical Work."

FRIDAY P. M.

1.30 Business Meeting.
Paper, "Christ Our Example," Sister West.
7.00 Song Service, conducted by C. L. Austin.
7.10 Social Meeting, Sister Chaffee, "Workers with God."
7.45 "The future Life as concerns you and me," Bro. Chase.

SATURDAY A. M.

9.00 Song Service, Bro. Chase.
9.10 Social Meeting, Lattie Barnum, "Why and how much does God allow us to be tempted."
10.00 Paper, "What are the requirements of a true minister of the Gospel," K. N. Woodward.
Discussion.
10.30 Paper, "The Lord's time, What are we doing with it?" Sister Wince.
Recitation, Ester Richardson.
11.30 Sermon, "The duties of the Church to the Minister," L. C. Chase.

SATURDAY P. M.

1.30 Report of Churches and their Spiritual Needs.
Business Meeting, if necessary.
7.00 Social Meeting, B. W. Woodward.
8.00 Sermon, Bro. Chase, "God's hand in the Affairs of Man."

SUNDAY A. M.

9.00 Song Service, A. K. Richardson.
9.15 Bible Black board Lesson, "The Vine and the Branches," with Bible Reading and Talks, C. L. Austin.
10.30 Sermon, L. C. Chase, "The Marriage Supper."
Collection.
Communion.

SUNDAY P. M.

1.30 Paper, Bro. Wince, "The Lord's money and service." What are we doing with them?
2.30 Sermon, B. W. Woodward, "Darkness before Dawn."
6.45 Social Meeting, F. L. Austin, Divine Union.
7.35 Sermon, L. C. Chase, "The New Era."

Committee on programme,
EMILY BARNUM,
M. A. WOODWARD,
EMMA JACKMAN,
A. K. RICHARDSON.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Office Editor.

Editorial Committee:
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, Special Contributor.

Plymouth, Ind. May 25, 1898.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "The Restitution, Plymouth Marshall Co. Ind."

Remittance should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can hold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles such mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send surely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "The Restitution."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

A WAR ATLAS.

The exact locality of many places mentioned in the news of the War between the United States and Spain is not known to the general reader, and so recourse is had to geographies. We have decided to offer our readers a complete War Atlas of sixteen pages of maps, showing all the territory where a conflict can occur, besides some valuable statistics. This will be mailed to you for 25 cts. Send orders at once, and get the position of the places named that you can better understand how the various complication will affect the nations of the world. Address,—The Restitution, Plymouth, Ind.

Gladstone, England's Great Statesman, died May 19, 1898, aged 89 yrs. As a student, statesman and scholar he will be greatly missed. His life was made up of a variety of good things, and for this reason he will be universally mourned, and all nations will unite to honor his name.

The Church in Plymouth had the pleasure of listening to two very interesting discourses last Sunday, given by Bro. A. H. Zilmer. The subjects were:—Does it make any difference what we believe? and The Purpose of the Ages. The large audiences that attended were well repaid, as the subjects are of vital importance and were handled in a masterly manner.

The Nickel Plate R. R. has just issued its booklet "Summer Outings" for 1898. The artistic appearance of the book is very pleasing, and the information contained is valuable to any one contemplating a summer vacation. The service given by this popular road is beyond question, and any one who is looking up a place to spend a vacation will do well to send for a copy of this little work. Address A. J. Horner, Nickel Plate R. R. Cleveland, O.

The war news for the past week has been simply suspense. The government has placed a strict censorship on all the movements of fleets, so that the country is really in the guessing business as to what is really happening. It has seemed each day that the conflict between the two fleets must come the next day, but to this time, we have nothing but rumors. However, many things have transpired in the world. The English and French quarrel in Africa, which last week seemed to indicate war, has now apparently been deferred, with England the gainer by the arrangement. The speech of Lord Chamberlain regarding an Anglo-American alliance has stirred the nations of Europe as nothing else has done in years, and it is not unlikely this may have had some influence in the settlement of the affairs of Africa. Many prominent statesmen of England have since spoken of the union, and the benefit to all of such a condition, outlining the fact that the interests of one nation are the same as the other, and all favoring the closer cementing of the two. In our country some few oppose it, but the deeper reasoners and thinkers will see its importance and it will come about in due time. Senator Teller, who is termed by his colleagues the "prophet Jeremiah," advocates the war tax of 200 million dollars, not for this war now in hand, which he thinks is but a small affair comparatively, but for years to come such a tax for the building up and maintenance of an army and navy that will be adequate for the position this country must take among the nations, and to prepare for the big war that this country will be engaged in before many years. He does not say what the war will be, nor who with, but only says it will come. The United States minister in India writes urging the people of this country to at once grasp the commerce that is open to them in China and the Orient, especially in the line of cotton goods manufactures. That the "open door" policy united by Britain is to our advantage, and we must maintain and enlarge our Pacific Ocean commerce. This will make necessary not only increased shipping, but it renders essential the completion of the Panama canal. Italy is no better off than it was, and were it not for the greater interest of other matters it would be quite a problem to study. But these are but straws showing the drift of the winds that are disturbing the nations of earth, and all are but hastening onward toward the final consummation. Watch and pray.

Passing Events in the Light of Prophecy.

We clip from the Glad Tidings (English) many interesting facts concerning the state of Europe and Asia, as indicative of the proximity of the end of the Age; they are as follows:

Russia is sending about 2000 soldiers per week through the Suez Canal to China, to strengthen its hold upon the territory recently leased for 25 years.

The London Standard says the Russian army has been almost doubled since the last war with Turkey. It says Russia is also busy in the Near East; and its correspondent in Rome states that the Vatican has received curious reports from Turkey. According to these, Russian emissaries are traversing the Sultan's dominions in every direction: and the local authorities do not dare to interfere with them for fear of precipitating the struggle which is felt to be coming.

The appointment of a governor for the island of Crete appears to be as far off as ever. The Sultan has again approached Russia with an expression of his desires that the Governor shall be a subject of the Ottoman Empire. Russia, however, persists in upholding the candidature of Prince George of Greece. The Island is still in a very disturbed condition.

Our readers are doubtless aware that Russia has recently obtained a lease of Port Arthur and a large tract of the surrounding territory. To counterbalance the effect of this Great Britain has obtained a lease of Wei-Hai-Wei on the opposite side of the Gulf of Pechili. It is to be fortified and occupied by British troops. Thus the two latter-day antagonists are face to face in the Far East. Britain has also obtained some new Treaty ports; and an English syndicate has secured extremely valuable concessions of a tract of territory where there are large coalfields. The latter will be of great value to Britain in enabling her to hold her maritime supremacy in the Far East.

The English Chancellor of the Exchequer, in introducing the Budget, gave some interesting figures as showing the vastness of the British Empire. Britain spends annually on her army and navy £63,500,000; or $317,500,000. France spends £36,387,000; Germany spends £35,225,000. Russia spends £38,569,000. Britain's naval expenditure this year is to be £25,528,000, while that of France, Germany and Russia combined is £25,558,000. The population of the British Empire is 365,000,000, scattered over all the globe—18 millions more than France, Germany and Russia put together.

The Anglo-Egyptian army has inflicted a crushing defeat upon the Dervishes in the Soudan.

The judgment of the court in Paris that condemned M. Zola has been quashed. There is to be a new trial. It may be a dangerous spark in view of the combustible matter all around.

The Gazzetta del Popolo of Turin, Italy, says the debt of Cuba is nearly £19,000,000 sterling, most of the bonds being in Spanish hands. In addition to this the government is liable for nearly £20,000,000 in respect of arrears of pay for the army and navy, to contractors, pensioners, and £2,000,000 a month due to Marshall Blanco for war expenses in Cuba.

Affairs in Italy are in a very unsettled state; and much blood has already been shed in order to stop the bread riots in various parts of the country.

An European statesman recently remarked that another great power had suddenly sprung into existence, and it was his opinion that America would have a voice, and an important one too, in the settlement of the Eastern Question. The history of each week of late shows us that the Eastern Question is one of immense importance, and vast extent. And every move upon the political chessboard confirms our views of prophecy upon-cerned, and of the closing scenes of the Last Days, in particular.

Law or Gospel—Which? No. 10.

As far as irrefragable testimony to show that it is gospel and nothing else—Gospel and not Law, which God requires to save men, we now propose to prove that

XX. Law Advocates do not keep the Seventh Day Sabbath. They only pretend to, and they know it. This is plain talk, but it is true, and the truth must out.

In Ellen White's Book of visions, "Experience," published some 35 years ago, she says on pp. 16, 17, "The Lord gave me the following view in Dorchaw, Mich. We felt an unusual spirit of prayer; and as we prayed the Holy Ghost fell upon us. We were very happy. Soon I was lost to earthly things and was wrapped up in a vision of God's glory. I saw an angel flying swift to me; he quickly carried me from the earth to the holy city. In the city I saw a temple which I entered. I passed through a door before I came to the first vail. This vail was raised and I passed into the holy place. Here I saw the altar of incense, the candlesticks with seven lamps and the table on which was the shew bread. After viewing the glory of the Holy Jesus raised the second vail and I passed into the Holy of Holies. In the Holiest I saw the ark, on the top of it, and sides of it was purest gold; on each end of the ark was a lovely cherub.....Above the ark where the angels stood was an exceeding bright glory that appeared like a throne where God dwelt.....In the ark was the golden pot of Manna, Aaron's rod that budded and the tables of stone which folded like a book. Jesus opened them and I saw the ten commandments.....The Fourth Commandment shone above them all.....The Holy Sabbath looked glorious,—a halo of glory was all around it. I saw that the Sabbath was not nailed to the cross. If it was, the other nine commandments were, and we are at liberty to go forth and break them all, as well as to break the fourth. I saw that God had not changed the Sabbath, FOR HE NEVER CHANGES.....I saw that the Holy Sabbath is, and will be a separating wall between the true Israel of God and unbelievers,—and that the Sabbath is the great question to unite the hearts of God's dear waiting saints."

In the above quotation we see it given as the reason for the perpetuity of the Sabbath that God never changes!

We see from this that it is intended to teach that the law of ordinances which were nailed to the cross, were notions of Moses strung together which amounted to little and hence were nailed to the cross. Had God been the author they would have been in force today—He never changes. How deceitfully the Word of God is dealt with. The woman who wrote the above knows as well as she knows anything, that God was the sole author of all laws and stipulations given at Sinai. Or, will she say it was Moses who decided that his own laws were to be nailed to the cross with the Messiah? If so, who would carry out his intention after he was dead? Did not the writer know that when God added the law he limited its existence to the coming of the Seed to whom the promises were made? And would not need to change if they ended there; to turn the woman's artillery against herself, we say, God fixed the date of the abrogation of the Law when he gave it; see Gal. iii. 19; "Till the Seed shall come," is the way it reads. As the Seed certainly came, the law was certainly abrogated, because he never changes. After all the testimony given, it is puerile, or wilful, to talk about two laws: it is an assumption without foundation. But now to prove Sabbath Advocates do not themselves keep the Sabbath, it is necessary to see what keeping the Sabbath is? To the law and testimony let us appeal. It says, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it Holy. Six days shalt thou labor, and do ALL thy work: but the Seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God; in it thou shalt NOT DO ANY WORK; thou, nor thy son nor thy daughter, thy manservant nor thy maidservant nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates."

Reason as we just God is, and how strictly he holds to account those who break his law, we read in Deut. xv. 32-35 that a man was stoned to death for picking sticks on the Sabbath Day. It would be difficult to conceive of less labor than the picking up of sticks involved, and yet it cost him his life.

Another proof that the words, "Thou shalt not do any work," meant exactly what they said, is found in Ex. xxxv. 3, "Ye shall kindle no fire throughout your habitations upon the Sabbath day." Inconvenience, or what might be considered a necessity allowed no exception whatever. It was not the amount of work, but work. There was just as much disobedience in a little work, as in much. He who offended in one point was guilty of all. Death was the penalty.

Do people who consign everybody to the blackness of darkness forever who do not keep the Seventh day, keep it as the law required the Israelites to keep it? They know they do not. They do whatever they consider to be necessary for their comfort. We challenge them to show when or where God modified the Sabbath law, or permitted them to modify it to gratify their flesh, or stand self-convicted of being the most presumptuous and hypocritical sect upon the face of the earth claiming to be Christian. It is startling to any honest soul to see a community making the ten commandments the sum of all truth, and duty to God and man, and competent to secure access to the tree of life, the one test applied to children of God in these last days,—and in the face of the fact that the gospel of Christ is the power God employs to save men,—Yes, it is both startling and distressing, to see these people, in their own estimation, head and shoulders above those insisting that the 7th day must be kept, only Sabbath keepers can be saved,—and at the time ignoring the rules laid down by God for keeping it, and the substitution of others devised for themselves.

We tell them all to their faces, they do not keep the Sabbath of the Decalogue. The 7th day never could be kept holy except in compliance with the Divine instructions or directions for so doing. These latter-day Sabbath keepers profess to reverence the day, but their works do not agree with the words of their lips. They willfully disregard the rules God gave for its observance. It says, "Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work. But the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God; in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy man-servant, nor thy maid servant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates." We hold it to be a shameful piece of religious business to pretend to obey the Sabbath Law when in fact they trample that Law under their feet, when they disregard the divine instructions given for its observance. Do they think that all they can say, or do, or not do, would add to the holiness of that day? If so they are grandly mistaken. The Sabbath was made for man. Obedience to the Law of the Sabbath with all the particulars, pleased God in reference to that Law, and nothing else could or would please him. They do some work on the 7th day; they do not do all their work on six days. They allow others to work for them,—they allow "strangers within their gate" to work: and allow their cattle to work to some extent, because the great and good God avers that nothing in his Great Book warrants the conclusion that God would, at some time appointed, suspend the rules for its observance—and 2nd, abolish the commands written upon stones or abolished.

Reader, ponder it well:—the claim is made that the Ten commands contain our whole duty to God and man, and will, if obeyed, secure, or insure our access to the tree of life which will be in the midst of the Paradise of God. The legal advocates know that he who offends in one point is guilty of the whole law. See James ii. 10; and yet they strike out of the law whatever is to them unpalatable, or burdensome, and make for themselves just what rules or regulations suit them. The rules for the observance of the Sabbath, in the very nature of things are a part of that law. And, by the principle laid in James ii. 10, they are guilty of all the other 9 on the stones, and the laws, statutes contained or written in the Book of the Law.

Sabbatarians are lawless,—yes; while posing as martyrs for obeying the ten commandments, they are guilty of all, because they do not keep the Sabbath as God requires it of all who are amenable to it. They keep the Sabbath according to the commandments of Seventh Day Adventism. They do what is agreeable to themselves to do, and then with audacity claim a right to the tree of life, not for obeying the Sabbath as God requires it, but for obeying it as they please. They please themselves by obeying the Law of the Sabbath after they have so changed it as that it is agreeable to their fleshly mind.

We repeat it:—"Seventh day Sabbath Keepers so called, DO NOT keep it holy. It can only be kept holy in one way, and that way was by doing all their work in six days, and not doing any work,—neither their children nor servants, nor their cattle, nor strangers in their gates, on the Sabbath; nor do their pleasure, nor doing their own, nor finding their own pleasure, nor speaking thine own words." Is. lviii. 13, and calling the Sabbath a delight.

This is the only way of keeping the Sabbath holy to the Lord. It can be kept holy according to man's fleshly thinking, by merely suspending their usual businesses or occupations, and making themselves comfortable by building fires and getting meals and washing dishes, and any other domestic duties that seem necessary for comfort, or conveniences, such as paying the fare on street cars and riding to and from meetings on the supposed Sabbath, etc., etc.

If the Law of the Sabbath is in force, the Seventh-Day people break it, —violate it, disregard it, trample it under foot, every Seventh day: and do it presumptuously,—dare to alter its stipulations or exactions, in the face of divine instructions for keeping it; and in the face of the principle enunciated by Jesus in Matt. xv. 9, "But in vain they do worship me [Jehovah, Is. xxix. 13] teaching for doctrines the commandments of men. This is precisely what Seventh-Day-Adventists do. In all the oracles of God no intimation is given of authority to change God's laws. They are doing equally as bad as the mother of harlots who is charged doing—changing the law of God to make it comport with their own religious systems.

The Law of the Lord from Sinai being in force, Sabbatarians are proven guilty by the Word of God, and deserve to be stoned to death—every one of them. We never that no Law can be in force without a penalty. Is it not the penalty that imparts power to a law? The law under consideration offers inducements to obedience, and threatens punishment for disobedience.

Sabbatarians say the penalties attached to the law of the Sabbath and the other nine have been abolished, done away,—nailed to the cross with Christ. We suppose this is a license to them to make what changes they please. If they would only add, that the blessings and privileges offered for obedience to that law were long ago withdrawn, we would soon see eye to eye on this vital question. Let us suppose for a moment that they have the truth in the premises, and then what? Why, Jehovah has plainly revealed that although he is the Lord God merciful and gracious, he will by no means clear the guilty. Time was when the penalty of the law was death by stoning,—and, because they could not keep it, they were all their life time in bondage to the fear of death. Heb. ii. 15.

Observe, that in divine laws as well as human, penalties were published with, and were part of the law. A law without a penalty would deter no one from sinning. And a law from God that grew entirely out of power and authority to enact and enforce obedience to it, would be out of harmony with his revealed purpose, and characteristic goodness and mercy toward mankind. God legislates for man's good, as well as his own glory. It would have been unjust to man not to have published the wages of sin along with the law; and it would not have been kind to have withheld the exceeding riches of his grace stored up for those who should be obedient to his commands. As it has always been, and is now, the motive power of the gospel, God manifests his love by showing what he purposes to do for those who yield faithful and loving obedience to him. In this way he draws men toward him—his love begets love in them.

But here we have a case where a law, said to contain the whole duty of man to God and his fellow men, and by which access to the tree of life may be obtained, but which it is said, contains no penalty,—that it once had a penalty, but it had long since been abolished.

In all candor, we ask, If the repeal of the penalty does not imply that the Law has been repealed? And if there be no law with a penalty, have not men a license to do as they please, so far as this law is concerned?

As man is a creature that can be influenced by motives, and as God himself organized him with attributes capable of developing a God-like character, is it conceivable that God should fail to set before man some thing to believe in and hope for; or, in other words, to set before him his grand design to fill this earth with his glory, by means of a divine government, to be ruled by Christ and his glorified brethren? We think not. In fact we know God has done the very opposite of this. He sent prophets to Israel with glowing descriptions of the age to come: then he sent his only begotten Son to open a way out of the tomb for all who believe the Glad Tidings of life from the dead so that they may inherit the kingdom of God to be set upon earth.

This divine instruction is called Gospel, good news, Glad Tidings—Word of Salvation,—Word of life,—covenants of promise, etc. The great truth that the gospel is made up of promises of what God will bestow upon all who believe and obey him, should be indelibly stamped upon the tablet of our hearts and minds.

The points I trust all will see, are

1. The Gospel of Christ is the power of God unto salvation to every one who believes it.

2. All that God offers to do, and what he has done for mankind, is set forth in the Gospel of Christ.

3. The meaning of the word Gospel, is, "good news," or "glad tidings," or information.

4. The gospel or good news comes to us, or reveals to us, exceeding great and precious promises of good things to be bestowed upon us if we believe them, and walk and live in keeping with the high destiny to which we have been called. See 2 Peter i. 4.

5. There are no exceeding great and precious promises by which we can become partakers of the divine nature—we say there are no exceeding great and precious promises by which we may become partakers of divine nature, to be found in the Decalogue. There is no gospel in the Decalogue for us or any other people now. The gospel of Christ brings good news of life and everlasting glory and honor in the kingdom of God on earth. There was gospel in the Old Covenant to those under it: but it was good news of a goodly land—the land of Canaan, together with many temporal blessings during mortal life time. The Judgment of those amenable to that law took place when the Romans destroyed Jerusalem and the temple, and slew and scattered to every corner of the earth hundreds of thousands of people.

Reader, remember what Mrs. White said: she "saw the ten commands written on stone when in vision when she was carried or permitted to enter the most Holy place; and this proved to her the perpetuity of the Sabbath because God never changes." We demand of her who changed his Word to do all their work in six, if he changes not? Did she have a hand in it?

Nickel Plate Road Homeseekers' Excursion.

June 7th and 21st, at lowest rates. Tickets to all designated points North-west, West and Southwest, also to designated points in the south. Ask agents. j20

Advice, like the snow, the softer it falls the longer it dwells upon and the deeper it sinks into the mind.

Vandalia Time Card

In effect May 23, 1897.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING SOUTH.

No. 9, Ex. Sun. For St. Joseph.... 12:05pm
No. 14, " " " 7:34am
No. 8, " " South Bend..... 10:41pm

GOING NORTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute.... 5:23am
No. 3, " " " 12:13noon
No. 15, " " Logansport..... 7:35pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Dowse, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. Ford,
Gen. Pass. Ag.,
St. Louis, Mo.

Poetry.

Lovely Pictures.

There's a wealth of lovely pictures in this blessed world of ours;
There's the rainbow in the heavens, after spring
And summer showers.
With its wondrous hues prismatic, with its form touching grace,
From the zenith of its beauty to its distant
misty base.

There's the sunset in the evening, as it
embracing kisses
Then the sunset in the valley as it robs
blushes;
There's the river flowing gently from the hand to the sea,
And all nature in the sunlight, in the shadow or gray.

There [illegible] on clover, and the call
the evening dew;
All is clear, all is peaceful, all are free from every care;
There's the stars through the woodland, with its gorgeous autumn hue;
There's the twinkling stars in people's yards decorating evening time.

There's the vast unreckonable, [illegible]
unbounded sky;
There's the dancing wave, a white cap as it ships go sailing by;
There's the garden with its flowers, with its roses all in blow;
There's the very soul of purity, the first love full of snow.

And they come and go forever in a never-ceasing train,
And we mortals, gazing on them, know they're some to come again;
'Tis the message of Jehovah to his people—you and me—
"Take the promise that I give you of your immortality!"

—John Kendrick Bangs.

Communicated.

A Sealed Covenant.

AN INVESTIGATION BY PINE WOODS BIBLE CLASS.

Teacher. Is it usual to seal covenants?

Arlon. Yes, no covenant is of force, until signed and sealed.

Teacher. In what way are they sealed?

Arlon. Various ways. The original way was for each party to the covenant to dip the ball of the thumb in blood, and make an impression upon the instrument, and in case of a dispute, the parties to the covenant verified it, by the thumb to the impression.

Teacher. We read in Genesis, that God made a covenant with Abraham. What did the covenant?

Arlon. We find in Gen. xvii. 2-11, God covenanted to give him and his seed, all the land of Canaan, for an everlasting possession.

Teacher. Did God appoint a seal?

Arlon. He did.

Teacher. What was it?

Arlon. He appointed circumcision. See Gen. xvii. 11: "It shall be a TOKEN of the covenant betwixt me and you." "My covenant shall be in your flesh for an everlasting covenant."

Teacher. Were others commanded to receive this seal?

Arlon. Yes, everybody.

Teacher. What would be the consequence of disobedience?

Arlon. See verse 14: "That soul shall be cut off from his people."

Teacher. For what reason?

Arlon. "He hath broken my covenant." Verse 14.

Teacher. Now, Carrie, does the New Testament recognize the circumcision of Abraham as being a sign, and seal?

Carrie. Yes. See Rom. iv. 11: "And he received the SIGN of circumcision, a SEAL of the righteousness of the FAITH," etc.

Teacher. For what object?

Carrie. "That he might be the Father of all them that believe." "Who also walk in the steps of that FAITH of our Father Abraham." Rom. iv. 11, 12.

Teacher. Must all who enter into covenant relationship with God, by embracing "that FAITH of our Father Abraham," seal the covenant, each one for him or herself?

Carrie. They must, or else the covenant will be of no effect: in their case.

Teacher. In what way is it to be sealed?

Carrie. By the circumcision of Christ.

Teacher. What is the act?

Carrie. The following will explain: The Revised Version of Col. ii. 11, 12 reads: "In whom ye WERE also circumcised with a circumcision not made with hands, in putting off the body of the flesh, in the circumcision of Christ; HAVING BEEN buried with him in BAPTISM."

Teacher. What is the effect of receiving "the circumcision of Christ: having been buried with him in baptism?"

Lucy. "As many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ."

Teacher. Does it have any further effect?

Lucy. Yes. "In Christ all national, social, and sexual distinctions cease. There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female; for ye are ALL ONE in Christ Jesus."

Teacher. What relation does this bear to the covenant God made with Abraham?

Lucy. It makes all Jews, Greeks, bondmen, freemen, male or female, who SEAL THE COVENANT, by "the circumcision of Christ," heirs with Abraham to the things God covenanted with him. "If ye be Christ's then are ye ABRAHAM'S SEED, and HEIRS according to the promise." Gal. iii. 29.

Teacher. Will George please tell us the condition of those who are ignorant of the covenants of promise?

George. I will let Scripture answer, and then I shall make no mistake. Eph. ii. 11: "Wherefore remember, that ye being in time past, GENTILES IN THE FLESH, who are called uncircumcision," etc.

Teacher. Well, at the time they were "Gentiles in the flesh" what was their condition?

George. "That at that time ye were WITHOUT CHRIST." Eph. ii. 12.

Teacher. In what condition are "aliens" and "strangers?"

George. "Having no hope, and without God in the world." Eph. ii. 12. These answers seem severe, but nevertheless it is God's Word.

Teacher. Under the law, those who refused to comply with the "token of the covenant," what became of them?

George. "That soul shall be cut off from his people."

Teacher. Why?

George. "He hath broken my covenant."

Teacher. Under the New Testament, who are cut off?

George. "Strangers from the covenants of promise."

Teacher. What is our "token of the covenant?"

George. "The circumcision of Christ: having been buried with him in baptism." Col. ii. 11.

Teacher. Will that make us "Abraham's seed?"

George. Yes. "As many of you as have been baptized into Christ, have put on Christ, (circumcision of Christ) * * * and if ye be Christ's, then are ye ABRAHAM'S SEED, (no longer "Gentiles in the flesh.") and heirs according to the promise."

Teacher. When do men seal their covenants?

Albert. Not until the TERMS of the covenant have been agreed upon, and understood by the parties to the covenant. Without this, the covenant is of no force. Such also is the case with the Abrahamic Covenant, if it is not UNDERSTOOD, no one can act upon it, by applying the "token of the covenant"—"the circumcision of Christ," to it as a seal to the covenant. Covenants are not sealed in blank.

Teacher. Will "the circumcision of Christ, be accepted as a bona fide seal of ANOTHER and DIFFERENT covenant?

Albert. Why no, each covenant must have its own seal. "The circumcision of Christ," seals only the Abrahamic covenant.

Teacher. I will ask Lud if he ever heard of a covenant to transport immortal souls to a sky-kingdom at death?

Lud. Why, yes, I once believed that myself, but I found out that it is a one-sided covenant, that God is not a party to it, although I thought he was, but I was mistaken. There must be two parties to any covenant.

Teacher. Did you ever see people attempt to seal this bogus so-called covenant by baptism?

Lud. I have and have also seen some of these parties after learning the Abrahamic covenant, attempt to transfer that seal of the bogus covenant to the genuine, and stoutly insist that the OLD SEAL would answer for the genuine Abrahamic covenant.

Teacher. Are seals transferable?

Lud. Never. Every covenant must have its own seal. A seal to the one sided bogus covenant, will never answer as a seal to the Abrahamic covenant. Those who trust it will soon find that they are not under the bonds of that covenant, it being ILLEGAL, because it lacks the genuine prescribed seal.

They would not act in this way in covenanting with their fellows, with regard to earthly matters. They would characterize it as a foolish lack of common business principles.

Teacher. Was it permissible under the law, to bring strangers uncircumcised in heart and flesh, into the Lord's sanctuary?

Lud. I will quote from the law, as follows: "Thus saith the Lord God, O ye house of Israel, let it suffice you of all your abominations, in that ye have brought into my house strangers, uncircumcised in heart, and uncircumcised in flesh, to be in my sanctuary, to pollute it, even my house."

It is even so, now, "strangers from the covenants of promise," not cleansed from sin by "the circumcision of Christ," are unclean, and unfit to enter the sanctuary of the Lord, and commune with the blood washed "seed of Abraham." Such a procedure was an abomination under the old dispensation, and surely it is none the less so, under the gospel. Between the old and new there is a relationship of type and anti-type on this point. I quote as follows. "All the commands and symbols of the old covenant were pointing forward to the death of Christ as the atonement for all sin, and the commands and symbols of the new covenant point backward to the death as having been given, and also forward to a life to be received in its fulness by his resurrection: therefore the symbols and commands of the old covenant would not do literally for the symbols and commands of the new covenant, though typically they answer. For instance, circumcision would not do as a symbol of the new covenant, because it pointed only to death, while baptism points not only to death, but the resurrection also."

W. H. WILSON.

Dear Brother Underwood:

If you will allow me a little space in the paper it will save us much work. We are constantly being questioned as to what we believe in many little particulars too numerous to mention. Those same people affirming that they do not believe in a creed, etc., but—well but what? If we dont believe in a creed we simply believe nothing: as the word creed is from the latin word "credo," and simply means, "I believe." I do not believe in a human creed. The Bible is my only guide as to my faith, but when we say we allow every one to interpret the Scriptures as may best suit their fancy or comply with their early education, then we simply admit that Romanism is just as valid as Protestantism, and sprinkling, and immortal-soulism, and sky-kingdom, and all those monstrosities are just as good as truth. Brethren, if we have a faith let us earnestly contend for it. If we have a different faith let us say say so. Preach it by all waters, publish it to the ends of the earth if possible. If Bro. Underwood will be so kind as to publish the "Declaration of Principles," as adopted by our Michigan Conference it will answer all questions without farther explanations.

Yours as ever contending earnestly for the faith.

R. W. WOODWARD.

DECLARATIONS OF PRINCIPLES AND CONSTITUTION OF THE "CHURCH OF GOD" IN MICHIGAN.

We, the members of the several churches represented by delegation, feeling deeply the necessity of closer union and better co-operation in the proclamation of the truth, and the promotion of the cause of Christ among us, as preliminary to this end, do set forth the following declaration of principles as the foundation of our faith, viz:

We accept the Bible as the only rule of faith and practice.

We believe in the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end, the establishment of the Kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as the King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint heirs with him in the government of them-tions: the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked: eternal life only through Christ.

A hearty belief in the gospel, repentance and immersion, as pre-requisites to the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

We believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God.

CONSTITUTION.

1. This conference shall be known under the name of "THE MICHIGAN STATE CONFERENCE OF THE CHURCH OF GOD."

2. It shall be composed of the organized churches of the State of Michigan, which churches shall be represented in the conference by duly authorized delegates, but all members present in good standing are entitled to a vote in all business transactions.

3. This conference shall, at each annual meeting, elect the following named officers:—One president, one vice-president, one secretary and one treasurer. These officers, with the State evangelists, to compose the executive board to transact business.

4. The secretary shall keep a record of the proceedings of each meeting, of all business transacted, and enter the same in a book kept for the purpose of future reference; which book shall be kept open to the inspection of any member of the conference.

5. The treasurer shall keep an account of all money received, from whatever source, and of its expenditure, under the direction of the conference, or of its executive board; said account to be open to the inspection of any member of the conference.

6. Any organized church within the State may be admitted into the conference upon application and approval.

7. Letters of commendation may be granted to ministers of the Word, upon the recommendation of the local church to which each applicant belongs, which letters of commendation hold good until annulled by said conference.

8. This conference shall meet not less than twice, nor more than four times a year to transact business of such place, and time as may be determined by the executive board, timely notice being given through THE RESTITUTION.

9. This conference adopts THE RESTITUTION as its organ, and recommends the brethren everywhere to give it their support.

10. This Constitution may be revised, altered or amended by a two-thirds vote of the members present at any regular meeting, notice having been previously given of the proposed change.

To the Sisters of the One Faith in Michigan. Greeting:

Very soon we are to meet again in conference gathering. At that time the members of the "Evangelical Aid Society" hold their annual business meeting. How much money have we spent this year for our personal wants? (for our wants are much greater than our needs.) Have we been careful to give the Lord his tenth out of it? or have we grudgingly withheld even that little? O how many of us will be obliged to hear these words some day. "Ye have robbed me in tithes and offerings, ye have robbed me." Robbing God! Think of it, dear sisters. Some of us made promises to the Lord last June. Are we keeping them? Let us come together with a good report of how much we have used for the truth. It need not, cannot all go in one direction. Calls are constantly coming in for help in every direction. Sow upon the waters, though it be many days gathering in. God will bless the increase. We think we cannot do anything, it is such hard times to get the money. One penny a day would seem a small amount to offer God, but at the end of the year it would be $3.65. If 25 persons had saved even that, see what the result would be $91.25. O the good that that amount would do. Try it, dear ones, for our account with God will be called for some day, and we must hand it in.

Yours in love.

M. A. WOODWARD, Sec.

Our Love Feast.

Dear Household of Faith:

I have read with interest the letters of the love feast, and while I ever read of so many that are looking for the Master, this most solemn thought comes into my mind. If we are the Bride, the Lamb's wife, are we ready to meet him? Have we on the wedding garment? Are our white robes ready? The Lamb will not come until his wife has first made herself ready. Are we expecting him? Do our works correspond with our expectations? Are we keeping ourselves unspotted from the world? Do we mingle with the world in their amusements? Oh, well, says one, I just go to see what they do. Remember Lot's wife just thought she would see what they were doing in Sodom: she was told by the angel to not look behind her. So we are commanded to love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If we go to their places of amusements, we surely love them. Yes, here is a brother that belongs to a society that is of the world, and a money making scheme for some one. Do they ever talk about our Savior and the glorious kingdom that he is going to set up at his return. I do not believe you would find Peter, or Paul, or John at any of their gatherings. If we take what they preach for our faith, we should take them for our example. Paul says, it is to all those that love his appearing that will receive a crown of glory. If we love his appearing we surely will keep ourselves in readiness for him. The last message he sent back to his waiting Bride was, "Behold, I come quickly." Yes, he sent us word he is coming and he will be with us soon. Should we not set about with such zeal and eagerness to be ready to meet him at any time. "For what manner of love hath the Father bestowed upon us that we should be called the sons of God, it doth not yet appear what we shall be, but we know that when he appears we will be like him, for we shall see him as he is. And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure." Then we should live soberly and righteously in this present world, looking for that blessed hope and the glorious appearing of the great God and Savior Jesus Christ, who gave himself for us that he might redeem us from all iniquity and purify unto himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works. That the Word of Christ dwell in us richly, in all wisdom teaching and admonishing one another in psalms, hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in our hearts to the Lord. Let us not grow weary in well doing for in due season we will reap, if we faint not. Then let us be doers as well as hearers of the Word. Isolated and alone, yet I have been made to rejoice by the coming of some of our father's family, Brother Berryman and Brother M. L. Adams, whom we are acquainted with, and Brother T. E. Adams whom we have never met, but have known him for years through THE RESTITUTION. How gladly I took them by the hand and welcomed them to my humble home. How they cheered me on my journey, traveling toward that celestial city: their presence gives me more zeal, more determination than ever to fight the good fight of faith and hold of eternal life. The Master is coming, be ready today. The Master is coming, he will not delay. But the Bride must be ready when the Bridegroom comes with lamps trimmed and burning, to welcome him home.

A lonely Sister waiting for the Master,

MRS. DR. L. HICKLIN.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

When I see and think of the evils and dire temptations, which surround us on every hand, I am constrained to think of the great resurrection morn, when those only who have overcome, will gain immortality. The question, Am I living in accord with God's Word, often presents itself to me, and should be considered by all. The signs of the times clearly reveals to us that we are approaching the end of this age, and that times will wax worse and worse on the earth. Although at times it seems hard to resist the temptations and pleasures of this world, yet, if we wish to live forever, we must sacrifice these lusts of the flesh and live according to God's Holy Word. Let us ask ourselves, Are we being led away from the paths of righteousness by the evil one, by the lusts of the flesh, or the pleasures of this world? If Jesus should come to this earth at any moment would I want to be found in the ball room, or at the card table, mingling with men who never think of the Bible, God, Christ, or eternal life. No! brothers and sisters, let us examine ourselves and find out wherein we are going astray. "Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good." Rom. xii. 21. "He that overcometh shall inherit all things." Rev. xxi. 7. "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven." Matt. v. 16.

Yours in hope,

FREEMAN FIKE.

Editor Restitution:

You will find one dollar to extend my paper a little longer; I am hard pushed for money enough to keep things going for my family and myself, but if I don't get the paper, it is very little food for the inner-man that I get, and I think it is necessary to have it in a family. There is no one in this locality, Pleasantville, Ill., but that scoffs at the teachings of THE RESTITUTION, but they can't set it aside by the Bible, and it is worrying them somewhat. If a good minister would come here I think he could do good.

Respectfully yours,

WARREN MALLORY.

Dear Restitution:

May the good Lord bless you and your paper, and all the dear ones of our "one faith, one hope and one baptism." I cannot do without the paper, for it is all the good preaching I hear these times. The Bible and THE RESTITUTION are my meat and drink in religious matters. Yours in Christian bonds, looking for the great God and his Son Jesus Christ.

ALLIE SNYDER.

Announcements.

Editor Restitution:

The Annual Meeting of the Church of God at Scholl's, Oregon, will commence Saturday morning, June 11th, and continue over the following Sunday. We extend an invitation to all lovers of truth. Come brethren, and aid us in our work here, we want to hear a word from all of you. Let us be up and doing for the time is short. All brethren coming from a distance will be met with conveyance at the National Hotel, Portland, Ore. All those wishing to be met at Portland will please notify me.

Yours in hope.

F. H. LOVESEE, Sec'y.

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing. Said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 20th of April, 1898, providing notice is given through THE RESTITUTION that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all remittances to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 340, Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. S. J. Sigler,	$10.00
J. L. Winer,	5.00
F. L. Austin,	10.00
Edgar Butch,	1.00
Agnes Dilworth,	2.00
Mrs. Mary E. Thompson,	15.00
One who believes that God from little offerings can work out great results,	10.00
A Friend of Truth,	1.00
Mrs. S. A. Wickizer,	5.00
Mrs. A. M. Siple,	10.00
Mrs. Mary J. Riggs,	2.00

Homeseekers' Excursion via Nickel Plate Road.

Special excursion tickets for homeseekers' to designated points Northwest, West, and South-west, also to designated points in the South, are offered via Nickel Plate Road, June 7th, and 21st, at lower rates than via other lines. Ask Agents.—j 20.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

Mrs. G. W. Compton,	1.50
B. F. Smith,	1.50

We waste our time in moments, our money in dimes, and our happiness in trifles.

Homeseekers' Low Rate Excursion via Nickel Plate Road.

To designated points North-west, West and South-west, also to designated points in the South, June 7th and 21st. Ask Agents.—j 20.

Very Low Rates to Denver, Colorado.

Via the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western R'y.) Excursion tickets at exceptionally low rates to Denver and return (with stop over privileges under certain liberal conditions at the Trans-Mississippi and International Exposition, Omaha, Neb.) will be sold June 2, 4, and 5, account of American Medical Association meeting; and will be sold June 16, 17 and 18, account of meeting of Federation of Women's Clubs, all with favorable return limits. For rates and other information ask your nearest Ticket Agent or write, C. Traver, Marine National Bank Building, Pittsburg, Pa., or W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago, Ill. j 1

Send to this office and get a "War Atlas" only 25 cts post-paid.

Improved Train Service.

To accommodate its many patrons the Vandalia Line will commencing May 23rd, extend trains No. 14 and 15 to run to and from Logansport, Ind. Train No. 14 will leave Logansport daily except Sunday, at 6:05 A. M. arriving at St. Joseph 9:40 A. M. Train No. 25 will leave St. Joseph daily except Sunday at 5:25 P. M. arriving at Logansport 9:00 P. M. 2t

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1898. The cost is only three cents a week.

The Indiana Conference.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:

The time is drawing near to have another meeting at Antioch, commencing Thursday evening, June 9, 1898, and continuing over Sunday. We trust the brethren will feel an interest and put forth an effort to come and partake of the feast of the words of truth, and help to make the meeting to fully serve its purpose, to build each other up in the most holy faith, and impart strength to withstand the trying times which seem to be so near approaching.

F. L. AUSTIN, Pres.
A. C. ROGERS, Sec'y.

PROGRAMME FOR THE INDIANA CONFERENCE.

THURSDAY P. M.

7.00 Song Service.
7.15 Salutatory. Israel Roberts
7.30 Response. F. L. Austin.
7.45 Sermon, Heb x. 24, 25. A. H. Zilmer.

FRIDAY A. M.

9.30 Social Meeting led by Geo. W. Smith.
10.30 Reward of the Faithful. F. L. Myers.
11.30 Meeting Executive Board.

FRIDAY P. M.

1.30 Business Meeting.
2.30 Paper—Upon what things should a Church be united to work harmoniously? A. R. Underwood, followed by Discussion.
7.00 Social Meeting led by Wm. Railsback.
7.30 The Ideal Church. Miss Flora Harris.
8.00 What is True Religion? J. F. Wagoner.

SATURDAY A. M.

9.30 S. S Session led by D. E. Vancractor.
9.40 Song Service, and Report of S. S. Delegates.
10.00 Relation of the Church to Sunday School. D. E. Vancractor.
10.15 Song by Plymouth S.S. pupils.
10.20 Relation of the S. S. to Church. J. H. Willey.
10.35 The S. S. as the Nursery of the Church. Mrs. M. J. Price.
10.50 Song by Argos S. S.
10.55 Paper—How can we Encourage and Retain Young People in Church Work? Miss Mattie Benjamin.
11.10 With what Spirit should Young People work in their Religious Societies and by whom should they be led? Mrs. S. R. Wines.

SATURDAY P. M.

1.30 Social Meeting led by A. Drew.
1.45 Bible Study. W. D. Thompson.
2.00 The One Faith. Chas. Fish.
2.35 Our High Priest. F. L. Austin.
7.00 Social Meeting. H. F. Cordill.
7.45 The Hand of God in History, a Gleam of Coming Glory. J. F. Wagoner.

SUNDAY A. M.

9.30 Social Meeting led by J. H. Willey.
10.30 Sermon—Nature of Man, 1st, by Creation; 2nd, by Adoption; 3rd, by Resurrection. A. H. Zilmer.

SUNDAY P. M.

2.30 Communion Service. J. L. Wines.
6.30 Social Meeting led by J. F. Wagoner.
7.30 Second Coming of Christ. F. L. Austin.

It is important that all Sunday Schools appoint delegates, and we hope all will come in the Spirit of the Master. Committee on programme,

J. H. WILLEY,
D. E. VANCRACTOR,
A. C. ROGERS.

50,000 Copies.

I have lately received from the printer 50,000 copies of my eight-page double-column tract, "The Gospel of the Kingdom." The price of this new edition is exceedingly low,—10 cts per dozen: 50 cts per hundred: $4.00 per thousand. It is a clear and systematic statement of the gospel of the kingdom. Please send orders to Wiley Jones, Manchester, Va.

Guide to Washington, D. C. sent free to Teachers and Tourists.

It contains special information about places of interest, also complete and comprehensive map of the National Capital, time of through trains to Washington via of Pennsylvania Short Lines, and reduced rates over that route for the National Educational Association meeting in July. Just the thing for teachers and any one going to Washington. Address C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent Cleveland Ohio, enclosing 2 cent stamp. The Guide is worth much more [illegible]

Announcements.

Editor Restitution:

The Young People's meeting of the Church of God in Southern Kansas will meet at Crescent school house, near Bitter Creek post office, the 28 and 29 of May. The business meeting will be held Saturday evening. There will be two meetings on Sunday, the one 2.30 and the other at 7.30 P. M. All young people interested in the Truth are invited to be present and prepare papers on the subject, which is "Christianity."

MARY I. BOGGS, Sec.

The Third Quarterly Conference of the Church of God in Nebraska will be held in Furnas County, at the Prime School House, about two miles south of Arapahoe, beginning the Lord willing, on Friday, June 3rd, and holding over Sunday. Come, all who can. Attend this meeting, and help to make it a pleasant and profitable one. We hope that before that time, that each congregation will send in its votes for place of holding the conference the comin, year.

M. D. NEWELL, Pres.
RUSA GORDON, Sec'y.

Indiana Rates to Various Points via Pennsylvania Lines.

Excursion tickets will be sold via Pennsylvania Lines as indicated in the following paragraphs. Although concessions in fare are not granted for meetings of certain Orders, tickets may be obtained by any person whether a member of the Order or interested in the event. The reduced rates will be open to everybody.

To Naperville, Ill., (Burlington Park near Chicago), May 23, 24th, 27th and 28th, for Illinois Baptist Annual Meeting; good returning until June 24th, with privilege to extend limit until June 30th.

To Dallas, Texas, June 11th and 12th, account meeting of Nobles of Mystic Shrine. Return limit June 28th.

To Toledo, Ohio, June 15th and 16th, good returning until June 20th, account United Brethren in Christ Church Young People's Biennial Convention.

To Louisville, Ky., June 19th and 20th, for Jr. O. U. A. M. National Council Meeting. Return limit June 26th.

To Washington, D. C., July 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the National Educational Association Meeting. Good to return July 15th, with privilege to extend return limit until August 31st.

To Chicago, Ill., July 12th and 13th for Young People's Christian Union, Universalist Church. Good returning July 21st, with privilege to extend until August 10th.

To Buffalo, N. Y., July 12th 13th, 14th and 15th, good returning until July 19th, with privilege to extend until September 1st, account Baptist Young People's Union International Convention.

To Saratoga, N. Y., August 1st and 2nd, account Young People's Christian Union, U. P. Church. Return limit August 10th, with privilege to extend until August 31st.

To Richmond, Ind., August 19th and 20th, good returning until August 29th, account Society of Friends Conference.

To Cincinnati, Ohio, September 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the G. A. R. National Encampment. Good returning until September 13th, with privilege of extension until October 2d.

To Pittsburgh, Pa., October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th 12th and 13th, good returning until October 17th, account Knights Templar Triennial Conclave. Return limit may be extended until October 31st.

During the excursion season special rates will also be in effect via Pennsylvania Lines for special and local events. For particular information please apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines or address C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.

Special Rates via Vandalia Line.

Indiana University Alumni Reunion at Bloomington, Ind., June 10 and 12. One and one-third fare for Round trip.

For full information inquire of T. A. Downs, Agent.

EXAMINE

The label on your paper, and if it bears a date previous to this time please RENEW NOW. Do not wait for other notice to be sent, but PLEASE RENEW TODAY.

See that each hour's feelings, thoughts, and actions are note and [illegible] that all may be such

"Beautiful Winona."—A Delightful Summer Haven.

Winona Lake, Indiana, (formerly Eagle Lake) is an attractive summer haven on the Pennsylvania Lines near Warsaw, Indiana. As the site of Winona Assembly and Summer School, has grown into favor very rapidly. Improvements made on the two hundred acres of romantic woodland which stretches nearly two miles along the eastern shore of Winona Lake, a beautiful sheet of water, include all the comforts and conveniences for a highly enjoyable sojourn. Ample facilities are at hand for satisfactory entertainment at reasonable rates at the commodious hotel which adjoins the railway station at the entrance to the grounds, in cozy cottages, or in tents as may be preferred.

Persons who may desire to combine devotion, entertainment and instruction with rest and recreation will find Winona Lake the ideal spot for invigorating both mind and body by interactive entertainment and study and health-giving recreation. The educational work of the Summer School is in charge of well known instructors. The college halls are equipped with all required paraphernalia: the large auditorium in which the assembly meets, and in which prominent lecturers are heard during the season, has a seating capacity of over 3,000. An amphitheatre, race track and other facilities for athletic pastimes are provided. The fishing, bathing and hunting are fine, the large fleet of boats being of the best.

The season of 1898 will open May 15th. Commencing on that date excursion tickets with fifteen day limit will be on sale via Pennsylvania Lines. They may be obtained during May, June, July and August. The sale of season excursion tickets will begin June 1st, and continue daily until September 30th. Season excursion tickets will be good returning until October 31st.

Full information about the attractions at "Beautiful Winona," its Assembly and Summer School, etc., will be cheerfully furnished all who address Mr. Sol. C. Dickey, Secretary, Winona Lake, Ind. Inquiries about excursion rates, time of trains, etc., should be addressed to Passenger and Ticket Agents of the Pennsylvania Lines, or to F. Van Dusen, Chief Assistant General Passenger Agent, Pittsburg, Pa.—may 30.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. H. Stevens, Shawnee Mound, Mo.
S. R. Chickenbeard, Denham, Texas.
P. B. Shindler, Bryard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. M. Chesebrough, Quincy, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 165 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio.
W. L. Skeels, Toledo, Ore.
E. Hoyt, Box 384, Grand Rapids, Mich.
S. Roxana Winey, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Henn, Dudley, Worcestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Scircleville, Ind.
J. W. Niles, Edinboro, Pa.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Chisnville, Ark.
J. J. Cady, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prime, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Lyon, 4507, S. X. St. Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Olson, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hall, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Comer, Sidell, Ill.
R. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Oswikie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
D. M. Butler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. G. Boupl, Laurel, Neb.,
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, Okl'a.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
A. M. Primmer, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hank, Pike, Ind.
H. T. Baker, Box 1008 Decorah, Iowa.
A. P. Morris, Cottonwood, Cal.
J. V. Ogilvie, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Monmont, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave, Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Stella, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 44, Viola, Idaho.
Elder R. M. Williams, Portland, Kan.
R. Wilson, 1065 O St. Sacramento, Cal.
D. T. Halstead, Rensselaer, Ind.
John Fouts, 2912 West Corning Ave. Parsons, R. S. Bwiggins, Rensselaer, Ind.
Kansas.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 334 Grand Rapids, Mich.

Cheap Rates via Vandalia.

The G. A. R. National Encampment at Cincinnati, O., Sept. 5th to 10th.

The Supreme Lodge of K. of P. and Uniform Rank Encampment at Indianapolis, beginning Aug. 30th.

For the above occasions the Vandalia Line will make a special excursion per Mile. T. A. Downs, Agent.

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 n. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Glenga Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., as follows:—Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every 1st day in the week at 10:00, for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the one faith passing through the city, to meet with us and they will be cared for by addressing, or calling at Ella V. Bakes's, 266 West Dry St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God at Andover, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Mills Hall. Andover is on the direct line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R., going west to Aberdeen, thirty miles east thereof.

The Church of God, in Excelsior Neb., meets every Sunday at the Frame Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder: Sarah Selleck, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. Brethren known to this church, or coming properly endorsed by introductory letter, will be heartily welcomed. At present we meet in the School House on top of the hill; cable cars come very near, and ferry brings from Seattle.

The brethren of the Church of God at Beech Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 when prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Kessler, or R. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, Ia., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Authon, Elder.

The Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Brewer Hall, on Willoughby Ave., near Broadway.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Ensly and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Clause.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trandell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Presser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Pike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okl'a., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles northeast of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet twice a month for the purpose of breaking bread and social services, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth meet with us. Services at 2 o'clock P. M. Lizzie Woods, Winterrhode, Ill., Sec.

The Church of God, of Waterville, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Mountainview School House, near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Corbaley, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 P. M. for worship, in private houses. All loyal Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Dwyer, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Faithfully yours, Grant Mackamer.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet at their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays in each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver, Pastor.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. at hall on 3rd floor No. 12315, Euclid Ave., near Ohio Bldg. Ohio, where all are welcome to worship with us.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:00 a. m. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt binding, 6th edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Twelve Words;" one of "Early Lessons;" and one of "Honoring the Son,"—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

NICKEL PLATE

All trains arrive at and depart from the Union Passenger Station, Van Buren Street, Chicago. Uniformed Colored Porters attend first and second class day coaches on through trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars enroute.

Eastern Standard Time.

Eastbound.	No. 39 Mail & Express Daily.	No. 37 Chicago Limited Daily.	Westbound.	No. 38 Mail & Express Daily.	No. 40 Chicago Limited Daily.
Lv. C	10 15	11 30	Ar. Chicago	5 00	6 00
11 05	3 00	...	Valparaiso	6 07	7 08
11 45	...	...	So. Wanatah	6 45	7 45
12 28	4 00	...	Kouts	7 25	8 30
12 45	...	...	Hillsboro	7 40	8 45
12 55	...	...	Brems	7 50	8 55
1 15	...	...	Monoco	8 10	9 15
1 30	4 45	...	Crooks	8 25	9 30
1 45	...	...	So. Whitley	8 40	9 45
2 00	5 00	...	Ft. Wayne	8 55	10 00
3 40	6 30	...	Cleveland	11 00	12 00
6 50	...	...	Buffalo	2 30	3 30
10 30	...	...	New York	6 00	7 00
10 55	...	...	Boston	6 25	7 25

Lv. Ft. W. Dpt. Ex. P. M.
Daily except Sunday. † Stop on signal.
Through Coaches between Fort Wayne and Kansas City via Hastings, Tuesday and Saturday.

Drawing Room Sleeping Cars on Nos. 2, 4 and 6 through to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston; on Nos. 5, 3 and 1 to Chicago. Meals are served at up-to-date Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at reasonable rates. Baggage checked to destination. On inquiry you will find our rates are always lower than via other lines, service considered.

For rates and detailed information, address B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agent.

Pittsb'gh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Div.
Pennsylvania Lines.
Schedule of Passenger Trains—Central Time.

Westward.	9	15	29	3	35	7
	AM	PM	AM	PM	PM	PM
Pittsb'gh, lv	7 00	1 30		4 30		9 30
Alliance, ar	9 00	3 05		6 30		11 30
Canton, "	10 35	4 40		8 00		1 00
Massillon, "	10 55	5 00		8 20		1 20
Wooster, "	11 40	5 45		9 05		2 05
Mansfield, "	12 05	6 10		9 30		2 30
Crestline, ar	12 55	6 55		10 15		3 15
Bucyrus, "	1 12	7 12		10 32		3 32
Lima, "	2 48	8 50		12 08		5 08
Van Wert, "	3 43	9 50		1 02		6 02
Ft Wayne, lv	5 45	11 55	AM	3 05		8 05
Arcola, "	6 15	12 30	7 30	3 40		8 40
Columbia City, "	6 51	1 22	8 07	4 17		9 17
Larwill, "			8 20			9 30
Florence, "			8 26			9 36
Eagle Lake, "			8 40			9 50
Warsaw, "	8 31	4 05	8 41	5 41		9 51
Etna Green, "			8 58			10 08
Bourbon, "			9 08			10 18
Inwood, "			9 15			10 25
Plymouth, "	9 10	5 31	9 26	6 31		10 36
Grovertown, "			9 35			10 45
Hamlet, "			9 50			11 00
Davis, "			10 02			11 12
Hanna, "			10 12	7 10		11 22
Wanatah, "	7 05		10 25	AM		11 35
Valparaiso, "	7 48	6 30	10 39	7 15		11 49
Wheeler, "			10 53	7 30		12 03
Hobart, "			11 01	7 38		12 11
Liverpool, "			11 05	7 42		12 15
Clarke, "			11 08	7 45		12 18
Chicago, ar	9 00	8 07	12 30	9 10	3 55	1 40
	PM	AM	PM	PM	PM	AM

Eastward.	20	8	4	6	30	38
	AM	PM	PM	AM	AM	PM
Chicago, lv	7 30	3 00	11 30	2 15	11 30	5 45
Clarke, "	8 22		12 25		12 25	6 40
Liverpool, "	8 25		12 45		12 45	6 45
Hobart, "	8 30		12 50		12 50	6 50
Wheeler, "	8 34		12 54		12 54	6 54
Valparaiso, "	9 12	4 32	1 33	4 01	1 33	7 32
Wanatah, "	9 27		1 47		1 47	7 47
Hanna, "	9 31		1 51		1 51	7 51
Davis, "	10 02					8 22
Hamlet, "	10 12		2 12			8 32
Grovertown, "	10 25					8 45
Plymouth, "	10 36	5 47	2 45	4 59		8 55
Inwood, "	10 50		2 59			9 09
Bourbon, "	11 00		3 09	5 15		9 19
Etna Green, "	11 07		3 16			9 26
Warsaw, "	11 20	6 37	3 33	5 39		9 39
Eagle Lake, "	11 30					9 49
Pierceton, "	11 45		3 57			10 04
Larwill, "	11 58		4 10	6 06		10 17
Columbia City, "	12 15		4 26	6 15		10 33
Arcola, "	12 51		4 51			11 08
Ft Wayne, lv	1 15	7 35	5 10	6 52		11 30
Van Wert, "	2 10	8 30	6 35	7 50		12 30
Lima, "	3 45	9 55	7 57	8 30		1 55
Bucyrus, "	5 03	11 05	9 15	10 05		3 15
Crestline, ar	5 20	11 20	9 30	10 20		3 30
Mansfield, "	6 05	12 10	10 20	11 05		4 15
Wooster, "	6 30	1 00	10 45	11 30		4 40
Massillon, "	6 51	1 21	11 06	11 51		5 01
Canton, "	7 05	1 35	11 20	12 05		5 15
Alliance, ar	8 40	3 10	12 55	1 40		6 50
Pittsb'gh, ar	11 15	5 50	3 30	4 15		9 25
	AM	AM	PM	PM

Dark Faces Type Denotes Limited Trains. Pullman Sleeping Cars on Nos. 15, 9 between Fort Wayne and Pittsburgh. Parlor Cars on Nos. 29 and 8. Dining Cars on Nos. 9 and 38.

L. P. LOREE, General Manager. E. A. FORD, General Passenger Agent.
PITTSBURGH, PENN'A.

For time cards, rates of fare, through tickets, baggage checks, and further information regarding the running of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

VANDALIA TIME CARD
In effect Dec. 5, 1897.
Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.

No. 6, Ex. Sun. For St. Joseph.....12:08pm
No. 8, " " " " 10:11pm

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute.....5:38a m
No. 3, " " " " 12:43pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or
E. A. Ford,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
St Louis, Mo

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person on trial for 1898. The cost is only three cents a week.

Books and Tract List.

A LETTER TO A FRIEND.

This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. Many of our readers already know of the good that has been accomplished through its circulation. 10 cents each.

FUTURE PROBATION.

Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moncrieff. We have a good supply and will send them post paid for ten cents per copy.

GLAD TIDINGS OF THE KINGDOM OF GOD.

This tract contains 12 large size pages, and is a reprint of a work issued many years ago. It is clear and comprehensive. 5cts each or 30 for $1.00.

THE COMING NATION.

A lecture by A. V. Reed. This clearly sets forth that the Coming Nation will be the nation of Israel restored to Palestine, with its Scripturally-made green. 26 pages, 10 cts or three or 25 cts.

Necessity of Regeneration. What necessity was there for the Regeneration. It is good. Also, Little Plan of Salvation, with Scriptural interpretations. 2cts each or 15 cts per dozen.

Modern Events in the light of Prophecy.—Sermon preached by H. V. Reed at Antioch, put in tract form. 5 cts each, or 30 copies for $1.00.

Passages Supposed to Teach Conscious-ness after Death, by W. H. Wilson, which shows that eternal life is not inherent. 3 cents each, or 25 cents for 12.

Where Do the Dead Sleep. These are Bible texts given in answer to this question. A 3-page tract 2 cents each or 15 cents per dozen.

Hades. A Bible account of Our place with proof texts. Ten copies for 5 cts.

Death Compared to a Sleep. This represents death as a sleep and proof texts are given. Ten copies for 5 cts.

The Wicked Dead and Pain Truths. The two combined. 2 pages 4cts copies for 10 cents

"Word of Man vs. Word of God," by H. V. Reed. A contrast between the two. 2cts each or 15 for 25 cts.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory, and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it forever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O.

Aids to Bible-Study and Mission-Work.

1. The gospel of the Kingdom, advocated in a series of Ten discourses. A volume of 283 pages, Cloth 25c. a leather-bound beautifully embossed and gilt edged $1.00. 2. Twelve Words or the true meanings of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as gathered from their uses in the Holy Scriptures. A tract of 40 pages 10cts a copy. Intended as a substitute for and an improvement on the same writer's Key-Words. 3. The gospel of the Kingdom. An 8-page double column tract 10cts. per dozen; 75cts. per hundred. 4. Who are Led by the Spirit? A 4-page tract 25cts per hundred. 5. Seeking and Finding. A 4-page tract 25cts. per hundred. 6. Honouring the Son. An 8-page tract 25cts per dozen. 7. Early Lessons. 80 pages 10cts. copy. Suitable for old or young.

Written and for sale by WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

Notice.

WILL our friends please remember that we do not have the books and tracts at this office that are advertized by Brother Joblin, or Brother Wiley Jones. Do not send to this office for them, but send to their address as given in the advertisement. This will save both trouble and delay. PLEASE REMEMBER.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

The Restitution.

ISSUED WEEKLY BY—
A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher
FOR THE—
CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
W. D. THOMPSON,
J. B. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. BAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50, Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

Sunshine and Shadow.

Is there any heart of sorrow
Shadowed over with despair?
Is there any cloud in heaven
To darken your sky or mine?
Remember the sunshine and the shadow
Are sent by our Father above,
And He will temper the shadow
To the sunshine of His love.

That the sunshine and the shadow
Are working out for us
The will of God;
But there comes a word of promise, like the promise in the bow
That however deep the waters they can never overflow.

Communicated.

Papers by our Young People of Kansas

The subject of these papers was "The Signs of the Times," and was subdivided as follows:

"SIGNS OF THE TIMES"

"Ye can discern the face of the sky."

Is not this true to-day? The best inventions are brought into use for discerning the face of the sky, and every day, all over our country, the news is flashed over the wires. "To-morrow will be foul; for the clouds are towering; or the sky is clearing and to-morrow will be fine."

But from any nation or people, do we hear the news that they are discerning the signs of the times, the near approach of the King?

Are the signs discernible? Look over the world to-day, what is the outlook? Prepare war, wake up the mighty men, let all the men of war draw near. All nations are preparing for war, the mighty men are making the greatest preparation for war that the world has ever seen. War vessels of the swiftest power and strength, guns and all implements of warfare of the latest inventions, the best talents of the wise men are put forth to prepare great instruments of death and destruction. Is not this a sign that we are living in the times spoken of by the prophet Joel, when all the men of war are to awaken up, and assemble for the harvest is ripe, and the wickedness is great on every hand. Men are awakening to this one idea, preparation for war. God's Word cannot be broken. He by his servants has foretold all that is to come to pass. Jerusalem is to be trodden under foot until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled. "Then will I take the children of Israel from among the heathen whither they be gone and will gather them on every side, and will bring them into their own land, and ye shall dwell safely in the land that I gave your fathers, and ye shall be my people, and I will be your God."

The Jews are gathering back and preparing to inhabit the land of their fathers. Slowly, it seems to us who are watching and waiting, but God's times and plans are to be fulfilled, and only can the Gentiles tread the Holy City under foot until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled. Are we nearing the end of Gentile times? Hush, what means all this great preparation for war? this great unrest of the nations? the despising of God's Word? the wickedness of the world and the returning of the Jews to their promised land? Brethren, does it not mean that the Nobleman that went into the far country is about to return? and his words, "Watch, be ye ready, for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come," must be our watchword to-day. Remember, therefore, how thou hast received, and heard and hold fast. If, therefore, thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief. "Blessed are they whom the Lord when he cometh findeth watching; He which testifieth these things saith, Surely I come quickly." Amen. So come, Lord Jesus.

Your Sister in Christ.

ELLA KNOWLES.

SIGNS.

We, as a body of people, are all looking forth to the second coming of our blessed Master. We watch the signs that he and his Holy Prophets have spoken of in the Scriptures, with much longing and anxiety, or at least we should in the love of the Father is in us. In Matt. xvi. it seems the Apostles were very much interested in his coming, so much so as to question him as to the way they should know when he was coming. In Matt. xxiv. 4-15 are enumerated some of the signs that will come to pass prior to his coming. And Jesus answered and said unto them, Take heed that no man deceive you. For many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and shall deceive many. And ye shall hear of wars and rumors of wars: see that ye be not troubled: for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet. For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: and there shall be famines, pestilences and earthquakes in divers places. All of these are the beginning of sorrows. Then shall they deliver you up to be afflicted, and shall kill you: and ye shall be hated of all nations for my name's sake. And then shall many be offended, and shall betray one another, and shall hate one another. And many false prophets shall rise, and shall deceive many. And because iniquity shall abound, the love of many shall wax cold. "But he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved. And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come."

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, JUNE 1, 1898. NUMBER 22.

I will ask, if any of these signs have been fulfilled up to the present time? I for one think the most of them have already taken place, some I think are being fulfilled in our own time. Mark xiii. 3 to 37. "Take ye heed, watch and pray: for ye know not when the time is. For the Son of Man is as a man taking a far journey, who left his house, and gave authority to his servants, and to every man his work, and commanded the porter to watch. Watch ye therefore: For ye know not when the Master of the house cometh, at even, or at midnight, or at the cock-crowing, or in the morning. Lest coming suddenly he find you sleeping. And what I say unto you, I say unto all, watch."

"For this long watching shall be no ill,
When we in his glory stand:
When he crowns of the faithful and wise shall,
With his sentence is heard."

M. R. MILLER.

WATCH.

The word or subject "watch" which we will try to present is certainly not foreign to any of us. It seems to be of a command, or of a more important motive than optional, and we truly understand the magnitude of the term. From the earliest infancy that we can picture from a fond and loving mother and father, we are taught to be watchful. Our social life and character needs our most careful and undivided attention. Also in our business affairs of life we find that it is necessary for us to watch our daily transactions to know whether we be able to carry on the work in a profitable way.

Perhaps we may be at the bedside of a loving mother or father, brother or sister, or some other friend almost as dear to us as life, would we not be as attentive to duty as willing hand and our ability would permit. On the other hand we receive a letter or word from a friend or relative who tells us that he intends to make us a visit in the near future, but does not tell us what day or hour he will arrive; but assures us that we will not be disappointed, and that we will be richly rewarded. Who is there among us who would not go to work and set our house in order so that we might be ready to entertain that friend, and make all things pleasant that he might feel thrice welcome.

When all this is done we begin to watch. Every day we expect that friend, but we do not become impatient. We take up the letter and read it over and over again, and every time we become more deeply interested because of the promises we find in it. They become precious as we watch and wait: for we know that this friend is true to his word and we have all reason to trust him: because he has done many acts of kindness, and still seems to be better that his kindness has not been exhausted, but "If there my reward is with me, to give every man according as his works shall be." Blessed are they who do his commandments that they may have a right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city. All those blessings come to us through Christ, even the victory over death.

Your Brother,

HARVEY WILE.

THE WORD TO THE NATIONS.

In the consideration of so vast a subject there should be an ocean of facts, from which the writer could draw copiously. Indeed, he must, as the facts of nature, of chronology, of schedules of the divinity itself, in order to correctly content his conclusions.

The Scriptures teach us in 2 Pet. other having been speaking on the subject of prophecy something like this, "knowing this that no prophecy of the Scripture is of any private interpretation for the prophecy came not at any time by the will of man, but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost." This defines definitely where in the right of prophecy lies, so it will be apparent that my duty is to lay the existing facts concerning the movements of the nations before us and leave you to compare their condition and tendencies with that as prophesied by those who possessed the authority.

Human nature is pretty much the same in whatever walk of life it is situated. It is ever subject to vicissitudes and trials. Man seems to be a double being—one part of his mind seems always ready to do wrong, the other ever ready to obliterate that which seems out of harmony with right, justice and truth. These two facts go as far to be ever as war, one with the other; this is as true of the savage as of the sage, the only difference existing in the superior enlightenment of the one over the other.

Paul tells us that when he would do good evil was present with him, thus showing that his nature was in harmony with his fellow creatures. But says one, you are dealing exclusively with individuals instead of nations? To this we answer, yes; for as the individuals of a country are, so is the country. If you find a people in whose manners and customs you see portrayed kindness, benevolence, strength, patriotism and love you will find that they have fortified their national affairs against any malicious attacks.

But we must hasten. history repeats itself: nations rise and fall, kingdoms and empires decay, new ones rise and rival their ancestors. For as one has said, "It is because today learns wisdom from yesterday, that it is able to teach wisdom from to-morrow." Man appears to be growing more selfish; society seems to be polluted with more vile conduct than in former times; the political world has not the stability it once had, whether its form be a monarchy or a republic. Religious societies seem to be grown unfamiliar with the Word of God, and as a consequence, their influence is being cast in a wrong direction and the same evil that is destroying one of these many classes are disturbing the whole, viz., selfishness and greed. Patriotism is the bulm of nations, like unselfishness and love are to religion. As to my mind this is the present condition, and believing that the powers that be are ordained of God, and that he moves in a mysterious way his wonders to perform, I am most ready to exclaim that finite mind is struggling with God's affairs. The affairs of which man is not capable of fully fathoming. The details of certain nation corresponding to prophetic names, I shall leave to those more able and better prepared to discuss.

But, watching the history of the world we see before us a mighty array of preparations for a coming conflict, the result of which we only can conjecture. The first attribute of human nature is shewing itself in the universal conduct towards struggling China. As Mr. Colier puts it, "a thrilling drama, perchance a tragedy is about to be enacted in the far East." The scheme is not the partitioning of the largest and most ancient empire of the world, as many seem to think, but commercial supremacy. The powerful looking machines of modern time may be the nature, and right well have they relinquished their respective parts with glistening sides and frowning guns, such as customed, awaiting the ringing up of the curtain. And we may have the tranquility of our own so-called peace saved from its inner most joint to its surface before many years more have passed.

Our executive awaits only the report of his special committee. These rumors and many more ought be cited, more of the ways of man that are out of harmony with God's Law. More of sin and vile in different forms could be brought to bear on this phase of the subject, but by the Scripture alone will these things be measured by him, whose Majesty was naught but the golden rule.

W. M. VICKERY.

SOCIAL CONDITIONS.

The meaning of these two words is first, social, pertaining to, or being fond of society. Now the question could naturally arise, What kind of society should we be fond of? Should we be fond of worldly society, or should we be fond of Christian society, and follow that? Worldly society, as I understand it, and all of its pleasures is not giving the Bible one single thought, they let it pass as though it was no more than any ordinary book. Now, is this right? Should we do this? The answer comes, no. For it is written in the Scriptures that we must beware of such things, and guard ourselves against worldliness, and be earnest and sober minded.

Now, we will discuss the word condition. The meaning of this is state or quality. Now, if we are fond of society we must put ourselves in such a condition as to enjoy that society. If we intend to take the worldly society we must be worldly. If we intend to be Christians, Christians are what we should be.

You put a worldly man or woman with Christians, and how much will they enjoy themselves; or even in the opposite case put Christians, and Christians in a dance hall or a pool room, and how much do you suppose he would enjoy himself? not one bit, he would rather be some other place. Now, because we are Christians, that is no sign that we should not have anything to do with worldly people, but we are not to go with them in their worldliness.

We read in the 17th of Luke from 26 to 30 verse, "And as it was in the days of Noah, so shall it be also in the days of the Son of Man. They did eat, they drank, they married wives, they were given in marriage until the day Noah entered into the ark, and the flood came and destroyed them all."

Likewise also was it in the days of Lot: they did eat, they drank, they bought, they sold, they planted, they builded, but the same day that Lot went from Sodom, it rained fire and brimstone from heaven, and destroyed them all. That is worldly society; that is what will become of those who follow the world. Now, which do you think best to follow the world or Jesus Lot?

Since Adam's transgression man is in a fallen condition or fallen state, if you go on in this fallen state, you are with the world; if you change, accept Christ, obey his commandments, you will receive a reward that indeth not away, one with no disappointments, no heartaches, sighing, with tears wiped away. Of this glorious life only the half can be told.

MANNIE REED.

(To be Continued.)

The moment a man parts with moral independence the moment he judges of a duty, not from the inward voice, but from the interest and will of a party, the moment he commits himself to a leader or a party, and winks at evil because divisions would hurt the cause, the moment he slinks off his particular responsibility, because he is but one of the thousand or million by whom the evil is done: that moment he parts with his moral power. He is shorn of a single-hearted faith in the right and the true.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel, the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

The Michigan Conference.

The Annual Conference of the Church of God, in Michigan, will be held (D. V.) at Dutton, Kent Co., Thursday evening, June 2, 1898, and continue over the following Sunday. A hearty invitation is extended to all of like precious faith. Ample provision will be made for all visiting brethren. The brethren at Dutton wish that as many as can, could arrange to be there at the first meeting. Dutton is situated on the Michigan Central R. R. ten miles southeast of Grand Rapids. Come with hearts filled with love. Let the one great aim be to cheer and encourage each other on the way, and by so doing better prepare ourselves to overcome the trials and temptations we may have to endure. "Blessed is he whom the Lord when he cometh will find watching," for if we are watching we are also longing and waiting, and if we are longing and waiting, then do we keep ourselves in readiness for the coming of our Lord and Savior.

EMMA JACKMAN, Sec.

PROGRAMME OF THE MICHIGAN CONFERENCE.

THURSDAY P. M.

7.00 Song Service, conducted by C. L. Austin.
7.15 Address of Welcome, President.
7.20 Response, Vice President.
7.35 Sermon, Brother Winchester, "The Lord's Second Coming."
8.35 A Poem, Omer Clover, "The Lord is coming."

FRIDAY A. M.

9.00 Song Service, conducted by A. K. Richardson.
9.15 Social Meeting, R. Lake, subject, "God's Love to Man."
10.00 Paper, "Parent's duties in teaching the Children the Truth," Sister Hoyt. Discussion.
10.30 Sermon, P. L. Austin, "Methodical Work."

FRIDAY P. M.

1.30 Business Meeting.
Paper, "Christ Our Example," Sister West.
7.00 Song Service, conducted by C. L. Austin.
7.10 Social Meeting, Sister Chaffee, "Workers with God."
7.45 "The future Life as concerns you and me," Bro. Chase.

SATURDAY A. M.

9.00 Song Service, Bro. Chase.
9.10 Social Meeting, Lottie Barnum, "Why and how much does God allow us to be tempted."
10.00 Paper, "What are the requirements of a true minister of the Gospel," K. N. Woodward. Discussion.
10.30 Paper, "The Lord's time, What are we doing with it?" Sister White.
Recitation, Ester Richardson.
11.30 Sermon, "The duties of the Church to the Minister," L. C. Chase.

SATURDAY P. M.

1.30 Report of Churches and their Spiritual Needs.
Business Meeting, if necessary.
7.00 Social Meeting, B. W. Woodward.
8.00 Sermon, Bro. Chase, "God's hand in the Affairs of Man."

SUNDAY A. M.

9.00 Song Service, A. K. Richardson.
9.15 Bible Black board Lesson, "The Vine and the Branches," with Bible Reading and Talks, C. L. Austin.
10.30 Sermon, L. C. Chase, "The Marriage Supper."
Collection.
Communion.

SUNDAY P. M.

1.30 Paper, Bro. Wines, "The Lord's money and service." What are we doing with them?
2.30 Sermon, B. W. Woodward, "Darkness before Dawn."
6.45 Social Meeting, P. L. Austin, Divine Union.
7.35 Sermon, L. C. Chase, "The New Era."

Committee on programme,
EMILY BARNUM.
M. A. WOODWARD.
EMMA JACKMAN.
A. K. RICHARDSON.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOELIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, IND. JUNE 1, 1898.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Marshall, Co., Ind.

Remittance should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail in this way almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change in address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

A WAR ATLAS.

The exact locality of many places mentioned in the news of the War between the United States and Spain is not known to the general reader, and so recourse is had to geographies. We have decided to offer our readers a complete War Atlas of sixteen pages of maps, showing all the territory where a conflict can occur, besides some valuable statistics. This will be mailed to you for 25 cts. Send orders at once, and get the position of the places named that you can better understand how the various complication will affect the nations of the world. Address,—THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

"If food is carelessly prepared we do not expect Providence to make it palatable; neither if, through years of folly we misguide our life, need we expect divine interference to bring around everything at last as if we had done it right."

JEAN INGELOW says, "If God give me work to do I will thank him that he has bestowed upon me a strong arm: if he give me danger to brave I will bless him that he has not made me without courage; but I will go down on my knees and beseech him to fit me for my task; if he tells me it is only to stand and wait."

"THINGS," says Philip Brooks, "are what they are used for. The artist uses a stone and it is a statue; the mason uses a stone and it is a doorstep, and beyond mere nature. See how we use men: we are each other's raw material. I make you up in some shape into my life, and you in some way make me up into yours. But what man is of such fixed character that he can be made up only into one invariable thing? Each man makes of his neighbor that for which he uses him. So of all influences and motives. The same educations wall and press upon two lives. One rises on them into greatness: the other drags them down upon it and it is crushed beneath them into ruin. How is it that the Pharisee and the Publican came down the same temple steps, one cold, and proud and bitter, and the other with his heart full of tenderness and humblest charity?"

Law or Gospel—Which? No. 11.

In our last we showed that latter-day Sabbath Keepers do not keep it as God's law required it to be kept, but by a formula of their own, and therefore it was not kept at all. Let us pause a moment here to ascertain how the matter now stands: The Lord God set apart one day in seven—the Seventh—to be kept holy. He commanded or instructed the Jews who were under the law, HOW TO KEEP IT HOLY. HOW did God instruct or command Israel to keep the Sabbath?"

1. Six days shalt thou labor and do ALL thy work." Ex. xx. 9.

2. This applied to every member of the family, son, daughter, manservant, maidservant, stranger and cattle. Ex. xx. 8-10.

3. Isa. lviii. 13 gives further details as to how the Seventh day had to be kept. 1st. "By not doing their own pleasure; 2nd By calling the Sabbath a delight; 3rd. "By honoring God, and not doing their own ways, nor finding their own pleasure, nor speaking their own words." Please look this Scripture squarely in the face, and see once for all that any other way of keeping it will not do, if the law is in force.

As plain as plain can be, this Scripture teaches that God is honored when our wills are made subservient to his,—when we give up our ways for his: when our whole aim is to honor him by not doing or executing our own wills.

We have said considerable already respecting the secular or temporal nature of the Law from Sinai, but we feel impelled to say more. Ex. xx. 8-10, says the cattle had to abstain from labor on the Seventh Day. As cattle were not morally organized they were not morally accountable. Man was morally organized, and therefore was morally accountable. The cattle, therefore, would be benefitted by the law of the Sabbath in proportion to the faithfulness of man, to whom they [the cattle] were accountable. This cut off the Jews from any pecuniary benefit from the labor of domestic animals, as well as from their own labors, and that of servants.

Singular to relate, we had written thus far when a letter came to hand, dated Battle Creek, Michigan, May 17. After thanks for the series of articles on, "Law or Gospel—Which?" the writer says: –

"Allow me to suggest a bill of exceptions to the Fourth Law, for the special benefit of Seventh Day keepers in this city, and elsewhere:—

"Thou shalt do no work,—thou nor thy son, nor thy daughter, except they believe not as thou: nor thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, except the cooks, the waiters, engineers, and those who are needed to help in the creameries, engine rooms, liveries, and on the farms. The horses, not being included or mentioned in the list of animals prohibited from labor, may be sent out from all your liveries, and thy creameries may run their milk separators on the Sabbath day; for many of your people want milk and cream, and might suffer and mourn for them; and your milk wagons may be driven by your servants about the city on the Sabbath Day, as well as among yourselves, so that the heathen may be well supplied. And your engines may be kept running for the many wants of your people. Also your boilers may be allowed to work with a pressure of steam to heat your tabernacles wherein ye do worship me on the Sabbath Day: for ye must be very comfortable, and contented in order to worship me truly."

Battle Creek, Michigan, it is well known, is the Head-quarters of Seventh Day Keepers socalled: and from confessions we have wrung from Sabbatarians themselves, we are persuaded that our correspondent is ready to prove that the above is the modern way of keeping the Law which says:—

"Verily my Sabbaths ye shall keep .....every one that defileth it shall surely be put to death; for whosoever doeth work therein, that soul shall be cut off from among his people. Six days may work be done, but in the seventh is the Sabbath of rest, holy to the Lord: whosoever doeth any work in the Sabbath day, HE SHALL SURELY BE PUT TO DEATH." Ex. xxxi. 13-15.

These people know that what is work on six days of the week is work on the Seventh. And right well they know they have to pay as much for it, if not more. Well do they know that if picking up sticks was work in the sense of the prohibition, shovelling of coal must surely be work in the sight of the law of the Fourth Commandment.

Well do these falsely-called Sabbath keepers know that the domestic duties performed by maidservants were forbidden under the law, and if the law be in force now, it is forbidden now. How can they have the hardihood to set aside the specifications of the law of the Sabbath without divine warrant, and then count themselves the favored few, as if they kept it holy! They speak and act as if they could deceive the Almighty as they deceive the ignorant, after deceiving themselves.

When they for the sake of gain allow or cause their servants to do exactly what the Law of the Fourth Commandment prohibited, and at the same time claim to keep it holy, are guilty of a gross religious fraud. And the attempt to justify their remodification of a law of God to suit the times we live in, or the customs of the country, or its climate, would be the acme of religious nonsense, were it not an assumption of Jehovah's prerogative.

Here is a community which came into existence some 35 years ago,— believing at first the Serpent's lie, and differing from the Great Apostacy in only this:—That the coming of the Lord to judgment was impending: in fact that they had discovered the year, month and day when the righteous of all ages would be glorified, and the wicked of all ages would be consigned to everlasting perdition: and the earth burnt up, instead of the world being first converted by existing agencies,—that is, human instrumentality.

This community in the year 1898 is absolute proof that they in 1844 taught lies in the name of the Lord. The Lord did not come as they said he would: and, will our readers believe it? They admit this, but still insist that the hand of the Lord directed that movement, false as it proved to be. This shows their estimate of God's character, and to some extent, may explain how they can claim to keep the 7th day holy: while openly violating its provisions. If that be the kind of a God they worship, it is natural that they should develop the same crooked traits.

The War.

There seems to have been little progress in the conflict since last week, and judging by battles this is so. However, the most significant event is the sudden awakening of the United States to a realization of herself. A few months ago the country scouted the idea of conquest, and it was to "free Cuba" the war was started. As soon as war was declared it was "Remember the Maine," and now we are to take all we can get from Spain, and give her a good lesson before we stop. America has broadened out, and her policy is no longer the "Monroe doctrine." narrow and contracted, but this country must take her place among nations hereafter. The following extracts from the Chicago Tribune of May 27 will show this point:

MANIFEST DESTINY OF THE REPUBLIC.

"The first instalment of relief for Admiral Dewey is now on its way to him across the Pacific.

"The dispatch of these reinforcements to enable Admiral Dewey to retain permanently his territorial foothold marks the beginning of a most important and far-reaching movement in the extension of the influence and power of this republic on the shores of the great Pacific Ocean. It indicates that this country has come of age and has begun to put forth its strength. Having come into man's estate, it is throwing aside the habiliments of childhood and is ready and eager to use its giant power. True to the old Anglo-Saxon traditions and heredity, it is going out into the world to do its part in the great struggle for the advancement of civilization. It proposes to take an interest in the affairs of the world, to have a voice in its councils, and to make its influence felt on the side of humanity, justice and progress. As the first step the Philippines are to be retained because they are ours by right of conquest and American pluck, and because our commercial interests there are of paramount importance. But our relations are not confined merely to the Philippines. No nation except Russia has closer interests with China than the United States, and when we assert our rights in China there will be no danger of trenching upon the rights of Russia. There is plenty of room for all, and we must demand and must have our full share of its vast trade and equal rights with all in developing its manufacturing industries and in improving its resources.

From this point of view the necessity of constructing the Nicaraguan ship canal becomes so apparent that it is unnecessary to advance a detailed argument in its favor. It is a matter of self-protection. Equally from this point of view the necessity for the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands becomes apparent. The recent report of the Committee on Foreign Relations presents the reasons for such annexation, and they are unanswerable.

And this is not the only duty of Congress. Our new position with regard to the outside world, so suddenly and unexpectedly forced upon us, makes it imperative that our navy should be still further strengthened. This Congress should order the keels of at least one battleship for each State to be laid and a proper number of second and third class war vessels, which will proportionately increase our power, guarantee our safety, and bring increased trade to the country. We must no longer be satisfied with taking an inferior position among the leading powers of the world. This republic is no longer a child. It has become one of the first nations, and in childish things. It is time to use the voice of a man and the strength of a man. To do this it is only necessary to assert our strength and let the Old World know that the American republic henceforward is to have a voice in the management of the world's affairs, so far at least as those affairs are concerned with our new and manifest destiny. To do this it is not necessary to make alliances. The republic is big enough and strong enough to stand upon its own feet. We should cultivate the friendship of Great Britain, but it is not necessary to make an alliance except in case our immediate interests demand it. We need come no closer than this to Great Britain or any other power. Our free soil for ourselves must always be maintained, but we must not be placed in a position to espouse the quarrels of European powers without such other. The republic can no longer remain at home unmindful of what is going on outside. Its destiny is to go out into the world, to take a part in the councils of the world, and to be prepared to protect itself and make its power respected. It must take a leading place among the leading powers. It is forced upon us and it would be cowardly to shirk the duty."

The President called for 75,000 more volunteers—making the United States army 285,000 men. Three vessels with 2500 troops and ammunition have started for Manila. It is supposed the Spanish fleet is "bottled up" in Santiago de Cuba harbor. The second Spanish fleet is reported to have left Cadiz, but its destination is not known.

The Italian cabinet has resigned, and a new trouble seems in store for that nation.

The Rothschilds of Paris have refused to make a Spanish loan and that country is in desperate straits for money. However, the French have already aided Spain and must give more assistance, and in exchange will take Spanish territory. The following from London shows the puzzle that all are in regarding the attitude of France.

"The exact position of Cervera is not a greater puzzle to people here than the exact position of France as regards Spain. Rumors there are in plenty and yards of impalite fiction from Madrid, but whether the French have loaned their millions to Spain in exchange for the Canaries or bought sufficient navy at Algeciras to worry the night of the Britisher in Gibraltar, or made a bid for more Philippines, which even foolish Spain must know are labeled "Not for sale," one thing stands out clearly—namely, that the French are Moroccan bound. Costa is without doubt the price or part of the price the Spanish may have to pay for French sympathy. Gunners and coal they had in the past, and hope for in the future, if the French military party ever gets open power or finds times ripe enough to let a dictator spring from their ranks. They boast almost openly of what they will do, and the first item of their program is a French Gibraltar."

Germany still acts somewhat in favor of Spain, having sold a number of heavy guns to that country, sending them through France labeled "Kitchen furniture." The German papers comment in unfavorable terms of the large orders the United States has given for war material, asserting "that there is no present need for such," that it looks as if this country were making preparation for more than simply this war with Spain. In fact the German papers are right, for the United States has suddenly "come of age," and the "Monroe doctrine" is a thing of the past. Henceforth the nations of Europe and the world must reckon with this country in all their doings. Senator Elkins says regarding this: "We have traveled 100 years in the last four weeks. Our whole colonial policy is about to undergo a radical change. The Monroe doctrine, which was all right when it was written, but is no longer, is about to be smashed to smithereens, and the government of the United States is slowly but surely breaking away from its old moorings. This war with Spain will necessitate a change in our colonial policy. If there is any one thing I am certain of it is this. The fortunes of war have given us territory in the seas which we would never have thought of acquiring, but since we have acquired it, the Stars and Stripes must float there forever. The Philippines alone will not compensate or reimburse us. We must have more territory. Puerto Rico will doubtless be under control of the United States government before the end of a fortnight. We should not halt here. Let us acquire a coaling station in the Mediterranean sea. Hawaii should be ours before the setting of another sun, and if I thought I could assist in the acquisition of that territory I would be willing to remain in session all summer."

Our Love Feast.

Dear Restitution:

I don't know how to get along without the dear old paper. It is all the true preaching we have here, except once a year, when Bro. George Kidwell comes from Arkansas, and preaches for us. Now, dear brothers and sisters, I want you all to pray for me, for I am left alone in the world with eight children, all at home but one. My husband died the 19th day of last January; but thanks be to God we sorrow not as those that have no hope. This is the first time I ever wrote to the paper. I read so many good letters in the paper, I thought I would send my mite in answer to them. But they that feared the Lord spake often one to another, and that there was a book of remembrance. So I want to tell you that I am strong in the one faith, and that faith is the same faith that our father Abraham had, that the promised Seed should bless all the nations of the earth, and Paul tells us that that Seed is Christ, and that if we have been baptized into Christ, we have put on Christ. Then we are heirs of Abraham, and if we are joint-heirs with Christ we can be liberated from the iron grasp of death, and share a part in that glorious coming age, to join in that redemption song with the untold millions who will in the eternal ages swell that glad refrain, To live and live in immortal youth and vigor, free from all sin, care and sickness, or fear of death while the eternal cycles of the ages roll their endless rounds. So dear brothers and sisters, let us ever walk worthy of the vocation wherewith we are called with all lowliness and meekness, with long forbearing one another in love, endeavoring to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bonds of peace. Oh, let us build upon that most holy faith, and keep ourselves in the love of God. Pray for me that I may ever stand fast, and may God bless you all with ever needed blessing, is the prayer of a Sister.

AMANDA M. HURST.

Dear Brother Underwood:

By the date on my paper I see the time for renewing is past, so I will not delay any longer, as I love the paper so well. It is an earnest advocate of the truth as it is in the Word of God. And as I read the letters in the love feast from so many of the dear brothers and sisters, my heart is buoyed up and encouraged, and I almost forget the cares of this life, and in the language of the great Gentile Apostle "But this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." And as I read in God's Word, also in the little books and leaflets that are sent out by the brothers and sisters of the one faith, one hope and one baptism, including God's plan of salvation that is held out to that poor frail mortal creature called man, how my heart rejoices and my soul is made glad, that I have come to a knowledge of the truth as it is in Christ Jesus, for it is a command to "search the Scriptures, for in them ye think ye have eternal life, and they are they which testify of me." And in reading the papers of the day we hear of wars and calamities befalling man all over the world. What manner of person ought we to be in conversations and deeds, for in the midst of such times Jesus himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel and with the trump of God, and the dead in Christ shall rise first, that day will not overtake the child of God as it will the world, for they will be clothed with righteousness and he will not find them walking naked as Adam and Eve were when the voice of God called to Adam in the garden. But ye brethren are not in darkness, that the day should overtake you as a thief in the night. Ye are all children of the light and children of the day," and if we are truly a child of God, we have passed from death unto life. How do we know this? Because we love the brotherhood. Pray for me that I may be among the faithful, for it is to them that a crown of life is given. Oh, may we all that have started in the race, prove faithful to the end, looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith, and to them that look for him the second time, he will appear without sin unto salvation.

As ever your sister in Christ,
MARY SAUNDERS.

Announcements.

Editor Restitution:

The Annual Meeting of the Church of God at Scholl's, Oregon, will commence Saturday morning, June 11th, and continue over the following Sunday. We extend an invitation to all lovers of truth. Come brethren, and aid us in our work here, we want to hear a word from all of you. Let us be up and doing for the time is short. All brethren coming from a distance will be met with conveyance at the National Hotel, Portland, Ore. All those wishing to be met at Portland will please notify me.

Yours in hope,
C. H. LAWRENCE, Sec'y.

$1.50. To Milwaukee and Return.

Saturday June 11th, via Vandalia and Lake Special train leaves Vandalia Depot at 9:30 P. M. Saturday, June 11th for St. Joseph where it makes direct connection with steamer arriving at Milwaukee at 7:00 A. M. Sunday. Returning steamer leaves Milwaukee at 8:00 P. M. connecting with special train at Plymouth and trains at St. Joseph and trains arriving at Plymouth about 6:00 A. M. Monday. F. A. DOWNS, Agent.

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is represented by some one known to be trustworthy.

Improved Train Service.

To accommodate its many patrons the Vandalia Line will commencing May 23rd, extend trains No. 14 and 15 to run to and from Logansport, Ind. Train No. 14 will leave Logansport daily except Sunday at 6:05 A. M. arriving at St. Joseph 9:40 A. M. Train No. 25 will leave St. Joseph daily except Sunday at 7:25 P. M. arriving at Logansport 9:00 P. M. 24

A good violinist always puts his instrument in tune before playing in public, and a wise Christian gets his soul at concert pitch in the closet before praying in public.

Just what you Want.

An artistic booklet entitled "Summer Outing" published by the Nickel Plate Road, describing vacation resorts along south shore of Lake Erie, also list of country homes open to country boarders, sent to any address on application to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O.—june 30.

If every one would strive to be perfect as he thinks others ought to be, this would be a delightful world to live in.

Homeseekers' Excursion via Nickel Plate Road.

Special excursion tickets for homeseekers to designated points Northwest, West, and Southwest, also to designated points in the South, are offered via Nickel Plate Road, June 7th, and 21st, at lower rates than via other lines. Ask Agents.—j 20.

Dewdrops at night are diamonds at morn; so the tears we weep here may be pearls in heaven.

Lake View Hotel—Lake Maxenkuckee (Culver), Ind.,

Will reopen on June 20th, 1898, for the Summer season, with improved service and thoroughly modern appointments. Family accommodations a specialty. Rates reasonable. Address J. R. Schofield, Manager, Culver, Ind.—July 31.

He who at all times can sacrifice pleasure to a duty approaches sublimity.

Homeseekers' Low Rate Excursion via Nickel Plate Road.

To designated points North-west, West and South-west, also to designated points in the South, June 7th, and 21st. Ask Agents.—j 20.

Focussed sunbeams burn, and focussed truths burn deeper than those which are diffused.

One Fare Sunday excursion tickets are on sale from all stations on Nickel Plate Road.—june 30.

Better be upright with poverty, than wicked with profits.

A new vestibule train on the Nickel Plate R. R. commenced this week.

Poetry.

HYMN.

TUNE—"CHRIST HATH RISEN TO SAVE ALL."

Sinners, now his Word believe,
All who hear the gospel call,
Pardon, you may now receive,
Pardon's offered free to all.

CHORUS—
Mercy's free.....and free to all,
Christ has died.....and you may live.
He will answer all who call,
Elect of the will freely come.

He who wept, and bowed, and died,
Still is pleading true, his throne
He, his patron ne'er denied.
All who come to him have known.

CHORUS—Mercy's free, etc.

Still he cryeth "Come to Me,"
Still he bids us come for rest,
All who come to gentleness see
All who come with penitence blest.

CHORUS—Mercy's free, etc.

Sinners, oh, Who will refuse,
Still "To-day" is "Time to Live,"
All who on his Word rely
Eternal life to them he'll give.

CHORUS—Mercy's free, etc.

He who took the victim's place
Soon you'll see as Judge and King.
Do not now reject his grace,
Come at once, while still we sing.

CHORUS—Mercy's free, etc.

WALTER SKINNER.

Communicated.

Sowing and Reaping.

"Be not deceived, God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. He that soweth to the flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit, shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting." Gal. vi. 7, 8.

The above is true, not only in nature, but also in that which is superior to nature, like sowing, like harvest. In its wide scope, the above Scripture affirms, "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." In a special sense, it deals with the sowing to the flesh and sowing to the Spirit, and the harvest resulting from such sowing.

The time for sowing seed, for either of these harvests, is while the psuche—animal life lasts. The moment that ceases, the seed has been sown which will determine the harvest in each individual case.

Why is this so? The solution is not difficult, when we reflect as to what the life of the flesh is:

"THE LIFE OF ALL FLESH IS THE BLOOD."

The above quotation is from Lev. xvii. 11. Now, in sowing to the flesh, the sower sows that which depends upon "blood," for life, the psuche—animal soul life. The flesh is entirely dependent upon the blood for life. Should the blood become diseased, the life of the flesh is weakened in proportion to the disease. In case the blood becomes totally poisoned, the flesh at once begins to turn to corruption; and should he have sown seed only to the flesh, and cared only for his psuche—animal existence, he "is like the beasts that perish," (Psa. xlix. 6-20), he "reaps corruption." The psuche—life will never be resumed again by those who have part in "the first resurrection." That is a life that pertains only to mortality. I was much surprised lately to notice an editor of a religious paper (whom I thought knew better) make an attempt to show that the psuche—life would be resumed again by the righteous. The Scriptures never use adjectives denoting eternity as applied to psuche.

The sowing to the flesh, and the harvest reaped from sowing that kind of seed, is perfectly natural.

"Life everlasting" (zoe aionios) will be the harvest which will result from sowing to the Spirit.

"It is sown a natural (psuche) body, it is raised a spiritual body."

"It is sown in corruption; it is raised in incorruption," providing they have in life sown to the Spirit. The Spirit-seed is incorruptible, and in the harvest will produce fruit as incorruptible as the seed sown in good honest hearts. "Being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible by the Word of God, which liveth and abideth forever. * * * The Word of the Lord endureth forever. And this is the Word which by THE GOSPEL is preached unto you." 1 Pet. i. 23-25: "Hear ye, therefore, the parable of the sower. When any one heareth THE WORD OF THE KINGDOM, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown (the seed-Word of the kingdom) in his heart." Like produces like. Sowing to the flesh can only result in corruption as that is the natural tendency of all flesh. And if it turns again to corruption, without the implanting of [illegible] corruptible seed," there's no good reason which was transitory and mortal: we for expecting an incorruptible har- [illegible] live by natural generation vest; as well might a farmer expect a crop of wheat, from sowing oats.

That which tends to corruption, is the psuche—animal life; the Scriptures never represent the psuche—life as rising higher than the animal, but it does speak of the zoe—life as being eternal. This is the life received by sowing to the Spirit. Is not this a strong, marked distinction?

The seed sowing and harvest is again brought to view in Rom. ii. 6,7: God "will render to every man according to his deeds: to them who patiently continue in well doing (sowing to the Spirit) eternal life (aionios zoe). But unto them that are contentious, and do not obey the truth, (receives not the good seed) indignation and wrath, tribulation and anguish." The "eternal life," (aionios zoe) is conditioned upon "CONTINUING THE WORK," and failing to "obey the truth," "indignation and wrath," etc., will result from sowing to the flesh; and possessing only psuche-life, can never rise higher than the brute creation. "For that which befalleth the sons of men (according to the flesh) befalleth beasts; even one thing befalleth them: as the one dieth, so dieth the other; yea, they have all one breath; so that a man (sowing to the flesh) hath no preeminence above a beast." (Eccl. iii. 19) because the psuche—life never pertains to eternity.

The difference between the two harvests, resulting from sowing to the flesh, and sowing to the Spirit is further confirmed by Rom. vi. 23: "The wages of sin (sowing to the flesh) is death, but the gift of God is eternal life, (by sowing to the Spirit) through Jesus Christ our Lord." Here we learn that aionios zoe—eternal life, is a "GIFT" from God "through Jesus Christ." Psuche—life don't come that way, we all receive that by natural generation, the same as the rest of the animal creation, but aionios zoe—life can only be attained "through Jesus Christ."

The same thought is in the text at the head of this article, "shall of the Spirit reap (zoe aionios) life everlasting." The psuche—life is of the flesh, and of the will of man, and tends to death, while the other leads to life. Each is a law governing each. See Rom. viii. 2: "For the law of the Spirit of life (zoe) in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death." There can be no possible release from that law, except by "THE LAW OF THE SPIRIT OF LIFE" (zoe). How then say some that there is no warrant for a distinction between zoe and psuche?

Aionios zoe is the legitimate fruit resulting from a holy life. See Rom. vi. 22: "Being made free from sin, (by obeying the gospel) and become servants to God ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the END (telos zoe) everlasting life." Remember, this is the conclusion of the whole matter—"the END aionios zoe."

Jesus came to give that which mankind did not possess. He says: "I am come that they might have (zoe) life." The words, "might have," signify the possibility of receiving that of which they were destitute, and that was "life"—zoe. If no distinction is to be drawn between the Word life from zoe, and the word life from psuche, why use such language—"might have life?" They had psuche—life which life is never spoken of as being eternal, either in this age, or that which is to come. "He that hath not the Son of God hath not (zoe) life." 1 John v. 12. In common with the animal creation they do possess the psuche—life, but that being temporal cannot abide. But the aionios zoe—life is the life peculiar to the new birth—born of the Spirit, and not of the flesh, that is the psuche—animal life, which passes away, but the other is higher, and its realm is spiritual, the climax of glory, it is a life of blessedness, it is free from sorrow, and free from the apprehension of death.

It will come to us, not by generation, but by regeneration, and the seed of this new life must be sown now, if we ever expect to enter the life, in "the regeneration, when the Son of Man shall sit on the throne of his glory." Without this aionios zoe life, there can be no possible chance of inheriting God's everlasting kingdom. See John iii. 1, "Verily, verily I say unto thee, except a man be born (be begotten gennao) again he cannot see the Kingdom of God. That which is born (begotten) of the flesh is FLESH; and that which is born, (begotten) of the Spirit is SPIRIT."

Says Peirpoint: "In our natural progenitor, was only the psuche life. from him nothing higher than this. In our spiritual progenitor, is the zoe life, which is spiritual and undying, and this is the life which he gives in regeneration. The distinction between these two lives, the natural Adamic life, which is animal and transitory, and the supernatural life, which is spiritual and eternal, is everywhere clearly and definitely drawn, and preserved throughout the New Testament Scriptures. These two words psuche and zoe, are used to designate them. * * * The real gospel distinction is as actual and broad as it possibly can be. There are two separate progenitors; two separate births; and two separate destinies." What more could any honest student desire, by way of a clear and unmistakable distinction?

Then let us "lay hold on (aionios zoe) eternal life," and look for the "crown of (zoe) life," seeing "Christ our (zoe) life," gives us the "hope of (aionios zoe) eternal life." "when Christ who is our (zoe) life shall appear." "Let us believe on him to (zoe aionios) life everlasting," then we have the assurance that we "shall of the Spirit reap (zoe aionios) life everlasting." If we could enjoy this blessing, we must "seek for glory, honor and immortality, (aionios zoe) eternal life," then we shall "reign through righteousness unto (aionios zoe) eternal life," and have the "fruit unto holiness, and the end (aionios zoe) everlasting life," for "the gift of God is (aionios zoe) eternal life."

W. H. WILSON.

Begotten Children of God.

Birth always implies life accompanying an organism. This living organism is born to a condition, which it never before knew. Birth also implies that that which receives birth shall exist in a higher condition than ever before. It is impossible to attain unto this position only through birth. With these thoughts before us, how important the words of "Jesus of Nazareth, the King of the Jews" to "Nicodemus a ruler of Jews," "Ye must be born again." This at once implies a higher condition for man, which condition can not be attained only by another birth. This birth, the most of those who read these lines will concede, is the resurrection, when the Spirit of him "who raised up Christ from the dead shall also quicken your mortal bodies by his Spirit that dwelleth in you." But it is forever impossible to be born without previously being begotten. So Christ's words also included this, that ye must be begotten again. The begotten creature must possess in its begettal state the same nature, to be sure immature, that it will possess after birth. Those who with Paul count all things, but loss "if by any means I might attain unto the resurrection of the dead" are anxiously hoping for a "spiritual body," "divine nature." If so, we must have a similar begettal. The time of birth is at the Savior's second appearing; the time of begettal is to-day. "Of his own will begat he us with the Word of truth." Jas. i. 18. "In Christ Jesus I have begotten you through the gospel." 1 Cor. iv. 15. The gospel "is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." Rom. i. 16. As the begettal takes place through a belief in God's truth, THE GOSPEL, and not simply because of sincerity, how great is the importance of searching diligently to know what truth is. Many there are who feel that they would desire to become members of that divine family, but who forget that there is but one mode of begettal, namely, by believing and obeying the divine truth and commandments, regardless of tradition of men.

It is also of vast importance in order to a healthy development, or possibly to a development at all, that the embryo be furnished with nutriment by the parent. Also that such nutriment be assimilated by the embryo. It is also of vast importance while in this state that no undue influences are brought to bear, that no impurities are accepted for assimilation. For it is forever impossible to receive birth, should the begettal relationship be severed for any reason, prior to maturity. The children of God are today only begotten children, assimilating the nutriment that is given us through the Holy Spirit, and developing ready for the great resurrection birth. How important it is that we refuse to be led by the appetites and lusts of the flesh: that we refuse the conceptions prepared by the enemy which are only calculated to kill these unborn children. And, oh solemn thought, once the begettal life destroyed, or a severance from the parent, and no longer the possibility of becoming a child of God. How careful all should be that this new life be not severed in its inception. How closely should the appetites be guarded and controlled. With what a keen eye the tendencies of the disposition be watched. "Behold what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us that we should be called the sons of God. And it doth not yet appear what we shall be, but we know that when he shall appear we shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is." Oh, happy day, when the songs and praises of the new-born children of God shall echo and reverberate throughout his kingdom.

P. L. AUSTIN.

And the Door was Shut.

In the parable of the ten virgins designed by our Master teacher, and illustrate the kingdom of heaven, there are some practical points of deep interest to every true Christian, whether he fully comprehends the lesson in all its bearings or no. Among these we note briefly that the ten virgins must necessarily represent those who have heard, believed and obeyed the gospel, and been freed from past sins, and thereby started out to meet the Bridegroom at his personal coming. Then we note that one class of these virgins are wise, or act wisely by daily replenishing their lamps with oil, or by keeping their faith clear and strong, and their love and hope pure and warm for the return of the Bridegroom—their long absent Master. The other class fails to do their duty, their faith weakens, and their love, zeal, and hope is almost gone, which is a sad but true picture of many of those once enlightened, and who started out full of love and hope to run the race and gain the prize, but when trials came, and their faith and hope were put to the test by the long delay of the Master, and the many cares and snares of this world, they are offended and grow cold and indifferent, hence not prepared and ready to go out and meet the Bridegroom when he comes. And we note that at his coming the door is shut and those foolish virgins are left on the outside, with no assurance of mercy, or admittance to the marriage of the Lamb of God. They come up and knock for admittance, saying Lord, Lord, open to us. But he answered and said, "Verily, I say unto you, I know you not." When the Bridegroom comes, those who are ready—who have made themselves ready will go in with him to the marriage—to, and the door will be shut, while those who have acted foolishly will be left out to see their folly when it is too late. The sad wail of lamentation will then be heard. "The harvest is past, the summer is ended, and we are not saved." John, the Revelator, saw and heard many wonderful things pertaining to the grand transition period. And among other things, "he heard as it were the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of mighty thunderings, saying, Alleluia! for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth. Let us be glad and rejoice, and give honor to him! for the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his wife hath made herself ready."

When a young man goes forth in search of a bride and his ideal one is met, and his proposition is accepted, then the betrothal or marriage contract is mutually made, yet they are not as yet married, but both parties to this contract pledge their fidelity to each other, and the young man bids his intended one good by, saying, "Be faithful, I will come again and receive you unto myself." Time rolls on slowly, yet this intended bride, if she be worthy of the name will forsake others, and keep her pledge and her love inviolate, and will make herself ready and long for the return of her beloved one. Just so every member of the body of Christ has pledged their fidelity to him, and to him alone, and should by all means keep their faith and hope in him, and their love for him and his return warm and strong. And as the time draws near for his return, renew their diligence in preparing and making themselves ready for his return and the marriage ceremony, and to do this they must be found blameless, without spot, wrinkle or any such thing. They must be found clean from all filthiness of body and spirit, free from all worldly alliances that tend to divide the affections and the door will be shut. Are we ready?

T. E. ADAMS.

Old Cairo is changing visibly. By Christmas the electric tramway to the pyramids will be an accomplished fact, and the eight-mile trip—at present so expensive—will be possible for a few cents. Ismail's great causeway will in no way be spoiled, as the rails have been laid right along the side of the avenue, and indeed, are scarcely noticeable.

"Search the Scriptures."

Jesus says, "Search the Scriptures, for in them ye think ye have eternal life, and they are they which testify of me." The Bereans put this advice in practice to satisfy themselves of the truthfulness of the gospel. They rightly concluded if the preaching of Paul agreed with the words of the prophets, then the things he spoke were so. Too many in our day neglect this advice, and the result is sadly disastrous to the correct faith of the gospel. The writer is often charged with giving too much importance to the Old Scriptures, and kindly reminded that they are about all fulfilled, and we have no time to squander in looking up the sayings of the old prophets. They seem to think that God has made an entirely different arrangement for the salvation of man since Christ came and the promises in Christ are not the same as are those made to the fathers, but much more glorious; and in keeping with man's exalted imagination. So they are trying to comfort each other with songs of sentimental nonsense, that do not express any thing real. For instance, "The songs over the Jasper Sea," and "We shall bow before the King somewhere, somewhere." These are so ethereal that they elude my grasp and baffle my conception; and like Noah's dove I have no place to rest my feet, and I pant to be taken back into the ark until the waters of confusion shall have abated. Where has Christ said anything about taking us on a voyage across a "Jasper Sea?" How much comfort can we glean from the indefinite word "somewhere?" Yet this is the kind of pabulum they feast upon when they disdain the real comfort and hope afforded by the Scriptures. What Scripture is it that gives us comfort and hope? I answer the Scriptures that testify of Christ. If the old promises are too gross, so are the new. David says the meek shall inherit the land, and Christ says the meek shall inherit the earth. David says God will set his King on his holy hill of Zion. And the angel of God declares that the Lord will give him the throne of his father David. David says, "I shall be satisfied when I awake in thy likeness." Paul says, "The trumpet shall sound and the dead in Christ shall rise first, and we shall be changed." The change will be into the likeness of the blessed Redeemer, at the same grand awakening. Job declares that his Redeemer will stand in the latter day upon the earth. John testifies that his feet shall stand in that day on Mt. Olives. Daniel sees the kingdom in vision extend under the whole heavens. John is carried forward by the same spirit to the same glorious consummation; when the kingdoms of this world shall have become the kingdom of our Lord, and his Christ. Thus the Old and New Scriptures express the same Good News of salvation through Christ. One Gospel results in producing One faith for the obedience of all nations.

A. B. WIKE.

The Yiddish Translation of the Bible.

"The whole of the Old Testament is now complete and 10,000 copies ready for circulation among the thousands of our brethren of the House of Judah." So writes Marcus Bergmann in the Banner of Israel for May. I have been watching with deep anxiety for this translation of the Bible to come out, and my prayers have been with the dear translator. I rejoice greatly that it has been accomplished and I feel that all the household of faith will rejoice with me; for now, the part of Israel who have been blinded, will have their eyes anointed with eyesalve and will see. O praise the name of the Lord; for he is doing wondrous things in the earth! Two-thirds of the New Testament is completed and is printed. With this translation six or seven million Jews can be reached. "But there are millions of Jews for whom another version is needed in another dialect." Mr. Bergmann has commenced this second translation and has "the Pentateuch ready to put into the printer's hands!" The Lord has given him the means, as needed. We are living in marvelous days. The kingdom, truly is coming.

S. ROXANA WIKE.

Nickel Plate Road Homeseekers' Excursion.

June 7th and 21st, at lowest rates. Tickets to all designated points North-west, West and Southwest, also to designated points in the south. Ask agents. j20

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1898. The cost is only three cents a week.

Obituary

Sarah Appleyard, wife of William Appleyard, died at the home of her son Thomas, at Wall Lake, Ia., May 19, 1898, age 86 years, 9 months and 5 days. Her maiden name was Sarah Camp; she was born at Sowerly, England, Aug. 14, 1811. She married Wm. Appleyard Jan. 15, 1837. It was a perfect and happy union, and and lasted over 61 years.

Four of their children died in infancy; Mary, wife of Thomas Wilson, died in Chicago, in 1872, and three are yet alive. Thomas Appleyard, of Wall Lake, Ia.; John Appleyard, of Odebolt, Ia., and Mrs. Rachel Kinder, of Glen View, Ill. For over 40 years she has been a faithful member of the body of Christ. Her work has been for the good of others. Her life was simple and exemplary, walking in the Spirit, and in the fear of God, full of faith and good works. She will be missed by us all and the burden of sadness falls with especial weight upon her aged companion to whom her counsel, help and faith have grown to be a part of his life. May the God of Israel support him and lead him gently in his declining years.

She was laid to rest in the cemetery at Odebolt, Ia. The Presbyterians kindly gave us the use of their church for the funeral discourse.

A. J. EXCHANER.

James McLeland, a devoted Christian, a member of the Church of God at Burgetts Corner, Ind., was born in Henry Co., Ind., July 12, 1828; moved to White Co., Ind 23 years ago, and died May 12, 1898. He leaves a wife and two children to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate husband and father; but they have one thing to cheer them, and that is, the soon coming of the Savior and the resurrection of the sleeping saints and the living with them, instead of the sighs and groans of the oppressed, the suffering and poor—the songs of redeemed millions shall then ascend and fill our world. These shall roll through heaven's lofty dome, while far-off earth shall catch the sound, and reverberate back the sweetest music ever heard by mortal ears. "The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ, and he shall reign forever and ever." Rev. xi. 15.

Yours in hope of eternal life,

ALBERT M. SPENCER.

Born.

Sunday, May 1st, 1898, at Washougal, Washington, to Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Fike, a daughter. The little one has been named Mywoven Mildred.

V. FIKE.

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing. Said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 20th of April, 1898, providing notice is given through THE RESTITUTION that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all remittances to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 340, Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. S. J. Sigler,	$10.00
J. L. Wince,	5.00
P. L. Austin,	10.00
Edgar Hatch,	1.00
Agnes Dilworth,	2.00
Mrs. Mary E Thompson,	15.00
One who believes that God from little offerings can work out great results.	10.00
A Friend of Truth,	1.00
Mrs. S. A. Wickizer,	5.00
Mrs. A. M. Siple,	10.00
Mrs. Mary J. Riggs.	2.00

Very Low Rates to Denver, Colorado.

Via the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western R'y.) Excursion tickets at exceptionally low rates to Denver and return (with stop-over privileges under certain liberal conditions at the Trans-Mississippi and International Exposition, Omaha, Neb.) will be sold June 2, 4, and 5, account of American Medical Association meeting; and will be sold June 16, 17 and 18, account of meeting of Federation of Women's Clubs, all with favorable return limits. For rates and other information ask your nearest Ticket Agent or write, C. Traver, Marine National Bank Building, Pittsburg, Pa., or W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago, Ill. j1

Virtue is beauty, and vice deformity of the soul.

Send to this office and get a "War Atlas" only 25 cts post-paid.

The Indiana Conference.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:

The time is drawing near to have another meeting at Antioch, commencing Thursday evening, June 9, 1898, and continuing over Sunday. We trust the brethren will feel an interest and put forth an effort to come and partake of the feast of the words of truth, and help to make the meeting to fully serve its purpose, to lend each other up in the most holy faith, and impart strength to withstand the trying times which seem to be so near approaching.

F. L. Austin, Pres.
A. C. Roberts, Sec'y.

PROGRAMME FOR THE INDIANA CONFERENCE.

THURSDAY P. M.

7.00 Song Service.
7.15 Scripture Lesson. Isaac Roberts
7.30 Response. F. L. Austin.
7.45 Sermon. Heb. x. 24, 25. A. B. Zilmer.

FRIDAY A. M.

9.30 Social Meeting led by Geo. W. Smith.
10.30 Report of the Portland, F. C. Myers.
11.30 Meeting Executive Board.

FRIDAY P. M.

1.30 Business Meeting.
2.30 Paper—Upon what things should a Church be united to work harmoniously? A. B. Underwood. followed by discussion.
7.00 Social Meeting led by Wm. Railsback.
7.30 The Ideal Church. Miss Flora Harris.
8.00 What is True Religion? J. F. Wagoner.

SATURDAY A. M.

9.30 S. S. Session led by D. E. Vanvactor.
9.40 Song Service, and Report of S. S. Delegates.
10.00 Relation of the Church to Sunday School. D. E. Vanvactor.
10.15 Song by Plymouth S. S. pupils.
10.20 Relation of the S. S. to Church. J. H. Willey.
10.35 The S. S. as the Nursery of the Church. Mrs. M. J. Price.
10.50 Song by Argos S. S.
10.55 Paper—How can we Encourage and Retain Young People in Church Work? Miss Mattie Benjamin.
11.10 With what Spirit should Young People work in their Religious Societies and by whom should they be led? Mrs. S. R. Wines.

SATURDAY P. M.

1.30 Social Meeting led by A. Drew.
1.45 Bible Study. W. D. Thompson.
2.00 The One Faith. Chas. Fish.
2.35 Our High Priest. F. L. Austin.
7.00 Social Meeting. H. P. Cordill.
7.45 The Hand of God in History, a Gleam of Coming Glory. J. F. Wagoner.

SUNDAY A. M.

9.30 Social Meeting led by J. H. Willey.
10.30 Sermon—Nature of Man, 1st, by Creation; 2nd, by Adoption; 3rd, by Resurrection. A. B. Zilmer.

SUNDAY P. M.

2.30 Communion Service. J. L. Wines.
6.30 Social Meeting led by J. F. Wagoner.
7.30 Second Coming of Christ. F. L. Austin.

It is important that all Sunday Schools appoint delegates, and we hope all will come in the Spirit of the Master. Committee on programme,

J. H. Willey.
D. E. Vanvactor.
A. C. Roberts.

50,000 Copies.

I have lately received from the printer 50,000 copies of my eight-page double-column tract, "The Gospel of the Kingdom." The price of this new edition is exceedingly low,—10 cts per dozen; 50 cts per hundred; $1.00 per thousand. It is a clear and systematic statement of the gospel of the kingdom. Please send orders to Wiley Jones, Manchester, Va.

Guide to Washington, D. C. sent free to Teachers and Tourists.

It contains special information about places of interest, also complete and comprehensive map of the National Capitol, time of through trains to Washington via Pennsylvania Short Lines, and reduced rates over that route for the National Educational Association meeting in July. Just the thing for teachers and everyone going to Washington. Address C. J. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio, inclosing 2 cent stamp. The Guide is worth to you

Announcements.

The Third Quarterly Conference of the Church of God in Nebraska will be held in Furnas County, at the Prine School House, about two miles south of Arapahoe, beginning the Lord willing, on Friday, June 3rd, and holding over Sunday. Come, all who can. Attend this meeting, and help to make it a pleasant and profitable one. We hope that before that time that each congregation will send in its votes for place of holding the conference the coming year.

M. D. Newell, Pres.
Rena Gordon, Sec'y.

Reduced Rates to Various Points via Pennsylvania Lines.

Excursion tickets will be sold via Pennsylvania Lines as indicated in the following paragraphs. Although concessions in fare are authorized for meetings of certain Orders, tickets may be obtained by any person who is a member of the Order or interested in the event. The reduced rates will be open to everybody.

To Dallas, Texas, June 11th and 12th, account meeting of Nobles of Mystic Shrine. Return limit June 28th.

To Toledo, Ohio, June 15th, and 16th, good returning until June 20th, account United Brethren in Christ Church Young People's Annual Convention.

To Louisville, Ky., June 19th and 20th, for Jr. O. U. A. M. National Council Meeting. Return limit June 26th.

To Washington, D. C., July 3d, 4th 5th and 6th, for the National Educational Association Meeting. Good to return July 15th, with privilege to extend return limit until August 31st.

To Chicago, Ill., July 12th and 13th for Young People's Christian Union Universalist Church. Good returning July 21st, with privilege to extend until August 10th.

To Buffalo, N. Y., July 12th 13th, 14th and 15th, good returning until July 19th, with privilege to extend until September 1st, account Baptist Young People's Union International Convention.

To Saratoga, N. Y., August 1st and 2nd, account Young People's Christian Union, U. P. Church. Return limit August 10th, with privilege to extend until August 31st.

To Richmond, Ind., August 19th and 20th, good returning until August 29th, account Society of Friends Conference.

To Cincinnati, Ohio, September 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the G. A. R. National Encampment. Good returning until September 13th, with privilege of extension until October 2d.

To Pittsburgh, Pa., October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th 12th and 13th, good returning until October 17th, account Knights Templar Triennial Conclave. Return limit may be extended until October 31st.

During the excursion season special rates will also be in effect via Pennsylvania Lines for special and local events. For particular information please apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines or address C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.

Special Rates via Vandalia Line.

Indiana University Alumni Reunion at Bloomington, Ind., June 10 and 12. One and one-third fare for Round trip.

For full information inquire of T. A. Downs, Agent.

EXAMINE

The label on your paper, and if it bears a date previous to this time please RENEW NOW. Do not wait for other notice to be sent, but PLEASE RENEW TODAY.

Home Seekers' Cheap Excursions to the West and Northwest.

On May 3, 17, June 7 and 21, the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western Ry) will sell Home Seekers' excursion tickets at exceptionally low rates to a large number of points in Northern Wisconsin, Michigan, Northwestern Iowa, Western Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota, including the famous Black Hills district. Better own a farm! Start now! Apply to nearest ticket agent or address C. Traver, Marine National Bank Building, Pittsburg, Pa., or W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago Ill.

How sweet to work all day for God, and then lie down at night beneath his smile.

Wake service Interesting Sunday re

"Beautiful Winona"—A Delightful Summer Haven.

Winona Lake, Indiana, (formerly Eagle Lake) is an attractive summer haven on the Pennsylvania Lines near Warsaw, Indiana. As the site of Winona Assembly and Summer School, has grown into favor very rapidly. Improvements made on the two hundred acres of romantic woodland which stretches nearly two miles along the eastern shore of Winona Lake, a beautiful sheet of water, include all the comforts and conveniences for a highly enjoyable sojourn. Ample facilities at hand for satisfactory entertainment at reasonable rates at the commodious hotel which adjoins the railway station at the entrances to the grounds, in cozy cottages, or in tents as may be preferred.

Persons who may desire to combine relaxation, entertainment and instruction with rest and recreation will find Winona Lake the ideal spot to enjoy all three, both mind and body by innocent entertainment and study and health-giving recreation. The educational work of the Summer Schools is in charge of well known instructors. The college halls are equipped with all required paraphernalia; the large auditorium, in which the assembly meets, and in which prominent lecturers are heard during the season, has a seating capacity of over 3,000. An amphitheatre, race track and other facilities for athletic pastimes are provided. The boating, bathing and bathing are fine, the lake free of bottle being of the best.

The sessions of 1898 will open May 15th. Commencing on that date excursion tickets with fifteen day limit will be on sale via Pennsylvania Lines. They may be obtained during May, June, July and August. The sale of season excursion tickets will begin June 1st, and continue daily until September 30th. Season excursion tickets will be good returning until October 31st.

Full information about the attractions at "Beautiful Winona," its Assembly and Summer School, etc., will be cheerfully furnished all who address Mr. Sol. C. Dickey, Secretary, Winona Lake, Ind. Inquiries about excursion rates, time of trains, etc., should be addressed to Passenger and Ticket Agents of the Pennsylvania Lines, or to F. Van Dusen, Gen'l Assistant General Passenger Agent, Pittsburg, Pa.—may 30.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have four names inserted free.

J. O. Stevens, St. Lawrence Mound, Mo.
S. B. Caldwell, Beaumont, Texas.
P. B. Stratton, Bryant, Iowa.
B. W. A. M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. M. Overholtzer, Galesburg, Mich.
Norton Goold, 1810 Spruce St., Chandler, Neb.
Dr. J. L. Hoss, Abilene, Kan.
A. G. Wolfenbarger, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Goodchild, 156 Broadway, Elmore, Ohio.
W. L. Steele, Selma, Ohio.
E. Hoyt, Box 981, Grand Rapids, Mich.
S. Roxana Wines, Peru, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Heath, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
A. S. Hatch, Spiceland, Ind.
J. W. Niles, Edinboro, Pa.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Chicasaw, Ark.
J. J. Cady, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prime, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eschemer, Shallbrook, In.
W. L. Winston, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Evan, 1507, S. N. St., Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Glenn, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hull, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Comer, Sebel, Ill.
B. F. Boger, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Osawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Avoca, Kan.
D. M. Bedlow, Mercantile, Iowa.
J. G. Rampf, Linard, Neb.
J. B. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, Ont., Can.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Jessup, In.
Mollie Gabrecht, W. R. C., Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
D. T. Baker, Box 1083, Decorah, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Cottonwood, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Marmont, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave., Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Stout, Petaluma Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 11, Viola, Idaho.
Elder R. M. Williams, Portland, Kan.
B. Wilson, 1905 G St., Sacramento, Cal.
D. T. Bakstead, Roseclare, Ind.
John Coons, 2042 West Corning Ave., Pasadena, Kansas.
R. S. Owiggins, Roseclare, Ind.
J. C. Mitchell Crowley, I...
Miss Emma Jackson, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 384 Grand Rapids, Mich.

Cheap Rates via Vandalia.

The G. A. R. National Encampment at Cincinnati, O., Sept. 5th to 10th.

The Supreme Lodge of Knights of Pythias Uniform Rank Encampment at Indianapolis, September 7th to 10th.

For full information inquire of the Vandalia Agent.

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor. Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. Sunday School 12:30 p. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Wood Place Ave. Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth cordially invited. Saints love. M. Jolliffe, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner Paulina St. and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., one block south of the depot. Preaching on the 1st Sunday in each month at 11 a. m. Sunday School every Sunday at 10 a. m. Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Sabbath [illegible] every Sabbath at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday School at 9:30 a. m. [illegible] will be glad to welcome all who may be in the city. Elder A. Baker's residence, 1214 W. Baker St.

The Church of God, in Anderson, Ind., holds services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Mills Hall. Anderson is on the line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R. going west to Aberdeen, thirty miles distant.

The Church of God, in Fairhaven, Wash., meets every Sunday at the Free Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Service at [illegible] every two weeks. We have no regular pastor. Jason Walton, Sr., and Sarah Schick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Grimes's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

Church of the Blessed Hope, West Salem, Wash., Yakima County, meets in public school house every Sunday morning at 10:00 o'clock. Brethren known to be in good standing properly endorsed by introductory letter, will be heartily welcomed. We meet in the School House on Capt. Jo. Hill's ranch, one mile west, on an electric car line from Seattle.

The brethren of the Church of God at Black Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Preaching at 11:00 when prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Kyle, Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton, O., c.

The Church of God at Richmond, Ind., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthon, Elder.

The Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Beaver Hall, on Willoughby Ave., near Broadway.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Iowa, every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eschenburg. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The church of God at Fisher and Burton, Mich., meet regularly for worship at Bro. Asa Sisler's. Worcester, Ohio, is nearest R. R. station. The brethren of God at Peady and Pickle Grove, Mich., have preaching every four weeks, and Sunday School at Pickle Grove every Sunday. The Gospel at Rock Creek is presided over by Brother L. C. Hines.

The congregation at Scotts, Oregon, meet every Sunday and Bible study by a series of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trusdell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y., meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the Kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Lewis E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon, accompanied by Elders W. L. Shedd and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Ont., meet at the Advance on the above, one and one-half miles north-east of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet Twice a month for the purpose of breaking bread and social services, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth meet with us. Services at 2 o'clock p. m. Lizzie Woods, Winterrode, Ill., Sec.

The Church of God at Waterville, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Mountain view School House, near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Corbaley, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Belavia, N. Y., meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sundays at 3:00 p. m. for worship in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Gover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich., have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Robinson Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us.

The Church of God at Orion, Ill., meet every Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Cordially yours, Grace Mackamore.

The Church of God at Alta, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Alta on [illegible] the 2nd and 4th Sabbaths of each month at 10 o'clock. Isa. Albert Sears, S. L. Oliver, Pastor.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flat School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles west of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night and 10:00 A. M. Sunday, a Children's Meeting. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Pastor, Box 547, Caldwell, Kansas.

Presents for Friends.

Thursday offer until further notice to one [illegible] of The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt binding, fifth edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Seven Words;" one set Early Lessons, and one of Morning Lessons, all for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

Wiley Jones, Manchester, Va.

All trains arrive at and depart from the Union Passenger Station, Van Buren & Sherman Sts. Uniformed Colored Porters assist 1st and second class passengers on Nickel Plate trains, in either baggage, [illegible]

[illegible]

Pennsylvania Lines.
Schedule of Passenger Trains, Central Time.

[illegible]

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

VANDALIA TIME CARD
In effect May 23, 1898.
Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.:

[illegible]

No. 6, [illegible]
No. 14, [illegible]
No. 8, [illegible]

[illegible]

No. 21, [illegible]
No. 3, [illegible]
No. 15, [illegible]

[illegible]

Books and Tract List.

A LETTER TO A FRIEND.

To friends of the Covenants or Promise, an [illegible] than the one hope, one faith, one God, &c., by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. Many of our readers already know of the good that has been accomplished through its circulation. Ten cents each.

FUTURE PROBATION.

[illegible] copy of Dr. Weighton's 64 page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Monteith. We have a good supply and will send them post paid for ten cents per copy.

[illegible]

The [illegible] 32 to 48 pages, and [illegible] of a work to run many years, [illegible] complete. Subscription price [illegible] $1.00

[illegible]

A [illegible] by J. W. Lewis. The clearly sets [illegible] will be the subject of [illegible] Palestine, with [illegible] 20 pages. Price [illegible] 25 cts.

Necessity of Baptism. Written some years [illegible] Mr. Ferguson. It is good. Also, [illegible] Sabbath question. [illegible] Seventh or Lord's portion.

Sabbath Tracts. Proper Use of Property.—Seventh portion of the Law of Moses, [illegible] Sabbath, by H. V. Reed of Antioch, [illegible] 8 pages, 5 cents, or 50 cts per hundred.

Practical Christian Union. [illegible] Methods by W. H. Wilcox, Rock Island, [illegible] 16 pages, 5 cents, or 50 cts per dozen.

Spiritual Gifts. 32 pages. They are Bible [illegible] sent to the [illegible]. A 32-page [illegible] Dozen per dozen, 40 cts. A discount on this price will [illegible] 5 cts.

Do [illegible] Steps. This represents [illegible] Gospel [illegible] Ten cents per dozen.

The Wicked Dead or Plain Truths. The Unconditional. 2 pages for 1 cent.

Angel Messages. Word of God" by H. V. Reed. [illegible] Dozen, 25 cts each, or 15 for 25 cts.

Address, Publishing House, Plymouth, Ind.

Popular Lectures by M. Jolliffe.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory, and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Jolliffe, entitled: "The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Jolliffe, 624 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, O.

Aids to Bible-Study and Mission-Work.

1. The gospel of the Kingdom, advocated in a series of Ten discourses. A volume of 283 pages. Cloth 25c, a Leather-board beautifully embossed and gilt edged $1.00. 2. Twelve Words or the true meanings of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as gathered from their uses in the Holy Scriptures. A tract of 40 pages 10cts a copy. Intended as a substitute for and an improvement on the same writer's Key-Words. 3. The gospel of the Kingdom. An 8 page double column tract 10cts. per dozen; 75cts. per hundred. 4. Who are Led by the Spirit? A 4 page tract 25cts per hundred. 5. Seeking and Finding. A 4-page tract 25cts. per hundred. 6. Honouring the Son. An 8-page tract 25cts per dozen. 7. Early Lessons. 30 pages 10cts. copy. Suitable for old or young.

Written and for sale by Wiley Jones, Manchester, Va.

Notice.

Will our friends please remember that we do not have the books and tracts at this office that are advertised by Brother Jolliffe, or Brother Wiley Jones. Do not send to this office for them, but send to their address as given in the advertisement. This will save both trouble and delay. PLEASE REMEMBER.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL OF THE PEOPLE

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
W. D THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents, Three Months 40 Cents.

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, JUNE 8, 1898. NUMBER 23.

Poetry.

When Jesus Comes.

When Jesus comes, then peace will reign
From Iceland's hills to Afric's plain,
From Europe to far India's land,
Peace, perfect peace, will then attend.

And when the last one passes off the sod,
When Satan's used that biggest word,
Then one, will dwell the blessing, peace,
Not one, one place, not in creation.

O our Lord, that day we long to see,
When all earth's tempests silent will be,
For which then feel, we now to pray,
And with one voice, Lord, oh, come each day.

O may we, as we [illegible]
Till then Thy grace us daily breed,
With heavenly light thy children guide,

That we, the gladd'ning, "Well done"
To Jesus, hasten, the free,
That precious, opening morn to see!

E. R. BOYER.

Communicated.

Papers by our Young People of Kansas.

The subject of these papers was "The Signs of the Times," and was subdivided as follows:

CHRIST PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE.

This is a supreme and grand subject, a subject not for one people or age, but for all peoples and all ages. Our attention is naturally called to Christ's early life, eighteen hundred years ago, when Jesus of Nazareth went through the regions of Galilee Samaria and Judea, healing the sick, cleansing the lepers and preaching the Gospel of the Kingdom of God.

The birth of Christ was foretold in several of the prophecies. Isaiah says in speaking to the Church, "Be strong fear not, behold your God will come with vengeance, even God with recompence, he will come and save you. Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped. And the parched ground shall become a pool and the thirsty land springs of water."

Much has been written of Jesus, who was born in the manger of Bethlehem. We can almost portray the character of Christ from a letter written by one of the Roman governors as it was their custom to keep the government well posted on all important events. It reads thus. "Conscript fathers. There appeared among us a man of great virtue named Jesus Christ, who is now living among us. The Gentiles accepted him as a prophet of truth; but his disciples call him the Son of God. He raiseth the dead and cureth all diseases. He is a man of stature, tall and comely, with a very reverend countenance that beholders both love and fear; his hair is the color of a filbert fully ripe, and his eyes are gray, clear and quick. None have ever seen him laugh; but many have seen him weep."

History says, Christ was named Jesus because, he shall save his people from their sins. Jesus which is anointed, is his Christian name, and Christ is only a title.

Prophetic history tells us that the year (Christian era) and the month and the day (Christmas) when the child Jesus was born, are matters of more or less uncertainty, not having been recorded with precision at the time; but the most important features in the life of Christ are narrated in the four evangelists who are acknowledged as inspired.

When Jesus was only twelve years old we read of him conversing with the learned men of the day, and being asked why he did so, replied. "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?" When Jesus was about thirty years old, he came forth from obscurity, in which he had hitherto resided at Nazareth. Having sought and obtained baptism of John, with divine recognition as the Son of God; he then addressed himself to his life work in the world. He claimed to be the Messiah spoken of by the Holy men of old, yet more, to be in one sense the subordinate, and [illegible] the equal of his Sovereign. For Christ chose twelve apostles, afterward seventy other disciples to aid him in his ministry, the former baptizing converts as they arose.

Christ continued his ministry about three years at Capernaum and about Galilee. He supported his claims to be the Messiah by his great miracles, such as healing the sick, and raising the dead. The chief priests and other dignitaries, who held sway in the Jewish synagogues, were stirred nearly to madness by jealousy of his success. They eagerly sought the offer of an unworthy apostle Judas Iscariot, to betray his Lord.

A manufactured charge of blasphemy led to the condemnation of Jesus by his deadly foe, the high priest, but the power of life and death now rested not with the Jewish authorities, but with the Roman Governor Pontius Pilate. A charge of his disaffection to the imperial government was next laid against him; but as the Romans were heathens, they attached no weight to the alleged blasphemy.

But the cry, "crucify him" arose from the multitude, and to avoid unpopularity at the expense of moral principle, the sentence was given as the Jews desired it. And the nefarious deed was accomplished; but in three days after news was brought that a resurrection had taken place.

About forty days after this he blessed his disciples and told them to make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and Son, and it came to pass that while he blessed them, he was carried up into heaven.

Christ predicted his cruel death, his resurrection and his ascension, also his future return to earth in power and glory. Had the princes of the earth known Christ, they would not have crucified him. Even though they knew him not, they glorified him. Christ was always meek and humble, the perfect example for mankind. He came to call the sinners but not the righteous to repentance.

We sometimes are questioned concerning Christ at the present, but Matt. xxii. explains this clearly, "Behold, I see the heavens open and the Son of Man standing on the right of God;" and again we read, "Wherefore in all things it behooved him to be made like unto his brethren, that he might be a merciful and faithful high priest in all things pertaining to God, to make reconciliation for the sins of the people: for we have not a high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities, but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin. Let us therefore come boldly to the throne of grace, that we may get mercy to help in time of need." It is a beautiful thought that Christ is making intercession for his people.

Jesus was in the fullest sense what he claimed to be, the Son of Man, the perfect pattern for all men in all ages, and under all circumstances. Every great question of the age stands in close relation with this revelation in time. He was the prophet, he is the priest and we are watching for him to fulfill the prophecy and be King upon this earth. John xiv., "And if I go to prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto myself, that where I am, there ye may be also." Acts i. 11, "This same Jesus which you see taken from you shall come in like manner."

When Jesus appeared on earth, mankind stood on the brink of destruction. The best men of that time knew of no help. Inasmuch as matters could go no farther they looked for the end of the world, despairing of humanity. The outlook was hopeless. The statesmen, philosophers, artists and poets saw the misery in the world and sought to relieve it, but all in vain.

Then came Jesus with the outfulfillness of his moral power, and as the only Deliverer, and through his simple Word of truth, he destroyed more of the old, and called into being more of the new than all the statesmen of Rome and philosophers of Greece combined. Without weapons and armies he has conquered more millions than Alexander, Cæsar and Napoleon.

Today humanity is drifting into the same condition as it was at the birth of Christ. And the Bible teaches us that Christ will again be the Righteous Deliverer.

Judas said after betraying Christ "I have betrayed innocent blood" and Pilate washed his hands in the presence of the people saying, "I find no fault in this man." Even Herod clothed him in a white robe as a symbol of innocence.

If to us Jesus is no imposter or [illegible] tic, then what is he? He cannot be other than that which he gave himself out to be, the Messiah of the Jews, the foretold of the prophets and the Saviour of the world. In speaking of the future judgment, Christ says, "He will set the sheep on the right hand and the goats on the left and the King shall say to those on the right hand, 'Come ye blessed of my father inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world, and to those on the left, Depart from me, I never knew you." Christ has been appointed heir of all things and is called the Son of his own house, whose house are we, if we hold fast in confidence and hope until the end.

Jude says, "Behold the Lord cometh with ten thousand of his saints to execute judgment upon all and to convince all that are ungodly."

We are looking for Christ to come in glory as prophesied in Matt. with his holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory. Rev. v. 9, "Then shall they sing a new song saying, Thou art worthy to take the book and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people and nation. And hast made us unto our God kings and priests, and we shall reign upon the earth."

"He comes, no royal vesture wearing,
An humble beast the Monarch bearing:
Receive thy King, Jerusalem!
Go forth with palms, his triumph showing,
With branches green the pathway strewing,
And shout hosannas to his name.

O Sovereign, by no host attended!
Holy Champion, by no spear defended!
O Prince of Peace, and Son of Man!—
Thy throne, from whose approach forever
The kings of earth thy step would sever,
Is by thee, without battle, Won.

Into the empire thou first founded,
Though not of earth, nor by earth bounded,
All earthly realms shall subject be.
Forth into every land and nation,
Thy servants, armed with thy salvation,
March to prepare a way for thee.

And at thy coming, clothed with power,
The sullen storm forgets to lower,
And waves grow calm beneath thy tread;
The hearts by man's rebellion blighted,
In a new covenant, are united,
And sin and death in fetters led.

O Lord of grace and truth unending,
And love all words of thought transcending,
Revisit us, so sorely tried!
Thine advent once again is needed,
To form anew thy peace, imbreeded
By worldly haughtiness and pride.

Oh, let thy light, which never shall vanish,
From earth the power of darkness banish!
The lurid flames of discord quell;
That we, the thrones and people loyal,
As brethren 'neath thy sceptre royal,
In thy great Father's house may dwell.

MARY I. BARBER.

(To be Continued.)

For Our Children.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
WILLEY,
THOMPSON,
RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD,
CONTRIBUTOR.

8, 1898.

inspiration could be given to an audience than to listen to the clear words with which they express their appliness in that they have so long been in the work of the Master, and their determination to labor on the plane of the course. On Saturday we took dinner at the home of our aged Sister "Grandma" Woodward. She is over 90 years old and very feeble, yet with mind clear as ever. Bro. Crozier called the attention of the guests to the bible and announced that where we were sitting was sacred—the very first words of the "gospel of the kingdom" ever after Christ, men and women ambition of being founders of Churches or communities, have claimed to be divinely inspired,—and observation teaches us that the so-called christian religious world fails to see that all such claims upon virtual acknowledgement that the Bible does not teach what has been miraculously made known to them.

Are we not to find that the gospel of Christ is God's saving power? Are we not assured that the Scriptures are able to make us wise unto salvation? Does not Jesus pray that his disciples instructed them in the commandments of God and, as early as 1844 nearly the entire church in that place, consisting of about forty persons, became observers of the Sabbath of the Lord. ...From this place several Advent ministers received the Sabbath truth during the year 1844." Here the history of the Sabbath Question among the Adventists is clearly given and strange as it may seem, this History of the Sabbath by Andrews comes from the same publishing house, at Battle Creek, Michigan,—as those containing the statements that the "Great new light upon the Sabbath question" was revealed from heaven in vision to Mrs. Ellen White.

[It is impossible to finish the copy sent by Brother Iublin for this paper. Friends will please to see that it ends abruptly, and connect next week's with this.—ED.]

Our Love Feast.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

I wish to say to you, especially the isolated ones, that I for one am trying to walk in the strait and narrow way every day, and to be an example for those with whom we have to do. It is my desire to let my light shinebv word and deed in this dark part of the veld. I do rejoice to know that some darkness has been broken in my immediate vicinity. My faith grows stronger every day. I love the doctrine of the gospel of the kingdom. I cannot afford to do without THE RESTITUTION. I love to read the letters of the brothers and sisters, these words are dear to me, coming from the hearts of those I love. I am so thankful that we have such able defenders of the truth as Bro. W. H. Wilson, Bro. Joblin and Bro. Wagoner, and many more whom I would like to mention, but space forbids. Dear brothers and sisters, they cannot bear all the burden alone. We must help them in the fight if we expect to share with them in the victory. The Savior tells us we must suffer with him, if we expect to reign with him. Let us rejoice in persecution and press on in our high calling, earnestly contending for the faith. How thankful we all ought to be, dear readers, of THE RESTITUTION that have no preaching, that we can take our paper, so full of light and truth, and go to the blessed Word of God, and ponder over the blessed promises he has made to them that overcome, and he has promised us in Heb. xiii. 5, that he will never leave us or forsake us. With such promises as these I want to keep right on in the Master's cause. I ask an interest in your prayers that I may be found faithful, that when the Lord comes I may, with you all, gain an entrance into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

May God help us to be faithful is the prayer of your Brother in Christ.

A. W. HELL.

Dear Restitution:

I can't get along without the paper, there is so much in it to encourage one to be faithful; and oh, how much we patience need in these troublous times, and may the good Lord increase our faith and give us patience to endure until the end, is my prayer.

From your Sister in the one hope,
MRS. E. F. MCLENTHAN.

Dear Bro. Underwood:

A few words to the love feast. I think this cruel war is a horrible thing, and I hope the Savior will come and end all the trouble. Good by to all the brothers and sisters,

MRS. R. C. ELLIOTT.

Dear Restitution.

As the day is drawing nigh when "the Son of Man shall appear in the clouds of heaven, with power and the deception practiced by that Wicked One upon our mother Eve. How can we believe that the curse of death, which is the result of the Devil's lie, shall be removed, and still not believe that all the balance of the curse shall also be taken away. For what purpose was Christ sent into the world? Was it not for the purpose of counteracting and removing the evil which was brought upon the human family, and upon old mother earth herself, by the wrongful acts of Satan? That is certainly a part of his mission. Will he fail to accomplish all for which he came? He will not, every vestige of the curse will be removed. All who are faithful will very soon have the opportunity of witnessing the commencement of the fulfillment of the prophecies relating to the "restitution" of all things.

Dear Old Friend, Thou hast been telling us these things from week to week and from year to year, for many, many long years. Thy messages have been messages of love good tidings from the Captain of our salvation. Thou hast told us that there was a way that leadeth unto life and thou hast marked out the way, and hast taught us how to walk therein.

May the light that thou hast caused to shine upon the way never grow dim, until the Master shall say "it is enough."

R. S. DONOHOE.

Dear Restitution.

I must acknowledge the high appreciation we have of the grand old RESTITUTION. It edifies, encourages and strengthens us. Bro. S. R. Clinkenbeard has been quite sick; he is now convalescing. He has the courage of his convictions and is wielding the Sword of the Spirit successfully. He and I desire an interest in the prayers of the saints.

T. C. BLAKEY.

Communicated.

"Save a Soul from Death."

If the soul be immortal it cannot die, and needs no salvation, and cannot be saved. Yet the Apostle James virtually says it can and will die, if not converted and turned from its evil way, hence not immortal. ch. v. 20. The Bible says in so many words —"The soul that sinneth, it shall die." Ezek. xviii. 4. Popular orthodoxy says—"The soul is immortal and cannot die." Which will you believe, God or man? Let God be true, though every man be a liar. "His Word is truth." To die is to lose life, to expire, to cease to live; it is the opposite of life. Proof—"Thou shalt die and not live." Man dies and wastes away. "If a man die shall he live again?" Bible, Adam, the first human soul, was made of dust, and because he rejected the truth, and believed a lie—a false doctrine, and sinned, returned to dust again, "Dust thou art and unto dust shalt thou return." Blind orthodoxy seeks to save immortal souls, that are so very fine, thin and small, they can neither see or be seen, heard or touched. Oh, what a lonely place heaven would be if it were filled with such souls. Such souls are simply pagan fairy stories or fables. And the Bible provides no salvation for such souls, and they need none. And the masses of good meaning men and women are simply wasting their time, talent and means in trying to save such souls. Oh, what an absurd and silly mission for intelligent men and woman to engage in.

The Bible make provision for the salvation of evil men and women who have sinned and forfeited life, and need salvation, but not for immortal souls as they are not known in the Bible. But the worst of all, and the most blasphemous part of this pagan doctrine is—that all the multiplied millions of these little, tiny immortal, immaterial souls are but parts and parcels of the Great God himself, severally divided and sub-divided, and entrusted to every human being in the universe, who is made sponsor for its education, training and salvation under penalty of eternal torture of both soul and body in that awful orthodox hell. Just think of it, God himself divided up into millions of immortal souls and sent to hell torments, simply because he would not reform and do right, and the poor frail body could not reform him!!! Tremendous orthodoxy this, gone crazy, my brethren.

T. E. ADAMS.

LET every dawn of morning be as the beginning of life, and every setting of the sun be to you as the close: then let every one of these short lives leave its record of some kindly thing done for others, some goodly strength or knowledge gained for yourself.

The Battle-Axe of God.

"There shall be wars and rumors of wars." We are again embroiled in what may grow into a very terrible and bloody struggle. This time with one of the great powers of Europe. We cannot know the outcome. There are indications of an alliance being formed between this country and Great Britain. This would be called properly an Anglo-American Alliance. And would in fact embrace all the English-speaking people. And though it cannot be claimed that the two nations referred to are Christian, in any high spiritual sense, yet there is absolutely no true Christianity outside of these. They contain the germ, the leaven that is to lead up to the grand outcome, when all nations shall cease to war and learn righteousness subject to the King of kings. This is suggestive at least that this mighty people of all others are chosen of God as his battle-axe, to drive the nations into line of the great purposes to God soon to be consummated wherein the royal Son of David shall be constituted the Governor among the nations. If this be in the line of truth, we may rest the result of the struggle with Spain in the hands of him who orders all things according to his own wise counsel. I do not wish to be understood as saying that God has chosen any nation to do the work appointed to his Son, but I do say in the light of his revealed Word that some nation is already selected to break up and disintegrate the existing Gentile powers preparatory to the recovery of Emmanuel's land to its rightful owners. We are plainly told that God will make the enemies of his Son the footstool of his feet. God's Word has found a safe conservatory among this people and no others. I look in vain to find any other people even approximately carrying out the work designed for Israel in the last days except Anglo-American.

A. B. WINCE.

Professor Kostlin has recently revealed a secret that has been sacredly kept since 1892. In that year a couple of masons, employed at the repairs of the Schloss-Kirche at Wittenberg, dug to a depths of seven feet and accidently discovered the remains of Luther's coffin, consisting of a ruinous mass of wood and metal, but still containing the dust of the great reformer. The bones were in a fair state of preservation, but every trace of clothing and ornaments had disappeared.—Intelligencer.

A broken and contrite heart unlocks all inward senses, and makes us see and hear and feel the things which could no more be seen, heard, or felt before. Then a man is a clear-sighted man, hear, see and feel the things that are said and done about him.

The Israelite had no doubt of his healing as long as he looked to the brazen serpent, for he felt it going on, nor will the soul doubt of his acceptance with God so long as it looks to Christ.—John Angel James.

Hooker: Every good and holy desire, though it may lack the form, hath in itself the substance and force of a prayer with God, for he regards as prayer the meanings and sighings of the heart.

Pride is an extravagant opinion of our worthiness; vanity is an inordinate desire that others should share that opinion.

As to be perfectly just is an attribute of the Divine nature, to be so to the utmost of our abilities is the glory of man.

W. M. Pomeroy: When I think of the agencies which are ceaselessly at work to make this bad world better, I am thankful that I live.

It is, after all, the person who stakes the least, who loses most. In the affections this is wholly true. He who risks nothing loses nothing.

Wherever you go, endeavor to carry with you a sense of God's presence, his holiness, and his love; it will preserve you from a thousand snares.

We cannot conquer fate and necessity, yet we can yield to them in such a way as to be greater than if we could.

Man has created by writing an artificial memory, more faithful, more durable, more credible than natural memory.

Habit is a cable. We weave a thread of it every day, and at last we cannot break it.

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1898. The cost is only three cents a week.

Poetry.

Everybody's Garden.

All along the wayside is everybody's garden!
There the wild rose blossoms through the summer days;
Ramparded by thrift-hedges, fever-stretching outward,
Every child's own garden for it gives him pause;
'Tis gay with golden-rod,
Pure blooms grasses nod,
And mallows small and yellow burn over in the sun:
Quaint daisy-heads abound,
And chicory tall and fair,
In everybody's garden each flower's the best of all and one!

All along the ways is everybody's garden!
Come out and gather posies; the very air is sweet,
Come out with hearts of gladness, ye big and little children,
Into our Father's garden made for our strolling feet.
The flitting butterfly,
The fragrant winds that sigh,
Passing clouds that hover above us in the blue,
The birds—oh, hi, hi and see,
Make heaven draw nearer to us
In everybody's garden the world's no more to you!

Selected.

A Glance at the World.

Thrones are tottering, old world monarchies are trembling in the balance, say the exiles. The great armed entente on which will flutter Europe is thought by many to be close at hand. A British republic is even spoken of as one of the political possibilities of the times. Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, may be the last King of England. The celebration of Queen Victoria's 79th birthday and the sixty-first year of her reign, which closes June 20, may be followed by an abdication, a coronation, and another abdication by Albert Edward, King of Great Britain and Emperor of India, and the proclamation of a mighty British republic. Then, indeed, the thrones of Europe would speedily fall and rotten monarchial systems, based upon repression of human liberty, would be disintegrated and destroyed for all time to come.

A tremendous influence has been exerted upon European politics by the war between the United States and Spain. The outcome of the conflict is of vast and momentous importance to the old world, yet the great union of free new world States hardly feels that a war is in progress. The American war spirit is not yet fully aroused, nor is it likely to be unless foreign interference should occur. The latter contingency is one which the closest students of European complications and interests declare is highly improbable. But where powder is ready to be burned a spark may set it off. Spain is playing desperately to bring about an intermeddling policy. Many of the strong powers move their action at first would in all probability take the form of "friendly intervention," but if it should be of a character that must be resented by the United States serious complications might ensue that would lead to no one knows where.

Certain it is that the present war completes the isolation and impoverishment of Spain and gives wings to the grand specter of famine which hovers over that misgoverned nation. Spain is reported to have quieted down. It is the quiet of desperation subsided to gloom. The Spaniards await their fate stoically. Italy has also been quieted by the exertion of military force. The bread riots and insurrections set by women throughout that country were attributed directly to the effects of the American-Spanish war. Industrial and economical conditions, the markets of all continental countries have been affected, to the loss and ruination of scores of men of wealth and influence, who are now filled with resentment toward the great nation of the Western continent which enters with its accumulated wealth and power upon a modern crusade for human liberty. Agitators, prejudiced and hair-brained, communicate this resentment to the masses. It is the people, kept in ignorance and servility to the military power of the thrones, who fail to profit by the object lesson of the resources of the United States and the influence of the policies of this country upon the destinies of the population of Europe. It was the people, not the government of the United States, who demanded that Spain be brought to book for her centuries of crimes against freedom and humanity in the new world; it is the people, not the governments of Europe, who believe, like the harmful and ignorant Spaniards, that the military power, which they have been so unscrupulously taxed to create, is sufficient to warrant interference and put an end to the war.

The most significant feature of the situation from the standpoint of the governments is the talk of new alliances. They all have been so busy repressing Parliaments and constitutional liberty and in grabbing foreign territory from weak peoples of the earth that the sudden entrance of the United States into the armed arena of the world comes as an unwelcome surprise to their plans and operations. Spain now endeavors to incite Austria and through Austria Germany, and Franz Josef waits expectantly for the Kaiser to take the initiative. The cheap boulevard scribblers of Paris advise France to make an alliance with her hated enemy, Germany, against the invident United States. Official organs of the governments give him that Russia would join in the "friendly overtures" except for the fear of losing the friendship of the United States and aiding in bringing about an alliance between Great Britain and America. The English people as a nation, quite friendless and isolated in Europe, appear to be not unwilling to enter an extensive and defensive alliance with "the States," over this possibility, given new significance by the arming of the United States. Father becomes more mercurial and excited; the Kaiser frowns and is careful; Russia hobs about in strict neutrality. But the Czar and his advisers know the value of England as an ally in war. They cannot have forgotten how England went back on the alliance with Russia against Napoleon when the latter by his embargoes on English commerce drove the British to send an army to assist in accomplishing the downfall of the dictator. Italy and Austria are kept too busy with their own unhappy internal affairs to venture to take the initiative in any movement for overt interference. If Austria should move she will be confronted with the Polish question and the possible formation of a great Slav republic between the borders of Austro-Germany and Russia. Neither Kaiser nor Czar relishes this possibility, nor is Russia likely to provoke a costly world war which would leave her despoiled of long-coveted and only recently gained possessions. The republican spirit of Italy has always been friendly to the cause of free Poland, and revolution in Italy would mean the formation of a new republic in central Europe as well. Roumania, Bulgaria, and the Balkan States are constantly disturbed, either through internal troubles or the encroachments of the Turk. Roumanians do not forget that Russia sacrificed their army at Plevna, and had it not been for the overwhelming power of Russia on her northern border she would long ago have entered a republic or federation of the states to the south.

With her vast military force engaged in an unpopular cause abroad Germany would almost inevitably become confronted with a social revolution at home. The people who compose the real backbone of France are lovers of liberty and friends of the United States and of the cause of the oppressed Cubans. In France it is only the rabble and the venal journalists of Paris, who howled for the conviction of Dreyfus and the sacrifice of Zola, that are influenced by emissaries of Spain and express sympathies paid for by the holders of Spanish bonds. Sweden and Norway, rivals for governmental and military control one over the other, are both out of the question as factors in any movement of interference. Belgium, alternately coquetting with France and Germany, is torn with industrial uprisings, and is too small and confined to be reckoned with. Portugal, decayed and somnolent, is ready to fall into the arms of a republic that Spain through revolution may be forced to create. The first cousins of the Dons have been in the mood to welcome such a change since Brazil threw off the yoke of empire and exiled Dom Pedro to the mother country. The only peaceful countries in Europe are Switzerland and Holland, the former already a republic or federation, and the latter dominated by the Dutch spirit of trade, and unpatriotic except in sympathy for the continued independence of "Oom Paul" in the Hinterland.

But Spain, through church and dynastic influences and intrigues, seeks to stir any European government to overt acts, hoping in the general turmoil sure to ensue to escape the infliction of the penalty she has so richly earned at the hands of a peace-loving and outraged people and to present revolution, the overthrow of the monarchy, and possible vassalage and dismemberment. The American question is not the predominant one in all the councils of Europe. Joseph Chamberlain in his recent speech in England favoring a British-American alliance struck the keynote of the fears of all the European governments. It was followed by a storm of inquiries in the disturbed councils of the Czar, in the German Reichstag, in the Austrian Parliament, in the French Chamber of Deputies, in the Italian Chamber, and even in the British house of Commons. The world was startled with the open announcement of a possibility so pregnant with far-reaching influences and results. The open bid of English statesmen presented the power and commanding position of the United States in a new light. But with or without an alliance the material interests of all European countries—their commerce and the stomachs of their people—present an insurmountable barrier against provoking war with the United States. It could only be brought about inadvertently. If the German Consul at Manila had been a trifle more pig-headed and stubborn and had assisted in conveying food to the beleaguered city with German warships and Admiral Dewey had fired upon those ships, as he threatened to do, what then? The cutting of cables involves a grave question of international right between neutrals, and yet the cables have been cut. If German ships had been riddled or sunk would the haughty and high-spirited German war lord have seized upon the event as a pretext for armed intervention? Would France, possibly Russia, join him and thus give cause and incentive for the much talked of Anglo-American alliance? Such an alliance, if accomplished, would cover the waters of the globe with navies and place 20,000,000 armed allies in the field, and at the close of the conflict one phase of the European question would be settled. There would be no monarchies, save perhaps Russia; the rest would be republics.

Throughout the field of speculation and possibilities one fact is predominant. The United States has suddenly become one of the recognized great powers to be reckoned and settled with in the armed arbitrary division of the earth which European military powers have undertaken. The possibility and probable outcome of an offensive and defensive alliance of 80,000,000 of Americans, including Canadians, with England and her colonies creates a situation of sufficient importance to cause the armed and intolerant powers to pause and reflect. Particularly is the view of such an alliance ominous when it is considered that it would have the friendship, if not the active participation of Japan, destined to become the most important naval power in the Pacific, as England is in Europe, and of all the other American republics, all of which are founded upon the principle of the fullest liberty to the subject rather than of royal authority and military repression. That such a combination is possible is shown by the fact that it has been seriously considered and discussed by representative and able men on both sides of the Atlantic. That its effect has been considered in Europe is shown by the consternation and in some quarters rage provoked by Joseph Chamberlain's speech, and his bold and remarkable expressions are now reinforced by the similar advanced stand taken by Arthur James Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury. American sentiment, which in tradition and principle is opposed to entangling alliances, is not yet crystalized upon this question, which is given a new cast by the threatening attitude of armed Europe. Americans would prefer a friendly entente with Great Britain. Both of the distinguished English authorities quoted in public speeches as favoring an open alliance also descant upon and show the value to Great Britain of a closer federation of her colonies.

Just what Joseph Chamberlain did say in his now world-famous speech was this:

"Since the Crimean war, nearly fifty years ago, the policy of this country has been a policy of strict isolation. We have had no allies; I am afraid we have had no friends. That is not due altogether to the envy which is undoubtedly felt at our success. It is due in part to the suspicion that we are acting in our own selfish interest, and were willing that other people should draw the chestnuts out of the fire for us; that we would take no responsibilities while we were glad enough to profit by the works of others. In this way we have avoided entangling alliances we have escaped many dangers; but we must accept the disadvantages that go with such a policy. As long as the other great powers of Europe were working for their own hand, and were separately engaged, I think the policy we have pursued—consistently pursued—was undoubtedly the right policy for this country. It was better we should preserve our liberty of action than become mixed up with quarrels with which possibly we had no concern. But now in recent years a different complexion has been placed upon the matter. A new situation has arisen, and it is right the people of this country should have it under their consideration. All the powerful states of Europe have made alliances, and so long as we keep outside these alliances, as long as we are envied by all, and suspected by all, and as long as we have interests which at one time or another conflict with the interests of all, we are liable to be confronted at any moment with a combination of great powers so powerful that not even the most extreme, the most bot-headed politician, would be able to contemplate it without a certain sense of uneasiness. That is the situation I want you to have in view when you are considering the results of the foreign policy of any government in this country. We stand alone, and we may be confronted with such a combination as I have indicated to you. What is the duty of a government under these circumstances? I say, without hesitation, that the first duty is to draw all parts of the empire closer together, to infuse into them a spirit of united and of imperial patriotism. We have not neglected that primary duty. We have pursued it steadfastly and with results that are patent to all the world. Never before in the history of the British Empire have the ties which connected us with our great colonies and dependencies been stronger; never before has the sense of common interests in trade, and in defense, and in war, never before has the sense of these interests been more strongly felt or more cordially expressed. What is our next duty? It is to establish and maintain bonds of permanent amity with our kinsmen across the Atlantic. They are a powerful and a generous nation. They speak our language, they are bred of our race. Their laws, their literature, their standpoint upon every question are the same as ours; their feeling, their interest in the cause of humanity and the peaceful development of the world are identical with ours. I do not know what arrangements may be possible with us, but this I know and feel—that the closer, the more cordial, the fuller, and the more definite these arrangements are with the consent of both peoples, the better it will be for both and for the world. And I even go so far as to say that, terrible as war may be, even war itself would be cheaply purchased if in a great and noble cause the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack should wave together over an Anglo-Saxon alliance."

Balfour's words were directed more towards convincing the Irish of Great Britain and America that they should aid rather than oppose such an alliance. It is somewhat singular that such expressions should come from representative Englishmen just at a time when the long heralded abdication of Queen Victoria is expected and a coronation is due. If the Queen should not abdicate, Albert Edward must soon ascend the throne, thus extending the "imperial patriotism" to which Mr. Chamberlain so broadly refers. The Queen lacks but one year of being 80 years of age, and before she sees another birthday anniversary may be in permanent seclusion, possibly in her honored grave. During the sixty-one years of her reign we have been at peace with England and for twenty years before. The Queen is venerable and despite her trip to Nice, is failing rapidly. Indeed, the Court Chamberlain has already given orders for the preparing of a coronation robe suitable for a male figure. The crown jewels are also being furbished up and the throne crown, made expressly for the coronation of Alexandrina Victoria, has had certain of the gems suspected of loosening more firmly set. Whether or not the statesmen of England, who desire an alliance with republican America, anticipate an abdication, it is certain that the powers close to the throne expect and are preparing for a coronation. Great Britain, under King and Parliament, Lords and Commons, will continue on her imperial way as we know it under a Queen and the adjuncts of government. But if British statesmen really desire a closer federation of the colonies, a drawing together in a friendly and harmonious abode of all parts of the empire, as well as an Anglo-Saxon alliance with republican America, in the holy cause of the advancement of human and the peaceful development of the world, what an opportunity they are allowing to escape. Instead of crowning another King of Great Britain and Emperor of India why not declare a republic? The government of Great Britain is now so close to that of the United States in principle that it would require only a change in name, and the transition from monarchy to republic would scarcely be felt, so easily could it be accomplished. What an opportunity, in fact, for Albert Edward to become by one act the greatest man of the age; the most honored in the eyes of his countrymen of any monarch in his line; a ruler beloved of the nation and colonies, and who would receive the praises and plaudits of all peoples to the remotest end of time.

If immediately after coronation he would abdicate, proclaim Great Britain a republic and himself its first President, he would do more to draw the colonies closer to the mother country and to bring about the Anglo Saxon union than all the theoretical statesmen could frame. By peacefully and unostentatiously laying down the greatest crown and scepter in the world in the interest of humanity of his race and the progress of mankind he would by the one act achieve imperishable renown and elevate himself to the highest pinnacle of fame, and at the same time would forestall the inevitable. For while Great Britain may not be one of the "decaying nations," the monarchial system is doomed. Liberalism has taken root in England and is growing. The colonies are populated with a democratic people. As they grow greater and more independent they will be less in sympathy with the signs and emblems of royalty, with the Lords and nobles, and the incidental great and unnecessary expense of a monarchial system. By the noble and disinterested act of abdication and the proclamation of a British republic the forthcoming King of England and Emperor of India could settle conclusively all of the vexatious questions and ominous threatenings that assail Great Britain. His act would throw continental Europe into a convulsion and light a flame in the hearts of the people that would sweep standing armies aside and menacing monarchs from their thrones. It is fear of democratic principles, of republican forms, that now actuates Europe in its attitude toward America in the American-Spanish war. Sympathy for the youthful Alfonso and his Regent mother, "the Austrian," is evoked purely from self interest. This sympathy is as openly expressed and carried to such an extent as is possible only because of the dreaded effect of revolution or the establishment of a republic in Spain and the influence of such a happening upon the other countries of continental Europe. It is the reaction and rebellion against centuries of misrule; against intolerable burdens of taxation imposed to maintain military protection for rotten dynasties that the royal rulers dread. They fear that in the light of example the oppressed people will set their own power and proceed to put it in execution against thrones and monarchs, maintained by no right, but only by the might of power.—Chicago Tribune.

Communicated.

Obituary

Dr. Clark Chapman was born in Onondago County, in the State of New York, Sept. 25, 1823; died at his home in Marshall Co. Ind., May 28, 1898, aged 74 years, 8 months and 3 days. Dr. Chapman in early life emigrated with his parents from the State of New York to Ohio, there remaining only for a short period of time; thence they removed to Logan County, Ind., and remaining in that County until the year 1844, thence with his parents they emigrated to Marshall County, Ind., settling on the present homestead of the deceased. Dr. Chapman was united in marriage to Bithiah Barnhill, by Ed. Logan, Oct. 2, 1847, and to this union 13 children have been born, of which 9 are living and were with him during his affliction and death. In early life he became a student of medicine, in the city of Lafport, under the instructions of Dr. Tengarden and after finishing his studies he commenced the practice of his profession in the present locality, in which he has spent one-half of a century in continual study and usefulness to his family and suffering humanity. In his early married life he embraced the truths of Divine Revelation as they were advocated by the Church of God and was baptized into the all-saving Name. Although since the close of the Civil War he was not an active worker in the Church, he never-the-less his integrity to God, and through love to God and his family he always set before them the godly example of true Christian virtue. Dr. Chapman did not live for self alone, he lived to make the world better by his honest and upright life with his fellowmen, believing that the rewards and everlasting life would be bestowed when the Life-giver would come to make up his jewels of the redeemed of earth.

The deceased leaves a widow, 3 sons, 6 daughters, 42 grandchildren and 8 great grandchildren and a host of friends to mourn his loss. Funeral services were conducted by Brother A. H. Zilmer on Monday afternoon, May 30, at the family residence. Many friends were present to show their respect.

John Pruitt was born April 20, 1820, and died at his home in Clinton Co., Ind., May 5, 1898. His age was 78 years and 6 days. His parents came from South Carolina and settled in Rush Co; when he was three years old his parents moved to Bartholomew Co., Ind., near Edinburgh. Bro. Pruitt was united in matrimony to Nancy L. Stewart Nov. 9, 1851; the 18th day of same month he moved to Clinton County, and settled and lived in the same place until death. He was the father of 9 children, 3 have preceded him in death. The aged wife and mother, and children and grandchildren survive him to mourn his loss, but they mourn not as those who have no hope. He was a believer in the things concerning the Lord Jesus Christ for many years. A few months over 8 years ago he was baptized by Bro. Wagoner. He leaves a host of friends; he was well known over this County. He was a friend to the poor, and gave them help in time of need. He often talked of the near approach of Christ, and said he wanted to live until the Savior came. He had not been well for many years; for the last two years he was almost an invalid, his disease was kidney trouble, he suffered a great deal, but bore his affliction patiently and died in the true faith in God to be raised immortal at the resurrection.

Announcement.

Editor Restitution:

The Church of God at Ashvale, Kan., (Post Office address, Hunter, Mitchell Co., Kan.,) will hold a grove meeting (D. V.) beginning on the 29th day of July, 1898, and continuing over Sunday, and as long as may be deemed best thereafter, at or near the Ash grove schoolhouse in Lincoln Co., Kansas. The place of meeting is on Bacon's Creek, a tributary of the Spilman, about 16 miles northwest from Lincoln Center, Kansas.

Bro. J. T. Kiggins of Bavaria, Saline Co., Kan., a very zealous and worthy exponent of the truth, under whose efforts the church at this place was organized, informs me that he expects Bro. W. J. Orem and other good preaching brethren will be present to assist in proclaim the Word.

This is believed to be an excellent point for the commencement of a good and profitable work. We are in the country, a long way from the R. R., but will be glad to meet as many of the brethren of the like precious faith as possible at this meeting. A cordial greeting will be given to all who may come.

Yours in the faith and hope of the gospel,

J. K. Thomason, Elder.

Very Low Rates to San Francisco.

Via the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western R'y.) Excursion tickets will be sold at greatly reduced rates June 28 and 29, limited to return until August 31, inclusive, account of meeting of North American Turner's Union. For rates and other information ask your nearest Ticket Agent or write, C. Thayer, 507 Smithfield St. (Park Building,) Pittsburg, Pa., or W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Men may make wealth enough to sink them into perdition, but not enough to save them in glory.

Opportunities for Homeseekers.

To encourage settlers in western Minnesota and South Dakota, where excellent opportunities are presented for establishing homes, the North-Western Line has placed in effect reduced rates for immigrant movables and will also sell Homeseekers tickets at one fare for the round trip, plus $2.00, on June 21. Inquire of agents for particulars and send for copy of North-Western Homeseeker to W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago, Ill.

The Indiana Conference.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:

The time is drawing near to have another meeting at Antioch, commencing Thursday evening, June 9, 1898, and continuing over Sunday. We trust the brethren will feel an interest and put forth an effort to come and partake of the feast of the words of truth, and help to make the meeting to fully serve its purpose, to build each other up in the most holy faith, and impart strength to withstand the trying times which seem to be so near approaching.

F. L. AUSTIN, Pres.
A. C. ROBERTS, Sec'y.

PROGRAMME FOR THE INDIANA CONFERENCE.

THURSDAY P. M.

7.00 Song Service.
7.15 Salutatory. Israel Roberts.
7.30 Response. F. L. Austin.
7.45 Sermon, Heb. x. 24, 25. A. H. Zilmer.

FRIDAY A. M.

9.30 Social Meeting led by Geo. W. Smith.
10.30 Reward of the Faithful. F. C. Myers.
11.30 Meeting Executive Board.

FRIDAY P. M.

1.30 Business Meeting.
2.30 Paper—Upon what things should a Church be united to work harmoniously? A. R. Underwood, followed by Discussion.
7.00 Social Meeting led by Wm. Rnikbnek.
7.30 The Ideal Church. Miss Flora Harris.
8.00 What is True Religion? J. F. Wagoner.

SATURDAY A. M.

9.30 S. S. Session led by D. E. Vanvactor.
9.40 Song Service, and Report of S. S. Delegates.
10.00 Relation of the Church to Sunday School. D. E. Vanvactor.
10.15 Song by Plymouth S.S pupils.
10.20 Relation of the S. S. to Church. J. H. Willey.
10.35 The S. S. as the Nursery of the Church. Mrs. M. J. Price.
10.50 Song by Argos S. S.
10.55 Paper—How can we Encourage and Retain Young People in Church Work? Miss Mattie Benjamin.
11.10 With what Spirit should Young People work in their Religious Societies and by whom should they be led? Mrs. S. R. Wine.

SATURDAY P. M.

1.30 Social Meeting led by A. Drew.
1.45 Bible Study. W. D. Thompson.
2.00 The One Faith. Chas. Fish.
2.35 Our High Priest. F. L. Austin.
7.00 Social Meeting. H. F. Cordill.
7.45 The Hand of God in History, a Gleam of Coming Glory. J. F. Wagoner.

SUNDAY A. M.

9.30 Social Meeting led by J. H. Willey.
10.30 Sermon—Nature of Man, 1st, by Creation; 2nd, by Adoption; 3rd, by Resurrection. A. H. Zilmer.

SUNDAY P. M.

2.30 Communion Service. J. L. Wince.
6.30 Social Meeting led by J. F. Wagoner.
7.30 Second Coming of Christ. F. L. Austin.

It is important that all Sunday Schools appoint delegates, and we hope all will come in the Spirit of the Master. Committee on programme,

J. H. WILLEY.
D. E. VANVACTOR.
A. C. ROBERTS.

Three thousand one hundred and forty-one million seven hundred and fifteen thousand was the number of letter-cards and packets delivered last year by the Post-office in the United Kingdom, a considerable increase on former years. Nearly eighty million telegrams were forwarded. Thirty-six millions of money was deposited in the savings bank. The staff now employs an army of about one hundred and fifty thousand persons. It is a prodigious business with a prodigious profit for the revenue of not far short of four millions sterling for the year.

The Fish and Game Laws

In several Northwestern States have been considerably modified. Send for free synopsis of these laws to W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago, Ill.—1 t.

Personal beauty is a better of recommendation written by the hand of nature, but not unfrequently dishonoring the bearer.

Announcements.

Editor Restitution:

The Annual Meeting of the Church of God at Scholl's, Oregon, will commence Saturday morning, June 11th, and continue over the following Sunday. We extend an invitation to all lovers of truth. Come brethren, and aid us in our work here, we want to hear a word from all of you. Let us be up and doing for the time is short. All brethren coming from a distance will be met with conveyance at the National Hotel, Portland, Ore. All those wishing to be met at Portland will please notify me.

Yours in hope,
F. B. LAWRENCE, Sec'y.

Nickel Plate Road Homeseekers' Excursion.

June 7th and 21st, at lowest rates. Tickets to all designated points North-west, West and Southwest, also to designated points in the south. Ask agents. j20

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1898. The cost is only three cents a week.

Reduced Fares to Various Points via Pennsylvania Lines.

Excursion tickets will be sold via Pennsylvania Lines as indicated in the following paragraphs. Although concessions in fare are authorized for meetings of certain Orders, tickets may be obtained by any person whether a member of the Order or interested in the event. The reduced rates will be open to everybody.

To Dallas, Texas, June 11th and 12th, account meeting of Nobles of Mystic Shrine. Return limit June 28th.

To Toledo, Ohio, June 15th and 16th, good returning until June 20th, account United Brethren in Christ Church Young People's Biennial Convention.

To Louisville, Ky., June 19th and 20th, for Jr. O. U. A. M. National Council Meeting. Return limit June 26th.

To Washington, D. C., July 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the National Educational Association Meeting. Good to return July 15th, with privilege to extend return limit until August 31st.

To Chicago, Ill., July 12th and 13th for Young People's Christian Union. Universalist Church. Good returning July 21st, with privilege to extend until August 10th.

To Buffalo, N. Y., July 12th 13th, 14th and 15th, good returning until July 19th, with privilege to extend until September 1st, account Baptist Young People's Union International Convention.

To Saratoga, N. Y., August 1st and 2nd, account Young People's Christian Union, U. P. Church. Return limit August 10th, with privilege to extend until August 31st.

To Richmond, Ind., August 19th and 20th, good returning until August 29th, account Society of Friends Conference.

To Cincinnati, Ohio, September 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the G. A. R. National Encampment. Good returning until September 13th, with privilege of extension until October 2d.

To Pittsburgh, Pa., October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th 12th and 13th, good returning until October 17th, account Knights Templar Triennial Conclave. Return limit may be extended until October 31st.

During the excursion season special rates will also be in effect via Pennsylvania Lines for special and local events. For particular information please apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines or address C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.

Special Rates via Vandalia Line.

Indiana University Alumni Reunion at Bloomington, Ind., June 10 and 12. One and one-third fare for Round trip.

For full information inquire of T. A. Downs, Agent.

EXAMINE

The label on your paper, and if it bears a date previous to this time please RENEW NOW. Do not wait for other notice to be sent, but PLEASE RENEW TODAY.

Homeseekers' Low Rate Excursion via Nickel Plate Road

To designated points North-west, West and South-west, also to designated points in the South, June 7th and 21st. Ask Agents.—j 20.

A NEW time Schedule on the Nickel Plate R. R. goes into effect this week.

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing. Said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 20th of April, 1898, providing notice is given through THE RESTITUTION that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all remittances to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 340, Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. S. J. Sigler,	$10.00
J. L. Wince,	5.00
F. L. Austin,	10.00
Elgor Hatch	1.00
Agnes Dilworth,	2.00
Mrs. Mary E. Thompson,	15.00
One who believes that God from tithe offerings can work out great results.	10.00
A Friend of Truth,	1.00
Mrs. S. A. Wickizer,	5.00
Mrs. A. M. Siple,	10.00
Mrs. Mary J. Riggs,	2.00

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

Just what you Want.

An artistic booklet entitled "Summer Outing" published by the Nickel Plate Road, describing vacation resorts along south shore of Lake Erie, also fine list of country homes open to country boarders, sent to any address on application to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O.—june 30.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. H. Stevens, Shawnee Mound, Mo.
S. R. Clickenbeard, Bonham, Texas.
P. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. M. Overbrough, Gaboriault, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4819 Saratoga st Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winebrenner, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 153 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio.
W. L. Shively, Schulls, Ore.
E. Hoyt, Box 384, Grand Rapids, Mich.
S. Roxana Wiser, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Heun, Pudsey, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Bauch, Scherville, Ind.
J. W. Niles, Gladstone, Pa.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Chisneville, Ark.
J. J. Cady, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prine, Edgerton, Neb.
A. J. Eyebauer, Goodbrook, In.
W. L. Wenrick, 524 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Keim, 4507, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Glenn, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hull, Denver, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Scio, Ill.
H. F. Boyer, Seven Pointaine, Va.
T. E. Adams, Osawatie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
D. M. Butler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. G. Hoopt, Laurel, Neb.
J. R. Peck, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, O[illegible]n.
W. B. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Prinmer, Jessup, Ia.
Merle Babcock, W. R. C. House, Madison, Ohio.
J. Cancanon, Pullard, Wash.
S. T. Beek, Peru, Ind.
H. T. Baker, Box 1008 Decorah, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Cottonwood, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Marmont, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Steffa, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 44, Viola, Idaho.
Elder H. M. Williams, Portland, Kan.
B. Wilson, 1905 O St. Sacramento, Cal.
D. T. Halstead, Rensselaer, Ind.
John Foore, 201 2 West Corning Ave, Parsons, Kansas.
R. S. Driggins, Rensselaer, Ind.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, Ia.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "L. Ass. Evangelical Aid Society," Box 384 Grand Rapids, Mich.

Lake View Hotel—Lake Maxinkuckee (Culver), Ind.,

Will reopen on June 20th, 1898, for the Summer season, with improved service and thoroughly modern appointments. Family accommodations a specialty. Rates reasonable. Address, J. B. Schmidt, Manager. Culver, Ind.—July 31.

The most difficult thing is to know one's self; the most easy, to give counsels to another and the most delightful to obtain the contrary of our desires.

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Ohero and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave, Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and Calhoun Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Avon, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., south west. Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meets every 1st day of the week at 10:30, in their house of worship, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the west bank passing through there, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by addressing or calling on Ella V. Baker's, 209 West Ave St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God, at Andover, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Mills Hall. Andover is on the direct line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R., going west to Aberdeen. Visitors are welcome.

The Church of God [illegible], Neb., meets every Sunday at the [illegible] to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Sarah Sellick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. Brethren known to this church, or coming properly endorsed by introductory letter, will be heartily welcomed. At present we meet in the School House on top of the hill; cable cars come very near, and ferry brings from Seattle.

The brethren of the Church of God at Rock Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Kessler, or D. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, Ind., meet every Sunday at 2:30 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthon, Elder.

The Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Benner Hall, on Willoughby Ave., near Broadway.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eyebauer. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The church at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching services every other Sun. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trendell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon. Accompanied by Elders W. L. Scholls and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Pike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Ohio, meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles south-east of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and remain mindful of the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God of Waterville, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Mountainview School House, near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Corlesby, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 p. m. for worship in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren cordially invited to step in and meet with us. A. W. Gover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo De Ver, Elder, Beaver Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to come and all of the meetings.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Fraternally yours, Grant Mackenzie.

The Church of God at Alton, Kansas, meet in the Christian Church of Attica for preaching on 2d, 3rd and 4th Sundays each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver, Pastor.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1221½ Euclid Ave, near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meets each fourth Sunday, at private houses, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday at the Union Chapel Church, Winterbrode, Ill., for Bible Readings at 11 A. M. All are invited. Elder Wm. Sea, Sec'y.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. B. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:00 a. m. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. B. Fisk, Elder. S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt binding, 60th edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Twelve Worlds;" one of "Early Lessons;" and one of "Honoring the Son,"—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

Homeseekers' Excursion via Nickel Plate Road.

Special excursion tickets for homeseekers' to designated points North-west, West, and South-west, also to designated points in the South, are offered via Nickel Plate Road, June 7th, and 21st, at lower rates than via other lines. Ask Agents. j20

Send to this office and get a "Wall Atlas" only 25 cts post paid.

Cheap Rates via Vandalia.

The G. A. R. National Encampment at Cincinnati, O., Sept. 5th to 10th.

The Supreme Lodge of K. of C. and Uniform Rank Encampment at Indianapolis, beginning Aug. 30th.

For the above occasions the Vandalia Line will make a rate of One cent per Mile.—T. A. Downs, Agent.

Pittsb'gh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Div.
Pennsylvania Lines.
Schedule of Passenger Trains—Central Time.

Westward.
	9	15	39	3	25
	AM	PM	AM	PM	PM
Pittsb'gh, ar.
Allianc'e, ar.	9 05
Orrville	10 26
Shreddon	11 23
Wooster	11 46
Mansfield	12 20
Crestline	1 05
Bucyrus	1 17
Leo	1 44
Van Wert	2 32
Ft Wayne	3 45
Arcola
Columbia City	4 15
Larwill
Rochester
Rome City
Wawasee
Warsaw	5 21
Mud Creek
Bourbon
Burnett
Plymouth	6 15
Grovertown
Hamlet
Ft Ia
Hanna
Wyatte
Valparaiso
Wheeler
Hobart
Miller
Liverpool
Chicago, ar.	9 00
	PM

Eastward.
	20		8		4		8		60
	AM		PM		PM		AM		AM
Chicago, lv	7 20		3 00		12 25		6 15		5 45
Clarke	7 33				12 36				5 57
Liverpool	9 45				12 49				6 11
Hobart	8 51				1				6 21
Wheeler	9 03				1 13				6 33
Valparaiso	9 15		4 32		1		6 29		6 45
Wyatte	9 27				1 [illegible]				6 57
Hanna	9 58				1 40				7 30
Hayden	10 05
Hamlet	10 12				2 12				7 45
Grovertown	10 17
Plymouth	10 35		5 54		2 45		6 53		8 10
Inwood	10 [illegible]				2 58
Bourbon	10 [illegible]		6 21		3 25		6 59
Glasscock	11 [illegible]				3 [illegible]
Warsaw	11 20		6 37		3 35		7 15		8 30
Eagle Lake	11 [illegible]
Rochester	11 [illegible]				3 57
Larwill	11 [illegible]		6 [illegible]		4 [illegible]
Columbia City	12 [illegible]		7 [illegible]		4 22		7 [illegible]
Arcola	12 [illegible]				4 [illegible]
Ft Wayne	12 35		7 39		5 10		7 [illegible]		9 10
Van Wert	1 [illegible]		8 [illegible]		5 [illegible]		8 [illegible]
Lima	2 [illegible]		8 [illegible]		6 [illegible]		8 [illegible]
Bucyrus	3 [illegible]		9 [illegible]		6 [illegible]		8 [illegible]
Crestline	3 [illegible]		9 [illegible]		6 [illegible]		8 [illegible]
Mansfield	3 [illegible]		10 [illegible]		7 [illegible]		9 [illegible]
Wooster	4 [illegible]		10 [illegible]		7 [illegible]		9 [illegible]
Massillon	4 [illegible]		11 [illegible]		7 [illegible]		9 [illegible]
Canton	4 [illegible]		11 [illegible]		8 [illegible]		10 [illegible]
Alliance, ar.	5 [illegible]		11 [illegible]		8 [illegible]		10 [illegible]
Pittsb'gh, ar.	7 15		6 50		10 [illegible]		12 [illegible]
	AM		PM		PM		PM

L. F. LOREE, General Manager.
E. A. FORD, General Passenger Agent.
13-98-2t PITTSBURGH, PENN'A.

For time cards, rates of fare, through tickets, baggage checks, and further information regarding the running of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook of Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect May 23, 1898.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING SOUTH.

No. 6, Ex. Sun. For St. Joseph.....12:08pm
No. 14, " " " 7:34am
No. 8, " " South Bend.....10:11pm

GOING NORTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Chicago.....6:38a m
No. 3, " " " 12:43noon
No. 15, " " Logansport.....7:36pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. FORD,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo.

One Fare Sunday excursion tickets are on sale from all stations on Nickel Plate Road.—june 30.

Books and Tract List.

A LETTER TO A FRIEND,

This treats of the Covenants of Promise, as their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. Many of our readers already know of the good that has been accomplished through its circulation. 10 cents each.

FUTURE CONDITION.

Is that awaiting any of the upright, etc? A [illegible] pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moore, B. We have a good supply and will send them post paid for [illegible] per copy.

GLAD TIDINGS OF THE KING, AND OF [illegible].

This tract contains 12 large size pages and is a reprint of a work issued many years ago, it is clear and concise, [illegible] a full [illegible] $1.00.

[illegible] OF SATAN.

A lecture by H. V. Reed. Excellent facts set forth that [illegible] Satan will be [illegible] of heaven, stand in Executive with the [illegible] angels, and [illegible] 2 pages. Price on above or [illegible].

Necessity of Patience. Written [illegible] years ago by A. M. Stephenson. It is good. Also, Bible Plan of salvation, and [illegible] interpretations. 24 [illegible] for [illegible] per dozen.

Modern Events in the light of Prophecy.—Sermon preached by H. V. Reed at Antioch [illegible] meeting, November, 1897. 20 copies for $1.00.

Plain Suggestions to Teach Unconscious [illegible] Death, by W. H. Wilcox, who shows that eternal life is not [illegible] 3 copies each, or 25 cents per 12.

Where Are the Dead? Scraps. These are Bible texts given in answer to this question. A 32-page tract 2 cents each, or 15 cents per dozen.

Index. A Bible account of this place with [illegible] texts. Ten cents for 5 cents.

Death Compared to a Sleep. This presents death as a sleep and proof texts are given. Ten copies for 5 cts.

The Wicked Dead and Plain Truths. The two combined, 2 pages, ten copies for 40 cents.

"Word of Man vs. Word of God," by H. V. Reed. A contrast between the two. 2 cts each or 15 for 25 cts.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory, and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O.

Aids to Bible-Study and Mission-Work.

1. The gospel of the Kingdom, arranged in a series of Ten discourses. A volume of 283 pages. Cloth 25c, a Leather-bound beautifully embossed and gilt edged $1.00. 2. Twelve Words or the true meanings of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptable, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as gathered from their uses in the Holy Scriptures. A tract of 40 pages 10cts a copy. Intended as a substitute for and an improvement on the same writer's Key-Words. 3. The gospel of the Kingdom. An 8-page double column tract 10cts. per dozen; 75cts. per hundred. 4. Who are Led by the Spirit? A 4-page tract 25cts per hundred. 5. Seeking and Finding. A 4-page tract 25cts. per hundred. 6. Honouring the Son. An 8-page tract 25cts per dozen. 7. Early Lessons. 30 pages 10cts. copy. Suitable for old or young.

Written and for sale by WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

Notice.

WILL our friends please remember that we do not have the books and tracts at this office that are advertized by Brother Joblin, or Brother Wiley Jones. Do not send to this office for them, but send to their address as given in the advertisement. This will save both trouble and delay. PLEASE REMEMBER.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

Summer Land.

O summer land of God! where winter's chill
And storm-cloud shadows come no more;
Nor tides of evil flood their angry waves
On the golden sands of the fairer shore.

There peace eternal brands the crystal seal—
The benediction of his gracious hand
That once made calm when crested Galilee
Where the waves went obedient to command.

Light from that summer land may reach us here,
To chase away all fear and horror;
And to our tossing souls it's now may come
A touch of the infinite calm.

Communicated.

Papers by our Young People of Kansas.

THE BURDENED FIG TREE.

Learn a parable of the fig tree: "when you see the shoots sprout and the leaves begin to open, know you that summer is nigh." This parable "summer" means Christ's return. If we are very close students of botany we will know that a tree makes preparation for new leaves, immediately after dropping the old ones off, and as soon as the necessary conditions for development are complied with, we see the leaf unfolding and presented. So now when we see the necessary conditions which Christ foretold to his prophets and apostles we may know that his coming is nigh. The day and hour of the Lord's coming is unknown. "But of that day and hour knoweth no man, not the angels of heaven, but my Father only."

In the depth of winter we do not know whether we will leave an early or late spring, but we are none the less anxious and wait hopingly for it. The more loosened and tried by the northern blast and wintry tempest; the more severe, gloomy and prolonged the winter, the more deeply our desires are intensified; the more earnestly we long for relief, and our very beings are stirred with anxiety. How alert and observant we are for every indication of change. We watch the position of the sun, the tender sprouts of grass, the swelling of the buds on the trees, and when we see these things we rejoice, for then our long uncertainty is known to us.

We find it written "But ye brethren are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief." If we may not know the day or hour of his coming, it appears that we may know when we are drawing near the shores of eternity. Our Divine Teacher says, "When these things which he predicted begun to come to pass, then lift up your heads, for your redemption draweth nigh." The Disciples said, "Lord, what of that?" Listen to the answer, "So likewise ye when ye see these things come to pass, know ye that the kingdom of God is nigh at hand."

Today, as never before, we have reason to believe that we can see the fig tree shooting and the glorious summer approaching. Prophecy fulfilled and fulfilling is pointing with an unerring figure to the awesome fact that the coming of the Master cannot be far in the future. We feel that we are on the very verge of the precipice of futurity. The rushing river of time has about emptied itself into the unfathomed sea of eternity. How narrow is the fringe of time which separates us from the fearful realities of eternal judgment we would not dare to guess. How thin may be the veil that intervenes between us and the coming of the King, it would perhaps be unwise to speculate. But that we are near, blessedly and awfully near, the closing scenes of this old world's mortal history we are fully assured. We have evidences that we are approximating the time when the long absent Nobleman will return. If we see evidences of a rain tomorrow and speak of the coming storm, we do not wish to be understood that God hangs out signals regarding the approaching change, just as the officers of the weather bureau would do. We simply mean that the conditions which will tomorrow produce rain, have today produced certain phenomena, not visible, except just before a storm, and we call these indications "signs."

The same principle exists in the moral world, for instance. Christ came into the world during a great crisis. There were signs of approaching change in the social, religious and political world, and Jesus told certain men that they were not able to discern the signs of those times. The signs mentioned were not given arbitrarily, but were rather surface indications of existing conditions, which showed that there was trouble ahead, and the time had come when something must be done for the preservance of society—a condition of things which only Jesus Christ could meet and overcome. The Bible indicates that similar conditions of affairs will exist before Jesus returns.

The Pharisees and Sadducees went to Christ and tauntingly ask him to show them a sign from heaven. He said, "O high priests! ye can discern the face of the sky, but cannot ye discern the signs of the times. Christ foretold that in the last days it would be as in the days of Noah, and that scoffers would rise up and say, "Where is the promise of his coming," for he intended to give tokens of his coming in such a variety of ways in the heavens, on the earth in the sea and among nations, that all persons might have ample warnings. Signs to be read and understood by all people should be very simple. These signs were given to his disciples and for the benefit of his people living at the time of his return. Matthew says, "What Christ said to them he said to all." Christ had the whole scope of physical and political world before him, also the ecclesiastical world, and he has given us a phenomena that would take place in each of these worlds and keep them in their various departments.

Christ's narration to his disciples sketches two great events, the fall of Jerusalem and his coming. Each event has its appropriate sign given to warn his people living in the vicinity of each event. He did not want his disciples to be overtaken as a thief. We can hear him saying to them, I wish you to know when I am about to come in person to the earth, so you may have your work well done and be ready to receive me. So I will print the message in heaven and on the earth. You are familiar with nature, you can discern its ordinary phenomenon and therefore be able to see any extraordinary changes; when nature begins to clothe herself with unusual dress and appearance, such as draw special attention by their singularity; when these unusual phenomena are seen in the sun, moon and stars; when extraordinary storms upset the sea, destroying commerce and wrecking navies; when the stars fall from heaven as a green fig tree casteth her green figs when shaken by a mighty wind; when the physical world assumes extraordinary visage, you may know that my coming is near—even at the door.

It may be said that since the days of Christ's first advent we have had physical and moral phenomena. The combination constitutes the force as a sign, and when we show a singularity the combination is a sign.

Paul claims that his instructions came direct from Christ. His picture of the elements and practices of the professing household are quite full and distinct, we know them. "Know also that in the last days perilous times shall come. For men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud blasphemers, dishonest to parents, unthankful, unholy; without natural affections, truce-breakers, false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good, traitors, heady, high-minded, lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God; having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof. Could we give a more accurate description than did Paul, as he by Christ's instructions looked through the ages and described the present generation? I ask you to compare these words of prophecy and answer fearlessly. Are we not now in a condition, socially, religiously and politically—which is absolutely unique in the history of the world, which gives grave reason for apprehension and fear, and in which there is a crying need for a strong hand—the triple sceptre of wisdom, love and power to right the unsettled and increasing wrong of earth?"

As one of the noted expounders, when he was asked what was the best proof of the authenticity of the Bible, answered, "The Jew." So with us the history of the Jew, past, present and predicted future shows where in Christ's narration we are placed. "Behold, I will take the children of Israel from among the heathen, whither they have gone, and I will gather them on every side and bring them to their own land, and I will make them one nation in the land upon the mountains of Israel. Jerusalem shall be trodden down of the Gentiles, until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled." Before Christ can reign on the throne of his father David over the house of Jacob forever; before he can again restore the kingdom of Israel, they must be gathered into their own land, which land is the same old territory of the former typical kingdom of Israel. The gathering of the Jews is doubtless now commenced. For many years such a movement has been in progress and is certainly increasing rapidly. Some few years ago The Jewish Chronicle said, "Palestine has been the ideal of all Jewish hearts since the Jews lost it." It is scarcely too much to say this return is beginning under our very eyes. At the Universal Israelitish Alliance with headquarters at London the scattered nation became an organic unit.

On the 29th of Aug., 1897, there convened in Basle, Switzerland, a congress of 200 Jewish delegates from different parts of Europe. The object of their gathering was to consider Dr. Herzl's plan for re-establishing the Hebrews in Palestine. A telegram from Basle, August 30, says Dr. Herzl's plan "was unanimously approved with great enthusiasm by the Zionist Congress."

Dr. Theodore Herzl, of Vienna, the so-called "new Moses" and the originator of the latest scheme to buy Palestine and organize a Hebrew State there, was elected President, and Dr. Max Nordau, Vice-President Dr Herzl said "Within a year or so Palestine being acquired from the Turk I shall have a million colonists in the country. The watchword, 'Jewish State,' has roused the Israelites to the remotest corners of the earth.

"My plan is simple enough. We must obtain sovereignty over Palestine—our never-to-be-forgotten, historical home. At the head of the movement will be two powerful agents—the Society of Jews and the Jewish Company."

In October a mass meeting of the Hebrews was held at Chicago. The object was to present the matter of colonization to the people and to urge their co-operation. The speakers urged the necessity of the movement, declaring that the time for such an action was now ripe.

A Manchester (England) newspaper recently said:—"The Zion Congress at Basle last August, has had a curious outcome. A natural and immediate result of the return of the Jews to the Holy Land would be the rebuilding of the temple, and so confident are some of the Jews that the time of their return is at hand, that orders have been actually given, and the work commenced, for the preparation of material to be used in the restoration of the sacred buildings. In England, wrought iron is being produced for outer gates; and the marble quarries in Italy, the capitals of pillars are being carved. Not a few of the leading European Jews have great expectations of what the early months of next year will bring forth; and they make no secret of their hopes that circumstances not unconnected with finance will arise, which will enable them to extract from the Sultan a treaty which will virtually restore the Holy Land to their possession." "This is one of the most remarkable things that has yet occurred in respect to the restoration of Israel, and is a proof of the interest taken in the "glorious land" by the rightful inhabitants, the posterity of Abraham. We are persuaded that this is but the commencement of many strange things to be accomplished in the near future.

What the outcome of this enterprise will be, or how far these anticipations may be realized, we cannot tell. We simply chronicle these events as they pass, and wait the unfolding of the divine purpose. If, as the Scriptures seem to assert, there are great and terrible events to occur upon the mountains of Israel in connection with the close of this dispensation, it behooves us with all other Christians to be watchful and diligent, that we may be found in peace when the day of trouble comes."

We think the hand of God is visible in the movement of the Jews. His purpose must and will be accomplished in his own way and time. He will restore the kingdom of Israel. The royal Son of David is now gone like a nobleman into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom and to return. "When he returns he will be King of kings and Lord of lords." "He shall judge the poor of the people, he shall save the children of the needy and shall break in pieces the oppressor." "He shall have dominion also from sea to sea and from the river unto the end of the earth." "Yea, all kings shall fall down before him. His name shall endure forever, his name shall continue as long as the sun, and men shall be blessed in him: all nations shall call him blessed." "Then nation will not lift up sword against nation, neither will they learn war any more." Glad time may it soon come.

"O glorious hour when Christ shall reign,
And entire the world his wide dominion;
When exiles from every land shall come,
To worship at Jesus's throne.

Peace him righteousness shall spread,
War then shall hide its loathsome head:
Sword to the plow shall then give aid,
And spears to pruning hooks be made.

Love, joy and peace he will maintain,
Oh superstition break the chain:
The free proclaim to every slave,
And bid oppression be no more.

Oh happy day, 'tis nigh at hand,
When Israel shall regain their land;
When Paradise shall be restored,
And Christ the King shall be adored."

Friends, what a contrast that will be to our present condition and surroundings. There is a war cloud hanging over us which for some years has been warded off, but do we not feel and see it settling upon the nations? The story of invasion, starvation and war from China, Spain and Cuba are told to us daily and our boyhood comate, is confronted with perplexing conditions. Surely the coming of the Lord draweth nigh. Solemn thought, may it impress our hearts. Grand impending event! may it have proper effect upon our lives. Terrible reality! may it not find us unready. Blissful consummation! May our spiritual condition be such that we can hail its approach with joy. Of all great and important questions this is undisputably the greatest and grandest; nigh as the very heavens' sublime as awfulness and grandeur can make it; it deserves the consideration of all. Revealed by God, taught by Christ, heralded by angels, and proclaimed by men, it merits our fullest reception and heartiest belief. The truths and merits of this incomparable doctrine are needed by the world today, and should as never before be pressed upon the notice of the people. The thought of the coming of the great judgment will affect many hearts as nothing else can possibly affect them. It oftimes reaches the intellect, stirs the soul, and graciously influences the life when everything else has failed to do so. With Dr. Brown, we affirm "That the Redeemers second appearing is the very polestar of the church." A blessed truth is this truth concerning the coming of Jesus, and one that stirs within Him the loving heart of the faithful believer. It is a truth that glows with a heavenly radiance, that shines with a brightness divine, and beams with cheering and inspiring brilliancy on the patient pathway of the progressing pilgrim. How its rays shine in the midst of this world's darkness; how its hope uplifts and strengthens us, while toiling here. It has been said, "In the gospel the Lord's coming shines in upon us so near that it affords us already at every step much light for our feet." "All hail this great truth and all hail the wondrous event itself," an event we trust is near at hand. As the leaves of the fig tree tell that summer is nigh so events will occur which to the understanding mind will herald the Lord's return. These events remind us not of the time, but that he is at hand, and therefore answers the purpose of putting us on our guard and admonishing us to be prepared. A preparation for "his coming" is needed. To be ready is of utmost importance. If unprepared on that greatest and grandest occasion, better for us if we never had been born.

"The sands of time are sinking,
The dawn of heaven breaks,
The summer morning we've sighed for;
The fair sweet morn awakes,
Dark, dark has been the midnight,
But day-spring is at hand,
And glory, glory dwelleth
In fair Immanuel's land.

The signs in heaven thicken,
The nations are distressed,
Men's hearts for fear are failing—
The ocean cannot rest:
But mid the foaming billows,
And wrecks upon the strand,
We hail the glory dawning,
In fair Immanuel's land.

When from scattered lands afar,
Spreads the voice of rumored war,
Nations in tumultuous pride,
Heave like ocean's roaring tide;
When the solar splendors fail,
When the crescent waxeth pale;
World! do thou the signal dread.
We exult the drooping head.

When the pow'rs that star-like reign,
Sink dishonored to the plain,
We uplift th' expectant eye,—
One redemption draweth nigh:
When the fig-tree almonds ope'ner,
Men behold their summer near;
When the hearts of rebels fail,
We the coming Conqueror hail."

ELLA M. VICKERY.

"BEHOLD I COME QUICKLY."

Christ said to John, "Behold, I come quickly." The echo of these words is still wafted to us, telling us to "be ready" or as Christ would have us to "live ready." In the above text quoted, we find two classes brought to view. The saint and the sinner, the righteous and the unrighteous, each is to receive due reward according to what he has done, whether it be good or evil.

The inevitable doom of the ungodly shall be death; the righteous eternal life, their reward of integrity. It is true many generations have died and the present generation may die before Jesus comes, but the Bible always speaks of Christ's coming as "at hand." Every successive generation has been commanded to keep their eyes on the coming of the Lord, and to live in a state of constant expectancy. A special blessing is promised to those who shall be watching when he comes. The same blessing doubtless is for those who through the ages have fallen asleep watching.

We should take the Word of God just as we find it. If he tells us to watch we should watch; if he tells us to pray, then let us pray. When he tells us he is coming again let us be ready. But while we are watching we must work. Christ absolutely requires work. The fruitless branch is taken away, the savorless salt is cast out, and those who do not use their talents shall be cursed. "Blessed are those servants whom the Lord shall find when he comes, ready. How shall we be ready? We know not the day nor the hour when our Lord shall come. For this reason it would be useless to stand idly gazing into the heavens.

Christ has foretold us all things and when we see these things come to pass we may know his coming is near. We should daily compare our lives with the Pattern, that we live soberly, righteously and godly in this world. Lift up the hand which is hanging down, and the feeble knees, and make straight the paths for our feet, lest others be turned out and fall by the wayside. Gather up the roots of bitterness they will cause some one to err. Live that there may not be the slightest thing which shall hinder us doing that which is "pleasing in his sight." Christ has given us all at least one talent. It is not our duty to hide it, but to use it to his glory. He has trusted us with it and requires us to gain other talents to present to him when he comes. If we have been made stewards over much, our responsibility is greater, and the returns must be greater. "For unto whom much is given, of him much will be required."

The last words of Paul, just before martyrdom mentions a distinct form of love, for Jesus when he speaks of a crown of righteousness which the Lord would not only give to him in the day of his coming, but to all those that love his appearing. This degree of love brings us into more conscious fellowship with the humanity of Jesus and works a wondrous transformation in our minds, preparatory to actually seeing him as he is. It also makes Christ more emphatically our last thought. It focalizes all the currents of our life upon him. How many portions of the Bible have a vague, misty meaning like the distant outline of a mountain, until the appearing of the Son becomes a blest reality to our faith. Our heart leaps with the hope of seeing him appear, and then the veil that mantles so many Scriptures is lifted and those texts are easily interpreted. How great must be Christ's grief when he sees his commands so lightly heeded. There is so much formalism today, this world is deeply plated. There are plated friends and plated Christians; what solemn mockery in the face of God. No matter how pure their inward lives may be, God triumphs over all that man's hand can do.

God's throne of grace is wide . revolution can sweep through it In the pathway of life that leads to that throne we find so many angles; at these angles are sign boards pointing in many directions. And how many of us "like parting of the way," take the smooth looking pathway, trying to avoid the thistles, afraid to climb the steep hill of the opinion of somebody else. Why cannot we be brave and take the path of duty, even though we are wounded and lacerated by scorn and sarcasm, though yesterday's trials discouraged us, for today it is only by continued patience that we may hope to be victorious.

This makes me think of a remark I heard a gentleman make the other day. He said, "I do not care to read religious papers. I am not a Christian, yet no one in all the world admires a Christian more than I do. I like to see them if they are a Christian get up and say so. I call it heroic for any one who will stand up for their religion and their opinions against a multitude of opponents. But the way is long, and the gate is narrow, so I shall step aside and let some one take my place."

So many of us step aside, thinking there is not room even to be Rachel's bearing water jars, Ruth's gleaning golden harvests, royal Esther's pleading for kindred and friend, daring Daniel's or patient Paul's. Our lives should be one lesson of submission, and how hard that lesson is to learn; yet submission must come to us all. We may resolve to do just as we please in this world, but if we find it possible to do this, we certainly are very unhappy. "For Christ pleased not himself," and is not he our example? What a failure to live for self alone, it cannot be called real living. Let us learn the sweet ness of self-sacrifice, to do for God as he shall choose, and be submissive to his choice, to yield our will to his and follow where he leads us, for our heaviest burden is light when compared to those of Christ. Are we bearing a cross by which some one else is being benefitted? But why must we complain? Christ bore his cross on Calvary for our sakes, and without one reproach. He suffered death that we might live, and yet we do not seem to strive for that priceless gift. There is a thrill of power in the words themselves, yet it does not draw us to him.

God has given us his peace to comfort us. His faith to uplift us, and his Word to enlighten us. What divine condescension that he should stoop to remember us in our sin. With peace as a crown, faith for an armor and the Bible for our guide, let us be ready. Then with our ears to the Bible let us listen, "Behold, I come quickly," and with our lips let us repeat the last prayer in the Bible, "Even so Lord Jesus, come quickly."

NEVADA WILLIS.

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, JUNE 15, 1898. NUMBER 24.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
J. H. WILLEY.
W. B. THOMPSON.
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, IND. JUNE 15, 1898.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, post-office, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Marshall Co., Ind."

Remittances should be sent by bank draft, post-office money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk. Money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is only to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter soon learns to readily tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

A WAR ATLAS.

The exact locality of many places mentioned in the news of the War between the United States and Spain is not known to the general reader, and so recourse is had to geographies. We have decided to offer our readers a complete War Atlas of sixteen pages of maps, showing all the territory where a conflict can occur, besides some valuable statistics. This will be mailed to you for 25 cts. Send orders at once, and get the position of the places named that you can better understand how the various complications will affect the nations of the world. Address,—THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

The report of the Michigan Conference is at hand but too late for this issue. It will appear next week.

"I BESEECH you, therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service."—Paul.

DORUS S. FILLMORE BENNETT, died at his home in Richmond, Ill., June 11, aged 62 years. Mr. Bennett wrote many hymns, the best known one being, "The Sweet By and By."

BROTHERS and sisters, we want you to consider McIntyre's remark lest you despair of usefulness through lack of talent. He said, "It is not so much great talent that God blesses, as great likeness to Christ."

BROTHER P. H. Bouk of Fonthill, Ont., visited us last week and attended the Antioch meeting. We were pleased to meet him, and enjoyed his conversation very much. He returned home on Monday last. We hope to meet him again some day, and renew the acquaintance.

"THE Niger boundary dispute, in which English papers and politicians have seen a war cloud, is practically settled. A convention covering all disputes is ready for a signature. France gets two commercial depots on the lower Niger for outlets for French trade with upper Dahomey, while Great Britain's gains consist of territory on the Gold Coast."

THE following card was received last week, but too late for publication. It is never too late to give good news, so we give it now.

Dear Brother Underwood:

"At our meeting yesterday in Argos we had the pleasure of baptizing four into the name of the Anointed One. Two from White Co., Ind., and two of Bro. Bennett Boggs sons. Another was almost persuaded. As ever in the blessed hope."

J. F. WAGONER.

THE Quarterly Conference of the Church of God in Indiana was held last week at Antioch Church in Marshall County. The attendance was very good, and the attention of the audience was excellent. The programme as published was carried out as near as it was possible to do. The various papers were well received, and the subjects assigned to different ones were carefully and studiously discussed. The meetings closed Sunday evening, having been a success in every way. We shall give the Secretary's report in [illegible]

THERE has been some little progress in the War since last week. The United States ships have bombarded and taken possession of Caimanera, on the bay of Guantanamo, thirty miles from Santiago, and landed some troops. It seems certain that the transports loaded with soldiers are now on their way to this place and the vicinity of Santiago. There has been some more combats between the ships and the forts, with the view of making place to land when the troops arrive. Meanwhile, the insurgents are [illegible] harassing the Spaniards. It is reported that the insurgents are in possession of Manila. The war revenue bill was signed by the President and 200 millions will be asked for, and likely 1 e bonds will not be taken in a few days.

THE Catholic Gazette of London says that 17,000 English People have been received into the Catholic Church in as many months. This is not to be wondered at when we consider that the High Churchmen are leading the people up to the very door of the Church they are paid to protest against. And would it not be strange if the change did not go on more rapidly. These Protestants in name, but who are Catholics at heart and in practice, save that they do not give to their priestly inventions and acknowledge the Pope, as they ought to do, to be consistent, have recently appealed to the Pope to decide as to the validity of the Holy orders of the Episcopal Church. The Pope, as might have been expected, decided against them,—and what is there left for them to do, but go clean over, and give up their state salaries? If the Pope be regarded by them as authority in the case, as their action implies they, certainly the Old Mother Church is the proper place for them.

THE United States Warship Charleston is now on its way to hoist the Stars and Stripes over Caroline Islands. The following from the Times-Herald will give an idea of their importance. A copy of our War Atlas will enable you to locate all points mentioned.

"Much speculation is indulged in concerning the fate of the Carolines, the group of small islands southeast of the Philippines, and, like the latter, Spanish possession, unless the United States should seize them, since the Philippines have under the de facto control of this country. The Carolines would give the United States a strategical advantage of no mean importance after the Hawaiian Islands have once been annexed to the United States, a consummation which now seems to be near at hand.

The Carolines as a group are about 1,130 miles east of the Philippines; from the Carolines to the Hawaiian Islands, in a northeasterly direction, is a distance of 2,602 miles, and from Hawaii to San Francisco, still in a northeasterly direction, the distance is 2,039 miles. If the United States are to hold the Philippines for some indefinite time, until permanent peace has been established with Spain, or if she is to have to be held as a pledge for an indemnity until some distant future, it will at once be seen how important the Carolines will be as one of the easy stages between the United States and the Philippines, both for coaling purposes and as a base of operation."

Law or Gospel—Which? No. 12.

CONTINUED FROM LAST WEEK.

The "History" is so circumstantial that it carries conviction with it.

1. It gives the place, Washington, New Hampshire.

2. It gives the name,—Mrs. Rachel D. Preston, of New York.

3. It gives the religious denominations of Mrs. Preston from New York,—Seventh-Day Baptist.

4. It states positively that the Sabbath was first introduced to the attention of the Advent people by this Mrs. Rachel Preston, and as two opposite statements cannot be true one of them must be false; and we believe Mrs. White to be the false witness, because

1. We have proven by the Spirit's Word that no new light was needed.

2. Mrs. White and her followers claim that the Fourth Commandment of the Decalogue is in force, and this is the reason they keep it.

3. That being true, no new light has been given to her, and she could impart none to others. The prophetess says the Sabbath is a perpetual law because God, its author, is unchangeable. If he be unchangeable, how could he impart to her new light, if the wording of the law made men amenable to it for 2500 years?

4. The woman has spoken presumptuously. God has not commanded her, [illegible] We need not be afraid of her or what she says, Deut. xviii. 22; because the Spirit informs us for what purpose the law was given, states how long it would be in force, affirms that it has been done away,—and to accept Mrs. White's statements as true is to make God stultify himself. He says to his people, "Ye are not under law, but under grace."

5. Because of the nature of the alleged new light. In "Early Writings" (1854) pp. 27, 33 she says, "I saw that the Holy Sabbath is, and will be, the separating wall between the true Israel of God and unbelievers, and that the Sabbath is the great question to unite the hearts of God's clear-bearing saints. I saw that Popery rose on the Sabbath, and could not come out, the mediation of Jesus, the Holy Priest, was finished." If this means any thing at all, it means that the One Faith, and One Hope of the Gospel has been set aside for the Holy Sabbath. It means that faith, repentance and baptism no longer figure in God's saving plans. It means that since 1851 the love of christ as a constraining power is not employed; and that the Sabbath was the seal, instead of God's Spirit.

We do not see how any one could show profounder ignorance of the simple gospel of the grace of God than these words exhibit.

Think of it! The Sabbath a test after the mediation of Jesus in the Holy Place was finished. The woman who poured this out of her up-lifted head knew what the mediation of Christ consisted of, nor for whom he was mediator. In "Present Truth," p. 22, Aug., 1849 she says what proves the fallacious ideas of Apostate Christendom were hers; viz., that he was up to that time acting as the Mediator for the whole world of mankind. Says she "My accompanying angel bade me look for the travel of soul for sinners as used to be. I looked, but could not see it, for the time for their salvation is past." And Elder Butler says: "There can be no question that for months after the time passed, it was the general sentiment that their work of warning the world was over." And Elder White in Advent Review, March 3, 1885 confesses that the "unanimous feeling and testimony was that our work for the world was finished for ever. And "Present Truth," May, 1850, said: "Not another sinner could be converted. All but Adventists were Lost and damned." And Mrs. White's visions as quoted above, confirmed this abominable doctrine." Remember, it was her "accompanying angel" that called her attention to the fact, so-called, that there was no more travail for souls because the time of salvation was past; and then hear what I. C. Welcome has to say of the source of her information. He says "Eld. J. Turner came to Poland and Portland, Maine, and preached a sermon to prove that Jesus had left the Mediatorial office and mercy seat in heaven on the tenth day of the seventh month, 1844 and had come out into the outer court and blessed his people as the antitype of the high priest, which she and myself heard. She had a vision, and a few days later related it in public where I was, stating substantially that they heavenly Father had shown her that Jesus had left the mercy seat in heaven and come out and closed the door, and she saw Jesus in the outer court surrounded by holy angels. This was held to be a confirmation of Turner's sermon." And when to this it is added that in later visions she claims that Christ went into the holy of holies on the tenth day of the seventh month, 1844 instead of coming out of it as she had seen before,—we are very safe in saying the prophetess has spoken presumptuously,—then shall not be afraid of her.

Selections.

Historic Events Recalled.

The fitful headlines of the current war news strike one with reminiscent passages of history that belong to the first days of British empire making, inspired by the zeal of Columbus and greatly forced by the tyranny and ambition of the Spanish government. That the microbe of the inquisition still lives and is not altogether harmless we have seen in the records of Cuba and the Philippines, the terrible truths of which have yet to be fully known. The confirmation of the Spanish league with the Earl of Tyrone aroused the somewhat dormant spirit of Elizabeth after the defeat of the armada, and compelled action on the lines of Sir Walter Raleigh's advice. It was on the beginning of June that sixteen English ships were equipped against Cadiz and the Dutch added ninety-four. Lord Admiral Howard and Lord Essex were joint commanders, and Sir Walter Raleigh was one of the council that included several famous sea fighters. The Spaniards showed a bold front. Right under the city walls they ranged their galleys so as to flank the English ships as they entered. The guns of Port Philip and the curtain of the city were turned upon the assailants.

In addition to the galleys the enemy had placed artillery on board the large galleons; the whole reaching from shore to shore, were covered by Port Puntal at the entrance of the harbor. But the British bulldogs were of the same breed as many of those the same men who had confronted the armada. At last, on 29 June (22 Old Style) Captain Raleigh, with all his ships saving a few in pursuit, entered the harbor, as the Spanish sailors were stricken by the direction of the Master when they steered into Manila waters. Advancing through the thunder and lightning of forts and ships, taking their fire without returning it, and veering down upon the Spanish admiral. When Raleigh did turn on his guns it was to point their metal into two Spanish ships—obviously the St. Philip and the St. Andrew—two of the vessels that had overpowered Grenville's Revenge. Since then the Spanish fleet was [illegible] Among the captured ships was the St. Andrew. The St Philip was blown up by its commander. The other ships did their best to get out to sea, leaving the city at the mercy of the victors. Only seven ships of the English fleet were engaged in the assault against seventy-one of the Spanish.

If war was more barbaric in those days than we seem to think it now it gave greater opportunities for individual daring, though, to my mind, there can hardly be anything requiring more courage than the fighting of the ships of our day, which are vast and complicated machines. And yet at Manila the sighting of the guns, the scientific measurement of distances and the dropping of shells into the vulnerable points of the defense and other operations were carried on with the calm regularity and order of a factory. We need no examples of pluck, and we have all the staying powers of our fathers, but Manila has lessons for us. In the old days of our fighting with Spain, the don never hesitated about destroying his property, however precious, rather than it should fall into English hands. Moreover, his word bound him no more than that of Russia binds the Muscovite. Nor did he consider his own people when the enemy was to be baffled. While the seven English vessels were laying Cadiz low Raleigh dispatched others to intercept the outward-bound Spanish West Indian fleet. During the afternoon of the victory the merchants of Seville offered 2,000,000 crowns to ransom it; meantime, however, the Duke of Medina-Sidonia caused all the rich argosies to be burned. There was in our ocean work of those adventurous days a good deal that was mercenary, not to say piratical; but Spain was our enemy even when she affected to be at peace with us, and the British would make no peace with a foe that tortured his comrades in her prisons and roasted them alive in her market places. Cadiz was pillaged and its fortresses dismantled and many of its richest citizens handed to the English commanders to be ransomed, and they bought their liberty dearly. No indignity was shown them, however, and such of them as sailed to England were well entertained by their captors; but woe betide any Englishman that fell into Spanish hands! It is of passing interest to recall the fact that after the army had embarked and sailed from Cadiz the fleet made a descent upon Faro, and the library of Bishop Osorius was taken as booty, to become eventually the nucleus of the Bodleian Library at Oxford.

The Anglo-Saxon is the most sentimental of human beings. One had come to think, however, that the yankee was a sufficiently mixed product to keep his heart out of any political or international transaction. Not a bit of it. The Old Leaven is there. He has gone to war just like the old country for an idea. The history of British warfare is full of such campaigns. Look at the bucolic figure that is accepted as typical of Great Britain, and you might credit him with everything in national policy that is hard and matter of fact. But beneath John Bull's waistcoat there is a heart open to the tenderest emotions, and under his hat a brain that is [illegible] as susceptible to the cry of suffering and distress. Brother Jonathan, in his stripe-trousers lower coat and goatee, [illegible] his "Old and Aging" "Uncle Sambo," does [illegible] suggest much in the way of poetic feeling or a fancy of fighting other people's battles; but it is the humor of the two peoples to caricature themselves in this whimsical fashion. We poke fun at each other now and then, as is the way with Anglo-Saxon families, though we are apt to loose our tempers over anything like an unjust aspersion. There is, however, underlying all bickerings a strong substratum of common sense which is not likely to permit of our drifting at any time into serious unfriendly complications. Nothing could do more than the present trouble with Spain to cement the union of England and America. It has shown Washington who are its best friends in Europe, and demonstrated to them the sacrifices En land would be willing to make under the impulse of that kinship which moved the yankee captain years ago to speak to our assistance in Pekin Bay, and when questioned, if not regretting his government, said in reply that "blood is thicker than water." Tribune.

Kin Beyond the Sea.

Gladstone has just ended his long and most arduous and most glorious career, unsurpassed if not unequaled by that of any other statesman in the long history of civil and religious liberty in all Christendom. He was, as he is raised in your editorial columns of Thursday, "The greatest Englishman since Chatham and Pitt." "His death is a loss to the noble idealism that has inspired what is best in the civilization of the century," "in value and utility surpassing the achievements of any other statesman." "equally great as commoner and financier."

In his "Gleanings of Past Years," 1843–78, occur some passages that may serve to confirm and illustrate your estimate of his preeminent abilities.

Part VIII., "Kin Beyond Sea," some forty-five pages, presents admirably the spirit and style of the Grand Old Man:

"Higher and deeper than the concern of the Old World at large in the thirteen colonies, now grown into thirty-eight States, besides eight Territories, is the special interest of England in their condition and prospects.

"It is America alone who, at a coming time, can and probably will wrest from England her commercial preeminence. She will probably become what we are now, the head servant in the great household of the world, the employer of all employed; because her service will be the most and ablest.

"The students of the future in the tranquil domain of political philosophy will have much to say in comparison between American and British institutions.

"There is no parallel in all the records of the world to the case of that prolific British mother, who has sent forth her innumerable children over all the earth to be the founders of half a dozen empires.

"Among these children there is one whose place in the world's eye and in history is superlative, it is the American republic. She is the oldest born. She has, taking the capacity of her land into view, as well as its mere measurement, a natural base for the greatest continuous empire ever established by man. The development which the republic has effected has been unexampled for its rapidity and force. While other countries have doubled or at most trebled their population, she has risen, during one century of freedom, in round numbers from two millions to forty-five (1878.) As to riches, it is reasonable to establish from the decennial stages of progress thus far achieved a series for the future; and, reckoning upon this basis, I suppose that the very next census, in the year 1880, will exhibit her to the world as certainly the wealthiest of all the nations. The huge figure of a thousand millions sterling, which may be taken roundly as the annual income of the United Kingdom, has been reached at a surprising rate—a rate which may perhaps be best expressed by saying that, if we could have started from zero, at the rate of our annual increment, we should now have reached our present position. But while we have been advancing with this portentious rapidity, America is passing us by as if in a canter. Yet even now the work of searching the soil and the bowels of the territory, and opening out her enterprise throughout its vast expanse, is in its infancy. The England and the America of the present are probably the two strongest nations of the world.

"In many and the most fundamental respects [illegible] still carry [illegible] perhaps in increasing clearness the [illegible]

"Both wish for self-government, and, however grave the drawbacks under which in one or both exists, the two have among the great nations of the world made the most effectual advances toward the true aim of rational politics.

"They are similarly associated in their fixed idea that the force in which all government takes effect is to be constantly tasked and, as it were, illuminated by thought in speech and writing. They are governments not of force only but of persuasion.

"Many more are the concords, and not less vital than these, of the two nations, as expressed in their institutions. They alike prefer the practical to the abstract. They tolerate opinion, with only a reserve on behalf of decency, and they desire to confine coercion to the province of action, and to leave thought, as such, entirely free. They set a high value on liberty for its own sake. They desire to give full scope to the principles of self reliance in the people, and they deem self-help to be in measurably superior to help in any other form.

"They mistrust and misdike the centralization of power.

"They regard publicity as the vital air of politics.

"Their area, however, the strongest reasons why America could not grow into a reflection or repetition of England.

"In England inequality lies imbedded in the very base of the social structure; in America it is a late, incidental, unrecognized product, not of tradition but of industry and wealth, as they advance with various and of necessity unequal steps. Heredity, seated as an idea in the heart's core of Englishmen, and sustaining far more than it is sustained by those of our institutions which express it, was as truly absent from the intellectual and moral store with which the colonists traversed the Atlantic as if it had been some forgotten article in the bills of lading that made up their cargoes. Equality combined with liberty, and renewable at each descent from one generation to another, was the ground-work of their social creed.

"The infancy of the States had been upon the whole what their manhood was to be, self-governed and republican. Their revolution as we call it, was like ours (1688) in the main, a vindication of liberties inherited and possessed—a conservative revolution.

The two constitutions of the two countries express, indeed, rather the differences than the resemblances of the nations. The one is a thing grown, the other a thing made; the one a praxis, the other a puncta; the one the offspring of tendency and indeterminate time, the other of choice and of an epoch. But as the British constitution is the most subtle organism which has proceeded from the womb and the long gestation of progressive history, so the American constitution is, so far as I can see, the most wonderful work ever struck off at a given time by the brain and purpose of man.

"I should fail, in looking at the institutions of America, like one who attempts to scan the stars with naked eye."

Now, the above brief quotations, while not entire and consecutive, may suffice to turn the attention of your most intelligent readers to the whole article, "Kin Beyond Sea," as a most instructive, luminous, and concise view of the likeness of the two governments. It is a finished sketch by the master's hand, in the ripeness of his consummate power. It is timely now, and will grow more valuable in future years, not now distant, when the mutual relations of these most powerful governments and most powerful nations, practically one, now and from the outset, in the paramount essentials of race, language, literature, liberties, laws, and religion, may become the inseparable and fraternal relations between two of the great "living nations" of the world.

Lord Salisbury has just described these "great countries of enormous power, growing in power every year, growing in wealth, growing in dominion, growing in the perfection of their organization," as given in his speech in London on May 4, with vivid force and startling novelty of analysis, for we hardly know where to find a parallel, turning the searchlight of truth with astonishing effect on the nations at large, if we judge by the comments of some European statesmen. We are "not of the night, nor of darkness."—Levi Wells Hart.

Daily Easo and West—a Peerless Trio of Fast Express Trains, each direction, vestibuled buffet sleepers, unexcelled dining car service. [illegible] low rates ask Agents of Nickel Plate [illegible]

Poetry.

The Kingdom of God.

TUNE—"OH, BUSY MR NOT."

A message we bring you from heaven above,
A message of sweetness, a message of love;
That the Nobleman journeys, now, far, far abroad,
To secure him a kingdom: "The kingdom of God!"

Oh, the kingdom of God! The kingdom of God!
The glorious kingdom: the kingdom of God.

The prophets of Israel have long since foretold,
That God would fulfill all his promise of old;
His oath to the fathers; whose lives were unsaved
Who died in the hope of "The kingdom so good."

Oh, the kingdom of God! The kingdom of God!
The long-prayed-for kingdom: the kingdom of God.

The dominion and kingdom forever shall stand,
A pure reign of peace will bless every land;
Earth's nations accepting, are sceptre and rod,
Of the King of kings, in "The kingdom of God."

Oh, the kingdom of God! The kingdom of God!
The world-conquering kingdom: the kingdom of God.

Repent and believe the glad tidings today,
And obey from the heart in God's own way:
Let your feet with the gospel of peace be shod,
Then look for and hasten to "The kingdom of God."

Oh, the kingdom of God! The kingdom of God!
The gospel-taught kingdom: the kingdom of God.

An heir of God: a joint-heir with his Son:
"Abba, Father," the cry, "Let thy will be done."
With faith in his Word, and with love's path well trod,
Stand firm for the truth of "The kingdom of God."

Oh, the kingdom of God! The kingdom of God!
The soon-coming kingdom! The kingdom of God!

When Christ shall return in a cloud from heaven,
To each faithful one will a crown be given:—
A Spirit-birth life, and this earthly clod,
Will rejoice evermore in "The kingdom of God."

Oh, the kingdom of God! The kingdom of God!
The age-lasting kingdom: the kingdom of God!

DR. J. K. THOMPSON.

Communicated.

One Nation upon the Mountains of Israel.

"I will make them one nation in the land upon the mountains of Israel; and one king shall be king to them all; and they shall be no more two nations, neither shall they be divided into two kingdoms any more at all." Ezek. xxxvii. 22.

In 975 B. C., the ten tribes revolted under Jeroboam and was known as the kingdom of Israel, to distinguish it from the kingdom of Judah. At this time, Israel became divided into two kingdoms.

Israel was carried captive about 721 B. C., and in 606 to 588 B. C., Judah also was led away; and since this time, neither Judah nor Israel has ever existed as independent governments under their own kings.

The text quoted above gives assurance that a permanent union of the two nations under one king, shall yet be effected, and already God's stately steppings is seen among the nations, which will culminate in the rescue of his ancient people.

On this account, it becomes of great interest and importance that we should closely watch Israel's movements. Many are watching Anglo-Saxon Gentiles, supposing them to be ancient Israel, and on account of this mistake, will err in noticing the fulfillment of prophecy.

I have gained many excellent thoughts on this topic, by reading a work entitled "Israel my Glory." I will introduce a few points to show that and in another paper, where are the ten tribes?

ANGLO-SAXONS ARE NOT ISRAEL,

1. See Num. xxiii. 9. This prophecy deals with the twelve tribes, and that of course takes in the ten tribes. A strict literal translation made by Wilkenson, reads as follows: "Lo, the people alone shall dwell, and among the nations shall not reckon itself."

Who can with truth affirm that Anglo-Saxon England dwells alone? The mere fact that the English are an island people, does not cover the prophecy any more than it would the Irish, (Celts) or any other island people.

Notice particularly the last clause of the prophecy: "Among the nations shall not reckon itself." Is not this quite remote from being applicable to Anglo-Saxon England? Does she not reckon herself not only as being a nation, but a mighty and powerful nation among the nations. England, indeed, reckons itself as a nation among nations, thus proving that she is not ancient Israel. The prophecy fits no other people except ancient Israel, yet in exile among the nations, and still disorganized as a government, waiting for the coming of the Son of David.

2. For the next point, see Hosea iii. 4, 5: "For the children of Israel shall remain many days without a king, and without a prince; * * * afterwards the CHILDREN OF ISRAEL shall return, and seek Jehovah their God, and David their king; and they shall tremblingly hasten to Jehovah, and to his goodness in the LATTER DAYS."

The "many days" in which Israel should remain without "king" or "prince," shall reach unto the "latter days," at which time they will seek "Jehovah their God," and "David their king," which the Targum and the Rabbins say, refers to "Messiah the Son of David."

Kimchi, a Jewish writer of the middle ages says, speaking of this passage: "And these are the days of our present captivity, for we have neither king nor prince of Israel, but are under the rule of the nations, and even under the rule of their kings and princes.

How about Anglo-Saxon England? Do they lack civil rulers? And from all appearances it will indeed, be very many days before they are "without a prince," which is a clear proof that they are not the "children of Israel," named in this prophecy.

In considering the prophecy, it would be well to remember that Hosea's mission was to the ten-tribed kingdom of Israel, and the things prophesied of, are clear mis-fits when applied to Anglo-Saxon Gentiles.

Why not let the prophecy rest, and apply to the people concerning which they relate, in place of twisting it to make it apply to a people for which it was never intended. This practice was largely indulged in by the so-called spiritual Israel. The glorious promises and blessings recorded in the prophets as applicable to Israel, they apply to themselves, much the same as some of these Anglo-Saxon Gentiles do.

3. For the third misfit, see Deut. iv. 26, 27; xxviii. 62-66; Jer. xxx. 3, 4, 19.

"The Lord shall scatter you among the nations, and ye shall be left few in number among the heathen, whether the Lord shall lead you."

This is spoken of the twelve tribes, and not Judah alone, in about the year 1,451 B. C., but the division into two kingdoms, did not take place until about 975 B. C.

Tell me: are the Anglo-Saxons "few in number," and "left" "scattered among the nations?" or are they not a numerous and powerful people, already organized into nations?

Both Israel and Judah were to remain "scattered," and "few" and not organized as a nation, until their final regathering to the land covenanted to their fathers.

See Jer. xxx. 3, 4, 19: "I will bring again the captivity of ISRAEL and JUDAH, saith the Lord: and I will cause THEM to return to the land that I gave to their fathers, and they shall possess it. And these are the words that the Lord spake concerning ISRAEL and concerning JUDAH. * * * I will multiply them, and they shall not be few; I will also glorify them, and they shall not be small."

Another noted prophecy concerning the whole of the twelve tribes, is found in Deut. xxviii. 62-66: "And ye shall be left few in number, whereas ye were as the stars of heaven for multitude, because thou wouldst not obey the voice of the Lord thy God. * * * The Lord shall scatter thee among all people, from one end of the earth even unto the other."

This prophecy relates to the ten tribes, as well as the two. Are the Anglo-Saxons "few in number?" And when it says "few in number," it means "few," as any one can see by the comparative phrase: "Whereas ye were as the stars of heaven for multitude," in the past. Are they (Anglo-Saxons) nationally disorganized, and "scattered among all people from one end of the earth, even unto the other?" If they are not, then it is a fixed fact, that Anglo-Saxons are not the ten tribes of Israel.

4. The fourth point, showing that Anglo-Saxons cannot be Israel, is found in Gen. xvii. 10, 14: "Every male among you shall be circumcised." "And the uncircumcised male child whose flesh of his fore-skin is not circumcised, that soul shall be cut off from his people; he hath broken my covenant."

None could participate in the national covenant made unto Israel, except by circumcision. The person refusing to comply could not be recognized as an Israelite under the blessings of their national covenant. He "shall be cut off from his people," "he hath broken my covenant," he could be no more to them than an uncircumcised Gentile.

Are the Anglo-Saxons a circumcised people? If uncircumcised they are not Israel, and cannot be reckoned as Israel, they have no part in Israel's national covenant. Uncircumcised Anglo-Saxons cannot claim to be circumcised Israelites.

5. The fifth point is found in Ezek. xxi. 25-27. Here he addresses the last profane and wicked prince of ISRAEL, and says: "Thus saith the Lord God, remove the diadem, take off the crown, this shall not be the same; exalt him that is low, and abase him that is high. I will overturn, overturn, overturn it; and it shall be no more, until he come whose right it is; and I will give it him." They should be scattered abroad, driven from their own land, and be without king, prince, crown, diadem, or throne, "until he come whose right it is." Neither should they even reckon themselves a nation among nations.

How is it with Anglo-Saxon England? Is is one of the most powerful nations upon earth; they take pride in reckoning themselves as a nation among nations; they possess a crown, throne, and very costly diadems; and they have been blessed with prosperity and abundance, beyond many of the nations among whom it reckons itself a nation. These facts entirely exclude Anglo-Saxon England from laying any claim to being dispersed Israel.

The twelve tribes were banished from Palestine on account of their national sins, and while in dispersion, they should be more or less under the national curse, which curse would be upon them as long as they should remain in exile among the nations.

Anglo-Saxon England knows nothing about being in exile, they recognize no other country other than Old England, as being their native land, and no other princes as heirs to their throne, except the descendants of the royal family. While Israel were to be without other king or princes while in dispersion, and no heir should occupy their overturned throne, "until he come whose right it is."

The condition of Anglo-Saxon England is very far from being the condition of Israel while in exile. The differences are so great, as to amount to an absolute certainty, that they are not Israel in dispersion.

Please notice this fact, that dispersed Israel were to be deprived of king, princes, throne, crown, or any national government, as long as they should remain in exile from Palestine. God would not bless them in any attempt to thus organize either in the British isles, or in America. It will be upon the mountains of Israel that they will again resume national life, and become a glory and power among the nations, under the rule of the Son of David as their King. At this time, Israel will become the nation among nations, it will be the glory of the nations. Do not darken counsel by misapplying Scripture, it means just what it says. When it says Israel, it means Israel, and not Anglo-Saxon Gentiles.

W. H. WILSON.

Announcement.

Editor Restitution:

The Church of God at Ashvale, Kan., (Post Office address, Hunter, Mitchell Co., Kan.,) will hold a grove meeting (D. V.) beginning on the 29th day of July, 1898, and continuing over Sunday, and as long as may be deemed best thereafter, at or near the Ashgrove schoolhouse in Lincoln Co., Kansas. The place of meeting is on Bacon's Creek, a tributary of the Spillman, about 16 miles northwest from Lincoln Center, Kansas.

Bro. J. T. Kiggins of Bavaria, Saline Co., Kan., a very zealous and worthy exponent of the truth, under whose efforts the church at this place was organized, informs me that he expects Bro. W. J. Grem and other good preaching brethren will be present to assist in proclaim the Word.

This is believed to be an excellent point for the commencement of a good and profitable work. We are in the country, a long way from the R. R., but will be glad to meet as many of the brethren of the like precious faith as possible at this meeting. A cordial greeting will be given to all who may come.

Yours in the faith and hope of the gospel,

J. K. THOMPSON, Elder.

Homeseekers' Low Rate Excursion via Nickel Plate Road.

To designated points North-west, West and South-west, also to designated points in the South, June 7th and 21st. Ask Agents.—j 20.

Rates to all points east and west, lower via Nickel Plate Road than via other lines. Ask Agents.—1 t.

Obituary

Died at her home, near Mine LaMotte, Mo., on May 28 of consumption, Mrs. Laura Townsend, wife of George M. Townsend; born Feb. 19, 1866. Sister Townsend leaves a husband and five small children to mourn her loss. She was baptized into the all-saving name of Jesus about two years ago, by J. S. Hatch of Indiana. Bro. G. M. Townsend was baptized one year prior to that time by John Foore of Kansas. Since then they have both continued steadfast in the faith once delivered to the saints, ever ready to defend the cause and to persuade others to turn to Christ, that they might have eternal life in the kingdom of God when Jesus comes to make up his jewels. In the untimely death of Sister Townsend the husband and little children are suffering the loss of a kind and loving wife and mother, her aged mother and brothers and sisters the loss of a good and kind daughter and sister; to the little band of believers here she will be greatly missed. But we sorrow not as others who have no hope, for if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him. The day is near at hand when death will give place to life, sorrow and tears to joy and gladness, and never more shall we follow our loved ones to the silent grave. Take courage, dear brother, stand firm in the faith, the glad day of release, so long looked for by worthies of old, is about to burst upon the world in all its grandeur, when all the holy sleepers shall come forth from their dusty beds, clothed in immortal glory, singing redemption's song, shouting triumphant victory over death and the grave.

Your Brother in Christ,

P. J. GRAHAM.

A Word of Thanks.

To the brethren and sisters who have so kindly contributed to relieve the needs of our aged Sister Heyes, I send cordial thanks, and beg to submit to them the following report. I have received from

Edgar Hatch,	.50
M. M. Nichols,	.50
Mrs. Anthon,	.50
Mary E. Knowles,	.50
A. A. Siple,	1.00
C. J. & S. Lee,	1.00
J. Armstrong,	2.00
Annie Hogarth,	3.00
Mary J. Riggs,	5.00
Jennie Page,	2.00
Total,	16.00

Besides this I have received from others, who wished only for private acknowledgements, (which have been sent) various sums amounting in all to six dollars more. This makes a total of just twenty-two dollars, a portion of which has already been forwarded to Sister Hayes, and I expect to send again in a few days.

Knowing that even a "cup of cold water" which is given to a disciple because he is a disciple "shall in no wise lose its reward", I thank you, dear friends, in the name of our soon coming King, for your tender loving thought of one of his "little ones." May the dear Father bless and keep you all until the coming of that glorylit morning when earth shall wear her bridal robes, and be wedded to the glories of eternity.

Yours in hope.

ELIZABETH A. REED.

Bishop Wm. Taylor (Methodists) who has just returned from Africa, called recently on President Kruger. 'I found the ruler of the Boer republic, he said, 'an exceedingly unassuming man. He heard with interest of the work I was doing and spoke very encouragingly to me. He is an intensely religious man. He rises at six o'clock in the morning to hold family prayers and preaches nearly every Sunday.'

Very low Rates to Omaha, Neb.

Via the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western R'y). Excursion tickets at exceptionally low rates to Omaha and return (affording a visit to the Trans-Mississippi and International Exposition, Omaha) will be sold June 19 and 20, account of National Eclectic Medical Association meeting; and will be sold June 21 and 22, account of American Institute of Homeopathy, all with favorable return limits. For rates and other information ask your nearest Ticket Agent or write, C. Traver, 507 Smithfield street (Park Building), Pittsburg, Pa., or W. J. Kuskern, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago, Ill.—1 t.

Biennial Meeting Federation of Women's Club at Denver, Colo., June 21st to 23rd. Lowest excursion rates via Nickel Plate Road. Ask agents.—1 t.

Selected.

All Europe Worried

London, June 11.—There is a hopeful feeling in diplomatical and financial circles that the West Indian war will not last long. The speedy collapse of Spanish rule in Cuba and the Philippines is assumed to be inevitable in every European capital except Paris and Madrid. The Spanish Cabinet sternly resolves to continue the war to the bitter end, but the military and naval forces have not yet shown any sign of fighting power. The Spanish garrisons at Manila and in Cuba have been left to their fate, because it is impossible to reinforce them or deliver them from famine. The Cadiz fleet is useless for actual warfare, and Cervera's game of hide-and-seek has ended ignominiously.

It is not easy to determine what impressions these exhibitions of Spanish inefficiency are making upon the public mind in Madrid, but it is evident that the truth is slowly coming out that the situation is a hopeless one, and that no blow can be struck for the defense of the country's honor. Whether the full force of this revelation can be felt without an outburst of revolutionary passion is a question fraught with mystery. The best-informed observers believe that Sagasta will make peace whenever he considers negotiations safe and the maintenance of the monarchy possible.

No attention is paid in England or on the continent to the future of Cuba, since that is considered an exclusively American question. With respect to the Philippines there is a different feeling. Germany, France, England, and Russia are all intensely interested in the outcome of the American conquest and occupation. The idea which has taken possession of the minds of many influential Englishmen is that the islands may pass under the control of France. They assume that when peace is negotiated the Philippines will be held as security for payment of the war indemnity by Spain and that France will provide the money and take the islands, precisely as England has obtained Wei-Hai-Wei. This result which many influential Englishmen apprehend, and probably official Germany is thinking of it also. It may be assumed with the utmost confidence that England would prefer a permanent American occupation of the Philippines to any other settlement. Germany, on the other hand, cannot reconcile herself to the acquisition of the islands by any foreign power.

The debate last night in the Commons on the government's foreign policy was inconclusive except on one point. This was the satisfaction felt on all sides over the good will existing between England and America. Sir Charles Dilke, Sir William Harcourt, Mr. Asquith, Mr. Chamberlain, and Mr. Curzon were all one mind on that question. Americans should not make the mistake of supposing that Mr. Morley and the Liberals are cool towards America. They are warm and hearty in their friendship for the United States. No English leader could afford to take any line of action pointing in any other direction. Mr. Chamberlain disclaimed the notion that he favored any particular continental alliance or that he had been touting for assistance from any quarter, but again protested against the policy of isolation, and closed with an eloquent reference to an American alliance.

Mr. Chamberlain was in advance of English opinion in his speech at Birmingham, but he now has the support of the country, and knows it.

Important concessions have been made to England at Hongkong, but every member who took part in last night's debate was well aware that these were insignificant in comparison with the advantages to be derived from common action with the United States in the East and West Indies.

All Old World affairs curiously lose their accustomed proportions and perspective in the light of the war news from the Western Hemisphere. Nothing in Europe is as it was a few months ago, yet it would baffle the wisest to analyze the differences. All that can be perceived is that the former scales of standards are profoundly altered. Events, which last year would have convulsed Europe, pass now almost unheeded. Other incidents which then would have had hardly more than cursory attention are taken up now as the most sinister portents. Often those dispatches have quoted Bismarck's declaration that Morocco was Europe's true powder magazine. Every week that doomed Spain sinks further into the quicksands makes this saying gleam out more luridly, like the writing of fire on the wall. There has ceased to be any other question of the first importance in the European chancelleries but that of Morocco and the Spanish islands to the northeast and southwest of it. Even though more excited circumstantial reports than usual of impending trouble with the Balkans are coming to hand, no one really cares about them. If Nikita of Montenegro were to declare himself in the field tomorrow as the restorer of old Servia, it would hardly take politicians' minds from what they conceive to be the great imminent issue of the Mediterranean. As for China, though Russia and England maintain a yapping attitude toward each other on the subject, people are not thinking about it. The statement that the West African dispute, which threatened war a few months ago, has been practically settled appears in small type. Nothing else really matters compared with the partition of Spain's inheritance.

Agreed as all are on the grave importance which Morocco and its geographical appanages have suddenly attained, there is hopeless mystification as to the course its development in this, no better chance is afforded than the fertile farming lands, at low prices and reasonable terms, situated along the line of the Chicago & North-Western R'y, in western Minnesota and South Dakota.

This locality is forging to the front and yearly gaining immense wealth from its fine crops, dairy interests and stock raising.

For further information regarding Homeseekers' rates, etc., please apply to W. B. Kniskern, G. P. and T. A., 22 Fifth Ave., Chicago.

Excursion to Denver, Pueblo and Colorado Springs via Nickel Plate Road, June 15th, 16th and 17.—1 t.

'Though we believe not, yet he abideth faithful.' and 'those who honor him, he will honor.' 'Twould not be becoming in a king to be indebted to his subjects. The King of kings will reward as becometh a King of kings all who have served him.

Nickel Plate Road Excursions to Denver, Pueblo and Colorado Springs.—1 t.

saying gleam out more luridly, like the writing of fire on the wall. There has ceased to be any other question of the first importance in the European chancelleries but that of Morocco and the Spanish islands to the northeast and southwest of it. Even though more excited circumstantial reports than usual of impending trouble with the Balkans are coming to hand, no one really cares about them. If Nikita of Montenegro were to declare himself in the field tomorrow as the restorer of old Servia, it would hardly take politicians' minds from what they conceive to be the great imminent issue of the Mediterranean. As for China, though Russia and England maintain a yapping attitude toward each other on the subject, people are not thinking about it. The statement that the West African dispute, which threatened war a few months ago, has been practically settled appears in small type. Nothing else really matters compared with the partition of Spain's inheritance.

Agreed as all are on the grave importance which Morocco and its geographical appanages have suddenly attained, there is hopeless mystification as to the course its development in this, no better chance is afforded than the fertile farming lands, at low prices and reasonable terms, situated along the line of the Chicago & North-Western R'y, in western Minnesota and South Dakota.

This locality is forging to the front and yearly gaining immense wealth from its fine crops, dairy interests and stock raising.

For further information regarding Homeseekers' rates, etc., please apply to W. B. Kniskern, G. P. and T. A., 22 Fifth Ave., Chicago.

Excursion to Denver, Pueblo and Colorado Springs via Nickel Plate Road, June 15th, 16th and 17.—1 t.

'Though we believe not, yet he abideth faithful.' and 'those who honor him, he will honor.' 'Twould not be becoming in a king to be indebted to his subjects. The King of kings will reward as becometh a King of kings all who have served him.

Nickel Plate Road Excursions to Denver, Pueblo and Colorado Springs.—1 t.

Where to spend the Fourth. Visit Washington and Ohio Troops in Camp—Excursion via Pennsylvania Lines.

An opportunity for a delightful Fourth of July or vacation trip and a visit to the Ohio Soldiers at Fairfax Court House, Virginia, is presented by the special low rate excursions to Washington over the Pennsylvania Lines for the National Educational Association meeting. Tickets at special reduced fare will be sold July 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, good returning until July 12th, with privilege to extend until August 31st.

A number of persons are arranging to make the trip from this locality to see the sights at the National Capitol and visit relatives and friends among the soldiers at Camp Alger, near Washington. It will be a delightful way in which to spend the Glorious Fourth. Full particulars about rates, time of trains and other details will be furnished in reply to inquiries addressed to local Ticket Agent, J. E. Haines, or C. L. Kimball, A. G. P. Agt., Cleveland, O.—July 6.

June 15th, 16th and 17th on account Biennial Meeting Federation Women's Club. Ask Agents.—1 t.

Of Interest to Homeseekers.

To those desirous of owning a farm home, and seeking by industry and thrift to attain an independent condition in life, no better chance is afforded than the fertile farming lands, at low prices and reasonable terms, situated along the line of the Chicago & North-Western R'y, in western Minnesota and South Dakota.

This locality is forging to the front and yearly gaining immense wealth from its fine crops, dairy interests and stock raising.

For further information regarding Homeseekers' rates, etc., please apply to W. B. Kniskern, G. P. and T. A., 22 Fifth Ave., Chicago.

Excursion to Denver, Pueblo and Colorado Springs via Nickel Plate Road, June 15th, 16th and 17.—1 t.

'Though we believe not, yet he abideth faithful.' and 'those who honor him, he will honor.' 'Twould not be becoming in a king to be indebted to his subjects. The King of kings will reward as becometh a King of kings all who have served him.

Nickel Plate Road Excursions to Denver, Pueblo and Colorado Springs.—1 t.

The Destiny of the Wicked.

Shall we believe those who reject the true teachings of God's most sacred Word and will not obey his commandments, but hold to traditions and commandments of men and the doctrine of devils, shall obtain eternal life, separate and apart from the plan of salvation? We must believe, if God's Word be true, that there are two ways, one to eternal life, and the other to eternal death, and we are on one road or the other. Which road are we on? "There is a way that seemeth right unto man, but the end thereof are the ways of death." If death does not mean death, then surely life does not mean life, and if the wages of sin does not mean death, the gift of God does not mean eternal life. Jesus says, "He that hath me hath life, and he that hath not me hath not life, for the Reaper receives a reward and gathers fruit for aionion life so that the sower and the Reaper may rejoice together."

But there were false prophets among the people, even as there shall be false teachers among you who privily shall bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them and bring upon themselves swift destruction and many shall follow their pernicious ways, by reason of whom the way of truth shall be evil spoken of." Yes, some way, just so we are sincere in our belief we will be saved. Now, dear friends, let us examine the Scriptures.

"He that hath an ear let him hear what the Spirit sayeth unto the churches: He that overcometh shall not be hurt of the second death." Rev. ii. 11. "For if God spared not the angels that sinned, but cast them down to hell and delivered them into chains of darkness [or death], to be reserved unto the day of judgment, and spared not the old world, but saved Noah, the eighth person, a preacher of righteousness, bringing in the flood upon the age of the ungodly, and turning the cities of Sodom and Gomorrha into ashes condemned them with an overthrow, making them an example for the impious hereafter."

Now, here is a distinction drawn between the two classes for an example to those who live righteous and those that are ungodly. Noah made known to the Antediluvian age a way whereby they might escape the great deluge that was then to overwhelm that age, but being disobedient unto his command, choosing rather to be disobedient, when once the long-suffering of God waited in the days of Noah, while the ark was preparing. Yes, there were only eight that obeyed the command and the rest were all destroyed; to show forth an example to those who live ungodly that they will suffer a penalty who refuse to obey the teachings of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, when he comes in "flaming fire, taking vengeance on them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ; who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord and from the glory of his power. When he shall come to be glorified in his saints and to be admired of all them that believe in that day."

There are those who are looking for our Lord's return to this earth again, yes, loved ones, we can see the signs are nearly all fulfilled, the clouds of darkness will soon disappear, and the glorious morning will soon be ushered in "and to those who look for him will he appear the second time without sin unto salvation," and then "the sea will give up the dead which are in it; and death and hell or the grave will give up the dead which are in them," and we are all to be judged every one "according to their works." "And whoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire there to receive the second death," not eternal life in endless torment throughout the ceaseless ages of eternity.

Some believe the wicked will all finally be saved. Pray tell me where they get their eternal life from? Let God's Word decide all difference of opinion, regardless of man's theory. "For the mystery of iniquity doth already work: only he who now letteth will let, until he be taken out of the way, even him whose coming is after the working of Satan with all power and signs and lying wonders. And with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish; because they receive not the love of the truth that they might be saved. And for this cause God shall send them strong delusions that they should believe a lie." That they all might be damned who believed not the truth but had pleasure in unrighteousness. "Therefore brethren, let us not sleep as do others, but let us watch and be sober." Let us be the children of light, for what is our hope, our joy, our crown of rejoicing? Are we not all to be in the presence of our Lord Jesus Christ at his coming? "Even now the axe lies at the Root of Trees: every tree therefore not producing good fruit is cut down and cast into a fire. "I indeed immerse you in water in order to Reformation: but he who is coming after me is more powerful than I: whose sandals I am not worthy to carry. He will immerse you in Holy Spirit and in fire. Whose winnowing shovel is in his hand and he will effectually cleanse his threshing floor. He will gather his wheat into the granary, but the chaff he will consume with fire inextinguishable." Emphatic Diaglott. Matt. iii. 10 to 12. So we can see by this the Holy Spirit and fire are to do their work at Christ's second coming. The baptism of the Holy Spirit will be given to all the faithful ones at Christ's second coming, while the baptism of the fire will be given to the wicked who are reprosented as chaff.

"For behold, the day cometh, that shall burn as an oven; and all the proud, yea, all that do wickedly shall be stubble: and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the Lord of hosts, that it shall leave them neither root nor branch. And ye shall tread down the wicked, for they shall be ashes under the soles of your feet in the day that I shall do this saith the Lord of Hosts." Mal. iv. 1, 3.

"For the great day of his wrath is come and who shall be able to stand?" A vast number will thus lament. All who can not join the shout of welcome will unite in the wail of despair. There will be but two classes in that day, and to one of those classes each one living will belong. To which shall I belong? Solemn question. To which party will you belong, reader? No one can wait for Christ who is not prepared for his coming. Only the precious blood of Jesus that cleanses from sin can prepare us to receive him, and fit us to dwell in his presence. Have you an interest in his forgiving love? Is your peace made with God? If so, his coming has no terror to you, for he comes to save his waiting people.

As ever your Sister in Christ,
MRS. GEORGE OSBORN.

Reduced Fares to Various Points via Pennsylvania Lines.

Excursion tickets will be sold via Pennsylvania Lines as indicated in the following paragraphs. Although concessions in fare are authorized for meetings of certain Orders, tickets may be obtained by any person whether a member of the Order or interested in the event. The reduced rates will be open to everybody.

To Louisville, Ky., June 19th and 20th, for Jr. O. U. A. M. National Council Meeting. Return limit June 26th.

To Washington, D. C., July 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the National Educational Association Meeting. Good to return July 15th, with privilege to extend return limit until August 31st.

To Chicago, Ill., July 12th and 13th for Young People's Christian Union, Universalist Church. Good returning July 21st, with privilege to extend until August 10th.

To Buffalo, N. Y., July 12th 13th, 14th and 15th, good returning until July 19th, with privilege to extend until September 1st, account Baptist Young People's Union International Convention.

To Saratoga, N. Y., August 1st and 2nd, account Young People's Christian Union, U. P. Church. Return limit August 10th, with privilege to extend until August 31st.

To Richmond, Ind., August 19th and 20th, good returning until August 29th, account Society of Friends Conference.

To Cincinnati, Ohio, September 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the G. A. R. National Encampment. Good returning until September 13th, with privilege of extension until October 2d.

To Pittsburgh, Pa., October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th 12th and 13th, good returning until October 17th, account Knights Templar Triennial Conclave. Return limit may be extended until October 31st.

During the excursion season special rates will also be in effect via Pennsylvania Lines for special and local events. For particular information please apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines or address C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1898. The cost is only three cents a week.

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing. Said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 20th of April, 1898, providing notice is given through THE RESTITUTION that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all remittances to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 340, Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. S. J. Sigler,	$10.00
J. L. Winey,	5.00
P. L. Austin,	10.00
Edgar Hatch,	1.00
Agnes Dilworth,	2.00
Mrs. Mary E. Thompson,	15.00
One who believes that God from little offerings can work out great results,	10.00
A Friend of Truth,	1.00
Mrs. S. A. Wicklaer,	5.00
Mrs. A. M. Siple,	10.00
Mrs. Mary J. Riggs,	2.00

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

Just what you Want.

An artistic booklet entitled "Summer Outing" published by the Nickel Plate Road, describing vacation resorts along south shore of Lake Erie, also fine list of country homes open to country boarders, sent to any address on application to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O.—june 30.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. H. Stevens, Shawnee Mound, Mo.
S. R. Cinkenbeard, Denison, Texas.
F. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
H. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. M. Chesbrough, Galesburgh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 3816 Saratoga st., Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Rollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 155 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio.
W. L. Skeels, Scholls, Ore.
E. Hayt, Box 384, Grand Rapids, Mich.
S. Roxana Winey, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Hean, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Sicickeville, Ind.
J. W. Niles, Edinboro, Pa.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Chismville, Ark.
J. J. Cady, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prime, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eyelsimer, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kram, 4507, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Olson, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hull, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Sidell, Ill.
S. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adkins, Osawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
D. M. Hudler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. G. Hauge, Laurel, Neb.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, Okla.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Prinmer, Joseph, Ia.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
H. T. Baker, Box 1608 Decorah, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Cottonwood, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Monmouth, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Stella, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 44, Viola, Idaho.
Elder H. M. Williams, Portland, Kan.
B. Wilson, 1205 G St., Sacramento, Cal.
D. T. Halstead, Remsselaer, Ind.
John Poore, 2012 West Carolina Ave. Parsons, Kansas.
R. N. Dwiggins, Remsselaer, Ind.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 384 Grand Rapids, Mich.

Lake View Hotel—Lake Maxinkuckee (Culver), Ind.,

Will reopen on June 20th, 1898, for the Summer season, with improved service and thoroughly modern appointments. Family accommodations a specialty. Rates reasonable. Address J. B. Schofield, Manager, Culver, Ind.—July 31.

Nickel Plate Road Homeseekers' Excursion.

June 7th and 21st, at lowest rates. Tickets to all designated points Northwest, West and Southwest, also to designated points in the south. Ask agents. j20

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church, Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Sentz Bros. M. Joslin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church Van Buren Hall corner of Michigan St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., southwest. Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, a. m. the fourth. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God at Goshen, Ind., meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. in Hawver Hall, on Willoughby Ave., near Broadway.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eyelsimer. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trunsdell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Pekin or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon, Assisted occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Pike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okla., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles northeast of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior. Acts the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God at Waterville, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Mountainview School House, near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Carlisle, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 P. M. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Gover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Becker, Elder, Raymond Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Faithfully yours, Grant Mudeamer.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver, Pastor.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 A. M. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1291½ Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio, where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday in the Union Chapel Church, Winterhode, Ill., for Bible Reading at 11 A. M. All are invited. Lizzie Woods, Sec'y.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:00 A. M. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder. S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom" leather gilt binding, fifth edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Twelve Words;" one of "Early Lessons;" and one of "Honouring the Son,"—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

Homeseekers' Excursion via Nickel Plate Road.

Special excursion tickets for homeseekers to designated points Northwest, West, and South-west, also to designated points in the South, are offered via Nickel Plate Road June 7th, and 21st, at lower rates than via other lines. Ask Agents—j 20.

Send to this office and get a "War Atlas" only 25 cts post-paid.

Cheap Rates via Vandalia.

The G. A. R. National Encampment at Cincinnati, O., Sept. 5th to 10th.

The Supreme Lodge of K. of P. and Uniform Rank Encampment at Indianapolis, beginning Aug. 30th.

For the above occasions the Vandalia Line will make a rate of One cent per Mile.—T. A. Downs, Agent.

Pittsb'gh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Div.
Pennsylvania Lines.
Schedule of Passenger Trains—Central Time.

Westward.	9	15	89	5	25
	AM	PM	AM	PM	PM
Pittsb'gh, lv	7 00	12 30		4 30
Alliance, ar	9 05	2 30		6 30
Canton, lv	10 05	3 30		4 30
Massillon,	10 30	3 55		5 00
Wooster,	11 11	4 36		5 40
Mansfield,	11 51	5 16	6 00	6 20	Lv
Crestline,	12 30	5 55	6 40	7 00	7
Ingersoll,	1	6	7	7	7
Lima,	2 44	7 30	8 08
Van Wert,	3 22	8 08	8 47	8 32
Ft Wayne,	4 50	9 30	10 20	9 30
Arcola,			12	10
Columbia City,	4 59	9	12 01
Larwill,			12 19
Pierceton,			12	2
Eagle Lake,			12	2
Warsaw,	5 31	10	1	3
Etna Green,			1	3
Bourbon,			1	3
Inwood,			1	3
Plymouth,	6 10	5 31	2 10	3
Grovertown,			2	3
Hamlet,			2	3
Davis,			2	3
Hanna,			2	3
Wanatah,			2	3
Valparaiso,	7 02	6 30	2	3
Wheeler,			2	3
Hobart,			2	3
Riverside,			2	3
Clarke,			2	3
Chicago, ar	8 00	8 00	3 45	4 45	5 55
	PM	PM	PM	PM	PM

Eastward.	20	8	4	50	38
	AM	PM	PM	AM	AM
Chicago, lv	12 30	3 00	10 35	2 45	11 55
Clarke,	12 50		10 55		12 15
Liverpool,	12 55		11 00		12 20
Hobart,	1 05		11 05		12 30
Wheeler,	1 10		11 10		12 35
Valparaiso,	1 15	4 22	11 20	4 00	12 45
Wanatah,	1 29		11 32		1 00
Hanna,	1 34		11 37		1 05
Davis,	1 39		11 42		1 10
Hamlet,	1 49		12 12		1 20
Grovertown,	1 54				1 25
Plymouth,	2 03	5 47	12 45	5 15	1 34
Inwood,	2 08		12 50		1 39
Bourbon,	2 14		12 56		1 45
Etna Green,	2 19		1 01		1 50
Warsaw,	2 27	6 22	1 09	5 30	1 58
Eagle Lake,	2 35		1 17		2 06
Pierceton,	2 40		1 22		2 11
Larwill,	2 45		1 27		2 16
Columbia City,	2 54	7 00	1 36	6 00	2 25
Arcola,	3		1 42		2 31
Ft Wayne,	3 45	7 30	2 20	6 30	3 10
Van Wert,	4		2 35		3 25
Lima,	4		3 22	6 30	4 12
Ingersoll,	4		4	7	4 50
Crestline,	4	10	4	10	5 30
Mansfield,	4	10	4	11	5 30
Wooster,	4	10	4	11	5 30
Massillon,	4	10	4	11	5 30
Canton,	4	10	4	11	5 30
Alliance, ar	4	10	4	11	5 30
Pittsb'gh, ar	4	10	4	11	5 30
	AM	AM	AM	AM	AM

L. F. LOREE, General Manager.
E. A. FORD, General Passenger Agent.
PITTSBURGH, PENN'A.

For time cards, rates of fare, through tickets, baggage checks, and further information regarding the running of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion, free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect May 23, 1898.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.

No. 6, Ex. Sun. For St. Joseph.....12:38pm
No. 14, " " " " 7:34am
No. 8, " " South Bend.....10:41pm

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute.....5:33a m
No. 3, " " " " *12:48noon
No. 15, " " Logansport.....7:33pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or
E. A. FORD, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Louis, Mo.

One Fare Sunday excursion tickets are on sale from all stations on Nickel Plate Road.—June 30.

Books and Tract List.

A LETTER TO A FRIEND.

This treats of the Covenants of Promise, as their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. Many of our readers already know of the good that has been accomplished through its circulation. 10 cents each.

FUTURE PROBATION.

Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Mountford. We have a good supply and will send them post paid for ten cents per copy.

GLAD TIDINGS OF THE KINGDOM OF GOD.

This tract contains 12 large size pages, and is a reprint of a work issued many years ago. It is clear and comprehensive. 5cts each or 30 for $1.00.

THE COMING NATION.

A lecture, by H. V. Reed. This clearly sets forth that the Coming Nation will be the nation of Israel restored to Palestine, with the Scriptural reasons given. 26 pages. 10 cts or three for 25 cts.

Necessity on Baptism. Written some years ago by J. M. Stephenson. It is good. Also, Bible Plan of Salvation, with Scriptural interpretations. 2cts each or 15 cts per dozen.

Modern Events in the Light of Prophecy.—Sermon preached by H. V. Reed at Antioch, out in tract form. 5 cents each, or 30 copies for $1.00.

Passages Supposed to Teach Consciousness after Death, by W. H. Wilson, which shows that eternal life is not inherent. 3 cents each, or 25 cents for 12.

Where Do the Dead Sleep. These are Bible texts given in answer to this question. A 3-page tract 2 cents each or 15 cents per dozen.

Rules. A Bible account of this place with proof texts. Ten copies for 5 cents.

Death Compared to a Sleep. This represents death as a sleep and proof texts are given. Ten copies for 5 cts.

The Wicked Dead and Plain Truths. The two combined, 2 pages ten copies for 10 cents

"Word of Man vs. Word of God," by H. V. Reed. A contrast between the two. 2cts each or 15 for 25 cts.

Address, THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory, and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 10 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O.

Aids to Bible-Study and Mission-Work.

1. The gospel of the Kingdom, advocated in a series of Ten discourses. A volume of 283 pages, Cloth 25c. a Leather-bound beautifully embossed and gilt edged $1.00. 2. Twelve Words or the true meanings of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptable, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as gathered from their uses in the Holy Scriptures. A tract of 40 pages 10cts a copy. Intended as a substitute for and an improvement on the same writer's Key-Words. 3. The gospel of the Kingdom. An 8-page double column tract 10cts. per dozen; 75cts. per hundred. 4. Who are Led by the Spirit? A 4-page tract 25cts per hundred. 5. Seeking and Finding. A 4-page tract 25cts. per hundred. 6. Honouring the Son. An 8-page tract 25cts per dozen. 7. Early Lessons. 80 pages 10cts. copy. Suitable for old or young.

Written and for sale by WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

Notice.

WILL our friends please remember that we do not have the books and tracts at this office that are advertised by Brother Joblin, or Brother Wiley Jones. Do not send to this office for them, but send to their address as given in the advertisement. This will save both trouble and delay. PLEASE REMEMBER.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

"Consider the Lilies."

If God robes the lilies, adorning them fair,
Much more shall his children be clothed by his care.

Each day shall he feed them, than lilies more dear,
Shall shelter and guard them; be them of good cheer.

Be thankful receiving his bounty to thee,
No child of the Father forsaken shall be.

While serving him truly, should evil overtake,
Trust God to overrule it for Jesus' dear sake.

God's children—his lilies—though copied in dust,
Shall bloom in his glory when he maketh the just.

—Mrs. Emily C. Pearson.

Communicated.

Papers by our Young People of Kansas.

THE WORK OF THE CALLED OUT ONES, PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE.

The work of the called out ones in the past had its beginning when Adam and Eve were expelled from their beautiful home, Paradise. There was given to Eve the promise of a Savior, and this promise would be a promise of the restitution, or the giving back to her and her obedient children of all that she and her husband had lost through their sin. It was the sameos saying, Through the woman's Seed, (the Savior) the dominion shall come back to your race, they shall have access to the tree of life again. The devil shall be destroyed and death have no end. The desert shall rejoice and blossom like the rose, "and sorrow and sighing flee away."

This promise of a Savior opened a door of hope to lost and ruined man. Through faith in that Savior and obedience to the requirements of God, he could be raised from the dust of death, and enter upon a life that would have no end. Much that was told to Adam and Eve was not written down in the Scriptures of truth, there was no need that it should be. We can gather that this was their faith, and the faith of their intermediate descendants from what was revealed afterwards. And we can also gather that a form of worship whereby man could approach unto God, was instituted soon after his fall. The Lamb was slain that pointed to the cleansing blood of a dying Redeemer. Its dress was put on in the taking of their faith that God would pardon them because of their hope in the coming Redeemer. Some one must be called out to keep the faith alive, some dear ones must bear constant witness to the truth. It was the work of the called out ones to be loyal to the faith, keep up the worship of God, to offer at stated times the sacrifice that pictured a coming Christ, and to strive by living pure and holy lives to influence others to come to God.

Cain failed in fulfilling this sacred mission, but Abel's works are testifying today that he did the will of God. Seth and Enoch followed in the footsteps of Abel, and Enoch is the first whose recorded words prophesy of the second advent. He had faith in the promise given to perishing humanity and faithfully taught and lived his faith. Noah was another called out one, to him a specific work was assigned.

As the years rolled away the world had become very wicked, and Noah, the only one found just and perfect in all his ways and worthy of being called out to warn the people of the coming deluge, and that unless they repented they would perish. He was to tell that the dear heavenly Father was merciful and would give them ample time to learn his will and yield obedience thereto. Nothing could avert their doom unless they did repent.

Faithfully his work was done, but while he preached the world laughed; not a convert was made save his own family, during that tedious waiting time of 120 years. But all the time the building of the ark went on, till at last the hand on the dial reached the appointed hour, the end came. "The preaching of Noah had condemned the world." The sudden destruction came and the disobedient were swept away, while Noah and his were safe in the ark, shut in by God's own hand. When the flood was over and the new earth smiled under the sunlight of heaven, Noah came out from his place of refuge and set up again the worship of the living and true God. He stood at the head of a new race the tenth man from the beginning.

It was his work as a called out one to warn a perishing world of a coming judgment, and from it was his work as the head of the saved ones to teach them the blessed truth that had been revealed to Adam and Eve and the rest to him, of a coming Savior and a future life. But that awful untruth that was told by Satan to Eve in the garden of Eden, "Ye shall not surely die," had some how lived through the flood and it soon spread into all the kingdoms of the then known world.

Most magnificent temples were built, human sacrifices were offered and idols of gold were placed in the temples as objects of worship. It is said, indeed, that the teaching of Noah, the holy saint of God, should so soon be apparently forgotten. But the people had grown into a multitude and the knowledge of the true God and of his plans and purposes in creating the earth and man must be committed to one particular nation to be chosen from and separated from all other nations. God fixed his eyes on Abram. He was called out to become the father of this and many nations, and also to be the father of the faithful.

He believed God, and obeyed him, and taught his son God gave him the faith and the fear of the Lord. And of the two sons of Isaac, Jacob was the called out nation whose work it was to be, to preserve among them the true worship and the true faith, and also to be a witness to all other nations that there was a true and living God. It was the work of the called out nation "to forerunne the way of the Lord, to make his path straight."

Their prophets prophesied of him, they gave signs that were to precede his birth, and foretold the place where he was to be born, that "he was to be a man of sorrow and acquainted with grief," and that he was to be brought as a lamb to the slaughter. They spoke of his resurrection, of his ascension to heaven, of his second advent, and of his glorious reign, and watchers were ever ready to greet him when he came, and to take up the glad song of a coming time of peace and good will to men.

The work of the called out ones of the old dispensation was done, and that of the Christian dispensation must begin. Christ was born and grew to manhood, fulfilling all the Father's will. Apostles were chosen and to them were committed the precious story of redeeming love. It was their work, and it has been the work of Christ's followers down to the present time, to take out of the nation a people for his name, an elect body who are to be to the praise of his glory through endless ages." This was the work of the seven churches in Asia Minor, it was the work of the African churches, of the churches in Armenia, in Rome, in Spain and in Great Britain. For this the early Christians died that they might obtain "The salvation which is in Christ Jesus with eternal glory."

The work of the called out ones in the present seems to be very much the same as that of Noah. The wickedness of the world has become very great. "Men are lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God." Awful judgments are coming upon it, and it is our duty to warn the perishing, entreat them to flee from the wrath to come and find refuge in Jesus. We are the heralds of a nearing advent. To us have been entrusted one of the grandest messages ever put into the hands of men. It is the message of the coming of the King of all, of the subjugation to him of all other kingdoms, of the going forth of his law from Zion, and of the blessing of all nations through him. And it is not only our mission to teach the nearing advent of our King, and to warn sinners to fly for safety to the Savior (but we are also to combat the old Satanic falsehood, "Ye shall not surely die." We are to proclaim that there is life only through Christ by the resurrection of the dead and by saving ourselves help to save others.

It is our work to teach that every one that names the name of Christ must depart from iniquity, "purifying his life by obeying the truth," being sanctified wholly by the God of peace, to "not to sleep as do others, but to be watchful and sober, putting on the breastplate of love, the prep of salvation.

The work of the called out ones in the future, is a position we are all hoping to obtain, to sit with Christ on his throne, blessing and ruling the nations. By their hands under Christ's directions judgment will be executed on the earth. Messengers will be sent to far countries to teach them the glory of the Lord, righteousness and praise will spring forth before all nations, "every knee will learn to bow, every tongue to confess that Christ is Lord, to the glory of the Father." Men will be taught the art of peace, rather than the art of war. Every lasting joy will be unto them. We cannot see in part, but a faint glimpse of the coming glory is given us, but we know that the tabernacle of David, which is fallen down, is to be built again. "That the residue of men may seek after the Lord." The called out ones are not only to be kings in the coming age, but they are also to be priests. This would imply a form of worship whereby men are to approach God. If men are to seek the Lord in the coming age, there must be an appointed way. But, there being an appointed way does not prove that all men are saved during the Millennium, for "The sinner being a hundred years old shall be accursed," or cut off. National blessing does not mean individual salvation, that is a personal matter, and must be settled by each one for himself. Then to make ready for the Christ and the coming restitution has been the work of the called out ones in the past. To herald his nearing advent is the work of the called ones in the present, and to rule and bless the nations by giving them the precious knowledge that will save, is to be the work of the called out ones in the future.

NORA WALSH.

HOME SWEET HOME.

How sadly strange the scenes of childhood's home and friends come to me tonight from a far away land, with its many scenes and changes, but the thought of that home is marred by grim death: it has been in your home, and I have felt the pain that his presence brings. And when I begin to record the names of those who have passed into the Valley and shades of death, the friends of youth and those of more recent years, those hours have been hours of pain, which we could scarcely endure. They have been absent, ah so, so long they are gone and tonight how eagerly we long to see them again. No, no, my friends we have not so soon forgotten; their voices still echo in our ears, and could we but have the power of the resurrection, how quickly we would flee to the city of the silent sleepers, and ere the sun would dip the eastern horizon with gleams of morning, we would be rattling at the gates of those dusty beds, crying to the loved ones, "Come home." But oh, God alone holds that power, and says, Watch, work and wait, and ere long he will send his beloved Son with a shout and the voice of the archangel, and the trump of God will peal forth a mighty blast, and will rend the vaulted heavens, and will echo from sea to sea, and from rivers unto the ends of the earth, and our loved ones then shall awake. And tonight we are looking homeward, and how sadly strange we rejoice to know that we are almost there. While we look backward to childhood's home and friends, which brings only sadness and tears, we look in the future to our Eden home, sweet home. Where there will be no more parting, no heart aches, no tears in that better land. Our Savior has been absent so long, but he told his children when he went away to be patient, watch and wait, for he was going to take a journey in a far country and return, and "where he went we could not come," and in his absence we perhaps would have to suffer much, probably grow hungry and cold. The winters long the summers hot, famine and grievous winds would give us terror; we would be reproached, our company shunned. Wolves and roaring lions would be lurking near our rugged pathway; the earth would tremble beneath the mighty steps of Jehovah, the waters would lash to foam at his mighty presence, the Kingdoms of earth would sway and men's hearts would fail them for fear, which tell us we are almost there. Loved gatherers, how many have you told since we last met of our soon coming, home sweet home. Jesus is coming and tells us to watch for the eternal spring, look about you and "behold the fig tree and all the trees, when they now shoot forth ye see and know of yourselves that summer is now nigh at hand."

Have we visited the garden of prophetic events and listened to the voice of muttering, saw a dark mantle cast over the sun, and the moon all turned to blood, saw him take the diamonds of his handiwork and cast them in the blue vault above us as "fig tree casts her untimely figs." Heard the distress of nations and the old ocean with anger roaring, while earth is being shaken. If so let us view the fig tree and see if we can find the first blossom of spring. How it would tell us of the Savior's return to his lonely, waiting children. Let me tell you, dear ones tonight, the blossoms and leaves of our eternal spring are putting forth and we rejoice to know, "Behold he comes quickly."

The little light that shines in a dark place, will soon give way to eternal day; and this sin cursed earth will blossom as the rose. There will soon be a great home gathering; the loved and lost of all ages will be wafted on the wings of the wind to meet the Lord in the air and enter those mansions which he has gone to prepare. Do you remember when Christ was here, he spake so comforting to us, and told us that "in his Father's house are many mansions, if it were not so, I would have told you so. I go to prepare a place for you, and if I go and prepare a place for you, I will return again and receive you unto myself, that where I am there ye may be also," and yet it seems so sorrowful and long for him to be away, but he said, Watch and shun worldly association, for we were pilgrims and strangers, and to "love one another as I your Lord and Master hath loved you," and his love for us was so great that he died to foil the enemy of his second attempt to put us to death. Do we love so great? Ah, he came, he loved and fell and arose victorious and conquered death, hell and the grave, and tonight I believe he is making ready to leave his Father's throne and come for us. Brother, sister, have you thought of the presents that he will bring? There are gifts enough for all. So few of us are left now, so many have gone to sleep with brows so pale and cold, eyes all dimmed and voices hushed. But God will knock at their slumbering abods first, and they will receive the precious gift of eternal life, "and the living will be changed in a moment, in the twinkle of an eye," and then we will go home. Have you ever thought that when he comes for us, that he will not come in a fine carriage, no need of the great panting steed or with ships with sails all furled. He is coming in the clouds of heaven, and when we hear his welcome and well-known voice, "Come," we will mount upward as an eagle's wings to meet him in the air. He will have gifts and honors enough for all. The crown, a mansion in the kingdom to be equal with Christ, a king or a priest, and to sit with him on his throne. The honors of this life sink into nothingness and vanish like the dew in the morning sun. We live in penury and want here, striving hard to keep the wolf from the door. At setting sun our hearts are aching and forms all wrecked with pain, and with morning comes the fevered brow and troubled mind.

We hear the God of gold and silver praised as hear the idols of redemption. But ah, it will not buy a home in the kingdom, it will not give them help or deliverance. "They will cast it to the moles and the bats, and it shall mingle with the dust of the streets. In the saints' sweet home the sun shall be confounded and the moon will fail to give light, for the Lamb is the light thereof." "The bright and morning star." "I know that the Lord saveth his anointed." "I will worship toward the holy temple and praise thy name for thy loving kindness and truth." "Though I walk in the midst of trouble, thou wilt revive me. Thou shalt stretch forth thy hand against the wrath of mine enemies and thy right hand shall save me." "I will be with thee in the sixth trouble, and in the seventh I will not forsake thee." Wonderful comforter. "Lift up your heads, O ye gates and be ye ever lifted up, ye everlasting doors and the King of glory shall come in." Would tonight we could hear the cry, "Behold, the Bridegroom cometh, go ye out to meet him." Would he find us watching, waiting and ready to enter those mansions of rest, our "Home sweet Home" in loved Palestine; and view those fields of living green, those sacred hills where the feet of the saints have trod, and drink from the sparkling streams that flow in sacred silence? Could we but climb Nebo's lofty height and view the land once desolate, but now the restored Paradise of God; those sacred villages and hamlets that so long have slumbered in the dust, have arisen and cast aside the mantle of silence, and have raised their voices in songs of praise to him that sitteth on the throne, and the islands are glad for him. "Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them and be their God." Ah, friends, do you not long to be at home? No wonder he commands us to "keep ourselves unspotted from the world," for the reward is so great, the honors so trusting, it is only the faithful few that shall receive them, and as we look homeward we pray, "Come Lord Jesus, and come quickly," and then the angel choir shall sing, "Peace on earth, good will to men." When Zion is redeemed, "the wilderness and solitary places shall be glad for them, the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose, even with joy and singing," when they shall see the glory of the Lord, for he will say to the silent sleepers, "Come forth." To the north "give up," and to the south "keep not back." "Then shall the lame leap as an hart and the tongue of the dumb sing, for in the wilderness shall waters break out and streams in the desert, and the parched ground a pool and the thirsty land springs of water. No lion shall be there, nor any ravenous beast, not to be found there, and the ransomed of the Lord shall return to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads, they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away." How different, friends, from the present scenes and surroundings, all is but sorrow and disappointment here, the stamp of death is on every brow, the pain of sorrow in every heart, every ray of hope of earth is o'ershadowed with darkest clouds, every bud of promise is blighted e'er it blooms into joy; earth is full of weeping, it is drinking the dregs from the cup of sin, our homes are broken, death has been there, and still he is lurking near, loved friends desert us for the pleasure of sin, to hear at last "Depart." But this will not always be thus, for he who hath said, "Behold, I come quickly," will return, for he shed his blood to redeem us out of every nation, kindred, tongue and people, and will wipe all tears from their eyes, and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain, for the former things are passed away." Will you, loved one, go to that Eden home, Jerusalem the city of God, the saints sweet home, the city of pure gold, those mansions which Christ has gone to prepare, that is lighted with the glory of God like a jasper, most precious, clear as crystal shall light that beautiful land. No need of the sun, moon or stars to shine in it, for the glory of the eternal shall outshine the noonday sun. The great wall that surrounds this heavenly home, with angelic keepers at its pearly gates, with its many foundations will be garnished with all manner of precious stone, and there is no temple therein, for the Lord, God Almighty and the Lamb are the temple of it, and there will be the pure river of the water of life, clear as crystal, coming from underneath the throne; and on either side of the streets of gold is the tree of life. Ah, is this not enough? Who could say, nay? Be ready; cast aside earth's sinful fleeting pleasure. Let the world despise and leave you, it has left our Savior too.

"Would you walk by the banks of that river,
With the friends you have loved by your side
Would you join in the songs of the angels,
Then be ready to follow your guide?
Soon our conflict must toil would be ended,
Soon, ah soon, we may rejoin;
With the loved ones who are now sleeping,
In Eden's home sweet home."

A. J. DAVIS.

Those who rally to the Despised Prince in the day of his rejection shall share the glory of his court when he comes to his own. Those who in sadness have shared his humiliation, shall in gladness share his throne.

The wealth of Golconda and Klondike is at the disposal of the Almighty, but he chooses rather to accept the offerings—even to the widow's mite—of his people, as he wishes to reward 'a hundredfold' the offerings of love.

Many a humble disciple, content this year to inhabit a cottage for Christ's sake, shall perhaps next year dwell in a palace and have access to the palace of the King. "The night is far spent,' and 'he whose right it is' shall shortly come and dispense justice, and bid the voluntary lowly ones 'Come up higher.'

An incident is given from the renowned Norman McLeod's youth, which says that when he was a boy he was once much discouraged, and in a fit of petulance exclaimed, 'I wish I had never been born!' His good mother hearing it answered, 'Norman, you have been born, and if you were a wise bairn you would ask the Lord what you were born for.' The young Norman did ask and became one of Scotland's greatest preachers.

It is said that the days of the old-fashioned wooden match are numbered. Matches are to be made of paper. By a new process the paper is cut into strips. These are saturated with a flame-producing material. They are then rolled into tubes and cut the length of ordinary matches, and dipped in phosphorus to form the head. These matches are lighter and thought to be more reliable than the old sort.

Summer in Colorado.

Colorado is particularly inviting as a summer haven. The climate is remarkable for its invigorating effect, and the State is rich in grand scenery and points of interest where a vacation may be pleasantly spent. Special arrangements are being made for the entertainment of visitors who are this season expected to be attracted to the seclusion and quiet of the Rockies and the hills and canyons of that great wonderland. Colorado today is nearer home than in former years. The fast schedules of the Pennsylvania Route and connecting lines bring the Centennial State within easy reach, and the cost of a trip thither is no longer a luxury. The special low rate Tourist Tickets over the Pennsylvania Lines places the cost for transportation within the limit of the usual allowance for vacation trips. For special information about rates, time of trains and other details please apply to nearest Pennsylvania Line Ticket Agent, or address C. L. Kimball, A. G. P. Agt., Cleveland, O.—July 31.

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, JUNE 22, 1898. NUMBER 25.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked: eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON.
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, IND. JUNE 22, 1898.

We will issue as usual next week, as we may want a vacation later in the summer.

The Iowa Conference will be held at Marshalltown, Aug. 4-15. Notice will appear next week.

BROTHER and Sister C. C. Ramsay are in this city for a few days. Brother Ramsay will preach for us on Friday night and Sunday next.

WE have, on what seems to us to be reliable authority, that The Independent of New York contemplates a change of form to the size of some of the prominent monthly magazines. If true, it is certainly a change which will be appreciated by its readers.

The War Situation.

The fleet of transports with United States troops are now near Santiago, and will land at once. There seems to become force of Spaniards to resist them, but the guns of the battleships soon clear the way. A council of the President and heads of the departments was held last week, and it was decided to push the war with all possible vigor, it being intimated that this contemplates sending a fleet to the shores of Spain. Actual pleasure kept back by the censor, but there seems to be a firm determination to strike as fast as can be done. It is rumored that the governor of the Phillippines has surrendered Manilla, but whether this be true or not, the Spanish forces there are in desperate straits for food, and must soon give up the fight.

A report says that Germany is sending not only a strong fleet of war vessels to Manila, but transports with troops also. What this may mean is all guess work, for Germany professes to be friendly to the United States. Time will soon tell what is intended, but if any show of force is meant to deter Admiral Dewey in his operations, it is likely to lead to trouble, as there is no disposition among Americans to allow any foreign nation to interfere. In fact there is very little talk of any intervention now. Spain has received some money help evidently, and is determined to carry on the war.

Three Englishmen have been arrested at Puerto Rico, being accused of being American spies. The British Consul there has asked the Queen to send a war ship for their protection.

"Me too," says Little Japan.

Japan is clamoring for an associate membership in that big Anglo-American alliance of which so much has been recently said. The Japanese newspapers are full of arguments in favor of closer relations with the United States as well as with Great Britain. There is a general belief that some agreement has already been reached with the British on the common basis of resistance to Russia. Now Lieutenant Fujita of the Mikado's navy, who has just come to America to superintend the building of two big Japanese cruisers, advocates a similar close entente between Japan and the United States. He says Japanese public opinion is all in favor of a better understanding between the two countries. He says his government is not opposed to our holding the Philippines and annexing Hawaii. His countrymen foresee that we are to become a large factor in Oriental commerce, and they want to clasp hands with us. There is every reason why Japan, America, and England should be fast friends, though the friendship cannot take the form of an offensive alliance. We have no cause for sharing the hostility toward Russia felt by the other two nations. With Japan, as with Great Britain, the American people will be happy to join friendly hands, but in both cases the alliance will have to be commercial and moral rather than political or military. With that understanding the more alliance talk there is of this sort the better for all concerned.—Chicago Tribune.

AMERICAN writers do not want to be tied to England or any other nation in such a way that this country will be compelled to aid them in any of their wars, but how about it if some other nation should take a hand against us with Spain? Perhaps then a sort of "understanding" would be a good thing, and a pleasant sound might be made by British guns roaring. They may write all they please, but it will come eventually. In view of the increase of German ships at Manila bay the following is to the point.

"Practical Englishmen, following the lead of Mr. Chamberlain, do not aim to place the United States under bonds to respect free trade. What they desire, first of all, is American friendship and good will, and, secondly that the Philippines shall be permanently occupied by the United States as a valuable territory, rich in productive resources, which cannot be transferred to any other power without danger of provoking an European war.

The Ministers would reinforce the British fleet at Manila promptly if they supposed that the Germans would there had any other purpose except friendly observation. The fact that the British squadron is not increased immediately in the Philippines is proof that the government does not attach much importance to the German activity in that quarter as anything more than a diplomatic move."

Passing Events in the Light of Prophecy.

The "Glad Tidings," for June says, —"The political outlook all over the world is becoming more ominous. The British Cabinet Ministers have been making very grave utterances, which show that behind the scenes are apprehensions of trouble ahead. Lord Salisbury made significant statements at a meeting in London of the Primrose League about dying nations, which have given offense to some, especially Spain; and in an address to the London bankers, it is said he took a very gloomy view of the general outlook.

The Scotsman says, "The state of Europe at this moment is such that there may be changes in all directions. It is plain that whatever may be the case as to the double alliance between France and Russia, the tripple alliance is in a very unhealthy condition. Italy could not be counted upon for much, and Austria-Hungary appears to be in a crumbling state."

British statesman are beginning to question the wisdom of Britain remaining in her splendid isolation. The Secretary of State for the Colonies in a recent speech at Birmingham, made some very outspoken remarks regarding Russian duplicity in connection with the Chinese negotiation. He openly advocated an alliance with the United States and said he hoped to see the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack flying side by side. His remarks have given great satisfaction to our "Kin beyond the Sea," with a few exceptions. But on the Continent of Europe great umbrage has been taken, and in some quarters a combination of European Powers against Britain and America has been threatened.

It would not be surprising to find by-and-by on the one hand the Anglo Saxon race, and on the other the Powers of Europe with Russia at their head. Events are fast shaping themselves for the grand denouement of the latter day.

Spain is in a most restless state. Great indignation has been aroused at the unpreparedness of the government for war. The very existence of the monarchy has been threatened, and martial law has been declared at some places.

The spirit of restlessness and dissatisfaction has extended to Italy. At first the popular outbursts were described as "bread riots," but fuller information showed that a great revolutionary movement had taken place. The centre was Milan. The rising recalls the events of 1848.

According to the Constantinople correspondent of the London Standard, the financial crisis in Turkey threatens to become acute, as almost every department is clamoring for money, and the disposable funds are only sufficient to pay the influential functionaries in the capital. Later. Reuter's correspondent telegraphs that the Commissariat Department has not enough funds to buy a month's provision in advance, and has been obliged to buy supplies once or twice weekly during the past month. But notwithstanding Turkey's financial embarrassment the Russian Embassy has addressed a note to the Porte regarding the settlement of the question of paying the arrears of the war indemnity.

The Russian Consul at Tientsin has notified his colleagues that foreigners will no longer be allowed to enter Port Arthur without passports. Both Chinese and foreigners complain bitterly of this.

Law or Gospel -Which? No. 13.

In our last article we quoted an alledged vision from the writings of Mrs. White, showing that probation for sinners ceased in 1844. In confirmation of this we quote further from her first vision in regard to those who gave up their faith in the 1844 movement. She says of these former brethren and sisters—"It was just as impossible for them to get on the path again and go to the city, as all the wicked world which God had rejected. They fell all along the path, one after another." These backsliders were rejected as God could not be restored, were precisely in the same condition as all the wicked world which God has rejected after 1844. This first vision was first published in 1846. In 1847. this first vision was republished by request, by Elder James White, but the four lines we quoted above from the vision as first published, were omitted. We can give the address of the person who has a copy of the vision as it first appeared, and also the 44 page tract, entitled, "A Word to the Little Flock" by Mr. White containing the amended version.

If Mrs. White was inspired by God to write the first, by whom was Mr. White inspired to write the second? Think of it. Non-belief of the FALSE 44 movement sealed the doom of their former brethren! That is the inspired (?) announcement,—they perish with all the rest of the wicked which God had rejected. A year later this awful, 'tis true, statement is suppressed. We are not surprised at it,—but where does the authority to suppress it come from? If God rejected the whole wicked world and advent backsliders in 1846, can it be ever untrue? They have one of those Jesuitical ways of toning down this matter. That was true away back there, and it is true still, except that they have the KEY to reopen the way for certain ones—we reckon our reader will not be puzzled to know what the Key is.

In an article in Review and Herald of June 11, 1861, Mrs. White's husband, and signed by nine of their prominent ministers, speaking of those following times, 1844, he says: "Our views of the work before us were then mostly vague and indefinite, some still retaining the idea adopted by the body of Advent believers in 1844, with Wm. Miller at their head, that our work for the world was finished, and that the message was confined to those of the original Advent faith. So firmly was this believed that one of our number was nearly refused the message, the individual presenting it having doubts of the possibility of his salvation, because he was not in the '44 move."

Observe, this people from the inception of their scheme, had a way of saving without gospel,—and tests altogether foreign to the test of faith in the covenants of promise and obedience to it in baptism, and the observance of Jesus' commandments. And the visions of Mrs. E White are quite in line with the foundation then laid.

The ignorance of those who can accept the leadership of a woman who asserts that she saw that Jesus did not open the door of the Most Holy until 1844.

An inspired leader who does not know that the Most Holy Place of the tabernacle and temple was an annex because the Divine Presence was there represented.

An inspired leader who either does not know, or does not believe, that the Most Holy Place of the tabernacle was a "figure of the more perfect tabernacle not made with hands", (Heb. ix. 11.) "The true tabernacle which the Lord pitched, and not man." Heb. viii. 2.

An inspired leader who either does not know, or does not believe Heb. ix. 12, where it says "He entered once for all into the Holy Places."

An inspired leader who either does not know, or does not believe Heb. ix. 24 which says, "For he is not entered into the Holy Places made with hands, the figures of the true, but into heaven itself, NOW to appear in the PRESENCE OF GOD for us;"—just what was figured by the Holy Places made with hands.

An inspired leader who either does not know, or who does not believe what is said in Romans viii. 34,—"Who is he that condemneth,—it is Christ that died, yea rather, that is risen again, who is even at the right hand of God, who also maketh intercession for us;" the antitype of the once a year entrance into the tabernacle Most Holy Place of the High Priest, to make intercession for the people.

An inspired leader too ignorant to know that heaven itself, in the presence of God, is the very place where he exercises his priestly office

An inspired leader too ignorant to know that the type and anti-type do not both exist at one time; and that the Holy Spirit by the tabernacle Most Holy Place showed that the way into the Holiest of all was not made manifest (brought to view) while the first tabernacle was yet standing. Heb. ix 8.

An inspired leader who claims to have been shown that the remnant followed Jesus into the Most Holy Place, and beheld the Ark and the Mercy seat, and were captivated with their glory. What remnant, or remnant of what, is she talking in her delirium? Did the figure of the true tabernacle ever intimate that the High Priest was ever accompanied by others when he went into the Most Holy Place? Does not the inspired leader know that it was death for any one to enter, except the High Priest? If not, she had better depend upon what is written by men who were moved to write by the Spirit of God, who in 1500 years never contradict themselves!

An inspired leader who does not know or does not believe that it was Jesus himself that was pre-figured by the tabernacle mercy seat made by hands! Romans iii. 25 affirms that God has set forth Christ Jesus to be a Mercy seat, by his own blood, through the faith, [of Jesus, v. 26:] but this inspired (?) leader represents Jesus as a sort of usher to point out to the "remnant" either the original ark and the tabernacle mercy seat, or perhaps a model, or representation of it. Is not this enough to disgust one who understands the first principles of the revealed purpose of God? The mercy seat himself, exhibiting the shadow of himself, the type of himself,—and no reference to the antitype! Should not this latter-day wonder be compelled to explain what use we have for the shadow after the substance has come? And why the listeners and gazers were so captivated with the glory of the ark and mercy seat?

This sublime nonsense continues: "Jesus raised the cover of the ark, and beheld the tables of stone, with the ten commandments written upon them. They trace down the lively oracles, but they start back with trembling when they see the fourth commandment living among the ten holy precepts, while a brighter light shines upon it than upon the other nine, and a halo of glory is all around it." (Spiritual Gifts, Vols. I-II pp. 163, 165, edition of 1860.)

An inspired leader, and yet she does not know that the really inspired servant of God, James, gives the lie to the assertion that the fourth commandment is of more importance than the others and outshines them. when he says, "For whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all."

The above again lays bare the rotten foundation-work of this delusion. Supposing the Sinaitic Covenant to be in force still,—what need of a further revelation? Supposing the Sabbath to have been selected as the cornerstone of a new community, while the Scriptures nowhere show that it was ever given to Gentiles, or declare its perpetuity, but on the contrary, show that it was given to Israelites only, and limits its existence to the Seed to whom the promises were made, the leaders of this body realized that they could not make a respectable defense of their claims from the Bible, and so they audaciously say they have authority direct from heaven that nullifies, in fact, what was written aforetime and fully justifies them.

An inspired leader who in 1844 in her ignorance said Jesus only entered the Most Holy Place, as above, in a year or so later heard a sermon by Eld J. Turner, in which he attempted to prove that Jesus had left the mercy seat in heaven on the tenth day of the seventh month, 1844, and had come out into the outer court and blessed his people as the antitype of the High Priest. I. C. Welcome in his work "The Seventh Day Claims Examined," says, "She [Mrs. E. G. White] and myself heard that sermon, and a few days later she had a vision, and related it at a public meeting where I was, stating as substantially that her Heavenly Father had shown her that Jesus had left the mercy seat in heaven, and come out [instead of going in as before] and closed the door, and she saw Jesus in the outer court." Could intelligent men and women be imposed upon in this way on any other subject? The alleged inspiration has to correct itself.

The above are things which the Lord hath not spoken. We have no fear of her.

Selections.

Spain's Sly Plan.

Statements that Spain is looking for "honorable peace" should be taken in the light of her notions of what an honorable peace would be.

Spanish officials and the intelligent people of the country realize that Spain's ability to do the United States any serious damage is virtually at an end. No doubt in such circles there is an earnest desire to have the war brought to a conclusion. But as between two evils—the continuance of a ruinously expensive conflict on the one hand, and, on the other, the danger of accepting conditions of peace which would lay the existing monarchy open to the charge of sacrificing national interests without honorable resistance—the queen regent, Senor Sagasta and the leaders of all the Spanish parties undoubtedly prefer the former.

If peace be created on terms which the Spanish people would regard as "honorable," the government would consider itself as well paid for having gone to war, even at the cost of the great outlay already made and the new financial burdens assumed by an already impoverished state.

The crux of the matter is, What would be considered an honorable settlement from the view point of Madrid?

While the relinquishment of Cuba would be a cession of national territory, the Spanish people at large would view it with comparative complacency at this stage. Cuba has long been regarded by the Spanish people as a great monster which year by year has devoured the flower of Spain's youth. Even the most ignorant classes understand that the long conflicts with the insurgents are largely responsible for the national debt and its burden of taxation.

While the financial classes could not be expected to look with approval on the annihilation of the Cuban debt, the most of which they hold themselves, they would reconcile themselves to it as preferable to the continuance of conditions that are only making the debt greater and steadily diminishing the prospects of ultimate payment.

Peace with honor means in Madrid peace with the abandonment of Cuba to the people of Cuba themselves—an abandonment without qualification, if necessary; an abandonment, if possible, which would still reserve to Spain certain important commercial privileges of a preferential character. There is a section of Spanish politicians who still believe that in the diplomatic shuffle which they are trying to bring about Spain may still be able to retain some kind of nominal Cuban sovereignty, though their newspaper organs only vaguely describe the way in which these could be secured.

What no Spaniard contemplates for a moment is the abandonment of the Philippines. Nor, in the present state of the public mind, could any Spanish government afford to suggest such a condition of peace. The Philippines have all along been regarded as the jewel of jewels in the Spanish crown, and Spanish policy has always contemplated either retaining them as a basis for commercial activity in the Pacific or disposing of them one by one to the great powers in return for valuable concessions elsewhere.

Great as the shock was to Madrid of the destruction of Admiral Montejo's fleet off Cavite, that soon came to be regarded as the fortune of war.

The Spanish people did not dream even then of the possibility that the United States would send there a force of occupation and hold the islands either permanently or temporarily. In their ignorance of the true situation of affairs they relied upon the Filipinos themselves to co-operate with the Spaniards as against an American invader.

The union of the American and the natives against the Spanish garrisons in overwhelming force has changed the whole prospect and the news from Manila in the official dispatches of Captain General Augusti this week has produced a great change in public feeling for the worse. All that had been suspected of the defenselessness of the Philippines and the government's criminal disregard of the requests of the military and naval authorities there is now regarded as true.

The loss of the Philippines even to the natives would always have been regarded as an irreparable disaster. To have it brought about as the indirect result of a war over Cuba is, from the stand point of Madrid, an intolerable disgrace. It is insult added to injury—with both of the very gravest character.

The whole Spanish official world stands aghast at the possibility that the Philippines may be wrested from Spain and annexed to the United States by conquest.

While the press still maintains its fatuous policy of concealing important facts as to the progress of the war, it has not attempted to conceal anything which would, in its estimation, inflame the public mind against the United States.

Therefore while it has been claiming victories almost since the day the war began, it has developed by degrees the American programme, so that a majority of literate Spaniards who read and compare now understand that the United States intends not only to force Spain to abandon Cuba but to defray the entire cost of the war and to pay indemnity for the destruction of the Maine. It is also obvious to the same small section that an early money payment by Spain is quite out of the question.

From this it is an easy step to the conclusion that the United States intends to occupy and hold the Philippines as security. From this occupation, which could not fail to be one of many years, it requires no effort of fancy for the intelligent Spaniard to pass to a condition of permanent occupation.

This is the thing against which Spanish statesmanship is directing every effort. Any concession that could be made in the West Indies, the absolute abandonment of Cuba and Porto Rico as well, would be accepted joyfully by Senor Sagasta and his coadjutors if it would save the Philippines to the crown.

Under this pressure Spanish diplomacy is acting. It is the consciousness of what the abandonment of the Philippines must lead to in the peninsula that prompts the government to the most strenuous endeavors to draw the powers into the negotiations for a settlement.

In this effort, fortunately for Spanish statesmen, the commercial interests of Germany go hand in hand with the dynastic sympathies of Austria; and it is through the two forces that Sagasta is hoping to win. If he cannot win immediately, he hopes to win ultimately by delay. Spain evidently has financial resources sufficient to maintain the struggle on its present footing for another six months at least, and perhaps for a longer period. The fall of Santiago, and even the destruction of Admiral Cervera's fleet by the United States war ships or by its own dynamite, while it would be a terrible factor in disillusionizing the Spanish people to the real position on the sea and in the Antilles, would not bring them to their knees. Neither would the occupation of Porto Rico.

So long as the western provinces of Cuba and the City of Havana itself remain Spanish Spain will insist that there has been no general American victory and that she is not conquered. If Sagasta, who undoubtedly expects the fall of Santiago, could arrange for European intervention immediately after that event, and secure an armistice, he would rely upon the prolongation of the settlement to secure terms which the Spaniards will call honorable.

What Spain did in the case of her revolted colonies in South America she will probably attempt to repeat in dealing with the United States. Long after they had driven her out she maintained a pretense of war. She declined to recognize their independence or to enter into treaties with them. Her programme was dawdle and delay. That will be her programme again. She will endeavor to keep the whole matter open as long as possible, in the hope that the annoyance to American commerce and the risk of misunderstandings between the American and European governments, to whom a continuing state of war would become a nuisance and a menace, would force the United States ultimately to make terms which would not be offered in the first flush of new conquests.

Just so long as there is the remotest chance of Spanish success on this line the outlook for peace is not flattering.

A revolution at Madrid might, of course, work an immediate change, but it is not at all certain that the parties that would succeed the Alfonsists would be any more likely to be reasonable than the present government. Senor Sagasta knows as well as any man that the best way to protect the present dynasty is to make a show of deadly resistance and in this way to win back some of the good will lost by the shameful neglect of internal administration.

So long as the cortes will vote money to maintain more or less fictional fleets, and so long as the press of Spain can be induced to co-operate with the government in making a pretense that Spain is, if not vanquishing America, at least holding her own against a stronger power, just so long the Spanish people and all political parties will stand by the existing regime. It in turn has everything to gain, in its own opinion, by delay and in negotiation, hoping ultimately that territorial losses, apart from Cuba, will be confined to the West Indies.—Times-Herald.

Poetry.

"I am the Resurrection and the Life."

TUNE—"OH, COME, ALL YE FAITHFUL."

Aloud, raise the chorus
Of praise to him who lived us,
Wondrous is heaven's mercy, great our Father's love,
Hence now he proffers,
Et-rnal life he offers,
The Living Bread from heaven
God, unto man has given,
That all may eat and live for aye with him who dwells above!

E'en men, lost and ruined,
Doomed by sin to perish,
May now believe in Christ, and never, never die
He that believeth,
Pardon now receiveth,
Man, though by nature mortal,
Is clothed the eternal,
In Christ The Life, In Christ, who lives no more to die.

He, our Life in heaven,
"A certain hope" he gives,
"Which hope, as an anchor, sure," shall never fail.
The clouds that received him,
Shall soon again reveal him,
His hoping saints awaking
His living saints then taking,
"We look for his appearing," his coming last!

In darkness man wandered,
His sin and death long perplexed,
One ransomed length and brought immortal life to light:
He conquered even death,
He triumphed o'er death's prison,
As resurrection's First-fruits,
To eternal life, he's risen.
He comes to reap death's harvest, and end death's night!

WALTER SHANKS.

Communicated.

Where are the Ten Tribes of Israel?

THEY ARE NOT ANGLO-SAXONS.

As to what they are, I expect to prove both from Scripture and history, as collated by "Israel my Glory."

I will quote considerable Scripture evidence to show that on religious grounds, a large number of the ten tribes united themselves to Judah and Benjamin, and remained with them; and thus, today, a large number of those known as Jews, are really descendants from the ten tribes.

"In 975 B. C., ten tribes revolted under Jeroboam, who became their first king. This ten-tribed kingdom, being in the majority, took the honored name of Israel. The two tribes and their seat of government at Jerusalem.

SCRIPTURE EVIDENCE.

2 Chron. xi. 14, 16, 17: "For the Levites left their suburbs and their possessions and came to Judah and Jerusalem, and after them such as set their hearts to seek the Lord God of Israel, came to Jerusalem, to sacrifice unto the Lord God of their fathers; so they strengthened the kingdom of Judah." They came in such numbers that they were a material strength to the kingdom of Judah.

OUT OF ALL THE TRIBES OF ISRAEL

In 944 B. C., Asa, the grandson of Rehoboam, was king of Judah. "And he gathered all Judah and Benjamin, and the strangers with them out of Ephraim and Manasseh, and out of Simeon, for they fell to him OUT OF ISRAEL IN ABUNDANCE, when they saw the Lord his God was with him." See 2 Chron. xv. 9. ("Abundance" don't mean a few.)

In 896 B. C., in the reign of Jehoshaphat, positions of honor and responsibility in Judah, were occupied by "the chief of the fathers of Israel." 2 Chron. xix. 8, (official positions held by deserters from Israel, in the kingdom of Judah.)

In 877 B. C., in the reign of Joash, "they went about in Judah, and gathered the Levites out of all the cities of Judah, and the chief of the fathers of Israel, and they came to Jerusalem." 2 Chron. xxiii. 2.

In 726 B. C., king "Hezekiah sent to ALL ISRAEL and Judah, and wrote letters to Ephraim and Manasseh, that they should come to the house of the Lord at Jerusalem, to keep the passover. * * * And all the congregation of Judah, with the priests and the Levites, and all the congregations that came out of Israel, and the strangers that came out of the land of Israel, and that DWELT IN JUDAH rejoiced." 2 Chron. xxx. 1-25.

See also 2 Chron. xxxi. 6: "The children of Israel and Judah, that DWELT in the cities of Judah."

We now come down to a partial restoration from Babylon, and we will still see large numbers of Israel still with Judah.

"And when they came to Hilkiah, the priest, they delivered the money that was brought into the house of God, which the Levites that had kept the doors had gathered out of the hand of Manasseh, and Ephraim, and of all the remnants of Israel." 2 Chron. xxxiv. 9. "All Israel in their cities." Ezra ii. 70. "For a sin offering for all Israel, twelve he-goats, according to the number of the tribes of Israel." "The children of those that had been carried away captive, offered burnt offerings unto the God of Israel, twelve bullocks for all Israel."

So we see a sufficient number of "all Israel," united with, and remained with Judah, to make them representative of the entire nation, as recognized in their sacrifices. "Twelve he-goats" and "twelve bullocks," representing the twelve tribes of Israel.

But this does not

ACCOUNT FOR ALL ISRAEL.

we have still "the outcasts of Israel," that are yet to form a union with Judah, upon the mountains of Israel. Where shall we look for them? There is much force in the suggestion, "look for a thing where it was lost."

Says "Israel my Glory:" "In the Scripture account of the deportation, Pul and Tiglath-Pileser, first carried away the trans-Jordanic Israelites, Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh; and next about nineteen years later, Shalmaneser carried away the remaining seven and a half tribes of the cis-Jordanic Israelites. The whole ten, however, were placed in the same district of Assyria proper, and the adjoining country of Media. The region, then, into which the ten tribes were carried was that in which the Greeks commonly called Adiabene. It lies N. E. of Nineveh; S. E. of Lake Van, W. of the Lake Urumiah, and answers to the original Assyria proper, as contradistinguished from the more widely extended Assyrian empire.

Prophecy says: "The Lord shall set his hand again the second time to recover the remnant of his people which shall be left from ASSYRIA."

"He shall assemble the outcasts of Israel, and gather together the dispersed of Judah from the four corners of the earth; and there shall be a highway for the remnant of his people, which shall be left from ASSYRIA like as it was to Israel in the day that he came up out of the land of Egypt." Please to notice that in the eleventh verse ASSYRIA is the first place mentioned; prominence is also given to ASSYRIA in the last verse; and then observe that in the twelfth verse, 'the outcasts of Israel' are named before 'the dispersed of Judah,' which seems to indicate that Assyria and the outcasts of Israel,' were intended to be associated.

And whence are to come the outcasts of Israel, if not from ASSYRIA? History says the ten tribes were taken into ASSYRIA; prophecy says they are to be brought OUT OF ASSYRIA.

The plain inference is,

THEY ARE THERE.

Now, let us take the evidence of secular history. (Josephus Ant. b. xi. C. V., Sec. 2.) "And when these Jews had understood what piety the king (Xerxes, son of Darius) had towards God, and what kindness he had for Ezra, they were all greatly pleased; nay, many of them took their effects with them, and came to Babylon, as very desirous of going down to Jerusalem: but then the entire body of the people of Israel, REMAINED in that country; wherefore there are but two tribes in Asia and Europe subject to the Romans, while the ten tribes are beyond the Euphrates till now."

Again, in Josephus (Wars, b. ii., c. xvi. Sec. 4) we have the magnificent speech of Agrippa, in which he sets forth the overwhelming power of Rome in order to discourage Jewish resistance to that power. Agrippa is represented as addressing the Jews thus: "Where then are those people whom you are to have for your auxiliaries? Must they come from the parts of the world that are uninhabited? For all that are in the habitable earth are (under the) Romans, unless any of you extend his hopes as far as beyond the Euphrates, and suppose that those of your own nation that dwell in Adiabene (where the ten tribes were carried) will come to your assistance; but certainly these will not embarrass themselves with an unjustifiable war, nor, if they should follow such ill advice, will the Parthians permit them to do so."

It is plainly evident from secular history that down to the first century of the Christian era, the ten tribes were considered to be still in the same district into which they were first taken.

Now, let us come down to the fifth century, in which Jerome, in his notes on Hosea, says: "Unto this day the ten tribes are subject unto the kings of the Persians, nor has their captivity ever been released." (Tom. vi. p. 7). And again he says: "The ten tribes inhabit at this day the cities and mountains of the Medes." (Tom. vi. p. 80).

Thus we have historic evidence down to the fifth century, that the ten tribes apart from those portions not already mixed with Judah, were still in the place into which they were first taken. Had they ever migrated from these countries, the native histories must have mentioned an event of such importance. But history observes Dr. Grant, is silent upon the subject. The native histories which are abundant, say nothing of the removal of the captive Israelites from this country.

The ten tribes were taken into Assyria in 721 B. C. His ary down to the fifth century of the Christian era (over eleven hundred years) says they are still there. And CAPELLUS PRECIA says: "The Lord shall set his hand the second time to recover the remnant of his people from Assyria." If the remnant is still to be restored from Assyria, the plain inference is,

THEY ARE STILL THERE, and if not, this prophecy will fail. God's Word never fails, but fanciful notions frequently come to naught.

How much more satisfactory this evidence is, when we compare it with the guess-work, inferences, coincidences, and fanciful playing upon names, indulged in by those who would have us believe that Anglo-Saxon Gentiles, are real flesh and blood Israelites.

Surely, "to recover the remnant of his people from Assyria," don't mean the British isles, America, etc., but it means the place named and nothing else.

I will give a quotation from some Anglo-Saxon literature, so as to show how they play upon names to prove Anglo-Saxons Israelites.

"Alexander, the Maccabæan, of the tribe of Dan, (how do they know it?) which tribe had more than a thousand years before gone into Greece, and with the old Phœnicians of the house of Zarah, of Judah, had founded Troy, Attica, Athens, and many other cities, and planted many colonies in Greece, on both sides of the Danube."

"The Scythians, a name from Scythar in northern Palestine—wanderers. They were known as the Gaetæ—Gales-Wales, from Galilee. They were known as the Kimbri from Omri one of their kings. They were known as the Angles—men of God. They were known as the Saxons—Isaxons—Isaac's sons."

How foolish this stretching and playing upon words as proof of a theory seems, when compared with Scripture teaching, prophecy and straight history, as quoted above.

In place of "Isaxons—Isaac's sons." The Israelites in both Scripture and history, were known as "sons of Jacob," "children of Israel" (Jacob) and never "Isaxons."

We need to be sceptical of theories which require so much twisting, turning, and fanciful fixing up, as given in the above samples, and stand by the Word of God.

"IT IS A SINGULAR, though rather humiliating circumstance, that the ten tribes have been sought in almost every other country but the one into which they were taken captive. Some Welsh people have told us that they must be the ten tribes because some Welsh words are like some Hebrew words. Some Irish people have told us the Irish are the ten tribes, because they have never persecuted the Jews, and it would be unnatural to persecute their brethren."

True enough, it would be unnatural. The persecution heaped upon the heads of these Jews by Gentile powers, simply because they were Israelites, would be sure proof that they were not their brethren according to the flesh, take for example Anglo-Saxon England.

HOW ENGLAND USED THE JEWS.

"At the coronation of Richard I. of England, the populace slaughtered every Jew they could find, plundered their houses, and then set them on fire. They were fined'y in 1290, the time of Edward I., banished from the kingdom, and for four hundred years no Jew dared openly set foot in the English realm.

Henry II., of England, ordered 60,000 pounds, an enormous sum in that day, to be levied on them, to meet his expenses as a crusader.

King John of England, ordered all the Jews of the realm to be imprisoned, until they made a full discovery under torture, of all they possessed. Upon discovering which, he compelled them to pay an enormous sum of money to be released. One rich Jew at Bristol, was ordered to have a tooth extracted daily, until he should pay 10,000 marks.

Under Edward, the Confessor, of England, the Jews, and all their possessions, so the law ran, belonged to the king. They had no legitimate rights whatsoever."

What excuse was there to give license to this imprisonment, torture, murder and robbery? Nothing, except they were Jews, or Israelites. Would you think their kinsmen according to the flesh, would thus use their brethren? Would Israelites thus persecute Israelites, simply because they were Israelites? Never!!

Banish forever the thought that these Englishmen are Israelites. It is contrary to Scripture, reason, history, and common sense. Place confidence in the sure prophetic Word, and look for the remnant of Israel to come from the Assyrian country according to that Word

W. H. WILSON.

Obituary

Drusilla May Wheatley, died at Eagle Grove, Iowa, June 10th, 1898, of quick consumption, age 26 years and 22 days. About three years ago she lost her husband with the same disease. She leaves two children, a girl and a boy, aged six and three years respectively. A few months ago she embraced the glad tidings of the Kingdom of God, and was baptized by the write. She died full of faith in the promise of God unto the fathers. On Sunday, June 12, after a few words of comfort by the writer, from 2 Thess. iv. 13, we laid her away in the cemetary at Eagle Grove to await the coming of the Life-giver to call forth his loved ones to immortality and eternal life.

"Then our ranks we shall meet,
And our loved ones shall greet:
Who are lying in death's cold embrace,
From the tomb they will come,
To their bright Eden home,
Clad in heavenly beauty and grace."

O. J. ADAMS.

Conference Report.

According to previous announcement, the Annual Conference of the Church of God in Michigan, convened at Dutton, Thursday evening, June 2nd, 1898, and continued over the following Sunday.

Ministers present were, F. L. Austin, Rensselaer, Ind. O. R. L. Crozier, Ann Arbor, Mich. C. Winchester, Byron Centre, Mich. B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich. Among the friends from a distance were Brother and Sister Austin, of Rensselaer, Brother P. H. Bouk, of Fonthill, Canada, Sister Simonds of Chicago, Ill., and Brother and Sister Underwood of Plymouth, Ind. Their company was very pleasant and we ask each one to come again.

The conference was called to order Thursday evening, at 7:30 P. M. with Brother Hammond presiding. The programme as published was carried out with slight variations, and we feel that a step forward in the work of spreading the gospel has been taken.

It was a great disappointment to all the brethren at not having Brother L. C. Chase with them, but circumstances over which he had no control, prevented his leaving home.

The papers of Brother and Sister Vince, "The Lord's Time, What are we doing with it?" and "The Lord's Money and Service, What are we doing with them?" were both interesting and instructive. We all wished that we could become acquainted with the writers.

Friday P. M. Business Meeting. Minutes of the last meeting were read and accepted. The following were elected as officers for the ensuing year:

President, Lorenzo Decker.
Vice-president, H. C. Hammond.
Secretary, Emma Jackman.
Treasurer, A. K. Richardson.
Evangelists, B. W. & M. A. Woodward.

EVANGELIST'S REPORT.

B. W. Woodward, days work in Michigan, 29. Sermons 149. Funerals 9. Married two couples. Baptized 16.

M. A. Woodward. Sermons, 49 in Michigan, elsewhere 26. Days worked in Michigan, 49. Baptized 4. Funerals 2.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

Money received for the year including the amount on hand was $223.62. Paid the evangelists $122.90, for work and expenses. Paid to Brother W. J. Cummings for work done at Otn, Michigan, $10.00. Money in the treasury $90.72. Moved and carried that the treasurer's report be accepted. Money received from the Sister's Evangelical Aid Society was $33.02. Paid out to THE RESTITUTION $10.25, leaving in the treasury $23.67.

The report from some of the churches was very good, and some others forgot to send in any report.

Brother F. L. Austin did most of the speaking, presenting the Bible truths in a most pleasing manner. After the Sunday morning service the "Lord's Supper" was administered by Brother Woodward, Brother Winchester and Sister Woodward.

Two became obedient to the gospel, a brother and a sister. The ordinance was attended to on Sunday afternoon by Brother Woodward.

It was a real pleasure to us all to have Brother and Sister Underwood with us. We shall all feel a greater interest in our paper, THE RESTITUTION, for having become acquainted with the editor and his wife.

The meeting was a profitable one, a spiritual feast throughout. May these good meetings continue to be held from time to time until Christ comes, and we are all gathered to that most glorious meeting of which these are only a foretaste.

Yours in hope of eternal life.

EMMA JACKMAN, Sec'y.

According to announcement the Church of God of the Abrahamic faith in Indiana met in Conference at Antioch June 9, and continued over Sunday following. The weather was perfectly adapted to the occasion; rain to cool the air and lay the dust but not interfere with the meeting.

The plan laid down by the program was followed as near as possible, all with few exceptions taking the parts assigned them, and thus we had a good meeting throughout.

At 1:30 Friday the business meeting was called to order with Brother F. L. Austin in the chair. The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved. On roll call of churches Argos, Antioch, Bruceton, Eagle Creek, Plymouth and Pleasant View responded.

Treasurer reported amount received since November $253.28. Paid out $182.14, leaving $71.14 in evangelical fund. Received $19.00 on Tent fund.

Our State Evangelist, A. H. Zihner, gave a brief report of his labor since he came with us which will be given in next issue.

The tent question was laid before the meeting, and it was decided that the Conference purchase a tent to be used in evangelizing, and that as only $71.00 has been subscribed as yet, that the subscription be left open so that others who so desire may contribute and perhaps by next year there will be enough to purchase and run the tent.

It was also carried that the business of the tent be left in the hands of the executive board.

It was ordered that the Conference follow the regulations laid down in the Constitution in regard to the issuing of ministerial certificates, which provides that any minister desiring such certificate shall present a recommendation from the church or organization of which he is a member.

A committee on program for our next meeting was appointed composed of Flora Harris, Chairman, Phebe Thompson and T. O. Taber.

On invitation from Bro. Austin it was ordered that our next Conference be held at Rensselaer sometime next September.

Those present from a distance were P. H. Bouk Canada, F. L. Austin Rensselaer, J. L. and S. R. Vince Princeton, Lydia Evans and Jessie Pence Hedrick, J. F. Wagoner Rochester. Sister Benjamin not being able to fill the place assigned her Sister Evans filled the vacancy.

Considering the busy time of year, the attendance was good. The meeting was one of interest from start to finish. The preaching was of a high character and commanded the best of attention. The papers read were excellent productions, and will appear in this paper as space will allow, also a letter from Bro Halstead of Andover S. D.

On Sunday evening one sister came forward to receive baptism. May she ever prove faithful and finally be rewarded with all the faithful, and may others heed the warning and accept the overtures of mercy.

Thus it is that another good meeting has ended. Its record is made, it may be the last, as it will be for some at least. So let us cherish the good in our hearts, that it may bring forth an hundred fold and in the end everlasting life, is our prayer.

F. L. AUSTIN, Pres.
A. C. ROGERS, Sec'y.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

Owing to the rainy weather, the Third Quarterly Conference of the Church of God in Nebraska could not be held at the time and place appointed. Bro. G. M. Myers of Iowa was with us and preached some very interesting sermons at the school house on Sunday June 5th, and at the Christian Church in Arapahoe on the following Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

The Secretary's report for the quarter was as follows: received in April and May $40.91; June $12.25; total $53.16.

The Treasurer's report: received in April $22.00; May $18.91; June $12.25; total $53.16. Paid Elder Adams $53.16.

The Evangelist's report: money received $53.16; expense $7.12; amount less expense $46.04; number of discourses 35; number baptized 18.

It was decided to hold the Annual Conference at Omaha during the meeting there.

Submitted in love,
M. D. NEWELL, Pres.
RENA GORDON, Sec'y.

Editor Restitution:

The Young Peoples' Meeting, of Southern Kansas, was held May 29, with good attendance and interest. The next regular meeting will be held at Blackwell, O. T., July 31. The subject to be considered is, "God's purpose to the Human Family." The subject has been subdivided as follows: 1. The Garden Home; 2. The Ark Beyond the Billows; 3. Moses in Darkness and Light; 4. The Footprints of God's wrath; 5. The Necessity of God's Love; 6. The Cry in the Wilderness; 7. The Troubled Waters; 8. The Break of Dawn; 9. The Close of Day; 10. The Gate Ajar; 11. God's sign in Heaven on Earth made known; 12. The Lamp of Love; 13. The Voice of the Archangel; 14. The King of Peace. We would be glad to have any of the young folks from a distance attend this meeting; if they cannot be present we would be glad to receive manuscripts from them which will be read. We hope that all that can will be present.

Your Sister,
MARY I. BARBER, Sec.

Vandalia Line Fast Trains.

Commencing June 20th the Vandalia Line will resume its fast train service between Terre Haute and St. Joseph, leaving Terre Haute 1.00 P. M., arriving Crawfordsville 2.39 P. M., Frankfort 3.22 P. M., Logansport 4.35 P. M., Culver (Lake Maxenkuekee) 5.38 P. M., Plymouth 5.57 P. M., South Bend 6.39 P. M., St. Joseph 7.50 P. M. Southbound leave St. Joseph 4.00 P. M., South Bend 5.13 P. M., Plymouth 5.57 P. M., Culver 6.18 P. M., Logansport 7.20 P. M., Frankfort 8.28 P. M., Crawfordsville 9.14 P. M., arrive Terre Haute 11.00 P. M. Daily except Sunday. Elegant coaches and parlor cars. Address nearest Vandalia Line Agent for details. E. A. Ford, General Passenger Agent, St. Louis, Mo.—july 15.

No cross, no crown. No rain, no rainbow.

Turners' North American Convention at San Francisco. Nickel Plate Excursion.

June 27th, and 28th. A Peerless Trio of Fast Express Trains daily, vestibuled buffet sleepers, unexcelled dining car service. Rates lower than via other lines. Ask Agents. 1t

Nickel Plate Road Excursion to San Francisco.

Account of North American Turners' Convention. Tickets on sale June 27th and 28th. Ask Agents. 1t

The Unexcelled Dining Car Service on The Nickel Plate Road.

Beginning Monday June 20th, breakfast will be served A la Carte, on dining cars of Nickel Plate Road, July 14.

War Map Free.

Latest official indexed maps of the world, Cuba and Philippine Islands for pocket use, issued by the Chicago & Northwestern R'y, free for two cent stamp. C. Traver, 507 Smithfield street (Park Building), Pittsburg, Pa. —1t.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect June 19, 1898.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.

No. 14, Ex. Sun. For St. Joseph.....7:34 A M
No. 6, " " .....12:08 P M
No. 20, " " " " .....5:37 P M
No. 8, " " South Bend.....10:11 P M
No. 16, Sunday only, for St. Joseph, 8:24 A M

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute.....6:35 A M
No. 3, " " " " .....12:30 NOON
No. 7, " " " " .....5:57 P M
No. 15, " " Logansport.....7:38 P M
No. 17, Sunday only " .....8:10 P M

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. FORD,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo

Selected.

Our "New National Policy."

General Merritt, who is the appointed Governor-General of the Philippines spoke to a company of representative men of the Pacific Coast, and declared his belief in the "change of policy" for this government. We clip the following from the Times-Herald, June 11:—

"In his utterances before the Pacific Union Club at San Francisco with reference to what he called "the new national policy of the United States," General Merritt gave expression to his own personal sentiments as an American citizen. He did not speak in any representative capacity as far as the government at Washington is concerned.

It is significant, however, that the man who has been sent by the administration to be governor general of the Philippines should, on the eve of his departure for his post of duty, proclaim his adherence to "a new national policy of the United States which looks to acquisition of additional territory represented in outlying islands that are requisite for the development of national strength and growth."

Moreover it would be useless to deny the fact that in this bold utterance General Merritt expressed the dominant American sentiment at this time. A war which had its inception in a desire to advance the interests of humanity and civilization has become, through the necessary incidents in its successful conduct, a war of conquest, a war of conquest. The acquirement of outlying islands has become essential to the attainment of the direct object of the war—the expulsion of Spanish tyranny and oppression from Cuba. A war for humanity has become a war of conquest, and this war of conquest forces upon us a "new national policy." Historical traditions are shattered by the unavoidable exigencies of a war which was inaugurated, not to acquire territory but to restore peaceable government and order to an island lying near our shores, which has been pillaged by Spanish cruelty and misgovernment.

We cannot escape the logical conclusions of the conflict. There is no reason for believing that the administration desires to escape them now. On the contrary, it has pushed forward with all possible speed the military movements made necessary by a conflict that has developed into a war of conquest. Our flag must be kept over the Philippines. The President will keep it there if he has to call for another hundred thousand volunteers to reinforce Merritt and Dewey. If the stars and stripes are planted on Porto Rico, the Carolines, the Ladrones, the Canary Islands, or upon every island in the entire archipelago, from the Marshalls to the Philippines, it will be backed up by American military force and naval valor.

This is the 'new national policy' forced upon us by a war which was not undertaken to acquire territory but to give to struggling Cubans a free government. Having acquired outlying islands, as an incident of war, the new twentieth century national policy may demand that we retain them as necessary to 'the development of national strength and growth.'"

Where to spend the Fourth. Visit Washington and Ohio Troops in Camp—Excursion via Pennsylvania Lines.

An opportunity for a delightful Fourth of July or vacation trip and a visit to the Ohio Soldiers at Fairfax Court House, Virginia, is presented by the special low rate excursions to Washington over the Pennsylvania Lines for the National Educational Association meeting. Tickets at special reduced fare will be sold July 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, good returning until July 12th, with privilege to extend until August 31st.

A number of persons are arranging to make the trip from this locality to see the sights at the National Capital and visit relatives and friends among the soldiers at Camp Alger, near Washington. It will be a delightful way in which to spend the Glorious Fourth. Full particulars about rates, time of trains and other details will be furnished in reply to inquiries addressed to local Ticket Agent, J. E. Haines, or C. L. Kimball, A. G. P. Agt., Cleveland, O.—July 6.

Reduced rates to Portland, Ore., via Nickel Plate Road, June 29th and 30th, account Tenth Triennial National Council of Congregational Churches. Ask Agents. 11

Announcement.

Editor Restitution:

The Church of God at Ashvale, Kan., (Post Office address, Hunter, Mitchell Co., Kan.,) will hold a grove meeting (D. V.) beginning on the 29th day of July, 1898, and continuing over Sunday, and as long as may be deemed best thereafter, at or near the Ashgrove schoolhouse in Lincoln Co., Kansas. The place of meeting is on Bacon's Creek, a tributary of the Solomon, about 16 miles northwest from Lincoln Center, Kansas.

Bro. J. T. Kiggins of Bavaria, Saline Co., Kan., a very zealous and worthy exponent of the truth, under whose efforts the church at this place was organized, informs me that he expects Bro. W. J. Owen and other good preaching brethren will be present to assist in proclaim the Word.

This is believed to be an excellent point for the commencement of a good and profitable work. We are in the country, a long way from the R. R., but we'll be glad to meet as many of the brethren of the like precious faith as possible at this meeting. A cordial greeting will be given to all who may come.

Yours in the faith and hope of the gospel.

J. K. Thompson, Elder.

Of Interest to Homeseekers.

To those desirous of owning a farm home, and seeking by industry and thrift to attain an independent condition in life, no better chance is afforded than the fertile farming lands, at low prices and reasonable terms, situated along the line of the Chicago & North Western R'y, in western Minnesota and South Dakota.

This locality is forging to the front and yearly gaining immense wealth from its fine crops, dairy interests and stock raising.

For further information regarding Homeseekers' rates, etc., please apply to W. B. Kniskern, G. P. and T. A., 22 Fifth Ave., Chicago.

Reduced Fares to Various Points via Pennsylvania Lines.

Excursion tickets will be sold via Pennsylvania Lines as indicated in the following paragraphs. Although concessions in fare are authorized for meetings of certain Orders, tickets may be obtained by any person whether a member of the Order or interested in the event. The reduced rates will be open to everybody.

To Washington, D. C., July 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the National Educational Association Meeting. Good to return July 15th, with privilege to extend return limit until August 31st.

To Chicago, Ill., July 12th and 13th for Young People's Christian Union, Universalist Church. Good returning July 21st, with privilege to extend until August 10th.

To Buffalo, N. Y., July 12th 13th, 14th and 15th, good returning until July 19th, with privilege to extend until September 1st, account Baptist Young People's Union International Convention.

To Saratoga, N. Y., August 1st and 2nd, account Young People's Christian Union, U. P. Church. Return limit August 10th, with privilege to extend until August 31st.

To Richmond, Ind., August 19th and 20th, good returning until August 29th, account Society of Friends Conference.

To Cincinnati, Ohio, September 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the G. A. R. National Encampment. Good returning until September 18th, with privilege of extension until October 2d.

To Pittsburgh, Pa., October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th 12th and 13th, good returning until October 17th, account Knights Templar Triennial Conclave. Return limit may be extended until October 31st.

During the excursion season special rates will also be in effect via Pennsylvania Lines for special and local events. For particular information please apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines or address C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.

Send The Restitution to some poor person as present for 1898. The cost is only three cents a week.

Very Low Rates to Portland, Ore.

Via the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western R'y). Excursion tickets will be sold at greatly reduced rates June 30 and July 1, limited to return until August 31, inclusive, account of meeting of Congregational Council. For rates and other information ask your nearest Ticket Agent or write, C Traver, 507 Smithfield street (Park Building), Pittsburg, Pa.; or W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago, Ill.—J. 25.

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing. Said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 20th of April, 1898, providing notice is given through The Restitution that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all remittances to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 340, Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. S. J. Sigler,	$10.00
J. L. Winer,	5.00
F. L. Austin,	10.00
Edgar Hatch,	1.00
Agnes Dilworth,	2.00
Mrs. Mary E Thompson,	15.00
One who believes that God from little offerings can work out great results.	10.00
A Friend of Truth,	1.00
Mrs. S A. Wickizer,	5.00
Mrs. A. M. Sipe,	10.00
Mrs. Mary J. Riggs,	2.00

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending The Restitution to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donor request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

J. B. Leal,	.75
C. H Watkins,	1.00
Mary A. Vermillion,	2.00
C. Woodworth,	.50

Just what you Want.

An artistic booklet entitled "Summer Outing" published by the Nickel Plate Road, describing vacation resorts along south shore of Lake Erie, also fine list of country homes open to country boarders, sent to any address on application to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O.—june 30.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. B. Stevens, Shawnee Mound, Mo.
S. R. Hinkelmeard, Denham, Texas.
P. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. M. Throshrough, Gulesburgh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 3810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 155 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio.
W. L. Skeels, Scholls, Ore.
E. Hoyt, Box 884, Grand Rapids, Mich.
S. Roxana Wines, Perreton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Heap, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Seircleville, Ind.
J. W. Niles, Edinboro, Pa.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 254, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Chismville, Ark.
J. J. Cady, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prime, Edson, Neb.
A. J. Eyestone, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kean, 4507, S. K. St, Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Glean, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hall, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Comer, Sibil, Ill.
B. F. Bayer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Ozawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
D. M. Hadley, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. G. Haupt, Laurel, Neb.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, Okla.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
H. T. Baker, Box 1008 Denmark, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Cottonwood, Cal.
J. R. Ogdevie, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Belmont, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Ruthbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave., Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Stella, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 44, Viola, Idaho.
Elder H. M. Williams, Portland, Kan.
R. Wilson, 1005 G St, Sacramento, Cal.
D. T. Halstead, Rensselaer, Ind.
John Poore, 2012 West Corning Ave, Pasadena, Kansas.
R. S. Owlesgine, Rensselaer, Ind.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 384 Grand Rapids, Mich.

Lake View Hotel—Lake Maxinkuckee (Culver), Ind.,

Will reopen on June 20th, 1898, for the Summer season, with improved service and thoroughly modern appointments. Family accommodations a specialty. Rates reasonable. Address J. B. Schofield, Manager, Culver, Ind.—July 31.

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12.00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., as follows:—Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:00, for devotional service, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the precious faith passing through thereby, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by addressing, or calling at Ella V. Baker's, 209 West Ivy St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God, at Andover, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Mills Hall. Andover is on the direct line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R., going west to Aberdeen, thirty miles east thereof.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Prairie Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Sarah Sellick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. Brethren known to this church, or coming properly endorsed by introductory letter, will be heartily welcomed. At present we meet in the School House on top of the hill; cable cars come very near, underly bring a from Seattle.

The brethren of the Church of God at Rock Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday-school. Communion at 11:00 when prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, La., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Authon, Elder.

The Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Benner Hall, on Willoughby Ave., near Broadway.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eyestone. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Centre is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Teasdell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the Kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon, Assisted occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okla., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles northeast of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God of Waterville, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Mountainview School House, near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Corbaley, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 p. m. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to step off and meet with us. A. W. Guyer, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Interim Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Faithfully yours, Grant Mechamer.

The Church of God at Allen, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Allen for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver, Pastor.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 12315 Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private homes for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday at the Union Chapel Church, Winterhode, Ill., for Bible Reading at 11 a. m. All are invited. Lizzie Woods, Sec'y.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:30 a. m. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You, your family and friends are cordially invited to attend Bible Reading, every Sunday at 3:00 p. m., 1245 Logan Ave. San Diego, Cal.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt binding, fifth edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Twelve Words;" one of "Early Lessons;" and one of "Honoring the Son,—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

Wiley Jones, Manchester, Va.

To Portland, Ore., Special Reduced Rates via Nickel Plate Road.

Tickets on sale June 29th, and 30th. Tenth Triennial National Council of Congregational Churches. Ask Agents.

Send to this office and get a "War Atlas" only 25 cts post-paid.

Cheap Rates via Vandalia.

The G. A. R. National Encampment at Cincinnati, O., Sept. 5th to 10th.

The Supreme Lodge of K. of P. and Uniform Rank Encampment at Indianapolis, beginning Aug. 30th.

For the above occasions the Vandalia Line will make a rate of One cent per Mile.—T. A. Downs, Agent.

Pittsb'gh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Ry.

Pennsylvania Lines.

Schedule of Passenger Trains—Central Time.

Westward.	6	18	30	2	26
	AM	PM	AM	PM	PM
Pittsb'gh, lv.	7 00	4 30		12 30
Alliance, "	9 00	6 30		2 30
Canton, "	10 05	7 30		3 30
Massillon, "	10 25	7 50		3 50
Wooster, "	11 10	8 30		4 30
Mansfield, "	12 03	9 30	6 30	5 25	1 30
Crestline, arr	12 45	10 05	6 50	5 45	2 00
Crestline, lv	1 15	12 50	7 30	5 50	4 00
Galion, "	1 45	1 20	8 05	6 20	4 30
Van Wert, "	3 35	2 10	9 47	7 55	6 07
Ft Wayne, lv	4 30	3 50	10 30	8 30	7 00
			AM	PM	PM
Arcola, "		4 15	10 45	8 45	7 15
Columbia City, "	5 58	5 23	11 37	9 31
Larwill, "			11 50	9 43
Mercedes, "			12 05	9 58
Eagle Lake, "			12 15	10 08
Warsaw, "	6 31	4 56	12 41	10 34	8 31
Bourbon, "			12 55	10 48
Bass Lake, "			1 05	10 58	8 51
Donelson, "			1 08	11 01
Inwood, "			1 12	11 05
Plymouth, "	8 10	6 34	1 30	11 23	9 13
Devereaux, "			1 42	11 35
Hamlet, "			1 54	11 47
Davis, "			2 00	11 53
Hanna, "			2 02	11 55	9 40
Wanatah, "	7 37		2 15	12 08
Valparaiso, "	7 51	6 30	2 30	12 23	9 57
Wheeler, "			2 37	12 30
Kouts, "			2 45	12 38
Wanatah, "			3 00	12 53
Hanna, "			3 01	12 54
Davis, "			3 07	12 59
Hamlet, "			3 12	1 04
Overturf, "			3 19	1 11
Plymouth, "	10 35	8 47	3 45	1 39
Inwood, "			3 58	1 52
Bourbon, "			4 06	2 00
Grass Creek, "			4 15	2 09
Warsaw, "	11 30	9 27	4 38	2 32
Eagle Lake, "			4 57	2 51
Mercedes, "			5 07	3 01
Larwill, "			5 19	3 13
Columbia City, "			5 33	3 27
Arcola, "			5 38	3 32
Ft Wayne, lv	12 30	10 45	6 00	3 50
	AM	PM	PM	PM
Van Wert, "	1 45	12 00	5 30	7 00
Leipsic, "			6 30
Bucyrus, "			7 45	10 15
Crestline, arr	3 30	1 45	8 30	11 00
Crestline, lv	3 40	1 55	8 40	11 10
Mansfield, "	4 20	2 30	9 15	11 45
Wooster, "	5 05	3 15	10 00	12 30
Massillon, "	5 30	3 40	10 25	12 55
Canton, "	5 50	4 00	10 45	1 15
Alliance, arr	6 35	4 45	11 30	2 00
Pittsb'gh, "	8 15	6 30	1 15	3 45
	AM	PM	PM	PM

Daily. Daily except Sunday. Sunday only. Stops on signal or notice to Agent.

L. F. LOREE, General Manager.
R. A. FORD, General Passenger Agent.
PITTSBURGH, PENN'A.

For time cards, rates of fare, through tickets, baggage checks, and further information regarding the running of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

Vandalia Time Card

In effect May 23, 1898.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.

No. 6, Ex. Sun. For St. Joseph.....12:08pm
No. 14, " " " " 7:34am
No. 8, " " South Bend.....10:11pm

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute.....6:35a m
No. 3, " " " " 12:43noon
No. 45, " " Logansport.....7:35pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. Foun,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo

One Fare Sunday excursion tickets are on sale from stations on Nickel Plate Road.—jn.

Books and Tract List.

A LETTER TO A FRIEND.

This treats of the Covenants of Promise, as their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. Many of our readers already know of the good that has been accomplished through its circulation. 10 cents each.

FUTURE PROBATION.

Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moncrieff. We have a good supply and will send them post paid for ten cents per copy.

GLAD TIDINGS OF THE KINGDOM OF GOD.

This tract contains 12 large size pages, and is a reprint of a work issued many years ago. It is clear and comprehensive. 5 cts each or 30 for $1.00.

THE CHRIST NATION.

A lecture, by H. V. Reed. This clearly sets forth that the Coming Nation will be the nation of Israel restored to Palestine, with the Scriptural reasons given. 20 pages. 10 cts or three for 25 cts.

Necessity of Baptism. Written some years ago by J. M. Stephenson. It is good. Also, Bible Plan of Salvation, with Scriptural interpretations. 2cts each or 15 cts per dozen.

Modern Events in the Light of Prophecy.—Sermon preached by H. V. Reed at Antioch, out in tract form. 5 cents each, or 30 copies for $1.00.

Passages Supposed to Teach Consciousness after Death, by W. H. Wilson, which shows that eternal life is not inherent. 3 cents each, or 25 cents for 12.

Where Do the Dead Sleep. Three new Bible texts given in answer to this question. A 3-page tract 2 cents each or 15 cents per dozen.

Rules. A Bible account of this place with proof texts. Ten copies for 5 cents.

Death Compared to a Sleep. This represents death as a sleep and proof texts are given. Ten copies for 5 cts.

The Wicked Dead and Plain Truths. The two combined. 2 pages ten copies for 10 cents

Word of Man vs. Word of God," by H. V. Reed. A contrast between the two. 2cts each or 15 for 25 cts.

Address, The Restitution, Plymouth, Ind.

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory, and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O.

Aids to Bible-Study and Mission-Work.

1. The gospel of the Kingdom, avocated in a series of Ten discourses. A volume of 283 pages, Cloth 25c. a Leather-bound beautifully embossed and gilt edged $1.00. 2. Twelve Words or the true meanings of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptable, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as gathered from their uses in the Holy Scriptures. A tract of 40 pages 10cts a copy. Intended as a substitute for and an improvement on the same writer's Key-Words. 3. The gospel of the Kingdom. An 8-page double column tract 10cts. per dozen; 75cts. per hundred. 4. Who are Led by the Spirit? A 4-page tract 25cts per hundred. 5. Seeking and Finding. A 4-page tract 25cts. per hundred. 6. Honouring the Son. An 8-page tract 25cts per dozen. 7. Early Lessons. 30 pages 10cts. copy. Suitable for old or young.

Written and for sale by Wiley Jones, Manchester, Va.

Notice.

Will our friends please remember that we do not have the books and tracts at this office that are advertized by Brother Joblin, or Brother Wiley Jones. Do not send to this office for them, but send to their address as given in the advertisement. This will save both trouble and delay. PLEASE REMEMBER.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
B. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVII. Read PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, JULY 6, 1898. NUMBER 26.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

Communicated.

Michigan Conference Papers.

THE LORD'S TIME—WHAT ARE WE DOING WITH IT.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

I have never seen your dear faces, and do not even know your names; yet, because you belong to my Father's family I love you and want to do you good.

This business of the Lord's is a solemn one, and we must be in earnest about it. I hope you all are, and I want to bear some humble part with you in carrying it forward.

You would not be holding this conference if none of you were in earnest; there would be no ministers here, no invited guests from abroad, no arrangements made for song services, social talks, thank-offerings and grateful prayer.

But if there should be some among you who have not consecrated your lives wholly to the Lord, I hope in his strength to be able to show you how you can do this, and in doing it climb higher and nearer to God.

It is something "to stand on the top of the mount, where Moses stood"—it is a grand thing to be permitted to go even half way up, as did the seventy elders of Israel, yet God's grace can bring his devoted children even there in a figure.

They can feel the rapture; can hear the voice of the Lord; and can catch bright visions of his coming glory as the cloudy pillar leads them on to Canaan.

If but few are permitted to enter as it were into the presence of the Lord and to abide beneath the shadow of his wings, it is only because there are but few who care to take the road that will lead them there. Those who are to minister effectually in the courts of the Lord must come in with clean white dress, with golden vessels of incense in their hands, and with consecrated fire from the Lord's own altar. Not else will their ministrations be accepted, or bring forth fruits of blessing for others.

With these few introductory remarks I will now present for your attention a few thoughts on a theme of most absorbing interest to every one of us who have professed the name of Christ. I do not know that I could have chosen one that would more closely connect itself with your present and eternal well-being. "The Lord's Time—What are we doing with it,"—that is my theme for to-day.

Time is a brief space lent to us in which to prepare for eternity. I say "lent," for all that we have is "loaned" us of the Lord: even life itself. He waits. He gives us time to repent because he is long-suffering and not willing that we should perish. He wants us to grasp the truth; to live the righteous life; to come off victors over all evil; and to do this we must use our time, or, what is the same, our lives in his service. For so far as we as individuals are concerned, life and time are the same.

In the time that is given us we are "to work out our own salvation with fear and trembling." But as the blessed gospel was not sent into the world to save just you, my brother, or you, my sister, it is necessary in order to your own salvation that you take up the glorious story that has been rehearsed in your ears and hear it on to others. This necessitates preparation. It calls for careful and earnest study of the Bible. We must delve and get the jewels of truth if we would have them on hand for those who come to buy. There will be plenty of buyers if the truth is kept brightly burnished on your shelves.

God wants us to study, every one of us, that we may be able to give a reason for the hope that is in us to every man that asks.

It is said that "if the pupils in our public schools learned as little as church members the teachers would soon be turned off." But it is not the fault of the teachers in our Advent churches that the people do not learn; it is the pupils themselves that are in fault. They do not use the text book; they come to school with their lessons all unlearned; the masters can only outline the subjects for the day and settle some of the difficult points, and with this the learners are not satisfied and go home discontented and unhappy saying, "the Bible is so hard, no one can understand it!" I am afraid the child would get many a severe whipping if he acted as the pretended students of God's word act. We do not allow the children to throw their school books aside because the lessons are hard to understand, and will the Lord excuse us if we throw our school book aside? He has committed it to our keeping, that we hide it in our heart s, and thus be preserved from sin. He has made it our armor—has clothed us with it—has put it into our hands as our sword of defence against the enemy. Let us see to it that we use it.

The teachers can do nothing to interest and instruct if their classes make no use of the book. But if it has been studied, references looked up, chronology settled, historical information gained, geography of places grasped, then the members will feel as if they were partners and helpers with the teacher. They can sit with head erect, and with ears wide open, saying, "We know something about that too! We have the lesson by heart, and how nice it is to hear it rehearsed by the teacher!

We are the Lord's and therefore our time is the Lord's time. But he doesn't say anything about time, does he? Where has he asked us to use our time for him? "Redeeming the time because the days are evil!" "Work while it is day, for behold! the night cometh, when no man can work." "The time past ought to suffice us to have wrought the will of the Gentiles" * * * we are "no longer to live the rest of our time in the flesh to the lusts of men, but to the will of God."

"And if ye call on the Father, who without respect of persons, judgeth according to every man's work, pass the time of your sojourning here in fear." "Ye are not your own, ye are bought with a price."

Is not this enough to convince you that the Lord's time must be used for the Lord? What is it to redeem time? Is it not to buy it away from sin? We are to redeem it "because the days are evil," or, in other words, because they are full of the works of the evil one and we want them to be filled with the works of righteousness and of peace.

"Acquire the time out of the forum," "secure the season for yourselves," "to speak to one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs." Eph. 5: 16-19, Col. 4: 5, that "God's kingdom may come, and his will be done on earth as it is done in heaven."

I have shown you that there must be preparation, for the work that is to be a factor in your own salvation, and that this preparation which is to fit you to take up the glorious gospel story for the ears of others consists in earnest, prayerful study of the Bible, and I might say in the study of history in connection with symbolical prophecy. I have shown you that so far as you are concerned life and time are the same. I have given you Bible texts to prove that we must use our time for God.

Now what are you doing with the Lord's time in your homes? Are those homes consecrated homes? Are they places of prayer and of holy song? What influence do they exert upon the world? What is the influence upon those who come beneath the shelter of those roofs? Are any of your guests brought to God? If you use the Lord's time as you should in your home you can no more help making converts there than a boat can help flowing down a rapid river.

What are you doing with the Lord's time for the children? At home, in the church, in Sunday-school? My earliest lessons of God were learned at home at my father's and mother's knees. The New Testament was the first reading book that was put into my hands. I read the whole Bible with my parents in family worship, and my lips were early taught to join with them in prayer. How much I thank God now that the home of my childhood was a consecrated home.

If you desire above all things that your children have a home in the kingdom teach them "to remember now their Creator in the days of their youth," read the Bible with them, make its lessons plain and beautiful to their infant minds, set a good example before them, go with them to church, teach them in Sunday-school, train them for the service of the Lord.

The first thing that a pious Jew does is to teach his child the fear of the Lord. The Bible is made the principal text-book. He must learn its lessons if he learns nothing else. It is this reverence for God's word that has kept the Jews so pure amid all the contaminating influences around them.

But with us the secular education is made the all-important thing. We use the Lord's time in having our children learn heathen mythology and the foolish philosophy of Plato and Socrates.

The divine education we leave out, or at the most, give it but a half hours' consideration of a Sunday—perhaps even then delegating the matter to an utterly untrained and worldly teacher! Thirty or more hours per week to fit the children to battle for the corruptible gold of the present, and such brief space to fit them for gaining the gold of eternity!

Such a course is having its effect upon the character of our nation in the lack of faith that we find everywhere in the outspoken infidelity of the times, in the social impurity of the masses, in the wide-spread dishonesty, and in the blatant blasphemy that hurls its defiant curses against the very throne of Omnipotence. Our fair land could never have given birth to Ingersoll as Ingersoll if we had kept the simple piety and not dauntless faith of our Puritan forefathers.

Why is it that days are evil,—the times, perilous?

For the very reason that men have not been redeeming the time for God. The church has lost her hold upon men, and men have drifted away from the church and from God because the Bible has not had the place it ought to have in our homes and in our schools. The world has had dreadful lessons along this line.

True Christianity is the salt of the earth; it is all that saves it from destroying itself. France once had the salt of a pure church, but martyred its members or drove them into exile. All that could restrain or save was gone. Infidelity raised its head: Voltaire sent out his infidel books. The prickly thistle seeds took root and grew. The result was a perfect earthquake and hailstorm of death. From 1789 to 1794 the poniard, the guillotine, the fusillades, the drowning waters and the resultant disease, pestilence and horror mowed down their countless thousands. The babe and its mother, the children of the schools, the old man on his staff, the aged woman in her snowy cap, all went the way of death. Religion was dethroned, God defied, blasphemy clothed the nation as with a garment, and that all could debase, and defile held sway. It infidel France still. And it all began by "attacking the word of God, denying its inspiration, mutilating its texts, and despising its precepts.

Can you not see from this how much depends upon the way we use the Lord's time for the children?

It is not a splendid secular education, it is not the army, it is not the navy, it is not the state nor the general government that gives safety, but a pure faith and a Christian people. "These are a country's strength," says Cumming, "for where these are there God is also,—a sun and a shield.

Only the possession of the Bible and a pure and active faith can save a people even in the present time.

"Godliness is profitable for all things, having promise of the life that now is, and of that also which is to come." We have been saved many times as a nation because of those who have held fast to the Bible, and who have boldly declared "The Lord is my banner, he is the God of my salvation, my strength and my deliverer." Be careful then in the use of the Lord's time for the children.

But what are we doing with the Lord's time for our neighbors? for the world at large?

God uses human instruments in saving men. He would not do a thing for this sin-cursed earth if no faithful ones come forward to carry out his plans. How much would have been done towards winning a bride for the Master if the members of the early churches had sat down at their ease? How I wish that I had time to tell you what they did do for the Lord! How in the Cottian Seps, and in France and in Spain, they protested against the awful idolatory of Rome, and averred in the very teeth of death that the Pope was the anti-Christ! All that we have of truth, of liberty and peace, we owe through God to those faithful, witnessing churches. They committed whole books of the Bible to memory and the very children could give a reason for their hope.

Make the needful preparation and then use every opportunity to save your neighbors, and thereby help to save the world, so far as it can be saved in the present time.

What are you doing with the Lord's time to help your ministers in their work? What if the teachers study hard and long, that they may be able to illustrate and make plain the beautiful lessons of the Holy Book, and then come to the school-room and find it nearly empty? No interested classes there, no Bibles, no black-board, with its comforting text for the day, no interested enquirers, no friendly helpers? How disappointing, how disheartening to the earnest servants of the Lord. But I hope you never have it that bad in St. Joseph, but that you are all co-workers together in hastening toward the day of God.

We can none of us be indifferent spectators of the mighty struggle that is going on in the world between the army of the Lord and the army of satan. It is not the on-lookers who win the battle: those who wield no sword and fire no gun, can never hope to overcome and have a seat with Jesus on his throne.

The minister, humble and despised though he may be, occupies the highest position that it is possible for any human being to occupy in this present state, for he is a herald, or messenger, of the King of the Universe. Beware then how you use him, for the name of the God is upon him. Strengthen him, help him, hold up his hands.

We have been pained here in Indiana by having our bright, young members take positions as teachers and choir-singers in other churches, by having our older members go to social gatherings on prayer-meeting nights and by having them stay at home to entertain company, or to go visiting on Sunday. But this does not often happen, and we thank God for the association of dear, devoted helpers. It is perfect inspiration to meet them week by week, in the courts of our God, where "we remember the works of the Lord and his wonders of old," and where "all that fear Him declare what He hath done for their souls." If some stay away we are sad, but we let it go and try to be patient, working away with all our might for the Master, sure that he will approve, and that some jewels will be won for our crown of rejoicing in the day of the Lord Jesus.

What are you doing with the Lord's time for the church? Each one of you has something to do with its prosperity. If only one member is indifferent it casts a cloud over the whole, and has an adverse influence upon those who are on the outside. If you who are in Christ, do not care for his blessed work, how can you expect sinners to come in?

Be always on hand in the church unless sickness lays you by.

If you have sweet, rich voices, consecrate them to the truth, use the Lord's time in singing for him. Have you a talent to speak? Speak for the truth! To write? Write for the truth! Other good causes may seem to need you, but the truth needs you more. You can encourage others to stand fast by your good example, and can awaken enquiries in reference to the truth by your active service by taking hold of the work yourselves.

There is so much to be done that I can hardly stop to eat or to sleep: an unseen hand seems urging me forward to fill with haste every precious moment, lest the time go by and the work be undone.

And there is so much to learn and to tell. My dear brethren and sisters what are you doing with the Lord's time?

Have you anything to show for it? Any precious gathered sheaves? Are you sending out letters of cheer to the lonely ones? Are you answering questions? Are you giving tracts or scattering books? Or are you living in sinful pleasure, reading penny trash, wasting the Lord's time in light and trifling conversation?

Do you want to know what one man did with the Lord's time? You have read about the slaying of the two witnesses in Revelations? Those witnesses stand for "a succession of individuals," their "death is figurative, of the extinction of their testimony. Whenever there is no witnesses to protest against Rome, then the death of the witnesses can be officially announced. At the beginning of the sixteenth century it was thought that the Waldenses were extirpated and the Lollards in England silenced. Only the Bohemian heretics remained. "These were summoned to appear and plead in person, or by deputy, on the 5th of May, 1511, in the Forum, or the Bread street, or market-place of Rome." Not a single person appeared "to testify for Christ and against the superstitions of Papacy," before that mighty throng "representing all peoples, nations, tie-tongues and religions. "Silence reigned in the council, and there "by a public act, the epitaph of the witnesses was written." The orator mounted the pulpit and said, "No one protests, no one opposes," i. e., "heresy is extinct."

And we all know that Rome denies to heretics the right of burial. Their bones may be picked by vultures, to float to the sea, but the earth may not hide them from the gazed men. It is well, let "them that dwell upon the earth rejoice over them, make merry and send gifts to one another, because these two prophets tormented them that dwell on the earth" by protesting against their evil deeds, for there is to be a figurative resurrection of the witnesses that will change the merry-making into mourning.

We shall see what God can do with a poor miner's boy by setting him against the whole world.

It is the 31st day of October, 1517, just three and a half years since the witnesses were pronounced dead in the Roman Forum, and here is Martin Luther boldly posting his theses upon the gates of the church at Wittenberg.

One witness is standing up: he has come out of the grave of a monkish monastery!

That "pale, emaciated monk" has drawn a Bible from a dusty library, unclasped it, studied it contents," and behold! he unfurls it as his standard and the great apostacy is unmasked, the whole world is shaken, kingdoms are arrayed against each other, tyranny is smitten, and liberty is born!

This champion who stood for an open Bible, had only a dead-plank pulpit in the market-place at Wittenberg, but in that humble stand he used the Lord's time to proclaim the message of the hour, and to preach against the false doctrine and the idolatry of the Papal church.

"Bulls were fulminated against him, menaces and bribes were used to turn him, but no power could daunt or put him down. Wherever he went he gave his testimony as the truth of God against Rome.

So great was the wrath of his enemies, that in order to save him from death his friends seized him and imprisoned him in the castle of Wartburg.

What could Luther do with the Lord's time in that lonely prison? Translate the Bible from Hebrew and Greek into his own German tongue! Oh! the results of that work [illegible] mind, for his translation of the "little book," has been multiplied and sold by millions of copies.

Others, when he was released from prison, heard him preach, and lighting their torches at the Bible lamp, sped forth "from the rivers to the ends of Europe!"

In 1530 Luther and his co-reformers called themselves Protestants (protestis)—that is, the witnesses!

England and Scotland and Wales have felt the influence of that reform and over the waters it has come, and here we sit in delightful homes with the dear Bible on almost every Anglo-Saxon stand.

How much, how much can be done by the son of an obscure miner when he uses the Lord's time for the Lord!

And on the other hand how much can be lost when the church forgets that her time is the Lord's, and falls asleep! Then it is the devil's church alias the church of Rome—uses the devil's time to sow the tares.

The churches of the United States went to sleep after the Advent proclamation was made in 1843-44. They forgot that "the continuation of the reformation is in the blessed volume still"—that it has its "meat" for every season, and that stupor and death will follow the rejection of the proffered food.

It is in the acceptance and in the earnest proclamation of the truths that belong to each age, that wake fulness, and reformation and life, can be assured. It belonged to the churches as a whole to accept the doctrine of the Advent, but [illegible] closed their ears and went off into lethergic slumbers—oblivions of the fact that [illegible] made them responsible for [illegible] of His b[illegible] lest the hand of Popery [illegible] its pages against the people.

But stealthily, like a gli[illegible]ng serpent, —while the churches slept—did the sleepless foe lay hold of the holy palladium of liberty, and withdraw it from our schools: stealthily did he sow the baneful seeds of idolatry, treason and infidelity, until he has all his arsenals filled, his minions armed, his hand on the nation's throat, and only God can save! In him is my trust; I do not fear.

I would like to pursue the subject farther, but I have already trespassed grievously upon your time.

Take warning and don't go to sleep!

Be faithful to the dear Advent message that you hear to men!

See that you use the Lord's time to warn men that the Lord is coming!

Say that—

He is near, even at the door. Dedicate every moment of your time to him whether laboring in the field, in the shop, at the anvil, or the loom—whether in the pantry, the garden, or the wash-room, let toil be the handmaiden of God.

The Jews are accepting Christ—in Europe and in our own land. They hope soon to have a home in Canaan with Christ for their King.

And Israel, of the Ten Tribes, is learning from whence he was hewn, that he,—though Anglo-Saxon called, —is Isaac's son. These are marvelous days. God is in the movements of the nations. His army, of the Anglo-Saxon race, will conquer the idolatrous world, but in the meantime we are looking for our own King.

"Christ is coming! let creation
Bid her groans and travail cease;
Let the glorious proclamation
Hope restore, and faith increase:
Christ is coming! Christ is coming!
Come, thou blessed Prince of peace!

Earth can now but tell the story
Of thy bitter cross and pain;
She shall yet behold thy glory
When thou comest back to reign:
Christ is coming! Christ is coming!
Let each heart repeat the strain.

Long thy exiles have been pining,
Far from rest, and home, and thee;
But, in heavenly vesture shining,
Soon thy shall thy glory see:
Christ is coming! Christ is coming!
Haste thy joyous jubilee.

With that "blessed hope" before us,
Let no harp remain unstrung;
Let the mighty advent chorus
Onward roll from tongue to tongue:
Christ is coming! Christ is coming!
Come, Lord Je-us quickly come!

S. ROXANA WIXOM.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, IND. JULY 6, 1898.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth Marshall Co., Ind."

Remittance should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can feel it, for one who handles mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

A WAR ATLAS.

The exact locality of many places mentioned in the news of the War between the United States and Spain is not known to the general reader, and so recourse is had to geographies. We have decided to offer our readers a complete War Atlas of sixteen pages of maps, showing all the territory where a conflict can occur, besides some valuable statistics. This will be mailed to you for 25 cts. Send orders at once, and get the position of the places named that you can better understand how the various complications will affect the nations of the world. Address,—THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

French and Spanish War

For the past week General Shafter's troops have been gradually closing in on the city of Santiago, and are now in position to assault the place. He has asked the Spaniards to surrender, and received the reply that they would not do so, but wished for time for the foreign residents and women and children to move out. They were given till noon of July 5, to do so after which the bombardment will commence.

The morning of the 3d Admiral Cervera undertook to run out of Santiago harbor with his fleet, but was met by the American vessels and lost his entire fleet, every one of the ships being on the beach or at the bottom of the sea. Admiral Cervera is a prisoner, with most of his officers and several thousand men.

The American loss on the land numbers from 500 to 1,000, and the navy loss only one or two men. The Spanish killed number several thousand men.

The troop ships have arrived at Manila and Admiral Dewey was to demand the surrender of the place on July 4, and if they did not give up then the city was to be assaulted. The other nations have not yet interfered with the combatants.

What Became of a Lie.

[We transcribe the following lines of Mrs. M. A. Kidder, in the Jewish Gazette.]

"First somebody told it,
Then the room wondered hold it,
So the busy tongues rolled it
Till they got it outside;
When the crowd came across it
They onward did toss it,
Till it grew long and wide.
From a very small lie, Sir,
It grew deep and high, Sir,
Till it reached the sky, Sir,
And frightened the moon,
For she hid her face, Sir,
At the dreadful disgrace, Sir,
That happened at noon.
This lie brought forth others,
Dark sisters and brothers,
And fathers and mothers
A terrible crew:
And while headlong they hurried,
The people they flurried,
And troubled and worried
As it always do,
And an evil breed,
This monstrous lie goaded,
Till at last it exploded
In smoke and in shame:
While from mud and from mire
The player flew higher,
And, but the real liar,
And killed his good name."

Law or Gospel—Which? No. 15.

In view of the falsity of the visions referred to, what will the reader think of the person who has the audacity to say, Vol. 4, p. 148, "In ancient time God spake to men by his prophets and apostles [and then what?] Hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son." Heb. i. 2? No indeed! That did not suit the Sabbatarian Prophetess: so she adds in place of these words of the Spirit, "In these days he speaks to them. [that is those to whom in ancient times by his prophets and apostles, for this is what the language means. Evidently her guardian angel on this occasion was not well up in English grammar] by the testimonies."

This plainly supplants the Lord Jesus Christ as a means of communicating with us. Prophets, apostles and Mrs. E White, these are they through whom in all past and present time God addressed the human family. Is it not a wonder and a pity that Jesus is counted out, or if not counted, out,—omitted?

On p. 197, of Vol 1, she says, "In slighting the light brought out by his messengers we slight the Savior of the world.

On p. 196 she says those who reject the message of God's servants, reject not only the Son but also the Father.

On p. 211 she says, "When the testimonies are doubted and given up satan.....launches them into open rebellion, which becomes insurable and ends in destruction.

On p. 230 she says, "My work for the past 30 years bears the stamp of God, or the stamp of the enemy. There is no half way work in the matter. The testimonies are of the Spirit of God or of the devil."

This being so, we know from the falsity of the testimonies quoted, and the character of the devil as given by Jesus, that the latter is the real author of them.

In Vol. 3, p. 492 she says, "Many have the idea that they are responsible to Christ alone [we presume this was another mistake of her guardian angel, who probably meant to say, indebted] for their light and experience, independent from his acknowledged followers;" the context proving that the acknowledged followers are the leaders of the Seventh Day Community, in her estimation.

In Vol. 3, p. 317 she says, "I know may compared to what it once was to preach the third angel's message. Those who now engage in this work .....have things made ready to their hand. The truth is all brought out for them,—arguments all prepared.

In Vol. 3, p. 451 she says, "God has bestowed the greatest power under heaven, upon his church, it is the voice of God."

In Vol. 1, p. p. 417 in speaking of erroneous views held by some in regard to the "Future Age," "American Costume" etc., they all want religious liberty.....would to God that they would be reformed or give up the Sabbath." Yes—seal of God as it is said to be, she would rather they would give it up than reject her testimonies.

In Testimony 33, p. 219 she says, "The instructions I have given by pen and voice have been an expression of the light that God has given me." [This shows that what she has said and written is not taught in the Bible, —if it were what need would there be for visions?]

Again, in reference to the Testimonies she says, "Do not feel that you can dissect them to suit your ideas, claiming that God has given you ability to discern what is light from heaven, and what is the expression of mere human wisdom. Will the reader bear the above in mind, while we quote from Vol. 1, pp. 561-5.———

"Brother A. C. W. introduced to us the matter of his combined patent washer and wringer. He has since made us a present of one. It does its work well and fast. Brother W. sent circulars which may can have by addressing us and including postage."

This is what may be called an inspired puff of a washing machine. She will allow no "dissection" of what she writes or delivers orally. It must all be taken for Spirit teaching, see previous paragraph. It would have been meant indeed for the patentee not to have sent her a machine under their circumstances. Were this affair not a gross caricature of divine things, it would be laughable.

In "Peck's Modern Prophet's and Prophecies," p. 3, we read of a President of a local Seventh Day Conference, (very) saying from the pulpit that the Prophet of the third angel's message in these last days is the greatest prophet that ever lived from Adam to this time. Jesus and Paul, and Peter, and John, and Isaiah, and Jeremiah, and Daniel, and Moses, and all the rest are totally eclipsed by Mrs. E. White, of Battle Creek, Michigan.

The Seventh Day Advent Church of Norwich, Conn., is authority for the following:—

"The publication of Testimony No. 11 was delayed by the publishers at Battle Creek, because they lacked funds. They informed the author, Mrs. White, of the situation, and a special Testimony, suited to the occasion was prepared. Here are her own words in reference to it:—'They need the influence of my Testimony to move the brethren' [to hand on the money.] See Vol. 1, p. 563. She says in addition, "I shall be blamed for speaking as I now speak."

Here explain as need be, we see TESTIMONY MADE TO ORDER; and the evidence that the publishers knew what string to pull to draw the money. Was it vanity that induced her to let this financial secret out?

In Vol. p. 31, we read:—"We have a positive testimony against tobacco, spirituous liquors, snuff, tea, coffee, flesh meat, butter, spices, rich cake, mince pies, a large amount of salt, and all exciting substances used as food.

On p. 67 she was inspired to say "You have used the fat of animals which God in his word expressly forbids. Where does God forbid the fat of animals? If he has said nothing of the kind, does she not speak lies in the name of the Lord?

And as to eating butter,—she is divinely inspired to prohibit its use, although it was specially prescribed for the Son of the Virgin, Isa. vii. 14, by the prophet of God. Is it not supremely ridiculous?

Inspired to forbid flesh meat, while the priests under the law part took of it by divine direction: and the Father of the faithful killed a calf, and took butter and milk and prepared a repast for the angels of God who destroyed Sodom. And what of the passover of which Jesus partook on the night on which he was betrayed? What of the Spirit's command to let no one judge you in regard to meat or drink? Col. ii 16.

Inspired to say in Vol. ii. p. 68, "Cheese should never be introduced into the stomach," Scheeves 9 Sam. xvii. 18; and 2 Sam. xvii. 29 show that it was a regular article of diet in the times of David and Samuel, in Israel, and no fault found.

Vol. 2. p. 400 we find inspiration to the effect that "Eggs should not be placed upon your tables." To answer a fool according to her folly as Solomon advises, we do not see how they should hurt the table. Does not the Lord Jesus recognize an egg as an article of food in Luke xi. 12.

This Latter-Day wonder was also inspired to say that "This sinless pair [Adam and Eve] wore no artificial garments. They were clothed with a covering of light and glory, such as the angels wear.....They had not been clothed, but were draped in light." How does this agree with Dan. x. 5, and Mark xvi. 5; and Acts i. 10?

Our readers can take their choice; if they want to believe this leader of the Seventh-Day Adventist's in preference to the Spirit's testimony, they can of course do so,—but believe such drivellings as the above, especially when barefacedly opposed to the Word of Spirit, and at the same time to believe and teach the Bible is utterly impossible.

Inspired to say, was Mrs. White that "Adam was more than twice as tall as men now living upon the earth: and that Eve was not quite as tall as Adam." Spirit of Prophecy, Vol. 1, p. 25. What a momentous prophetic theme?

Page 99 says, "God as ordered beasts, and trees many times larger than those now upon the earth..... should be buried in the earth in the time of the flood." The character of these testimonies indicates the class of people she expected to take in her net; and we do not see how any other class could be taken.

In testimony 11, p. 10 Mrs. White by direct revelation from God was shown a dress to be worn by females who had accepted the tenets of the Seventh-Day Adventist's, she said:—"The dress should reach somewhat below the top of the boot, but should be short enough to clear the filth of the side walk, and street without being raised by the hand."

In No. 12, p. 34, she must have forgotten herself for she then earnestly recommended uniformity in length and would say nine inches from the ground.

This Reform Dress was to distinguish the Lord's people from the world.....The Dress Reform answers to us as did the rituals of idols to ancient Israel, Testimony 22, p. 6-8, and on p. 67 she says, "Those who have this light and do not follow it will find that their blessings will be changed into a curse and their mercies into judgments."

In "Blanchard's Testimonies" from which we cull many of these statements, on p. 10, he says:—"I am credibly informed that Mrs. White does not wear this dress herself in California, and when she was asked why this was, she replied, The time has not yet come to adopt it in this state." We wonder if she still thanked God for the cross when she could not face the odium of the dress advocated by Fowler and Wells, and Graham and Jackson thirty years or more before. These men needed no inspiration, further than a desire to inculcate rules for living that would benefit the race.

Elder Conright who for more than a quarter of a century was a prominent writer and preacher among the Seventh Day Adventists, says, Mrs. White never uttered one prophecy God has been fulfilled, although prophesying more than 10 years; and that he has seen her scratch out whole paragraphs and even pages and write them differently. And has repeatedly heard Elder White suggest changes in the testimonies,—giving her words and ideas, and sentences which she would put in.

She now employs an educated copyist to re-write all her matter and put it into popular style for the press. Thousands of words and phrases not her own are put into these books so says Mr. Conright.

In four vols., recently published, 21 changes on an average were made to the page, or 63,70 in the four books. This is published over Mr. Conright's own signature. He says:

A large share of her last book "The Great Controversy," she copied from other authors and published it as inspirational. This matter was investigated before a committee in Healdsburg, Cal. Feb 28, 1889, and it was proven that she had page after page copied from Andrew's History of the Sabbath, and Wylie's and D'Aubigne's History of the Reformation, Life of Miller, Sanctury and other books. So glowing her an out and out religious fraud.

Communicated.

Proverbs iii 5.

Editor Restitution:

If you will allow me a little space in your paper, I would like to give a few thoughts on a subject that was presented to me a short time ago. It reads like this. "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart and lean not unto thine own understanding." We find two things taught in this verse, first, it teaches us to not build up a faith, or creed, of our own and say it is just as good as the one that the Apostles taught.

Now let us notice the first part of the text. "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart," and in the sixth verse it says, "In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he will direct thy paths."

How are we to lean on the Lord without first learning of him and his ways? How can one lean on something they know nothing about? How can one learn of the Lord except through the teachings of that holy book called the Bible. Paul says in Rom. x. 14: "How then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher?"

As it was in the case of the eunuch when Philip came to him and said, "Understandest thou what thou readest? And he said, how can I, except some man should guide me?" Acts viii. 30-31. And 2d Tim. iii. 16-17, it says, "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction, in righteousness, that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." We also read in Rom. xv. 4, "For whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the scriptures might have hope." And in Rom. iv. 20-25, Paul in speaking of the faith Abraham had in what God said, says, "He staggered not at the promise of God through unbelief; but was strong in faith, giving glory to God; and being fully persuaded that what he had promised, he was able also to perform. And therefore it was imputed to him for righteousness. Now it was not written for his sake alone, that it was imputed to him; but for us also, to whom it shall be imputed if we believe on him that raised up our Lord Jesus from the dead who was delivered for our offences, and was raised again for our justification. and he goes on in the 5th chapter and first verse and says, "Therefore being justified by faith we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ." In 1 Cor. x. 10 we read, "Let therefore as hath failed and rather reproach be cast upon in the living God who is the Savior of all men, especially of those that believe."

Now I have stated and by the first, that as the only and infallible rule of the word of God, that gives us a knowledge of the Lord Jesus, that it is through him, in his words, or promises, and obedience to his commands that shows our trust in the Lord. Now let us notice the latter part of our text, it says, "And lean not on thine own understanding," and in the seventh verse we read "Be not wise in thine own eyes." Paul says in Rom. xii. 16: "Be of the same mind one toward another, mind not high things, but condescend to men of low estate, be not wise in your own conceits." Solomon tells us in Prov. xxvi. 12, "Seest thou a man wise in his own conceit? there is more hope of a fool than of him." And he also says in the twenty seventh verse, "Whoso diggeth a pit shall fall therein and he that roleth a stone it will return upon him."

Now I understand from Solomon that if we attempt to build up some other doctrine than will be sure to fall in the end. Jesus says in John x. 1, "Verily, verily, I say unto you, he that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber." It seems to us the tone of this verse, that Jesus meant to teach us that there was only one way to get in the fold. And Paul says in Eph. iv. 5, there is "One Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and one Father of all." But says one how are we to know which is the right way when there are so many different doctrines taught? I would say that there is only one doctrine to build your faith on, and that is the doctrine taught by the "Apostles and Prophets, Jesus Christ being the Chief Corner Stone," and Jesus tells Thomas, "I am the way, the truth, and the life no man cometh unto the Father, by me." John iv. 6. And John the revelator says, "And if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophesy, God shall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the Holy City, and from the things which are written in the book." Rev. xxii. 19. This had ought to be enough to convince any one that they should not lean on their own understanding, but should lean on the Lord in all things, or in other words put our whole trust in God and his promises, believing firmly that he will do all he has promised to do for us, if we prove faithful and obedient to the end. How can one lean on the Lord and turn their ear unto fables: Jesus says, "But in vain they do they worship me, teaching for doctrine the commandments of men." Matt. xv. 9 and Paul in Col., ii. 23, says, "Which things have indeed a show of wisdom in will worship, and humility and neglecting of the body: not in any honour to the satisfying of the flesh," and in 1 Tim., iv. 8, it tells us, "For bodily exercise profiteth little: but Godliness is profitable unto all things, having promise of the life that now is and of that which is to come." It seems to me that this had ought to be sufficient evidence to show any one the difference between putting your trust in the Lord, and leaning on your own understanding. Now let us look to ourselves closely, and see if we are putting our whole trust in the Lord, if we are not, then we are building our faith on the sand, and Jesus tells us that a house built on the sand will not stand, and I would say, for any one to build their faith on any thing outside of the Bible, is a very frail thing to build on, and is very easily carried away by every wind of doctrine, or as Paul tells us Col., ii. 22, "After the commandments and doctrines of men."

Submitted in love of the truth.

J. H. WILLIAMS.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:

I am looking for the soon coming of Christ to this earth to gather the faithful ones in his everlasting kingdom. My prayer is that I may so live that I may be found worthy when he comes to gather up his jewels.

Your Sister in Christ.

SARAH HADDEN.

Chautauqua excursion via the Nickel Plate Road, July 8th, tickets good to return to July 12th. Ask Agents.

Bird of Gladness.

Thou art a delight to me,
Bird so fearless wild and free,
Jesting in the genial time
Of the rosy summer's prime,
Mounting in thy daring high,
Skimming where the meadows lie,
Over flowers and lilies of love,
Nestling then among the trees,

Sweetly as the dewy air,
Thy merry music warbles rare,
Through woods that softly blow,
Over hills and valleys low,
From morn to eve, with skilled mood,
The heart of man to gladness stirring,
While o'er your head shall be,
Your Father's watchful care,
Carefully provide for thee.

While thy notes to you we sing,
Tuning heart glad thoughts they bring,
And I echo back the song,
Daughter, child and faithful servant,
O, who constant remembers,
Our Father loves us best,
Ever watcheth over me,
As he watcheth over thee.

—Rev. Robert J. Wilson.

A Mother's Love.—It Never Dies.

For that little unheeding bundle, a mere seed of life, the mother heart pours out all the royal tides of love, asking no reward save the privilege of service, and the opportunity of nourishing it out of nothingness and little-ness into largeness and beauty. And though in later life the child, through deceit and flattery, goes astray, and dress from home only to be shattered and wrecked, yet the sacred tide of love still flows on, and the golden cord of love unrolling, holds the child fast and draws it back out of all the confusion and storm. Having borne the child's sickness and infancy, having carried its ignorance and disobedience in youth, at length the mother bears its follies and vices and even its crimes. Between the cradle and the grave there is not a single hour when the mother heart will not open wide the arms to protect the child by reason of the great love she bears it. No young man can walk in evil ways while the thought of mother's love is in his mind, and the word "mother" is on his lips. Before he can pass through sin's gate and journey along the highways of wickedness he must banish every thought of mother, every remembrance of her kindness and love. The thought of mother will dash to the ground the ruinous cup raised to the lips. Forget not your mother.

Low Rates to Chautauqua. The Nickel Plate Road will sell thirty day limit excursion tickets July 8th. Inquire of Agents. 11

If you have ever watched an icicle as it formed, you would have noticed how it froze one drop at a time until it was a foot long or more. If the water was clear the icicle remained clear, and it sparkled brightly in the sun; but if the water was slightly muddy the icicle looked foul, and its beauty was spoiled. Just so our characters are formed. One little thought or thing at a time adds its influence. If every thought be pure and right the soul will be bright and lovely, and will sparkle with happiness; but if there be thoughts and feelings impure and wrong the mind will be soiled, the character destroyed and darkened, and there will be final deformity and wretchedness. How important. Even, that we should be on our guard against every evil impulse and desire.

The Same Old Trio on a Brand New Schedule.

There's been no more added, three express trains in each direction were considered sufficient, but it was deemed desirable to make faster running time with some of our trains, so the new schedule was put into effect June 26th. 11

Very Low Rates to Omaha, Neb.

Via the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western R'y). Excursion tickets at exceptionally low rates to Omaha and return (affording a visit to the Grand Trans-Mississippi and International Exposition, Omaha) will be sold July 12th, account of National Republican League meeting. For rates and other information ask your nearest Ticket Agent, or write, C. Traver 507 Smithfield street (Park Building), Pittsburg, Pa., or W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago. 11

One, Two, Three. This expresses the numerical strength of daily express trains in each direction effective on The Nickel Plate Road with their Spring Schedule. 11

It is said that of the eleven millions of people in Mexico, eight millions never saw a copy of the Bible.

The Nickel Plate Road Chautauqua excursion leaves Chicago and intermediate stations to Cleveland July 9th. 11

Poetry.

Choose.

There are two ways which we may take,
'Tis but with us the choice to make,
Wide is the gate and broad the way,
Where multitudes will go astray,
And worldly pleasures view'd as sin
Are all allowed to enter in.
Straight is the gate, narrow the way,
Where some are walking day by day
A good old way, long tried and true,
A living way ever new.
Come now, for there's no time to lose,
To-day choose, to-day reflect and choose

There are two leaders and we may
Choose which we will and him obey,
One all He promises will employ
Both soul and body to destroy,
And as in Eden, so he will
Tempt and deceive and ruin still.
The other is a Leader true,
All he has promised he will do,
He knows the way and to the end
Will be an ever present Friend.
To come, do not for self repose,
But hear him now and wisely choose.

There are two destinies, and we
Can now decide which ours shall be,
The broad road leads to endless woe
Where those we love below must go,
Remorse, despair and disonor,
Forever is their portion there
The narrow way leads home to God,
Where in the presence of our God
With saints and loved ones gone before
Is peace and joy forevermore.

Communicated.

What Do You Know About Faith?

If some one should suddenly ask your the above question, what would your answer be? Suppose each one reading the above question, were to give a brief, an answer, would each answer be in substance the same? What do you think? I intend giving a few thoughts on the question. I would so much like to know how many of you, who read this article, think the same?

In the abstract, I regard faith as the basic principle underlying every reasonable, thoughtful, rational action. In discussing this question, we must distinguish between faith and credulity.

Faith requires rational evidence, credulity may thrive upon superstition or emotion. When a farmer sows grain, he does so in faith, believing the result will be a crop. He has the evidence of past experience, and this evidence, is sufficient. Should you lend a man money to be returned at a stated time, and you have the evidence of past experience, that he is truthful and honest, you have faith (confidence) that you will receive it again according to his word. Should you lend it to a stranger, whom you don't know you cannot have the same faith (confidence) because you lack the evidence. Evidence, I take it, is an essential prerequisite to faith.

Bro. S. said: "This brings us to a philosophical conclusion that faith is an effect whose exclusive and only cause is evidence—so much so, that no evidence, no faith; strong evidence, strong faith; weak evidence, weak faith; clear evidence, clear faith; cloudy evidence, cloudy faith; in all cases the faith will be the exact counterpart of the evidence which produced it. We might as well suppose fruit without a tree, a stream without a fountain, or an effect without a cause, as to suppose faith without evidence. We may have any amount of credulity without evidence, but faith is absolutely dependent upon evidence for its origin."

When you ask a Trinitarian for evidence that three gods make one god, does he not tell you that "it is a great mystery, we cannot explain it, you must take it on faith." Faith is the wrong word, you must take it on credulity.

The Bible speaks of faith as being the gift of God. True, I will illustrate how it is the gift of God, in the following quotation: "Since God has commanded man to believe, we conclude that man possesses the inherent power to believe. If he had not that power, as an inherent quality of his own mind, he is no more responsible for its exercise, that the unconscious dust he tramples beneath his feet. Every promise, from the first promised access to the tree of life, in the blooming garden of Eden, down to the last promised ingress to the tree and river of life, in the closing up of the Apocalypse presupposes the free agency of man to believe, or not to believe, at the peril of his salvation or condemnation. Faith is not the gift of God in any other sense, than that of the power to walk, to talk, to think, to reason, to love, to hate, to taste, to smell, or to exercise any organ or faculty of body or mind is the gift of God. God is the author of these faculties and organs, but not that devil opposed nor exercise. It has not its low because God made my eyes, that therefore he sees for me, or because he made my brain, that therefore he thinks for me, or because he made the organ of faith, that therefore he believes for me. God is only the author of faith in that he made the brain with which man thinks, and is the author of the word, by which faith is developed. Man possesses a distinct intellectual faculty of faith. If he had not this faculty evidence would no more affect his mind than if it were a stone.

Paul reasoned in harmony with the above, when he said: "Faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God."—Rom. xi. The faculty of hearing the word of God produces an effect on the mind, which we call faith. If a man has no avenue by which the word of God can reach the mind, he can have no faith.

Paul also shows that there can be no faith without evidence, he says: "Faith is the substance of things hoped for, evidence of things not seen." Religiously there is no faith apart from God's word and evidence.

We read in Heb xi. 6: "Without faith it is impossible to please him. (God.)

OF FAITH?

In this matter we are shut up to one proposition. See Eph. iv. 4-6, "There is one body, and one spirit, even as ye are called in one hope (the result of one faith) of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all."

Now, we have before us these statements:

1. The way to study faith, it must come by hearing God's word, in place of being some supernatural gift.

2. Faith is the evidence of things not seen.

3. Without faith it is impossible to please God.

4. There is only ONE FAITH which comes as a result of hearing and believing God's word.

5. Therefore, in order to please God, it is essential to understand and believe the ONE FAITH, as revealed in the Scriptures.

6. Hope is expectancy, whose parent is faith.

7. The one faith is belief, caused by evidence, with regard to a definite promise of things not seen, but made real, by indisputable evidence, in a definite message, charged with power from God, called THE GOSPEL, by means of which we may be made "unblamable and unreprovable in his (God's) sight. If ye continue in the faith (having embraced it) grounded and settled, and be not moved away from THE hope of THE gospel, which ye have heard." Col. i. 23.

9. "The Faith" is not some miraculous gift, given in answer to prayer, but sublime truth, conveyed to the mind by being taught. See Col. ii. 7. "Rooted and built up in him, and stablished in the faith, as ye have BEEN TAUGHT, abounding therein with thanksgiving."

THE ONE FAITH

is the common salvation. See Jude 3. "I gave all diligence to write unto you of our common salvation, it was needful for me to write unto you, and exhort you that ye should earnestly contend for THE FAITH which was once delivered unto the saints."

If it was "needful" in those days to write and exhort, "that ye should earnestly contend for the faith once delivered unto the saints." Is that what is it to-day, when the baneful blight of liberalism has swept the earth like a black pall? Men who once stood in defence of the faith, now pull down the bars, and even call those who persistently refuse to obey the gospel brethren, and invite such to membership and communion.

I am apprehensive that if judgment has commenced at the church of God, what shall the end be of those who obey not the gospel?

Fearful judgment awaits those who refuse to obey the gospel, and I, for one, dare not lull them to sleep by teaching smooth things, and thus knowingly let them glide along to destruction.

With regard to faith, we can have evidence that the thing believed will become a fact, but to be able to demonstrate how it may be done, we cannot. Paul said to his judge, "why should it be thought a thing incredible with you that God should raise the dead?" Acts xxvi. 8. With Paul, it was perfectly credible, as he had conversed with one who had been raised from the dead.

On this line, I will quote, as follows: "Faith believes the promises, and hope expects to receive them. That faith upon which the approbation of God rests, is of the Abrahamic type. No other kind of faith will be approved of God. A class of philosophers have arisen in these last days who will believe nothing except that which they can demonstrate.

Rationalism is fast supplanting the true faith. What we can demonstrate is not faith, but knowledge. The simplicity of Abraham's faith was to trust God for what he did not understand."

TO CONFESS BELIEF, IS TO AVOW FAITH.

"To have faith there must be something definite to which it can attach. The faith that pleases God, is to have confidence in the message he sent his Son to deliver, and that relates to one system of divine truth the Bible calls the "ONE FAITH," and having laid hold upon it, says: "Continue in THE FAITH grounded and settled, and be not moved away from THE HOPE of the gospel." There being but one faith, one hope, and one gospel, our faith must grasp this unit system of truth.

Now, as there is but one gospel, and Jesus preached the gospel he was sent to preach, therefore, whatever message he preached as gospel, must be the one gospel, the one faith, and the hope it engenders is the hope of the gospel. The message he heralded during the entire period of his ministry was and along with it he says, "repent, and believe the gospel."

"THE GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM,"

He says to his chosen followers "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned." When he sent his disciples to preach the gospel, what did he intend them to preach? We can get the answer from Jesus, himself, in Luke ix. 2: "He sent them to preach THE KINGDOM OF GOD."

What did they do? See verse 6: "And they departed, and went through the towns preaching THE GOSPEL.

Again, in Acts viii. 12: "When they believed Philip preaching the things concerning the Kingdom of God and the name of Jesus Christ they were baptized both men and women." Now, as there is but "one hope," "one faith," and "one gospel," and the above is what Jesus and those he sent preached as this unit system, therefore it is the "one faith" which alone is pleasing to God.

Reader, has your mind grasped the "one faith?" If any of you have, and you have been baptized before you learned the "one faith," and have not obeyed since, you have no claim to the promises of the gospel. Don't delay, the King is coming soon.

W. H. WILSON.

Who Shall Inherit the Kingdom of Heaven

There is a question of vital importance that confronts every professor of Christianity, and that is, "who shall inherit the Kingdom of Heaven?" I believe that all professors of Christianity expect to receive this blessing; but is it promised to all of them? I fear not; for Christ says, "many shall strive but few shall enter;" again he says, "broad is the way that leadeth unto death and many enter in thereat." It is of great importance to man to learn how to start and what path to take. Men in his cunning has staked out the broad way, full of paths leading in every direction imaginable, and all claiming to center in Heaven. There are priest's potsdilled with "holy water" to be sprinkled on, and there are sprinklers to sprinkle any one that willeth. There are men with pitchers of water ready to pour water on you if you wish, and if you will not accept either of these ways then they will take you into the water and baptise you by a complete burial in water, but many have the image of the thief on the cross to tell you to look at that and you do not need to be baptised at all. I will ask those who use the thief on the cross to prove that baptism is not essential to salvation to give a scriptural proof that the thief had not been baptised. They have all kinds of inducements to increase their membership, something like they use at the county fairs. All kinds of amusements to attract men and catch them. Oh vain man! will you allow them to cheat you out of the eternal life that Christ offers to them who love and obey him? God has established the way that leads to eternal life. If you wish an inheritance in the Kingdom you will have to walk in his way. As soon as man had disobeyed and fallen into a dying condition, God gave to us a light to light our pathway through the "valley of death" into the eternal age, and that light was the promised Redeemer. In that promise he said "the seed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head" and he also said that the seed of the serpent should bruise his heel. The seed of the woman (Christ) only three days and nights on his journey and then he was healed and became victorious over death, and has entered into the heavens there to remain, not forever, but until the time of the restitution.

Some teach that we have to go to heaven where Christ is, to get our reward. How differently Christ taught those that had faith in him. He told them "where I go ye cannot come. I go to prepare a place for you, and if I go I will come again and receive you unto myself that where I am there ye may be also." And God's evidence, given by the angels was, "This same Jesus shall return in like manner as ye see him go into heaven." When that noble man receives for himself a kingdom he will return, and he has warned all of his followers to watch for his return, and to all his faithful servants he will give a rulership according as they are worthy. But says some we have the kingdom in our hearts. Do they have faith in God's word? I fear not. For God said by the mouth of Paul that "flesh and blood cannot inherit the Kingdom of God." Is not man in this life a flesh and blood creature? Christ said to Nicodemus, "except a man be born of water and of the Spirit he cannot enter into the Kingdom of God." So if Christ had the correct view, man enters into the kingdom instead of the kingdom into man.

Well says one, "you are so very particular as to who baptises you, that is all foolishness, for any one can do that." But that person is in God's word? Let us see who Christ commissioned to perform the act of baptism. By referring to the 28th chapter of Matthew and the 19th verse, you will find that the commission was given to those who taught the gospel, so if we place our trust in the Lord it is evident that we will not mock at him by allowing ourselves to be operated on by one that teaches a perversion of the gospel. I often hear it said that there are some out of all sects that will be saved, or go to heaven, as they claim. Have they not exalted themselves a little too much? Are they not liable to have to be, as Paul says, abased? Are they superior to David? Peter said that David had not ascended into heaven. We often hear it said "that it don't make any difference what church you belong to you will be saved any way, if we are only good." I notice that they who hold this broad and free idea are very careful not to be members of God's church, or the body of Christ. They like the "go as you please" way instead of God's way.

There is to be a Kingdom established when the Messiah comes and there will be no classes in that Kingdom, Immortalized and mortal beings, when all nations gather together to destroy God's people (the Jews) and take their goods and wealth then and there the Lord will destroy all those that he knows are not fit to enter into the age to come and the left of nations will dwell on the earth, and be ruled over by the redeemed of the Lord. Christ promised the apostles that in the regeneration they should sit on twelve thrones judging the twelve tribes of the children of Israel. It is therefore evident that this honor will not be given to any one else. It is not promised to those chosen from among the gentiles, but they who are chosen from among the gentiles are to rule over the nations, not over the Jews. Paul says in the 26th chapter of Acts that he was "judged for the hope of the promise made of God unto the fathers." We find this promise made unto the fathers was an inheritance in an everlasting Kingdom of God, under the whole heaven. We are informed by Paul that in times past the gentiles were "without Christ, being aliens from the covenants of promise, having no hope, and without God in the world, but now in Christ Jesus ye who were afar off are made nigh by the blood of Christ." Since the middle wall of partition has been thrown down that the gentiles should be fellow heirs and partakers of God's promise through the seed of Abraham; by faith in the gospel and in being a doer of the same should share in the heirship of the hope of Israel, which those who sleep in the dust cannot receive without a resurrection from the dead. If we are of the faith of Abraham and have put on Christ by being baptised into his name then we are promised a joint heirship with him and an inheritance in the Kingdom of God, provided we continue in well doing.

Brethren it is my hearts desire that we, one and all, may in the day that Jesus comes to claim and crown his own that he may find us in a worthy condition, find us of the faith of that well tried Abraham, that we have kept the faith, that we have been begotten by the gospel, been buried in baptism, planted in the likeness of his death that we also may be in the likeness of his resurrection, find that we are worthy to be called the children of God and joint heirs of Christ to the promise of God made to Abraham and to his seed. If we be in Christ and continue we will share the everlasting kingdom in Christ and be like him—spiritual beings—and cannot die any more, and will possess the kingdom that is "to be given to the people of the saints of the Most High." This long line of ancient worthies reach all the way from righteous Abel down to the coming of that great King, the Messiah. May we share in these spiritual blessings is my prayer.

JOHN PORTER.

A Good Way of Doing Good.

Christian! You are certainly eager to do all the good that lies within your power, are you not? You are to co-operate with your heavenly Father in carrying forward his great work among the children of men. You are aware of the fact that in this land of Bibles, and churches, and Sunday-schools, there are multitudes of people who are woefully ignorant of God's plan of salvation. The question proposed by the evangelist Philip to the Ethiopian eunuch would be very appropriate in their case: "Understandest thou what thou readest?" And no doubt many would reply in the very words of the eunuch: "How can I except some man should guide me?" You remember very well, do you not, how you lived for years in total ignorance of God's ways, until one day a preacher came to you and by a few simple suggestions threw a great flood of light upon some portion of God's word which had up to that time been wrapped in mystery. The preacher was not a public orator who by his pleasing ways and elegant speech won you for the truth of God, but an unassuming little tract or leaflet, sent or handed to you by a friend. This modest preacher, however, was "mighty in the Scriptures," that is full of Scripture and references, pointing out in short, comprehensive sentences the plan of salvation: and in this way, perhaps without hearing a single public discourse, you were induced to search more deeply after God's truth. And to-day you and your family rejoice in the hope of the salvation which is ready to be revealed at the last time. Now, dear brother and sister, allow me to direct a few words of exhortation to you. You have been blessed by our kind heavenly Father with the means of not only sustaining your own family, but also of doing good to others. No doubt you have done with your might what your hand found to do, but perhaps it has never occurred to you that by spending a small sum of money you could reach and do lasting good to a large number of persons. I hope this will appeal to your good judgment.

Much can be accomplished by tract distribution. Purchase a number of different tracts and leaflets on Bible topics, and have them on hand in your home for distribution among your friends and relatives. Last winter while in the city of Cleveland, Ohio, it was my privilege to share the hospitality of a kind and devoted Christian family, and I noticed one day that a man called upon the generous host on some business, and after the transaction the brother handed the caller some tracts kindly requesting him to read them, which the gentleman consented to do. It will be well, also, to enclose a leaflet when writing to friends and relatives at a distance. It will cost us extra postage, and even if it did, you are actually doing good in this way. And again, why not send your tracts out among your acquaintances in your vicinity? Also take a number with you to church and pass them around after the meeting. The writer has observed during his labors in the evangelistic field that many were eager and purposely waited until he would reach them with his tracts; and others called on him for tracts. Brethren and sisters, cast your bread upon the waters. Do good, speak a kind word to those about you, in the hope of turning many, or at least some, to righteousness, and remember "that who converteth the sinner from the error of his way, shall save a soul from death, and shall hide a multitude of sins."

Submitted in love,

A. H. ZOLMER.

The spring change of time on the Nickel Plate Road has shortened up the schedule of trains. Our Peerless Trio of Daily Express Trains are better than ever. It

Our Love Feast.

Dear Restitution:

Please find enclosed money order to pay for my paper another year, as I cannot do without it in these trying times, and the balance you can use to help send THE RESTITUTION to some brother or sister that is not able to pay for it, for if they love to read it as well as I do they would be lonely to be without it, and to the dear brothers and sisters, I have read all your good letters and was much encouraged. I am still in the one faith, and I am watching the signs of the times and trying to keep myself unspotted from the world, and trying to live a Christian life. I am watching and waiting for the coming of our Lord and Master. Your Sister in hope of eternal life.

MARY A. VERMILLION

Dear Restitution:

I think my time has about expired for the dear old paper, I call it old for surely it has been almost a constant visitor at our home for over forty years, but of course under different headings and editors, but all the same good paper, and since the death of my dear husband I am feeling so very lonely that I know I appreciate the paper more than ever before, as it brings encouraging thoughts of the resurrection and that glorious kingdom that is to be established on the earth, where we hope to meet our loved ones never more to part.

MRS. H. BERGOCK.

Dear Household of Faith:

This is the first time that I ever attempted to write, but I hope the brethren will pardon me for writing, being so ignorant; but when I read so many encouraging letters from the brethren and sisters I take new courage, thinking that the hardships we have to bear only tries my faith. We hear no preaching of the gospel, only what we get through the good paper, which is greatly cheering to us. We hope and pray that some teacher will pass this way and give us some good straight preaching, for we are hungry for the bread of life. We read the paper over and over till we almost wear them out, and can hardly wait for the next. I feel so thankful to the brethren for the paper, I hope in a few more months that I will be able to pay what is behind on the good old paper. I am living in a new neighborhood, when I hold forth the Word of truth to them, they say that is strange doctrine, or a new doctrine. But in reply, I tell them that it is as old as the Bible, for the Bible teaches it. Oh, I wish I was able to tell them all the good news concerning the kingdom of God. I have got some of them to read the paper, but I can't see as it makes any impression on their minds. May God bless you all, is my prayer.

Yours looking for the King,

JOHN M. HERRON, SR.

Dear Restitution:

We are very lonely and the visits of the paper help us to spend some of the time in reading, it gives great satisfaction too. No, we are not alone, for God is with his servants, and I do put all my trust in him, for there is none other to trust in. Pray for us that we may be found worthy to see the Savior in peace. We are looking for him and trust we may hear, "Well done, good and faithful servant."

MRS. I. JANE MERRITT.

To Chautauqua Lake. The Nickel Plate Road runs a low rate excursion July 8th. It

Obituary.

Israel Elias Forsyth, died June 23, 1898, after a long illness of Cancer of the stomach, age 58 yrs. and 8 mo. He embraced the truth in 1885, and was a defender of it. He was very patient during his sufferings and died in the faith of the gospel, which is the hope of the resurrection.

He was a native of Canada, moving to Pennsylvania in 1880, and in 1882 moving to Batavia, N. Y. where he since resided. He was the leader of the "Little Flock" here. He is survived by his widow, one son, Charles H., and two daughters, Mercedes and Carlotta.

Words of comfort where spoken by Elder A. C. Newell and he was laid away to rest June 25th, in Batavia cemetery to await the coming of the Master.

MRS. I. E. FORSYTH.

The Young People's Christian Union of the Universalist Church will convene at Chicago July 13th, to 20th, and the Nickel Plate Road will offer excursion tickets for sale July 12th, and 13th, good returning July 15th to 21st, inclusive. It

Iowa Conference.

The Annual Conference of the Church of God in Iowa, will convene at Marshalltown, Iowa, Thursday August 4th, 1898, and continue over August 15, 1898. Will occupy the grounds we occupied three years ago, and adjoining the grounds occupied for the last two years, on North 3rd Street, opposite the Green house. Marshalltown is situated at a junction of the Chicago and Northwestern, Great Western and Iowa Central Railways, and on account of the excellent service of these great trunk lines, is easily accessable to any part of the State. Take street car to the cemetary and it will take you right by the tent for only five cents. Brethren, it is with a glad heart we pen the notice of this meeting, for as we look over the events of the past year, we feel to lift up our heads and rejoice, for we know our redemption draweth nigh, and the coming of the Master is near at hand. Do not your hearts feel glad to contemplate these things? And do you not feel like making a small sacrifice to come to this meeting, and there our hearts and strengthen our faith. God willing, we expect to have Brother C. C. Ramsay, and Brother Hudler, and others with us. Now, brethren, make an extra effort to attend this year, we are sorely in need of your council to help the work in the State, will you not come and help us? There are many important matters to be decided and it all depends upon you, we pray that each one will realize it is their duty to attend this Conference. Remember, "Where there is no sacrifice there is no reward." May God give a stronger desire than ever before to attend the Conference, and let us say to you, "Cherish the thought, keep it always in your mind." Commence at once to prepare, and come and do your duty. Only a few more trials, only a few more tears, and then the welcome plaudit of "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

O. J. Allaire, Sec'y.

Editor Restitution:

I wish to state through The Restitution that Brother George Kidwell is going to hold a meeting at the Hix School-house, six miles from Climax, Mo., beginning August 4th and continuing over one week. We hope that much good seed will be sown among the people.

Effie C. Howard.

Summer in Colorado.

Colorado is particularly inviting as a summer haven. The climate is remarkable for its invigorating effect, and the State is rich in grand scenery and points of interest where a vacation may be pleasantly spent. Special arrangements are being made for the entertainment of visitors who are this season expected to be attracted to the seclusion and quiet of the Rockies and the hills and canyons of that great wonderland. Colorado today is nearer home than in former years. The fast schedules of the Pennsylvania Route and connecting lines bring the Centennial State within easy reach, and the cost of a trip thither is no longer a luxury. The special low rate Tourist Tickets over the Pennsylvania Lines places the cost for transportation within the limit of the usual allowance for vacation trips. For special information about rates, time of trains and other details please apply to nearest Pennsylvania Line Ticket Agent, or address C. L. Kimball, A. G. P. Agt., Cleveland, O.—July 31.

Vandalia Line Fast Trains.

Commencing June 20th the Vandalia Line will resume its fast train service between Terre Haute and St. Joseph, leaving Terre Haute 1.00 P. M., arriving Crawfordsville 2.39 P. M., Frankfort 3.32 P. M., Logansport 4.35 P. M., Culver (Lake Maxenkuckee) 5.38 P. M., Plymouth 5.57 P. M., South Bend 6.36 P. M., St. Joseph 7.50 P. M. Southbound leave St. Joseph 4.00 P. M., South Bend 5.13 P. M., Plymouth 5.57 P. M., Culver 6.18 P. M., Logansport 7.20 P. M., Frankfort 8.28 P. M., Crawfordsville 9.14 P. M., arrive Terre Haute 11.00 P. M. Daily except Sunday. Elegant couches and parlor cars. Address nearest Vandalia Line Agent for details. E. A. Ford, General Passenger Agent, St. Louis, Mo.—july 15.

EXAMINE

The label on your paper, and if it bears a date previous to this time please RENEW NOW. Do not wait for other notice to be sent, but PLEASE RENEW TODAY.

To fill the sphere which Providence appoints is true wisdom; to discharge trusts faithfully and have exalted ideas, that is the true mission of good men.

Announcement.

Editor Restitution:

The Church of God at Ashvale, Kan., (Post Office address, Hunter, Mitchell Co., Kan.,) will hold a grove meeting (D. V.) beginning on the 29th day of July, 1898, and continuing over Sunday, and as long as may be deemed best thereafter, at or near the Ashgrove schoolhouse in Lincoln Co., Kansas. The place of meeting is on Bacon's Creek, a tributary of the Spillman, about 16 miles northwest from Lincoln Center, Kansas.

Bro. J. T. Kiggins of Bavaria, Saline Co., Kan., a very zealous and worthy exponent of the truth, under whose efforts the church at this place was organized, informs me that he expects Bro. W. J. Green and other good preaching brethren will be present to assist in proclaim the Word.

This is believed to be an excellent point for the commencement of a good and profitable work. We are in the country, a long way from the R. R., but will be glad to meet as many of the brethren of the like previous faith as possible at this meeting. A cordial greeting will be given to all who may come.

Yours in the faith and hope of the gospel,

J. K. Thompson, Elder.

Reduced Rates to Various Points via Pennsylvania Lines.

Excursion tickets will be sold via Pennsylvania Lines as indicated in the following paragraphs. Although concessions in fare are authorized for meetings of certain Orders, tickets may be obtained by any person whether a member of the Order or interested in the event. The reduced rates will be open to everybody.

To Chicago, Ill., July 12th and 13th for Young People's Christian Union, Universalist Church. Good returning July 21st, with privilege to extend until August 10th.

To Buffalo, N. Y., July 12th 13th, 14th and 15th, good returning until July 19th, with privilege to extend until September 1st, account Baptist Young People's Union International Convention.

To Saratoga, N. Y., August 1st and 2nd, account Young People's Christian Union, U. P. Church. Return limit August 10th, with privilege to extend until August 31st.

To Richmond, Ind., August 19th and 20th, good returning until August 28th, account Society of Friends Conference.

To Cincinnati, Ohio, September 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the G. A. R. National Encampment. Good returning until September 13th, with privilege of extension until October 2d.

To Pittsburgh, Pa., October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th 12th and 13th, good returning until October 17th, account Knights Templar Triennial Conclave. Return limit may be extended until October 31st.

During the excursion season special rates will also be in effect via Pennsylvania Lines for special and local events. For particular information please apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines or address C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.

The Unexcelled Dining Car Service on The Nickel Plate Road.

Beginning Monday June 20th, breakfast will be served A La Carte, on dining cars of Nickel Plate Road, July 14.

On Sundays parties of five or more can go anywhere and return within one hundred miles on the Nickel Plate Road for $1.00 for the round trip. Ask agents.—july 31

Ask Agents about Sunday Outings on the Nickel Plate Road. Parties of five or more can go anywhere on the Nickel Plate Road not to exceed one hundred miles at a round trip rate of $1.00.—july 31

Get Particulars from agents regarding $1.00 excursion tickets offered for sale by the Nickel Plate Road on Sundays, to parties of five or more.—july31

Change of Schedule on the Pennsylvania Lines.

A change in the schedule of passenger trains on the Pennsylvania Lines went into effect Sunday June 26th, 1898. Under the new schedule the time of trains at Plymouth is as follows:

Depart for the West at 5.18 a. m., 6:41 a. m, 9.26 a. m., 2.10 p. m., 6.10 p.m., and 9.45 p. m.

Depart for the East at 2.45 a. m., 4.50 a. m., 10.38 a. m., 5.47 p. m., 7.50 p. m. and 8.52 p. m.

J. E. Hanes, Agent.

Send to this office and get a "War Atlas" only 25 cts post-paid.

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing. Said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 20th of April, 1898, providing notice is given through The Restitution that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all remittances to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 340, Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. S. J. Sigler,	$10.00
J. L. Wines,	5.00
F. L. Austin.	10.00
Edgar Hatch.	1.00
Agnes Ilsworth,	2.00
Mrs. Mary E. Thompson,	15.00
One who believes that God from little offerings can work out great results	10.00
A Friend of Truth.	1.00
Mrs. S. A. Wickizer.	5.00
Mrs. A. M. Sigler,	10.00
Mrs. Mary J. Riggs.	2.00

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending The Restitution to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donor request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. H. Stevens, Shawnee Mound, Mo.
S. R. Dickenheard, Bonham, Texas.
P. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Button, Mich.
L. M. Chessbrough, Gilesburgh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 155 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio.
W. L. Skeels, Schulls, Ore.
E. Hoyt, Box 384, Grand Rapids, Mich.
S. Roxana White, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Bean, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Sellersville, Ind.
J. W. Niles, Edinboro, Pa.
J. F. Wynsmer, Box 254, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Chesnutvill, Ark.
J. J. Cody Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prime, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Ghollstruk, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
H. L. Kean, 4507, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Olson, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hall, Baxter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Sidell, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Osawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Allen, Kan.
D. M. Butler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. G. Brandt, Laurel, Neb.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, Okl'n.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Pennuer, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Rutherck, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Courtney, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
H. T. Baker, Box 1008 Decorah, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Cottonwood, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Marmont, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Stella, Pomona, Cal.
S. W. Knapp, Box 14, Yuba, Idaho.
Elder B. M. Williams, Portland, Kan.
B. Wilson, 1905 G St, Sacramento, Cal.
D. T. Halstead, Beaucher, Ind.
John Cox, 2012 West Corning Ave, Parsons, Kansas.
H. S. Dwiggins, Beaucher, Ind.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 384 Grand Rapids, Mich

Lake View Hotel—Lake Maxenkuckee (Culver), Ind.,

Will open on June 20th, 1898, for the Summer season, with improved service and thoroughly modern appointments. Family accommodations a speciality. Rates reasonable. Address J. B. Schofield, Manager, Culver, Ind.—July 31.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt binding, fifth edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Twelve Words;" one of "Early Lessons;" and one of "Honoring the Son,"—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

Wiley Jones, Manchester, Va.

Send The Restitution to some poor person as present for 1898. The cost is only three cents a week.

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in the Christ Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 620 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., middlewest. Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:00, for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the one faith passing through the city, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by addressing, or calling at Ella V. Baker's, 209 West Dry St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God, at Andover, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Hall. Andover is on the direct line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R., going west to Aberdeen, thirty miles east thereof.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Frame Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Welton, Elder; Sarah Sellick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at H. Cheney's home at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. Brethren known to this church, or coming properly endorsed by introductory letter, will be heartily welcomed. At present we meet in the School House on top of the hill; cable cars come very near, an ferry brings from Seattle.

The brethren of the Church of God at Brush Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Kessler, or R. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, La., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Antoon, Elder.

The Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Bowker Hall, on Willoughby Ave., near Broadway.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Ghollstruk, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Burton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother L. V. Chase.

The congregation at Schulls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Tetzell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Schulls, Oregon, Assisted usually by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Schulls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okla., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles north-east of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God of Waterville, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Mountainview School House, near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Carbaley, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 P. M. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Glover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to stop and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Bison, Ill., meet every Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Faithfully yours, Grant Muchamer.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays of each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver, Pastor.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 A. M. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1231½ Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday at the Union Chapel Church, Winterbush, Ill., for Bible Reading at 11 A. M. All are invited. Lizzie Woods, Sec'y.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:00 A. M. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You, your family and friends are cordially invited to attend Bible Reading, every Sunday at 3:00 P. M., 1215 Logan Ave, San Diego, Cal.

Cheap Rates via Vandalia.

The G. A. R. National Encampment at Cincinnati, O., Sept. 5th to 10th.

The Supreme Lodge of K. of C. and Uniform Rank Encampment at Indianapolis, beginning Aug. 30th.

For the above occasions the Vandalia Line will make a rate of One cent per Mile.—T. A. Downs, Agent.

All tickets active at no Ishpeming from Van Buren [illegible] and Western Ohio, Chicago, Ill.

Tuffered Cold and Western Steel Rail and [illegible] on Wabash trains. [illegible] pulled by 25 Cars coupled.

Drawing Room Sleeping Cars on Nos. 2, 4 and 6. Cafe Dining Cars on Nos. 2 and 4. Between New York and Chicago, Nos. 2 and 4 are "Nickel Plate Limited" Fast Mail trains, and are composed entirely of Vestibuled Day Coaches and Sleeping Cars. Rate by Nickel Plate Limited one cent a mile. No extra fare charged. Tickets good on all trains. Baggage checked to destination. On leaving Buffalo Nickel Plate trains depart from Lower Church Street Station, corner Main and Church.

For rates and full information, address H. P. Ball, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O. or L. Call, Ticket Agent.

Pittsb'gh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Div.

Pennsylvania Lines.

Schedule of Passenger Trains—Central Time.

Westward.	9	15	30	6	35
	AM	PM	AM	PM	PM
Pittsb'gh lv	7 00		8 00		3 30
Allianc..ar	9 05		10 05		5 30
Canton	10 26		11 30		6 55
Massillon	10 51		11 55		7 20
Wooster	11 15		12 20		7 45
Mansfield	12 09		1 15		8 39
Crestline	12 45		1 50		9 15
Bucyrus	1 12		2 18		9 42
Ohio	2 42		3 50		11 12
Van Wert	3 45		4 50		12 15
Ft Wayne	5 40		6 45		2 15
Arcola
Columbia City	4 58		6 03
Larwill
Pierceton
Eagle Lake
Wyeast	5 31		6 36
Etna Green
Bourbon
Inwood
Plymouth	6 19		7 24
Grovertown
Hamlet
Davis
Hanna
Wanatah
Valparaiso	7 07		8 12
Wheeler
Hobart
Clarke
Liverpool
Chicago...ar	9 00		10 00
	PM		PM

Eastward.	10	8	4	6	20
	AM	PM	PM	PM	PM
Chicago...lv	12 30		3 00		4 25
Clarke
Liverpool
Hobart
Wheeler
Wanatah
Hanna
Davis
Hamlet
Grovertown
Plymouth	2 05		4 35
Inwood
Gordon
Etna Green
Wyeast
Eagle Lake
Pierceton
Larwill
Columbia City
Arcola
Ft Wayne
Van Wert
Lima
Cygnet
Crestline
Mansfield
Wooster
Massillon
Canton
Alliance...ar
Pittsb'gh ar
	AM	AM	PM	PM

J. P. LORD, General Manager. E. A. FORD, General Passenger Agent.

1348-F Pittsburgh, PENN'A.

For time cards, rates of fare, through tickets, interior checks, and further information regarding the running of trains, apply to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect June 19, 1898.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

GOING NORTH.

No. 14, Ex. Sun. For St. Joseph.....7:34am
No. 6, " " 12:08pm
No. 20, " " " " 5:57pm
No. 8, " " South Bend.....10:11pm
No. 16, Sunday only, for St. Joseph, 8:24am

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute.....5:34a m
No. 3, " " " " 12:30noon
No. 7, " " " " .....5:57 p m
No. 15, " " Logansport.....7:33pm
No. 17, Sunday only " 8:16pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. Ford,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo.

Books and Tract List.

A LETTER TO A FRIEND.

This treats of the Covenants of Promise, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. Many of our readers already know of the good that has been accomplished through its circulation. 10 cents each.

FUTURE PROBATION.

Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moverley. We have a good supply and will send them post paid for ten cents per copy.

GLAD TIDINGS OF THE KINGDOM OF GOD.

This tract contains 12 large size pages, and is a reprint of a work issued many years ago. It is clear and comprehensive. 5 cts each or 30 for $1.00.

THE COMING NATION.

A lecture by H. V. Reed. This clearly sets forth that the Coming Nation will be the nation of Israel restored to Palestine, with the Scriptural reasons given. 20 pages. 10 cts or three or 25 cts.

Necessity of Baptism. Written some years ago by A. M. Stephenson. It is good. Also, Bible Plan of Salvation, with Scriptural interpretations. 2 cts each or 15 cts per dozen.

Modern Events in the Light of Prophecy.—Sermon preached by H. V. Reed at Antioch, put in tract form. 5 cents each, or 30 copies for $1.00.

Passages Supposed to Teach Consciousness after Death, by W. H. Olsen, which shows that eternal life is not inherent. 3 cents each, or 25 cents for 12.

Where Do the Dead Sleep. These are Bible texts given in answer to this question. A 3-page tract 2 cents each or 15 cents per dozen.

Hades. A Bible account of this (there with proof texts. Ten copies for 5 cents.

Death Compared to a Sleep. This represents death as a sleep and proof texts are given. Ten copies for 5 cts.

The Wicked Dead and Their Wrongs. The two combined. 2 pages ten copies for 10 cents

"Word of Man, vs. Word of God," by H. V. Reed. A contrast between the two. 2cts each or 15 for 25 cts.

Address, The Restitution, Plymouth, Ind.

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it forever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind," and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O.

Aids to Bible-Study and Mission-Work.

1. The gospel of the Kingdom, annotated in a series of Ten discourses. A volume of 283 pages. Cloth 25c. a Leather-bound beautifully embossed and gilt edged $1.00. 2. Twelve Words or the true meanings of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptable, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as gathered from their uses in the Holy Scriptures. A tract of 40 pages 10cts a copy, intended as a substitute for and an improvement on the same writer's Key-Words. 3. The gospel of the Kingdom. An 8-page double column tract 10cts. per dozen; 75cts. per hundred. 4. Who are Led by the Spirit? A 4-page tract 25cts per hundred. 5. Seeking and Finding. A 4-page tract 25cts. per hundred. 6. Honouring the Son. An 8-page tract 25cts per dozen. 7. Early Lessons. 30 pages 10cts. copy. Suitable for old or young.

Written and for sale by Wiley Jones, Manchester, Va.

Notice.

Will our friends please remember that we do not have the books and tracts at this office that are advertized by Brother Joblin, or Brother Wiley Jones. Do not send to this office for them, but send to their address as given in the advertisement. This will save both trouble and delay. PLEASE REMEMBER.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WELLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RABSHACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50 Six Months 75 Cents.
Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

Thoughts.

What is life? 'Tis but a span
We breathe, then rest, the race of man.
Trials we meet, needful to bear,
It gives us all to own our share.
Smiling and sighing into eternity
Unrecognized at times how strange.
How short our sight and narrow plan
To grasp all as the end we race.
Knowing that when life's journey's o'er
We'll need the candle of the Lord no more.
Then let us fight the fight of faith
Looking to God for needed grace.

Communicated.

Papers Read at Indiana Conference.

THE IDEAL CHURCH.

The ideal church does not exist today in reality, only in our fancy or imagination. In our minds we form from the knowledge we possess of the subject, our ideas of what would be a model or ideal people, governments, societies, etc. It is well that we should have the highest and noblest ideals toward which to direct our efforts, and better still that we cannot attain them completely in this present life, or we would cease to strive when we reached them, and feel that our work was finished.

The true method of discovering the duties, laws and results of a religious body, is by making a conscientious study of God's word, and from the knowledge obtained therefrom, form our ideas of a model church. Too many people form their ideas by studying the various church denominations, and select out a certain one which they deem most perfect, judging from the standpoint that a good service is one that pleases or entertains for the time being, but the higher and nobler object for one's attending any religious service, is to worship God and to be instructed on such subjects that will tend toward building us up spiritually and helping us in our daily walk and conversation. How often have we heard this remark made especially by the city church going people. "I attend this church because the music is simply grand." While good singing is inspiring and elevating and necessary to a good service, let us try and discover some of the other essentials.

The aim of a church organization should be to work harmoniously together and strive to be as a single Christian person. The conduct of the church as a whole should be Christlike, the same as each individual of that body professing Christ, attempts to imitate him. For God's people will not only be rewarded individually when Christ comes, but will be received as a church as well, for "He loved the church and gave himself for it: that he might sanctify and cleanse it with the washing of water by the word, that he might present it to himself a glorious church, not having spot or wrinkle, or any such thing; but that it should be holy and without blemish." Eph., v. 25-27.

First, we must look to Christ for instruction, for he is the "head of the body or the church." He is the vine, we are the branches; if we abide in him we shall bring forth much fruit; for without him we can do nothing. "As the Father hath loved me, so have I loved you; continue ye in my love." How? "If ye keep my commandments ye shall abide in my love." "This is my commandment—that ye love one another as I have loved you."

The love or charity of church members toward each other is certainly an essential quality of the ideal church. I think the lack of this is one of the chief reasons why our churches do not prosper more. Our words and actions toward one another are being constantly noted by all the outside world, and, they have their influence either for good or bad. Oh, may our influence be for good, and it will, if we will but only look more for the good that is in our neighbors, instead of the evil, if we are constantly finding fault with them the world will know we are not the Lord's disciples. Jesus says, "By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another."

The spirit of forgiveness, closely connected with that of love is not exercised enough. So often are we commanded to forgive, for we cannot expect to be forgiven by our Heavenly Father only as we have forgiven those who trespass against us.

Now let us see what advice Paul, a follower of Christ, gives to the various churches. Although the local churches of his time were probably different in many respects from ours of to-day, I think it would be very profitable to us to follow the same precepts to-day; for if carried out, they would certainly form an ideal body of Christians. So why not accept the kind of church of which Jesus and his followers approve as our example or ideal, just as the individual Christian takes Christ as their pattern.

In Paul's first epistle to the Church of God at Corinth, he first of all exhorts them to "unity—unity in mind. He says, "Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you; but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment." 1 Cor. 1-10. In his letter to the Ephesians, Paul entreats them to endeavor "to keep the unity of spirit in the bond of peace." Also to the Philippians he exhorts to "stand fast in one spirit, with one mind striving together for the faith of the gospel." We are given different talents or positions in life; these, we as servants of Christ, should use for the work of the ministry, to teach, help and administer to the wants of our fellow-man, "till we all come into the unity of faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God." How much there is contained in these few words: "unity of faith" and "the knowledge of the Son of God." There is indeed a work to do, and unless we can agree to a great extent upon the methods of procedure, thus unite all our efforts and energy, we will accomplish but little if anything. This is well illustrated in all our local churches. David says, "how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell in unity."

Faith is one of the important weapons of Christian warfare. There is only one true faith, so let us discover what that is, then as we are commanded "be strong and stand fast in this faith, grounded and settled." Now is the time when our faith is tried, for there are so many things to allure one away unless he is strong. This is an age of free thought; new views and theories on religious subjects are constantly springing up, which the public eagerly peruse and in too many cases these ideas are accepted as the truth. We read that "in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits and doctrines of devils." "When the Son of Man cometh shall he find faith in the earth?"

If we have full faith we will have works to show for it. The ideal church is not an idle one. There is much to do. Let us be industrious servants of Christ, he was busy going about doing good all the time while on earth. The model church has its Sunday-school or as some one has called it "the nursery of the church," where the children are instructed and brought up in the knowledge of the truth, and finally to the obedience of Christ. There is also a weekly prayer-meeting and Bible study. And I think there should be a Bible class and song service combined especially for the young people, not only for the young members of the church, but they should each earnestly request other young people who do not attend any religious services to attend. There is a prevalent thought among the churches of to-day that it is necessary to have various other departments of work; as committees for calling, visiting the sick, missionary work, etc. But I see no especial need of most of them, for the member of an ideal church would naturally go forward and perform such duties as needed to be done while they were appointed on committees, they would be on such duties all the time. No young person who can be induced to commit such a verse each week will become interested in Bible study. Those who become interested in the study and love to commit the verses, will be greatly strengthened, and encouraged to do more work. Once interested and encouraged they can be retained by keeping their interest at its highest pitch. The teacher ought to be one much interested in the work, and constantly doing her part; for if the teacher is not interested, the young people are sure not to be.

But the work may go further. Let it be understood that should some other teacher be absent, a teacher may be selected from the young people's class. They need not be pushed nor made to teach, but if older ones take the lead in willingness, and the lesson has been carefully prepared by the younger ones, they will not long hesitate to do their part.

Another work that may be assigned to young people, is some of the light office work. This can be done easily, and help to wear away the timidness with which many people are burdened, but older people must lead if they would have younger ones to follow. It has always seemed to me that when too much work was thrust on to the young people, it discouraged them, instead of encouraged them.

It encourages younger ones to see of her ones work and then their assistance be asked in such a way that they know that confidence has been placed in them. Much confidence ought to be placed in the young people.

No person, old or young, wishes to do any thing in the presence of others when they know that they will be highly criticized for it. Most church work is a public work, and young people are afraid of being criticized. But if confidence be placed in them and others show that they want to help, and not hinder their work, it will encourage them very much.

The training in the social meetings may be somewhat more difficult than that in the Sunday-school. If a poor way of training is used the work will indeed be difficult. But should a good way be chosen, the efforts of the workers will not be in vain.

For the benefit of the young people, there ought to be a young people's society in every church. A few years ago young people's societies were unknown, but at the present time, nearly all of the best organized churches have them. They feel them a necessity. But why a necessity? Because the young people work better there than any other place.

When young people are by themselves, they are not so timid as when with older ones. In their meetings they feel much freer to take part for two reasons. First, it is their meeting, and its success depends on them. Second, they are not so exposed to criticism as at other times.

In the young people's society, there ought to be a leader who understands the work. Such persons, that will help the timid ones most, should be chosen for the different committees. If a timid one be placed on a committee with stronger ones, that one can be strengthened greatly by the aid of the others.

After the young people's society has been organized, in some way get as many as possible to take an active part. If they think they are unable to say or do any thing, references may be given to texts on the given subject. This will enable quite young ones to take part, as some one can help them find the place at which to read. The help that is given them must be given in such a spirit that will show the helper to be one interested in the meeting and also in the welfare of others. When this is done it will encourage them to try to be able to find their own texts and read them. Finding the texts and reading them will encourage them to do more active work in the society.

The subject for the meeting should be assigned at least one week in advance, so that all may have ample time to prepare something for the meeting. [illegible] have been prepared [illegible] meeting is increased and all are encouraged.

Often times precious gems are found in papers. These should be saved, and if there are those who do not like to read from the Bible, nor prepare for the meeting in any other way, the slips of paper may be given them. For some, that would be much easier than reading the texts from the Bible, and yet, in my opinion, it will strengthen them just the same. But be sure and have the gems given out that bear on the subject for the meeting. While much is to be gained by the gems given, it must be understood that they are not Bible truths, neither do they take the place of Bible work, but simply pave the way for closer Bible study.

At times memory meetings may or ought to be held. In them will be found a use for the verses given in the Sunday-school class. Each person at the meeting being asked to give a verse or verses committed at some time from the Bible. No forcing need be done but all urged to take part in the meeting.

In the regular social or prayer meeting of the church, the young people must be made to feel at home. Although there is a meeting for the young people alone, this should not hurt them from the regular social meeting of the church. The work in their own society ought to strengthen and encourage them for the general work of the church.

Therefore, if young people are to be encouraged and retained in church work, they must never be discouraged in any way. Their teacher at Sunday-school must always be present and in some way make the lesson interesting. They must be led and not driven. As Christ led and taught the disciples, in what was to be done, so must young people be led and taught in what they are to do.

They should be taught to read and study the Scriptures for themselves. To establish young people's societies and carry on the meetings in them. To work for themselves and others at all times, in all places. Then confidence should be placed in them and every thing done that will help and not hinder them in the work.

LYDIA A. EVANS.

Trial.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

Has it ever occured to you that we are on trial now? Every day of our lives we are apt to think, oh, I am all right. I have complied with the conditions, I have believed the Gospel and been baptized, the danger is all over for me, I am safe. Now brother, sister, depend upon it if we think thus, we never were more mistaken. Every day of our life is a trial day. God has sworn by an oath that through or by Abraham and his seed he will bless (make happy) all the families (nations or people) of the earth. For two thousand years the earth has swung in her orbit around the sun that instrument of blessing may be selected from among the children of men. It is for that purpose we are permitted to live from day to day. Not that we may gather together goods and funds for our comfort. Not that we may provide a soft and luxurious couch of down and feathers upon which to spend our declining years. Nor that we may gather around that couch a wide circle of loving and admiring relatives and friends to soothe and make happy our last days. All these things are given from our Heavenly Father. He will give or withhold them as he in his wisdom deems best.

A master mechanic repairs a number of pieces of steel for a certain purpose. They are to occupy most important places in a great machine which he is constructing. They each must be without flaw and of an exact temper throughout in order to suit the purpose for which they are intended. Now how does he proceed? First he tempers each one out of good [illegible] of the desired length and [illegible] proper place perfect. Look out right! But is the [illegible] Oh no! it is only [illegible] must be tested. They are every one put under pressure. They are bent this way and twisted that way. Many fail at the first test, some are too hard and brittle. They are cast to one side worthless. Others are too soft and bend. They are re-tempered and tried again and again until pronounced perfect. Others again are rejected without trial. They bear on their surface unmistakable evidences of their unfitness for the exalted position to be filled and so are laid aside, perhaps to fill some humbler place in the plans of the master mechanic. For "Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth (tryeth) but if ye be without chastisement whereof all (whom God loves) are partakers then are ye bastards and not sons." But how does he try us? Well, in a multitude of ways. But depend upon it the heaviest strain will be upon our weakest points. Abraham's weakest point was his love for his son Isaac, so he was tried at that point. Job was given wealth, much goods and all the comforts of life, that he might be tried by their loss. But like true steel, without flaw, these noble men stood the test and came out from under the hand of God victorious. The early Christians were tried with the faggot and the stake, with persecution, torture and death in its most horrible forms, and thousands of them stood the fiery trial. Our trials in this age, thank God, are not so severe, but the necessity of standing the test is just as great. Perhaps the greatest stumbling stone in our path to-day and the one point at which most of us are found wanting in this age is brought to light in Mark iv. 4-19: "The cares of this world and the deceitfulness of riches and the lusts of other things entering in choke the word and it becometh unfruitful." The cares of this world, who can number them? They assail us from the moment we open our eyes in the morning until we close them at night and how do we meet them? Calmly, quietly and meekly as did our Lord and Master? or do we fret, and storm, and stew, and scold, and doubt, and wonder in our hearts why this or that is so? If the latter, our trial has brought to light a weakness which must be strengthened. But do not be discouraged. This is what we are living for. The great Master expects to find these defects, and after one is remedied he will probably find another and yet others throughout all the days of our trial, and our trial ends only with death.

A brother is industrious and diligent in business. His schemes prosper, wealth flows into his coffers. He surrounds himself with the luxuries of life. He prides himself upon his success in life. He thinks in his heart Brother James is sober and industrious but he has never succeeded. I am smarter than he and a better financier, this is the cause of my success in life. I am sorry for James but he ought to be wiser. I will give a little to James and also a little to the church, but must be very careful to reserve enough to keep me in luxury while I live. The master mechanic sees his weak spot which totally unfits him for the exalted position to which he aspires. He bends him to the trial. His riches and comforts melt away like an April snow. He is left in his old age helpless and dependent. Then what is the result? If the metal be good he will see that his wealth was the gift of God. That it did not flow into his coffers because of any superior merit on his part, but was simply placed in his keeping for a purpose by a higher power, and that no one brother can blamelessly live a life of ease and luxury while hundreds of Christ's brethern, "Princes in disguise," and perhaps more deserving than he, are suffering for the necessaries life. He will see all this and bending in humble submission to God will say with patient Job, "The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away blessed be the name of the Lord."

S. H. THOMAS.

Think before you speak, and consider before you promise. Take time to deliberate and advice but hasten [illegible]

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, JULY 13, 1898. NUMBER 28.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life necessary for final salvation.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE:
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, IND. JULY 13, 1898.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth Marshall, Co., Ind."

Remittance should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

A WAR ATLAS.

The exact locality of many places mentioned in the news of the War between the United States and Spain is not known to the general reader, and so recourse is had to geographies. We have decided to offer our readers a complete War Atlas of sixteen pages of maps, showing all the territory where a conflict can occur, besides some valuable statistics. This will be mailed to you for 25 cts. Send orders at once, and get the position of the places named that you can better understand how the various complications will affect the nations of the world. Address,—THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

THE formal vote was taken by our Congress and Senate and Hawaii is now annexed to this country.

WE are glad to note that since leaving Cleveland, our dear Brother Ramsey has been able to renew the battle against error and ungodliness; and hope that by carefulness he may maintain it till the Master appears; we expect him soon.

A LARGE French passenger steamer was sunk near Sable Island and out of over 800 passengers and crew only about 200 were saved. The sailors went wild and refusing to assist in saving women and children, beat them off the boats with clubs and knives, taking the only means of saving life for themselves. In contrast to this on an American coast steamer that was burned the crew saved every one of the passengers, and by attention to the officers not a life was lost all being rescued. Discipline and courage tells in such cases.

SINCE last week the war has been at a stand still. The American forces are intrenched within a half mile of the Spaniards in front of Santiago. Non combatants and foreigners have been given time, under a flag of truce, to get out of the city. The bombardment was to commence July 10 at 4 P. M. General Shafter had placed his artillery on the hills overlooking the city, and Admiral Sampson was to shell the harbor fortifications and the city from the water. It seems as if it were madness to resist longer, but the Spanish officers act as if under orders to fight to the last and surrender nothing. Germany, Austria and Italy are urging Spain to ask for peace, thinking that she may yet save the Phillipines and other places by letting Cuba go. But the haughty Dons are rushing on to destruction asking no quarter. Admiral Watson is to take a fast fleet to the Spanish coast at once if Spain does not yield, and Admiral Camara has turned his ships homeward after passing through the Suez Canal. If he meets an American fleet he will likely receive the same treatment that has been given Spains other two fleets. Whether the war last much longer or not depends on Spains unconditional surrender and acceptation of America's terms. One thing the United States seems determined about, and that is that none of the "Great Powers" shall be allowed to "negotiate" terms of peace. Spain must give up or be destroyed

Death's Doings.

On the 20th of June we made another sad journey to Salem, Ohio, having been informed by telegraph that the enemy had snatched away another member of the "Little Flock," at that place. This time his victim was Sister Emma, wife of Bro. Frank McMillan, who died at her home near Salem, June 18th, after only a two days, illness. She was only 32 years of age and leaves the husband of her youth with three motherless children, the youngest only 16 months old. It was a heart-rending scene around that casket, and made those who cherish that Blessed Hope, long to see Jesus, who in his own case has already abolished death, and will raise to life and glory all who sleep in him

The interment took place at Bunker Hill Cemetry, some seven miles from the city.

We have been there a number of times on the same sad errand.

Adjoining the burial place stands a large Methodist Church, and by the courtesy of the officials we have addressed many hundreds of apparent eager listeners, with what result, the Lord only knows.

Hitherto no objection had been made to our presentation of the truth as it is in Jesus, but this time I was requested "not to speak quite so plain, as it hurt the feelings of some." We replied that "We were there for the purpose of preaching the truth as we understood and believed it,"—when another said,—"Of course we could shut you out." We think they are afraid some of their members are in danger of being led astray, for we never addressed such large audiences at funerals as at this place. We spoke the truth as faithfully and affectionately as we know how, and left the result with God.

Our heart goes out in love and sympathy to the bereaved brother and his little ones, and also for the church, whose ranks have been so often thinned by death of late. May deliverence soon come. Amen.

Spain's Impossible Terms.

Under this heading the Chicago Tribune prints the following:

A report comes from London that the following terms of peace will be acceptable to Spain:

Cuba to be independent, but to pay to Spain an indemnity for several years.

Spain to keep a minor Cuban port until this indemnity shall have been paid.

The great powers to send small detachments of troops to certain Cuban ports.

The Philippine Islands to be independent.

The United States to occupy Puerto Rico as security for the payment of which shall be negotiated.

Spain ought to be more than willing to make peace on those terms. They are not acceptable to the United States, however, which has the most to say about the matter. Whether Cuba shall be independent or belong to the United States is something which this country will determine at its own pleasure. Doubtless it will keep the island, but if it were decided that Cuba should be independent not a cent of indemnity would be paid by the Cubans to Spain. The boot should be on the other leg. Spain should repay some of the money it has extorted from Cuba. The propositions that Spain shall retain a "minor Cuban port" for a time and that "the great powers" shall garrison other ports are impossible. Spain must get out of the island altogether and at once, and the "great powers" must keep out. They have no business in Cuba.

The Philippine Islands are not to be independent. They are not fit to be. If the inhabitants were granted independence they would not retain it for three months. "The great powers" would fall upon the islands and divide them among themselves. The United States will keep the Philippines. It will keep Puerto Rico also, not as security for the payment of a war indemnity," which Spain will never be able to pay, but as one of the inalienable fee simple possessions of the United States.

It is not for Spain to suggest terms of peace. All that it can do is to ask for peace and then accept thankfully the terms which the United States may see fit to dictate. They will not be specially severe. Spain will simply be required to renounce all claim to countries which it has shown itself unable to govern and accept the fact that those colonies belong henceforth to the United States. That is all the "indemnity" this country will demand

Law or Gospel—Which? No. 16.

B the falsity of Mrs. White's alledged visions required further proof we could have it, Vol. I, p. 215, where in relation to a brother E., who had sinned in some ways, she was inspired to say. "He has stubbornly chosen his own course, and refused to listen to reproof.....It he repents ever so heartily the church must let his case alone. If he GOES TO HEAVEN it must be alone, without the fellowship of the church. A standing rebuke from God and the church must ever rest upon him, that the standard of morality be not lowered." They give him the cold shoulder even in heaven, it seems.

Could I she get further away from the truth if she tried? Listen to the language in Matt. xviii. 21, 22 in answer to Peter's question: "Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me and I forgive him, till seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, until seven times, but until seventy times seven." And it has been pertinently asked, what kind of a heaven is that in which all alone the offending is? Is it not gloriously evident that the Scripture which says "the blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth from all sin," is addressed to such of the body of Christ as may offend in word or deed?

Still another test of the Sabbatarian Prophetess. In Testimony 15, p. 82 she says the use of swine's flesh was in disregard of his (God's) express command." This was in 1868.

Bear in mind what we have repeatedly shown, that it was [according to the most distinguished leaders of the Seventh-Day Adventist Community] the book of the Law, said to be the law of Moses, that was "abolished," "taken out of the way," "done away," "nailed to the cross," etc. Yes; remember this, because four years after the statement from Testimony 15, p. 82. Elder White published in the "Health Reformer," an article under the caption of "Not Done Away," said:—"We affirm on the authority of the Sacred Scriptures that the ordinance relative to eating the flesh of swine, Deut. xiv. 8, is not done away." We design to prove that the command 'ye shall not eat of their flesh,' is as really binding upon Christians as the precept, 'Thou shalt not steal.'"

Now for the contrast. In Testimony 5, pp. 27-29. Mrs. White says, "Some have gone too far in the eating question. They have taken a rigid course and lived so very plain that their health has suffered. I was referred back to Rochester. I saw that when we lived there we did not eat nourishing food, as we should, and disease nearly carried us to the grave..... all this is outside the Word of God..... If he requires his people to abstain from swine's flesh he will convict them of the matter.....If this be a duty of the church God will discover it to more than two or three." Again in writing to her dear Sister Curtis, she says, "I felt sorry for you as I read your letter. I believe you to be in error. The Lord showed me two or three years ago that swine's flesh was no test. Dear Sister, if it is your husband's wish to use swine's flesh, you should be perfectly clear to use it." Examination of Mrs. E. White's claims by H. E. Carver, p. 28.

H. C. Blanchard on the Testimonies of Mrs. White p. 22 says:—"About 17 years ago Uriah Smith introduced 1 Tim. iv. to prove that it was lawful to eat swine. Place this beside Testimony 17, pp. 131-2, where Mrs. White says we bear positive testimony against tobacco, liquor, snuff, tea, coffee, flesh meats, butter, spices, rich cakes, etc. Grains and fruits prepared without grease should be the food for the table of all who claim to be preparing for TRANSLATION TO HEAVEN. But says one, are we not allowed to eat a nice turkey or chicken? Answer.....No butter or flesh meats of any kind come on my table.

Now it is Elder White's turn again, in Review Vol. 5, No. 18, he says, speaking of the action of the apostles in Acts xv. 28, 29, "For it seemed good to the Holy Ghost and to us, to lay upon you no other burden than these necessary things, that ye abstain from meats offered to idols, and from blood, and from fornication: from which if ye keep yourselves ye do well."

What does Mr. White say to this? He says, "Their (the apostles) being right, settled the question with them, and was a cause of rejoicing among the churches; and it should forever settle it with us.

If any one wants to shut his eyes to these glaring contradictions and place all the blame on the inspiring spirit he is welcome to do it, for us. Certainly the God of the Bible cannot work such stones into the temple he is creating for himself to dwell in. We wonder they are not ashamed to deal trifly themselves as they do and expect people to believe they are speaking for God! As the Prophetess claims the perpetuity of the Sabbath because God is unchangeable, ought she not to call a halt, in order to ascertain who it is that inspires her to contradict at one time what she saw at another.

Exposure enough of this great pious fraud has been made to satisfy reasonable people, we think. These are not trumped up charges, but quotations from her own works, in which are stated whatever comes uppermost at the time, evidently either forgetting what has been written before, or, reckless of the consequences of false statements.

Doubtless our readers are aware that the Sabbatarians, through the assigned power and wisdom of God vested in their leaders, and the infallible authority of their Church Conference, call Sunday-keeping the Mark of the Beast.

At this point it seems proper that our position in regard to Sabbath-keeping should be stated. It must be known by this time that we hold that no Sabbath was made for man's observance until Israel was assembled in the vicinity of Sinai.

2. That it was a part of a law given only to Israel, and that therefore only Israelites were amenable to it.

3. That the law of which it was a part was given to educate and control sinners, till the promised Seed should come.

4. That it contained no Gospel of Salvation, or life after death, or means of becoming righteous before God.

5. That every promise for obedience to it, or inducement to obey it, was of a temporal nature, and not spiritual, and was guaranteed to them in the land they were journeying to, and nowhere else.

6. That the whole law expired at the appointed time, the Sabbath being no exception.

7. That the whole law came by Moses; but favor, grace and truth came by Jesus Christ, not by Moses.

8. That THE TRUTH which came by Jesus Christ secures the favor or grace to all who from the heart believe and obey it. It is the truth which came by Jesus Christ that Paul styles the Gospel of Christ, and which he declares is the power of God to save all who believe it whether Jew or Gentile. Rom. i. 16. always implying that the conditions exacted be complied with.

9. That whereas the Seventh Day in the week was to be sacredly observed as God's Sabbath by the Jewish commonwealth, the Church of God in Christ Jesus, having been bought with a price, are not their own, and are under obligation to glorify God in their bodies, by whatsoever they do, even to eating and drinking; and without intermission,—have to serve him every day with a full purpose of heart,—present their bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God which is their reasonable service, in view of the riches of his grace they have become heirs to. Everything they have and are belongs to God,—and not merely ten per cent. And as to service it is ten times more exacting than the observance of one day in the week. And we stand ready to prove that the law of Christ demands an obedience seven days in the week—more exacting by far,—more crucifying to the flesh than that called for by the Fourth Commandment when in operation, which it is not, now. And the reasonableness of this is manifest when we reflect that one service related to temporal, and the other relates to eternal things; and besides that, it must be remembered that one law was arbitrary; and the word of justice was suspended over them, so that all their life-time they were in bondage through fear of death,—on the other hand, the motive power of the gospel of Christ is love; Christians love God because he first loved them; and they are constrained to love Christ by his love. Note the difference:—The law from Sinai was an intolerable burden, and the fear of penalty make them slaves; while the truth as it is in Jesus makes men free indeed. And although the commands of Jesus are numerous and most inflexible, he says his yoke is easy and his burden light, just because the obedience to it grows out of love, not fear; they love to do, what they are commanded to do.

Before leaving for the court of heaven Jesus commanded his disciples to teach believers of the gospel to observe all things whatsoever he commanded, and that would ensure their salvation. Shall he saved is what he says of those who believe his gospel and are baptized into his name, and observe his commands. We believe the apostles did exactly what he told them to do—kept back nothing profitable. They never told their converts to keep the Sabbath Day holy, and this is positive evidence that Jesus never told them to. As he was the prophet like unto Moses, [a law-giver] and never commanded the observance of the Sabbath,—it is not necessary to keep it; because it was not a moral law; but a statutory law, and given for a special purpose to a particular people, for a specified time, which long since expired.

We challenge criticism here. We have stated the unvarnished truth. Not only did not God give the law to Gentiles,—so sure as that Paul was an apostle of Christ and servant of God, so sure is it that in the ages preceding Apostolic Times it was not made known that Gentiles should be fellow heirs with the Jews, and of the same body, or Partakers of God's promise in Christ by the gospel. See Eph. iii 1-6 S. V. and that this hitherto unrevealed secret was made known to the Apostles, Eph 3, 5 and Paul was specially commissioned to make all men see what is the fellowship of the mystery which had been hid in God up to that time. Would it be possible to frame language to more emphatically prove how intended to bind Israel to Christ was never given to Gentiles? We do not think it possible!

Indeed Gentiles could not be reconciled to God in one body with believing Jews till the enmity even the law of commandments contained in ordinances was abolished. See Eph ii. 14-16. And we ask—Was a more outrageous proposition ever thought of than that Gentiles should be amenable to a law of God for some 1500 years before he revealed the secret that they were ever to be sharers of his great salvation!!!

And reflect upon this:—near 1900 years after the law was abolished, Gentiles are told that if they do not keep one item of the law,—that of the Sabbath of the Fourth Commandment,—but in obedience to the law of the land suspend labor and business partially on Sunday, they have the "Mark of the Beast!!! This is said to be a part of the Third Angel's Message, by the false prophetess we have been reviewing, and those blind ones whom she blindly leads.

We ask our readers to take in the whole situation. This aggravation of supposed holy ones, or self-styled "remnant" know nothing of Jehovah's purposes in regard to man and earth, and are looking for Jesus to come and transport them to heaven as their residence for a thousand years, while he destroys all the rest of mankind and burns over the earth till all the works of man and everything inflammable has been consumed into smoke. How in the name of truth can people who reject the foundation promises of the gospel, read the Lord's cipher message to those who in loving faith accept them.? In place of a key to unlock, or reveal the things to come to pass, the Seventh Day Community claim direct information from heaven through Mrs. White. But inasmuch as this alledged information is utterly subversive of the restitution of all things spoken of by the prophets, it is *mis*information. The Woman who has furnished ten or twelve volumes of additions to the Bible for her people, does not know what the Beast's mark is. She says it is Sunday keeping.

The Lord willing we will endeavor to show what the Beast's Mark is in our next.

Communicated.

False or True?

Which are you? Perhaps you have not stopped to think, but remember there is not a day flies by, however busy it may have been to you, but what God has had time to make a record of your life, and some time, when the judgment sets, the record made up and your name called, that day's life, be it what it may, will confront you. How will it affect you? A blush of shame, a sense of remorse, a throbbing, aching heart, as the awful sense of what the next words will bring you from the lips of a righteous judge, forces itself upon you? Sisters he is speaking directly to you now,—"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brother ye have done it unto me." The money you have spent so foolishly to satisfy your pride, and extravagance, would have fed my hungry little one, clothed the naked, kept your husband [illegible] instead of all this you [illegible] satisfied you own selfish pride and, "I have no need of thee." "But Lord, I was baptised into thy name, and"—"Stop my poor child!" I commanded you to repent of your sins before taking that sacred name upon yourself, all this waste of time and money is sin, and you have continually stained and sullied the sweet name of Christ. I have watched your home life since you arose to what should have been a changed and better life, and you have been just as fretful to the babes I gave you, just as exacting to the companion who is trying to make you happy; your will must be law or you are sullen and crabbed, you have driven your husband to despair and death, by your extravagant and reckless use of his earnings. Besides all this your example was felt by your friend across the way, and although she started less than a year ago to honestly live a Christian life, she became disgusted, turned from a devoted Christian life, to be a spendthrift and an outcast. In spite of her pastor's admonitions, father's warnings, or mother's prayers and tears, she is gone from the path of virtue. The bar-room, theater, and every place where low and vile associates, there you will find her, and you are the real cause of her downfall. Your life was watched by your next door neighbor who was one of these unfortunate men who has always doubted my love or power to save; and when the dark cloud of skepticism was just beginning to lift its mantle from his face he felt the influence of your life, and arising from the little ray of light which might have been fanned into a full blaze of glory, he plunged into deeper darkness, and with an oath upon his lips I have heard him saying, "it is all a fraud." False you have been again. Better never to have taken my name upon yourself than to have carried it into disgrace. O child the baptismal waters cannot save you alone, for faith without works is dead. A form of Godliness will not save without the conservation. A Christian life must be a life of humility, love, gentleness, kindness, meekness, patience. The gift I have awaiting a true Christian is worth to you all the sacrifice you can possibly make, it is presented to you at a great cost. Are you not willing to do anything to gain it? It is the price of blood, my life-blood. There can be no frauds here you cannot hide your life one moment from me, for I know your work and will reward accordingly. I gave you mail all my dear children so many words on warning. Many hundred years ago I told my people 'I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live.' You know I never change, my love for my own is just as tender as then, and I repeat it over to my children now: 'Turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways, for why will ye die?' Are you trusting in your own righteousness? I have sent the warning word to such as these: 'If he trust to his own righteousness, and commit iniquity, all his righteousness shall not be remembered, but for his iniquity that he hath committed, he shall die for it.' O be warned in time, my love is waiting for you, come to me and live."

Obituary.

Mary Mallissa Siple was born Sept. 24th, 1837 in the Province of Canada and died at the home of her daughter Mrs. Rebecca Gates in Aurora, Iowa, May 27th, 1898, aged 60 years 8 months and 4 days.

She was married to Ezra French Sept. 13, 1858, in Lester township, Blackhawk county, Iowa. Mr. French died July 28, 1872.

She leaves two sisters, Mrs. Dorcas Brown of Waterloo and Mrs. Roxy Allen of Bunkerton. Also four children, Mrs. Achsah Everett of Fairbank, Mrs. Rebecca Gates of Aurora, Mrs. Mary Noss of Washburn and Charles French of Waterloo.

Mrs. French was a member of the Church of God and lived a consistent Christian life. The Baptist people kindly gave us the use of their church house.

It was Decoration Day and the Decoration services were first held, then the funeral discourse, after which the people all went to the cemetery preceded by the funeral train, all together the largest ever witnessed in the place, about a mile in length. After burial the soldier's graves were decorated with flowers and the people dismissed. We endeavored to direct the people to Jesus as the resurrection and the life, and to comfort those who mourned, with the glad thought of meeting loved ones again at the resurrection.

A. J. EVERETT.

Poetry.

[Rhymes Six Hundred Years Old.]

Good Counsel.

Guard, my child, thy tongue,
That it speak no wrong;
Let no evil word pass o'er it;
Set the watch of truth before it,
That it speak no wrong!
Guard, my child, thy tongue.

Guard, my child, thine eyes;
Prying is not wise;
Let them look on what is right;
From all evil turn their sight;
Prying is not wise.
Guard, my child, thine ear,
Wicked word s will rear.
Let no evil word come in
Guard, my child, thine ear.

Ear and eye and tongue,
Guard while thou are young;
For, alas! these busy three
Can surely members be.
Guard while thou art young,
Ear and eye and tongue!

Communicated.

The Nature of Man.

1. By creation.

Man is a remarkable being, and the Psalmists' inquiry concerning man: "What is man?" is perfectly legitimate and in order. Many and diversified are the answers that have been proposed in the course of time to this important question. Science "falsely so called" would tell us that man, together with all the surrounding phenomena, is a product or result of a "fortuitous concourse of atoms." But this statement, without some explanation, does not satisfy the inquirer after the truth concerning man. Man, separate and apart from the revelation which God gave him, knows but very little about himself, especially as regards his own origin, the purpose of his existence, and his destiny. And since we can find no satisfactory and conclusive answer to the question: "What is man?" outside the oracles of God, we shall apply to those for the solution of this problem.

1. In the first place let us consider how man came into being, or in other words, who made man. The so called scientific statement that man and all the universe is the result of a fortuitous concourse of atoms is not satisfactory, inasmuch as it does not tell us who made these atoms, nor who made the law by which those atoms were brought together. According to the positive statements of the Word, it was God himself who made the first man; for we read in Gen. i. 26, "And God said, let us make make in our image, after our likeness." By reference to Gen. ii. 7, we find that it was Jahwah Elohim who made or formed man, the same Jahwah who made himself known to Moses as the "I AM THAT I AM," or as the name JEHOVAH indicates: He who is. Ex. vi. 2, 3. So then He who is and shall be purposed within himself to make man. This fact is acknowledged by nearly all the inspired writers throughout the Bible.

2. What are the materials out of which God made the man. We are not left in doubt as to this matter, for the Word plainly says that "the Lord God formed the man of the dust of the ground." Gen. ii. 7. He also told the man in just as many words that he was dust: "Dust thou art." Gen. iii. 19. The Apostle Paul, speaking of this subject says: "The first man was of the earth, earthy." 1 Cor. xv. 47. The Greek preposition translated "of" is ek, which means "out of," and so we might paraphrase and say: "The first man was made out of earth, and is therefore earthy." The Patriarch Abraham was also well aware of the earthy origin of the human race, and in his intercession with God for the cities of Sodom and Gomorrha said: "Behold now, I have taken upon me to speak unto the Lord," not because he imagined or claimed to be a part of God; no nothing of the kind, but he said: "Who am but dust and ashes." Gen. xviii. 27. David said that "the Lord pitieth them that fear him. For he knoweth our frame; he remembereth that we are dust." Ps. ciii. 14. Certainly, Jehovah remembered this fact very well, since he himself formed man of the dust of the ground, and it would be well for us to remember that we are of the dust. I will add just one more paragraph bearing on this subject. The "wise man" says that "all are of the dust, and all turn to dust again." Eccl. iii. 20. All these passages go to show most conclusively that man is of the dust, that "dust of the ground" is the only material used by God in the formation and that it did not require the addition of any other substance to make the man complete.

3. We find that God made man in his own image or likeness. To find why God made the man in his own image. To the end that man might carry out the purpose for which he was intended God gave him the intellectual ability to subdue the earth and have dominion over the works of his hands.

A. H. ZEMER.

Judges Chapter 4.

1. And the sons of Israel repented doing that which was wicked in the sight of the Lord: and Aood died:

2. And the Lord delivered up the sons of Israel into the hand of Jabin king of Canaan; and he reigned as king in Asoor: and the ruler of his host was Sisera, and he dwelt in Arisooth of the nations.

3. And the sons of Israel cried unto the Lord, because he had nine hundred iron chariots, and he caused Israel tribulation in a controling way for twenty years.

4. And Debboora a prophetess, a woman of Laphidooth, she was judging Israel in that particular period.

5. And she was accustomed to sit beneath Debboora's palm-tree between Brama and Baithel in Mount Ephraim, and the sons of Israel were accustomed to go up, unto her for judgment to be rendered.

6. And Debboora sent and summoned Barak son of Abineem from Kades Nephtali, and said unto him, Hath not the Lord enjoined on thee, and thou shalt go unto Mount Thaboor, and take with thyself ten thousand men of the sons of Nephthali and of the sons of Zabuulun:

7. And I will gather thou unto thee into the Valley of Kisoon against Sisara ruler of a host of Jabin and his chariots and his multitude, and I will give him into thy hands?

8. And Barak said unto her, If thou goest thy way with me I will go: but if thou dost not go I will not go, because I know not the day when the Lord will prosper the angel with me.

9. And she said, I will go my way with thee: but understand the priority will not be thine on the way that thou art going, because at the hand of a woman will the Lord give up Sisara. And Debboora arose and went her way with Barak from out Kades.

10. And Barak called to his aid Zabuulun and Nepthali from out Kades, and his ten thousand men went up on foot: and Debboora went up with him.

11. And Chaber the Kinaite had removed from Kaina, from the sons of Joabap (Job) Moosses' relative by marriage, (his nephew in fact) and had pitched his tent as far as the selfish people's oak-tree which adjoineth Kebus.

12. And it was told Sisara that Barak son of Abineem had gone up to Mount Thaboor.

13. And Sisara summoned all his chariots, nine hundred iron chariots and all his laity (the people of the king) with him from Arisooth of the nations into the valley of Kisoon.

14. And Debboora said unto Barak, arise, because this is the day when the Lord hath delivered up Sisara into thy hands, because the Lord will go out before thee: and Barak descended from Mount Thaboor, he and ten thousand men behind him.

15. And the Lord confounded Sisara and all his chariots and all his camp at the mouth of the sword in the sight of Barak; and Sisara descended from his chariot and fled on foot.

16. And Barak was pursuing after the chariots and after the camp as far as Arisooth of the nations; and all the camp of Sisara fell at the mouth of the sword, there was not left even one.

17. And Sisara fled on his feet to the tent of Jaeel wife of Chaber, a comrade in arms, the Kinaite, because there was peace between Jabin king of Asoor and the house of Chaber the Kinaite.

18. And Jaeel went out to meet Sisara and said unto him: Incline out, my Lord, incline out unto me; fear not. And he inclined out unto her into the tent, and she covered him with a covering.

19. And Sisara said unto her, Give me forsooth a little water to drink, for I thirst; and she opened the milk-skin and gave him to drink, and covered him up.

20. And Sisara said unto her, Do thou stand at the door of the tent, and it shall be if a man came unto thee and ask thee and say, Is there a man here? Thou shalt say, There is not.

21. And Jaeel wife of Chaber took the tent-pin and fixed the mallet in her hand, and entered in unto him unawares, and smote the tent-pin into his temple and it went through into the ground, and he became unconscious and darkness seized him and he died.

22. And Barak pursuing Sisara and Jaeel came out to meet him and said unto him, Come hither and I will show thee the man, whom thou art seeking. And he went in into her, and lo, Sisara lay dead and the tent pin in his temple.

23. And God overthrew Jabin king of Canaan that day before sons of Israel.

24. And the hand of the sons Israel went its way and became hard against Jabin king of Canaan until they had utterly destroyed Jabin king of Canaan.

Chapter 5.

1. And Debboora and Barak son of Abineem sang that day saying,

2. A revelation was made in Israel when a laity were made willing praise the Lord.

3. Hear ye kings and give ear ye lawe: marked it well ye satraps: I (lit I am) will sing unto the Lord. I (lit I am) will exalt the strain unto the God of Israel.

4. O Lord in thy exodus in Seeir when thou didst take up from a field of Edeom, earth was shaken and the heavens distilled dew and the clouds distilled water.

5. Mountains were shaken from before the face of the Lord Eloai (the God of motion) this Sina from before the face of the Lord God of Israel.

6. In the day of Samegar son of Aonth, in the days of Jaeel they forsook highways and went their way by perverse highways.

7. Men of militance failed in Israel, they failed until Debboora arose, until a mother in Israel arose.

8. They had chosen out new gods, then they made war against cities of rulers. If a broad shield and a spear in forty thousand in Israel appeared,

9. My heart was for the battalions of Israel; ye who are willing among the laity commend the Lord.

10. Ye who ride upon a female ass at mid-day, ye who sit upon a judgment-seat and go your way by ways to Sanedrioi along a highway;

11. Discourse ye with the voice of those who prelude in the midst of water carriers. There will they give arts of righteousness. Do thou, O Lord increase acts of righteousness in Israel; then went down a laity of the Lord into the cities.

12. Awake, awake, O Debboora, awake, awake, speak with an ode: arise O Barak, and lead captive thy captivity, thou son of Abineem.

13. Then came down a remnant of the strong: a laity of the Lord came down for him among the controling ones of mine.

14. Ephraim cast them out in Amalek: behind thee, O Benjamin among thy tribes. In the Machir came down searching things out, and from Zabuloon drawing after them with a scribes sceptre of discourse.

15. And chief-leaders in fellowship with Debboora and Barak. In this wise Barak sent into the valley on foot, into the portions of Hrouheen; great stirrings of heart were there.

16. Why did they sit in doubt when they heard the piping of the messengers in the divisions of Hrouheen? Great were Galaad's flutterings of heart in the land across the Jordan: nos where he had pitched his tents; and Dan why was he away from home in ships?

17. Aser sat on the sea-shores and would pitch his tents by the ports thereof.

18. Zabouloon's laity reproached their soul unto death, and Nepthali went up to a high place of their field.

19. Kings arrayed themselves for battle; then kings of Chanaan warred in Hanaak by the waters of Mageddoo. They did not take a money-offering.

20. From out the heavens the stars arrayed themselves for battle, from out their paths they arrayed themselves with Sisara.

21. Kisoon's stream, a stream of ancients, Kisoon's stream piped them out with, (the refrain) my able soul will tread him down.

22. When his horses' heels became entangled, with haste did his strong men haste.

23. Curse Meeroaz, the Lord's angel said, Curse ye, accursed is every one inhabiting it, because they did not come up to the Lord's call for help to the call for help with ablenes.

24. Blessed be Jaeel among women Jaeel wife of Chaber the Kinaite; blessed of women in tents.

25. He asked for water; she gave him milk; she brought him butter in a dish for superiors.

26. She stretched out her left hand for a tent-pin and her right for a labourers' mallet and she hammered Sisara: she pierced through his head and smote him, she pierced through his temple.

27. Get over her feet he rolled down, he fell and he down I there on her lying down he fell: even as he had lain down there he fell and went his way.

28. Through the window the mother of Sisara peered out outside the low-window: why hath his chariot been put to shame? why tarry the feet of his chariots?

29. Her wise women answered her, and she answered herself:

30. Will they not find him dividing spoils? Will he show pity to the head of a man of influence? Spoils of dyed-stuffs of variegated work, these are spoils for his neck.

31. In this wise may all thine enemies have perished, O Lord: and may those who love him be like the going forth of the Sun in his ability. And the land became quiet for forty years.

COMMENT.

These 4th and 5th chapters contain much fact for reflective thought and the story and "Song of Debboora" are household words the world over wherever the Bible has gone. The names Barak and Debboora are as usual appropriately significant of their official positions and work. A Barak person is one who is heavy and slow to rise to the privilege of his opportunity and high-calling; and a Debboora person is literally a substitute, illustrating the truth clearly taught all through revelation that any instrumentality in the hands of God can prevail and that if God calls a man who is slow to respond, he can and sometimes will and does use as a substitute a woman or "the weaker vessel." The whole book of Esther emphasizes this important truth. In fact the whole history of Israel is luminous with the glory of "Mothers in Israel." "The song of Debboora" as it is commonly known is, as the reader will perceive, an ode, the joint-product of Barak and Debboora and a glorification in which Barak plays second-fiddle.

The glory of the leadership is Debboora's and the glory of the master-stroke of victory is Israel's instead of Barak's as it might have been.

The outlined picture of the apostacy of God's laity and the result—not state of "innocuous desuetude" which precedes "the ode" prepares us for the awakening overture and the piping out of the clans at the call of God and his inspired prophetess. "The song of Debboora" has been Israel's "Marseillaise" all these ages since and as a battle-hymn or national ode ranks along with another Mother-in-Israel's "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

CHAS. GARDNER.

To the Members of the Church of God in Iowa.

Dear Ones in Christ:

The time is near for our eleventh annual conference. We want to have the best meeting this year we have ever had, and we want to see you there.

This is a real, personal letter to you. The many bright faces and happy hearts that will be there, will be less so if you are not among the number. Make every sacrifice to come. Besides the meeting of old friends there will be brothers and sisters you have never seen whom you will want to meet, and whom it will be a pleasure to remember.

There will be earnest and able discourses both doctrinal and practical, essays, discussions, Bible readings, Sunday-schools and a thorough consideration of the great question which relate to the times in which we live and the coming of Jesus and the Kingdom of God.

You cannot afford to miss the spiritual strength and upbuilding these meetings will give and the encouragement they will bring. Do come.

These days are full of events and making history rapidly. Let us meet together and talk them over, and pray with and for one another.

Let the children come, and the young people too. There is no better time for them to come under the influence of the gospel or to get acquainted with each other. We expect the old veterans without fail.

The meeting will be held Aug. 4 to 14 on North Third street, Marshalltown, Iowa. The street car will carry you from the depot to the camp.

Tents will be provided, but you should bring a little bedding in the shape of quilts and pillows. Don't neglect this.

Meals will be served at 10 cents or 25 cents per day. Some prefer to furnish their own meals.

Come if you can only stay one day, but it will be pleasant and profitable to stay all through the meeting. This meeting of our people comes only once a year, and by planning ahead you can be there and enjoy these blessed seasons with us in the leafy grove.

A. J. EVANSICH, Pres.,
O. J. ALLARD, Sec'y,
J. W. ANDERSON, Treas.

This Country and the World.

This thing known as "National Expansion," and talked of as something new, has been, since the beginning of history, the rule of every progressive nation, including most conspicuously the United States. The peculiarly American motto addressed to the individual citizen of "growing up with the country" has never shut out from the sight of our statesmen the greater principle that this country is to grow up with the world.

The old-fashioned world, in which some philosophers imagined us as rising above all in prosperity and greatness through isolation and strict confinement within our Atlantic and Pacific coasts, has sunk out of sight beneath the world of today, with its telegraph that puts Hongkong by the side of New York, its steamship that makes coal the arbiter of warfare, and its impending dismemberment, by a few powerful nations of advanced civilization, of the most colossal empire of history, the Chinese empire. With this gigantic transformation, growing up means merely that we must equip ourselves with the means of protecting our vast interests after the manner of our rivals in competition, or, after the manner of China, be subordinated and eclipsed.

The god of battles, now upholding so gloriously, magnificently the American flag, happens to be an American statesman of transcendent genius. At a supreme crisis of the world's development he has put into our hands a stronghold in the East than which our most beseeching prayers to fortune could have asked nothing better. The public men who have stood in the way of the administration's policy in respect to Hawaii and the Philippines have been trying to block the progress of the United States and put us at the mercy of our enemies as surely as if they had treacherously struck down the American rifles at Santiago and left our glorious troops bare and helpless before the fire of the Spaniards.

Let anti-annexationists and obstructionists stand aside! The United States must grow up with the world.
—New York Sun.

An Appeal.

To the Brethren of Missouri and Kansas, and to all who are interested in the Missouri-Kansas work, we wish to say that our tent is in the field, and it is very desirous that the work should move on vigorously and without a break. And to keep the work thus moving more money will be needed. Therefore, we appeal to you for means. Make your donations early, and as large as you can. Forward to Conference Treasurer, P. H. Oatman, care Nave & McCord, St. Joseph, Mo. Those contributing where tent meetings are held can pay into the Evangelist while there, who is authorized to receive such money, and who will report direct to the treasurer. Donations are desired to continue the work to the end of the present conference year, Sept. 1st, and pledges are desired for the work for the coming year. We should have enough thus pledged to sustain a man in the field for the entire coming year; and one will be employed to the full extent of the money pledged.

E. M. SAYLOR, Pres.,
P. H. OATMAN, Treas.,
JOSEPH SHELLENBERGER,
A. W. DARBY.

Report of Meeting.

Editor Restitution:

A two weeks meeting was closed at Mound City, Mo., last Sunday night. There was a fair attendance and good interest. Several profess to be interested but no conversions. The speakers were, D. P. Bennett, W. J. Orem and G. M. Myers. The next meeting will be held at Blue Mound, Livingston county, Mo., commencing July 15.

A. W. DARBY.

We are haunted by an ideal life, and it is because we have within us the beginning and possibility of it.

Christianity proves itself, as the sun is seen by its own light. Its evidence is involved in its existence.

One hour of eternity, one moment with the Lord, will make us utterly forget a lifetime's desolation—Bonar.

Excursions to Chicago.

Commencing July 17th and continuing every Sunday until further notice the Pennsylvania Lines will sell One Dollar round trip excursion tickets from Plymouth to Chicago. Special train will leave at 7:15 a. m. central time; returning leave Chicago 8 p. m. and 11:30 p. m. Excursionists have all day to look about the great city.

Iowa Conference.

The Annual Conference of the Church of God in Iowa, will convene at Marshalltown, Iowa, Thursday August 4th, 1898, and continue over August 15, 1898. Will occupy the grounds we occupied three years ago, and adjoin on the grounds occupied for the last two years on North 3rd Street, opposite the Green house. Marshalltown is situated at a junction of the Chicago and Northwestern, Great Western and Iowa Central Railways, and on account of the excellent service of these great trunk lines, is easily accessable to any part of the State. Take short cut to the secretary and it will take you right by the tent for only five cents. Brethren, it is with a glad heart we pen the notice of this meeting, for as we look over the events of the past year, we feel to lift up our heads and rejoice, for we know our redemption draweth nigh, and the coming of the Master is near at hand. Do not you brethren feel glad to contemplate these things? And do you not feel like making a small sacrifice to come to this meeting, and feed our hearts and strengthen our faith. God willing, we expect to have Brother C. C. Ramsey and Brother Rudder, and others with us. Now, brethren, make an extra effort to attend this year, we are surely in need of your council to help the work in the State, will you not come and help us? There are many important matters to be decided and it all depends upon you, we pray that each one will realize it is their duty to attend this Conference. Remember, "Where there is no sacrifice there is no reward." May God give a stronger desire than ever before to attend the Conference, and let us say to you, "Cherish the thought, keep it always in your mind." Commence at once to prepare, and come and do your duty. Only a few more trials, only a few more tears, and then the welcome plaudit of "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

O. J. ALLARD, Sec'y.

Editor Restitution:

I wish to state through THE RESTITUTION that Brother George Kidwell is going to hold a meeting at the Hix School-house, six miles from Climax, Mo., beginning August 4th and continuing over one week. We hope that much good seed will be sown among the people.

EFFIE C. HOWARD.

Summer in Colorado.

Colorado is particularly inviting as a summer haven. The climate is remarkable for its invigorating effect, and the State is rich in grand scenery and points of interest where a vacation may be pleasantly spent. Special arrangements are being made for the entertainment of visitors who are this season expected to be attracted to the seclusion and quiet of the Rockies and the hills and canyons of that great wonderland. Colorado today is nearer home than in former years. The fast schedules of the Pennsylvania Route and connecting lines bring the Centennial State within easy reach, and the cost of a trip thither is no longer a luxury. The special low rate Tourist Tickets over the Pennsylvania Lines places the cost for transportation within the limit of the usual allowance for vacation trips. For special information about rates, time of trains and other details please apply to nearest Pennsylvania Line Ticket Agent, or address C. L. Kimball, A. G. P. Agt., Cleveland, O.—July 31.

Vandalia Line. Fast Trains.

Commencing June 20th, the Vandalia Line will resume its fast train service between Terre Haute and St. Joseph, leaving Terre Haute 1.00 P. M., arriving Crawfordsville 2.39 P. M., Frankfort 3.22 P. M., Logansport 4.45 P. M., Culver (Lake Maxenkuckee) 5.38 P. M., Plymouth 5.57 P. M., South Bend 6.39 P. M., St. Joseph 7.50 P. M. Southbound leave St. Joseph 4.00 P. M., South Bend 5.13 P. M., Plymouth 5.57 P. M., Culver 6.18 P. M., Logansport 7.20 P. M., Frankfort 8.28 P. M., Crawfordsville 9.14 P. M., arrive Terre Haute 11.00 P. M. Daily except Sunday. Elegant coaches and parlor cars. Address nearest Vandalia Line Agent for details. E. A. Ford, General Passenger Agent, St. Louis, Mo.—july 15.

EXAMINE

The label on your paper, and if it bears a date previous to this time please RENEW NOW. Do not wait or other notice to be sent but PLEASE RENEW TODAY.

Mrs. Tubbs sent the following to some poor person or persons not long ago. The next [illegible] Terre circle a week

Announcement.

Editor Restitution:

The Church of God at Ashvale, Kan., (Post Office address, Hunter, Mitchell Co., Kan.,) will hold a grove meeting (D. V.) beginning on the 29th day of July, 1898, and continuing over Sunday and as long as may be deemed best thereafter, at or near the Ashgrove schoolhouse in Lincoln Co., Kansas. The place of meeting is on Bacon's Creek, a tributary of the Spillman. About 16 miles northwest from Lincoln Center, Kansas.

Bro. J. T. Kiggins of Bavaria, Saline Co., Kan., a very zealous and earnest exponent of the truth, under whose efforts the church at this place was organized, informs me that he expects Bro. W. J. Otrich and other good preaching brethren will be present to assist in proclaim the Word.

This is believed to be an excellent point for the commencement of a good and profitable work. We are in the country, a long way from the R. R., but will be glad to meet as many of the brethren of the like precious faith as possible at this meeting. A cordial greeting will be given to all who may come.

Yours in the faith and hope of the gospel.

J. K. THOMPSON, Elder.

Reduced Fares to Various Points via Pennsylvania Lines.

Excursion tickets will be sold via Pennsylvania Lines as indicated in the following paragraphs. Although concessions in fare are authorized for meetings of certain Orders, tickets may be obtained by any person whether a member of the Order or interested in the event. The reduced rates will be open to everybody.

To Chicago, Ill., July 12th and 13th for Young People's Christian Union, Universalist Church. Good returning July 21st, with privilege to extend until August 10th.

To Buffalo, N. Y., July 12th 13th, 14th and 15th, good returning until July 19th, with privilege to extend until September 1st, account Baptist Young People's Union International Convention.

To Saratoga, N. Y., August 1st and 2nd, account Young People's Christian Union, C. E. Church. Return limit August 10th, with privilege to extend until August 31st.

To Richmond, Ind., August 19th and 20th, good returning until August 29th, account Society of Friends Conference.

To Cincinnati, Ohio, September 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the G. A. R. National Encampment. Good returning until September 13th, with privilege of extension until October 2d.

To Pittsburgh, Pa., October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th 12th and 13th, good returning until October 17th, account Knights Templar Triennial Conclave. Return limit may be extended until October 31st.

During the excursion season special rates will also be in effect via Pennsylvania Lines for special and local events. For particular information please apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines or address C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.

The Unexcelled Dining Car Service on The Nickel Plate Road.

Beginning Monday June 20th, breakfast will be served A la Carte, on dining cars of Nickel Plate Road, July 11.

On Sundays parties of five or more can go anywhere and return within one hundred miles on the Nickel Plate Road for $1.00 for the round trip. Ask agents.—july 31

Ask Agents about Sunday Outings on the Nickel Plate Road. Parties of five or more can go anywhere on the Nickel Plate Road no to exceed one hundred miles at a round trip rate of $1.00.—July 31

Get Particulars from agents regarding $1.00 excursion tickets offered for sale by the Nickel Plate Road on Sundays, to parties of five or more.—july31

Change of Schedule on the Pennsylvania Lines.

A change in the schedule of passenger trains on the Pennsylvania Lines went into effect Sunday June 26th, 1898. Under the new schedule the time of train at Plymouth is as follows:

Depart for the West at 5.18 a. m., 6.41 a. m., 9.26 a. m., 2.10 p. m., 6.10 p. m., and 6.15 p. m.

Depart for the East at 2.26 a. m., 4.55 a. m., 10.38 a. m., 4.40 p. m., 7.50 p. m. and 8.52 p. m.

J. E. HAYES, Agent.

Send to this office and get a "What Aileth" card. 25 cts post paid

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing. Said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 20th of April, 1898, providing notice is given through THE RESTITUTION that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all remittances to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 310, Plymouth Ind.

Mrs. S. J. Sigler.	$10.00
J. L. Wimer.	5.00
F. L. Austin.	10.00
Edgar Hatch.	1.00
Agnes Dilworth.	2.00
Mrs. Mary E. Thompson.	15.00
One who believes that God from little offerings can work out great results.	10.00
A Friend of Truth,	1.00
Mrs. S. A. Wickizer.	5.00
Mrs. A. M. Siple.	10.00
Mrs. Mary J. Riggs.	2.00

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

Robert Allen,	.50
Sarah Hadden.	.75

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. H. Sweetser, Shawnee Mound Mo.
S. R. Chakeabard, Roanoke, Texas.
P. B. Stauffer, Bayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. M. Chessbrough, Oakelarch, Mich.
Norton Gould, 1810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 155 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio.
W. L. Skeels, Scholls, Ore.
E. Boyt, Box 384, Grand Rapids, Mich.
S. Roxana Wines, Pierrepont, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Benn Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Scipioville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Calsaville, Ark.
J. J. Cady, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prince, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kean, 1507, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Glenn, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hall, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Sidel, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Ozawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
D. M. Hadley, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. G. Hauja, Laurel, Neb.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, Okla.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Prinzmer, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Rohrock, W. R. C. House, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
D. T. Baker, Box 1008 Deborah, Iowa.
A. T. Harris, Cottonwood, Cal.
J. B. Ogletie, North Branch, Kansas
G. W. Smith, Marmaa, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave., Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Stolin, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 11, Viola, Idaho.
Elder H. M. Williams, Portland, Kan.
B. Wilson, 1005 G St., Sacramento, Cal.
D. T. Halstead, Andover, S. D.
John Cleary, 2012 West Corning Ave., Parsons, Kansas.
E. S. Driggings, Oden, Mich.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 384 Grand Rapids Mich

Lake View Hotel—Lake Maxenkuckee (Culver), Ind.

Will reopen on June 20th, 1898, for the Summer season, with improved service and thoroughly modern appointments. Family accommodations a specialty. Rates reasonable. Address J. B. Schofield, Manager, Culver, Ind.—July 31.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt binding, fifth edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Twelve Words" one of "Early Lessons" and one of "Honouring the Son,—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth

ALLEN JOHN, Manchester, Va.

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. P. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 926 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Brethren and sisters and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Sister mary M. Johlin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., met every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., as follows:—Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every 1st day of the week at 10:00, for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the one truth passing this way heartily to meet with us, and they will be cared for by calling or writing at Elk A. Baker's, 260 West Day St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God, at Andover, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Mills Hall. Andover is on the direct line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R. going west to Aberdeen, thirty miles east thereof.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday in the Evans Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Wilson, Elder; Sarah Sellick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. Brethren known to this church, or coming properly endorsed by introductory letter, will be heartily welcomed. At present we meet in the School House on top of the hill; take cars come very near, and ferry brings from Seattle.

The brethren of the Church of God at Rock Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Kuhr, Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, La., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthon, Elder.

The Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Reisner Hall, on Willoughby Ave., near Broadway.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling saints when will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich., are preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trussell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon. At occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Elke, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okla., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles north and of Linden, every third 1st day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God of Waterville, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Mountainview School House, near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Corbaley, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y., meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 P. M. for worship, in private houses. All beloved Truth, and traveling brethren cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Glover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Mattoon, Mich., have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meetings every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Cordially yours, Grant Mackemer.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays in each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver, Pastor.

The Church of God no. 6 meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1231½ Euclid Ave., near Wilson Ave., Cleveland, Ohio, where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meets each Sunday, at private houses for the purpose of breaking bread and social worship. Also on second Sunday at Union Chapel [illegible] Pastor, St. Joe, Indiana. All are welcome.

The Church of God at Ottawa, Kan., meet every third Sunday in each month at 11 a. m. at the residence of Sister Mary Hoffman, 1 mile south of Ottawa, on Main St. Sunday School at 10 a. m. Preaching every Sunday evening at 7:30 p. m. at the residence of Brother Wm. Hoffman, 1 mile south of Ottawa, on Main St. All are welcome. Wm. Hoffman, Elder.

The Church of God meets for preaching every third Sunday, in the Third School House, in Grant Township, Lebanon, Ind., Rev. Jacob Hoover and Rev. Andrew Hoover, Elders. Sunday School at 10:00 a. m. Preaching at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. All are welcome. Wm. Hoffman, Elder.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Third School House, in Grant Township, Lebanon, Ind., Rev. Jacob Hoover and Rev. Andrew Hoover, Elders. Sunday School at 10:00 a. m. Preaching at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. All are welcome. Wm. Hoffman, Elder.

The Church of God meet every Sunday at Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and Sunday at 11 a. m. Sunday evening at 8:00 p. m. All are welcome. A. F. Ford, Elder, S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

Yes, come one, come all and come at once to the regularly called meetings of the Church of God every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. at Caldwell, Kansas.

Change Rate—ALL Lines.

The G. A. R. National Encampment at Cincinnati, O., Sept. 5th to 10th.

The Supreme Lodge of Knights of Pythias Rank Encampment at Indianapolis, beginning Aug. 30th.

For the above occasions the Vandalia Line will make a rate of One cent per Mile. E. A. Downs, Agent

Fleet's, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Div.

Pennsylvania Lines.

Schedule of Passenger Trains Going East.

Westward.	No. 10	No. 14	No. 20	No. 8	No. 16	No. 24
Pittsburgh, lv	7 00	9 30		1 35
Allianee, "	8 57	11 20		3 10
Canton, "	10 30	12 50		4 40
Mans. Junc. "	10 58	1 00		5 08
Wooster, "	11 30	1 30		5 31
Mansfield, "	12 20	2 20	6 30	7 20	Exc.
Crestline, ar	12 55	2 55	6 55	8 25	1 00
Bucyrus, "	1 15	3 15	7 15	8 45	1 20
Leipsic, "	2 08	4 05	8 07	9 37	2 12
Van Wert, "	3 35	5 35	9 37	11 05	3 40
Ft Wayne, "	5 45	7 45	11 45	1 15	5 50
Arcola, "		7 55
Columbia City, "	6 43	8 47		2 13
Larwill, "		9 02		3 26
Plymouth, "		9 20		3 44
Eagle Lake, "		9 33		3 57
Warsaw, "	6 57	9 45		4 07
Etna Green, "		9 55		4 17
Bourbon, "		10 06		4 28
Bigwood, "		10 20		4 42
25 Mouth, "	7 10	10 30		4 52
Georgetown, "		10 40		5 02
Bristol, "		10 50		5 12
Bayles, "		11 05		5 27
Hamm, "		11 20		5 42
Walkerton, "	7 40	11 40		6 02
Valparaiso, "	7 51	11 55		6 17
Wheeler, "		12 10		6 32
Hobart, "		12 20		6 42
Liverpool, "		12 30		6 52
Clarke, "		12 40		7 02
Chicago, arr	9 00	2 05	3 55	4 35	9 00	9 55
	P M	A M	P M	P M	A M	P M

Eastward.	No. 21	No. 11	No. 15	No. 17	No. 23	No. 9
Chicago, lv	7 30	3 00	10 45	2 45
Clarke, "	7 50		11 05		3 30
Liverpool, "	8 05		11 20		3 45
Hobart, "	8 15		11 30		3 55
Wheeler, "	8 25		11 40		4 05
Valparaiso, "	8 35	4 30	11 50	4 00	4 15
Walkerton, "	8 46		12 01		4 26
Hamm, "	9 01		12 16		4 41
Bristol, "	9 16		12 31		4 56
Georgetown, "	9 26		12 41		5 06
25 Mouth, "	9 36	5 40	12 51	4 30	5 16
Bigwood, "	9 46		1 01		5 26
Bourbon, "	9 56		1 11		5 36
Etna Green, "	10 06		1 21		5 46
Warsaw, "	10 16	6 07	1 31	5 05	5 56
Eagle Lake, "	10 26		1 41		6 06
Plymouth, "	10 40		1 55		6 20
Larwill, "	10 54		2 09		6 34
Columbia City, "	11 05	6 47	2 20	5 45	6 45
Arcola, "	11 30		2 45		7 10
Ft Wayne, arr	12 00	7 35	3 15	6 45	7 40
	P M	P M	P M	P M	P M
Ft Wayne, lv	12 10	7 40	3 25	6 55	7 50
Van Wert, "	1 45	9 15	4 55	8 30	9 20
Lima, "	2 15	9 45	5 25	9 00	9 50
Bucyrus, "	3 45	11 15	6 55	10 30	11 20
Crestline, ar	4 10	11 40	7 20	10 55	11 45
Mansfield, "	4 45	12 15	7 55	11 30	12 20
Wooster, "	5 35	1 05	8 45	12 20	1 10
Orrville, "	5 55	1 25	9 05	12 40	1 30
Canton, "	6 20	1 50	9 30	1 05	1 55
Alliance, "	7 50	3 20	10 55	2 30	3 25
Pittsburgh, ar	9 45	5 15	12 45	4 25	5 20

L. F. LOREE, Gen'l Manager. F. A. FORD, Gen'l Passenger Agent.

PITTSBURGH, PA.

Through cards, rates of fare, through tickets, baggage checks, and all information can be obtained on application to agents, or to any Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines.

60 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect June 19, 1898.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.

GOING NORTH.

No. 14, Ex. Sun. For St. Joseph	7:34 a m
No. 6, " " "	12:38 p m
No. 20, " " "	5:57 p m
No. 8, " " South Bend	10:11 p m
No. 16, Sunday only, for St. Joseph	8:21 a m

GOING SOUTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute	5:33 a m
No. 3, " " "	12:30 noon
No. 7, " " "	5:55 p m
No. 15, " " " report	7:35 p m
No. 17, Sunday only "	8:10 p m

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations and for all information, call on or address J. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. FORD, Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Louis, Mo.

Books and Tract List.

A LETTER TO A FRIEND.

This treats of the Covenants of Promises, and their connection with the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodrum. Many of our readers already know of the good that has been accomplished through its circulation. 10 cents each.

FUTURE PROBATION.

Is that awaiting any of the unbelievers? A 16 page pamphlet by Wm. Odom Mockbee. We have a good supply and will send them post paid on ten cents per copy.

SECOND COMING OF THE LORD JESUS CHRIST.

This tract contains 12 Lone star papers, and is a reprint of a work issued many years ago, by Geo. Storrs and contains [illegible] 30 cts or $3.00 per 100.

THE COMING CHRIST.

A lecture by H. V. Reed. He clearly sets forth that the Coming Saviour will be in person at his second advent to Palestine with the Scriptural reasons given. 20 pages. Ten cts. Per dozen.

Necessity of Baptism. Written some years ago by J. M. Stephenson. It is good. Also, Bible Plan of Salvation, and Sabbath Literature. 2 cts each or 15 cts per dozen.

Books. A full account of the plans with prices, etc. Free on application.

Dead, Conscious or Sleep. This expounds the doctrine of the dead from texts given. Ten copies for 5 cts.

Two Wicked Dead and Plain Truths. The two in one book. 2 pages ten copies for 10 cents

"Your Mission, World of God." by H. V. Reed. A contrast between the two. 2 cts each or 15 cts for 25 cts.

Address: The Restitution, Plymouth, Ind.

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerely will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory, and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled;—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, O.

Aids to Bible-Study and Mission-Work.

1. The gospel of the Kingdom, annotated in a series of Ten discourses. A volume of 283 pages, Cloth 25c. a Leather-bound beautifully embossed and gilt edged $1.00. 2. Twelve Words of the true meanings of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptable, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as gathered from their uses in the Holy Scriptures. A tract of 40 pages 10cts a copy. Intended as a substitute for and an improvement on the same writer's Key-Words. 3. The gospel of the Kingdom. An 8-page double column tract 10cts. per dozen; 75cts. per hundred. 4. Who are Led by the Spirit? A 4-page tract 25cts per hundred. 5. Seeking and Finding. A 4-page tract 25cts. per hundred. 6. Honouring the Son. An 8-page tract 25cts per dozen. 7. Early Lessons. 30 pages 10cts. copy. Suitable for old or young.

Written and for sale by WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

Notice.

WILL our friends please remember that we do not have the books and tracts at this office that are advertized by Brother Joblin, or Brother Wiley Jones. Do not send to this office for them, but send to their address as given in the advertisement. This will save both trouble and delay. PLEASE REMEMBER.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50, Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

A Prayer.

"If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine."—John.

My God, I will to do thy will.
To thee my voiceless prayer is lifted;
What only can'st my hunger fill,
And keep it unless murmur still,
And satisfy my spirit's yearnings.

Teach me of thy doctrine true,
The secret to the lives of saints,
Thy precepts thy counsels new,
Reveal the path where I should go,
Naught of thy way from me withholding.

Communicated.

Papers Read at Indiana Conference.

THE RELATION OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL TO THE CHURCH.

The word relation conveys the thought of connection,—a part of belonging to a kinship,—something of like nature, an existing harmony of thought, of work, and of purpose which tends toward the same great and final end. That we may better understand the connecting link which exists or which should exist between the Sunday-school and the church, we will note the origin and as authority shall quote somewhat as to dates, and facts, from Chamber's Encyclopedia. The Sunday schools, as we see them at the present day, were began in 1780 by Robert Raikes a printer of Gloucester, yet the systematic and wide-spread attention to the religious training of children is of more modern date. It is true, some attention was bestowed upon the teaching of children in patriarchal times, the father acting as teacher and priest toward the children. In the Jewish economy there were provisions for the training of the young in the knowledge of the law and the prophets. Ezra read the law and had it explained to the congregation.

There were religious schools in connection with the synagogues of the New Testament times. It is affirmed that the first word the Jewish mother teaches her child to speak, is the name of the Great Jehovah. At the age of five years their children begin to receive scriptural instruction, and at the age of thirteen they become subject to the law. In Apostolic times teachers were set over the young and unlearned. The early Christians took all possible care to have their children accustomed to the study of the Scriptures and to instruct them in the doctrines of their holy religion. Luther at the beginning of the reformation in 1529, finding the people fearfully ignorant, opened schools for children. Knox did the same in Scotland. Robert Baxter and the Rev. Joseph Alleine were in the habit of gathering young people together for instruction. But it was Raikes who founded and gave publicity through his journal to the modern Sunday-school system.

If we may judge from the character of the work he did, he was most assuredly a true Christian philanthropist.

One day in 1780 he had gone to hire a gardener in a low part of the town, where the most of the people found employment in a pin factory. He was grieved at seeing groups of ragged, wretched children at play in the streets. He was informed that they not being employed on Sunday, spent their time in rioting and profanity, thus creating a scene greatly to be deplored.

To check this profanation of the day, and to lift the neglected children out from the degradation to which they had been born, he engaged four women to instruct as many children on Sunday as he should send them. They were to teach them their letters, reading, writing and spelling, and also give them as their minds were able to grasp it, instructions in church catechism. For this work they were to receive one shilling each per day. All that I shall require, said Raikes, is that they come with clean hands, clean faces, and hair combed. The children came to the first Sunday-school ranging in age from 6 to 13 years and in a short time a visible improvement was noticeable in the manners and morals of the attendants. One of the employers said the change could not have been greater if they had been transformed from wolves and tigers into men. In 1781 the first Sunday-school was established in London. Soon after numerous schools began to spring up in all the principal towns, and a society was formed to promote the interest of the schools throughout the Kingdom, by their societies patronage and financial support.

Thousands of pounds were expended and one of the greatest impediments to the early prosperity of the schools, was the expense of having so many teachers. It was to the self-sacrificing spirit of young but noble Christian workers that we owe the present system of gratuitous teaching. A number of young men, banded themselves together and agreed to teach without pay. The seed was sown, and the spirit spread, and a marked improvement was soon noticeable. A higher grade of teachers presented themselves and instead of the poorer teachers, who taught solely for the pay, there were better teachers who taught because of the love of Christ in their hearts. It is true, that the secular teaching of these schools was quite superficial, yet it was the key of knowledge to multitudes who would have otherwise been unable to learn to read. And the religious instructions with which it was combined, moulded the character of some of the best and noblest men of England.

Thus we find the origin of the Sunday-school was the work of the Church, and it stands related to the Church as a part of the Church family. It was begotten and brought forth by the efforts of those whose hearts were touched with the needs of humanity. The Church has its preachers (teachers) who deliver unto us learned lectures upon Scriptural topics. So we as teachers should study that we may be able to rightly divide the word, that we may teach the children those truths which shall build their minds up in heavenly wisdom then they shall become wise unto salvation. The Sunday-school as an auxiliary to the Church can not be overestimated. It is truly the Church nursery. The junior department, for we are all disciples of Christ, ever learning of him, coming to him for comfort, and for guidance, ever turning to the Book of books for instruction which shall guide us aright, and lead us safely over the rough, and to us, unexplored pathway of life, through the wilderness of unrighteousness until we shall enter at last the haven of eternal rest. The relation of the Sunday-school to the Church is very clearly noticeable in the similarity of its work and associations, and yet it may not be wholly composed of those who have found the Christ. It is here we may come in touch with those who are strangers to the covenants of promise, who have not as yet become adopted into the true family relationship, who are not heirs of God and joint heirs with his only begotten son Jesus, the Christ.

It is at the Sunday-school the children of the world and of the Church may meet. And happy and prosperous is that Church the members of which are living epistles of the uplifting, cleansing, and sustaining influence of the Gospel, to such an noticeable degree as to establish in the minds of the unlearned a trusting confidence in the things which God has revealed. The harmony which exists, make it an easy transit from the Sunday-school close to the all saving name. And thus the school is an auxiliary to the Church, attracting, socializing, educating, and bringing to the Master. The Sunday-school is related to the Church by birth, by its influence, and by its ultimate results. It is the duty of every Christian to cherish the Sunday school. To aid in its support. To treat its members individually and collectively with cordial friendship. To meet with the school, and to impress the scholars, as we go to teachers, with the fact that you are interested in them. Make them by your solicitude to love the witness evidence in you. Treat them as brothers and sisters. Let the fathers and mothers meet with the children. Let the assembling of the Sunday-school be a family gathering, in which we encourage and receive encouragement, helping and being helped, and thus we are fortified and strengthened to withstand the evil one. Then as we meet in our daily avocations we shall walk more circumspectly, that we bring no reproach upon ourselves, or the words of our Heavenly Father. We shall then be living epistles known and read of all men, and thus adorn our profession and honor our God.

J. H. WILLEY.

GATHERING TOGETHER.

To the Dear Ones Gathered at Antioch Meeting June 9, 1898, Greeting:

I trust you will pardon this seeming intrusion on your published program for the occasion.

As I read the notices of the gathering together, here and there from time to time of the waiting pilgrims, who are seeking a better, that is a Heavenly country, ("Wherefore God is not ashamed to be called their God: for he hath prepared for them a city.") especially the notice for Indiana, of the gathering at old Antioch, where so many grand gatherings have been in the past, where I have so much enjoyed them in years gone by, I cannot but breathe the prayer, and indulge the hope that this one may surpass all others in the way of building up, and blessed enjoyment to all those in the faith who are privileged to meet together. Where you will not only speak of these temporary meetings, however enjoyable they may be, but also of those decisive gatherings now taking place, which are converting prophesy into history with a rapidity unknown in the past.

Already the word by Isaiah—"He shall gather together the dispersed of Judah from the four corners of the earth," is rapidly progressing. Insomuch, that even now, they exceed in number those gathered back from Babylonish captivity. Even now the proclamation of Joel is sounding—"Proclaim ye this among the Gentiles; prepare war—wake up the mighty men, let all the men of war draw near," which is but the prelude to that wonderful gathering together of the kings of the earth and of the whole world to the battle of that great day of God Almighty. Requiring seven months to gather and bury the bodies and bones of the slain. Ezek. xxxix.

This wonderful gathering is appalling to contemplate apart from its necessity in order to the glorious gatherings which follow in close proximity, which shall completely vanquish the long dark reign of sin, usher in the reign of righteousness and forever settle the worlds destiny.

Amid this last and awful struggle of nations in battle, comes the King of Kings and Lord of Lords, whose right it is to reign. He descends from heaven with a shout. The dead in Christ rise first, who with the living saints are caught away to meet him. What a grand gathering this will be.

"Our God shall come. He shall call to the heavens and the earth, Gather my saints together unto me; those that have made a covenant with me by sacrifice." Ps. l. Are we such participants in the sacrificing? Are we making such a covenant? May each from the heart be able to say, I am trying to the best of my ability.

When this gathering shall be, then follows not only the completion of Judah's gathering, but also of Israel. "He that scattered Israel will gather him and keep him as a Shepherd doth his flock. For the Lord hath redeemed Jacob and ransomed him from the hand of him that was stronger than he." Jer. xxxi. Henceforth they become one nation again. "And I will make them one nation in the land upon the mountains of Israel, and one King shall be king to them all, and they shall no more be two nations, neither shall they be divided into two kingdoms any more at all." Ezek. xxxvii. The King with his elect Bride, taken out of the nations, and now gathered unto himself to reign with him, inaugurates the right-eous reign of peace. Gentile rule is ended. He rebukes strong nations afar, they learn war no more. The proclamation of the everlasting gospel goes forth to them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, kindred, and tongue, and people, saying with a loud voice, Fear God and give glory to him: for the hour of his judgment is come: and worship him that made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters." Rev. xiv. 6, 7. To which come, in response, "Who shall not fear thee, O Lord, and glorify thy name? for only thou art holy: for all nations shall come and worship before thee; for thy judgments are made manifest." Rev. xv. 4. What a gathering this shall be! Beyond the commotions of war and political strife "When the people are gathered together and the kingdoms to serve the Lord, when he shall build up Zion, when he shall come in his glory." Ps. cii. When he shall reign until he subdues all enemies. May he soon come and reign, put down all rule and authority, wipe away all tears, remove the curse, and give us to share in a world made new. Let us watch and be ready.

D. T. HALSTEAD.

For Our Children.

Papers written by our young friends of Rensselaer, Ind.

The Earth.

"In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." Genesis, i. 1. God created earth for man. He said unto them, "Be fruitful, and multiply and replenish the earth, and subdue it and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air and over every living thing that moveth on the the earth." Gen. i. 28. "The heavens and the earth were finished, and on the seventh day God ended his work which he had made, and rested on the seventh day from all his work which he had made." Gen. ii. 2.

God saw every thing that he had made, and behold it was very good. Adam was the first man to disobey the word of God, by eating of the tree of knowledge of good and evil. God then said, "Because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree, of which I commanded thee saying, Thou shalt not eat of it, cursed is the ground for thy sake, in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life, for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return." Gen. iii. 17-20.

Thorns and thistles or troubles are the results of the curse, which the earth now bears.

I think the thorns and thistles of life are making us every day more and more Christ-like, for we cannot be like Christ unless we bear with patience the troubles of life as he did. Abraham believed in the Lord God, and he would have sacrificed his only son because God told him to. God then promised him an everlasting possession of land for his obedience.

To enjoy this land forever we must believe in the word of God and have everlasting life. Abraham's seed are as we think the followers of Christ,—"for unto Abraham and his seed the promises were made. He saith not, and to seeds, as of many but as to one, and to thy seed, which is Christ." Galations iii. 16.

To be Abraham's seed, we must be believers, baptized, and walk in newness of life and endure to the end or the second coming of Christ.

At the resurrection there shall be no more curse, "but the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in it, and his servants shall serve him." Rev. xxii. 3.

After this there shall be no more curse, and the earth will be as it first was, and the people shall be good and rule with Christ. The tree of life will grow, as found in Rev. xxii. 2.

Christ and his people shall reign over the earth forever, and the wicked shall be barred. When people die, they sleep peacefully in their graves until the second coming of Christ, when they shall rise and be glorified.

People do not have to go to heaven to receive their reward, because in Psalms cxv. God says, "The heavens, even the heavens are the Lord's, but the earth hath he given to the children of men."

The good people are raised at the first resurrection and those that are living when he comes, he shall change. A thousand years after, the dead shall live again.

Now, my kind hearers it pays for you to believe in the Lord Jesus Christ, for you shall then have eternal life and reign with him who died for you.

FANE NELSON.

"God created the earth." Gen. i. 1.
"It was created for man." Psalms. cxv. 16.

"The heavens, even the heavens are the Lord's but the earth hath he given unto the children of men."

Man was the last thing created. God said that all the things on the earth was good, or very good. Adam disobeyed and things were changed. Adam was made of dust, put in the garden of Eden, told that he could eat of every tree in the garden except one which was the "tree of knowledge of good and evil." But satan came into the garden and said unto the woman, "Why dost thou not eat of the tree." To which the woman replied, "Because God commanded us saying, 'Of every tree thou mayst freely eat, but the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: for on the day thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die.'" Gen. xi. 16-17. Unto which satan replied, "The Lord doth not want you to be wise but if you eat of the tree you shall be wise." So Adam and Eve ate and the Lord came into the garden and asked where they were, and Adam said, "They had hid." And the Lord asked the man if he had eaten of the tree. And Adam said, "The woman thou gavest unto me told me to eat and I did eat." And the Lord said unto the woman, "Why [illegible] And the woman said "Satan [illegible] to eat and I did eat." And the Lord cursed the ground for satan's sake. Thorns and thistles, and sorrow and sickness, and death were parts of the curse on things.

The second Adam, or Christ will have it removed.

The bad things that will be removed when Christ comes are sorrow, and sickness, and death. People are having good news about the kingdom preached to them and those who accept it, and are baptized and walk in newness of life will be kings and priests and reign with Christ one thousand years. And "behold, I come quickly, and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be." Rev. xxii. 12. The good ones will live with Christ, and the wicked shall have a chance to repent and if they do not repent they shall be burned to death and the good people shall walk over their ashes.

ORA YEOMAN.

God created the earth for man and all living creatures. And he said "every thing was very good" when it was finished. He created man the last thing and he said man should rule over the earth. Adam was the first man's name and God told him and Eve they could have their home in the garden of Eden, if they would not eat of the fruit of the tree of knowledge of good and evil, and they did eat of it, and so they disobeyed God, and that was a very bad thing for them to do, and so the earth was cursed by them disobeying God. The curse on the earth was thorns, thistles and doing wrong, and it brought sorrow, trouble and death and such awful things to man. The curse will be taken off at the resurrection, or the second coming of Christ. The curse now is wickedness but after the resurrection it will be pure and people can not sin any more, because they believe in Christ and are baptized unto Christ. When he rules the earth it will be pure just as it was before Adam and Eve did wrong, the curse will be taken off forever. The head was promised to Abraham and his seed, because he obeyed God. God promised the land to him more than others because he was one of his chosen people and because he believed in him and obeyed him. His seed is his children and heirs according to the promise.

The Restitution.

The Restitution advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this and the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also to heartily belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

We may become heirs to the promise by doing as God asks us to and becoming Christ's, for Paul tells us in Gal. iii. 16, "Now to Abraham and his seed were the promises made. He saith not, and to seeds, as of many, but as of one, and to thy seed, which is Christ." And in the last three verses of the same chapter he tells us how we may become Christ's and heirs to the promise. Gal. iii. 27-29. "For as many as you as have been baptized unto Christ, have put on Christ. There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female; for you are all one in Christ Jesus. And if ye be Christ's then are you Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise."

The earth will be pure and sinless when Christ comes again. The good people are to live and rule with him. The righteous will live forever and live on this earth, and the wicked will be burned up.

BEATRICE YATES.

Is Man Immortal?

This question is often asked by persons capable of thought and reason. As we lay our friends away we are very likely to enquire in the language of Job, "If a man die shall he live again?" Job did not believe that man never died, else, he would never have asked such a question. When the Prophet proclaimed to Hezekiah that he should "die and not live" the king believed that death meant death. His sorrow and tears is satisfactory evidence of this. He believed as God had said, "Man dieth and wasteth away," he believed that death was an enemy and not the gate to en[illegible] is low, and it is not reasonable to believe that God would send an enemy to bring his children home, as we nowhere find in God's Word the word "immortal" applied to man. We cannot believe that a matter of so much importance would have been left out.

Men often speak of a sky-kingdom, but we nowhere find it in the Word of God. Men often speak of an "immortal soul," "immortal spirit," "never dying soul," "died and went to heaven," but God's Word, never. The Bible is silent on this question of man's immortality. Is man immortal? "Yes," says one, "man cannot live without inherent immortality, it is his life." Let us reason for a moment. There are three kingdoms, the animal, vegetable, and mineral, to which kingdom does man belong? No one will say the vegetable, or mineral, then he must belong to the animal kingdom. Now is inherent immortality positively essential to animal life? If so, all animals must possess it, and if all animals are not immortal, then animal life can be lived without inherent immortality, and as man belongs to the animal kingdom then he must live on animal life. And if animal life can be lived without inherent immortality tell me how does man know that he possesses it, unaided by divine revelation? And as divine revelation is silent, where is the evidence?

Paul is the only Bible writer that ever used the word "immortality," and he never applied it to any man this side of the resurrection, "When this mortal shall put on immortality," then and not till then, shall we sing to that triumphant song of victory over death. Friends, let us by an eye of faith leap the dark cavern of death, where the saints shall be immortalized, having lived a life of righteousness, walk in robes of white by the river of life in that sun bright clime.

DR. PIERCE.

The Source of Peace.—"Yet come the enlargement when it will, it must I admit, come after all through the channel of a simple credence given to the saying of God, accounted as true and faithful sayings. And never does light and peace so fill my heart as when, like a little child, I take up the lesson that God hath laid on his Son in the iniquities of us."—Dr. Chalmers.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Office Editor.

Editorial Committee:
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, Special Contributor.

Plymouth, Ind. July 20, 1898.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "The Restitution, Plymouth, Marshall, Co., Ind."

Remittance should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and mail safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "The Restitution."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertized in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

A WAR ATLAS.

The exact locality of many places mentioned in the news of the War between the United States and Spain is not known to the general reader, and so recourse is had to geographies. We have decided to offer our readers a complete War Atlas of sixteen pages of maps, showing all the territory where a conflict can occur, besides some valuable statistics. This will be mailed to you for 25 cts. Send orders at once, and get the position of the places named that you can better understand how the various complications will affect the nations of the world. Address,—The Restitution, Plymouth, Ind.

Brother A. R. Zimmer will preach at Antioch Church on Sunday July 24th. There will be two services, one at 10:30 A. M. and one in the afternoon. Bring your dinner with you. It is hoped that all that possibly can will make an effort to be present, and may the meeting be an enjoyable one and result in much good for the Master.

The scene of conflict is about to change. Santiago has surrendered with the eastern provinces of Cuba and about 20,000 Spanish troops. The surrender is unconditional with the agreement by the United States to send them home to Spain. The expedition to Porto Rico will start at once, and also the fleet for the shores of Spain. The only thing that can stop this will be Spain suing for peace, and she is not yet ready to do that. Admiral Dewey has not been idle in the Phillippines, but has taken charge of affairs in Subig Bay where it is thought Germany hoped to be established. When the American ships there a German vessel was aiding the Spaniards against the natives, but departed at once leaving her anchor in the sea. An explanation may be asked for in due time.

Passing Events in the Light of Prophecy.

The wonderful career of conquest recently entered upon by the United States still continues,—since the destruction of Admiral Cervera's Squadron, Santiago and a large portion of the Eastern province, with some 15,000 or 20,000 men have surrendered to the American General Shafter, and a powerful Squadron has been fitted out for Commodore Watson to carry war into Spain itself, perhaps, or at least to destroy the last remnant of the Spanish Navy. In the far East Admiral Dewey is waiting for more reinforcements before attacking Manila. And at home rapid preparations are being made for the seizure of Porto Rico.

England is still further strengthening her position in China,—having obtained a lease for 99 years of the peninsula lying opposite the colony of Hong-Kong, comprising 200 square miles. A few days ago the Prime Minister announced that the British Government were entering into an arrangement with the Chinese Government whereby Britain would be able to help them to reorganize their army and navy.

According to the Daily Telegraph France and Russia are reported to be still pursuing a policy of making parallel demands for every concession made to England. And the Times correspondent at Pekin gives particulars of Russian activity in China,—they are endeavoring to obtain control of as many projects of railway construction as possible.

There have been ministerial changes in France and Italy, and regarding the former, a newspaper writer says: —"France is set drifting more rapidly than ever on a dangerous, and it may be, fatal course."

The financial condition of Italy and Spain is going from bad to worse,—startling changes in the latter country may be announced any day. Austro-Hungary is also in a very precarious condition,—an acute ministerial crisis being looked for.

The outbreak of war and pillage on the Montenegrin frontier threatens to reopen the whole Eastern Question. The Montenegrins (Christians) and Albanians (Mohammedans) have been engaged in a terrible conflict,—villages have been destroyed and many people on both sides killed and wounded.

An insurrection has broken out in Yemen Arabia. In order to quell it the Ottoman Government has called out 8000 Redifs in Syria.

The First Lord of the English Admiralty has announced that certain circumstances is contemplating making addition to the ship-building programme. It is understood that the increases in the Russian and French navies has caused this move.

Law or Gospel—Which? No. 17.

According to promise we proceed to examine the Sabbatarian Tenet that Sunday Keeping is.

"THE MARK OF THE BEAST."

Whatever "the Mark of the Beast" is, it is certainly a dreadful and fatal mark; for whoever receives it will drink of the wine of the wrath of God," Rev. xiv. 10. Hence the importance of knowing what it is. Mrs. White claims to have been inspired to say it is "Sunday Keeping;" but, in obedience to divine command we include this among the "all things" to be proven, remembering first of all, that she is ignorant of the first principles of the "gospel of the grace of God," and we cannot think that God would select such an one as a chosen vessel through whom to correct mistakes made by himself when moving prophets, Jesus and the Apostles to speak, or to reveal what he forgot to say through them,—or to mold through her, after-thoughts, after having declared his Word a perfect guide to salvation and eternal glory. This is too great a strain upon our credulity, and altogether too derogatory to the wisdom and knowledge of God, to be swallowed whole. If the poor deluded creature had only believed the covenants of promise made to the fathers of the Hebrew nation, and which now by the grace of God are extended to Gentiles, so that she could tell perishing mortals what they could do to be saved,—it would appear more feasible that she would be selected as a vehicle for special revelation if any were needed—which there were not—but to select an alien to instruct citizens,—to employ one to reveal the deep things of God who was ignorant of what laid on the surface, is to practically charge God with foolishness such as few men would be chargeable with.

Why it is because Mrs. White is infidel to God's revealed truth, or through ignorance of it, that she has foisted upon the credulous during fifty years or so a pretended supplement to the "Word of God," that was being revealed during some 1500 years; yes, she has published a supplement in fifty years, several times bigger than the original document: and that too, after God had declared it complete.

Secondly, This Woman's predictions have been proven false repeatedly, and therefore we know God did not speak by her,—and her statements squarely conflict with the Bible, as we shall again see.

The spirit said to inspire Mrs. White makes it appear that man can work only six days in the week without incurring the wrath of God. But what does God himself say about it? In Rom. xiv. 5 God says: —

"One indeed esteems one day better than another day: but another esteems every day. Let each one be fully assured in his own mind. He who minds [keeps] the day, minds [keeps] it for the Lord: and he who minds [keeps] not the day, minds [keeps] it not for the Lord," and there the matter ends.

The above is an infallible, emphatic and far-reaching statement,—and we may say of universal application. And if it does not prove that the child of God in this age has perfect liberty to set apart one, two or three days for God, or no day at all, if he so please, how could language be employed to prove it? That it does prove it, no honest and intelligent person will deny, unless he be forced to do it by the exigencies of a creed. Is not the law of liberty here grandly illustrated?

And reader, considering the character of God, and the fact that the law of which the Sabbath was a part, was given to regulate subjects who would not be governed on the principle of faith and loving obedience as was Abraham, and that its existence was limited to the time when the Seed should come, to the promises were made, and to which promises for the time specified, the law was added, and to the fact, that when Paul penned the words of the Spirit in Romans xiv. 5, the law had been taken out of the way, how could we expect God to say anything else than that his adopted children could esteem one day above another, or esteem all alike if they choose? Or, as he otherwise expresses it in Col. ii. 16.—"Let no one therefore rule you in food, or in drink, or in respect of a festival, or of a New Moon, or of Sabbaths, which are shadows of the future things, but the body [substance] is Christ's."

This is what we decided to do many years ago,—to let no man or woman either, or community, judge us in regard to these things. It is a plain, positive divine command to those in Christ Jesus, not to allow any one, to rule them in these matters. This command cannot be disregarded with impunity, by those of the household of faith.

At this point it may be asked if Rom. viii. 14 does not allow any one to place himself under the Seventh-Day Sabbath Law, if he please? Not at all. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Rather does it prove the abolition of the law, which had no such an accommodating clause, and the privilege of doing whatever should be suggested by duty or affection. And now we will consider the question proper,—"What is the Mark of the Beast?"

Long before the Revelation of Jesus Christ was signified to John by the angel, it was the custom for "slaves, soldiers and devotees to bear the imprint of those who claimed to have control over them. The impression was generally on the forehead or the hand, in token of servitude." An old Latin author says they were "branded with marks" of letters, so that the slave was styled "literatus," or "lettered." Ambrose says:—"Slaves are inscribed with the mark of the master," [much as the Texas ponies are which are disposed of in the Northern States: and we presume that the cattle on the prairies are branded in the same way.]

Petronius says slaves were marked in the forehead, while soldiers were marked in the hand by the name of the Emperor. It will be seen by reference to Lev. xix. 28 that the Israelites were not allowed to imprint any marks upon themselves, as was the practice of idolatrous nations.

"The Spirit foresaw that the Beast of the Earth would distinguish itself by a certain character or sign, or mark as the symbol of its faith and power or authority, and would enforce it by the severest penalties; but the particular "charagma" or sign or mark, or character, is not named, and of necessity it must be identified by the facts of history. And so it would seem proper to ask here:—

Did the Beast ever Brand its subjects in their foreheads or their hands with the words

"SUNDAY KEEPING?"

We want it to be distinctly understood that the Beast selects his own "charagma" or sign [of ownership] or character, and brands with it. He needed no assistance from Mrs. White or any one else. If he had needed her, she was not on hand, any way. Well, he managed to get along without her, and we have never yet come across the least scrap of information, or the least hint in the history of the past that he branded his slaves or devotees with the words:—

"SUNDAY KEEPING"

and if he had we do not see how it would have indicated his proprietorship, in the absence of a legislative act to that effect.

Be it remembered that there was to be no evasion of the Mark; all were to be branded; the small and great, that is, infants of days as well as adults, rich and poor, free and bond were to be branded, and of necessity this law must be promulgated, or how could it be obeyed; all were to be branded in their right hand or in their forehead, and no one could buy or sell unless he had the Mark. Once more we demand if any such law were enacted, or if any such branding is recorded in the annals of the past, as

"SUNDAY KEEPING?"

If not, we know that it was lyingly charged upon the best ages after he had decided upon, and actually used and still uses, another brand or character for his worshippers, by the False prophetess now, and for a long time, of Battle Creek Michigan. Till the history of such legislation or branding is produced, we shall maintain that no such history exists, and proceed to show what the history of the Beast and his transactions does say.

We remark first, lest any be confused, that what the image of the Beast, or Ecclesiastical arm, did, the Beast, or Secular arm is said to do because the latter was the source of the power exercised by the former, or Ecclesiastical constituent of the Beast; and so "the mark of the Beast" is a sign or character imprinted really by the Ecclesiastical,—not the Secular arm. We hope now to show

THE NECESSITY FOR "THE MARK OF THE BEAST."

The history of the 12th and 13th centuries shows plainly that the spread of heresy so alarmed the Ecclesiastical Power that it determined or decreed that all should be utterly exterminated by fire and sword, who would not receive a "mark" in token of subjection.

In order to carry this into effect the first crusade of papists against what they called heretics was proclaimed, and the murderous Inquisition was first erected.

History shows, and it is publicly known now, that all the worshipers of the Roman Clerical Hierarchy receive a sign or mark of their profession similar to soldiers to the Emperor and slaves to their masters and heathen devotees to their gods. And so we read that when Boniface VIII. ascended the throne of the Image of the Beast in A. D. 1294, he decreed that, "It is essential to the salvation of every human being that he be subject to the Roman Pontiff," and added that "whosoever obeys not as the Scriptures declare, let him die the death."

In accordance with this decree, "both the secular priests and the monastic orders took the vow of obedience, and received the Romish Sign upon their hands in token thereof. And the "Pontificate Romanum p. 49 A. D. 1627 on the Ordination of Priests, says, "The Bishops anoint both the hands of each of the ecclesiastics, joined together in the form of a cross, and before handing them the cup and paten, or plate, he makes the sign of the cross upon the hand of him whom he ordains." And when the soldiers of the Papacy enrolled for the murder and extermination of heretics, they were obliged to wear upon their vestures the Papal cross, and it was from this they acquired the name of crusaders. And then, the mark of the cross being assumed, the Pontiff king, through his anointed priests, imposed this sign of his order upon all classes of his subjects, without exception, so says the Fourth Lateran Council,—some receiving in the baby, the signal of the cross, sprinkling ordinance of the Apostacy, upon the forehead.

The "charagma" was imposed according to Canong, Sess. 7 of the Council of Trent and entitled "De Characters," that is "concerning the Mark," and which states the doctrine thus:—

"If any one shall speak against the three sacraments, to wit, baptism, confirmation, and ordination, that the "Mark shall not be impressed upon a soul, let him be accursed."

Junius says,—"Their Chrism, by which in the sacrament of confirmation, they make servile unto themselves the persons and doings of men, and as for the sign left by Christ, and of the holy sacrament of baptism, they make it void."

SIGNING THEM IN THEIR FOREHEAD AND HANDS,

Ballarmine's "Dottrina Christiana Breve," shows that besides the reception of the "Mark" from the clergy, the people themselves were also to make the Sign of the Cross. For instance, a master asks his disciple, "In what principally consists the faith of Christ?" The answer is,—In two principle mysteries, which are included in and it adds—"The Sign of the Holy cross is made by putting first, the right hand to the head, saying, "In the name of the Father:" then under the heart, saying "and of the Son;" and finally on the left shoulder, and on the right, saying, "And of the Holy Spirit."

"THE SIGN OF THE CROSS;"

It cannot be denied that the sign of the cross is the universal character or sign of both Rome and her apostate daughters. The mass book of England and the United States, called the Book of Common Prayer, says, when the priest pours water on the face of an infant, "We receive this child into the congregation of Christ's flock, and do sign him with the SIGN OF THE CROSS."

In the margin opposite of the Prayer Book of the Episcopal Church in America, we find these words —

"Here the minister shall make

A CROSS ON THE CHILD'S FOREHEAD."

"In the controversy between the late Archbishop Hughes with Breckenridge the Presbyterian he confessed that infant cruticism was not taught in the New Testament but was decreed by the Catholic Church, from which all other sprinklers have received it." This is true, and it is emphatically, as says Eureka, the Beast's outward and visible sign of an alleged inward grace given to the child, and in which it receives the "MARK," without any intelligence or faith or repentance, it being claimed that the water used is sanctified by the Holy Spirit to the mystical washing away of sin. Yes: the washing away of sin never commanded.

As Mrs. White knew nothing of the Beast's History, or its transactions, must it not have a most villainous spirit that inclined one to say "Sunday Keeping is the Mark of the Beast?"

Communicated.

Obituary.

Rhoda Jane Smith was born in Mercer County, Kentucky February 10, 1819. She was united in marriage with Dr. Samuel Frankeberger in Hendricks County, Indiana, December 27, 1838. In the early fifties they settled a coffarm near the Jordan church on the Indiana State line, and lived there until April, 1872, when they removed to this city. They lived here until after the old doctor's death, which occurred July 22, 1883. Afterwards Mrs. Frankeberger lived mostly with her children. She has been sick with a dropsical affection for a long time, but was able to be about the house and do the necessary work of the household until last February. She was brought to the home of her eldest daughter, Mrs. America F. Romine, in this city about June 1, and her condition was very precarious from that time on. Only a good constitution and strong will kept the spark of life in the frail body. She died at 9:15 Friday evening last, July 1, aged 79 years, 4 months and 21 days. She was the mother of fourteen children, of whom eight are living, as follows: Mrs. America F. Romine, Hoopeston; Henry P., McCune, Kansas; Samuel G., Two Harbors, Minnesota; Simeon O. (Bud), Lafayette, Indiana; Mrs. Henrietta Billings, Veedersburg, Indiana; Harriet, Hoopeston; Mrs. Eva McWilliams, Blue Mound, Kansas; and Mrs. Clara Ella Shannon, of Allegheny City, Pennsylvania. Rolla, the youngest son, died in Minneapolis, Minnesota early in the '80's, and was brought to this city for interment.

Mrs. Frankeberger was an active member of the Christian church for sixty-one years, she and her husband being two of the faithful few who organized the church in this city. She was very devoted to her family, and was one of those women who are idolized by husband and children, and who assist in making this country the best on the face of the earth.

The Chautauqua Assembly is now in session. Realizing the popularity of this delightful summer resort and the benefits to be acquired at such an educational center, the Nickel Plate Road has authorized an excursion to that point on July 20th. The low rate for this occasion is one of the predominant features, while a splendid road-bed, fast time, courteous employees, elegant sleeping cars, and an unexcelled dining service, combine to render a trip over that popular line, most enjoyable.

No man is born into the world whose work is not born with him: there is always work, and tools to work with-but, for those who will: and blessed are the horny hands of toil.—J. R. Lowell.

An Appeal.

To the Brethren of Missouri and Kansas, and to all who are interested in the Missouri-Kansas work, we wish to say that our tent is in the field, and it is very desirous that the work should move on vigorously and without a break. And to keep the work there moving more money will be needed. Therefore, we appeal to you for means. Make your donations early, and as large as you can. Forward to Conference Treasurer, P. H. Oatman care Nave & McCord, St. Joseph, Mo. Those contributing where tent meetings are held can pay into the Evangelist while there, who is authorized to receive such money, and who will report direct to the treasurer. Brethren are desired to continue the work to the end of the present conference year, Sept. 1st, and pledges are desired for the work for the coming year. We should have enough Bros pledged to sustain a man in the field for the entire coming year: and one will be employed to the full extent of the money pledged.

E. M. Saylor, Pres.,
P. H. Oatman, Treas.,
Joseph Shellenberger,
A. W. Babby

What the English Fleet is Worth.

The present value of the British fleet in money is about $52,000,000 ($260,000,000). According to recently issued papers the proportion of ships of large dimensions to the total number built is not nearly so great as is often asserted. All but two of those are battleships, the exceptions being the Powerful and the Terrible, cruisers. Of between 12,000 and 13,000 tons there are eleven ships, seven battleships and four cruisers; between 10,000 and 12,000 tons there are ten ships, two being battleships. Twelve cruisers are of from 5,500 to 9,100 tons, twenty-four between 4,000 and 5,800 tons, forty-six between 2,000 and 4,000 tons. Of between 1,000 and 2,000 tons there are twenty-two vessels and forty-three are less than 1,000 tons. Little more than one-fifth of the total number are over 9,000 tons.

Cotton Mills in the South.

In 1880 the South had 180 cotton mills, with a capital of $24,000,000. In 1890 there were 254 mills, with $61,000,000 capital. At present she boasts 400 mills, representing an investment of nearly $125,000,000. In 1880 the South had one-fifteenth of the spindles of the whole country; today she has nearly one-fourth of the whole number. The South has become a serious competitor in cotton manufacturing. With the ever-increasing investment of New England as well as Southern capital, and with the tendency to improve continually on methods of manufacture which she has recently shown in a marked degree, it is difficult to assign a limit to the expansion of the cotton industry of the South.

Summer in Colorado.

Colorado is particularly inviting as a summer haven. The climate is remarkable for its invigorating effect, and the State is rich in grand scenery and points of interest where a vacation may be pleasantly spent. Special arrangements are being made for the entertainment of visitors who are this season expected to be attracted to the seclusion and quiet of the Rockies and the hills and canyons of that great wonderland. Colorado today is nearer home than in former years. The fast schedules of the Pennsylvania Route and connecting lines bring the Centennial State within easy reach, and the cost of a trip thither is no longer a luxury. The special low rate Tourist Tickets over the Pennsylvania Lines places the cost for transportation within the limit of the usual allowance for vacation trips. For special information about rates, time of trains and other details please apply to nearest Pennsylvania Line Ticket Agent, or address C. L. Kimball, A. G. P. Agt. Cleveland, O.—July 31.

A man's elevated position in the church does not make him other than what he is. The raven cawing from the steeple is a raven still.

Intelligent people are always looking for an opportunity of increasing their store of knowledge. Chautauqua N. Y. is without a peer as a place to brush away the cobwebs. A Low Rate Excursion via the Nickel Plate Road offers another opportunity of attending this justly famous school. The agents of that line are glad to furnish details information.

Borrowed trappings, like borrowed money, only reveal the poverty that envies and the loan.

Poetry.

Are You Ready?

TUNE—"Standing on the Promises."

Soon, oh, soon will He come to us again,
With the whole bright host angelic on His train.
Calm, watch, pray and glorify Him on earth to reign.

Are you ready for the Lord to come
Watching? Watching?
Are you ready for the Lord to come
Watching, watching?

Are you looking for the Lord to come
Watching? Watching?
Are you looking for the Lord to come
Watching, watching?

Ready at the coming of the Lord
Watching, watching, etc.

With a good greeting they will rise in air,
They will meet the hosts of heaven gathered there
And from Christ descend the Saviour's throne to share;

Ready at the coming of the Lord
Watching, watching, etc.

Kings and priests forever will the nations be,
Here on God, and here with Christ they'll reign in unity
How sweet to enter into God's eternal rest
Ready at the coming of the Lord.

Watching, watching, etc.

By J. K. Thompson.

Communicated.

The Gospel Recovered. No. 11.

JOHN THOMAS, M. D. 1847 TO 1850.
VISIT TO BRITAIN.

In the previous article we reached an important point. Dr. Thomas, as narrated in the Herald of the Kingdom, vol. 1, had attained to "the obedience of faith." The year is March 1847, after fifteen years in connection with the Reformation. He had come to know that certain things concerning the Kingdom of God in the true Israelitish sense as preached by our Lord and his Apostles were really of the essence of the gospel, and were necessary to be believed prior to baptism. It will not be disputed by the readers of The Restitution that here was the gospel recovered, and that Dr. Thomas was an instrument providentially honored to bring to light the "Ancient Gospel" from the darkness in which it had been so long holden.

To many, both in America and in Britain, this proved a welcome discovery. The indebtedness of many to the doctor was ungrudgingly awarded, and publicly expressed even by brethren who felt compelled to dissent from his opinions on what they considered to be secondary points. The crowning merit of Dr. Thomas does not consist in his voluminous writings, but in bringing to light "this gospel of the kingdom," and his continuous advocacy of its claims to public attention.

It seems proper here to remark that individuals may have believed substantially the things concerning the kingdom of God, and who had been afterwards baptized. For example, among the Baptists of two hundred years ago; among those called Plymouth Brethren, many of who in bold the doctrine concerning the kingdom, and were in the practice of baptism. Possibly even among Adventists and the reformation such may have been the case.

At the time of his re-immersion, Dr. Thomas published in "Herald of the Future Age," vol. III. 1847, a Confession and Abjuration of Errors, along with a Declaration of Principles. A notice to the following effect appeared in the New York Morning Star of June 3d, 1848: "John Thomas, M. D., President of the Scientific and Electric Medical Institute of Virginia, sails in the "De Witt Clinton" for Liverpool on a tour through England and Scotland, to invite public attention to European affairs as 'evidential of the near approach of the kingdom of God.' We understand Dr. Thomas bears his own expenses." This was copied into the Macclesfield Chronicle (England) of 8th July.

He was provided with letters of introduction, especially from James Boulman, of New York "Reformation" meeting, to James Wallis of Nottingham, and to Albert Y. Vickle of Liverpool, both of the "Reformation." The letter to Mr. Wallis was read in the church and unfavorably replied to. A long reply to the church from Dr Thomas was miscarried, and ultimately found its way to an Adventist meeting in Nottingham. The result is found in a newspaper report as follows: "By request of the Advent Brethren Dr. Thomas has favored the town of Nottingham with a visit; he preached in their chapel three times on Sunday, July 30, to a crowded house. Many who were anxious to hear could not gain admittance in the evening. The assembly room was engaged for the evenings of Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday following. * * * The hall was also engaged for Sunday, August 6 when the doctor preached three times during the day, the room, in the evening particularly, being crowded to excess.

Through a notice on the cover of the "British Millenial Harbinger" for July, containing a misrepresentation of the Doctor's Confession and Abjuration, and committing any mention of his Declaration of principles, occasion was afforded for the following finding its way into the press. By a singular circumstance, a second periodical in connection with the "Reformation," had been started in Nottingham just four months prior to the doctor's arrival. From its importunity and greater liberty as compared with the British Millenini Harbinger, it proved of great service to the doctor in making known the gospel of the kingdom. The first volume contained six articles entitled "Hints on Prophecy." The gathering of Israel and some related topics were touched on by this writer (I. B. R.). Volume I. contained seven papers by an advanced "Reformer," George Greenwell, entitled "The Destiny of Man and Nature," substantially, the things concerning the kingdom of God.

The new periodical referred to, "The Gospel Banner," among other important items, contained a copy of the doctor's letter in reply to that of the Nottingham Reformation church. In that letter he gave an outline of the faith as held at that time. It is as follows:—

I. I believe and teach that the scriptures of the Prophets and Apostles are able of themselves to make men wise unto salvation, and that whatsoever is not according to these ought not to be received. There is nothing which can be shown to be taught here, but what I do and will receive it with all my heart.

II. I believe the promises made to the fathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, in their literal, or grammatical import, and in the everlasting covenant made with David.

III. I believe in that kingdom spoken of by Daniel and the Prophets, which will soon be set up by the God of heaven, upon the ruins of all states and empires.

IV. I believe that the Son of Man is to possess this kingdom, and the dominion of the globe, but that he was first to be a sufferer, become obedient unto death, rise from among the dead, lead captivity captive, sit at the right hand of the Ancient of Days until the time comes to set up the kingdom: then come in power and great glory to rule men justly in the fear of the Lord.

V. I believe that Jesus of Nazareth is this prophetic sufferer and glorious King of men: the Son and Anointed One of God and the great Captain destined to lead many sons to glory.

VI. I believe that the gospel comprehends the things concerning this promised kingdom, AND, not or, but and the things concerning the name of Jesus Christ.

VII. I believe that the obedience of the gospel consists in a believer of the things indicated in No. 6, being immersed into the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, and that in submitting himself to this act of faith, like Abraham's, is counted to him for righteousness, or remission of past sins. This I understand to be baptism for the remission of sins.

VIII. I believe that man is a sinner by constitution and by practice, and by both entitled only to the good and evil of the present state, to death and corruption.

IX. I believe that glory, honor incorruptibility, and life are attributes of the kingdom of God, and not of sinful flesh, and that whosoever is accounted worthy of the kingdom will receive them. Hence they are set before us as matters of hope, and recompense of reward.

X. I believe that the promises are a part of the faith that justifies the obedient, as it is written, "through the knowledge are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises, that BY THESE ye might be partakers of the DIVINE NATURE." To obtain the kingdom a man must be a partaker of the divine nature or he cannot share with the model of that nature—even Jesus, in the inheritance. One of the distinguishing feature of this nature is justice. "Why do ye not of yourselves judge that which is right?"

XI. I believe in the resurrection of the righteous to possess the kingdom; and of the unrighteous, 1000 years after to judgment, etc.

XII. I believe that Jesus will come soon in pers. in persona to the salvation of those "who look for him" and to raise his saints, and to "take away the dominion" of the nations from their present rulers.

XIII. I believe the saints shall rule the world for 1000 years.

XIV. I believe more about the present eventful times than I can write now.

XV. I believe in that repentance which results from the belief of the exceeding great and previous promises, which is essentially the disposition of the fathers Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and known by the fruit of the Spirit—that it is the goodness of God, and not terror that leads men to repentance.

XVI. I believe that it is the duty and privilege of the faithful to "contend earnestly for the faith originally delivered to the saints" to meet every first day to break bread, for natural edification, etc., and that the apostolic churches had a plurality of elders, etc.

These things I believe and teach as the doctrine of the Word. If you can prove from that Word that a single item is not there, I will renounce it. If I can prove them will you be equally candid, and receive them? If you say we do believe them, then between you and me, at least, there is no controversy. We must therefore, be agreed. But woe to you if we do agree, and you forbear to co-operate in their advocacy, from fear of man on this or the other side of the Atlantic Ocean. Remember that "the fearful" are classed among the "abominable" and therefore as certain to be excluded from the kingdom as "the unbelieving."

J. CAMERON.

(To be Continued.)

The Nature of Man. No. 2.

2. By adoption.

To adopt is "to take a stranger into one's family, as son and heir—giving him a title to the privileges and rights of a child." Man by nature is a stranger from God. We speak of his condition since the transgression in Eden. Paul speaks of the relation of the Gentiles in the second chapter of his epistle to the Ephesians: "Wherefore remember that ye being in time past Gentiles in the flesh, who are called uncircumcision by that which is called the circumcision in the flesh made by hands, that at that time ye were without (or apart from) Christ, being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, having no hope and without God in the world." Eph. ii. 11-12. Surely a very discouraging position, and they who are thus situated have great need of sympathy from some one who can offer sympathy. The question now is, how are those who are afar off, made nigh, or, by what process are they adopted into God's family? Surely not through any merit in themselves to commend them to God to adopt them as his own. But Paul very beautifully answers this question when he says, "but now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were afar off, are made nigh by the blood of Christ." Through him he predestinated them to "the adoption of children unto himself, according to the good pleasure of his will, to the praise of the glory of his grace, wherein he hath made them accepted in the beloved." Eph. i. 4-6. The manner in which this adoption into the Divine family is conducted is as follows: The glad tidings of the coming kingdom of God, with Jesus, the Anointed, reigning upon God's throne, together with his saints with him, are proclaimed; they who hear and believe these glad tidings, repent, or reform their lives, to conform to the teaching of the glad tidings, and upon such reformation and renunciation of sin, they are immersed, according to the requirements of the gospel: "He that believeth and is baptized, shall be saved." We have both precept and example in the Word to warrant this course. We read that as many as gladly received Peter's word on the day of Pentecost, were baptized." Baptism has a great purpose, designed by God himself. Through baptism we are brought into Christ, as Paul wrote both to the Romans and Galatians Rom. vi. 3, and Gal. iii. 27. "As many of you as were baptized into Christ were baptized into his death, and did put on Christ." To those who are "in Christ Jesus" there is then no condemnation, because they have been adopted into God's family; and if they walk not according to the flesh, but according to the Spirit, they have great boldness toward God. They have also the witness of the Spirit that they are children of God. Rom. viii. 16. By this witness of the Spirit we are to understand not some mysterious influence, exerted upon them apart from the Word, but the Word is the voice of the Spirit, and the Spirit speaks or witnesses through the Word. That witness being upon record, is reliable, and there are no chances of mistake or deception to those who are governed by the Word.

But the question is, is man changed in any way as to his nature by adoption? We may answer both yes and no. This may at first seem rather paradoxical, but the propriety of this answer will be apparent as we examine the subject more deeply.

Alternatively we may say that man to some extent is physically changed by adoption. We know what manner of life and conduct the gospel enjoins upon those who embrace it. The grace of God with salvation for all men teaches us that "denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously and godly in this present world, looking for that blessed hope and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Savior Jesus Christ." Titus ii 11-13. And again, "every one who hath hope in him, purifieth himself even as he is pure." I John iii. 3. Such a life cannot but affect the physical nature of man, and while it cannot of course give eternal or endless life, it certainly has the tendency to prolong the present life, and at any rate makes it more enjoyable. The affection being set upon things above, and the mind being engaged with these things it also enlightens the understanding in accordance with Eph. i. 18, and enlarges the intellectual powers of the child of God. Yet it must be remembered that our knowledge in this life, at best, is but in part.

Negatively we must say with all emphasis that adoption does not change the nature of man from mortal to immortal. "In Adam all die," and we are all in Adam, and must bear in mind that we are adopted children of God, and have not yet been born anew, or of the Spirit, and have consequently not yet become partakers of the Divine nature. During Paul's time many of the brethren had fallen asleep, I Cor. xv. 6, and the Apostle very clearly intimated that if in this life only we have hope in Christ (that is if there were no other) we would be of all men most to be pitied. Ver. 18.

The Word also admonishes believers "beloved of God" to seek "by patient continuance in well-doing, for glory, honor and immortality." Rom. ii. 7. If they were already in possession of immortality, or had come to be possessors of it through their adoption, this advice would seem to be out of place, but with the understanding that they were in need of just this boon, we see a fitness in this injunction. Jesus said that "he that believeth on me though he were dead (notwithstanding he shall die) yet shall he live." Jno. xi. 25. So that we see that during the present order of things even faith and a life of piety do not exempt any one from death. Only the coming of the Lord Jesus from heaven can bring about a change in our nature. Therefore we proceed to the third part of our subject. The Nature of Man by resurrection.

A. H. ZELMER.

Judges Chapter 6.

1. The sons of Israel did that which was wicked in the sight of the Lord, and the Lord gave them up to the hand of Madiam for seven years.

2. And the hand of Madiam became strong over Israel, and the sons of Israael made for themselves away from the face of Madiam the holes in the mountains and the caves and the hanging-dwellings.

3. And it came to pass that if the sons of Israel sowed, Madiam and Amaleek also came up, and the sons of the east came up along with them, and pitched camp against them,

4. And destroyed their fruits as far as to come into Gaza, and did not leave behind them subsistence for life in the land of Israel nor in their herds a bull nor an ass.

5. Because they and their acquisitions came up and their tents came to be like a locust flight in multitude; of them and their camels there was no number: and they came into the land of Israel and ravaged it.

6. And Israael became exceedingly impoverished from before the face of Madiam.

7. And the sons of Israel called for help unto the Lord from before the face of Madiam.

8. And the Lord sent a man of influence, a prophet unto the sons of Israel and he said unto them, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, I am he who led you out of a land of Aiguptos (Egypt) and led you out of a house of your bond-service.

9. And delivered you out of the hand of Aiguptos and out of the hand of all those who were causing you tribulation, and cast them out before your face, and gave unto you their land.

10. And said unto you, I am the Lord your God; ye shall not have feared the gods of the Amorraite in whose land ye are locating yourselves: and ye did not hearken unto my voice.

11. And an angel of the Lord came and sat down beneath the terebinth tree En Ephratha in the field of Jooas father of Esdri: and Gedeaon, his son, was whipping out grain in a wine-vat in hiding away from the face of Madiam.

12. And the angel of the Lord appeared unto him and said unto him, The Lord be with thee, thou strong one of the hosts.

13. And Gedeaon said unto him, In me my Lord? And if the Lord be with us, why have these calamities found us? And where are all his wondrous acts of which our fathers have discoursed to us, saying, Did not the Lord move us up out Aiguptos? And now he hath cast us off and given us unto the hand of Madiam.

14. And the angel of the Lord turned unto him and said, Go thy way in this thy strength, and thou wilt save Israel out of the hand of Madiam; lo, I have sent thee.

15. And Gedeaon said unto him, In me, my Lord, in what will I save Israel? Lo, my thousand hath become weak in Manasses and I am a younger in the house of my father.

16. And the angel of the Lord said unto him, The Lord will be with thee and thou wilt smite Madiam as though they were one man.

17. And Gedeaon said unto him, If indeed I have found mercy in thine eyes, and thou art going to do for me anything that thou hast said to me,

18. Do not withdraw from here until I shall have come to thee, and until I shall offer the sacrifice, and I will offer it in thy sight: and he said, I am will remain seated until thou hast returned ("I am" here is the subject nominative of the verb in the 1st person singular).

19. And Gedeaon entered in and prepared a kid of the goats and an ephi of barley unleavened, and he placed the flesh in the basket and the broth in the earthen pot, and brought them unto him beneath the terebinth tree and drew nigh.

20. And the angel of God said unto him, Take the flesh and the unleavened and place them on that rock and pour out the broth next to them. And he did in this wise.

21. And the angel of the Lord stretched out the tip of the sceptre in his hand and touched the flesh and the unleavened, and fire arose out of the rock and devoured the flesh and the unleavened: and the angel of the Lord went his way from his eyes.

22. And Gedeaon perceived that this was an angel of the Lord. And Gedeaon said, Alas, O Lord, my Lord, because I have seen the angel of the Lord face to face.

23. And the Lord said unto him, Peace be unto thee. Fear not, Thou shalt not die.

24. And Gedeaon built there an altar unto the Lord, and he invoked on it "the peace of the Lord" unto this day, while he was yet in Ephratha belonging to the father of Esdri.

25. And it came to pass that night that the Lord also said unto him, Take the yearling bullock, the bull which is thy father's and a second seven-year old bullock, and tear down the altar of Baal, which is thy father's and the grove which is by it shalt thou destroy,

26. And thou shalt build in the appointed way an altar unto the Lord thy God upon the summit of this Mauozi, and thou shalt take the second bullock, and thou shalt offer whole burnt-offerings with the wood of the grove which thou art to destroy.

27. And Gedeaon took ten men from his own bond-servants and did in the way the Lord had told him; and it came to pass that he was afraid of the house of his father and men of the city to do it by day and he did it by night.

28. And the men of the city arose in the morning early, and lo the altar of Baal was torn down and the grove that was by it was destroyed, and they saw the second bullock that he had offered upon the altar that had been built.

29. And each man said to his neighbor, Who hath done this thing? And they sought and traced it out and became aware that Gedeaon, son of Joeas, had done this thing.

30. And the men of the city said unto Joeas, Bring out thy son and let him be put to death, because he hath torn down the altar of Baal and because he hath destroyed the grove that is by it;

31. And Gedeaon, son of Joeas, said unto all the men of the city who had arisen against him, Ye are not acting as civil judges for Baal, are ye? Nor will ye save him, will ye? Let him while it is yet morning, who shall act as judge for him: If he is a god, let him judge for himself, because one hath torn down his altar.

32. And he called it (the place) Hierobaal on that day, saying, Let Baal act as judge therein, because his altar hath been torn down.

33. And all Madiam and Amaleek and sons of the East were gathered together at the same place, and encamped in the valley of Jezreael:

34. And the Lord's Spirit endued Gedeaon and he blew in a ramshorn and Abiezer responded to his call for help to come after him.

35. And he sent messengers into all Manasses and unto Aaser and unto Zabuloon and unto Naphthali, and he went up to meet them.

36. And Gedeaon said unto God, If thou art saving Israel by my hand even as thou hast said,

37. Lo, I am placing the fleece of the wool on the threshing-floor, If there come to be dew on the fleece alone and drought upon all the ground, I shall comprehend that thou art saving Israel by my hand even as thou art saving Israel by my hand even as thou hast said.

38. And it came to pass in this wise. And he arose at dawn on the morrow and wrung out the fleece, and dew distilled from the fleece an earthen dish full of water.

39. And Gedeaon said unto God, Let not thine anger forsooth become wrath toward me, and I will talk yet once for all again; I would make a trial yet once for all again on the fleece, let the drought be come to be on the fleece alone, and let dew come to be on all the ground.

40. And God caused in this wise that night, and there became drought upon the fleece alone, and there became dew upon all the ground.

COMMENT.

"The holes" and "the caves" and "the hanging-dwellings," for the reason that they were at this time still in evidence to confirm the facts herein recorded.

In the fourth verse we have the word "hupostasis" (English "hypostasis") used and here translated "subsistence." It will be of interest to the reader to know that this is the word used in Hebrews xi. 1 to define faith. "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, etc." (C. V.) It was the Greek word for reality as opposed to ideality and when used metaphysically as in Hebrews xi. 1 means a real state as opposed to an ideal or hypothetical state.

Of course the condition of things depicted here in the opening verses of this sixth chapter leads up to and prepares us for the call of Gedeaon, one of the most striking and remarkable characters in all history sacred or profane. The casual reader of course knows him as "Gidian" a corruption of his true name Gedeaon meaning "One who prayeth indeed." His father was a man of prominence and wealth and a priest of Baal and had Gedeaon not been called of God and converted he would have inherited the same office and title. In fact he is called "Hierobaal" in the first verse of the seventh chapter and this means "a priest of Baal." The reader will observe also that Gedeaon is the speaker in the 31st and 32nd verses, whereas in the R. V. "Joash," his father, is the speaker and moreover he calls the place "Hierobaal" (Jerubbaal C. V. and R. V.) and not "I [illegible]" as in the R. V. Gedeaon was probably nicknamed Hierobaal because of his prominence in this incident already related. If he had really been a priest of Baal as his father was God, would not have called him. Then the gist of the story is that he risked his life in renouncing Baalism, the religion of his father, and destroying his altar and grove. By the way the word "grove" is given in the R. V. as a proper name, "Asherah," and the reader is left to draw his own inference as to who or what "Asherah" was.

CHAS. GARDNER.

A good thing bears repetition. The Nickel Plate Road will run another of its popular excursions to Chautauqua, N. Y. on July 29th. Low rates thirty day limits, and first class service make a great drawing card. Ask agents for time of trains and rates.

Iowa Conference.

The Annual Conference of the Church of God in Iowa, will convene at Marshalltown, Iowa, Thursday August 4th, 1898, and continue over August 15, 1898. Will occupy the grounds we occupied three years ago, and adjoining the grounds occupied for the last two years on North 3rd Street, opposite the Green house. Marshalltown is situated at a junction of the Chicago and Northwestern, Great Western and Iowa Central Railways, and on account of the excellent service of these great trunk lines, is easily accessable to any part of the State. Take street car to the cemetary and it will take you right by the tent for only five cents. Brethren, it is with a glad heart we pen the notice of this meeting, for as we look over the events of the past year, we feel to lift up our heads and rejoice, for we know our redemption draweth nigh, and the coming of the Master is near at hand. Do not your hearts feel glad to contemplate these things? And do you not feel like making a small sacrifice to come to this meeting, and cheer our hearts and strengthen our faith. God willing, we expect to have Brother C. C. Ramsey, and Brother Butler, and others with us. Now, brethren, make an extra effort to attend this year, we are surely in need of your council to help the work in the State, will you not come and help us? There are many important matters to be decided and it all depends upon you, we pray that each one will realize it is their duty to attend this Conference. Remember, "Where there is no sacrifice there is no reward." May God give a stronger desire than ever before to attend the Conference, and let us say to you, "Cherish the thought, keep it always in your mind." Commence at once to prepare, and come and do your duty. Only a few more trials, only a few more tears, and then the welcome plaudit of "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

O. J. Allard, Sec'y.

To the Members of the Church of God in Iowa.

Dear Ones in Christ:

The time is near for our eleventh annual conference. We want to have the best meeting this year we have ever had, and we want to see you there.

This is a real, personal letter to you. The many bright faces and happy hearts that will be there, will be less so if you are not among the number. Make every sacrifice to come. Besides the meeting of old friends there will be brothers and sisters you have never seen whom you will want to meet, and whom it will be a pleasure to remember.

There will be earnest and able discourses both doctrinal and practical, essays, discussions, Bible readings, Sunday-schools and a thorough consideration of the great question which relate to the times in which we live and the coming of Jesus and the Kingdom of God.

You cannot afford to miss the spiritual strength and upbuilding these meetings will give and the encouragement they will bring. Do come.

These days are full of events and making history rapidly. Let us meet together and talk them over, and pray with and for one another.

Let the children come, and the young people too. There is no better time for them to come under the influence of the gospel or to get acquainted with each other. We expect the old veterans without fail.

The meeting will be held Aug. 4 to 14 on North Third street, Marshalltown, Iowa. The street car will carry you from the depot to the camp.

Tents will be provided, but you should bring a little bedding in the shape of quilts and pillows. Don't neglect this.

Meals will be served at 10 cents or 25 cents per day. Some prefer to furnish their own meals.

Come if you can only stay one day, but it will be pleasant and profitable to stay all through the meeting. This meeting of our people comes only once a year, and by planning ahead you can be there and enjoy these blessed seasons with us in the leafy grove.

A. J. Eychaner, Pres.,
O. J. Allard, Sec'y,
J. W. Appleyard, Treas.

EXAMINE

The label on your paper, and if it bears a date previous to this time please RENEW NOW. Do not wait for other notice to be sent, but PLEASE RENEW TODAY.

Send The Restitution to some poor person to present for 1898. The cost is 10 cents a week.

Announcement.

Editor Restitution:

The Church of God at Ashvale, Kan., (Post Office address, Hunter, Mitchell Co., Kan.,) will hold a grove meeting (D. V.) beginning on the 29th day of July, 1898, and continuing over Sunday, and as long as may be deemed best thereafter, at or near the Ashgrove schoolhouse in Lincoln Co., Kansas. The place of meeting is on Bacon's Creek a tributary of the Solomon, about 16 miles northwest from Lincoln Center, Kansas.

Bro. J. T. Kiggins of Bavaria, Saline Co., Kan., a very zealous and worthy exponent of the truth, under whose efforts the church at this place was organized, informs me that he expects Bro. W. J. Orem and other good preaching brethren will be present to assist in preaching the Word.

This is believed to be an excellent point for the commencement of a good and profitable work. We are in the country, a long way from the R. R., but will be glad to meet as many of the brethren of the like precious faith as possible at this meeting. A cordial greeting will be given to all who may come.

Yours in the faith and hope of the gospel.

J. K. Thompson, Elder.

Editor Restitution:

I wish to state through The Restitution that Brother George Kidwell is going to hold a meeting at the Hix School-house, six miles from Climax, Mo., beginning August 4th and continuing over one week. We hope that much good seed will be sown among the people.

Effie C. Howard.

Reduced Fares to Various Points via Pennsylvania Lines.

Excursion tickets will be sold via Pennsylvania Lines as indicated in the following paragraphs. Although concessions in fare are authorized for meetings of certain Orders, tickets may be obtained by any person whether a member of the Order or interested in the event. The reduced rates will be open to everybody.

To Saratoga, N. Y., August 1st and 2nd, account Young People's Christian Union, P. P. Church. Return limit August 10th, with privilege to extend until August 31st.

To Richmond, Ind., August 19th and 20th, good returning until August 29th, account Society of Friends Conference.

To Cincinnati, Ohio, September 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the G. A. R. National Encampment. Good returning until September 13th, with privilege of extension until October 2d.

To Pittsburgh, Pa., October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th 12th and 13th, good returning until October 17th, account Knights Templar Triennial Conclave. Return limit may be extended until October 31st.

During the excursion season special rates will also be in effect via Pennsylvania Lines for special and local events. For particular information please apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines or address C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.

On Sundays parties of five or more can go anywhere and return within one hundred miles on the Nickel Plate Road for $1.00 for the round trip. Ask agents.–july 31

Ask Agents about Sunday Outings on the Nickel Plate Road. Parties of five or more can go anywhere on the Nickel Plate Road not to exceed one hundred miles at a round trip rate of $1.00.–July 31

Get Particulars from agents regarding $1.00 excursion tickets offered for sale by the Nickel Plate Road on Sundays, to parties of five or more.–july31

Change of Schedule on the Pennsylvania Lines.

A change in the schedule of passenger trains on the Pennsylvania Lines went into effect Sunday June 26th, 1898. Under the new schedule the time of trains at Plymouth is as follows:

Depart for the West at 5 18 a. m., 6:41 a. m, 9.26 a. m. 2.10 p. m., 6.10 p.m., and 6.45 p. m.

Depart for the East at 2.45 a. m, 4.50 a. m., 10.38 a. m., 5.47 p. m., 7.50 p. m. and 8.52 p. m.

J. E. Hanes, Agent.

Excursions to Chicago.

Commencing July 17th and continuing every Sunday, until further notice the Pennsylvania Lines will sell One Dollar round trip excursion tickets from Plymouth to Chicago. Special train will leave at 7:17 a. m. central time returning leave Chicago 8 p. m. and 11:30 p. m. Excursionists have all day to look about the grand city

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing. Said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 20th of April, 1898, providing notice is given through The Restitution that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all remittances to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 310, Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. S. J. Sipe.	[illegible]
J. L. Wines.	5.00
C. L. Austin.	10.00
Edgar Hatch.	1.00
Agnes Dilworth.	2.00
Mrs. Mary E. Thompson.	15.00
One who believes that God from little offerings can work out great results	10.00
A Friend of Truth	1.00
Mrs. S. A. Wickizer,	5.00
Mrs. A. M. Sipe.	10.00
Mrs. Mary J. Riggs.	2.00

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given on here, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending The Restitution to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the worthy doers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the doners request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is represented by some one known to be trustworthy.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. H. Stevens, Shawnee Mound Mo.
S. R. Chinkenbeard, Bonham, Texas.
P. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
E. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. M. Chessbrough, Galesburgh, Mich.
Norton Gingil, 1810 Saratoga st. Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. P. Bradshaw, 155 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio.
W. L. Skeels, Scholls, Ore.
E. Hoyt, Box 381, Grand Rapids, Mich.
S. Roxana Wines, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Heap, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Scheelville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Chisnville, Ark.
J. J. Pady, Holbrook, Neb.
A. T. Prine, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kean, 4507, S. X. St. Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Glenn, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hall, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner Sidel, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Osawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Arthen, Kan.
D. M. Butler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. G. Haupt, Lowell, Neb.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, Okla.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Prinmer, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
H. T. Baker, Box 1008 Decorah, Iowa.
C. P. Norris, Cottonwood, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Marmont, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Ruthbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Southland, Iowa.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Steffe, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 41, Viola, Idaho.
Elder B. M. Williams, Portland, Ore.
B. Wilson, 1907 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
B. T. Bidelspach, Andover, S. D.
John Coons, 2012 West Corning Ave. Pasadena, Kansas.
E. S. Bullington, Otley, Mich.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 381 Grand Rapids, Mich.

Lake View Hotel—Lake Maxinkuckee (Culver), Ind.,

Will reopen on June 20th, 1898, for the Summer season, with improved service and thoroughly modern appointments. Family accommodations a speciality. Rates reasonable. Address J. B. Schofield, Manager, Culver, Ind.—July 31.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt binding, fifth edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Twelve Words;" one of "Early Lessons" and one of "Honoring the Sun,"—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

Wm. A. Jones, Manchester Va.

Send to this office and get a Wall Art at only 25 cts post paid.

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their church Cor., Center and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12.00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Church of God, Van Buren Hall corner of Monroe St., and Calumet Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., one block S. Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday in the month. Sunday school every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God at Lisbon, Ohio, [illegible] Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30 p. m. All are welcome to these services. Come and worship with us. Lida A. [illegible], Pastor.

The Church of God at [illegible] Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30 p. m. All are welcome to these services. Come and worship with us. Lida A. [illegible], Pastor.

The Church of God at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Christians at God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trusdell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y., meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God, near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the Kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon, Assisted occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prasser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meeting at 3 P. M. Valentine Pike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okla., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles east of town of Linden, every Third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God at Whatcom, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Alexanderson's School House, near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Connelly, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 p. m. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and moving brethren are cordially invited to drop off and meet with us. A. W. Gower Sec'y and Treas. 4 E. Pavilion, Leader.

The Church at Milbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder. Ransom Lewis, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to meet with all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet on Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Faithfully yours, Grant Mechanic.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica on the 2nd and 4th Sundays in each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver, Pastor.

The Church of God at Niagara Falls, N. Y., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God at Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the Kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon, Assisted occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prasser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meeting at 3 P. M. Valentine Pike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okla., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles east of town of Linden, every Third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God at Whatcom, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Alexanderson's School House, near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Connelly, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 p. m. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and moving brethren are cordially invited to drop off and meet with us. A. W. Gower Sec'y and Treas. 4 E. Pavilion, Leader.

The Church at Milbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder. Ransom Lewis, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to meet with all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet on Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Faithfully yours, Grant Mechanic.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica on the 2nd and 4th Sundays in each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver, Pastor.

The Church of God at [illegible] Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God, near

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. H. THOMPSON
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.25. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

But One.

To night has a thousand eyes,
And the day but one;
Yet the light of the bright world dies
With the dying sun.

The mind has a thousand eyes,
And the heart but one;
Yet the light of the whole life dies
When love is done.

—Bonnhilion.

Communicated.

Papers Read at Indiana Conference.

HOW A CHURCH SHOULD BE CHURCHED: IN ORDER TO WORK HARMONIOUSLY.

This subject may be made short or long, and I realize that in its treatment your Committee has assigned me a task of no mean responsibility. It occurs to me they could have found more able hands in which to place it. In the handling of this subject it could be stated in a general way that a Church to work harmoniously should be so bound together with the cords of love, and be so imbued with the sweet spirit of charity, that nothing else could be added to make it a Unit.

Let us pause a moment and see if we can make this work. We find the definition of Love to be "A feeling of strong attachment induced by that which delights or commands admiration; pre-eminent kindness or devotion to another; affection; tenderness." Charity we find is "Love; universal benevolence; good will. Liberality in judging of man and his actions; a disposition which incline men to put the best construction on the words and actions of others."

It would seem if we could have a strong, yet kind, tender and affectionate regard for each other coupled with unbounded benevolence and good will, that we could have no more. Perfection would be reached.

On the other hand we might go into an elaborate search of the decrees of God with man and the things taught, and endeavor to get at the essentials, and list them as the things a Church must be united on. To do this would "take all summer" as General Grant said, and we have too little time for this task. Which horn of the dilemma shall I grasp? The first is too vague and indefinite, the second too great—requiring the smallest details. I must endeavor to choose a road between the two, and will do the best I can to show you what God teaches on the subject.

UPON WHAT THINGS SHOULD A CHURCH BE UNITED TO WORK HARMONIOUSLY?

Before giving answer to this question, it will be well to ask, What is a Church? We find the word has several shades of meaning, referring to the house occupied, to the congregation, to the general body of all beliefs. However, the definition with which we have to do is that relating to the Assembly, and we find this is "formally organized body of Christian believers, holding the same creed, observing the same rites, and acknowledging the same ecclesiastical authority; a denomination; a collective body of Christians."

From this we learn that a Church is a company of persons gathered together, who have organized a society with a basis of common belief, following the same rites or practices of government, and who acknowledge the same ecclesiastical authority. And further, that this organized company must be Christians.

Next we are led to ask, What is a Christian? and consulting Mr. Webster again we find a Christian to be "One who believes, or professes—or is assumed to believe, in Jesus Christ, and the truth as taught by him, especially one whose inward and outward life is conformed to the doctrines of Christ." We are often accused of cutting out what does not suit us, and as we may as well leave the "grace of the name" and as part of our definition does not suit, we will proceed to cut out the objectionable part. It does not suit us to call one a "Christian" who only or-

Jesus or is assumed to believe" in Jesus Christ. We prefer to call such an impostor, a counterfeit, and not a real "genuine Christian. After taking this theory with our definition we have a Christian one who "believes in Jesus Christ and the truth he taught, and who lives in accord with such profession."

We have found that a "Church that is a Church" is a (selected) company organized for the purpose of worshiping together, to believe the truth as taught by God, through his prophets, Jesus Christ and the apostles, and whose lives accord therewith.

Having learned so much we must come to the conclusion that it is possible and necessary for such a Church to have a common belief, a common basis or foundation principle upon which to stand. If we admit that there can be such a Church then we are bound to conclude that there are things taught in God's Word that are a "sure foundation" that each individual of the company or Church can and must assent to and do in order to be counted a part of that organization—the Church of the living God.

My subject is "Upon what things should a Church be united to work harmoniously?" Surely the "discussion" of this subject will be short inasmuch as it is so plain and direct that there is but "one side" to it. It is a common saying that "all questions have two sides." It is also a common saying that "every rule must have some exception to prove it by." In this case our subject is surely the exception to the general rule, as it has but one side. We are but to determine what God has said we must believe and do and we will have our question answered, and answered beyond all cavil. If we can possibly find out what God has taught through his inspired Word, then discussion is at an end.

However, before going into this search to find out what it is that is necessary to believe and do, we wish to call up the question of a "creed." Please do not start and be frightened at the word—it is harmless. My brother, will you tell me, please, what you believe regarding the proper method of baptism, according to what you read in your Bible? Certainly. "Complete immersion, plunging, dipping, burying in water is the only true baptism." Thank you, brother. Now I know just what your "creed" says concerning baptism, and if I go through the whole list of fundamental principles of the "Gospel," you will give me answers just as promptly, and I will then know and be able to write out your creed.

Very queer that you are not afraid to "stand up in meeting" and tell what you believe, that you can write for the press and say what you know God's Word to teach on a subject, and yet hold up your hands in horror when the word "Creed" is mentioned. Why, all it means is "I believe." But one says, "I do not believe in any human creed. The open Bible is good enough for me. I will accept no man's interpretation, but reserve the right to think for myself, and I am liberal enough to give every other man the same privilege."

This is certainly very generous and liberal in you, and means when boiled down to its real significance, that you allow every man to be his own interpreter, that he is as apt to be right as you are, that it makes no real difference what he believes so long as he believes he gets his belief from the Bible. The world is fast drifting to the belief that a man can believe as he pleases, so long as he is a fairly good man, he is all right, no matter what his peculiar ideas may be. Every thing is thus beautifully indefinite, nothing is stable, nothing sure, the foundation is sand, the structure will not stand the flood and the wind.

Brethren and Sisters, I have noticed this, the brother who is so very tenacious for being his own interpreter, is not "Creed-bound," can take some one of "another denomination" and just ride him with the fire of his sar-shall thou eat thy bread, and whereas thou mightest live on enjoying the blessings about thee, thou shalt die and not live. From dust I made thee, unto dust shalt thou return, for dust thou art.

Adam proved unworthy, and we learn he died—was by nature mortal. One thing a Church relying on God's Word must believe is that man is mortal by nature.

Was the fall of Adam to frustrate the purpose of God in creating the world good, and in having a people worthy of inhabiting such a place? No, surely not. So continuing our search we find that a promise was made that in the future there would come a time when all should be restored, so a Church must believe there will be a "restitution of all things which God has spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began," and as many people are given to spiritualizing quite largely, we deem it proper here to say that as the fall was literal the restitution will be literal; and as the punishment for rebellious Israel has been literal, we must believe that this "restitution" spoken of includes the restoration literally of God's ancient people to the land and position we find promised them. So we include in this "thing" for a Church to believe not only the restitution of earth and man, but the restoration of Israel also.

Proceeding further we find the features of a Kingdom that will be established, with all the attendant elements to completeness—King, territory, people; government and all described in detail. We learn that this kingdom is to be set up in the future, hence we will have our Church believe in the establishment of God's Kingdom on this earth sometime in the future, and all to be literal.

Again, in order for men who have died to have part in this Kingdom of God they must be raised to life, and on search we find the Word teaches that there will be a resurrection of dead men to life. So a Church must believe in the literal resurrection of the dead.

In order to accomplish this work God tells us that he has appointed his Son, his only begotten Son, Jesus Christ, to perform this labor—be the means through which all this work of restoration and resurrection shall be accomplished. So our Church must believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God, and that he is the only means through which we can be made partakers of the joys of the Kingdom of God, and be resurrected to life.

Again we learn that God's Son Jesus Christ was here in person, literally on this earth, and that when he had performed the work appointed for the time, he was taken literally to the right hand of the Father in heaven, where he is acting as our High Priest. That when he went away, he promised, and the celestial messengers from the throne of God also testified, that he would come again in like manner as his disciples saw him go. Hence our Church must believe in the personal coming again of Jesus Christ.

We learn that when he does so come he will come to establish the Kingdom, raise the dead who are to have part in the affairs of that time; that then will be associated with him the immortalized saints who will be joint-heirs with him in the conduct and rulership of God's Kingdom. So our Church must believe that the coming of Christ and setting up of the Kingdom are yet future.

To recapitulate—We find that our Church must believe, if it is a Christian Church in the strict sense,

1. That there is a God, Creator of heaven and earth.

2. That God has communicated his purpose and will by holy men inspired by him, and has given us the Bible.

3. Man is by nature mortal—dying.

4. That Adam sinned and died, lost life, and God will restore life and blessing to those worthy of it.

5. That literal Israel will be restored to God's favor, and be blessed as promised.

6. That God's Kingdom will in the future be established upon the earth.

7. That men will be literally raised from the death state to life.

8. That Jesus Christ is really God's Son, and that only through him can this work of establishing the Kingdom, blessing ancient Israel, and raising the dead be accomplished.

9. That the resurrected and immortalized saints will be associated with Jesus Christ in the establishment of the Kingdom and the government of earth.

10. That Jesus was here on earth, ascended to the Father, but will return again even as he went away, and at that time, and not till then he will raise the dead and bless mankind.

That in brief these are the "things" concerning the Kingdom of God and the name of Jesus Christ—the Gospel—which is the power of God unto salvation. For a Church to work harmoniously, then each member must believe the Gospel.

So much we learn concerning what members of a Church must believe, but there is something else. We go on in our investigation and find that as something was necessary on the part of Adam, so it is for each one who will be acceptable to God. It is not enough to simply learn what God has designed in his creation and believe what he has revealed as his will in the future unfolding of his plan. He calls upon all who wish to participate in the glory of his Kingdom to not only believe but to do. Hence we must search and see what he wants his Church to do. We find that he wants us, after learning of these things, and realizing our fallen condition, to be so sorry for our wrong-doings and our imperfections that we heartily repent and turn from them and manifest a disposition to act in accord with his wishes. That we wish to leave the old way of sin and live righteously, wish to be made free from sin, and searching further we find he has arranged a plan by which we can leave the old man and put on the new. Be adopted into the family of God, have our past sins remitted—blotted out—remembered no longer against us. We learn that this is through baptism, immersion, burying in water, dying in figure, and rising again to walk in the new and better way. We further learn that we are to continue this holy life onward throughout the term of our sojourn here, as we further learn that it is essential to our final salvation that we continue steadfast in our belief and faithful in our demeanor.

Then a Church must be united in this also

11. It is necessary to repent of our evil deeds and turn from them, to be baptized in water, and thus blot out past wrongs, and be adopted into God's family.

12. It is necessary to live a Godly life ever after, acting as Christ did, going about doing good,

In conclusion then, we answer our question "Upon what things should a Church be united to work harmoniously?"

1. Purpose of organization—mutual aid and dissemination of its belief.

2. Government of organization—that which is best adapted to local needs and the times.

3. Belief of organization—The Gospel of the Kingdom of God, and the things that concern the name of Jesus Christ.

4. Duty of organization—Holy life essential for final salvation.

Such being true, with each member alike in belief, each will have the same "faith," and the same "blessed hope" will animate each heart. Then with Object the same, Government the same, Belief—faith—hope—the same, Duty of each alike, all united in one, you have a Church that can and will work harmoniously. Such a Church must, cannot help being a power for good. Is it possible to have such? Without any question it is possible to have the opposite. Is it possible to reach the ideal Church in Object—Law—Belief—Work? God grant that we may strive to get closer to the Perfect One, and in so doing we shall get nearer to the perfect state, and vice versa, if we strive to attain unto the perfect state we will but be drawn nearer to him who is our Perfect Pattern.

A. R. UNDERWOOD.

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, JULY 27, 1898. NUMBER 30.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

Selected.

Railroads of the World

A pretty good test of the civilization of a country is to be found in its railroad mileage. Among the important countries of the world the one which stands lowest in the respect to railroad mileage is Persia. Persia has just thirty-four miles of railroad—the distance from Brooklyn to Fire Island, no more—and it is made up of the line from Teheran to Shaabdul-Azin (a good name for a brakeman's announcement); another line twenty miles long was begun, but abandoned later. Persia's distinction of being last on the railroad list seems likely to continue indefinitely. China and Japan have generally been regarded as similar countries, but while China is described by Lord Salisbury as a dying country, Japan is up to date. The area of Japan is approximately 150,000 square miles; the area of China is 1,300,000 square miles, or more than eight times greater. The population of Japan is 42,000,000, whereas the population of China is in excess of 400,000,000, or ten times greater, and yet the railroad mileage of China is only 124, while that of Japan was 2,237 by last accounts. The longest of the railroads in China is seventy-three miles, from Tientsin to Pekin. The Japanese railroads carried last year 70,000,000 passengers, about 10 per cent of the number carried by the railroads of the United States.

There are in this country 180,000 miles of railways, a mileage greater than that of the whole of Europe and the whole of South American combined. The extent of the American railroad system, the wonder of all other countries, is better understood, perhaps, with knowledge of the fact that in proportion to population the United States has more than five times as much as Germany, five times as much as Great Britain and Ireland, more than four times as much as France, more than six times as much as Austria-Hungary, and more than twelve times as much as Russia. The laggard among European nations in respect to railroads is, of course, Spain; the country having the largest railroad mileage in proportion to its area is Belgium. In respect to the rate of increase in railroad mileage Russia stands first, with a gain of 20 per cent in the last five years, Germany's being 7, and that of France 6, and of Great Britain 8. There are 9,500 miles of railroad in Africa and 14,000 in Australia.

If we love God, the reward promised us is nothing less than the sight of God himself, face to face; not transiently, not as a glorious flash of light, but an abiding vision, a glory and a gladness, a marvelous rapture of the will, forevermore. Think how such a reward transcends all the expectations, all the possibilities even, of our nature! How God must love us, and how too he must love our love, to have prepared for us such joys as these, which eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, nor man's heart hath conceived!—F. W. Faber.

A deposit of fossilized asbestos was recently discovered near Lompoc, Cal. The indications are that this deposit is nearly 100 feet thick and a quarter of a mile long. It lies near the surface and many tons have been uncovered. It is being shipped East at the rate of six carloads a week. It is said to be the most extensive in area and the best in quality yet discovered anywhere.

Madrid abounds in slums, which are even greater eyesores than those of Whitechapel. There are babyin the narrow old streets, bordered by the most uninviting hovels; and it is in the squalor of these abodes spring the contagions of the atrocious mobs which are the bane of the city.

The Restitution.

A. R. ENDERWOOD, Office of Publication,

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON,
W. H. CUSHMAN,
D. T. TAYLOR.

M. JORDAN, Special Correspondent.

PLYMOUTH, IND., JULY 13, 1898.

Important.

[illegible] discontinued.

All letters should be addressed to THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Remittances should be made by postoffice order, draft or registered letter. Money sent in other ways is at the risk of the sender. It is only by these means that we can be responsible for its safe delivery. If, for any reason, such remittances cannot be made, please write us, and we will almost certainly be able to arrange it. Take warning and endeavor

All communications should be addressed to the office of publication, Plymouth, Ind.

We cannot be responsible for the return of articles sent us unless accompanied by postage for that purpose.

In sending us names for the free copy of the paper, please send also your own name and address, and state whether you subscribe or not.

When writing to subscribers, please give your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much unnecessary work, and much time and postage will be saved.

A WAR ATLAS.

The exact locality of many places mentioned in the news of the War between the United States and Spain is not known to the general reader, and so recourse is had to geographies. We have decided to offer our readers a complete War Atlas of sixteen pages of maps, showing all the territory where a conflict can occur, besides some valuable statistics. The will be mailed to you for 25 cts. Send orders at once, and if the position of the plates must be changed, you can be notified of the change. Subscription will affect the terms of the world. Address,—THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

An earthquake in Chili on Feb. 20 destroyed many houses in the city of Concepcion.

WM. Brother Ensley please send his present address to Anna E. Dye 3709 N. Gale ave. Peoria Ill.

We wish to warn our correspondents not to [illegible] again both as to [illegible] names only [illegible] have their own names will drive [illegible] and your name should be [illegible] those in arrears. Be careful.

While watching so closely the war between Spain and America, we should take a glance occasionally at the old seat of trouble. The Sultan's knee is always in a bend, and just now the diplomats are endeavoring to stave off actual conflict.

The war moves on slowly. Santiago has surrendered with the whole eastern end of Cuba. Twenty-three thousand Spanish troops are prisoners of war, and are to be returned to Spain by the United States. This is something entirely new in war, as such a thing as the victors transporting a captured army to their homes is an unheard of action. General Shafter is looking after the affairs in and about Santiago, feeding the starving, and caring for the health of his army, as yellow fever has appeared among some troops. General Miles has started off with an expedition to Porto Rico and will land at two or three points on the island, and endeavor to get possession of points from which to act in the advance on San Juan. There is talk of peace, and many and various opinions as to how long Spain will continue war. It is likely she would not for peace terms at once, were it not that the government fears the people. Evidently Spain is doomed to anarchy revolution. The throne is tottering. In the meantime Admiral Dewey goes quietly on with matters in the Philippines making little fuss, but feeding a firm hand with all. No trouble with other nations seems to be feared now.

Law or Gospel—Which? No. 18.

In concluding our remarks respecting the "Mark of the Beast," we say here, in the language of Ed. Cartwright, that to entertain that absurd theory they have to assume

1. That the Beast of Rev. xiii. 1-10 is the Papacy.

2. That it [illegible] Sabbath.

[illegible]

1. That the 144,000 of Rev. vii. 1-8 are Seventh-Day Adventists.

5. That the Seal of God, Rev. vii. 2, is the Sabbath.

6. That the angels of Rev. xiv. 6-12 represent Adventists.

7. That the [illegible] Rev. xxii. 12 [illegible] Ten Commandments.

[illegible] That [illegible] formed [illegible] a strict Sabbath [illegible] law.

[illegible] these [illegible] Rev. iv.

[illegible] of these [illegible] expect [illegible] Word [illegible] the [illegible] Rev. xxii. 14 [illegible] orders the evil [illegible] One [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] and called the dead, but recalled with a capital D. Of [illegible] person [illegible] the word, as follows

"Satan was once an honored angel in heaven next [illegible] [According] to this Christ was an angel; and if this same Christ spoke the truth in Luke xx. 36 those who are on the same plan of existence as angels, cannot die; and we want to let this woman know that our Christ died on our behalf—the first for her, if Christ was of an angelic nature. Is it not a shame that her guardian angel does not teach her that there was no Christ till Jesus was Christed [anointed by] Holy Spirit at his baptism? Besides, if the soul [making Devil she describes] possessed Divine Nature of existence, how can Jesus complete the work laid out for him by destroying him that had the power of death?]

The Prophetess continues "His [Satan's] countenance, like those of the other angels, was mild, and expressive of happiness. His forehead was high and broad, showing great intelligence. His form was perfect, and bearing noble and majestic.

What in the name of common sense, was this vision to console us to believe? How was to give her children faith [illegible] was a [illegible] part of a Devil it [illegible] saved? The desired effect [illegible] only [illegible] to succeed in him was that [illegible] of souls. We are wondering why she did not give the date of the rebellion so that we might answer the [illegible] or no it was [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] of glory. Any [illegible] of reason can [illegible] [illegible] to know more, why didn't [illegible] where this [illegible] Devils [illegible] and where [illegible] but no [illegible] After [illegible] to supply [illegible] [illegible] record, why isn't she [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] How can we have [illegible] applications of Scripture [illegible] such divided [illegible] opinion?

We will now examine the Gold Assertion that Sabbath observance is THE SEAL OF GOD, Rev. vii. 1-3. Sabbatarians say that God's great message of reform which they declare is to oppose the work of the Beast and his Image and the enforcement of "the mark."

They act as if it would be quite beneath them to explain to us how they know this, or offer any Bible proof of what they say. They have a line of communication all their own, and none can question their assertions. For ages past this has been so. Men and women itching to be some body, and something not warranted by the Word of God, have claimed authority direct from heaven,—and [illegible] with the credulous and ignorant, shuts off investigation and dives into the Bible.

So we are told that "Sabbath Keeping is the seal of God" as set forth in Rev. vii. 1-3. But this naturally suggests the question whether or no God ever sealed his servants before the Millerite movement fifty odd years ago, or the Seventh-Day community first sprung out of it? We are persuaded that God has always sealed his servants; at any rate we read in John iii. 32, 33 that those who receive the testimony of Jesus Christ, have set to his seal that God is true." Again in chapter vi. 27 we read these heavenly words from the lips of Jesus:—"Labor not for the meat which perisheth, but for that meat which endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of Man shall give unto you: for him" [that is he who labors for the enduring meat,—yes,] for him hath God the Father sealed."

Our readers will perceive that this sealing of the Father antedates the sealing-so-called, of Sabbath keeping. And how refreshing to read in 2 Cor. i. 20-22 that all the promises of God in him [Christ] are yea, and in him Amen unto the glory of God by us. [illegible] with [illegible] sealed us and given the earnest [pledge] of the Spirit in our hearts."

Again we read in Eph. i. 11, 12, 13 the words of the Spirit to the Saints: "In whom [Christ] also we have obtained an inheritance, being predestinated according to the purpose of him who worketh all things after the counsel of his own will, that we should be to the praise of his glory who first trusted in Christ. In whom ye also trusted after that ye heard the Word of truth, the gospel of your salvation: in whom also after that ye believed, ye were sealed with that holy Spirit of promise, which is the earnest [pledge] of our inheritance until the redemption of the purchased possession, unto the [praise of his glory]."

Again, in Eph iv. 30 we find this solemn exhortation, "Grieve not the Spirit, whereby ye are sealed unto the day of redemption."

All must admit this to be most unequivocal testimony. No one can get [illegible] ground it. And we desire something of the sense of the word seal as used in the Scriptures in 1 Cor. ix. 2, where the Apostle tells the Corinthians they were the seal of his Apostleship in the Lord. This in plain English means that they were the evidence that he was called of the Lord to do the work he did in Corinth,—he took the fruit of his labor there as a confirmation of his apostolic office, just as a writing is confirmed by a seal and therefore borrowed its figure to make himself understood.

In 2 Tim. ii. 18, 19 we read of those who had erred concerning the truth, saying that the resurrection is past already, and overthrew the faith of some, and continues: "Nevertheless the foundation of God standeth sure, having this seal, (or assurance) the Lord knoweth them that are his, and let every one who names the name [of] the Lord depart from iniquity."

We are certainly warranted in saying that "The testimony of Jesus Christ," John iii. 32, 33, and "the meat that endureth," Jno. vi. 27, and the "Holy Spirit of promise" by which the Ephesians were sealed, Eph. i. 13, all point to Our Paul's Gospel of Christ, and says it is the Power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth. So that is THE power employed for saving men and so it begins, for work and so on to the end, these wrapped about with immortality-made partakers of Divine nature of existence, and God is all in all to them and it remembered that it is in the act of obedience to the faith of the gospel of Christ [Baptism] Or the name of Jesus is [illegible] and the [illegible] is made, and from that moment they are his, and it becomes easy, in the light of all this, to be assured that he knows them [illegible] are's.

This should prepare the reader for the remark that the angel of Rev. vii. having the seal of the living God, and who restrained the four angels who were about to hurt the earth till the servants of God were sealed,—yes, we think what has been shown should prepare our readers for the remark that it was the gospel of Christ that he was about to seal them with. And also that it was a multitudinous angel that was about to do the sealing. The angel says, hurt not the earth till WE have sealed the servants of God in their foreheads.

Be it remembered that this is a book of symbols, and as we have shown the seal to be Divine Teaching, the truth would be impressed upon the minds, the intellect. The seat of which is the forehead, so that to be sealed is first to be taught of God, and this is followed by faith in God and love to him. And in John vi. 27 we learn that the Father sealed the Son of Man: and the words of that Son of Man show it was by the same process as that by which his brethren are sealed.—"I have told you the truth which I have heard of the Deity," "I speak to the world those things which I have heard of him." And in addition to this, he said, "The words I speak unto you are spirit, and life."

Write it down: Paul kept back nothing that was profitable. He kept back Seventh-Day-Keeping,—he never sealed the servants of God with that it was not profitable. He sealed them with the gospel of Christ in their intellects and affections, and made new creatures of them in Christ Jesus. Paul used all gospel no law, and this is the truth recorded of all the rest of them who are mentioned.

We suppose it will be granted that the things signified by John embrace and symbolically exhibit the fortunes so to speak, of the corporate body of Christ, the [illegible] of Jesus from that Date," the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] as from [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] sealed [illegible] work. If that be conceded, it is in place to enquire how far along the road the 7th chapter conducts us. In other words, when did the sealing of God's servants, there mentioned, take place? It suits Seventh-Day-Adventists to locate close down to the end of Gentile times,—that is, the end of this year of dispensation. This idea is not found in the Divine Record, but it has been seized and pressed into service, and worked for all it is worth and vastly more.

Let us see whether it the closing scenes of this world or age are depicted in it. In chapter 5 we are told that the Lion of the tribe of Judah, the root of David was worthy to take the book and open the seals of it, for he was slain and by it redeemed those who sang to his praise.

The 6th chapter describes the breaking of the seals by the Lamb, one after another and what was seen and heard. The opening of the first seal symbolically set forth the first of the things [or events] shortly to come to pass. John saw a white horse and he that sat on him had a bow, and a crown was given him, and he went forth conquering and to conquer.

Whatever event this was descriptive of, it happened at the nearest point of time to the revelation of it to John by the angel, and was history in advance but a short time—was soon accomplished.

It is common to employ animals to represent political powers. As a matter of fact the horse was one of the symbols of the Romans as shown by Mr. Elliott, who cites coin and other evidences to show it.

The white horse indicates a work of righteousness and power to which the Roman world was subjected by the party represented by the rider of the horse. We understand and believe that this symbolizes the warfare entered in by Paul and the other apostles against paganism when he said "The weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of strongholds, 2 Cor. x. 4; and we wrestle not against flesh and blood but against the principalities and powers [the ruling authorities] against spiritual wickedness in high places," Eph. vi 2. This was the nature of the war carried on by the Spirit of God through the Body of Christ. It was truth against error, and of righteousness against wickedness, with the result that Pagan Rome was stricken to its foundations, and their victories marvellous. Their sound went out into all the earth, and their words to the end of the world," Rom. x. 18. It was proclaimed to every creature under heaven, Col. i. 6, 23. Paganism was driven from the throne, and the world into a nominal subjection to Christ

While this vast enterprise was being prosecuted peace and liberty prevailed to a great extent during the first seal period, and lasted about eighty years, and under the reigns of Nerva, Trajon, Hadrian and the Antonines. When it was time to break open the

SECOND SEAL,

and the whole scene changed, as may be surmised by the appearance this time by a red horse, and power being given to its rider to take peace from the earth. Bloodshed was the characteristic of this seal. Commodus came to the throne a mere youth, but he was a dissolute tyrant who shamed public decency and squandered the resources of the state in debauchery and prodigacy; at length fell a victim to the flood of violence he had let loose, and the senate appointed Pertinax, who was assassinated two months later by the soldiery because he cut down their wages. The imperial purple being sold to the highest bidder by the army, it was followed by an interstine war and confusion that paved the way for opening the

THIRD SEAL.

See Rev. vi. 5 and John saw a black horse and a pair of balances in the hand of its rider, and heard a voice saying, "A measure of wheat for a penny and three measures of barley for a penny." History shows that ruinously high prices of grain obtained because of heavy taxation under the reckless extravagance of the Emperors Caracalla and Elagabalus, who for ten years, first one and then the other wasted the treasures of the people to such an extent that it was common for parents to expose their children to destruction rather than provide for them.

When Alexander Severus came to the throne taxes were reduced to one-thirtieth part of what they were under Caracalla and Elagabalus, but the army opposed the reforms of the [illegible] and by them hoisted, put [illegible] the way for the dreadful experiences of the and the beloved apostle saw a pale horse, and the name of its rider was death and Hades (the grave) followed with him, and power over the fourth part of the earth to kill [illegible] Lamb [illegible] with the [illegible] there. It is said [illegible] in not nearly seventy years and [illegible] five there were three [illegible] or more claiming to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] pestilence [illegible] in battle they were [illegible] This awful period began with [illegible] Marcus Aurelius who was [illegible] as the Magnanimous, [illegible] thousand of the most respectable people of Rome to death, and this conduct finally [illegible] [illegible] and famine followed, and these pestilence to spring up to [illegible] for some time five thousand died daily in Rome. The imagery of the fourth seal seems exactly accepted to describe this fearful time of public calamity as pale horse, ridden by death and followed by the grave.

FOURTH SEAL

The scene changes again with the opening of the FIFTH SEAL.

John saw under the altar the souls of them that were slain for the Word of God, and for the testimony which they held. This symbolism shows plainly that the Apostolic warriors met and with sad reverses,—and were no longer carrying things by storm in the Roman world. The history of the facts is that "the victim on becoming emperor removed many of the executive of the fourth seal, but he proved to be a great persecutor of Christians. He believed the calamities of the fourth seal period were due to them. There existed in the government, Gideons a zealous devotee of the gods to prevent Rome, stirred up Diocletian to destroy utterly the Christian name. An edict punishing with death all who had ordered assemblies [illegible] [illegible] [the breaking of bread, supposed to also celebrate that all the Scriptures should be burnt. Twice within three days the Imperial Palace was found to be on fire, and this was charged on the Christians. Every mode of torture was put in requisition and more bloody executions took place. Whole multitudes of professors saved their lives by renouncing Christianity and giving up the Scriptures. Pagan[illegible] time is represented very aptly by the symbolism of the fifth seal. With the opening of

THE SIXTH SEAL

we have a vision of a mighty revolution taking place, as it were in the overture of a retribution for the awful persecution under the fifth seal. An awful political earthquake takes place. The Roman Sun [Throne, becomes black, and its Moon [Pagan clergy] becomes blood, and its stars [lesser magnates] fall, and the heaven of Pagan Rome is rolled up as a scroll and departs. The son of one of Diocletian's colleagues was the instrument of this mighty revolution, whose name was Constantine, who was [illegible] in favor of the Christians, and proclaimed himself their protector. On the death of his father Constantius, the army of the West proclaimed him his successor. This deister of Christianity soon resulted in a war with the other Emperors, but he rapidly vanquished them all and became the sole Emperor, and the constitution of the world was completely changed and all who had participated in the persecution of Christians recognized the awful change that had overtaken them, as retribution inflicted by the God of the Christians. This change was in progress for years. Christians, from being proscribed and hated and hunted down and destroyed, became favorites with the authorities and revenues were lavished upon them, and it was not long under these circumstances before a departure from the simplicity of the gospel was observed. Paganism was mixed with gospel,—and it was not long [illegible] the Christians [still so-called], proved themselves unworthy of the name, by suppressing Paganism, and propagating and establishing Christianity by the methods formerly used by Pagans;—persecution to the death, conscientious and humaneness and becoming thus the Apostasy carried everything before it with a high hand. This hasty [illegible] the six seals was taken to show why four angels were held severally to cause the four winds to [illegible] the Roman earth. It was to [illegible] retributive justice for apostasies [illegible] the faith [illegible] delivered to the [illegible] [illegible] committing spiritual fornication with the Kings of the earth.

But it must not be forgotten that from this time forward the Christian [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the fourth [illegible] Pagan [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Poetry.

A Voice from over the Wave.

[illegible]

Society.

Uncle Sam's Relation to the Powers of Europe.

To the people of the United States as well as the friends of our united country, the recent [illegible] upon the part of the European powers [illegible] Secretary Hay [illegible] without question [illegible] text to every [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Iowa Conference.

The Annual Conference of the Church of God in Iowa, will convene at Marshalltown, Iowa, Thursday August 4th, 1898, and continue over August 15, 1898. Will occupy the grounds we occupied three years ago, and recommend the grounds occupied for the last two years on North 3rd Street, opposite the Green house. Marshalltown is situated at a junction of the Chicago and North-western, Great Western and Iowa Central Railways, and on account of the excellent service of these great trunk lines, is easily accessible to any part of the State. Take street car to the cemetery and it will take you right by the tent for only 5 cents. Believing it is with a glad heart we pen the notice of this meeting, for as we look over the events of the past year, we feel to lift up our heads and rejoice, for we know our redemption draweth nigh and the coming of the Master is near at hand. Do not your hearts feel glad to contemplate the changes? And can not feel like making a small sacrifice to come to this meeting, and shed our hearts and strengthen our faith. God willing, we expect to have Bro. the C. C. Ramsey, and Brother Butler, and others with us. Now, brethren, make an extra effort to attend this year, we are sorely in need of your council to help the work in the State, will you not come and help us? There are many important matters to be decided and it all depends upon you, we pray that each one will realize it's their duty to attend this Conference. Remember, "Where there is no sacrifice there is no reward." May God give a stronger desire than ever before to attend the Conference, and let us say to you, "Cherish the thought, keep it always in your mind." Commence at once to prepare, and come and do your duty. Only a few more trials, only a few more tears, and then the welcome plaudit of "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

O. J. Allard, Sec'y.

To the Members of the Church of God In Iowa.

Dear Ones in Christ:

The time is near for our 22nd annual conference. We cannot have the best meeting this year we have ever had, and we want to see you there.

This is a real, personal letter to you. The many bright faces and happy hearts that will be there, will be less so if you are not among the number. Make every sacrifice to come. Besides the meeting of old friends there will be brother and sisters you have never seen whom you will want to meet, and whom it will be a pleasure to remember.

There will be earnest and able discourses both doctrinal and practical, essays, discussions, Bible readings, Sunday-school and a thorough consideration of the great question which relate to the times in which we live and the coming of Jesus and the Kingdom of God.

You cannot afford to miss the spiritual strength and upbuilding these meetings will give and the encouragement they will bring. Do come.

These days are full of events and making history rapidly. Let us meet together and talk them over and pray with and for one another.

Let the children come, and the young people too. There is no better time for them to come under the influence of the gospel or to get acquainted with each other. We expect the old veterans without fail.

The meeting will be held Aug. 4 to 14 on North Third street, Marshalltown, Iowa. The street car will carry you from the depot to the camp.

Tents will be provided, but you should bring a little bedding in the shape of quilts and pillows. Don't neglect this.

Meals will be served at 10 cents or 25 cents per day. Some prefer to furnish their own meals.

Come if you can only stay one day, but it will be pleasant and profitable to stay all through the meeting. This meeting of our people comes only once a year, and by planning about you can be there and enjoy these blessed seasons with us in the leafy grove.

A. J. Exchaner, Pres.,
O. J. Allard, Sec'y,
J. W. Applegarth, Treas.

EXAMINE

The label on your paper, and if it bears a date previous to this time please RENEW NOW. Do not wait for other notice to be sent, but PLEASE RENEW TODAY.

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor friends as present for 1898. The cost is only three cents a week.

Announcement.

Editor Restitution:

The Church of God at Ashvale, Kan., (Post Office address, Hunter, Mitchell Co., Kan.,) will hold a grove meeting (D. V.) beginning on the 29th day of July, 1898, and continuing over Sunday, and as long as may be deemed best thereafter, at or near the Ashgrove schoolhouse in Lincoln Co., Kansas. The place of meeting is on Bacon's Creek, a tributary of the Spillman, about 16 miles northwest from Lincoln Center, Kansas.

Bro. J. T. Wright of Bayne Co., Saline Co., Kan., is very zealous and worthy exponent of the truth, under whose efforts the church at this place was organized, it seems me that he expects Bro. W. J. Green and other good preaching brethren will be present to assist in proclaim the Word.

This is believed to be an excellent point for the commencement of a good and profitable work. We are in the country, a long way from the R. R., but will be glad to meet as many of the brethren of like precious faith as possible at this meeting. A cordial greeting will be given to all who may come.

Yours in the faith and hope of the gospel.

J. K. Thompson, Elder.

Editor Restitution:

I wish to state through The Restitution that Brother George Kidwell is going to hold a meeting at the Hix Schoolhouse, six miles from Chillicothe, Mo., begin the August 6th and continuing over one week. We hope that much good seed will be sown among the people.

Effie C. Howard.

Reduced Rates to Various Points via Pennsylvania Lines.

Excursion tickets will be sold via Pennsylvania Lines as indicated in the following paragraphs. Although concessions in fare are authorized for meetings of certain Orders, tickets may be obtained by any person who is a member of the Order or interested in the event. The reduced rates will be open to everybody.

To Saratoga, N. Y., August 1st and 2nd, account Young People's Christian Union, C. P. Church. Return limit August 9th, with privilege to extend until August 31st.

To Richmond, Ind., August 19th and 20th, good returning until August 29th, account Society of Friends Conference.

To Cincinnati, Ohio, September 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the G. A. R. National Encampment. Good returning until September 13th, with privilege of extension until October 2d.

To Pittsburgh, Pa., October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th 12th and 13th, good returning until October 17th, account Knights Templar Triennial Conclave. Return limit may be extended until October 31st.

During the excursion season special rates will also be in effect via Pennsylvania Lines for special and local events. For particular information please apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines or address P. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.

On Sundays parties of five or more can go anywhere and return within one hundred miles on the Nickel Plate Road for $1.00 for the round trip. Ask agents.—july 31

Ask Agents about Sunday Outings on the Nickel Plate Road. Parties of five or more can go anywhere on the Nickel Plate Road not to exceed one hundred miles at a rate of one cent per mile.—july 31

Get Parlor cars from agents regarding $1.00 excursion tickets offered for sale by the Nickel Plate Road on Sundays, to parties of five or more.—july31

Change of Schedule on the Pennsylvania Lines.

A change in the schedule of passenger trains on the Pennsylvania Lines went into effect Sunday June 26th, 1898. Under the new schedule the time of trains at Plymouth is as follows:

Depart for the West at 5.18 a. m., 6.11 a. m. 9.26 a. m., 2.10 p. m., 6.10 p. m., and 6.15 p. m.

Depart for the East at 2.45 a. m. 4.59 a. m., 10.38 a. m., 5.47 p. m., 7.50 p. m. and 8.52 p. m.

J. E. Hanes, Agent.

Excursions to Chicago.

Commencing July 17th and continuing every Sunday until further notice the Pennsylvania Lines will sell One Dollar round trip excursion tickets from Plymouth to Chicago. Special train will leave at 7:15 a. m. central time; returning leave Chicago 8 p. m. and 11:30 p. m. Excursionists have all day to look about the great city.

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing. Said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 25th of April, 1898, providing notice is given through The Restitution that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all remittances to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 310, Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. C. J. Sigler.	$10.00
J. L. Winer.	5.00
P. L. Austin.	10.00
Edgar Hatch.	1.00
Agnes Dilworth.	2.00
Mrs. Mary E. Thompson.	15.00
One who believes that God from little offerings can work out great results.	5.00
A Friend of Truth	1.00
Wm. S. A. Wickizer.	5.00
Mrs. A. M. Sipple.	10.00
Geo. Lucy J. Flynn.	2.00

Our Helping Fund.

We who use names as our subscribers, knowing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending The Restitution to those who are poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our name for the purpose of aiding the publication of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is represented by some one known to be trustworthy.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

A. R. Stevens, Shawnee Mound, Mo.
S. R. Cofferdaniel, Bonham, Texas.
P. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Ivesdale, Ill.
L. M. Cheshrough, Gainesville, Ala.
Newton Gould, 1810 Saratoga st., Omaha, Neb.
Dr. A. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 1551 Broadway, Alameda, Cal.
W. L. Skeels, Schelle, Ore.
E. Hoyt, Box 384, Grand Rapids, Mich.
N. Rexroat, Vesse, Plymouth, Ind.
C. A. Snyder, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Hoon, Dudley, Worcestershire Co., England.
J. S. Hatch, Sidell, Ill.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Caldwell, Chesterville, Ark.
J. L. Cody, Chesaw, Neb.
A. F. Price, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eschaner, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Gordon, 522 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. C. Kean, 4507, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
J. F. Odom, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hall, Destin, Ill.
C. F. Gardner, Sidell, Ill.
A. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Osawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Atlica, Kan.
D. M. Hoffer, Wasontine, Iowa.
J. G. Haupt, Laurel, Neb.
J. R. Fisk, Osawkie, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, Okla.
W. D. T. Atwood, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
H. T. Baker, Box 1008 Decorah, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Cottonwood, Cal.
J. R. Oglesbie, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Marmont, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave., Pasadena, Cal.
W. E. Stiffe, Pomona, Cal.
C. W. Knapp, Box 44, Vicks, Idaho.
Elder H. M. Williams, Portland, Kan.
E. Wilson, 1305 G St., Sacramento, Cal.
O. T. Halstead, Andover, S. D.
John Evans, 2042 West Corning Ave., Pomona, Kansas.
R. S. Bridgens, Otter, Mich.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 386 Grand Rapids, Mich.

Lake View Hotel—Lake Maxinkuckee (Culver), Ind.

Will reopen on June 20th, 1898, for the Summer season, with improved service and thoroughly modern appointments. Family accommodations a specialty. Rates reasonable. Address J. B. Schofield, Manager, Culver, Ind.—July 31.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt, strong, fifth edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Twelve Words;" one of "Early Lessons," and one of "Honoring the Son,—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

Wiley Jones, Manchester, Va.

Send to this office and get a "War Atlas" only 25 cts post-paid

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. Sunday School 12:30 p. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. D. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Jolliff, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, room of Addison St. and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan st. south of Presbyterian church. Preaching by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Tuesday evening.

The Church of God at Ohio, meet every 1st Lord's day in each month for the usual social worship and the breaking of bread. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to meet with us, and they will be welcomed by all the members. A. Eakin's post office address, Ohio.

The Church of God at Valparaiso, Ind., will have services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Mrs. Hyde Archer's residence on Franklin street, one square south of the Court House. Sunday School at 2:30 p. m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30. All are welcome. W. W. Trego, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Union Church, for study of God's Word. Also a Social every Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. Preaching every two weeks. We have no regular pastor at present. Address Wilson, Elder Sarah Sellick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Services, Second every month at R. Carey's house at 11:00 a. m. Edward Evans at 2:00. All welcome.

The Church of God, Decatur, West Side, Ind., This church conducts weekly prayer and social church service every Sunday morning at 10:00 o'clock. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited to meet with us. Preaching every other Sunday, and Sunday evening. Visiting brethren cordially welcomed. Public Stations and in A. Sell's Office. Carriage to and from depot. Business checked to all parts. Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. Any letter will be heartily welcomed. At present we meet in the school House on top of the hill on the west side of town, and by bring them to the

The Church of God at Beach Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday-school. Commence at 11:00 when prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors addressed Brother George Knife, he over, or R. L. Hall, West Creek, Ohio.

The Church of God at Lima, Ind., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. for social and Sunday-school, come to love and good works. L. Cook, Pastor.

The Church of God at Bethel, N. Y., meet on the Sabbath at 10:30 a. m. at Bowne Hall, on William St., Ave. near Broadway.

The Church of God at Park Hill, Church in Cleveland, Ohio, holds meetings and services as follows: Preaching by A. J. Ogborn, Tract Reader Brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The church at Fisher and Burton, Ohio, meet for worship on each Lord's day. Sunday-school at 10:00 a. m. Prayer meeting every Wednesday evening at 7:30. Brethren from a distance are cordially invited to meet with us. The church at Burton Center is presided over by Brother L. D. Carter.

The church at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday at 11 o'clock, only be at one of the services on each 5th and Would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and other brethren of the faith meet with us. The pastor is W. W. Trego.

The Church of God at Niagara Falls, N. Y., meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. and every Thursday evening at 7:30 p. m. at the Church on the corner of Cleveland Ave. and 81st. All are welcome.

The Church of God at Nappanee, Ind., meet on the fourth Sunday either at Fields or Locke Stores. The gospel of the Kingdom is preached here. Other places for Sabbath Grant, Goshen, Syracuse, Argos, Bremen, Plymouth, Walkerton, Rochester, Culver, Logansport, Peru, Kokomo, Marion, Fairmount, Gas City, Muncie, Anderson, Elwood, Alexandria, Pendleton, Fortville, Indianapolis, Greenfield, Knightstown, Shelbyville, Edinburgh, Franklin, Greenwood, Whiteland, Edwardsport, Vincennes, Terre Haute, Brazil, Clay City, Sullivan, Bloomington, Mitchell, Salem, Orleans, Paoli, Mt. Vernon, Evansville, Princeton, Oakland City, Petersburg, Washington, Loogootee, Shoals, Mt. Pleasant, Crawfordsville, Lafayette, Monticello, Rensselaer, Wheatfield, Hebron, Valparaiso, Hobart, Crown Point, Lowell, Hammond, Whiting, Michigan City, La Porte, Kingsbury, Wanatah, Hanna, Wellsboro, Kendallville, Albion, Ligonier, Wolcottville, Lagrange, Howe, Angola, Fremont, Orland, Hamilton, Pleasant Lake, Metz, Steuben, Fremont, Angola, Hudson, Coldwater, Quincy, Union, Bronson, Coldwater, Sherwood, Bronson, Hillsdale, Jonesville, Litchfield, Reading, Hillsdale, Jonesville, Litchfield, Reading, Hillsdale, Jonesville, Litchfield, Reading

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

W. D. [illegible]

J. H. [illegible]

A. R. [illegible]

[illegible]

D. T. [illegible]

One Year, [illegible]

The [illegible]

Poetry.

[illegible]

Communicated.

The Source of Power.

What is sought for more intently than the source from whence power may be derived, as a cause to produce some desired effect?

Men of learning and inventive genius investigate every avenue science affords, for its search. The chemist, the electrician, mechanic, applies known forces found in chemicals, electricity and steam, as power to produce marvelous results.

The conversion of the world, however, has failed to discover a power that can effectively stay onward march of death, or remove its victims. That power is resident only with the Supreme Ruler of the Universe, and must be sought for from that source alone. That power is able to extract the sting, and command the grave to yield its virgin to cause release from death, to be made effective in every individual, providing the power is properly applied, otherwise it can have no more effect than a means of the force found in chemicals, steam and electricity, would have, to produce some desired result.

VIM, POWER OR GOD

God sent his Son, and other trusted messengers to give instruction to the people as to how they may apply this power in each individual case. As to

WHAT THE POWER IS:

God has made known in the Guide Book. See Rom. i. 16: "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for IT IS THE POWER OF GOD unto salvation, to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek." "The gospel of Christ," is the "power," and it is made effective in the believer, and only believers: Any other message will not answer, for the reason that it lacks God's power.

God sent his Son to inform the people with regard to this power, and the Son sent other trusted messengers to spread the glad tidings. He says: "Go ye into all the world, and preach THE gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized, SHALL BE SAVED; but he that believeth not, shall be damned." Mark xvi. 16.

1. The message must first be believed.

2. After belief, (not before) the believer must be baptized.

3. By this dual process the power is applied to the person so acting in faith, and to no others.

After God's chosen messengers were fully instructed, and equipped for the work, his Son ascended to heaven. And then they went out to tell their fellows about God's power. Many believed their report and were baptized, and in turn carried the same message to others.

At this time, there arose one who was exceedingly mad against those believers and being clothed with civil power, he persecuted them in a most dreadful manner, slaying a thousand

[illegible]

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy [illegible]

VOLUME XLVII Read PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, AUGUST 4, 1898. [illegible]

[illegible] Christ, to which it pertains, before God [illegible] from heaven to us that spoke gospel [illegible] "Our [illegible] we should not receive the grace of God in vain." Our liberality must never exceed the Scripture warrant for liberality. If it does, there is no merit in it, for it is [illegible] rebellion. In my ministry of the gospel of the Kingdom, and the things which concern the name of Jesus the Christ, I have found more trouble from those professing the faith, than any other source. I have seen some who would even admit to membership and fellowship those who refuse to "obey the gospel." To those accept such, the tendency would be to deception, by leading them to think they are saved, when they are not, and under such circumstances, may never see the necessity of obedience.

I maintain that it is not only liberal, but kind, to tell such, in plain language, their true position, and also show them the folly of trusting an obedience rendered, while believing "another gospel," the promises of which, are all fiction. It always has been a cross to the flesh, to preach and defend the true faith of the gospel.

Paul says to his judge: "I confess unto thee that after the way which they call heresy, so worship I the God of my fathers, believing all things that are written in the law and in the prophets." As a result of his continuous and faithful adherence to "the way which they call heresy," the whole course of his ministry was a scene of persecution, finally ending with placing his neck upon the executioner's block, dying with this comforting reflection: "I HAVE KEPT THE FAITH."

While the day has passed in which the civil power can be invoked to imprison and physically torment those who proclaim the gospel, other means are used to test the mettle and faith of those who proclaim the ancient gospel. It also sometimes comes from some who profess the faith, loosely held, on account of latter-day liberalism.

Paul's prophetic vision saw what would come in the last days, when he said: "Now the Spirit speaketh expressly that in the latter times some shall depart from THE FAITH, giving heed to seducing spirits and doctrines of devils."

He also shows the true way in which all may be to God. It is found in Col. i. 23 as follows: "If ye continue in THE FAITH, grounded and settled, and be not moved away from THE hope of THE gospel, which ye have heard."

PRESENTED FAULTLESS

To be "grounded and settled," signifies to be definitely fixed with regard to "the faith," "the hope," and "the gospel." On any this position, and the so-called liberalists, will have but little use for such. You will be sure to be called narrow-minded, they will soon get tired of hearing you preach the good news, and want you to keep still, and let some one else talk. A speech on this line, no matter how short, will be too long for such people. They will call it "the same old story," and crave something oratorical that will please the ear. As a class such are ever learning and never come to a definite knowledge of the truth.

The expression, "rooted and grounded," I apprehend is borrowed from a tree, who sends its roots deep into the earth, that it may take a firm grip, and be able to resist the stormy blast. So with regard to "the faith," and "the hope of the gospel" be "rooted and grounded" be a fixture for Christ on that ground. Take a firm hold, and show some contrast between your faith, and that of the know-nothing agnostic. "Be no more children, tossed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men, and cunning craftiness, whereby they lie in wait to deceive; but speaking THE TRUTH in love, may grow up unto him in all things, which is the head, even Christ." Eph. iv. 14, 15.

A companion passage to the one quoted from Col. i. 23, is found in Col. ii. 7 "Rooted and built up in him, and

[illegible] WILL APPEAR, as ye have been taught, abounding therein with thanksgiving." The next verse gives a much needed warning: "Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the

TRADITIONS OF MEN,

and after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ." We have any amount of philosophic tradition teachers abroad, alluring people from their steadfastness in the faith. Because of your ground, and the stand established in THE faith," and never dishonor it by compromise under any circumstances whatever.

An error of Kingdom immortal soul believes, is no more in the faith, than a saint of believer in that faith. Their faith being fiction, a baptism on such faith is no better. The power is in the gospel believed first, and then obeyed.

W. H. W[illegible].

Selected.

The Island of Porto Rico

The Island of Porto Rico is 3,668 square miles in extent. It is 95 miles long and 35 miles broad, and has a population, according to the latest figures, made in 1887 of 813,937, of which more than 300,000 are negroes. There were 137 miles of railway and about 150 miles of wagon road. All other traveling and transportation must be done by mules and riding horses. There are 470 miles of telegraph lines and telephone systems in the principal cities. In 1895 the total value of the imports was $16,155,056 and of exports $11,629,491. In 1887 the United States sent imports to the island to the value of $2,181,024 and received exports valued at $1,988,888. In 1895 the exports to Spain were $5,123,760 and there was received from Spain $7,328,880.

The principal city is San Juan, situated upon a small island connected with the mainland by a bridge. At the other end of it are the high cliffs which support El Morro Castle. The harbor entrance is one of great difficulty except under the most favorable conditions, but a broad and beautiful bay is concealed beyond it. The smaller island is two and a quarter miles long and averages a quarter of a mile in width. The city is a complete walled town, with parapets, moat, gates, and battlements. Although over 250 years old it is still in good condition.

Inside the walls the city is laid off in regular squares, six parallel streets running in the direction of the length of the island and seven at right angles. The houses are closely and compactly built of brick, mostly of two stories, stuccoed on the outside and painted in a variety of colors. The upper floors are occupied by the more respectable people, while the ground floors, almost without exception, are given up to negroes and the poorer class, who crowd upon one another in the most appalling manner. The population within the walls is estimated at 20,000, and most of it lives on the ground floor, where everything reeks with filth and conditions are most unsanitary. The entire population depends upon rain water caught upon the flat roofs of the buildings and conducted to the cistern, which occupies the greater part of the inner courtyard, while vaults occupy whatever remaining space there may be in the patios.

Epidemics are frequent, and the town is alive with vermin, fleas, cockroaches, mosquitos, and dogs. The streets are wider than in the older part of Havana, and will admit two carriages abreast. They are swept once a day by hand, and are kept clean. The soil under the city furnishes a good natural drainage. The trade wind blows strong and fresh, and through the harbor runs a stream of sea water at a speed of not less than three miles an hour. With these conditions, no contagious diseases, if properly taken care of, could exist.

There are several small suburbs without the walled city, and the total

[illegible] men. The [illegible]

Mayaguez, the chief city [illegible] in the west part, facing [illegible] Bay. There are [illegible] of chocolate, [illegible] Sugar, coffee, cocoa, pine [illegible] and cocoanuts is exported to [illegible] United States. Of [illegible] trade goes to the United [illegible] the centrifuged to [illegible] Muscovado. The exports [illegible] is cheese and part [illegible] the cocoa. [illegible] go annual export [illegible] 170,000 [illegible] of the [illegible] flour are imported into [illegible] every year from [illegible] The population [illegible] majority white. [illegible] dent, the temperature [illegible] 90 degrees F.

Aguadilla, in the north [illegible] of the island, has 5,000 inhabitants. In the town are three establishments for preparing cocoa for [illegible] The climate is hot, but healthy.

Arecibo, with 7,000 inhabitants, is situated on the north coast. The harbor is poor, being not [illegible] open roadstead. Goods are conveyed on the river to and from the town in flat-bottomed boats, with the aid of long poles. At the bar of the river everything is again transferred into lighters and thence to vessels.

Fajardo has a population of 5,772. The town is about one and one quarter miles from the bay. The only important industry of the district is the manufacture of muscovado sugar. Shooks, hickory hoops, [illegible] and provisions come from the United States in considerable quantities. Sugar and molasses are exported, and occasionally tortoise shell. The climate is temperate and healthy.

Naguabo is a town of [illegible] inhabitants. The capital of the [illegible] Humacao, is [illegible] and has 4,000 inhabitants. [illegible] comprising more than 15,000

Arroyo is a seaport of 1,200 inhabitants. The annual exports to the United States [illegible] 7,000 [illegible] 000 hogsheads of sugar, 2,000 [illegible] 000 casks of molasses, and 50,000 [illegible] casks and barrels of [illegible] guava.

Costly Prussian Canal.

The Elbe-Trave Canal, which is to follow the general line of the [illegible] old Stecknitz Canal, will [illegible] Lubeck with Lauenburg on the Elbe. The old canal was sixty miles long, with seventeen locks, the highest being forty feet above the level of the Elbe. Its average breadth was only forty feet, with a [illegible] foot depth of water. The new canal will be [illegible] and shorter by about twenty miles; it will have a bottom width of seventy feet and a top width of about 100 feet, with 6½ feet depth, or deeper if the river is deepened. The locks will be reduced to seven in number, and their maximum dimensions will be 250 feet long, 35 feet wide, 7 feet deep, admitting vessels of about 800 tons. The estimated cost of the new canal is 26,750,000 marks, of which the City of Lubeck will provide about 8,000,000 and the Prussian Government the remainder.

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Office Editor.

Editorial Committee
J. H. WILLEY,
B. B. THOMPSON,
W. M. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD,

M. J. BLAIN, Special Contributor.

Plymouth, Ind., August 3, 1898.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should use the following plainly and take particular notice directly.

All letters should be addressed to the Restitution, Plymouth, Marshall Co., Ind.

If it is necessary to write to any individual personally, address only as above, and write plainly the name of the person, the name of the post office, the county and the state. Many send letters to the place where we live, and then to the office of the paper, and then to the post office, and then to the state, and then to the county, and then to the post office, and then to the person

Poetry.

Coming By-and-by.

A day is coming, a meeting place for all [illegible]
song,
When truth and right with both might, shall overthrow the wrong,
When Christ the Lord will listen to every plaintive sigh,
[illegible] his Lord over sea and land, with power to satisfy.

The [illegible] mighty tyrants no more shall fill [illegible]
But [illegible] shall have their reign and [illegible] anywhere.
No more hot wars and sorrow [illegible]
hopeless cry.
But War Shall cease, and [illegible]
Shall reign supreme by and

The tidal wave is coming, the sea of wonders, with a shout and song, [illegible]
[illegible] to the sea.
The palaces of nations [illegible] shall reveal earth and sky.
The [illegible] of [illegible] shall be [illegible]
to see by.

We're waiting Lord, and longing, till those
[illegible]
To us [illegible] and say throne supreme and [illegible] to reign.
We [illegible] glorious coming, till morning
opening [illegible]
Our [illegible] shall come to take us home, to be [illegible] by and by.

Dear Savior haste thy coming on [illegible] throne to reign.
Thy [illegible], soon shall be done through out earth's vast domain.
Restore the tribes of Israel, bless every want supply,
And let thy [illegible] through every land, bring blessings [illegible]

Oh, for that glorious morning we watch and wait and pray,
Till o'er the [illegible] morning night shall drive the ghost away,
And then the heavenly glory shall flood the earth and sea,
We'll bless the Lord in all his Word and praise him by and by.

Selected.

Current Topics.

An English publication has an article that takes a new and novel view of the present war, which has the indication of having been written by one who has an intimate acquaintance with the naval affairs of that country. There may be more truth than sentiment in the peculiar opinions advanced by the writer of the article.

His conclusions, in brief, are that this is a war not so much between the United States and Spain as between Great Britain and France. He recalls the long and permanent unfriendliness between the two European countries and the frequency with which they have drifted very nearly into war even in recent times. He mentions the fact that the French are a Latin race, while the English are Anglo-Saxons, and also that the navy of Spain is built, armed and manned very much upon the same plans as that of France, while the United States follows the same general design as Great Britain. He further compares the fighting spirit of Spain with that of the French and the British army with that of this country. He concludes that if the Latin navy and army had proved themselves to be the equals of the American peace could not for many years be maintained between France and Great Britain.

The dislike existing between the two nations on opposite sides of the straits of Dover has become a second nature to both, and the complications growing out of disputed territorial claims upon the Niger, in Africa, which were settled a few weeks since, indicate the very delicate relations that subsist. Possibly it is true that the overwhelming defeat of a Latin nation, like Spain, by an Anglo-Saxon people, like the Americans, will have a strong restraining influence on France in her dealings with Great Britain, and that to such an end the victory over Cervera off Santiago may have nearly as good an effect as any of Nelson's successes.

Whatever truth there may be in the idea advanced, it cannot be denied that the people of England have rejoiced in American triumphs as sincerely as we have ourselves, while every power in Europe has been most profoundly impressed by the strength of our war vessels, the heroism and discipline of our seamen and the ability and daring of our naval officers. England may well be proud of us, and, without vanity, we may be proud of ourselves.

F. Marion Crawford, the novelist, who has lived much in Italy and owns property there, points to the crushing weight of taxes as one of the causes of existing discontent among the Italian people. Taking national, provincial and communal taxation together, he himself pays nine. The assessed income upon a few acres of land 12 per cent, upon the assessed rent of his house 25 per cent, and if he paid income tax in Italy the government would exact 13½ per cent more. As there is no limit of [illegible], real or personal, below which exemption is not applied, he finds it easy to understand [illegible] sermons on persecution which for years has engaged Italian agitators, for practically [illegible] the income, [illegible], while leaving upon the hands of the government an immense area of farm land confiscated for overdue taxes, which nobody could be induced to take under the present conditions even as a gift. Such a condition of things [illegible] simply an incipient form of social bankruptcy.

The Jewish Chronicle of London [illegible] the subject of Jewish colonization in Palestine some of the reasons why the sublime porte of Turkey does not give his assent to the movement. The Sultan has 120,000 Jews as subjects in Turkey and 150,000 in Asia, and instead of sharing the opposition to them that is shown in most of the other European countries he has always recognized them as among the most valued of his people. They hold important positions in his armies and in the civil service, as well as in his own household. He is also a contributor to the various Jewish charities. That Turkey has been frightened into interference with the free immigration of Jews into Palestine is generally admitted. The Chronicle says:—"The Ottoman empire has yielded its ground to external pressure, but its shrinkage has in more than one case been coincident with a contraction rather than an expansion of the area of liberty. True, Servia is magnanimous to its Jewish subjects. But Roumania has broken its claims only to rivet them on some of the least offensive of its own people. Its treatment of its Hebrew population is a stultification of those powers which championed its cause in the interests of freedom, and in striking contrast to the action of the Sultan. Then, again, Greece's alleged blow for Cretan liberty was accompanied by a wave of anti-Semitism, as the report of the Thessalian evacuation showed. The imminence, too, of Russian predominance in Bulgaria is a direct menace to the Jews in that principality."

Madison, Wis., July 25.—The lecture of Dr. E. Benjamin Andrews, Superintendant of schools of Chicago, on "European Politics" was the feature of the Lake Monona assembly today. He predicted that Europe would soon be plunged into a great continental war and that if the United States does not now take a hand in European affairs it will be dragged in when the crisis comes. He believes this country should retain the territory it acquires in the present war and advised an alliance with Great Britain.

"The greater part of the Turkish question deals with the occupation of Asia," said the speaker, "and that leads to the question of European war. Almost everything in the social and political outlook in Europe points to an impending great war. Military drill by day and night, building of great warships and fortifications, and continual playing for advantageous alliances must result eventually in a clash. The money power is the great force in the preservation of peace in Europe. The formidable billions are chiefly in the hands of Jews, a people who dislike war and love thrift.

"Cecil Rhodes is working northward with a great British empire in South Africa, and the Dutch republic there will soon be English territory. Then will come British expansion through Turkey in Asia toward India, and the significance of this is that Great Britain will soon be at the back door of Constantinople, and will say to Russia, 'You shall never have the Bosphorus.' The result of this stupendous chess playing will be that the Oriental question will be shifted to the Pacific coast of Asia.

"We must bear some part in the great struggle if one comes, and to have the friendship and co-operation of Great Britain, with whom we have most in common, might be of great advantage. The world has become so small through steam and electricity that we must take a hand in the world's politics."

Dr. Andrews said that he believed it no violation of the Monroe doctrine to take an aggressive stand when compelled to. In closing he said if any alliance, formal or informal, is to be made with Great Britain we must go in as an equal, not as the tail of the lion, but rather as a second lion.

The race of a modern life becomes a fight were to a vast extent ideal to the chance of success.

Communicated.

The Gospel Recovered. No. 12.

JOHN THOMAS M. D. 1848–1850.

In the previous article it was mentioned that Dr. Thomason his visit to Britain, had been opposed by the Reformation party, especially by James Wallis of Nottingham, editor of the British Millennial Harbinger. This is all the more extraordinary seeing that Wallis who had previously edited the Christian Messenger, and had permitted the insertion of contributions from the Doctor's pen on subjects embracing the Hope of the Kingdom of God. Regarding this he Doctor says, in his reply to the Reformation meeting at Nottingham. "While I was among them" as you say, I learned from the Word the things I now hold, and which have substantially appeared in the Christian Messenger, edited by Mr. J. Wallis, and continued to be published there with approval by him, and many others in this country." This is more fully referred to in "Life and Work," as the occasion, from an article on "The Hope of the Gospel," of leading the Doctor to form more decided convictions as to the vital importance of the things concerning the kingdom of God. In the same letter he adds—"I still teach what I have taught for years though, I admit, that I did not see, that some of the things taught belonged to the faith which justifies."

Even from the United States it was attempted to prejudice the British "Reformers" against the Doctor. The title of an article in James Henshalls "Intelligencer," Richmond, Va., was "Is Dr. Thomas one of us?" This was reproduced on cover of British Millennial Harbinger. The Doctor had said—"It is also an untruth to say that I am not in fellowship with the churches of the Reformation!" In quoting this against the Doctor, the reply is—"it suits his purpose to leave out what immediately follows, viz. 'with some it is true I have no more dealings than the Jews have with the Samaritans; but with others of them I am freely welcomed.'"

In a former article reference was made to the fact of the Doctor's attaining to "the obedience of faith" by his immersion in March, 1847. I have not been able to find much definite information as to his operations in America during the fourteen months which elapsed from that date to May, 1848, when he sailed for Europe. He visited and lectured at Baltimore, New York, Buffalo, and Rochester, N. Y. At New York several separated from the Reformation meeting, and met at the house of Stacy. This is said to have formed the first Christadelphian Ekklesia there, but of the date of this I have no information. With the exception of this there is no evidence of any meeting having been formed on the basis of his new position, until some time after his return from Europe in November, 1850. The fact is that he continued to retain his connection with the Reformation. He worshiped with the Reformation meeting in New York on the eve of his departure for Britain, and gave eight or nine public addresses at the request of Beadman and others there. In London, England, as well as in other places in Britain, he continued the same practice, when opportunity offered.

A short extract from Volume I (1851) of the "Herald of the Kingdom," will give, in his own words, some account of his proceedings after reaching home in November, 1850. At page 4, he says—"Having returned from Europe for this purpose (prosecuting the mission he had undertaken) he (the editor) begins this work by the issue of the "Herald of the Kingdom and Age to Come." As the things of the kingdom of God and of his anointed will be the great theme of this periodical, he has amplified the title of the former work. The Future Age and the Age to Come signify the same thing: he has, therefore, for the sake of euphony, adopted the latter phrase as a substitute for the former, and inserted the kingdom before it. This is the great fact of the Age to Come, and the promise made to the fathers, the Hope of Israel, and the faith of all believing Gentiles who are not high-minded, and too wise in their own conceit, to learn.....The Herald .....may be considered as of all those, be they many or few, whose hope the kingdom is."

In a "Farewell Address," published in the Gospel Banner, November, 1850, Dr. Thomas refers to his work in Britain. A few extracts are here given:—

"If it be inquired, [illegible] labor consisted in, since your arrival in Britain? I reply, that I have travelled through this island thrice: addressed the people 250 times, averaging an hour and a half each time; talked with them at: Soirees and in private about the kingdom, etc., early and late; written an octavo volume on the kingdom, of upwards of 400 pages, which would only receive about two-thirds of what was written: published hundreds, yea, thousands of ephemeral articles for gratuitous circulation.

The proximate results of my labor have been the convincing of many persons that what I had before been was God's truth; the baptism of several who have believed, both men and women; the regeneration of the views of a church of some sixty persons in Nottingham who will gradually obey the same God my neighbours do. They believe in and worship an immaterial God, "without body parts or person, and that is not the God of the Bible—not Abraham's God. Hence there could not, and would not be any real genuine consistency or affinity in such meetings or such worship. This it seems would be enough, but this is not all, as we would by such actions condemn ourselves, and only confirm our neighbors in their delusions. And our influence would be lost. This has been my experience on this line of action. Oil and water will not mix. One man a member of church a few years ago, was so encouraged by my presence at their meetings, that he offered to bet five dollars that I would be in their church in a years time. No. I think there is a better way to occupy than to surrender and go over to the world. Let us encourage those who can preach the truth, and make greater efforts to be there, or let us meet with two or three and read and study God's Word, and worship the living and true God, and wait for his Son from heaven.

T. E. ADAMS

Some Things that are Better than Gold.

There are things that we acknowledge to be worth their weight in gold: and other things we own are better than gold.

One that is far better than much fine gold is—"A charity broad enough to enfold all men as brothers."

We are told that "sorrow makes the whole world kin." There is another thing in which the world stands on a common level, and that is the feeling of superiority. The idea that we are just a little better than some one else.

We Americans with our numerous churches and missions, and boasted Christianity, speak with tip-tilted nose of foreigners and white folks, we of all people belonging to the latter class.

The Englishman is very sure there is not his equal upon earth.

The Hindoo is a worshiper of caste.

The Chinese undoubtedly looks with curiosity mingled with disgust at the, to him, peculiarities of other nations.

While our own colored brethren of the South look condescendingly down upon the "poor white trash."

Human nature will assert itself wherever found, and it is only the Divine as manifested in the Son of God that recognizes the equality of the race, the common Fatherhood of God, and brotherhood of man. He alone possessed the "charity broad enough to enfold all men as brothers." He alone, though far superior to the best of earth, could serve all that he might lift them to a higher level, and teach them that God had indeed made of "one blood all nations of earth;" that One is our Master, even Christ, and all we are brethren.

LILLIE HENRY WILLIS.

Farewell is a sad word, but if we could only contrive to say it to some of our bad habits we should be much happier.

Take a Little Outing

And enjoy one on Nature's greatest wonders, by availing yourself of the low rates authorized via the Nickel Plate Road for their Annual Excursion to Niagara Falls, on August 15. Reserve sleeping car space in advance. Toronto $1.00 extra.

Many a man's virtue has been the subject of public opinion rather than the child of the heart.

Take the Annual Excursion via the Nickel Plate Road, August 15th, to Niagara Falls. Sleeping Cars attached. The rate to Toronto and return is $1.00 in addition to rate to Niagara Falls, affording an excellent opportunity of enjoying a delightful trip across Lake Ontario.

A Bit of My Own Experience.

And for fear some may not approve, I will be brief. A short time ago one writer in this paper admonished the isolated ones to attend and take part in the Sunday School and prayer meetings of our neighbors, and not be "clannish." Now let me tell you my experience in that, as I have tried that remedy and made a failure, hence I cannot recommend it to others. And I now tell you why. In the first place I do not believe in and worship the same God my neighbors do. They believe in and worship an immaterial God, "without body parts or person, and that is not the God of the Bible—not Abraham's God. Hence there could not, and would not be any real genuine consistency or affinity in such meetings or such worship. This it seems would be enough, but this is not all, as we would by such actions condemn ourselves, and only confirm our neighbors in their delusions. And our influence would be lost. This has been my experience on this line of action. Oil and water will not mix. One man a member of church a few years ago, was so encouraged by my presence at their meetings, that he offered to bet five dollars that I would be in their church in a years time. No. I think there is a better way to occupy than to surrender and go over to the world. Let us encourage those who can preach the truth, and make greater efforts to be there, or let us meet with two or three and read and study God's Word, and worship the living and true God, and wait for his Son from heaven.

T. E. ADAMS

The Sabbath Changed.

PSA. XCV. AND HEB. IV.

The 7th day was the Jewish Sabbath. The first day is sanctified by the resurrection of Jesus Christ as the Christian Sabbath: the former by direct command, the latter is a voluntary loving memorial. The devout Spirit which led the holy women to meet Jesus at his open tomb early the first day of the week and his disciples to seek and adore him restored to life may well invest the first day of the week with a holy charm.

Jesus could not mar the sweet memorial with an arbitrary command. The joy of the risen Lord was enough—a better authority. Not an idle day; no inhibition of work; it was full of work; how busy moving here and there; what intense interest. What a joyful activity filled every first day while he was with them—and, it would seem, that of his ascension and of Pentecost. No superstition about it, no day worship, no harsh regulations, a gentle, sweet reminder of the greatest event in human history, a greeting afresh at the opening of each week of the living Lord of glory who had just conquered death and brought immortality to light.

It was natural that Christians should continue to devote the first day to special gospel work. David caught the spirit of the great commission (Psa. xcv.) and Paul noted the Sabbath transition from the "7th day" to "another day"—the first—which remains to the people of God. Heb. iv. Both seem to refer primarily to days of the week; remotely and typically to the kingdom era.

The leveling of days (Rom. xviii.) is no objection. The mildness of the new Sabbath and its easy adaptability to human conditions commend it among New Testament institutions. God has both verified his "oath" and honored his Son in the change.

Paul reasons the matter: "If Jesus [Joshua, margin] had given them rest, then would he not afterward [to David] have spoken of another day. As God "limited," instituted and designated, "another day" of which Paul says, "There remaineth a keeping of a Sabbath to the people of God [margin]." Heb. iv. 9. Do we not err if we say there is no Christian Sabbath?

The fourth chapter of Hebrews has been overlooked in the discussions of the Sabbath question. It supplies a very bright feature in that subject—enlarges that ancient institution into vast proportions worthy of both the events given as the foundation of the Sabbath, creation and exodus. Ex. xx. and Deut. v.

O. R. L. CROZIER.

Notice of Annual Conference.

The Annual Conference of the Church of God of the Abrahamic faith in Indiana will be held at Rensselaer, Indiana, D. V. commencing Sept. 1, 1898, and continue over the following Sunday.

There will be important business transacted at this meeting and it is desirous that as many as possible of the churches be represented by delegates. A cordial invitation is extended to all lovers of the truth. An interesting programme is presented and we hope to have an interesting and profitable meeting.

F. L. AUSTIN, Pres.
A. C. ROBERTS, Sec.

PROGRAMME FOR INDIANA CONFERENCE.

THURSDAY P. M.

7.30 Gleanings from the Proverbs:—"Where no wood is there the fire goeth out."—Mrs. Bannie Barnhill.

"A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver."—Mrs. Jeanne Cleveland.

"Yet a little sleep a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep."—E. K. Barnhill.

"The fining pot is for silver, and the furnace for gold, but the Lord tryeth the hearts."—Mrs. Mary Price.

"There is that scattereth and yet increaseth."—Andrew Roberts.

8.00 Sermon. "Signs which indicate the near approach of Christ's Coming."—J. F. Wagoner.

FRIDAY A. M.

9.30 Business Meeting.

FRIDAY P. M.

1.30 Social meeting led by Wm. Railsback.

1.45 Paper "The Personal Work of a Christian."—Martha Boggs.

2.15 "Christian Fellowship."—Charles Fish.

7.30 "Historical study of the Bible."—G. W. Alexander.

8.00 Sermon "Purpose of the Ages."—A. H. Zilmer.

SATURDAY A. M.

9.30 Paper "Cultivation of brotherly love, peace and harmony."—L. B. Boggs.

10.00 Paper "The relation and condition of those who enter the kingdom of God."—Israel G. Roberts.

SATURDAY P. M.

1.30 S. S. session led by D. E. Vanvactor.
Song by Sunday School.
Opening address by J. H. Willey.
Paper "Teachings of the Quarter,"—Forest Pontius.
Short essays by Faue Nelson, Beatrice Yates, Lela Grant.
"Our relation to and interest in S. S. association work."—D. E. Vanvactor.

SATURDAY P. M.

7.30 Paper "On the Watch Tower," Mrs. A. R. Underwood.
Recitation "1 Cor. xv."—May Vanvactor.

8.00 Sermon. A. H. Zilmer.

SUNDAY A. M.

9.30 Sunday School.

10.45 Sermon "The Hour of Waiting."—A. H. Zilmer.

11.30 Communion. J. L. Wince.

SUNDAY P. M.

2.00 Paper "Patience in Christian character building,"—Washington Tuttle.

2.30 Paper "Higher Criticism—Its effect on Christian character."—S. Roxana Wince.

3.00 Sermon. J. L. Wince.

7.30 Social meeting led by J. A. Burnham.

7.45 Song Service.
Paper "How can we best utilize music in church work,"—Miss Stella Taber.

8.30 Sermon. A. H. Zilmer.

Programme committee,
FLORA HARRIS,
T. O. TABER,
PHEBE THOMPSON.

Remember

That August 15th is the date of the Annual Excursion to Niagara Falls via of the Nickel Plate Road. The low rates offered for this occasion, and the sights at the Falls, form an inducement for a short vacation at moderate cost. $1.00 extra to Toronto.

Republican State Convention.

For the above occasion the Vandalia Line will sell tickets to Indianapolis at One fare for the Round trip—good going on all trains of Aug. 2nd and 3rd, and good to return up to and including Aug. 5th.

T. A. DOWNS, Agent.

Enquire of any agent of the Nickel Plate Road for complete information and sleeping car space for the Annual Excursion to Niagara Falls via that Line on August 15th.

Iowa Conference.

The Annual Conference of the Church of God in Iowa, will convene at Marshalltown, Iowa, Thursday August 4th, 1898 and continue over Aug. 15, 1898. We expect to see a large number of Elders present, and all the churches represented by letter. Come brethren, and let us say to your Church "Be thou kept always in your mind." Come and prepare, and come one day early. Only a few more trials, and then the welcome plea to "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

D. J. ALLARD, Sec'y.

To the Members of the Church of God in Iowa

Dear Ones in the Lord:

The time is near at hand for the annual conference. We shall have the best meeting this year we have ever had, and I want to see you there.

This is a social, personal letter to you. The many bright faces and happy hearts that we shall see there will be less sad if you are not among them. Remember. Make every sacrifice to come. Besides the meeting of old friends there will be brothers and sisters you have never seen who you will want to meet, and whom it will be a pleasure to remember.

There will be earnest and able discourses both doctrinal and practical, essays, discussions, Bible readings, Sunday schools and a thorough consideration of the great question which relates to the times in which we live and the coming of Jesus and the Kingdom of God.

You cannot afford to miss the spiritual strength and upbuilding these meetings will give and the encouragement they will be to you. Do come. Let both heart and purse make an earnest effort to attend this year, we need it, you need it, to help the work, in the State, we need your help and help us. Don't let any thing stand in the way. Make all the sacrifice necessary, and let it be said to your Church "Be thou kept always in your mind." Come and prepare, and come one day early. Only a few more trials, and then the welcome plea to "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

D. J. ALLARD, Sec'y.

To the Members of the Church of God in Iowa

Dear Ones in the Lord:

The time is near at hand for the annual conference. We shall have the best meeting this year we have ever had, and I want to see you there.

This is a social, personal letter to you. The many bright faces and happy hearts that we shall see there will be less sad if you are not among them. Remember. Make every sacrifice to come. Besides the meeting of old friends there will be brothers and sisters you have never seen who you will want to meet, and whom it will be a pleasure to remember.

There will be earnest and able discourses both doctrinal and practical, essays, discussions, Bible readings, Sunday schools and a thorough consideration of the great question which relates to the times in which we live and the coming of Jesus and the Kingdom of God.

You cannot afford to miss the spiritual strength and upbuilding these meetings will give and the encouragement they will be to you. Do come. Let both heart and purse make an earnest effort to attend this year, we need it, you need it, to help the work, in the State, we need your help and help us. Don't let any thing stand in the way. Make all the sacrifice necessary, and let it be said to your Church "Be thou kept always in your mind." Come and prepare, and come one day early. Only a few more trials, and then the welcome plea to "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

D. J. ALLARD, Sec'y.

The time will be [illegible] to 11 on South Third street, Marshalltown, Iowa. The first car will carry you from the depot to the camp.

Tents will be provided, but you should bring a Fifth bedding in the shape of quilts and pillows. Don't neglect this.

Meals will be served at 10 cents or 25 cents per day. Some prefer to furnish their own meals.

Come if you can only stay one day, but it will be pleasant and profitable to stay all through the meeting. This meeting of our people comes only once a year, and by planning ahead you can be there and enjoy these blessed sessions with us in the leafy grove.

A. J. EICHANAN, Pres.,
D. J. ALLARD, Sec'y,
J. W. APPLEGARTH, Treas.

EXAMINE

The label on your paper, and if it bears a date previous to this time please RENEW NOW. Do not wait for other notice to be sent, but PLEASE RENEW TODAY.

THE RESTITUTION is [illegible] per [illegible] as [illegible] 1898. The next [illegible] other week.

Announcement.

Editor Restitution:

I wish to state through THE RESTITUTION that Brother George Kidwell is going to hold a meeting at the Dix School-house, six miles from Climax Mo., beginning August 4th and continuing over one week. We hope [illegible] good seed will be sown [illegible] people.

D. C. C. HOWARD.

An Appeal.

To the Brethren of Missouri and Arkansas, and to all who are interested in the Western-Kansas work, we wish to say that our tent is in the field, and we very desirous that the work shall move on vigorously and without [illegible]. And to keep the work going means more money will be [illegible]. Therefore, we appeal to you for means. Make your donations freely, and as large as you can. Forward to Conference Treasurer, P. H. Oatman, care Nave & McCord, St. Joseph, Mo. Those contributing where [illegible] and would can pay into the Evangelistic fund there, who is authorized to receive such money, and who will report direct to the treasurer. Donations are desired to continue the work to the end of the present conference year. Specific and pledges are desired for the work for the coming year. We should have enough thus pledged to sustain a man in the field for the entire coming year; and one will be employed to the full extent of [illegible] received.

E. W. SAYLOR, Pres.,
P. H. OATMAN, Treas.,
JOSEPH SHELLENBERGER,
A. W. DARBY.

Reduced Rates to Various Points via Pennsylvania Lines.

Excursion tickets will be sold via Pennsylvania Lines as indicated in the following paragraphs. Although concessions in fare are authorized for meetings of certain Orders, tickets may be obtained by any person who is or a member of the Order or interested in the event. The reduced rates will be open to every body.

To Richmond, Ind., August 19th and 20th, good returning until August 20th, account Society of Friends Conference.

To Cincinnati, Ohio, September 3d, 4th, 5th, and 6th, for the G. A. R. National Encampment. Good returning until September 13th, with privilege of extension until October 2d.

To Pittsburgh, Pa., October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th 12th and 13th, good returning until October 17th, account Knights Templar Triennial Conclave. Return limit may be extended until October 31st.

During the excursion season special rates will also be in effect via Pennsylvania Lines for special and local events. For particular information please apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines or address C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio

Change of Schedule on the Pennsylvania Lines.

A change in the schedule of passenger trains on the Pennsylvania Lines went into effect Sunday June 26th, 1898. Under the new schedule the time of trains at Plymouth is as follows:

Depart for the West at 5.18 a. m., 9.41 a. m. 9.26 a. m., 2.10 p. m., 6.10 p. m. and 6.45 p. m.

Depart for the East at 2.45 a. m. 1.59 a. m., 10.38 a. m., 5.47 p. m., 7.50 p. m. and 8.52 p. m.

I. E. HAINES, Agent.

Summer in Colorado.

Colorado is particularly inviting as a summer resort. The climate is remarkable for its invigorating effect, and the State is rich in grand scenery and points of interest where a vacation may be pleasantly spent. Special arrangements are being made for the entertainment of visitors who are this season expected to be attracted to the seclusion and quiet of the Rockies and the hills and canyons of that great wonderland. Colorado today is nearer home than in former years. The fast schedules of the Pennsylvania Route and connecting lines bring the Centennial State within easy reach, and the rest of a trip thither is no longer a luxury. The special low rate Tourist Tickets over the Pennsylvania Lines places the cost for transportation within the limit of the usual allowance for vacation trips. For special information about rates, time of trains and other details please apply to nearest Pennsylvania Line Ticket Agent, or address C. L. Kimball, A. G. P. Agt., Cleveland, O.—July 31.

Transport Boxing Club.

For the above occasion the Vandalia Line will sell tickets to Logansport at One fare for the Round trip—good going Aug. 2nd, 3rd and 4th, and returning up to Aug. 5th.

T. A. HOWES, Agent.

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing. Said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 20th of April, 1898, providing notice is given through THE RESTITUTION that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all remittances to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 340, Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. S. J. Sigler,	$10.00
J. L. Winer,	5.00
F. L. Austin,	10.00
Edgar Hatch,	1.00
Agnes Dilworth,	2.00
Mrs. Mary E. Thompson,	15.00
One who believes that God from little offerings can work out great results,	10.00
A Friend of Truth	1.00
Mrs. S. A. Wirkizer,	5.00
Mrs. A. M. Siple,	10.00
Mrs. Mary J. Riggs,	2.00

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is represented by some one known to be trustworthy.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. H. Stevens, Shawnee Mound, Mo.
S. R. Chikesdowrd, Bonham, Texas
P. H. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
R. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. M. Peasbrough, Gabelsburgh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4610 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Vulcan, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 155 Broadway, Milan, Ohio
W. L. Skeels, Scholls, Ore.
E. Hoyt Box 381, Grand Rapids, Mich.
S. Rowan Winer, Scranton, Ind.
F. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Heap, Dudley Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Sidesville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester Ind
Geo. Kidwell, Chismville, Ark
A. J. Cody, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prince, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Culbertson, Ghidbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kent, 4507, S. N. St. Tacoma Wash
J. P. Olcott, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hull, Dexter, Mo.
L. E. Conner, Sidell, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Oswikie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
D. M. Butler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. G. Hunyt, Laurel, Neb.
J. R. Fisk, Coldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, Okla.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Rathbuck, W. R. C. House, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Brock, Pike, Ind.
G. T. Baker, Box 1008 Decorah, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Arcata, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas,
G. W. Smith, Marmont, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
O. Howard, Southind, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Stella, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 44, Viola, Idaho.
Elder H. M. Williams, Portland, Kan.
H. Wilson, 1005 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
D. T. Halstead, Andover, S. D.
John Foore, 2012 West Corning Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Kansas.
S. S. Dwiggins, Oden, Mich.
H. F. Tyler, 2711 6th ave. Tacoma, Wash.
Miss Emma Jackson, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 231 Grand Rapids, Mich.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt binding, fifth edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Twelve Words;" one of "Early Lessons;" and one of "Honoring the Son,—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

Send to this office and get a "War Atlas" only 25 cts post-paid.

Excursions to Chicago.

Commencing July 17th and continuing every Sunday until further notice the Pennsylvania Lines will sell One Dollar round trip excursion tickets from Plymouth to Chicago. Special train will leave at 7:15 a. m. central time; returning leave Chicago 8 p. m. and 11:30 p. m. Excursionists have all day to look about the great city.

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor. Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. Sunday School 12:00 m. m. Prayer and social meeting Tuesday evenings. You are welcome. W. B. Hoover and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and those not [illegible] cordially invited. Services M. Joblin, Pastor.

The Church of God at Argos, Ind. [illegible] of Michigan St. and [illegible] Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Elder L. F. Wagoner is the [illegible] Sunday School [illegible] Every Tuesday evening [illegible]

The Church of God at [illegible] every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Elder [illegible] Bible class every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30. All are welcome to attend these services. Elder [illegible] Pastor.

The Church of God at Auburn, Ind., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. in the Christian Church. Sunday School at 2:00 p. m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30. All are welcome to attend these services. Elder [illegible] Pastor.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. in Temperance Hall. Sunday School at 2:00 p. m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30. All are welcome to attend these services. Elder [illegible] Pastor.

The Church of God at Anderson, Ind., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. in Temperance Hall. Sunday School at 2:00 p. m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7:30. All are welcome to attend these services. Elder [illegible] Pastor.

The Church of God, in Fremont, Neb., meet every Sunday at the house of [illegible] to the Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every Wednesday. We have no regular preaching. [illegible] Elder Sarah Schick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at 11 o'clock a. m. Preaching every Sunday by services at 2:30. All are welcome.

Church of the Blessed Hope, [illegible] Wash. This church regularly meets [illegible] and church services every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Brethren from a distance or coming properly endorsed by their Church, will be heartily welcomed. All are welcome in the School House. Corner of [illegible] and Jefferson streets every week and every Sunday in Seattle.

The brethren of the Church at [illegible] Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at [illegible] our Bible class and Sunday school. Come and [illegible] of Heavenly prayers and [illegible] made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All [illegible] welcome. Brethren, George Knife, Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, Archbold, Ohio.

The Church of God at [illegible] every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to be at [illegible] exhort one another to love and good works. Elder Autumn Elder.

The Church of God at [illegible] N. Y. meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Reformed Hall on Willoughby Ave., near Providence.

Preaching at Park Hill every [illegible] to every Sunday morning and [illegible] by Bro. [illegible]. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at [illegible]

The churches of Pleasant and Dutton, Mich., [illegible] preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The [illegible] Bro. [illegible] Brady and [illegible] Mich. [illegible] preaching every [illegible] Sunday Sabbath. [illegible] Prairie [illegible] every Sunday [illegible] Robinson [illegible] Pastor.

The congregation of Sabbath [illegible] every Sunday. Bible [illegible] Sunday School, or something [illegible] be pleased to have all [illegible] brethren from a distance meet [illegible] Elder is W. W. Wright.

The Church of God, in Nebraska City, Neb., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and Iowa St. All are welcome.

The Church of God, in Wellington, Kansas, meet every fourth Sunday either at Pekin or Lake Shore. The gospel of the Kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edward E. Grant of Schell's Oregon. Assisted by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Fraser of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Pike, Sec'y.

The Church of God at Linden, Ind., meet in the Arbor on the place one and one-half miles north east of Linden every third first day of the week to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate Our Broken Body and Spilled Blood in our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God at Walcott, Ward [illegible] every Sunday in preaching and [illegible] at Rawsonville School House, near Jones Redhead and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Gutcher, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y., meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 10:30 a. m. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and those who have recently invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Greer, Sec'y and Treas. A. E. Forsythe, Leader.

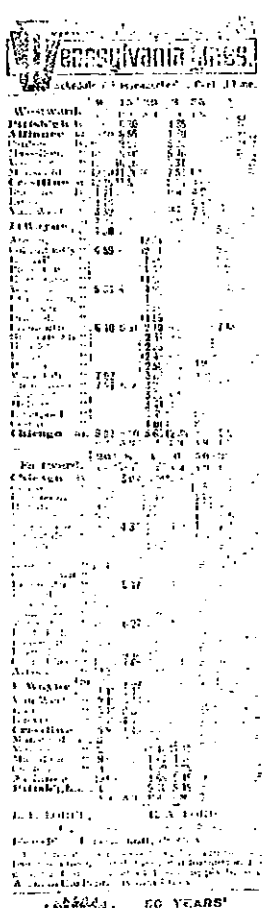
The Church at Millbrook, Mich., have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Laurence Decker, Elder, Roxana Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to stay and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Faithfully yours, Grant Mackenzie.

The Church of God at Afton, Iowa, meet in their house in the city of Afton [illegible] on the 2nd and 4th Sundays of each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver, Pastor.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on 3rd. Floor No. 1231, Euclid Ave. near Wilson Av. Elevator to the whole all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, Knowles Union [illegible] Congregation meet each fourth Sunday at private houses, for the purpose of breaking bread and social service. Also on the second Sunday [illegible] Church. Worship at 11 a. m. All are invited. Lizzie Woods, Sec'y.



TIME CARD

In effect June 19, 1898.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

[illegible]

No. 7, Ex. Sun, For St. Joseph.....7:31am
No. 41.....12:05pm
No. 29.....5:57pm
No. 3, South Bend.....10:11pm
No. 31, Sunday only, for St. Joseph. 8:24am

[illegible]

No. 21, Ex. Sun, For Toledo.....5:33a m
No. 3.....12:30p m
No. 7.....5:47 p m
No. 39.....7:33p m
No. 37, Sunday only.....8:45 p m

Local freight leaves Plymouth for [illegible] and intermediate points at [illegible] p. m. daily except Sunday. [illegible] Agent, Plymouth, Ind.

J. A. [illegible]
Gen'l P.
St. [illegible]

Books and Tract List.

A LETTER TO THE BAND.

The Book of the Covenants or Promises, the Gospel, or the one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. Woodruff. A good old book that every one should have. Price 50 cents each.

THE TWO PROPHETS.

A new edition of the lectures on [illegible] by Wm. Cowper Macdonell. A good supply and will send them [illegible] ten cents per copy.

[illegible] THE WORKS OF JOSEPHUS.

The complete 12 large size pages, and [illegible] work better than any [illegible] Price, postpaid to [illegible] Address [illegible]

[illegible] BOX.

[illegible] A Book [illegible] Covenants with [illegible] Nature, will be [illegible] [illegible] 26 pages. Price [illegible] or 20 cts.

[illegible] Twenty Years' [illegible] by A. M. Stephenson. It is good. Also, [illegible] Salvation, with Scriptural [illegible] 25 cents per dozen.

[illegible] Gleanings in the Light of Prophecy [illegible] by H. A. Reed at Antioch, [illegible] Tract, 24 pages, 10 cts. or 30 copies [illegible].

The views supported in Tract Correspondence [illegible] by W. H. Wise, which shows that [illegible] Christ not believed. 3 cents each, or 25 cents or 12.

[illegible] Dead Sleep. These are Bible [illegible] to this question. A 3 [illegible] 2 cents and 15 cents per dozen, [illegible] count of this place with [illegible] Tract [illegible] cents.

[illegible] Shoes. This represents [illegible] proud have one given to. Ten [illegible].

The Tried Dead and Pain Truths. The [illegible] 2 pages 8 copies for 10 cents [illegible] Lessons, Words of God," by H. V. [illegible] A 32 page [illegible] 25 cts. or 3 for 25 cts.

[illegible] RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters, Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory, and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O.

Aids to Bible-Study and Mission-Work.

1. The gospel of the Kingdom, arranged in a series of Ten discourses. A volume of 283 pages. Cloth 25c. a Leather-bound beautifully embossed and gilt edged $1.00. 2. Twelve Words or the true meanings of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptible, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as gathered from their uses in the Holy Scriptures. A tract of 40 pages 10cts a copy. Intended as a substitute for and an improvement on the same writer's Key-Words. 3. The gospel of the Kingdom. An 8-page double column tract 10cts. per dozen, 75cts. per hundred. 4. Who are Led by the Spirit? A 4-page tract 25cts per hundred. 5. Seeking and Finding. A 4-page tract 25cts. per hundred. 6. Honouring the Son. An 8-page tract 25cts per dozen. 7. Early Lessons. 30 pages 10cts copy. Suitable for old or young.

Written and for sale by WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

Notice.

WILL our friends please remember that we do not have the books and tracts at this office that are advertized by Brother Joblin, or Brother Wiley Jones. Do not send to this office for them, but send to their address as given in the advertisement. This will save both trouble and delay. PLEASE REMEMBER.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

[illegible] YOU TRY IT?

The Restitution.

ISSUED WEEKLY BY
A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher
FOR THE
CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50, Six Months 75 Cents, Three Months 40 Cents

Poetry.

Coming Again.

The King in his beauty is coming again
Oh yes, King Jesus is coming to reign.
We are waiting and looking and watching today.
For long he has tarried and still is away,
But he promised a good and speedy return,
And for that returning our hopes do yearn.
On the mountains of Israel we all then shall stand!
And survey old Creation the fair heaven land,
And Abraham, Isaac and Jacob will be,
Shall stand there like pillars of temples so fair,
And Jesus shall say, Well done, good and true
Everlasting life I now give unto you.
Then a glorious song and a mighty shout,
Shall echo through hills and valleys about
And God shall come down and dwell with men,
And all shall be happy for ever. Amen.

J. E. H.

Communicated.

May Have a Right.

That to which a person has a legal right to possess, he will boldly claim as his own. If property has been left him by will, he does not go into the Probate Court to beg for possession, but to claim it as a right.

Have you a right to the tree of life and an entrance into the New Jerusalem? If you have, you can lay claim by the right. If you have not, then you may have an undisputed right, by complying with the terms which pledges you a right. They are as follows:

"Blessed are they that do his (Jesus') commandments, that they

MAY HAVE A RIGHT

to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city." Rev. xxii. 14.

None can ever pass those gates unless they have a right.

"Strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life; and FEW there be that find it." Matt. vii. 14.

Question. Who can pass the gate?

Answer. "He that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." Matt. vii. 21.

Question. Will some seek an entrance, who have no right?

Answer. Yes, they will say: "Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied (taught) in thy name? and in thy name cast out devils? and in thy name did many wonderful works?"

Question. What will he say unto them?

Answer. "I never knew you." He cannot be deceived. He says, "I am the good Shepherd, and know my sheep."

Question. They evidently professed to be Christians, what was the matter with them?

Answer. They were logical Christians, they had not entered the fold in the way directed. This is evident, because he says: "I NEVER knew you." The will of the Father must be done, and the commandments kept, to be known by him.

The above professors who were denied admittance, would evidently pass as Orthodox Christians today, possibly "ministers of the gospel"(?) had prophesied, taught and preached in his name, and did good works in Jesus' name, but he says, "I never knew you." What was the trouble with them? I think the explanation can be found in Gal. i. 7, 8: "There be some that trouble you, and would pervert the gospel of Christ. But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, LET HIM BE ACCURSED."

These people who were denied admittance, had evidently done this thing, preached a perverted gospel, and thus earned the curse. It may be the so-called "three-fact-gospel" preached by Alexander Campbell, and others. Jesus preached a gospel full of promises relating to the future, and called "the gospel of the kingdom," but these gospel perverters, present to us three historical facts. Which will you take?

Those desiring a clear right to enter the city, must keep the command-

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, AUGUST 24, 1898. NUMBER 32

ments of Jesus. The fundamental injunctions or commands are as follows:

1. Believe the true gospel.
2. Be baptized. "Buried with Him in baptism." Rom. vi. 4.

Many threshers of gospel believers pervert the second command also, by substituting sprinkling for a burial with Christ. Is it any wonder Jesus will say unto them: "I never knew you?"

"He that saith I know him, and

KEEPETH NOT HIS COMMANDMENTS,

is a liar, and the truth is not in him." 1 John ii. 4.

Following the above we have another command:

"If any man say I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar: * * * This is a commandment we have from him that he who loveth God, love his brother also." 1 John iv. 20, 21.

Who are brethren? Those of like precious faith, who obey the commandments. This specially means love to the household of faith, who have the same faith, the same hope, whose destinies are closely knit together by these sacred ties. They have a common Father, and can say together, "Our Father which art in heaven," a relationship which will never cease, if we unitedly keep the commandments. Remember who gives the command:

"And this commandment have we FROM him, that he who loveth God, love his brother also."

Let the commandment apply just where it belongs.

Obedience to commands, is essential to a right to enter the city.

MUCH MISCHIEF IS DONE

by those who constantly belittle the form of a command, by claiming that the spirit of it, is the all important thing.

Who authorized any one to thus divide? The form and spirit are inseparably united together. Divided, either one is without value.

I will illustrate by quoting Rom. vi. 16-18: "Know ye not, that to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness? But God be thanked that ye were the servants of sin, but ye have OBEYED from the HEART that FORM of doctrine which was delivered you. Being then made free from sin, ye became the servants of righteousness."

Question. How were they "made free from sin?"

Answer. "Ye have obeyed from the heart that form of doctrine."

Question. Obey the "form," and leave the "heart" out of the obedience, what will be the result?

Answer. That kind of obedience is all vain, and no good result will follow.

Question. Observe the "spirit," and ignore the "form," what will be the result?

Answer. No good.

Question. "Obey from the heart that form of doctrine," what will follow?

Answer. "Being then made free from sin."

Question. What is the form?

Answer. See verse 1: "Therefore we are BURIED with him by baptism."

Question. Won't some other "form" do as well, take for instance sprinkling?

Answer. No, it must be "that form of doctrine."

Never for one moment, divide between the form, and heart, of any command. Never seek to belittle the "form," by calling it "a mere outward form."

God would never excuse an Israelite from not observing the form of circumcision. For him to claim that he would observe the spirit of it, without the form, would never be accepted. Neither will he excuse one from not observing the "circumcision of Christ, buried with him in baptism." Col ii. 11, 14.

A failure right here will cut one off from "a right to the tree of life," etc.

KEYS TO THE KINGDOM OF HEAVEN.

By means of the key, admittance can be gained to that from which we have been previously hindered, by reason of a locked door. In this case it is the kingdom of heaven, or in other words, the kingdom of God.

The keys were first given to Peter, indicating that he should be the first to open up the way by which the kingdom may be reached, which he did on the day of Pentecost, in these words:

"Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins. Then they that gladly received his word (the gospel) were BAPTIZED." Acts ii. 38-41.

No other key will open the door to the kingdom of heaven. All others will be found to be misfits. To omit that which some may be pleased to call "a mere outward form," will so mutilate the key that the lock will not answer to its application.

THE TENDENCY OF THE AGE

is to rebel against the above heaven-ordained plan, as being too narrow and contracted for this progressive and enlightened era, which wisdom assumes to be superior to the wisdom found in the sacred Scriptures.

The Church of God, which is supposed to be composed of baptized believers of "the things concerning the kingdom of God and the name of Jesus Christ," in some instances dislike to be bound to that standard, but are willing to admit to membership and fellowship, those who refuse to become obedient to the faith. By this means the Church is slowly drifting back into the apostasy. Let us be on our guard, and stem back again these assaults upon the citadel of faith.

I well remember reading an article written by Bro. J. F. Wagoner, entitled: "How to the Line," which made quite an impression upon me. Instead of hewing to the line, the tendency is to jump the line, for the sake of smooth sailing, being considered liberal, and building up a large congregation. It takes a good deal of Christian grit to "hew to the line," under the condition of things which now exist.

An urgent necessity exists that all who are sound in the faith, should unitedly stand together, and maintain the Scriptural standards, and thus sustain the weak, who may be brought under the withering blight of the present last day liberalism.

THE GOSPEL IS A FIXTURE, and cannot be changed to suit the conditions which now exist, or which in the future may exist. The gospel is not a soft putty substance (like modern theology) which may be pressed into any shape to suit the desires and tastes of the people. The gospel will ultimately be found to be a millstone, which will grind to powder those who presume to array themselves against it.

A "RIGHT" to enter in through the gates into the city, is reserved for those who "do his commandments." Have you a right? If so, guard it as a "right" most precious, and let no one be the means of alienating that sacred "right."

In civil matters the people are very particular about their rights, and will quickly resent any encroachment upon their rights. Surely that is more important than the rights guaranteed in the gospel? Then zealously guard it from the intrusion of those who would trample upon your most sacred rights, and above all things never consent to a compromise as a means of gaining church members.

W. H. WILSON.

Are Anglo-Saxons Israelites?

The whole world will be at peace during the whole of the millennial age.

1. Satan is to be bound at the very commencement. Could there be a war with the Chief of Devils sealed up in a pit and his power to do evil thus taken away? Rev. xx. 2.

2. The reign of Christ, like Solomon's, is to be a reign of peace.

3. The war spirit of the world must be broken before Christ's reign commences.

4. Therefore the great war which leads up to and ends in the great battle of Armageddon, must precede his coming.

5. The three unclean spirits go forth unto the kings of the earth and to the whole world, to gather them to the battle of that great day of God Almighty." Rev. xvi. 13 and 14.

6. The battle of Armageddon precedes the miraculous destruction of the armies of Gog on the mountains of Israel, mentioned in Ezek. xxxviii.

7. The Gentiles will do the fighting and not the Jews or Israel. Joel iii. 9.

8. Neither the Jews or Israelites will ever again engage in war. There is no need that they should. The war spirit which they once possessed has certainly been broken. Hence Joel does not command them to "prepare for war" but he "calls out the Gentiles."

9. Have the English speaking people, or Anglo-Saxons, been called into the contest? Are they preparing for war? Has not this country, within the last sixty days, called out 285,000 men, including soldiers, sailors, seamen, and men for the navy, and spent more than two hundred million dollars for war ships and war material?

10. Are not these Gentile times?

11. Is not the gospel to be preached to the Gentiles during this age? Yes. The natural branches were broken off and the wild olive tree was grafted in. Rom. xi. 17.

12. To whom has the gospel been preached, and to whom is it being preached today, a not to the Anglo-Saxons and their descendants?

13. The Anglo-Saxons are the protectors and defenders of Israel and Judah, but they are not the descendants of either.

14. Those things being true, where are we in the world's history today?

15. God would not have the nations of the world exhaust themselves in preparing for war until the time for the war to take place had about arrived.

16. The preparation for the war includes a great many things.

17. Sixty days ago the best Bible expositors were of the opinion that the United States would not be involved in the great last struggle. It was said that this nation was so far away from the scene of the conflict and was in no way interested in the subject of the conflict, viz: division of the Turkish empire, that we would have nothing to do with the matter.

They overlooked the prophecy contained in Rev. xvi. 13, viz: "The three unclean spirits go forth unto the kings of the earth and to the whole world to gather them to battle."

They also overlook the prophecy contained in Zech. xiv. 2. "For I will gather all nations against Jerusalem to battle." All see differently now. Next to England and Russia, this country will be the most important of any nations engaged in the great conflict.

R. S. DUNBOYNE.

No Right to Take up Arms.

It is a frequent thing to hear persons affirm that Christians under the present dispensation have a right to take up carnal weapons and go to war

"If not so frequent, would not this be stranger? That 'tis so frequent, this is stranger still."

The following and similar commands of God are so plain as to leave the transgressor without excuse: "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you and persecute you." Matt. v. 44. "The servant of the Lord must not strive (or, fight, as the Greek means), but be gentle unto all men." 2 Tim. ii. 24. "All they that take the sword shall perish with the sword." Matt. xxvi. 52. "The weapons of our warfare are not carnal." 2 Cor. x. 4. "Recompense to no man evil for evil." "Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves." Rom. xii. 17, 19. "We ought to obey God rather than men." Acts v. 29.

A preacher recently told a public assembly of soldiers that John the Baptist did not command soldiers to disband, and that Paul's life was once saved by soldiers. But he did not tell them that "a soldier" beheaded John (Mark vi. 27, Revised Version), and that "the soldiers" gave counsel to kill Paul (Acts xxiii. [illegible] even those who [illegible] were [illegible] John xix. 2; Matt. xxvii 12, 15; 1 Cor. ii 8.

The preacher (either through ignorance and omitting to investigate facts recorded again and again in soldiers, reminded me of those who practice [illegible] but in the law. "And about [illegible] trick is to

[illegible]

But I cannot close [illegible]

When Moses, Joshua and David went to war they had Divine commands for it, but there is no command in the New Testament ordering Christians to take up carnal weapons in this dispensation and [illegible] their followers, but many forbidding them. The retaliation allowed in the Mosaic dispensation of "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth," is forbidden to Christians. Matt. v. 38, 39. Between that retaliation did not allow of a dozen eyes or teeth for one. Yet how many ships and crews have been already destroyed in retaliation and revenge for the one Maine and her crew?

WILEY JONES.

A Plea for the Song Birds.

We feel safe in saying that in the brotherhood there is not a sister who attempts to ornament her head by wearing dead birds. (I wish I could say as much) and yet it may be good for all of them, as well as their families, to read a real sensible communication concerning the value of our song birds, and the inhuman treatment they receive at the hands of those who destroy them for the sake of heartless fashion. We clip from the Zion's Watchman:

"In a recent letter Professor Witmer Stone, of Philadelphia cited many facts to show [illegible] great check on the [illegible] of insects, and that they were able to [illegible] between plants and insect life. Ten thousand caterpillars it has been estimated, could destroy every blade of grass on an acre of cultivated ground in thirty days from the time it is hatched. And an ordinary caterpillar increases 10,000 times in bulk, and the food it lives and grows on is vegetable. The insect population of a single cherry tree infested with aphides was calculated by a prominent entomologist at no less than 12,000,000. The bird population of cultivated country districts has been estimated at from 700 to 1000 per square mile. This is small compared with the number of insects, yet as each bird consumes hundreds of insects every day, the latter are prevented from less or [illegible] the scourge they would be but for the beautiful song birds. Those insect-consuming birds have been wantonly killed of late for their plumage, that some of the sisters, have to law prohibited women from wearing dead birds as a part of their head gear. And yet, we could believe that protection to bird life is very poorly administered, for their plumage in every conceivable hue and shape is piled upon feminine head-gear, [illegible] most abandoned disregard of all the laws of neatness, good taste or beauty, while dead birds, of every possible kind, lend their ghastly horrors to the motley array. We cannot understand how it is possible for women, possessed with by far the larger share of all the "finer feelings" of the race, to look with complacency and [illegible] the light upon the poor dead birds, with their wide-spread, appealing wings, distorted necks, and glassy, reproachful eyes, that have been slain to satisfy an inordinate love of fashion? Thinking of it calmly, it does not seem credible. Yet we see the horrid evidence that such is the fact upon nearly every feminine head we meet. How it can be so, is more than we can tell. We were quite shocked the other evening to see a young woman arise in church, wearing one of these head-gears, so overloaded with birds and feathers as actually to distort her otherwise beautiful face, and to hear her jokingly say, that "all she had was consecrated to the Lord!" We seriously wondered, concerned if the slaughtered but innocent birds in her

The Restitution.

The RESTITUTION is to include the final restoration of mankind [illegible] spoken by the mouth of [illegible] prophets since the world began. The restoration of the kingdom to Israel, the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth with the Christ as King [illegible] and the resurrection of the saints, the restoration of the righteous dead; the immortalization of the right sons, and the final destruction of the wicked, eternal life only be realized in many [illegible] excluded from the kingdom. The [illegible] of the gospel, repentance and baptism in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, the reception of the baptism of the Holy Spirit, and a holy life of righteousness until the coming of the Lord.

[illegible] to the Lord or [illegible] These were such millinery [illegible] things, either [illegible] having a gentle [illegible] of heart, which should be the first characteristic of the Christian lady, or that she has the courage to resist the dictates of an idolatrous fashion. One would naturally suppose that the very instinct in women of today would [illegible] by the ghosts of the innumerable company of feathered creatures that have been [illegible] to death to gratify their vanity and pride. And that their souls would be heard crying for vengeance like the "souls under the altar," and like Abel's blood [illegible] the ground. And no doubt they are heard in the same way by those who have ears to hear. It must be that the wearing of dead birds is [illegible] thoughtlessness. In one year 5,000,000 birds were slaughtered to [illegible] women's hats, 1,000,000 babies' links were bereft of life, 70,000 song birds' notes were stilled, that their plumage might [illegible] giddy heads. If every woman could realize that a hat trimmed with aigrettes was ornamented at the expense of a little mother life, would she, could she still wish their adornment? Aigrettes are obtained in the breeding season, when the mother bird—anxious to protect her young—will not hover far from the nest, and thus is an easy mark for the sportsmen. Then when the proud happy mother is gone, killed in the movement of her terror, the cries of the hungry baby birds are left for the echoes of the woods to soothe, until death, at last, hushes them into stillness."

"Oh deliver not the soul (or life) of thy turtle dove into the multitude of the wicked." Psa. lxx. 19. Women by reason of their finer natures, are [illegible] and we are glad [illegible] We need [illegible] tenderness, need the [illegible] of soft beautiful hands, and are charitable enough to believe that this wicked craze is more the result of thoughtlessness and the sway of fashion, than any want of tenderness of heart, and touch of pity for the poor little birds which sing their sweetest songs at our windows these lovely spring mornings.

Mrs. E. E. Williams, in the Christian Standard, well says, "Who can conceive of anything more incongruous than a number of women bowing around that sacramental altar, to commemorate the atoning passion of our tender, merciful Lord, with their heads decked out in the badges of cruel, carnal pride, in the shape of dead birds, or no-thing aigrettes, torn ruthlessly from the tortured breast of a little dying mother, while her nestlings are left to starve? Oh, the shame of it—the awful, cruel shame of it!"

Add to this, what would this world of sin and sorrow be without the little heralds of dawn, who have so much brightness in their hearts that they know the coming of light before it has fairly crept into the blue sky? What would nature do if the sunshine of the world were not put to music in the trees? Think of a spring without the love calls of the birds! Can we go along without our songsters in the bush? Then, how can we stop their destruction? Only by women in one great body and in the love of humanity, standing up for the right; lifting their voices in one mighty chorus of determination against this awful devastation of life and song, this sacrifice of joyous existence to vain desire for ornament.

Ladies stop and listen to the cries,
While you may
Let your all turn to butterflies,
Be by many admired I'm sure,
But to those you go heaven no more.
Pause a moment and linger with me
To take one more look in the looking glass,
Found in the Book of Isaiah chapter three

We have faith in true Christian womanhood, and want to believe that our appeal in behalf of the sweet charming birds, now returning to us to cheer our hearts with their happy, innocent songs, will not be in vain. We men do not care about the feathers on the bonnet, but the beautiful face inside of it. So now, if you dress to please us, stop this needless slaughter of God's innocent little creatures. Especially should women professing godliness see to it that they keep their record clear of participation in this cruel crime against God and his creatures.

T. E. ADAMS.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Office Editor.

Editorial Committee.
J. H. WILLEY.
W. D. THOMPSON.
W. M. PARSONS.
P. F. HALSTEAD.

M. JORLIN, Special Contributor.

Published Bi-Weekly.

August 24, 1898.

Important Notices.

[illegible] money order or registered letter [illegible] ways at our risk. Always give the name of the post-office to which you write, and state whether [illegible] If you do not receive your paper promptly after sending money, notify us. Take [illegible] kindly.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of THE RESTITUTION.

We cannot hold open accounts, but will be glad to receive [illegible] return of money, unless should prefer to send a copy. It does not.

In ordering books or tracts, get the latest copy of the paper you have, and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

To comply strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

A WAR ATLAS.

The exact locality of many places mentioned in the news of the War between the United States and Spain is not known to the general reader, and so to ourselves is had to geographies. We have decided to offer our readers a complete War Atlas of sixteen pages of maps, showing all the territory where a conflict can occur, besides some valuable statistics. This will be mailed to you for 25 cts. Send orders at once, and get the position of the places now that you can better understand how the various complications will affect the nations of the world. Address—THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

We call special attention of our readers to the notice of reduced rates on the railroads leading to Remsheuer Conference. Brother Austin writes that a large attendance is expected. All go that can.

After an interval of two weeks we once more greet our readers. Since our last issue the war between the United States and Spain has been ended, with victory on our side. All the details of the terms of peace are not settled, and a commission will likely be given the task of exact settlement. It is certain that Cuba and Porto Rico will be governed or dictated by America, while just how far our influence will be dominant in the Philippines is yet a question. The Spaniards will of course have to leave these islands, but what will be the final disposition of them is not known. We will not wait to write more at present, as we are late now, but will try and keep all posted with the goings on of the various nations in the future.

Law or Gospel—Which? No. 20.

The declaration of the Spirit in Col. ii. 14-17 is so plain, and so directly opposed to Latter Day Sabbatarian doctrine that they have made desperate attempts to show that it applies to other than the weekly Sabbath. They say the word Sabbatons rendered Sabbath days, is plural, Sabbaths, and therefore refers to other festivals. Nothing is so blinding as unbelief, and they ask us to believe that Paul said, "Let no man judge or rule you in food, or in drink, or in respect of a festival, or of a new moon, or of festivals." Why would he refer to other festivals twice, any more than to food, or drink, or new moon? The fact is, they can refer to no other term which the Apostle could have used to have meant the Weekly Sabbath.

Sabbatarians admit that Sabbaton in 59 cases out of 60 in the New Testament means the weekly Sabbath, but stoutly claim that in Col. ii. 14-17 it means something else.

To settle the matter beyond a doubt, that Paul refers to the weekly Sabbath we make reference to the Old Testament where precisely the same list of holy days are given as this in Col. ii.

In 1 Chron. xxiii. 30, 31 we have a direct reference to the daily offerings, —offerings on the weekly Sabbaths, new moons and set feasts, just as ordered in Numbers xxviii. and xxix.

In 2 Chron. ii. 4, and 2 Chron. viii. 13, and 2 Chron. xxxi. 3, Neh. x. 33, and Is. i. 13, 14; Ezek. xlv. 17; Ezek. xlvi. 1, 3, 11 we have the same daily weekly, monthly and yearly festivals as before referred to.—the very list given in Col. ii. And inasmuch as there is but one so named, yet it needs no more to be clear, because it names every month, surely the Sabbath falls out of the literal enactment, seemingly required every week.

As supplementary to what we said of Sunday as being the mark of the Beast, we would call attention to the [illegible] Paul [illegible] Chron. xiii. 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48,

Poetry.

Some Better Thing

The watery wind the yellow sandlight cast,
For spring's wild harbingers it seemed to sweep;—
Its long Decembers had the north-wind known,
New order walketh Second Nature's
The
Threatening and
The Lo, in the
And Heaven
Almost
O
Some
He will not call the children of
Some better thing! Lay deeper all the
Its glory trailing sadly in the dust:
Dull eye to him, the Sayer heeds
Than
Purchase he hath to clep
And
Give thanks! Continue
Through which the Dayspring shall
O patient heart, thy best, thy brightest bringing,
With full reward upon his altar lay!
Some fair new blessing even now is
All unobserved, its
Thy purpose crossed, each sunny prospect clouded,
Still to his changeless promise hasten
Although his ways may be in darkness
Jehovah hath reserved some better thing.

Lucy A. Bennett.

Communicated.

Judges Chapter 7.

1. And Hierobaal, he is Gedeon arose at dawn, and all the laity with him, and pitched camp by the fountain of Arad: and Madiam's camp was from the north from Gaiai hamoreni in a valley.

2. And the Lord said unto Gedeon, The laity with thee are too many for me to give Madiam up into their hand lest perchance Israel may boast over me saying, My hand saved me.

3. And now do thou talk in the ears of the laity saying, Who is afraid and a coward? Let him turn and withdraw from Mount Galaad, and there turned away from the laity twenty-two thousand men and ten thousand were left.

4. And the Lord said unto Gedeon, The laity are still too many: Bring them unto the water, and I will cleanse them out there for thee. And it shall be that of whomsoever I shall have said unto thee, This one shall not go his way with thee, he shall not go his way along with thee.

5. And he brought down the laity to the water; and the Lord said unto Gedeon, Whoever shall lyke from the water with his tongue as the dog reseth, them shalt thou stand by themselves, and those also who incline on their knees to drink.

6. And it came to pass that the number of those who took with their hand to their mouth were three hundred men, and the rest of the laity inclined on their knees to drink water.

7. And the Lord said unto Gedeon, with the three hundred men who took will I save you and I will give Madiam into thy hand, and all the laity shall go their way each man to his own place.

8. And they took the rations for the laity in their hands and their rams-horns and he sent every man of Israel each man to his tent, and the three hundred men he strengthened; and the camp of Madiam was below them in the valley.

9. And it came to pass that night that the Lord also said unto him; Arise and go down into the camp, because I have given it into thy hand.

10. And if thou art afraid to go down do thou and thy young man Phara go down into the camp,

11. And thou wilt hear what they say,—And after that thy hands will become strong, and thou wilt go down against the camp; and he and Phara his young man, went down unto a company of fifty who were in the camp.

12. And Madiam and Amalek and all the sons of the East were reclining in the valley like a locust flight in multitude, and of their camels there was no number; but they were like the sand that is beside the shore (the lip) of the sea in multitude.

13. And Gedeon went out, and lo, a certain man was discoursing to his neighbor a dream, and he said, lo, I have dreamed a dream, and lo, a cake of barley-bread was rolling into the camp of Madiam, and it came as far as the tent and smote it and it fell and overturned it and the tent fell.

14. And his neighbor answered and said: This is no other thing (save) the sword of Gedeon, son of Joas, a man of Israel: God hath given up into his hand Madiam and all the camp.

15. And it came to pass when Gedeon had heard the exposition of the dream, and the interpretation of it, and had given the camp of Madiam into the hand

16. And he [illegible] as the hundred men with him in command (an archer) of the camp at the weigh (ten archers) of the middle watch (that is the middle of the middle watch); and they awoke the guards (they would not have been asleep at the beginning of the watch when just set probably) and blew in their rams-horns and broke the earthen vessels in their hands:

17. And he [illegible] and Lord Gedeon.

18. And I shall blow in the rams-horn, I shall, and do ye all with me blow in the rams-horns round about all the camp (or station) and ye shall say, For the Lord and for Gedeon.

19. And Gedeon entered in he and the hundred men with him in command (an archer) of the camp at the weigh (ten archers) of the middle watch (that is the middle of the middle watch): and they awoke the guards (they would not have been asleep at the beginning of the watch when just set probably) and blew in their rams-horns and broke the earthen vessels in their hands:

20. And the three companies (or chiefs) blew in their rams-horns and broke their earthen-vessels, and laid hold of their left hands and with their right hands the rams-horns to blow, and they shouted, The Sword of the Lord and of Gedeon.

21. And they stood each man next to the other round about the camp and all the camp ran and gave the signal and fled.

22. And they blew in the three hundred rams-horns and the Lord disposed each man's sword against his neighbor in all the camp, and the camp fled as far as Beth-Seach Thaarasentha Abelmeoula at the foot of Tabath.

23. And every man of influence of Israel called for aid from Nephthali and from Aser and from all Manasse, and they pursued after Madiam.

24. And Gedeon sent messengers into all Mount Ephraim, saying, Come down to meet Madiam and take possession of the water as far as Bathbera and the Jordan; and all the men of Ephraim responded to the call, and took by action the water as far as Bathbera and the Jordan.

25. And seized the rulers of Madiam, both Oreeb and Zeeb, and they slew Oureeb in Sour of Oureeb, and Zeeb they slew in Hakephazeph; and they pursued after Madiam, and the head of Oureeb and Zeeb they brought unto Gedeon from across the Jordan.

Chapter 8.

1. And men of Ephraim said unto Gedeon, What is this thing (or ocular word) thou hast done unto us, in not having summoned us when thou didst go thy way to array to array thyself against Madiam? And they criticised him severely.

2. And he said unto them, What have I done now as compared with you? Or, is not the foliage of Ephraim more efficient than the vintage of Abiezer?

3. Into your hand the Lord gave the rulers of Madiam Oureeb and Zeeb: and what have I been able to do as compared with you? Then was their spirit removed from him when he had spoken this word.

4. And Gedeon came unto the Jordan and he crossed it, he and his three hundred men with him hungry and pursuing.

5. And he said unto the men of Sakchooth, Give ye bread for sustenance unto this laity at my feet, because they are faint; and lo, I am pursuing after Zebee and Salmana kings of Madiam.

6. And the rulers of Sakchooth said, Is the hand of Zebee and Salmana now in thy hand, that we should give bread to thy host?

7. And Gedeon said, Therefore, when the Lord hath given Zebee and Salmana into my hand, I also will thresh your flesh with the thistles of the wilderness and with those of Barkenin.

8. And he went up from there to Phanuel and talked with them in like manner: And the men of Phanuel answered in the same way as the men of Sakchooth.

9. And Gedeon said [illegible] of Phanuel and slew the men of the city.

10. And Zebee and Salmana were in Karkar, and their camp with them about fifteen thousand men, all that were left of all the camp of the sons of the East: and there fell of the camp a hundred and twenty thousand men who drew sword.

11. And [illegible] in the way of those dwelling in tents on the east of Nobe and Jegbaa, and smote the camp, the camp being secure.

12. And Zebee and Salmana fled, and he pursued after them and took the two kings of Madiam, Zebee and Salmana, and all the camp he terrified.

13. And [illegible] from the battle of Asareth Semes,

14. And he captured a young man from the men of Sakchooth and questioned him: and he wrote down for him the names of the men of Sakchooth, the seventy men of princes.

15. And Gedeon went to the rulers of Sakchooth, and said, Lo Zebee and Salmana, with whom ye reproached me, saying, Is the hand of Zebee and Salmana now in thy hands that we should give bread to thy fainting men?

16. And he took the elders of the city and thrashed the men of the city with the thistles of the wilderness and of Barkenin.

17. And he overturned the tower of Phanuel and slew the men of the city.

18. And he said unto Zebee and Salmana, Of what sort were the men whom ye slew in Thabour? And they said, As thou art, even so were they, in likeness of a son of a king.

19. And Gedeon said, They were my brothers and sons of my mother. As the Lord liveth, if ye had spared them alive I would not have slain you.

20. And Jether said unto his first-born, Arise and slay them: and the young man did not draw his sword because he was afraid, because he was still too young.

21. And Zebee and Salmana said, Do thou arise and meet us, because thy power (manliness) is as of a valiant man. And Gedeon arose and slew Zebee and Salmana, and took the necklaces on the necks of their camels.

22. And the men of Israel said unto Gedeon, Lord, do thou rule over us thou and thy son and thy son's son, because thou hast saved us from the hand of Madiam

23. And Gedeon said unto them, I will not rule over you, and my son in your midst shall not take rule. The Lord shall rule over you.

24. And Gedeon said unto them, I will make a request of you, and do ye give me, each man an ear-ring from your spoils. For they had gold-ear-rings because they were Ismaelites.

25. And they said we will give, and he unrolled his outer-garment and each man there cast in an ear-ring of his spoils.

26. And it came to pass that the weight of the gold-ear-rings for which he had asked was fifteen hundred of gold, besides the necklaces and knots and the outer-garments and garments of purple on the kings of Madiam, and besides the collars which were upon the necks of their camels.

27. And Gedeon made it into an Ephood and set it up in his city in Ephratha: and all Israel went off in fornication after it there: and it became a thorn for Gedeon and his house.

28. And Madiam yielded before the sons of Israel and did not repeat lifting up their head, and the land became quiet for forty years in the days of Gedeon.

29. And Hierobaal, son of Joas, went his way and retired to his house.

30. And Gedeon had seventy sons who went their way from out his thighs, because he had many wives.

31. And there was a concubine of his in Sychem, and she brought forth for him also a son and gave him the name of Abimelech.

32. And Gedeon, son of Joas, died in his city, and was buried in the burial-place of Joas, his father in Ephratha Abi-Esdri.

33. And it came to pass when Gedeon was dead, the sons of Israel turned and went off in fornication after the Baal rites, and made a covenant for themselves that he should be their god.

34. And the sons of Israel did not remember the Lord God who had delivered out of the hand of all those who were giving them tribulation round about.

35. And they did not do mercy in relation to the house of Hierobaal, he is Gedeon, according to all the good [illegible] Israel.

[illegible] Gedeon [illegible]

[illegible] Gedeon [illegible]

[illegible] Gedeon [illegible]

Our Love Feast.

Editor Restitution:

We are living in a grand time, and the signs indicate that the end of the age is nearly here. The Savior commands us to watch, and "Unto you that look for him will he appear the second time." Paul tells us that there is "one hope of our calling." Brethren, have we the "one hope"? "By hope are ye saved." Rom. viii. 24. "Now abideth faith, hope and charity." 1 Cor. xiii. 13. Hope is composed of desires and expectations. Now, what hope does the Bible authorize? For answer please read the following passages of Scripture: Eph. iv. 4 (one hope); Acts xxvi. 6, 7 (no going to heaven); Heb. vi 17, 18, 19. What is the condition of those who have not this hope? Eph. ii. 12. So we find the hope of the Bible is that God will fulfil the promises made to "the fathers." (Abraham, Isaac and Jacob). Acts vii. 32. I would like some one to write on prophecy. Brethren, let us try to increase the circulation of THE RESTITUTION. Bear one another's burdens, so fulfil the law of Christ.

JOHN ANDERSON.

Dear Restitution:

I am so glad to have the privilege of reading the dear words of truth from the brothers and sisters of the one faith, which our dear RESTITUTION gives to all: it makes my heart rejoice.

Yours in hope of the soon coming of Christ our King.

MRS. MARY SMITH.

Dear Brethren of The Restitution:

I do not feel like I could do without the paper, being isolated as I am without a paper. What a comfort it is to read the expositions of brethren of like precious faith, and know that they too are looking for our soon coming King. I am looking for the Master to come, when, if I am found an overcomer all the privations and sorrow I have to endure now will be nothing to be compared with the glory then revealed. Pray for me that I may hold out faithful to the end, which cannot be long with me, even if I should fall asleep before the Master comes, for I am 60 years old, but thank the Lord, in good health for one of my age.

Your Sister in Israel's hope,

V. A. RUSSELL.

Dear Restitution:

As the time has come for my renewal please find order for $1.50, which I am so glad I can still raise. I do not know how long I will be able to raise it, as my health is poor and means are limited to some extent, but I am trusting in God, with God's help it is my great aim to be prepared to live. I hear some say they are preparing to die, but I am preparing all I can to live. I intend to live as long and be as useful as I can in this life, and be prepared to have everlasting life in the world to come.

Your Brother trusting in God.

HIRAM CORBLE.

Dear Restitution:

I have not been identified with the children of our blessed Master, but by the help of God I am trying to earnestly contend for the faith once delivered to the saints. We are very few in number and are mocked and scorned at on all sides; but thanks be to God when we come to consider the gracious blessings awaiting us. We feel proud to know that we can well afford to bear reproach. For we know that when he cometh to redeem us from the grave that these bodies will be clothed with immortality, and that we will ever be with the Lord. We are called infidels, water dogs, and soul-sleepers, and no Hell-men, and various other names. But how glorious to be able to withstand the enemy, for we know "they shall soon be cut down and wither as the green herbs." Brethren, there is a splendid work here for some one to accomplish. We have some good material here that needs converting into usefulness, and all we need is some one that is able to come and destroy sectarianism, and all will be right. We trust that some of the brethren who may read this little missive will be sufficiently interested to come and help us to show the light, and explain the truth as it is in Christ Jesus. If some preaching brother will come, and come prepared to debate the doctrine (should it be necessary) of Christ there can be a great deal of good accomplished. We have a number of honest people here who desire to obey the gospel, but do not know how. The fact is they have been taught so many ways, and after comparing the ways with the true and only way find it is at they are being deceived, and they know not which way to go. Address me at Oakman, Ind. Ter. Yours in the faith.

JAMES T. MCMAHAN.

Obituary.

Alsenia Baker, daughter of James and Elizabeth Bryan, was born March 1, 1868; died July 27, 1898; aged 30 years, 4 months and 26 days. She leaves father, mother, six brothers, three sisters and three children (two daughters and one son) to mourn her departure. The undersigned spoke at the funeral on the subject of the "Resurrection."

A. H. ZELMER.

As we stand in the midst of the rushing currents of history we hear an inspired voice crying through the confusion and the strife of life—"The night is far spent, the day is at hand: let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armor of light."

Kansas and Missouri Conference.

The Annual Conference of the Church of God in Kansas and Missouri will convene at 9 A. M. September 3, 1898, in the southwest corner of Doniphan Co., Kansas, near Hiawatha on the Missouri Pacific R. R. and Purcell on the Rock Island R. R. The tent will be spread about two miles from either station; parties coming on either road will get off at the stations named, and those wanting to be met at the depot will notify Bro. O. M. Anderson. Now, brethren, make an extra effort to attend this meeting, for your presence will be needed. There is work to do and the way to do it is to put our shoulders to the wheel and push the work. Our preachers have bushwhacked a little here and there after the wheat and oats were harvested, and the fall seeding done, and the corn was in the crib, and they felt just right, and a good deal of the time pay their own expenses. All this without system, and the result is, for the last fifteen years we have been losing ground. Now, brethren, let us remedy this by getting together, and keep the work going that has been started, and this we can do if we will only give ten cents a week each. Some can and will give four or five dollars a month, if others will show a disposition to do their part. If we love the gospel and believe in the Master's soon coming, let us show it by our action, and the way to do is by united effort. If you cannot come to the Conference send a pledge for the work with a word of encouragement and thus show your interest.

E. M. SAYLOR, Pres.
A. W. DARBY, Sec.

Reduced Fares to Various Points via Pennsylvania Lines.

Excursion tickets will be sold via Pennsylvania Lines as indicated in the following paragraphs. Although concessions in fare are authorized for meetings of certain Orders, tickets may be obtained by any person whether a member of the Order or interested in the event. The reduced rates will be open to everybody.

To Cincinnati, Ohio, September 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th, for the G. A. R. National Encampment. Good returning until September 13th, with privilege of extension until October 2d.

To Pittsburgh, Pa., October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th 12th and 13th, good returning until October 17th, account Knights Templar Triennial Conclave. Return limit may be extended until October 31st.

During the excursion season special rates will also be in effect via Pennsylvania Lines for special and local events. For particular information please apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines or address D. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.

Change of Schedule on the Pennsylvania Lines.

A change in the schedule of passenger trains on the Pennsylvania Lines went into effect Sunday June 26th, 1898. Under the new schedule the time of trains at Plymouth is as follows:

Depart for the West at 5.18 a. m., 5.41 a. m, 9.26 a. m., 2.10 p. m., 6.10 p.m., and 6.45 p. m.

Depart for the East at 2.45 a. m. 4.59 a. m., 10.38 a. m., 5.47 p. m., 7.50 p. m. and 8.52 p. m.

J. E. HANES, Agent.

EXAMINE

The label on your paper, and if it bears a date previous to this time please RENEW NOW. Do not wait for other notice to be sent, but PLEASE RENEW TODAY.

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1898. The cost is only 13 cents a week.

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing, said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 20th of April, 1898, providing notice is given through THE RESTITUTION that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all remittances to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 340, Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. S. J. Sigler.	$10.00
J. L. Wiley.	5.00
F. L. Austin.	10.00
Edgar Hatch.	1.00
Agnes Dilworth.	2.00
Mrs. Mary E. Thompson.	15.00
One who believes that God from little offerings can work out great results.	10.00
A Friend of Truth	1.00
Mrs. S. A. Wickizer.	5.00
Mrs. A. M. Siple.	10.00
Mrs. Mary J. Riggs.	2.00

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. B. Stevens, Shawnee Mound, Mo.
S. R. Finkenbeard, Bonham, Texas.
P. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Button, Mich.
L. M. Chessbrough, Gilchurch, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 156 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio.
W. L. Skeels, Schoills, Ore.
E. Hoyt, Box 384, Grand Rapids, Mich.
S. Roxana Wines, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Rena, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Scipioville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Chismville, Ark
J. J. Cady, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prime, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eyelancer, Shellbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
I. L. Kent, 4507, S. K. St., Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Glenn, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hall, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Sidell, Ill.
B. F. Royer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Osawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Alden, Kan.
D. M. Rodibe, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. G. Haupt, Lenard, Neb.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, Okla.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. House, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Bullard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
H. T. Baker, Box 1008 Decorah, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Arvin, Cal.
J. B. Oglesby, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Marmont, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Ruthbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
I. Ogilvy, 625 South Los Robles Ave., Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Stella, Pocomoa, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 41, Viola, Idaho.
Elder D. M. Williams, Portland, Kan.
B. Wilson, 1905 C St. Sacramento, Cal.
D. T. Halstead, Andover, S. D.
John Foore, 2012 West Corning Ave, Pasadena, Cal.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Kansas.
R. S. Dodgeins, Otho, Mich.
H. F. Tyler, 2714 6th ave. Tacoma, Wash.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 384 Grand Rapids, Mich.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt binding, fifth edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Twelve Words;" one of "Early Lessons;" and one of "Honoring the Son,—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

Send to this office and get a "War Atlas" only 25 cts post-paid.

Excursions to Chicago.

Commencing July 17th and continuing every Sunday until further notice the Pennsylvania Lines will sell One Dollar round trip excursion tickets from Plymouth to Chicago. Special train will leave at 7.15 a. m. central time; returning leave Chicago 8 p. m. and 11.30 p. m. Excursionists have all day to look about the great city.

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Ch. rch Cor. Garro and Water Streets every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 n. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. B. Thompson and W. Turpie Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 676 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Be silent from 4 o'clock and 45 hours of truth are read daily at 9 Wed. Services. M. Johns Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St. and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. All are welcome.

[illegible] Church of God, Napoleon, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. [illegible] ers, and would be pleased to have any Brethren or Sisters who may pass through, to meet with us, and they will be expected to attend preaching or calling at the A. Baker's, 260 West Ivy St., Solem, Ohio.

The Church of God, at Andover, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 12:00 a. m. in Miller Hall. Andover is on the direct line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R. going west to Aberdeen, thirty miles east thereof.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meet every Sunday at the Farmer Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meetings every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Wetzel, Elder; Sarah Selleck, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:30. All are welcome.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. Both Saints and those in this church, or coming properly endorsed by introductory letter, will be heartily welcomed. All persons we meet in the School Room on top of the hill; also visitors come very near, and very long room Seattle.

The brethren of the Church of God at Grand Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife Kessler, or H. L. Johnson, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, La., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to bend, break and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthon, Elder.

The Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Beaver Hall, on Willoughby Ave., near Broadway.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eyelancer. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The [illegible] Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich., have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother I. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday or Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trosdell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y., meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 16th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the Kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Brown of Scholls, Oregon. Also occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prusser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okla., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles northeast of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God of Waterville, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Mountainview School House, near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Corbley, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 P. M. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and honoring brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Glover, Secy and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church of Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Secy. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Faithfully yours, Grant Mechmner.

The Church of God at Allen, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Allen for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver, Pastor.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1271, Euclid Ave, near Wilson Ave. Cleveland Ohio, where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also at the usual Sunday at the Union Chapel 10 A. M. Worship to be held [illegible] All are welcome. Jesse Woods, Sec'y.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, to locate to Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood, one mile south and one mile east of Cedar, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, [illegible] Sunday and also Sunday evening. [illegible] Elder, S. C. Oliver, Locumtenens.

You are cordially and heartily invited to attend [illegible] Sunday at 3:00 p. m. at 1245 S. 9th Ave. San Diego, Cal.

Cheap Rates via Cumberland.

The G. A. R. National Encampment at Cincinnati, O., Sept. 5th to 10th.

The Supreme Lodge of K. of P. and Uniform Rank encampment at Indianapolis, August and Sept. 1898.

For [illegible] occasions the Cumberland Route rate of One and one-third fare for the round trip.

W. W. ATTERBURY, Agent.

All trains arrive at and depart from Van Buren Street Union Passenger Station, Chicago.
Uniformed Colored Porters attend first and second class day coaches on through trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars en route.

Eastward Nos. 1 | All Nickel Plate Limited | Westward Nos.

Dep.			Arr.
8 00	2 35	Chicago	10 10
8 15	2 50	Englewood	9 55
8 25	3 00	63rd St.	9 45
8 35	3 10	Calumet	9 35
8 45	3 20	Hammond	9 25
8 55	3 30	Kensington	9 15
9 05	3 40	Dolton	9 05
9 15	3 50	Wanatah	8 55
9 25	4 00	Hanna	8 45
9 35	4 10	Wilders	8 35
9 45	4 20	Leo	8 25
9 55	4 30	Spencerville	8 15
10 05	4 40	Waterloo	8 05
10 15	4 50	Auburn	7 55
10 25	5 00	Garrett	7 45
10 35	5 10	Butler	7 35
10 45	5 20	Stryker	7 25
10 55	5 30	Montpelier	7 15
11 05	5 40	Bryan	7 05
11 15	5 50	Edgerton	6 55
11 25	6 00	Hicksville	6 45
11 35	6 10	Pioneer	6 35
11 45	6 20	Stryker	6 25
11 55	6 30	Montpelier	6 15
12 05	6 40	Bryan	6 05
12 15	6 50	Edgerton	5 55
12 25	7 00	Hicksville	5 45
12 35	7 10	Pioneer	5 35
12 45	7 20	Stryker	5 25
12 55	7 30	Montpelier	5 15
1 05	7 40	Bryan	5 05
1 15	7 50	Edgerton	4 55
1 25	8 00	Hicksville	4 45
1 35	8 10	Pioneer	4 35
1 45	8 20	Stryker	4 25
1 55	8 30	Montpelier	4 15
2 05	8 40	Bryan	4 05
2 15	8 50	Edgerton	3 55
2 25	9 00	Hicksville	3 45
2 35	9 10	Pioneer	3 35
2 45	9 20	Stryker	3 25
2 55	9 30	Montpelier	3 15
3 05	9 40	Bryan	3 05
3 15	9 50	Edgerton	2 55
3 25	10 00	Hicksville	2 45
3 35	10 10	Pioneer	2 35
3 45	10 20	Stryker	2 25
3 55	10 30	Montpelier	2 15
4 05	10 40	Bryan	2 05
4 15	10 50	Edgerton	1 55
4 25	11 00	Hicksville	1 45
4 35	11 10	Pioneer	1 35
4 45	11 20	Stryker	1 25
4 55	11 30	Montpelier	1 15
5 05	11 40	Bryan	1 05
5 15	11 50	Edgerton	12 55
5 25	12 00	Hicksville	12 45
5 35	12 10	Pioneer	12 35
5 45	12 20	Stryker	12 25
5 55	12 30	Montpelier	12 15
6 05	12 40	Bryan	12 05
6 15	12 50	Edgerton	11 55
6 25	1 00	Hicksville	11 45
6 35	1 10	Pioneer	11 35
6 45	1 20	Stryker	11 25
6 55	1 30	Montpelier	11 15
7 05	1 40	Bryan	11 05
7 15	1 50	Edgerton	10 55
7 25	2 00	Hicksville	10 45
7 35	2 10	Pioneer	10 35
7 45	2 20	Stryker	10 25
7 55	2 30	Montpelier	10 15
8 05	2 40	Bryan	10 05
8 15	2 50	Edgerton	9 55
8 25	3 00	Hicksville	9 45
8 35	3 10	Pioneer	9 35
8 45	3 20	Stryker	9 25
8 55	3 30	Montpelier	9 15
9 05	3 40	Bryan	9 05
9 15	3 50	Edgerton	8 55
9 25	4 00	Hicksville	8 45
9 35	4 10	Pioneer	8 35
9 45	4 20	Stryker	8 25
9 55	4 30	Montpelier	8 15
10 05	4 40	Bryan	8 05
10 15	4 50	Edgerton	7 55
10 25	5 00	Hicksville	7 45
10 35	5 10	Pioneer

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, SEPTEMBER 7, 1898. NUMBER 34.

Read

J. H. Willey

The Restitution.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY
A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher
FOR THE
CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:
W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK,
B. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, prerequisites of the forgiveness of sins, and holy life as essential for final salvation.

Poetry.

"Ye are not Your Own."

TUNE—"Who is on the Lord's side?"

Who is loyal to Jesus? Who is ready will,
Who "The Truth" heralding, will his doctrines preach?
Who their all surrender, Now his cross will share?
Who'll confess his Master, if he meet every where?

CHORUS.

Who is loyal to Jesus, Owning him Our Lord?
Who will bear Jesus' banner sweetly?
Owning him "Redeemer," owning him as "King,"
Who will to his service, Life and talents bring?

Who his will will suffer, Even to bear his cross?
Who as "bond-slaves" serve Him, Thus Overcome?
Consecrating to him, Now their thought tonight life,
Wealth, or ease, or pleasure, Who will sacrifice?

Help us Lord to serve thee, We are not our own,
Redemption price thou gavest, For our souls atonest
Thou didst leave thy glory, Crown and royal throne,
We thy life receiving, Give thee now our own.

WALTER SCOTT.

Communicated.

Eternal Life.

It is commonly accepted that when the Scriptures speak of eternal or everlasting life they mean a life which is eternal or everlasting in duration. This view, as far as the fact of the bestowal of such a life upon certain persons is concerned, is correct; and yet these terms do not fully express the thought of the original. "Life" stands for the Greek noun zoon, and eternal for the adjective aionian. A noun and adjective derived therefrom must [illegible] appeared in the King James translation of many Bible terms. The Greek noun aion has been variously rendered, as age, world and course; and the adjective, in order to partake of the qualities of the noun, would have to be aionian or age-lasting, worldly, etc. If worldly is right in one case, why not in another, or in all cases? Yet no one would think of saying "worldly life;" for since the noun aion means an age or dispensation, the life qualified by the adjective aionian must partake of the properties of the noun. Aionian life, then, we take to mean nothing less than a life which will be age-lasting or age-enduring, lasting through successive ages or dispensations; a life which is indissoluble, and therefore endless. And in this respect it differs from "the life which now is," which is "a vapor that appeareth for a little season, and then vanisheth away." James iv. 14.

Jesus possesses this age-lasting life, for he says, "I am he that liveth, and I became dead, and behold, I am alive to the ages of the ages." Rev. i. 18. Are there any besides him who are in possession of this life? Is it any natural present possession? Do not be surprised to hear the unhesitating reply, No. If eternal life were already ours by actual possession, then why should we believe in Jesus in order to obtain it? ".....Whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." John iii. 16. This life is to be bestowed upon all who believe in Jesus, and in this way will they be saved from perishing, that is when this "life shall appear." Col. iii. 4. We are repeatedly urged to "lay hold of eternal life" (1 Tim. vi. 12, 19), and Jesus said, he had come that men might have life, and have it more abundantly. John x. 10. Again, everything that has been written concerning him, "was written that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, and that believing ye might have life in his name." John x. 31. This becomes apparent when we consider that eternal life has been promised by God who cannot lie. Titus i. 2; 2 Tim. i. 1, and especially 1 John ii. 25 where the inspired writer says: "This is the promise which he hath promised us, even eternal [illegible] to be bestowed upon all who believe, and is abundantly able to fulfill his promises. For this reason eternal life is a matter of [illegible] as Paul writes to Titus: "In hope of eternal life, which God promised before the times of the ages." But as confidence in Paul was misplaced, if it is only in possession, why should we hope for it? "For in hope we were saved; but hope that is seen is not hope: for what a man seeth, why doth he hope for? But if what we see not, we hope for, with patience we wait for it." Rom. viii. 24, 25. Again, it is said concerning faith that it is "the substance (ground of things hoped for, the evidence (conviction, of things not seen." Heb. xi. 1. So then if we live in hope of eternal life our faith in the promise of God is the assurance and conviction that this promise shall be fulfilled in due time.

This life is in the Son of God. The Father, on account of the perfect obedience of his Son, obedience even unto the death of the cross, not only bestowed this life upon him, but also made him the Repository and Distributing Agent of it to others who follow him in obedience. "That he should give eternal life to as many as thou hast given him." John xvii. 2. It is strictly "the gift of God through, or by means of, Jesus Christ our Lord." Rom vi. 23. Since this life is in the Son, we readily see that "he that hath the Son hath the life, and he that hath not the Son of God hath not the life." 1 John v. 11, 12. But it is also a fact that even belief in Jesus does not necessarily exempt from death. Jesus said at the grave of "our friend Lazarus:" "He that believeth in me, though he die, yet shall he live." Jno. xi. 25. Only those who "live and believe" at the time of "the resurrection in the last day" shall "never die." It is not only possible for believers to die, but many thousands, who through their entire life exercised implicit faith in him, nevertheless fell under the power of the "king of terrors," death. Job xviii. 14. The true believer's hope and consolation lies not in the fact of present deathlessness, but "though he die, yet shall he live."

We next ask: What, besides faith, must precede the bestowal of this life? "Patient continuance in well-doing," and seeking for glory, and honor, and immortality." Rom. ii. 7. This patient continuance is to cover the entire life until Jesus comes; and to him who thus continues until the end is the promise. The fulfilment of this promise is not realized at death, which would make the latter a friend instead of an "enemy," but at "the day of wrath and revelation of the righteous judgment of God, who will render unto every man according to his deeds." This fixes the time when eternal life will be given. Life lies at the termination of "the way which leads to life." Matt. vii. 14. According to the positive declaration of Jesus, eternal life will be given in the "age to come." "Verily, I say unto you, there is no man who has left house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my sake, and the gospel's, but he shall receive an hundred fold now in this time, houses, and brethren, and sisters, and mothers, and children, and lands, with persecutions; and in the world (aion-age) to come life eternal." Mark x. 28-30. Anyone can see at a glance that in the above quotation "now in this time," and the world to come" are placed in contrast, and that the latter phrase refers to the future. This becomes all the more apparent when we consider that the word rendered "world" is aion (age) in the original. "And in the age that is coming life eternal."

We further remark that eternal life comes through the resurrection from among the dead. "They who shall be accounted worthy to obtain that world (age) and the resurrection from the dead, ...they cannot die any more, for they are equal unto the angels; and are children of God, being children of the resurrection." Luke x. 34-36. [illegible] who obtain that [illegible]

RESURRECTION." The [illegible] and all things which we cannot carry with us mean us. We are to be despised only the eternal and lasting things are worth while.

Everything natural or make believe [illegible] We need not worry [illegible] strength and assurance [illegible] We must go to do." Only the next right thing. We ought not to be discouraged. Let us do today's duties. Nothing other will make us happy. Tomorrow is but another today. God has put us here; he is the one judge of all, let us make what we can of it all. That which displeases may often be changed by work. Let us live not in discontent but strive to secure better betterment with all [illegible] Through it all and above all use of this strife develop into selfless love. Our own happiness and our own highest good can only come to us through that which we may do for others.

Time ranks first among the things on which we are to lay hold. "Every day is a little life, a whole life is but a day repeated." We cannot lay hold of time through work, but of this and consciousness of doing our duty will come present happiness. Love must necessarily develop and from this will come friendship that dearest and most blessed of all relations. What can and one friend do for another? What would life be to us but for our friends? What a comfort and consolation can there be to us through life? We should lay hold of sorrow. Many a life has been made pure and sweet through suffering. We are brought nearer the Christ in every experience which is like unto his life, so full of sorrows. Through all of this must shine out the bright star of faith. "A little while and ye shall not see me; and again, a little while and ye shall see me, because I go to the Father." When we believe that he was with us and went away for us, in a little while he will come again that we may be with him, what can we not do in this faith? What things will this faith make worth while and what will be the things to let go? It must always be worth while to do our bidding, to strive for eternal good, and to let go those things which can be to us as nothing but passing evil.

"Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal.

But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal.

For where your treasure is there will your heart be also."

THOMAS MCDONALD.

For Our Children.

A Gentleman.

I once was born a gentleman,
Long since that was over,
The coat was cut of a scarlet wool,
Its cheeks were like the red poll
And who had the way I make,
With little time for play,
I knew I was a gentleman
By coat and sign-boards.

He met the mother on the street,
[illegible]
My door was shut, he waited there
Until I heard his step.
He took the handle from my hand
And when I stopped my pen
He spoke to [illegible]
This gentleman [illegible]

He does not push and crowd along,
His voice is gently pitched;
He does not fling his books about
As if he were bewitched.
He stands aside to let you pass
He always shuts the door
He rises on errands willingly
To long and toil and store.

He thinks of you before himself,
He serves you with a will
For, in whatever company
The manners make the man.
At meal or [illegible] he sits
The center of the table
And I discern the gentleman
By certain signs to-day.

Margaret E. Sangster, in [illegible]

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE
J. H. WILLEY,
W. B. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
B. P. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, IND. SEPTEMBER 7, 1898.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and tuke, for it says:—"It shall be a perpetual statute for your generations throughout all your dwellings, that ye eat neither fat nor blood." Very much like a mistake, surely; but inasmuch as God had given every moving thing that liveth to unto for meat, even as the green herb, and thereby thrown the Mrs. White repentarian doctrine all out of joint,—and seeing the book of Leviticus commences with divine instruction in reference to burnt offerings, sin-offerings, trespass offerings, etc., which extend through the first ten chapters, we are under the impression that the verse our attention have been on the 15th. The fact that there was no Sabbath then is proven by their marching from Elam to the Wilderness of Sin Ex. xvi. 1 states. The fact that there was no Sabbath on the 15th is evidence that there was no Sabbath on the 8th, nor the first day of the Second month:—suspension of the Sabbath was unknown after its establishment. We now commence with the first month where we have an unquestionable starting point.

9. That on the tenth day of the first month, the congregation of Israel were commanded to take every man a lamb according to the house of their fathers, a lamb for an house, and keep it until the 14th day of the same month, and then kill it in the evening, and strike the blood on the side posts and the upper door posts of the houses, roast the flesh and eat it with unleavened bread and bitter herbs that night, with loins girt, shoes on, staff in hand ready for the start out of Egypt on the 15th day of the month.

10. That on the 15th day they marched to Succoth and from thence to Etham. Ex. xii. 6.

11. That on the 16th they reached Pi hahiroth, and

12. And that they crossed the Red Sea on the 17th, and as the Spirit has given us the evidence of the FIRST SABBATH OBSERVANCE on the 22nd day of the Second Month, we have infallible evidence that that was thirty-five days after crossing the Red Sea, (seven weeks) so that the crossing would have violated the Sabbath if there had been one. In addition to all this:—

13. The tenth day of the first month when they were commanded to select male lambs of the first year without blemish, and take them out from among the sheep or goats, and keep them up until the 14th would have been on the Sabbath if there had been a Sabbath, and would have violated it. But there was no Sabbath,—as Jehovah had to explain its institution to Moses, even, and he to the elders or chiefs of the people. Ex. xvi. 16-30.

How great is our God. His understanding is infinite,—and his resources for the protection of his saints against error is boundless. Graciously has he anticipated our want of weapons to combat the Latter-Day-Fallacy of a Sabbath for all mankind from the beginning, and we are grateful for the first link of this chain of testimony against it.

Communicated.

Questions and Answers.

"When the Son of Man shall come in his glory and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory and before him shall be gathered all nations, and he shall separate them one from another as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats, and he shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left. Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world; for I was an hungered and ye gave me meat, I was thirsty and ye gave me drink, I was a stranger and ye took me in, naked and ye clothed me, I was sick and ye visited me, I was in prison and ye came unto me. Then shall the righteous answer him saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungered and fed thee or thirsty and gave thee drink? When saw we thee a stranger and took thee in, or naked and clothed thee, or when saw we thee sick or in prison and came unto thee? And the King shall answer and say unto them, Verily, I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto me." Matt. xxv. 31-40.

Truth Seeker. I would like to ask a few questions in the interest of truth, concerning the above Scriptures, as much difference of opinion exists regarding the date of these events, and the nature and character of the different actors in the scene.

Bible Student. I will be pleased to lend you any assistance in my power in your search for the truth.

Truth Seeker. First, when does this scene occur, at the coming of the Lord or at the end of the thousand years?

Bible Student. At the end of the thousand years.

Truth Seeker. But does not verse 31 read "When the Son of Man shall come in his glory and all the holy angels with him. Then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory?"

[illegible]

ning or morning of the great judgment day.

Truth Seeker. Can you point to any evidence for your assertion that the event takes place at the end of the thousand years?

Bible Student. I believe I can. You will observe, by carefully reading the account, that the company is composed of—

1st. The King on his throne, v. 31

2nd, All nations divided into sheep and goats, v. 32.

3rd, The King's brethren, v. 40.

These brethren were caught away, judged and rewarded long before the gathering of all nations and at the thief coming of their Lord, (See Titus, iv. 13-18) and are now the beloved and all-powerful associates of the King, and as the promise to them is that they shall rule over the mortal nations of the earth, the judgment of the nations, the destruction of the wicked, and record of the righteous, as portrayed above, must necessarily be the closing events of the great millennial dispensation, the great white throne judgment of Rev. xx.

Truth Seeker. Who then are the sheep, and to what age do they belong?

Bible Student. Manifestly they are not of the household of faith, the Royal Priesthood, or Brethren of Christ, for they ministered unto "these my brethren," verses 36-37.

Truth Seeker. When did they minister unto Christ's brethren?

Bible Student. When they were hungry, thirsty, naked, sick and in prison, verses 35, 36.

Truth Seeker. When were Christ's brethren hungry, thirsty, naked, sick and in prison?

Bible Student. Surely during the term of their natural lives, the time of their trial and probation, when clothed with weakness and mortality, assailed by temptation, and acquainted with suffering they struggled onward and upwards towards a realization of their present high and exalted position as brethren of Christ and sons of God.

Truth Seeker. Then am I to understand that there is hope in the purpose of God for some at least of this gospel age who fail to attain to the Royal Priesthood?

Bible Student. If at the great, final judgment a large class who failed to qualify as kings and priests stand up again and are justified as a reward for deeds of kindness to God's chosen people, as the above record describes, then the conclusion is forced upon us that the great mercies and infinite ultimate purpose of God reaches out to and embraces more of his creatures than many are willing to admit. Dear Brother and Sister, while we rejoice and are glad that we are heirs of salvation let us not close the door behind us too closely. Perhaps God in his infinite mercy and goodness would leave it ajar.

S. H. THOMAS.

John's Vision on the Isle of Patmos.

Bro. Underwood:

With your permission I would write a few thoughts for our much loved paper. The subject I wish to bring before the readers is John's visions on the Isle of Patmos. Johnsays, "Blessed is he that readeth and they that hear the words of this prophesy, and keep those things which are written therein: for the time is at hand." Then he addresses the seven churches, and in the 7th verse brings us down to the coming of Christ. In the 10th verse he was in the Spirit on the Lord's day. That seems to be the time he had the visions, The Lord's Day. We find the phrase, day of the Lord, and judgment day, several times spoken of, but I believe this is the only place where it speaks of the Lord's day, and I am inclined to think they all refer to the same time.

I will pass over what he says to the seven churches and refer to the opening of the seals; I will also pass over the first five seals, and commence with the sixth seal. John describes what he saw, and after the sealing of the 144,000, he brings to view a great multitude which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, which all, so far as I know, admit is a resurrection scene. Now, if John's Lord's day is a future day called the day of the Lord, and the resurrection takes place under the sixth seal, then it follows beyond all dispute that the rest must be after the resurrection. You will notice that the seven angels or trumpets do not sound until after the seals are all opened. Please read the 8th chapter and take particular notice of the 1st verse, and you will see that the trumpets come after the seals. "And the fifth angel sounded, and I saw a star fall from heaven unto the earth: and to him was given the key to the bottomless pit." He describes what he saw and says they were like horses prepared to battle; 7th verse, and in the 11th verse and they had a king over them, which is the angel of the bottomless pit. In the 14th, chapter and 7th verse he speaks of a beast that ascendeth out of the bottomless pit, which seems to be the same as the king in the 11th verse of the 9th chapter.

In the 13th chapter he sees a beast come out of the sea, having seven heads and ten horns, and in the 17th chapter and 8th verse he says that he is the beast that came out of the bottomless pit. He also says that he is the beast that was, and is not, and yet is. Now we will go back to the 13th chapter again and get a more minute description of the beast in verse 2. "And the beast which I saw was like unto a leopard, and his feet as the feet of a bear: and his mouth as the mouth of a lion: and the dragon gave him his power, and his seat, and great authority. Now, when or where do we have a leopard beast spoken of before? Go with me back to Daniel's prophecy. Dan. vii. 6, "After this I beheld another beast like a leopard, which had upon the back of it four wings of a fowl: the beast had also four heads: and dominion was given to it." This all agrees was a Grecian beast or Alexander the Great. Now John says the beast that he saw is the one that was, and is not, and yet is. Daniel's beast was and is not, and John sees him come up again as the "yet is," so he would be a Grecian beast still.

Hoping some of our best Bible students will take this up and show me where I am wrong, I remain your Brother,

J. B. LENZ.

The Word which God Hath Spoken.

"These things saith the Amen, the faithful and true witness, the beginning of the creation of God." Rev. 3: 14.

Heb. i. 2, declares he made the world by his Son. Fourth verse, he says he made him better than the angels, and that he inherits a better name than they. What name? "But unto the Son he saith, Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever, a sceptre of thy kingdom is righteousness. Thou hast loved righteousness and hated iniquity, therefore God, thy God, hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows. And, Thou, Lord, in the beginning hast laid the foundation of the earth; and the heavens are the works of thine hands. They shall perish; but thou remainest; and they all shall wax old as doth a garment: And as a vesture shalt thou fold them up, and they shall be changed, but thou art the same, and thy years shall not fail." Col. i. 14.

"Who hath delivered us from the power of darkness and hath translated us into the kingdom (by faith) of his dear Son, in whom we have redemption through his blood, even the forgiveness of sins, who is the image of the invisible God, the first born of every creature: For by him were all things created, that are in heaven and that are in earth visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities or powers; all things were created by him and for him: And he is before all things and by him all things consist. And he is the head of the body, the church, who is the beginning, the first born from the dead, that in all things he might have the pre-eminence. Eph. iv. 9.

"Now that he ascended, what is it but that he also descended first into the lower parts of the earth? He that descended is the same that ascended far above all heavens." The Word also says, "Ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich." 2 Cor. viii. 9.

And Jesus says in his prayer, "And now, O Father, glorify thou me with thine own self, with the glory which I had with thee before the world was.' I have lived almost 83 years and have never heard this subject preached on or referred to, why is it? It is God's plain Word, and to me it is glorious subject. Oh, what a sacrifice. I think these truths very important. Jesus when told by Satan, to make bread of stones said, "It is written man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." The Word also says secret things belong to the Lord, but things that are revealed belong to us and our children for ever. I think it would be impossible to use any plainer language than is used in Scripture on this subject.

Yours for the truth.

MRS. H. L. [illegible].

Selected.

"Tell Me How I Can Blister My Feet."

A preacher, whose name is well known throughout the United States, in walking the length of the hotel piazzi at a summer watering place, met a lady friend hastening toward the breakfast room. It was late in the morning. A casual remark of the gentleman as to the lateness of the hour for breakfast led to the following reply: "I am late because I was tired. I danced last night until I blistered my feet."

"May I ask one question?" the preacher said, and with consent he asked: "Did you ever blister your feet in the service of your Redeemer?" A scornful look and a hasty retreat was the result. For several days the lady avoided her friends, and in fact was invisible. Nearly a week passed. Then followed an interview at the request of the offended lady, who with real distress confessed that, although angry at the preacher's question, she had been unable to justify herself, nor had sleep been possible since the morning of her confusion. "God has forgiven me," she said. "I come to ask your pardon, and that you will tell me how I can blister my feet in the service of Christ. I am ready to do it now, and before I do anything else; I want to do it very much indeed; I want to make myself weary in his service."—Missionary Record.

Will of God.

The will of God is like a rope thrown to us as we struggle among the untamed waves. To remain "independent" is to repulse all succor, all salvation; it is to wander without a chart through the fury of the storm. To obey the storm, to advance against the confederate waves, to let one's self be irresistably drawn toward the invisible harbor where our heavenly Father awaits us. Obedience is duty under all its forms. Obedience is faith and resignation. Obedience has for its watchword, "May thy will be done;" "I will fulfill it when I am strong; I will accept it when I am weak."—Wilfred Monod.

Let every dawn of morning be to you as the beginning of life, and every setting sun be to you as its close. Then let every one of these [illegible] leave its sure record of some kind thing done for others, some goodly knowledge gain[ed] [illegible] from day to day from strength to strength, you will build up indeed, by art, by thought and by just will, an ecclesia of England, of which it shall not be said, "See what manner of stones are here," but "See what manner of men."—Ruskin.

Benevolence is not in word and not in tongue but in deed and in truth. It is a business with men as they are, and with human life as drawn by the rough hand of experience. It is a duty which you must perform at the call of principle, though there be no voice of eloquence to give splendor to your exertions and no music of poetry to lend your willing footsteps through the powers of enchantment. Benevolence is not merely a feeling, but a principle; not a dream of rapture for the fancy to indulge in, but a business for the hand to execute.—Chalmers.

Of all human frailties there are none so base as ingratitude, none so inhuman as to return evil for good—to debase the purest friendship extended to us by life-long friends.

Teach self-denial and make its practice pleasurable, and you create for the world a destiny more sublime than ever issued from the brain of the wildest dreamer.

Annual Ohio Excursion via Vandalia-Pennsylvania Lines Thursday Sept. 8th, 1898.

Special train will leave Lakeville, Ind. at 9.00 p. m. on above date, running through via Plymouth. Tickets will be sold to Canton, Alliance, Niles, Warren, Millersburg, Youngstown, O., and other points. Rate $5.00 for the round trip, with the exception of Youngstown which is $5.50. Tickets good returning for 10 days. Tickets can only be purchased at Lakeville or through that office. For further information address, Mrs. M. C. Rensberger, Agent Vandalia Line, Lakeville, Ind.: E. A. Ford, G. P. A., St. Louis, Mo.: W. F. Brunner, A. G. P. A., St. Louis, Mo.

Indiana State Fair.

For the above occasion the Vandalia will sell tickets to Indianapolis Sept. 12 to 17th, inclusive at one fare for round trip.

Poetry.

[Selected by S. Roxanna Wines.]

Jerusalem.

Jerusalem! dear name of joy and beauty,
Of woe and anguish, never, never known
Beneath the sun, to any other city
Since in the dust went down thy regal crown.
Blood, blood and tears and deep desolation,
And every form of torture and despair
Thy dreadful portion, since upon Golgotha
The cross was lifted in the shuddering air.

No other spot on earth has such a story
As thine, Jerusalem, thy carding hill—
Have seen thee shining with unequaled splendor.
Have seen thee trampled and mantleless as ashes.
Joy of God's chosen, in the wondrous ages
When men to God's bright presence might draw near,
And see the glory on the inner temple,
And feel its own robe of majesty would bear.

Cry of despair that lit thy night terrestrial,
That rose and rose albeit there was no soul was near.
The battle ground of nations—then bestowed
Egypt and Rome in their fierce forces spoil,
Persia and Babylon, made to mingle water
To flow abundant in the mourning ways,
And Franks and Turks and Moors and wild Crusaders,
Swelled the red tide that rolled through fatal days.

Centre of moral storms, whirlwind and earthquakes,
"Innocent blood" was long avenged in thee,
From Abel's down to his who would have saved thee—
Whom thou didst nail to the accursed tree.
Football of nations, every heathen robber,
All peoples, good or bad, have found a place
In thee to dwell—till save the Jew were welcome
Where thy best lover dared not show his face,

But times are changing, O deserted city!
Jerusalem of ever sacred call!
The awful depths of misery are clearing,
Wanderers in exile, hope amid your toil,
Near, near to come, the times of promised blessing,
When Gentile feet shall tread you down no more,
Jerusalem! name beaming sunlike ever,
The days of waiting now are almost o'er.

Joy of the earth beloved of all people!
City of God, to rule in grandeur next;
Christ, Son of David, soon will reign in glory,
The thronging Gentiles, bending at his feet.
While Israel's millions after ages scored,
—Augusta Moore, in Hebrew Christian.

Communicated.

Two Sides.

Jesus taught us all through his ministry that there were only two sides or two ways. The one leading to life, the other to death. No side track but a straight and narrow road, which, if followed would give us life everlasting. [illegible] What[illegible] that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to the flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap everlasting life."

Here are two quotations from Paul's letter to the Galatians giving us good foundation for thought. I do not like to dwell on the first one; it is not pleasant to think of, yet it is there and must mean just as it says. He tells us not to be deceived about this matter, for "whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." What is it to sow to the flesh?

Paul tells us in Gal. iv. 19-20, "Now the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these: adultery, fornication, uncleanliness, lasciviousness, idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, variance, emulation, wrath, strife, sedition, heresies, envyings, murders, drunkenness, revellings, and such like: of which I told you before, that they that do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God."

Dear brothers and sisters, (for it is to you I am writing) can we indulge in these vices which are enumerated, and yet feel that we are fit subjects for the kingdom of God? We should remember that it means more than these seventeen, because it says, "and such like." We could not enumerate, if we tried, all the vices that would cut us off from inheriting the promises of God. But we know good from evil, and for that reason man is a free moral agent and can choose for himself.

Elijah said unto the people, "How long halt ye between two opinions, if the Lord be God follow him. But if Baal, follow him." They were free to choose for themselves.

Again in Josh. xxiv. 15, Joshua says to the children of Israel, "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve; whether the gods which your fathers served that were on the other side of the flood, as the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye dwell; but as for me and my house we will serve the Lord." Joshua considered the people to whom he was talking to could choose for themselves as well as he, or he would not have said what he did to them.

Let us come down later and see what Jesus said concerning Jerusalem. "O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, Thou that killest the prophets and stonest them that are sent unto you. How often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under wings and ye would not." No, they would not; so our Savior said, and we would do well to believe it. Jesus would never have gone through such a farce of lamentation if those Jews could not have acknowledged him, but they would not. And so say I with our dear brother Paul, God is not mocked. We may deceive ourselves, but not God. Some of the writers of today say man is not a free moral agent, but by and by all will be raised from the least to the greatest. If words mean anything I do not see how these things can be so. I have searched the Scriptures like the Bereans of old, and I have found such Scripture as this: "They that sow the wind shall reap the whirlwind." And "They that plow iniquity, and sow wickedness shall reap the same." Now how is it with us as a church. Have we hatred in our hearts to our fellowmen? Are we at variance with our brother? Did not Jesus say, "First be reconciled to him, then offer thy gift?" Are we living in such a way that we cannot come to the Lord's table with our brother? If so the work of the flesh is with us. Is there rivalry or emulation among us, if so, let us tear it from the midst of us. Is there envyings, wrath or strife among us? Let me say that the Word of God says, that they that do these things shall not inherit the kingdom of God.

And now I will leave this side of the question and take up the brighter side. "They that sow to the Spirit reap everlasting life." Everlasting, do we take in the whole sense of the word? The poet gives us a faint idea in that old song—

"When we've been there
Ten thousand years,
Bright shining as the sun:
We've no less days
To sing God's praise,
Than when we first began."

Christ said to the disciples just before the betrayal, "I am the vine; ye are the branches; he that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit." Now the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faithfulness, temperance: against such there is no law." What a wide difference between the works of the flesh and the fruit of the Spirit.

And Paul says in Rom., "There is now no condemnation to those that are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh but after the Spirit. For the law of the Spirit of life hath made us free from the law of sin and death. Now, if we would be sons of God, we should be willing to be led by the Spirit of God, and thus be more Christlike, then we shall have a right to the inheritance, or in other words become joint-heirs with Christ in the kingdom of God.

I heard a minister say once in his sermon, that he thanked God for a "whosoever religion." I thought at the time it was a queer expression, yet it made a great impression on my mind, for does not Christ say, "Whosoever will may come?" Not those that will not, but those that will may come and partake of the water of life freely. They may come without money, without price to the fountain of life. Here we have the "whosoever" again in John iv. Jesus says, "Whosoever shall drink of the water that I shall give shall never thirst: But the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water, springing up into everlasting life." Here we have "everlasting" again. O that we may all have the fruit of the Spirit, that we may gain thisever lasting life, and let us remember that it is only promised to those that come under the head of "the whosoever." There is a "whosoever" that comes under the works of the flesh, which reads like this, "Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer, and no murderer hath eternal life."

Now, if any of us cannot come to the Lord's table with another brother, there must be something between them that would cut them off from the inheritance. We are all of us giving the sinner or unconverted good advice and quoting Scripture to them where we think it will be good. That is right and proper, but let us not forget the weightier matter, which is "love." Love to God and to our fellowman. Peter tells us to love the brotherhood. Jesus says, "This is my commandment that ye love one another, as I have loved you." How far did he show his love for us? He laid down his life for us. And greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friend. Can we claim this love when we cannot look over a brother's fault, or be reconciled with him that we can eat and drink at the Lord's table together? We have the Word of God for it, that judgment shall commence at the house of God. I feel that there will be a terrible sifting among those that claim to be followers of God, at the appearing of our Savior. "Who shall abide the day of his coming?" We as a church claim to be looking for him, how dare we hold aloof when the bread and wine are set out, when Jesus himself says, "Drink ye all of it." It shows that something is not right, and Christ may come before it will be made right too.

"Around the table of our Lord
We come to eat with sweet accord
And thus obey his loving words,
Until he come—Until he comes.

The Lord he said, 'Do this in remembrance me.
My grief and pain are all for thee.
And this example thine shall be,
Until I come, Until I come.

And when no more we gather here
Nor to this table more draw near,
May we sit down with him in glory,
When he shall come, When he shall come."

ALMIRA M. BROOKS.

1 Cor. xv. 29.

Dear Restitution:

As we have on hand an article written on 1 Cor. xv. 29, and reading in our beloved paper from time to time views on this all important verse—thought perhaps this communication might give a new idea to the brethren of our faith. We jotted down the following through our spare moments of the past winter, therefore bear with us in our imperfection if you see fit to publish it.

Otherwise what will those do who are being immersed on behalf of the dead? If the dead are not raised at all, why then are they immersed on their behalf? Comment.

In examining this Scripture, at first view, it looks quite unreasonable to expect the construction to be correct, as corresponds to former reasoning, as rendered in the C. V., but as the Diaglott renders, seems easier of solution. Let us analyze our text in a legal way and see result obtained, and then apply Scripture solution and observe result obtained by the application. Party of first part on behalf of party of second part, immersion as seal of faith of party of first part, on behalf of party of second part. Comment.

This appears to be a legal deed, or guarantee of good faith of the obedient ones; acknowledgement of the Messiah's power to harmonize all things by subjection, under his feet as expressed in v. 28, before the Father takes the reign over the new creation. Now, as Christ is our Mediator, "Who gave himself, a ransom for all, to be testified in due time," we cannot expect the accomplishment of his testatorial officeship, until the last of Adam's children shall legally be tried by the example of his immersion, and the power of his resurrection life, and that of his obedient ones, for thus it is written, "For even hereunto were ye called, because Christ also suffered for us, leaving us (mark the words) an example (unit of purpose) that we should follow his steps." 1 Pet. ii. 21. Moulded into the same substance, solemnly united to our federal Head, "Who being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God." Phil. ii. 6. And then Paul says 5th v. concerning the position Christ held in relation to the Father, "Let this mind be in you, which also was in Christ Jesus," that if we are Christ's, we are emphatically united with him, in the same degree. He was with the Father, therefore the immersion of the household of faith stands in some relation of accomplishment to the dead in verse under consideration, as Christ's: "For this cause was the gospel preached also to them that are dead, that they might be judged according to men in the flesh, but live according to God in the Spirit." 1 Pet. iv. 6.

In this quotation we learn, that the gospel, or good news of Christ was not closed at his death, but was carried with him in its preached form through death's dark portals, and resumed, or carried with him into his immortal state, and into his mediatorial life, to the priestly and kingly glorification with his elect. This Scripture under consideration and subject matter contained therein, stands in the same relation to the gospel, as 1 Pet. iii. 19, and must be considered in the same light.

It was the act performed through Christ's death, burial, and resurrection, that gave the gospel to the antediluvians, and not personal delivery of verbal utterance. Thus we learn by the reading of the 18th ver. of this chapter, that Christ's death in the flesh, and his quickening was the means, and only means employed in this case; so we read: "For Christ also hath once suffered for sins, (we suffer for well-doing) the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God, being put to death in the flesh, but quickened by the Spirit, by which (mark you the act) also he went and preached unto the spirits in prison." It was the act that preached to the antediluvians and not the verbal utterance of Noah: see Heb. ii. 7: "By faith Noah being warned of God of things not seen as yet, moved with fear, prepared an ark to the saving of his house, by the which (act of building) he condemned the world, and became an Heir of righteousness which is of faith." See Gen. vi.

It was the act of Christ's immersion as example for our obedience. "Not the putting away of the flesh, but the answer of a good conscience toward God." Not verbal proclamation. As this figure is taken from the act of Noah, by the interposition of God in his behalf, established his faith, in answer to a good conscience toward God, so the like figure on our behalf, establishes the same obedience in us. The spirit of obedience that actuated Noah, compelled him to build an ark for the saving of his house, compelled Christ to suffer death, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God; so the spirit in which the act was accomplished in each case, is in harmony, penetrating the dark recesses of the tomb, that God laid help on One mighty to save, "Who is the resurrection and the life."

What signified Christ's immersion, or his being immersed by John; was it not a seal of obedience to God's demand on him, to be a sacrifice in behalf of Adam's lost race, to redeem them from the power of the grave? And if so, would the command be complete until, "All that are in the grave heard his voice, And come forth, they that had done good unto the resurrection of life: the evil to the resurrection of condemnation." "Blessed is he that hath part in the first resurrection, for on such the second death hath no power," but how about those on whom death the second holds power, and are not raised from the tomb to answer for themselves, the demands of life laid upon them by God, in behalf of his creative power. If they have expiated the Adamic sin, by death once, they are no more holden of it, only under its dominion until the final judgment. Christ died for the redemption of Adam's family. "He tasted death for all." The testimony is complete concerning the ills of mankind in this life, and the power manifested in him by a resurrection from the tomb, the act gospel of our own redemption. Christ's immersion opened the valley of death, so that we could see a way of escape from its thralldom, and we accepted of the invitation to serve God's Son as our Savior, and more, "To become heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ;" "To be kings and priests." But what of those who have not heard, having never seen this radiant light of God, 'which he sent into the world to be the light of man," will they not some day see the power of God as manifested in his redeemed ones, those immersed on their behalf, who will be exhibited to the world as a testimony of the redemptive power of God's dear Son?

Now, let us learn a lesson from Lot's wife, and position he occupied in Sodom. Abraham asked the angels if a certain number of righteous dwelt in Sodom, with Lot, if they would spare the city? They said, yes. And Abraham kept reducing the number until there was not a redemptive feature left: and the seed of righteousness planted there in the person of just Lot, was taken away, so the city of the plain fell; now then, has the "purpose of God in Christ, the seed which Christ planted here when he went to the Father, lost its saltness in so far that it will be useless and tasteless, and cast away from him when he comes to finish the work designed him to perform? The Father sees representations in his plans of dealing with mankind. A few examples we will refer to, Jer. l. 5; Ezek. xxii. 30; James v. 17.

The question is, does he differ from this plan in the coming age? When it is written of him in the Psa. xcvi. 13, "He shall judge the world with righteousness and the people with his truth;" and again. Psa. xcviii. v, "With righteousness shall he judge the world, and the people with equity." If this is true, dare we limit justice with God? How does Webster define equity, let us see. "Justice: right. In practice equity is the impartial distribution of justice, or the doing that to another which the laws of God and man, and of reason, give him a right to claim. It is the treating of a person according to justice and reason."

"With righteousness shall he judge the poor, and reprove with equity." Isa. xi. 4. "And he shall be of quick understanding in the fear of the Lord: and he shall not judge after the sight of his eyes, neither reprove after the hearing of his ears." This is the characteristic of the Branch and of the Root of Jesse, that shall judge the world with the help of his sanctified ones. "For both he that sanctifieth, and they that are sanctified are all of one." Heb. ii. 11.

Brother Paul 1 Cor. vi. 1-4 says, "The saints shall judge the world, and also the angels, and also the things that pertain to this life, therefore judgment concerning this life, and of the coming age, are to pass under review, by Christ and his saints, at the time appointed." See 1 Cor. iv. 5. This being true, the destiny of Adam's posterity will be judged by the regenerate posterity of the second Adam, who will be fully endowed with royal authority to execute with equity and righteousness, the doom or eternal glory of their fellowman. If the Judge of the whole earth shall do right, if it pleases him to exalt to the judgship his immersed saints, who are immersed in behalf of the dead, as Christ was immersed in our behalf when we were dead, we see no injustice in either case, nor disagreement in the text under consideration, but a more complete and compact judicial court of appeal, is impanelled, where the sin burdened dying posterity of Adam, can appeal for justice, a tribunal whose very heart will beat in unison with that of the Father of life, and will not cease until righteous judgment is vindicated in behalf of lost humanity, and righteousness and peace fill the whole habitable.

Submitted in love,

R. M. REYNOLDS.

Report of Labor.

Dear Restitution:

Pursuant to previous arrangements, Brother Geo. Kidwell, of Witter, Ark., arrived at Banister, Camden Co., Mo., on the 4th of Aug., 1898, at which place he was to conduct a series of meetings. Upon Bro. Kidwell's arrival at his time and place of appointment, of one year's standing, he was confronted by the Missionary Baptist people, who stoutly contested for Brother Kidwell's time. After some parleying over the matter, a challenge for a discussion on the setting up of the kingdom, and the Immortality of the human soul was submitted. During seven days of joint-discussion great interest was aroused among the people at large. The Baptist minister made a heroic effort to sustain his position, but "Truth is mighty and will prevail." While not prepared to give the arguments in full. A brief outline may be interesting to RESTITUTION readers. The Baptist minister made the challenge and affirmed, that. The kingdom was already set up. The Baptist Church was the kingdom, and was accessible to. He claimed it originated from the Apostles, or in the days of John, the Baptist.

To this proposition, Bro. Kidwell, replied that the minister was in error, as the doctrines of the Baptist Church could be traced back to the Garden of Eden, and Satan was the founder when he told Eve she would not die the day she ate the forbidden fruit. After a flood of Bible truth had been turned upon this subject of the kingdom that the minister could not turn aside, he branched off on the doctrine of the immortality of the soul, and affirmed that the soul was the real man, immortal, indestructible, and in a conscious state from the death of the body, till the general judgment: souls of the righteous going at once to heaven; those of the wicked going straight to hell. On this proposition he was as completely "bottled" as was Cervera in the harbor at Santiago. At this point Bro. Kidwell served notice on the minister that he had him "bottled and tightly corked," and when he attempted to gain the "high sea" he might look for a general engagement. At the last of the week he returned to the kingdom; claiming it to be spiritual and in heaven. That the throne of David would never be set up and re-occupied.

While he was making his greatest efforts for victory for his cause, Bro. Kidwell derided the minister had reached "high sea" and proceeded to demolish the whole Baptist theory on the kingdom in a masterly presentation of the Abrahamic and Davidic Covenants. Bro. Kidwell so ably and clearly presented the Bible Truths on the Gospel of the Kingdom that many thinking persons of Baptist persuasions freely admitted their champion was defeated beyond any question.

Brother West, the Baptist minister, ably defended his doctrines, was courteous and gentlemanly all the way through. He and Bro. Kidwell parted with kindly feelings for each other. Brother West would not admit his belief of the doctrine of the kingdom as presented by Bro. Kidwell, and during the closing speech of Bro. Kidwell Bro West wept bitterly; whether from conviction, or conscious defeat, we are not prepared to decide.

At the close of the debate, seven persons came out upon the side of Truth, and joined the Church of God; three of whom were baptized. Many people attended the debate, and it is reasonably believed much good will result therefrom, as a spirit of investigation was aroused in the people of the country at large.

Closing at this place on Friday, the 12th, Bro. Kidwell went to Spout Spring, in Hickory Co., to meet Elder Sawley of the Latter Day Saints of the Church of Jesus Christ, in a joint-discussion. Bro. Kidwell had made extensive preparation for this occasion, and his disappointment can be more easily imagined than described when Elder Sawley failed to appear and did not send a man to take his place. The expected debate did not take place.

However, Bro. Kidwell began a series of Bible discourses on Saturday night, Aug. 13, and continued eight days and nights, expounding the truths of the Bible with convincing power to increasing and attentive congregations. One person joined the Church and was baptized.

Leaving appointments for next year as follows: At Banister, near Sister Mary E. Howard's, in Camden Co., on Thursday, before the first Sunday in Aug. 1899.

From this place Bro. Kidwell will go to Spout Spring, in Hickory Co., and hold a series of meetings; thence to Wheatland in the west end of Hickory Co., on the Warsaw and Springfield State road.

The homeward journey was begun on the 29 inst., from Thomas Driskell's, at Spout Spring, arriving at Bro. Ben. Scott's the same evening, where a most pleasant reception was had, remaining there until Thursday morning, from whence we were transferred by Bro. Scott to the town of Collin, where we took the train at 4 p. m. for St. Paul, Ark., at which place we arrived Friday noon, in good health, without mishap.

In closing this communication it seems but right and proper that due respect be paid to the kindly disposition of the people of Camden, Benton and Hickory Counties. Through the kindness of Bro. Geo. Kidwell in extending an invitation to accompany him on his annual visit, the writer had the pleasure of forming an acquaintance with the many warm friends which the doctor has in the above mentioned Counties.

Having travelled a great deal among strangers, the range of observation is quite extensive, and it can be truthfully stated that no County can boast of a more industrious, thrifty, social and hospitable people than those it was our very pleasant lot to be cast among for a stay of three weeks. Should it never be our lot to meet those good people in their homes again, the memory of the pleasant stay with them on the first acquaintance, will ever be as an "oasis on life's desert way."

Yours in hope of eternal life at the coming of the Lord Jesus Christ,

HENRY C. MOORE.

Hay Fever Sufferers.

Find relief at the cool resorts in Northern Michigan and Wisconsin, on the lines of the Chicago & North-Western R'y. For full information regarding rates, etc., apply to W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth Avenue, Chicago, or to any ticket agent in the United States.—Sep 17

Hope is the ruddy morning ray of joy, recollection is its golden tinge; but the latter is wont to sink amid the dews and dusky shades of twilight, and the bright blue day which the former promises breaks indeed, but in another world and with another sun.—Richter.

As we stand in the midst of the rushing currents of history we hear an inspired voice crying through the confusion and the strife of life—"The night is far spent, the day is at hand: let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armor of light."

Selected.

Destiny of the Anglo-Saxons.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 31.—An address on "The Proposed Anglo-American Alliance" was delivered before the American Social Science association today by Charles A. Gardiner, A. M., Ph. D., counsel for the elevated railroads of New York City. He said in part:

"In continental Europe and Asia Russia is the only virile, invincible and increasingly dominant power. Its domains are practically coterminant with the Slavic race; in the western hemisphere the United States is supreme, and in the rest of the world Great Britain. Two nations whose territories embrace the Anglo Saxon race. These three nations, and two races, I the ultimate analysis of human power rule the world. Thousands of miles from their seats of government, on the other side of the globe, they have met, face to face, for the first time in history.

"Shall it be America for Americans, segregation from the rest of the world, a policy of isolation, and internal development without external expansion? Or shall we keep the Philippines and enter the lists with England and Russia for the trade and empire of the world?

"We own the Philippines by right of conquest, moreover no one does, we can maintain stable government Spain cannot, and the natives are incapable of self-rule. I can conceive no reason to give away, or sell, or lease, or abandon a single foot of the territory. It would be to lessen to that proportion the greatest opportunity providence ever placed before the nation. With the Philippines, Ladrones, Samoan and Hawaii, our possessions will reach across the Pacific, and its commerce will become the commerce of America in a larger degree than of any other nation. Such is the broad plane of international relations upon which alone it is wise to discuss an Anglo-American alliance.

"Another utilitarian basis for alliance is maintenance of peace. The attitude of the European powers is now best described, not as anti American nor even anti-British, but as broadly hostile to the Anglo Saxon race. They will defend concerted American action. And England knows and America knows that all the nations together could never stand against it.

"The grandest thought of the century is this convergence of the Anglo-Saxon race. As citizens and individuals on duties ally us with this beneficent movement. Let us promote a unity already begun, let us encourage the common interests and sentiments of the nations; let us, so far as in us lies, consummate in our day the alliance of kin predicted by the wise and good of three generations, as the noblest, most beneficial, most powerful primacy ever presented to the heart and understanding of man."

The Danger of Small Wounds.

Many lives are lost each year in consequence of the lack of a little common sense about simple cuts or wounds of the hands or other parts. Several cases have been recorded in our newspapers of inquests on persons who have died from blood-poisoning from small cuts on the hands. A man, for example, while working at his trade, or even while cutting a piece of bread, receives a cut on the hand; it scarcely calls for notice; anything is considered good enough with which to stop the bleeding, and the small wound is left to take care of itself. As long as the wounds, however small, remain unhealed, the risk of contracting blood-poisoning will always be present. Cuts should have some dressing, vaseline answering in most cases, and be tied up in linen; or at least have court-plaster on until the skin heals. By the way, court-plaster should never be wet by the lips to convey acid saliva or germs from the mouth. To be perfectly safe, plaster should be kept in wax paper, and wet in boiling water.

The violet cannot become the rose, the daisy cannot be the lily; and if earth could be the loveliest flower, earth would lose half its beauty. Without variety, a scene however fair within itself soon wearies us. Know-est thou the moral? Be content in thy proper sphere, then mayest be the violet or the daisy but envy not the rose or lily; all are beautiful when in their appointed places.

Fall in! Comrades.

The Nickel Plate Road has authorized low rates to Cincinnati on account of the National Encampment of the G. A. R. [illegible]

Illinois State Conference.

To the Church and all the Brethren of the one faith in Illinois:

You are hereby invited to come to a Conference to be held at Lanark, Ill., on or about Oct. 20, 1898, for the purpose of more fully organizing the Church of God in this State and make proper arrangements for evangelistic work throughout the State. Notice of programme will be given in due time—come to this meeting and show that we believe that the Lord will soon establish his kingdom.

J. M. GOODRICH, Sec.

I would second the call of the secretary, and say, let us come up to Lanark, from every part of the State. Every baptized believer of the gospel of the kingdom is earnestly invited to be there. There is but little work being done in Illinois, probably less than in any other State in the Union. This ought not to be so we must all come and assist one in effecting a change. We also need to come in contact with each other, for personal strength and encouragement.

Come, if you have to make a personal sacrifice to do so. I believe in my brethren and sisters, and fully expect a goodly company will be there.

I want to request that every one who will come, if it is possible for you to do so, to send your name and address to the Secretary, at Lanark, Ill., at once it will help matters to learn that you have an interest in it.

A programme will be arranged later on.

W. H. WILSON.

Conference Notice.

The Quarterly Conference of the Church of God, in Michigan, will be held, the Lord willing, at Brady, Kalamazoo County, Michigan, commencing Friday evening, Sept. 30th, 1898, and continue over the following Sunday. Friends coming from the north reach Vicksburg via Grand Rapids and Indiana R. R., which leaves Grand Rapids at 2.40 p. m. Teams will meet all trains on Friday and Saturday, to convey passengers to the place of meeting. Those coming from Hastings will take the Grand Rapids and Indiana R. R. at Kalamazoo, all friends coming from the north will be met at Vicksburg. Those coming from the south will be met at Meadow.

Able speakers are expected to be present, and an earnest invitation is extended to all to attend and hear the truth. Come all that can and help to make this our Quarterly Conference as interesting as possible.

EMMA JACKMAN, Sec'y.

List of Appointments.

Hickory Grove, Iowa, Sept. 8 to 11.
Irving, Iowa, Sept. 14 to 18.
Hampton, Iowa, Sept. 22 to 28.
Ashton, Ill., Oct. 1 to 5.
Silver Creek, Ill., Oct. 6 to 9.
Adaline, Ill., Oct. 13 to 16.
Dixon, Ill., Oct. 20 to 23.
Lanark, Ill., Oct. 27 to 30.
Rock Falls, Ill., Nov. 2 to 13.
Muscatine, Iowa, Nov. 15 to 27.
Ripley, Ill., Dec. 1 to 4.

Brethren, if above appointments and dates do not suit, will you write me at once?

Yours in hope of the coming kingdom.

D. M. HOLSER.

Reduced Fares to Various Points via Pennsylvania Lines.

Excursion tickets will be sold via Pennsylvania Lines as indicated in the following paragraphs. Although concessions in fares are authorized for meetings of certain Orders, tickets may be obtained by any person whether a member of the Order or interested in the event. The reduced rates will be open to everybody.

To Pittsburgh, Pa., October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th and 13th, good returning until October 17th, account Knights Templar Triennial Conclave. Return limit may be extended until October 31st.

During the excursion season special rates will also be in effect via Pennsylvania Lines for special and local events. For particular information please apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines or address C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.

From Sept. 5th to 10th, there will be a great gathering of the B. of G. A. at Cincinnati, for their Annual Encampment. The Nickel Plate Road sells tickets to Cincinnati at low rates. For [illegible] address any agent of the Nickel Plate Road or E. [illegible] Passenger Agent, Cleveland.

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing. Said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 20th of April, 1898, providing notice is given on through THE RESTITUTION that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all communications to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 330, Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. S. J. Sigler,	$10.00
J. L. Weare,	5.00
F. L. Austin	10.00
Edgar Hatch.	1.00
Agnes Dilworth.	2.00
Mrs. Mary E. Thompson.	15.00
One who believes that God from little offerings can work out great results.	10.00
A Friend of Truth	1.00
Mrs. S. A. Wickizer.	5.00
Mrs. A. M. Sipe,	10.00
Mrs Mary J. Biggs.	2.00

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donor requests, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

R. Fowler,	.50

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

John Congdon, Blair, Neb.
J. H. Stevens, Shawnee Mound, Mo.
S. B. Winkelsteel, Bonham, Texas.
P. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
E. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st., Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 155 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio.
W. L. Skeels, Schoills, Ore.
E. Ruer, Box 384, Grand Rapids, Mich.
S. Roxana Wires, Cheyenne, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Heun, Dudley, Worcestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Sidesville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Catesville, Ark
J. J. Cody, Hollbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prince, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Shellbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kean, 4507, S. N. St., Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Glenn, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hall, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Sidell, Ill.
R. C. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Osawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
O. M. Hudler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. G. Haupt, Laurel, Neb.
J. R. Fiss, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, Ont.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Princner, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
H. T. Baker, Box 1003, Dows-ch, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Arcata, Cal.
J. R. Ogleve, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Marmont, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Las Robles Ave., Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Stiles, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 11, Viola, Idaho.
Elder H. M. Williams, Portland, Kan.
B. Wilson, 1065 G St., Sacramento, Cal.
D. T. Halstead, Anderson, S. D.
Jesse Emery, 2012 West Corning Ave., Pasadena, Cal.
C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Kansas.
G. S. Bwiggins, Oil-n, Mich.
H. F. Tyler, 2711 6th ave, Tacoma, Wash.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 384 Grand Rapids, Mich.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt binding, fifth edition; one copy of same in cloth binding, one copy of "Twelve Words;" one of "Early Lessons;" and one of "Honoring the Son,"—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

Excursions to Chicago.

Commencing July 17th and continuing every Sunday until further notice the Pennsylvania Lines will sell Cleveland to Chicago, Special excursion tickets from Plymouth to Chicago. Special [illegible] leave at 7:15 a. m. Central [illegible] Chicago 8 p. m. [illegible] at 11:30 p. m. Correspondingly low [illegible]

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. B. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St. and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God at Argos, Ind., meet on their house on Michigan st., on fellowship preaching by J. F. Wagoner on 1st and 3rd Sundays in the month. Sunday School at 9:30 a. m. Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God at Mt. Olive meet every Lord's day in the week at 10:00, for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the one faith passing through the city, to meet with us, and they will be cared for by all the [illegible] meeting at 10:00 a. m. 2001 West Ivy St., Seattle, Wash.

The Church of God at Anderson, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Miller Hall. Any brethren or sisters in the Oregon, Milwaukee & Seattle Ry. coming west to Aberdeen, thirty miles east thereof.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb. meets every Sunday at the Evans Church, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Wilson, Elder; Sarah Selleck, Secy.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Carney's house at 10:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. Brethren known to this church, or coming properly endorsed by introductory letter, will be heartily welcomed. At present we meet in the School House on top of the hill; cable cars come very near, and every brings from Seattle.

The brethren of the Church of God at Beach Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Kaiser, Keeder, or H. L. Lehigh, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Rammond, Ga., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthon, Elder.

The Church of God at Lowdyk, N. Y., meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Rowser Hall, on Willoughby Ave., near Broadway.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Shellbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Ruisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Salmis, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trussell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y., is, of every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Groat, of Scholls, Oregon. Accommodations for Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Ont., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles northeast of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God of Waterville, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Mountainview School House, near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Connelley, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y., meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 p. m. for worship, in private houses. All honest Truth, and true disciples are cordially invited to step in and meet with us. A. W. Graver, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich., have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Faithfully yours, Geo. Muchmore.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays in each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver, Pastor.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1231, Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave., Cleveland, Ohio, where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Gospel Church, meet each and Sunday at [illegible]

The Church of God in Watertown, N. Y., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. in the Church on Sherman St., between Washington and Clinton Sts. Visitors welcome. Pastor, Elder Wm. Hall, 1000 Pine St.

The Church of God at Ellwood City, Pa., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. in the Church on Lawrence Ave

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, SEPTEMBER 14, 1898. NUMBER 35.

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortalsaints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

Poetry.

"I am the Way, the Truth and the Light."

TUNE—"SWEET HOUR OF PRAYER."

Are you looking to Jesus, your Savior,
Looking to him for your light;
And trusting to his gracious favor,
And learning more him what is right?

CHORUS.

Living, growing, looking, thriving, Truth seeking,
Looking to Jesus, Finding rest at last;
Learning to do by Him in meekness,
Serving in Jesus, Sacrificing.

Many trust men in letter's traditions
Rejecting the truth for the lie,
For his words teach of many superstitions,
And his Bible would not deny.

So many lie Word are not as it,
Look [illegible] by Theorizing Bible
And many God's laws by mutilation,
So many with cross is guile.

Promising life where death threatens
Believing [illegible]
As truth, [illegible]
And loving the words that he sent.

Come then where wisdom are Truth,
Come to the [illegible]
His truth its own [illegible]
His Word when believed is sought.

WALTER SKINNER.

Communicated.

Bible Study on the Word Hope.

"But sanctify the Lord God in your hearts: and be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you with meekness and fear." I Pet. iii. 15.

To give "a reason of the hope that is in you," suggests that the expectation we entertain with regard to good things to come, is within the bounds of reason, and that its reasonableness can be shown, or made manifest to those who may "ask you for a reason of the hope that is in you." The question asked, is not so much as to what your hope is, that is supposed to have been already given, and the enquiry arises, is your hope a reasonable expectation? Will it stand the test of reason?

If a man tells me that his expectation is centered in a death that never dies, and that in death, his never-dying soul will wing his flight to the spirit-land, it is my privilege to apply the test of reason and common sense, and if my informant cannot show its reasonableness, I know of a certainty that he entertains a false hope, because the one true hope will stand the severest test of reason.

Dear reader, are you able to give a reason for your hope? If not, get ready. "Be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you," not in a boastful offensive way, but "with meekness and fear."

The world abounds with professions of fictitious hopes. The Bible recognizes but one hope. See Eph. iv. 4: "There is one body, and one Spirit, even as ye are called in ONE HOPE of your calling." In the study of this topic emphasis should be placed upon the word "called," in this passage: "even as ye are called in

ONE HOPE OF YOUR CALLING."

"Many are called, but few are chosen."

What are we to gain by the "one hope of your calling?" See Rom. viii. 24: "We are saved by hope: but hope that is seen is not hope: for what a man seeth, why doth he yet hope for? But if we hope for that we see not, then do we with patience wait for it."

The one hope can be known by the enlightenment of the mind. See Eph. i. 18: "The eyes of your understanding being enlightened: that ye may know what is the hope of his calling, and what the riches of the glory of his inheritance in the saints." Back of all this is the "One Faith" strongly enforced by evidence. Please note:

1. There is but one hope.
2. We are saved by this hope.
3. It is to be perceived by the enlightenment of the mind.
4. By it we are brought into a condition of holiness and freedom from sin. We are saved.

I would ask in what message is all this blessedness revealed? See Col. i. 22, 23: "To present you holy, and unblameable and unreprovable in his sight: If ye continue in THE faith grounded and settled, and be not moved away from which ye have heard." Hence, the "one hope" of the Scriptures is "the hope of the gospel."

THE HOPE OF THE GOSPEL,

There being but one hope, does not signify there is but one thing hoped for, but that all the blessings of our hope are founded in the one message called the gospel. I may buy one basket of fruit, but in that one basket may be found many varieties. All blessings are concentrated in the one gospel.

"We are saved by hope," hence comes the exhortation: "Be not moved away from the hope of the gospel." Are people moved away from the hope of the gospel? Yes, the mass of the people are moved away from the hope of the gospel. The hope of their gospel points them to a sky-kingdom for immortal souls to be entered upon at death. There is not the faintest allusion to such an expectation in "the hope of the gospel." They commenced very early to be "moved away from the hope of the gospel." Paul says in Gal. i. 6, 9: "I marvel (wonder) that ye are so soon removed from him that called you into the grace of Christ unto another gospel: Which is not another; (there being but one gospel) but there be some that trouble you, and would pervert THE gospel of Christ." And from this early perversion was arisen a massive apostacy.

"The hope of the gospel" is a place of refuge. See Heb. vi. 18: "We might have strong consolation, who have fled for refuge to lay hold upon which hope we have as an anchor of the soul both sure and stedfast." What is this "sure and stedfast" hope? Read the context to this passage, and you will see it refers to the promises (not three historical facts alone) made unto Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, sealed by God's impregnable oath. The message then comes to us: (ver. 11-13) "We desire that every one of you do show the same diligence to the

THE HOPE SET BEFORE US:

FULL ASSURANCE OF HOPE

unto the end: that ye be not slothful, but followers of them who through faith and patience inherit the promises."

There being but "one hope," which hope is "the hope of the gospel," and in these "promises," we have the "full assurance of hope." These promises are "the hope," and "the gospel," taught in the Scriptures.

Peter confirms this, when he says (2 Pet. i. 4) "Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises:

THAT BY THESE

ye might be partakers of the divine nature." Paul divinely commissioned by Jesus, to preach the hope of the promises, got into trouble for doing so. They arrested him, and took him before King Aggrippa, for trial. In his defense he said: "And now I stand and am judged for made of God unto our fathers. Unto which our twelve tribes instantly serving God day and night hope to come. For which hope's sake, King Agrippa, I am accused of the Jews. Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you that God should raise the dead?" "The hope of the promise made of God unto the fathers involved the resurrection of the dead. They could not be fulfilled without it. Hence as we see, the question of the resurrection arose at his trial.

THE HOPE OF THE PROMISE

Paul then appealed to Cæsar, at Rome, and thither he was taken. (See Acts xxviii. 20-23.) On arriving there he called for the chief men of Jews, and said unto them: "For this cause therefore have I called you, to see you and to speak with you: because that for which God that cannot lie, promised before the world began." Hence "eternal life" is a matter of hope and promise in "the hope of the gospel." In the perverted gospel of the apostacy it is preached as a present possession, and hence is no hope at all.

THE HOPE OF ISRAEL

I am bound with this chain. * * * And when they appointed him a day, there came many to him in his lodging, to whom he expounded and testified the kingdom of God, persuading them concerning Jesus, both out of the law of Moses, and out of the prophets, from morning till evening." That is the way he preached "the hope of Israel," or "the hope of the promise made of God unto the fathers." and showed it not to be an incredible thing "that God should raise the dead." Eternal life by the resurrection was a matter of hope involved in "the hope of the gospel." See Titus i. 2:

"IN HOPE OF ETERNAL LIFE,

See also Titus iii. 7: "That, being justified by his grace, we should be made heirs according to

THE HOPE OF ETERNAL LIFE."

Paul in Acts xxiii. 6, says: "Of the hope of the resurrection of the dead I am called in question," which is intimately involved in the hope of the promises made of God unto the Fathers."

Paul draws a line and shows a difference with regard to the future, as between those who have died having embraced "the hope of the gospel," and those who have not. He says in I Thess. iv. 13: "I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them that are asleep, that ye sorrow not, even as others

WHICH HAVE NO HOPE."

Who are without hope? Those who have not learned "the hope of the gospel," "the hope of the promises made of God unto the fathers." This is confirmed in Eph. ii. 12: "Wherefore remember that ye being in time past Gentiles in the flesh: * * * that at that time ye were being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, and without God in the world." Hence, "strangers from the covenants of promise" etc., have "no hope," (that is a Bible hope,) "the hope," "the "one hope," "the hope of the gospel," "the hope of eternal life," "the blessed hope," are not "saved by hope," do not "rejoice in hope," does not "know what is the hope of his calling," have no "hope laid up in heaven," does not "wait for the hope of righteousness," are "moved away from the hope of the gospel," and from "the hope of eternal life," have no "full assurance of hope," has not laid "hold upon the hope set before us," can give us no "reason of the hope that is in you," does not "rejoice in the bringing in of a better hope," has no "hope toward God," at death's approach they sorrow as "those which have no hope," they little realize that "we through patience and comfort of the Scriptures might have hope," are not like Abraham "who against hope believed in hope," have not the "hope which maketh not ashamed," cannot "stand and rejoice in hope of the glory of God," but hopelessly approach the future, not knowing what may lay before them. Are "alienated from the life of God through the ignorance that is in them." Then a person can be "alienated from the life of God" by ignorance of the way 'the life of God" might be obtained. This knowledge is centered in "the hope of the gospel," which if believed and obeyed will bring "the light of life." "If judgment first begin at the household of God, what shall the end be of them that obey not the gospel." We are not permitted to temporize either with "the faith," or the "obedience of faith," it is a serious matter to play with matters that relate to eternity. God will hold us responsible, if we deceive others with a specious liberality. He is the most liberal, and the greatest benefactor who will "contend earnestly for the faith once delivered to the saints," and refuse all compromise with the flesh.

WITHOUT CHRIST,

HAVING NO HOPE,

The time has arrived when the Church of God should "continue in the faith grounded and settled, and be not moved away from the hope of the gospel." Scattered abroad are all manner of teachers and hobby riders, who deceive those who are not grounded and settled." They preach a specious liberalism which is agreeable to the flesh, but will prove disastrous when the Lord shall be revealed from heaven.

W. H. WILSON.

The Gospel Recovered. No. 13.

DRAWBACKS AND HINDRANCES.

"That they all may be one.....that the world may believe that thou hast sent me."

In the previous articles on this subject I have endeavored to trace the progress of Dr John Thomas from the fold of the "Reformation" in 1832, to his baptism in 1847, when he rendered the obedience of faith in the gospel of the kingdom. His further labors in America and in Britain down to 1851 also passed under review. In No. 12, I quoted from Herald of the Kingdom (Vol. I.) these words, "The Herald...may be considered as the organ of all those, be they many or few, whose hope the kingdom is," and in No. 10, "the question of amenability to judgment of certain classes of persons, a subject which within recent years has been the occasion of a disruption (not description as printed) of fellowship among certain believers calling themselves by the name Christadelphian." Also, "it is important to note that questions 6, 26, 27, 28, indicate an approach to a Scriptural knowledge on the part of the editor concerning the kingdom of God." The words "the kingdom of" having been omitted from the paragraph in THE RESTITUTION.

The Herald was issued for eleven years, ceasing, owing to the Civil War, in 1861. In 1862 the Doctor again visited Britain, having just issued the first volume of Eureka.

Having said so much as to the recovery of the gospel, and the credit due to Dr. Thomas in connection with the same, it appears a fitting occasion to make some reference to certain drawbacks by which it has been, up to the present time, characterized. It needs no telling that among its professors disunion to a great extent has prevailed for over thirty years, nor that divisions have been based on certain matters of Bible truth beyond "the gospel of the kingdom." It is well known that such matters may be summed up in what is known as "mortal resurrection," the nature of the Deity, the nature of the Christ, the nature of Satan, amenability of certain classes to judgment, etc. The signification attached to such points may be right or wrong, but that is a question which need not be considered here. Whatever the amount of truth may be here contended for by Christadelphians to belong to their views of them, they cannot be demonstrated as necessary elements of the gospel. Such views may be characterized as purely speculative. Of this I give only one example. "If I might venture a conjecture upon so profound a subject I would suggest that the Divine Nature is that wonderful and extraordinary essence observed in that terrible and destructive agent the Scriptures term "Spirit," and philosophy, "electricity." Eureka Vol. I. p. 96. See a more reasonable view in Elpis Israel, 12 years earlier, p. 103. "What his essence consists in he has not revealed."

The divisions referred to originated, so far as I can ascertain, among those who had been gathered through the agency of Dr. Thomas. I am not aware that the Doctor was directly responsible for the sad state of matters referred to, however he may have given his countenance, by word and deed, to that section of the brotherhood who agreed with his own opinions. Of this perhaps more anon. Meanwhile I quote a short paragraph written in 1875, with the remark now offered, that I am unaware of the date of the incident, and as to whether Dr. Thomas had any active part in the matter. "It is a remarkable circumstance, illustrative of the tendency towards extremes, that the original church in New York, with which our late brother Dr. John Thomas was connected, withdrew from those holding the original basis, because they were willing to regard mortal resurrection as an open question. On the other hand, however, it is gratifying to observe that the church in Jersey City, with which Dr. Thomas was latterly in fellowship, called Christadelphians, have, along with others from various places, been fraternizing with the brethren of the original basis at Brooklyn."

It was certainly no easy position Dr. Thomas had to maintain when all the circumstances are considered. In the first place he had the alien element to face, both in his writings and lecturing. In the second, he had a section of the brotherhood who were but too ready to forget the injunction of the Apostle, "Let no man glory in men." He had a third section, who, while possessed of sufficient gratitude to acknowledge the service the Doctor rendered in bringing to light the testimony concerning the faith and obedience of the gospel, were at the same time by no means disposed to accept, without question, his opinions on secondary subjects.

It may be permitted here to state a few facts as to one peculiarity of the Doctor's work as author, editor, and preacher, towards the forming of a correct judgment, on the part of whom it may concern, in relation to the state of the brotherhood.

Speculative questions had been a favorite pursuit of the Doctor from an early period. He had contributed an article to the "Lancet," a medical magazine in London, when a young man, in reply to an essay on the "immateriality of the mind," etc. As already mentioned, he published in 1835, 34 questions, with the heading, "Information wanted," in his Apostolic Advocate. His views on some of these questions were afterwards introduced in Elpis Israel," and more recently still, in Eureka, vols. I., II. and III. 1861 to 1869. Thus, the nature of God, besides being treated in Elpis Israel," occupied eleven articles in the Herald of the Kingdom, vols. VIII. and IX. These were afterwards reproduced in separate book form which extended to 73 closely printed pages, and entitled Phanarosis, (1869). The same subject occupies twenty pages in Eureka. Again, the "Nature of Satan" is dealt within Elpis Israel, occupying a large part of thirty pages—68 to 98. The same subject occupies 36 pages in the Herald of the Kingdom, vol. II. So much for the fact of what seems to me undue fondness for speculative subjects.

Another fact is that such speculations naturally became the subjects of discussion among believers, and were adopted by many. And it need not be surprising that, on the other hand, many even of his best and earliest friends were totally unable to accept them. Of course Dr. T. had a perfect right to form opinions upon any subjects that came in course; but the same privilege belonged to all others, and that without in the least subjecting them to any opprobrium. The evil was in imposing such views upon others. It was certainly not to be assumed that brethren had either no minds of their own, or had not sufficient independence to express their views on fitting occasion. The amount of literature pro and con, both serial and other, on God Manifestation, mortal resurrection, etc., is sufficiently extensive to confirm what I have stated.

Another fact here may be mentioned. Dr. Thomas was quite sensible of this propensity for controversy on subjects that interested him, and even goes the length of acknowledging the evil of it. In his Confession and Abjuration! (1847), speaking of the works of A. Campbell and W. Scott, he says, "We acquired a taste for theological gladiatorship, for which we have not been altogether unjustly blamed." Life, p. 206.

J. CAMERON.

(To be Continued.)

Habit is a cable. We weave a thread of it every day, and at last we cannot break it.

Selected.

The Extent of the Philippines.

Were the maps of these islands and of the eastern seaboard of the United States drawn to the same scale, and one placed over the other we would find that the map of the Islands would reach from New York on the north and extend through South Carolina on the south.

The total length of the group, from the northernmost point of Luzon to the southern extremity of Mindanao, is about 950 miles, or fifty miles less than the distance from the northern boundary of New York to the southern point of South Carolina. The Philippines have never been thoroughly surveyed or explored, and consequently the estimates of the total area of the several hundred islands of the group have differed widely. The most trustworthy calculations fix this total area to be between 114,300 and 115,500 square miles, an extent of territory equal to the combined areas of the states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland. The largest of the Philippine islands, Luzon, upon which Manila is situated, has an area of 40,875 square miles, being thus of almost exactly the same size as the state of Virginia and over 8,000 square miles smaller than New York state. In length Luzon extends for about 475 miles and would reach from a point slightly north of the northern boundary of New York almost to the mouth of the Potomac river.

Mindanao, the next largest of the islands, has an area of 37,256 square miles. It would require the combined territory of West Virginia and Maryland to equal the island in size. Mindanao extends nearly 300 miles from north to south, or, in comparison with the part of the map upon which it is superimposed, it would reach from the mouth of the Roanoke river, in North Carolina, to Charleston, S. C. Projecting from its western coast, Mindanao has a long, irregular peninsula, which makes the extreme width of the island something over 300 miles.

The two smaller islands of Mindoro and Panay, upon the latter of which is the port of Iloilo, are each over 4,000 square miles in area. Together they equal in size the State of New Jersey. Samar island, southeast of Luzon, covers 7,000 square miles.

There are estimated to be about 1,200 islands in the Philippine group, though any accurate statement is impossible. Probably not more than one-third of these are inhabited. It is as difficult to obtain correct statistics regarding the population of the Philippines as it is to get a definite statement of their area, because a careful census has never been taken. Various writers estimate the present population at from 8,000,000 to 10,000,000.

Temptations are among the means of Christian growth. Every time that a temptation is mastered, and we are able to say "Get thee behind me Satan," we add another link to our armor. When trials are courageously surmounted, when the plot which is laid for our destruction frustrated and we outflank the enemy and cause him to retire in disorder, we feel within us the thrill of victory and are stronger than before.

It is not the flashing meteor that attracts so much attention for a moment and then goes out in darkness, but the steady shining of the fixed stars, that is reliable. So with Christians. It is not the flashing, brilliant talkers that count, but the steady people who live and shine every day.

Beauty then art twice blessed; thou blessest the gazer and the possessor. A sweet disposition, a lovely soul, an affectionate nature will speak in the eyes, the lips, the brow, and become the cause of beauty.

Man has created by writing an artificial memory, more faithful, more durable, more credible than natural memory.

The Restitution.

A. K. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE
J. H. WILLEY,
W. B. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, SEPT. 14, 1898.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Marshall Co., Ind."

Remittances should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles much mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

A WAR ATLAS.

The exact locality of many places mentioned in the news of the War between the United States and Spain is not known to the general reader, and no recourse is had to geographies. We have decided to offer our readers a complete War Atlas of sixteen pages of maps, showing all the territory where a conflict can occur, besides some valuable statistics. This will be mailed to you for 25 cts. Send orders at once, and get the position of the places named that you can better understand how the various complication will affect the nations of the world. Address,—THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind.

Bro. A. H. Zilmer started last Thursday for Fonthill, Ont., to preach for a while at that point and other adjacent places.

Bro. B. W. Woodward called on us Monday, on his way to hold meetings at Argos for a few evenings, and then going on to Warren Co. where he preaches regularly each month.

BRETHREN interested will please take notice of the change of time of the Illinois Conference. We trust the friends will all attend this gathering, and help in the work in Illinois.

WE have the continuing part of Bro. Joblin's series of articles in hand, but owing to delay in receiving it, and having some other articles started, we will not be able to give it to our readers till next week.

IN the island of Crete the Mussulmans have commenced to massacre the Christians, and a British warship has bombarded Candia. It seems as if this place cannot long enjoy quiet, but must ever be in a turmoil.

THIS week we give considerable space to the passing events of the world. We trust it will not be uninteresting to our readers. Some few who have the metropolitan daily paper will remember that very many of our patrons have no other paper but ours, and it is for their information we give this class of matter.

THE Right-Honorable Joseph Chamberlain, Colonial Secretary of Great Britain, landed in this country last Wednesday for an extended visit here. He says that ninety-nine out of every one hundred Englishmen favor an Anglo-American Alliance. Further he says "I have been holding for years that an alliance between this country and Britain was sure to come."

THE following dispatch would indicate that England had made one more point in the Chinese game, and is at present on the gain in influence.

Peking, Sept. 7.—Li Hung Chang has been dismissed from power. It is presumed this was done in accordance with the demand which it was rumored, the British Minister here, Sir Claude M. MacDonald was instructed to make on account of the alleged partiality of the great Chinaman to Russia. Li Hung Chang's schemes are said to have resulted in Great Britain being deprived of the contract for the Peking-Hankow railroad, the Russo-Chinese bank getting financial control of the road.

THE report of the Indiana State Conference is at hand, and will be given next week. We will also begin the publication of some of the very excellent papers that were presented at that meeting.

THE Empress of Austria was killed by an Anarchist assassin Saturday afternoon, at Geneva, Switzerland, where she was traveling. She was on her way to a small steamer for a pleasure ride, when a man sprang at her stabbing her to the heart with a stiletto. The man was a Frenchlatina, and was captured.

The Cry of "Peace."

The Czar of Russia has asked that a conference of nations be called, the object being to reduce the existing armies and navies, and to arrange a scale for each nation, to be the basis for the numbers and power of future armaments, and that each pledge not to exceed the list formulated. It is probable that such an arrangement may be made. The War between the United States and Spain, and the fact that hereafter the "great powers" must recognize their "new member," has set all the diplomats of the world to figuring on fresh examples that have been given them to solve.

The old powers are confronted with disaster. Russia, France, Germany, Austria, Italy, and Turkey are taxed to the verge of bankruptcy to maintain their present forces, and to increase is but to more hopelessly drag them down. England is a little "better fixed" financially, and she looks calmly on, seeing that her natural ally—the United States—has proved to the world that when the necessity arises she can raise in a few months not only army and navy, fully equipped, but when the money is asked for her people literally "fall over" each other in their eagerness to supply the needed funds.

England's statesmen know, and some Americans know, and more of them will recognize the fact soon, that the tie of "common interest" will unite the Anglo Saxon race, if there be nothing else to bring it about. The two nations have interests that are common to both, and they must stand together. Other strong nations have interests that are in direct opposition to them, and when the other powers get ready and unite for mutual advantage, then the union of England and the United States will be the natural outcome. Russia's cry for peace just at this time is not unlooked for. It comes in so apply that it is just what could be expected. Russia is not yet ready for war. She needs all her resources for some time yet to put upon her internal improvements. For some few years she has been busy in a quiet way carrying out the spirit of the "Will of Peter the Great" and advancing her boundary lines right across Asia, into China, and getting as near as possible to the territory of England. The barrier of nations that separated the two ten years ago, and seemed likely to be able to check their onward march as the rocky coast rolls back the ocean's waves, have melted away, and we see the two dominant powers of the last times face to face, foot to foot, each with hand on the sword, and it half drawn.

In this position they stand, the great Russian Empire, in a sense, disdaining her "little island foe," yet not daring to strike. The dismissal of Li Hung Chang this last week, a clear gain for England in China, with the already announced alliance between England and Germany, leaves Russia with but France as her friend. Poor France is in sore distress, being threatened by internal rupture on account of the recent developments in the Dreyfus case, and the attempt to implicate German officials in the matter has so angered the Kaiser that notice has been given that if the obnoxious statements are not retracted the German Ambassador at Paris will ask for his passports, and war will result. Not only Europe, but all the world, seems wrought up to the highest pitch, and a little match sets going a great fire. Every nation on earth is apparently ready to take offense at any little occurrence. All are very sensitive regarding their "honor," and it takes but little to cause "War talk."

Viewing the world as it is presented in the daily chronicles of the time, the idea that Russia should cry out for peace at first seems strange, and her sincerity is doubted, but on second thought we think she is very much in earnest. Look up the history of Russia for the past twenty years, and see what she has gained in territory and influence in this period. Would war bring her greater gains? Certainly not. Had Russia appealed to the sword she would never have been what she is today. Peace, and acting in the role of Peace-maker, has given her the increase of influence and power she now has. To be sure she occasionally lifts her little skirmishers, but her plan has been to get her near neighbors into quarrels, then step in when they have despoiled each other, and settle the trouble between them, taking, as pay for such mediation, always a slice of each. We are not, therefore, surprised at her cry for Peace.

Russia wants to finish her railroad across Asia, it being so very necessary to have it when transporting men and materials to the future battlefields on the Pacific. She cannot successfully carry on war without this. Then the canal that is in course of construction across her country to connect the north waters with the southern, must have a time of peace to ensure its completion. Her plans for the future demand that these and other enterprises projected be accomplished before she is ready for the "coming conflict." Some people are fond to suppose after reading statistics of the extent of the Russian War department, and of the amount of her war fund, that she is better prepared than any other nation for war. Were this true it is not likely that she would allow any other nation to check her in any way. The fact is that little England has only a few days ago "called her down;" an event that has not occurred since the Turko-Russian War, when with Russian troops almost in sight of Constantinople, and apparently sure to enter the city, notice was served by this same little nation that a step further would mean British war ships passing the Dardanelles. The result the world knows, and the Berlin treaty was signed.

England now has an alliance with Germany, thus giving her an assistant well able to take care of her old time enemy—France—and depriving Russia of any material aid by a French alliance. Britain's natural, rational ally—the United States—has proved herself so amply able to not only provide the gun, but also the "man behind the gun," that Russia well knows that with such aids at hand England can defy her to the face. So the Czar with all sincerity asks for peace. But, the leopard cannot "change his spots," and the student of prophecy studying past and present history well knows that it is only a matter of policy. That Russia is a friend to no nation but Russia, and her own ends are to be served without a care for others.

Brethren, "we are living in a grand and awful time." Event follows event in rapid succession. God's hand is in the movements of nations today, and one becomes almost dazed watching the rapidity with which he whirls them with cyclone swiftness, hastening onward to the final day.

Brother, Sister, standing on the mountain top, gazing on the dizzy maze, can you cry with longing heart,

"Fly swifter round ye wheels of time,
And bring ; the welcome day!"

Or does it cause you anxiety and trouble. The fury of the storm is upon the world. Soon the clouds will pass and the bright Sun of Righteousness will shine forth, flooding all with its glory. Trust, watch, pray, only a little longer, and sweet rest will be yours.

May we each be faithful the short hour that remains.

EXCEPT the heading "Dark outlook for Europe," the Chicago Tribune of Sept. 11, gives this very suggestive review of the events of the week, and the complications that may come in the very near future.

London, Sept. 10.—Instead of the century closing in universal peace, with the nations joining in with the Czar's proposition for disarmament, Europe has not been for years so close to the verge of general disaster.

War, discord, death, and crime seem to suddenly have burst forth in all parts of the globe. The assassination of the Empress of Austria is liable to have a far-reaching effect, while the situations in Crete and Africa have assumed such critical aspects today that all manner of gloomy predictions are made.

Taking up Austria's case first, the old Emperor, Franz Joseph, is a broken-down man. His son was murdered in a criminal intrigue. His country is fast falling to pieces, and now his wife is assassinated without reason. Several times the Emperor has been on the point of abdicating, and this last blow may be his last. Everywhere it has been said for years that he will be the last Emperor of Austria-Hungary, for at his death or retirement the federation would surely dissolve.

What international complications such dismemberment might cause no one can foretell. It undoubtedly sooner or later would bring bloody strife between two or more greedy, avaricious powers, as well as internal discord between the various small countries forming the empire, who have never affiliated or wedded their interests in common.

Little Crete nearly involved Europe in hostilities last year, and now again is burning like an incendiary's torch. Today the Admirals of the powers sent an ultimatum to the Turkish Governor giving but a few hours for disarmament of everybody on the island, including even the Turkish regulars. What may result from this is beyond even the most diplomatic guessing. It is simply a case of hoping for the best.

The gravity of the Cretan riots, which really threaten the peace of Europe, is fully appreciated in England. That Edhem Pasha, clear-eyed and long-headed as we know him to be, did not foresee the coming massacre is not to be believed for a moment. It is far more probable that some of the bullets picked out of the wounded English will be found to have been fired from the Turkish government rifles.

One puzzle is why Edhem, who knows his book pretty well, did not foresee that this riot could have but one inevitable result of driving every Turkish soldier from Crete and the English navy into permanent possession of Suda Bay. Possibly it will be found that Edhem acted unwillingly enough under orders from the Yildiz Kiosk, the occupant of which is suffering severely from swelled head in consequence of the coming visit of the Emperor of Germany.

The Sultan will have to be taught that it is safer to massacre thousands of Armenians than half a hundred Anglo Saxons, and the teachers of this elementary lesson are already on their way to Crete from Malta and Alexandria.

Selected.

Closing Palestine to Jews.

Formal announcement is made by the Turkish Legation at Washington of a decree from the Sultan forbidding the landing of immigrant Jews in Palestine. The Sultan's intention, of course, is to block the recent project for buying the Holy Land and colonizing the Hebrew nation in the country which was its home before it was scattered over the earth and before the Ottoman interlopers overran the Orient. The Turks know that the only way they can maintain their hateful rule is to bar out all influences of civilization from within their boundaries. This blow at the Jews is inspired by the same fanatical and barbarous spirit that connived at the massacres of Christians in Armenia. It is part and parcel of the same Mussulman fanaticism that is causing the massacres in Crete. And in the end this edict against the Jews will be burst through by advancing civilization as ruthlessly as the Cretan mob rule is being crushed. The Turkish Empire has forfeited its right to existence. It has acted the part of a hyena among civilized nations and must be suppressed. The Sublime Porte's sublime impudence in barring the Jewish people out of their fatherland cannot be long sustained. Many good Christians believe in the fulfillment of the Bible prophecy that Israel shall be gathered together in Jerusalem, and a still larger number of thinking people believe in the Jewish colonization of Palestine as feasible and common sense realization of a still potent national tradition. In any case the Sultan has set himself against manifest destiny, and due time destiny will crush him and his murderous autocracy. America's example in dealing with Spain will not be without its effect on Europe's future dealings with Turkey.—Tribune, Sept. 11.

Depends on the Rich Jews.

Some of the Jewish rabbis in America are opposed to the plan for colonizing the Jews of the world in Palestine and others are in favor of it. The opponents of the plan have little to say against it save that it is impracticable. Whether it is feasible or not depends entirely on the wishes of the rich Jews of the world. Do they want Judea re-established? If they do, all the firmans that the Sublime Porte can concoct between now and doomsday will not suffice to keep the Hebrew nation out of its ancient fatherland.

A large share of the wealth of the world is in the hands of the Jews, especially in Europe, and wealth means power and influence. The Jews are influential enough in the capitals of Europe, as landholders and capitalists, to bring about the Palestine colonization project if they want to do it. There is no doubt of that. They also have a vast influence in America in any such a matter. Let it be known that the wealthy and philanthropic members of the "chosen people" are willing and anxious to buy the land of their fathers back and there will be no lack of powerful Christian sentiment to aid the movement in the United States. This country has no love for the murderous Turk, and if nothing but the Sultan stands between the scheme and its realization America's public sentiment can speedily crystallize into some potent persuasion at Constantinople. If all turns on the rich Jews, who would have to back the scheme in order to make it successful.

There have already been experimental Jewish colonies established in the Holy Land, and they have attained a degree of success that shows what can be accomplished with sufficient capital.

The persecuted Jews of Europe must find some place to go, and Palestine is the logical and proper place for them. Almost every government in Europe would be willing to solve the anti-Semitic problem by helping to compel the Sultan to withdraw his obnoxious edict. It only remains for the Jewish capitalists to say the word and their nation can again be gathered together in its historic home. Chicago Tribune.

Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands.

Amid pageantry of unusual splendor and to the accompaniment of the roll of drums and blare of trumpets Wilhelmina Helena Pauline Maria, daughter of the late King Willem III, and his second wife, Princess Adelhaid Emma Wilhelmina Theresia, on Sept. 6, 1898, was crowned Queen of the Kingdom of the Netherlands. Wilhelmina's father died in 1890, since which time her mother has been the Queen Regent, Wilhelmina coming of age Aug. 31 last. The fourth representative of the House of Orange, which has given to the Netherlands as sovereigns Willem I. (1815), Willem II. (1840), Willem III. (1849), is a girl of but 18 years of age, possessed of rare tact and good sense and greatly beloved by her Hollanders, as is the Queen Dowager. That she may have a long and happy reign and in her own good time select a husband of her own choice to help her bear the cares of government will be the wish of every one.—Chicago Tribune.

Obituary.

The little band of believers at Rensselaer, Ind., was called from its pleasant lands of the Conference, to mourn the loss of one of the oldest of its number, our beloved Sister Bedford.

Elizabeth Phillips Bedford was born in Preble Co., Ohio, Aug. 29, 1816. She moved to Rush Co., Ind. with her parents about 1825; thence to Conn. in 1837; from there to Cincinnati, O. in 1843; and in 1850 she located in Jasper Co., Ind., where she has since resided. Death occurred at her home on Monday evening, Sept. 5, after an illness of about three weeks, aged 82 years and 7 days. She leaves to mourn her loss a husband, four sons, one sister and two brothers.

Sister Bedford united with the Church of God at Rensselaer in 1860, after having been a member of the Christian Church for about seven years. Strong was her faith in God, and firm was her hope in the fulfillment of his promises through Jesus Christ our Lord.

"Asleep in Jesus, Blessed sleep,
From which none ever wake to weep."

Having reason to believe that she is sleeping in Jesus, the hour of waking is anxiously awaited. May that hour soon come after which the joy of the righteous shall not be turned to mourning, death then having been conquered.

F. L. ACKERS.

Mr. George Johnson, died at his home, 1222 East First Street, Fort Scott, Kansas, August 26th last, at the advanced age of 94 yrs. 2 month and 1 day.

Mr. Johnson was born in Hamilton, West Va., and came to Fort Scott, locating permanently many years ago. During his long residence in this city he has made a host of friends, being a zealous worker in the Christian cause and tireless in his energy to promote the good work to the greatest possible end. He enrolled his name as a subscriber of THE RESTITUTION, 17 years ago and was, up to the time of his demise, a constant reader of its columns. Prior and up to within a few weeks of his death, he was able to be up and around, attending to his regular duties, and for a man so far advanced in years, his faculties were wonderfully preserved.

The funeral was held from his late residence Saturday afternoon Aug. 27th, interment taking place in Evergreen Cemetery, this city.

M. D. CAMPBELL.

Illinois State Conference.

To the Church and all the Brethren of the one faith in Illinois:

You are hereby invited to come to a Conference to be held at Lanark, Ill. to commence September 20, and continuing over Sunday. This meeting was first intended to be held the last Sunday of October, but the brethren saw fit to make this change as to time of the meeting.

Brothers and sisters of the one faith, do come to this meeting, and show by your presence that we are watching and waiting for the Lord's appearing. Now, brethren and sisters of the whole State of Ill., will you please report yourself in person or by letter at this Conference, that we may know who you are and where you are. We should like to know the strength of the brethren and sisters in the State, and if you can not come, please write a letter to be read in Conference.

J. M. GLOTFELTY, Sec.

We want every brother and sister in the entire State who reads this notice, to understand that you are each one individually invited. We must hear from you. The Master's business entrusted to your care demands your PERSONAL ATTENTION, and in a congregated capacity we can best unite our forces to advantage. Be in earnest, correspond with the Secretary at Lanark, Ill.

W. H. WILSON.

PROGRAMME FOR ILLINOIS CONFERENCE.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 30.

FORENOON.

10:00—Social Meeting.
10:30—Sermon—"Cultivation of Brotherly love." A. J. Eychaner.

AFTERNOON.

2:00—Papers by Eddy Remer and Medin Mitchell.
3:00—Discussion on the plans of organization.
7:00—Social Meeting.
7:30—Sermon. D. M. Hadler.

SATURDAY FORENOON.

9:30—Short talks from the Brothers and Sisters.
10:00—Paper—"Baptism, its Necessity and Object," by Miss Jessie May Wilson.
11:00—Sermon—"Duties of Baptized Believers." A. J. Eychaner.

AFTERNOON.

2:00—Conference Work and Organization. We want all to be present at this meeting.
7:00—Social Meeting.
7:30—Sermon—"Who Made the Bible?" W. H. Wilson.

SUNDAY FORENOON.

9:00—Bible Class led by W. H. Wilson.
9:30—Paper—"Sunday School Work," by Mrs. Ruth Whitehead.
10:30—Sermon—by A. J. Eychaner. Breaking of Bread. Service conducted by W. H. Wilson.

AFTERNOON.

2:30—Social Meeting, followed by closing Business Meeting.
3:00—Sermon. The Blessed Hope, by W. H. Wilson.
6:00—Young People's Meeting—Essays and Papers.
7:30—Sermon. D. M. Hadler.

J. M. GLOTFELTY, Sec'y.

P. S. An effort is being made to get reduced rates on Railroads, if we succeed due notice will be given.

Let every dawn of morning be to you as the beginning of life, and every setting of the sun be to you as its close; then let every one of these short lives leave its record of some kindly thing done for others, some goodly strength or knowledge gained for yourself.

Wherever you go, endeavor to carry with you a sense of God's presence, his holiness, and his love; it will preserve you from a thousand snares.

It is, after all, the person who stakes the least, who loses most. In the affections this is wholly true. He who risks nothing loses everything.

Pennsylvania Lines Excursions to Pittsburgh for Knights Templar Conclave.

Excursion tickets to Pittsburgh on account Knights Templar Conclave will be sold October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th and 13th via Pennsylvania Lines. For special information inquire of nearest Pennsylvania Line Ticket Agent, or address, C. L. Kimball, Ass't General Passenger Agent, Colmbus, Ohio.—oct 13

Selections.

Jews Looking Toward Zion.

Basle, Sept. 3.—The one supreme fact developed by the second Zionist congress this week is that the just powers of Europe have begun to show a friendly interest in this great movement to reestablish the Jewish people as an actual nation in Palestine, from whence they were led as captives by Titus seventy years after the beginning of the Christian era.

It is a fact that the German Emperor is unofficially represented in the congress by a trusted representative, charged with the duty of reporting to him minutely the plans and purposes of the whole undertaking. The Emperor has also allowed it to be known to the members of the congress that when he reaches the Holy Land he proposes to spend one night in the Jewish colony at Jaffa, the seaport of Jerusalem, founded through the munificence of Baron Edmond Rothschild.

But the one man in the whole world who has it in his power to reestablish Judea on her ancient soil with the cooperation of the great powers is the Sultan of Turkey. There is something thrillingly suggestive in the fact that in a reply to a message of congratulation sent by Dr. Theodore Herzl, President of the congress, to the Yildiz Kiosk, the commander of the faithful sent a telegram of hearty thanks and a most cordial message of good will.

These two facts alone stand out clearly as signs of the unmistakable progress of Israel back to the scene of her ancient spiritual splendor. That this work is not the fruit of idle dreaming is shown by the practical manner in which this second congress has promptly authorized the establishment of a bank with a preliminary capitalization of $10,000,000, and that of this sum $1,000,000 has already been subscribed without any definite plan being made known to the subscribers.

Ninety-five per cent of the $1,000,000 was taken in individual subscriptions of $5, showing a total of not far from 100,000 subscribers. They are principally poor Jews, who are looking forward from the ends of the earth to Zionism and Zion.

In addition to this the congress demonstrated that the enrolled number of Zionists has increased seven fold within a year; that the number of delegates has been doubled and that the Christian friends of the Zionists have multiplied in the same proportion. The congress itself was an extraordinary and powerfully representative body. The great area of faces, curiously enough, would not suggest Judea to a man not familiar with the Jewish physiognomy of western Europe. The general type was neither Semetic nor Oriental, but rather Graeco-Slavonic, owing to the preponderance of the Russian delegates, representing a population of 5,000,000 dwellers in the unhappy provinces of Jewish Poland in Russia.

Over the building flew for the first time what is to be the actual flag of restored Israel, the Biblical six-pointed shield of David in blue on a ground of white. This is the national standard of the rejuvenated nation. By a singularly and poetic coincidence the American flag flying over the American Consulate a few feet away almost touched the folds of the flag of Israel, whose people it has sheltered and encouraged for so many years.

In the rows of the delegates on the platform were to be seen some of the most conspicuous men of the race of this generation. There were Dr. Nordau, the sociologist; Dr. Herzl, statesman and editor of Neue Freie Presse; Dr. Bemho, the famous Russian scientist; Aaron Marcus, known to the Galicians as the Jewish Tolstoi; Professor Mandelstamm, the eminent physician from Kiev; Dr. Gaster, Chief Rabbi of the Portugese Jews of England; Bernard Lazare, the indominatable defender of Dreyfus in Paris; Rabbi Ruiff, formerly of the Prussian Town of Memel, through whose hospitable doors long processions of Jewish exiles from Russia have gone to every part of the earth; Brainin of Berlin and Sokolof of Warsaw, both gifted Hebrew poets; a delegate from the Argentine Republic, who said he hoped that the Jewish settlers of Baron Hirsch's colony in Argentine might journey from this present Zion to the Zion of their fathers in Palestine; a brilliant Jewish advocate of Bialystock, who has given up his profession for the sake of spreading the movement among his people; a gifted physician from Russian Poland, who has given 8,000 precious volumes to Akemband Library at Jerusalem, accepting rare books at all times in place of fees, and thus enriching his already precious gift.

The congress had more than 400 members, nearly all of whom were important factors in the life of Jewry in their respective countries. Practically every country in the world was represented. Indirect messages came from tens of thousands of Jews in distant countries too poor to send delegates.

Speeches were delivered in English, French, Russian, Italian, Hebrew, Polish, Roumanian, and the wierd picturesque accents of Judeo-German, or Yiddish were heard of course.

The dramatic feature of the congress was Dr. Nordau's brilliant oration in which he recounted the story of modern Jewish martyrdom throughout the civilized world, referring to Russia and Roumania as the classic lands of Jewish persecution, and dwelling upon England, America, Holland, and Belgium as the only countries free from the taint of anti-Semitism.

It is a fact not generally understood that the Jews have, to some extent, evasively succeeded in establishing something like 75,000 Jews in colonies and cities of Palestine, with the surprising result that, on the soil of their ancestors, they have enthusiastically taken up agriculture, an occupation which the world knows they have been compelled too long to eschew elsewhere.

The Vienna commission was headed by Dr. Herzl. He presented an exhaustive report prepared by Dr. Motzkin, who had studied local conditions in Palestine on the availability of the land for Israelites in their ancient occupation of farming and herding, together with new industries.

In this connection it is interesting to know that Baron Edmund Rothschild of Paris, who is known as the "Protector of the Colonies," has undertaken, quite aside from Zionism, to build a number of great factories in Jerusalem for the employment of Jews. This work is to be assisted and extended by a great Jewish colonial bank authorized by the congress.

It was definitely determined by the congress that no further infiltration of Jews into Palestine will be sanctioned by Zionism until the Sultan himself has been won over and his official sanction has been secured for the work. It was laid downas an absolute principle of the movement that the highest mutual toleration should be observed by the two great sections of the Jewish race who have some differences in their points of view respecting the faith and practice of Judaism.

During the congress there was a typical students' festkommers, where during the feasting the old psalms and songs of Zion were sung in the old tongue.

But the most striking of all was the Sabbath morning service, where Jews from every quarter of the globe, Arabs, Egyptians, Greeks, Italians, Americans, Englishmen, French, Russians, Belgians, Syrians, South Africans, Germans, Portuguese, and other remnants of the scattered tribes stood together in the town synagogue and offered up once again the prayer of the Jewish prophets for the rebuilding of Zion of their fathers.

Such a scene has not been witnessed since the destruction of Jerusalem. In those somber, lofty strains there seemed to be combined the echo of all the Jewish Ghettos, where the chosen people have languished in degradation and captivity for centuries.

The final session of the congress, which lasted for nearly twenty-four hours, ended at dawn of Wednesday, and as Dr. Herzl with tear-dimmed eyes spoke the closing words: "The old wandering of Jews has come to an end and in its place let us begin the spirit pilgrimage to Zion and hope that a new and better day has begun," the first ray of day break shone prophetically upon his glorified face. —Chicago Tribune.

Nations are Natural Allies.

Bristol, England, Sept. 7.—At a meeting here in honor of the opening of the memorial tower on the crest of Brandon Hill, erected by subscriptions to commemorate the fourth centenary of John Cabot's discovery of the continent of America, the Marquis of Dufferin made a speech, extolling the friendship existing between the two nations, and he then opened the door with a golden key, which he afterwards handed to the Mayor.

The Marquis, in the course of his remarks, said that perhaps the best way to realize the value of Cabot's work was to ask what would be the condition of the Western world now if, instead of an Anglo-Saxon influx, the Spanish race and customs had overrun what are now the United States and Canada.

"Yet, but for Cabot," he continued, "such a consummation might well have occurred. Since I last had the honor to address you on this subject another and the last act of an international drama has been unfolded. Spain, the whilom mistress of the Indies, has been finally divorced from the last possessions acquired for her by Columbus and compelled to retrace her steps across the Atlantic."

Proceeding to refer to the "vast interests opening in the far East which the United States would be compelled to take part," the Marquis of Dufferin and Ava said: "Whatever solution there may be of these problems it is pretty certain that the interests of America and Great Britain will not clash, but rather that both nations will desire the same ends.

In concluding his address he said:

I believe that the British and American Foreign offices are the only ones that really understand the meaning of each other's dispatches. I believe that but for England's attitude during the recent war the ultimate settlement might have been different, and when it is remembered that this action on our part was disinterested and inspired solely by the community of the two peoples, which led us to approve the motive that forced the United States to intervene in Cuba, it may be fairly anticipated that our attitude at a critical turning point in their destinies will have made a lasting impression upon the memory and conscience of the American people, and will lead to a conviction that the peace of the world and the general prosperity of the human kind are best promoted by harmonious co-operation between the United States and the mother country and the multitudinous English-speaking communities.

"Should this recognition of a community of interests ever be reached, in common justice we are bound to remember that it was John Cabot who opened the door of the northern continent of America to Anglo-Saxon enterprise."

Baron Strathcona and Mount-Royal cordially reciprocated Lord Dufferin's expression of hope that the proceedings would find a responsive echo in Canada.

Last evening Lord Dufferin at a banquet given in his honor again emphasized the blessings for the world's peace likely to flow from Anglo-American co-operation.

Meaning of English Victories in Africa.

It would be a great mistake to suppose that the avenging of Gordon was either the main motive or the main achievement of the present Anglo-Egyptian expedition. The belated dash into the desert under Lord Wolseley was as different a thing as possible from the deliberate, irresistable, gradual advance of the British from Egypt toward the equator. In the interval they have been putting Egypt in order. Both on the financial and the military side the work of these intervening years has been a work of preparation. In the former war the desperate fanatics of the Mahdi were greatly an overmatch for the Egyptian levies. If we are to believe a British and imperialist poet they were an overmatch even for the British regulars. But in the interval not only have Egyptian finance and taxation been administered rigorously and honestly by Lord Cromer, but "Sergeant What's 'Is Name," the inconspicuous British drill-master, has been equally busy with the Egyptian army. It follows that when Sir Herbert Kitchener's expedition once started it was irresistible. It has not received a single check in its slow progress from Dongola to Khartum. It has undergone hardships and privations, but these were foreseen and as much as might be mitigated. And the result is that the British now hold impregnably the whole line from the Mediterranean to within some fifteen degrees of the equator.

That the work of the British in Egypt during these fifteen years has been a good work there can be no dispute. Egypt itself has succumbed to civilization. Justice has succeeded oppression and law the caprice of a tyrant. The occasional notes of protest that are still raised against "perfidious Albion" lack both cogency and sincerity. The evident fact is that British rule is the best thing that ever happened to Egypt, and that no friend of civilization can desire to see it withdrawn. And the extension of it is a benefaction to mankind.—New York Times.

The Anglo-German Agreement.

The British and continental press continues to speculate on the subject of the reported Anglo-German agreement, though no official facts have yet been given out. The amount of smoke would seem to indicate that there is fire somewhere, but it is impossible, as yet, to tell exactly where it is or what it is all about.

It may be safely inferred that England would be glad to obtain possession of Delagoa Bay, giving it control of the best and most extensive harbor on the whole east African coast, and enabling it effectually to "bottle up" Oom Paul in his isolated south African republic. The only real obstacle to this in the past has been the Kaiser, whose friendship for the Dutch President was exhibited in a somewhat spectacular manner a year or two ago. With this obstacle removed Portugal would, no doubt, be "entirely agreeable," and with the aid of British gold the "sphere of English influence" would be extended in a direction where it would do the most good.

Coming with the recent success of Great Britain at Khartum, this acquisition would have immense significance for British plans in Africa. It would render it possible to secure a connection with the east coast at a most favorable point for the railway now in course of construction from Cape Colony to connect in the vicinity of the great African lakes with the road now advancing on the Nile Valley in the rear of General Kitchener's army. This road may have as much importance for English interests as the Transsiberian railway will have for those of Russia, and be of more importance than the latter to the world's commerce because it will be open to all nations. Now that England seems to have a firm foothold on the upper Nile, it would not be surprising if the African transcontinental line should be completed before the Russian line has reached Port Arthur.

But whether the agreement relates to the partition of China, a union of interests in east Africa, the distribution of the assets of the "Sick Man of Europe," resistance to the aggressions of Russia and France, or all of these, there are evidences of a better understanding between Great Britain and Germany than has previously existed during the reign of the present Kaiser. All the facts will doubtless soon be known to the public. While it puts an end to British "isolation" it is evidently regarded as scarcely short of a menace to Russia and France, whose alliance seems, by a singular coincidence, practically to be broken, rendering them the really isolated powers of Europe. While in consequence England may be less anxious for an alliance with the United States than it was a few months ago, Americans can look on with indifference, feeling that their interests are not endangered so long as European powers attend to their own and each other's business. Indeed, there is reason to believe that an Anglo-German alliance would furnish a new pledge for good behavior on the part of the Kaiser.—Tribune.

Reasons for an Anglo-German Alliance.

There are some uncommonly strong reasons why such alliance, or at least some cordial understanding, should be effected between England and Germany. Their peoples are of the same original stock, and thoughts and temperaments are more alike than those of almost any other two nations in Europe. Their interests run in parallel channels. Both are colonizing and commercial powers. It is to the practical interest of each to be and to remain on good terms with each other. Each has far stronger reasons for antagonism toward some other power than toward the other of these two. And then there are some concrete and detailed reasons for cooperation. Each can serve the other greatly. Germany wants Syria and a larger share of China. Great Britain wants her hold upon Egypt recognized as legitimate, and to be permitted to purchase Delagoa Bay. These objects can be attained if the two act together, and it is not sure that they can easily be if they do not. The German Emperor is going to Jerusalem, not altogether for his health nor for pious pilgrimage, we may surmise. He will in all probability make the visit a means toward the end of capturing Syria, toward which German ingenuity is already setting in a tide. More than that, he is going to visit Egypt on his way home and will there be the guest of Lord Cromer, and will thus in a singularly impressive manner give his imprimatur to the position to the British occupation of that country. It may also be recalled that Germany has somewhat ostentatiously snubbed the Boer President and given him to understand that he had better be properly respectful to Great Britain as the lawful suzerain over Transvaal. These are not the only current circumstances that mark these two powers as the most fitting in all Europe to come together in some sort of an alliance. There is no question that such a compact between them would make for peace. The combination could be the strongest that could be made, far outranking the triple alliance in military effectiveness. Yet all its interests would be on the side of peace.—New York Tribune.

Communicated.

Too Much Alike.

The first editorial, 11 pages by the Editor-in-chief, in "The Messenger Review of the World," for September, Funk & Wagnells Company, Publishers, New York and London, is a sad lament for the little done in heathen lands and for the lack of interest in Christian lands to do more.

The best thing in the whole article is the sentence in these words, "Great is the value of a candid mind."

The long and wide experience of the Editor and Publishers ought to have qualified them to judge in this line. It is a mistaken generosity to give away our best things, especially when we need them ourselves and can use them to better effect than others can. The Editor, certainly did not wade through a sea of words to avoid discovering to himself and others the "Great Emergency in the Work of Missions." The "Fact" is patent; the "Causes" stated are secondary not primary—results in common more than causes;—the "Remedy" is fully stated and shorn of its strength.

The "Emergency," itself is rather a condition of long standing at home and abroad. See Standard Dictionary. Do the heathen need Christianity? Such as missionaries offer them? This is widely doubted both in heathendom and in Christiandom, and the Japanese are now trying to solve this problem, with indications favoring a negative answer. The premises there and here are substantially alike. That religion—ours as well as theirs—pertains chiefly if not wholly to this life. Neither offers a national eschatology. The good Christian and the good heathen seem to have about an equal chance in the hereafter. The superiority of the former in this life may be due to other things than Christianity. Then, we must give Christians credit for not really wishing to propagate the home-grown article. They know it is badly defective, intolerably foul. They would cleanse it, but don't know how. It would be a [illegible]rous effort if the Editor of the [illegible]ew would teach them how—when he has learned. He has the alpha—the Second Coming,—let him build around it the beautiful system portrayed in the Scriptures. Then he might draw the heathen with something better than they have, and possibly, draw Christians with something better than their copy of heathen philosophy. Try an outline:

Jesus is coming as King of all the earth:

The righteous dead will be raised.

They will be made immortal then.

A new government: Zion its seat.

The righteous, now joint-heirs; then co-rulers with Jesus.

He commands and enforces universal obedience.

His enemies shall lick the dust.

The binding of satan, the guiding and teaching of the nations by the law from Zion and the Word of the Lord from Jerusalem, will fill out the beautiful pictures that adorn the prophecies—Jesus and the saints possessing the kingdom under the whole heaven, the earth filled with the glory of the Lord.

Prior to the Second Coming—

A series of preliminary epochs:

A family trained to the Messianic idea to teach the nations.

Their records lead in religious literature. Their prophecies are the history of nations in advance.

They taught others well, but did'nt know enough to teach themselves, nor quit when their time was out.

The New Testament, made by Christian Jews, dominates all canons; makes a toy of boasted ancient philosophy.

And the Christian Church now adorns itself in the cast off clothes of the old religion that died 2000 years ago.

If Brother A. T. P. can himself have courage to believe the New Testament and cannot convert his publishers to it, he will then know how CHRISTIANIZE heathen lands. Till then his task is a bad one, the missioner and the missioned being too much alike.

He has started well, with a positive (though dim) perception of the chief element, the Second Coming of Christ; its force however, is nearly neutralized by a deitinus, counterfeit system cunningly devised and persistently maintained; it offers all that is hoped for with all the Second Coming. "A candid mind" can see as wide contrasts between the system of the New Testament and that held by the Christian Church as existed between the latter and that of the heathen world. But "The Review," can't see it. It is not built for self-mission; its religion worldly—the New Testament is ornamental; the cross is glorified; the crown is despised; Jesus and his kingdom are lost in the abundance of present blessings.

The same officialdom that is trying to convert the heathen has, for more than 50 years and against better light persistently resisted the truth and educated the Christian church in obstinate ignorance of the New Testament. With what sad and awful fidelity Jesus closed his mission of tenderness and love with the eight terrible woes (Matt. xxiii.) against official Israel.

O. R. L. CROZIER.

To the Brethren in Michigan.

Have you noticed the call for our conference? Will you all make a special effort to be at the meeting? The brethren in Brady and surrounding country are a very generous people, and will make ample preparations for all, and they don't want to be disappointed. Let us make the meeting a grand success. Remember, we are God's stewards. The cause of truth he has put in our hands the success of the cause depends upon our personal efforts. Don't say "I can't come." Where there is a will there is generally a way.

Yours, working for the Master,

B. W. WOODWARD.

Low Rates to Pittsburgh for Knights Templar Conclave.

Elaborate arrangements are completed for the Knights Templar Conclave at Pittsburgh in October. You may enjoy it all by going on low rate tickets to be sold over Pennsylvania Lines October 8th to 13th, inclusive. After taking in the sights and festivities, interesting side trips may be made from Pittsburgh at small cost by depositing return coupon of Pittsburgh tickets with Joint Agent at that place. For particulars apply to nearest Pennsylvania Line Ticket Agent or address C. L. Kimball, Ass't General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.—oct 13

Bro. Underwood:

Will you please announce, through THE RESTITUTION as follows:—

I will be at the Illinois Conference to be held at Lanark, the first Sunday in October—the Lord willing—after which I will visit and hold meetings at Antioch, Dixon, Paines Point, and other places. Will the Elders at those places write me and arrange the dates?

A. J. EYESIAKER.

Good Chance to Visit the East at Low Fare.

Persons going to Pittsburgh over Pennsylvania Lines on cheap tickets to be sold via that route October 8th to 13th, inclusive, account Knights Templar Conclave will have the privilege of buying low rate excursion tickets from Pittsburgh to points in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and to Baltimore and Washington, over the Pennsylvania Route, by depositing excursion tickets with Joint Agent after reaching Pittsburgh. Full and particular information furnished in reply to inquiries addressed to nearest Pennsylvania Line Ticket Agent, or to C. L. Kimball, Ass't General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O.—oct 13

Dear Brother Underwood:

Please announce through the RESTITUTION the following appointment. The Lord willing, I will be at Hazel, in the neighborhood of Brethren Woods and Rogers, Jasper Co., Ill. to hold meetings for some days to commence on Friday night before the 2nd Sunday in October, the date of commencing will be Oct., 7th, and continue as long as thought best.

J. S. HAYS.

You Can Go to Chicago Sept. 18th, for $1.00.

From Plymouth via Pennsylvania Lines excursion train at 5:30 a. m. central time; returning leave Chicago 8 and 11:30 p. m.

Selections.

Recent Archaeology and the Bible. No. 2.

In continuation of his lectures, in Tolbooth Parish Church, on "Recent Archaeology and the Bible," the Rev. Dr. Nicol, treated last night of Babylonian Literature and the Early Narratives of Genesis." He pointed out that, however much the magnificent figures discovered in the ruins of Nineveh by Layard and his fellow-workers struck the wonder of Europe, far more important to the philologist and the historian were the clay tablets recovered from the mounds of Nineveh, and especially from the ruins of the library of Assurbanipal. He showed that this monarch, the grandson of Sennacherib and "the great and noble Asnapper" of the Bible, was not only a powerful monarch, but an eminent patron of letters, whose age was kind of an Augustan age in Assyrian literature. Assurbanipal's services in collecting old Babylonian texts were passed in review, and a description given of the exceedingly varied literature derived from the inscriptions, legends like those of the Creation and the Flood, hymns and penitential psalms, dictionaries and grammatical works, astrological reports and astronomical observations of no mean order, documents connected with business and trade, and especially valuable for the chronology and the history, lists of kings, with their annals and the lengths of their reigns. Among these remaining of old Assyrian and Babylonian literature, attention was especially directed to those epic poems which afford such instructive parallels to the Bible record of the Creation and the Flood, and to other texts presenting probable, if not altogether uncertain, parallels to the institution of the Sabbath, to Paradise, to the Fall, and to the beginnings of civilization, as recorded in Scripture. Having referred to the labors and the genius of the late Mr. George Smith in the discovery and decipherment of those Babylonian legends, the lecturer proceeded to give an account of the "Creation Epos," which was shown to be a poem in a definite and regular metre, and of which he gave a brief account. The resemblances and differences of the Biblical account and of the Babylonian tradition were then discussed, and the contrast between the beauty and simplicity and lofty spiritual purpose and pure monotheism of the one, and the gross polytheism disfiguring the other, clearly brought out. The existence of the Sabbath, called "A day of rest for the heart," and the prevalence of a Sabbatarianism so rigid that it allowed of no works of necessity or mercy, as shown in tablets of very high antiquity, were also commented upon. Analogies to Paradise, to the Serpent, and to the Fall of Man were stated to have been found in old Babylonian records, and the penitential psalms and hymns addressed to the ancient Accadian deities revealed a sense of sin and a sorrow for it wonderfully deep and sincere from earliest times. It was the Flood legend, however, which had presented the most remarkable parallel. It was not, like the Creation Epos, an independent poem. It was really a canto in the greatest of all Babylonian poems, the so-called Nimrod Epos. This great poem consisted of three thousand lines, and was in twelve cantos, named by the twelve signs of the Zodiac, and, appropriately enough, the eleventh canto, named from Aquarius, the water-carrier, described the flood sent by Rammon, the storm god of the Babylonian pantheon. The story of the flood, as told to the hero of the poem, Gilgames, by his great-grandfather, Sit-napisti, "the ruaam of life," the Babylonian Noah, was then summarized, special notice being taken in the Babylonian tradition, of the building of the ship and the pouring of pitch over the outside and bitumen over the outside, of the sending forth of the birds—the dove, the swallow, and the raven—of the rainbow, of the sacrifice and of the covenant that there should be a flood no more. Here again the resemblances and differences were discussed, and the great contrast exhibited between the lofty conception and character of God in the Biblical account, and the multitudes of gods of like passions with men, quarrelling among themselves, and skulking before the storm like dogs to their kennel, in the Babylonian account. In conclusion, the lecturer discussed the relationship of the two traditions, and the bearing of the phenomena presented by a comparison of the two upon questions raised by the newer criticism. He rejected the view the Hebrew writers borrowed from these Babylonian traditions to provide themselves with a beginning for their national history in the times of exile, when, it might be supposed, these old legends were accredible to them, as in the highest degree improbable, and quoted Dillmann and Schrader in favor of a far higher antiquity for the Genesis narratives. Similarly, the time of Tiglath Pileser was set aside, and the view maintained that as the Biblical account of the Flood might well have come from some source higher than the Babylonian, but common to it, this and other traditions might have entered the history of the people of God, sifted and purified by the spirit of revelation, in the time of Abraham, and even been committed to writing before the time of Moses. The question of the precise literary form of these narratives was also discussed in the light of the discovery of these Babylonian legends and their relationship to the Bible record, and emphasis laid upon the ethical and spiritual teaching they contain, that God's glory as the Creator of all the high destiny of man, the alien character of sin with its woe and its divinely-planned remedy of redemption, God's righteousness, and faithfulness, and wisdom, and love, were all set in the very forefront of the volume of Revelation, and shine resplendent in the earliest records of the human race. It was intimated that the subject of the next lecture would be "Babylonia to the Age of Abraham."—Edinburgh Scotsman, Jan. 17, 1898.

Hay Fever Sufferers.

Find relief at the cool resorts in Northern Michigan and Wisconsin, on the lines of the Chicago & North-Western R'y. For full information regarding rates, etc., apply to W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth Avenue, Chicago, or to any ticket agent in the United States.—Sep. 17

Conference Notice.

The Quarterly Conference of the Church of God, in Michigan, will be held, the Lord willing, at Brady, Kalamazoo County, Michigan, commencing Friday evening Sept. 30th, 1898, and continue over the following Sunday. Friends coming from the north reach Vicksburg via Grand Rapids and Indiana R. R., which leaves Grand Rapids at 2.10 p. m. Teams will meet all trains on Friday and Saturday, to convey passengers to the place of meeting. Those coming from Hastings will take the Grand Rapids and Indiana R. R. at Kalamazoo, all friends coming from the north will be met at Vicksburg. Those coming from the south will be met at Mendon.

Able speakers are expected to be present, and an earnest invitation is extended to all to attend and bear the truth. Come all that can and help to make this our Quarterly Conference as interesting as possible.

EMMA JACKMAN, Sec'y.

List of Appointments.

Irving, Iowa, Sept. 14 to 18.
Hampton, Iowa, Sept. 22 to 28.
Ashton, Ill., Oct. 1 to 5.
Silver Creek, Ill., Oct. 6 to 9.
Adaline, Ill., Oct. 13 to 16.
Dixon, Ill., Oct. 20 to 23.
Lanark, Ill., Oct. 27 to 30.
Rock Falls, Ill., Nov. 2 to 13.
Muscatine, Iowa, Nov. 15 to 27.
Ripley, Ill., Dec. 1 to 4.

Brethren, if above appointments and dates do not suit, will you write me at once?

Yours in hope of the coming kingdom.

D. M. HOBLER.

Reduced Fares to Various Points via Pennsylvania Lines.

Excursion tickets will be sold via Pennsylvania Lines as indicated in the following paragraphs. Although concessions in fare are authorized for meetings of certain Orders, tickets may be obtained by any person whether or a member of the Order or interested in the event. The reduced rates will be open to everybody.

To Pittsburgh, Pa., October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th 12th and 13th, good returning until October 17th, account Knights Templar Triennial Conclave. Return limit may be extended until October 31st.

During the excursion season special rates will also be in effect via Pennsylvania Lines for special and local events. For particular information please apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines or address C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.

Send to this office and get a "War Atlas" only 25 cts post-paid.

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing. Said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 20th of April, 1898, providing notice is given through THE RESTITUTION that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all remittances to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 310 Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. S. J. Sigler,	$10.00
J. L. Wince,	5.00
F. L. Austin,	10.00
Edgar Hatch,	1.00
Agnes Dilworth,	2.00
Mrs. Mary E. Thompson,	15.00
One who believes that God from little offerings can work out great results.	10.00
A Friend of Truth	1.00
Mrs. S. A. Wickizer,	5.00
Mrs. A. M. Siple,	10.00
Mrs. Mary J. Riggs,	2.00

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the messenger of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donors request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

John Compton, Blair, Neb.
J. H. Stevens, Shumway Mound, Mo.
S. R. Chickenbeard, Dunham, Texas.
P. B. Shoaffer, Bagard, Iowa.
E. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. M. Cheesbrough, Galesburg, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Hollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bradshaw, 155 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio
W. L. Skeels, Scholls, Ore.
E. Hoyt, Box 381, Grand Rapids, Mich.
S. Roxana Wince, Pierceton, Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Hom, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hitch, Scipsville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Cotonville, Ark
J. J. Cody, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prine, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Ghadbrook, In.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kean, 1507, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Glenn, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hull, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Sidel, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Osawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
D. M. Butler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. G. Haupt, Laurel, Neb.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, Okla.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Baldwick, W. R. C. House, Madison, Ohio
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
H. T. Baker, Box 1008 Decorah, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Arcata, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Jharmont, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Baldwin, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave., Pasadena, Cal.
W. D. Stelle, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Kumpp, Box 41, Viola, Idaho.
Elder R. M. Williams, Portland, Kan.
B. Wilson, 1005 G St., Sacramento, Cal.
D. T. Balsted, Andover, S. D.
John Fouse, 2012 West Corning Ave, Pasadena.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Kansas.
R. S. Daiggitte, Okla, Mich.
H. F. Tyler, 2714 6th ave, Tacoma, Wash.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 384 Grand Rapids, Mich.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt binding, fifth edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Twelve Words;" one of "Early Lessons;" and one of "Honoring the Son,—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

Excursions to Chicago.

Commencing July 17th and continuing every Sunday until further notice the Pennsylvania Lines will sell One Dollar round trip excursion tickets from Plymouth to Chicago. Special train will leave at 7:15 a. m. central time; returning leave Chicago 8 p. m. and 11:30 p. m. Excursionists have all day to look about the great city.

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in their Church Cor., Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30, a. m. Sunday School 12:00 n. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. You are welcome. W. B. Thompson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all lovers of truth are cordially invited. Seats free. M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall, corner of Madison St., and California Ave., meet every Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., on the 2nd Sunday preceding by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday in the month. Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God Salem, Ohio, meet every Lord's day of the week at 10:00 o. m. for devotional services, and would be pleased to have any brethren of the one faith passing through the city, to meet with us, and they will find Sister Boyd on the corner, or call on D. V. Baker, 209 West Day St., Salem, O.

The Church of God, at Andover, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in McHall Andover is on the line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R. going west to Aberdeen, thirty miles east thereof.

The Church of God, in Freedom, Neb., meets every Sunday at the Keene Church, to study God's Word, Union Sunday School every Sunday and Social meeting every two weeks. We have no regular preaching. Jason Wilcox, Elder; Sarah Selick, Sec'y.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. Brethren known to this church, or coming properly endorsed by introduction letter, will be heartily welcomed. At present we meet in the School House on top of the hill, cable cars come very near, and ferry bring from Seattle.

The brethren of the Church of God at Beach Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:30 where prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Kessler, or H. L. Lehmann, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, Ind., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Authon, Elder.

The Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Bowne Hall, on Willoughby Ave., near Broadway.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Chadbrook, In., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The churches at Elder and Button, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Wood can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is presided over by Brother L. C. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday for Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Trundell.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y., meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 19th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday at the Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon. Assisted occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okla., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles northwest of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God of Waterville, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Mountainview School House, near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Cothaby, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 p. m. for worship, in private houses. All interested in Truth, and desiring brethren cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Glover, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Rasmus Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any or all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Bigon, Ill., meet every Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Faithfully yours, Great Mackamer.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays in each month at 10 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver Pastor.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 A. M. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 12313, Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each lord's Sunday, at private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social worship. At 3 P. M. on the second Sunday in the Union Chapel Church, Waterford, Ill., for Bible lessons and worship. All are invited. [illegible] Sec'y.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:00 A. M. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder. S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

You, your family and friends are cordially invited to attend [illegible] Sunday, next Sunday at 3:00 P. M. at [illegible] Ave., San Diego, Cal.

EXAMINE

The label on your paper, and if it bears a date previous to this time please KNOW NOW. Do not wait for other notice to be sent, but

PLEASE REMIT TODAY.

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as [illegible] for 1898. The cost is only [illegible] each.

10-4-2 ✓

All trains arrive at and depart from Van Buren Street Union Passenger Station, Chicago.
Call for and Colored Porters attend first and second class day coaches on through trains, insuring scrupulously clean cars en route.

[illegible]

Drawing Room Sleeping Cars on Nos. 2, 4 and 6 through to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston; on Nos. 8 and 10 of Chicago, Meals are served in "Nickel Plate" Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at operations meal hours. Baggage checked to destination. On leaving you will find our cars are always lower than on other lines, service considered.

For rates and detailed information, address B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agents.

Pennsylvania Lines

Schedule of Passenger Trains Central Time.

[illegible]

Drawing Room Sleeping Cars on Nos. 2 and 4 through to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston; on Nos. 6 and 10 of Chicago, Meals are served in "Nickel Plate" Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at operations meal hours. Baggage checked to destination. On leaving you will find our cars are always lower than on other lines, service considered.

For rates and detailed information, address B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agents.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

[illegible]

In effect June 19, 1898.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.,

[illegible]

No. 11, Ex. Sun. For St. Joseph ..... 7:30 a m
No. 6, " " ..... 12:05 p m
No. 20, " " ..... 5:55 p m
No. 8, " South Bend ..... 10:11 p m
No. 16, Sunday only, for St. Joseph, 8:21 a m

[illegible]

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute ..... 5:30 a m
No. 3, " " ..... 12:30 noon
No. 7, " " ..... 5:57 p m
No. 17, " " Logansport ..... 7:35 p m
No. 15, Sunday only ..... 8:10 p m

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations, and for all information as to rates through cars, etc., address T. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. Ford,
Gen'l Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo.

The Church of God, in Ravenna, Ohio, meet every Lord's day at 10:30 a. m. for worship, and 2:30 p. m. for Bible study. Visiting brethren cordially welcomed. Meeting place, Room 3, Opera Block, Main St. Sister Mary Hall, Elder.

The Church of God, in Kansas City, Mo., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. for worship, and 2:30 p. m. for Bible study. Visiting brethren cordially welcomed. Meeting place, Room 3, Opera Block, Main St. Sister Mary Hall, Elder.

The Church of God, in Kansas City, Mo., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. for worship, and 2:30 p. m. for Bible study. Visiting brethren cordially welcomed. Meeting place, Room 3, Opera Block, Main St. Sister Mary Hall, Elder.

Books and Tract List.

A LETTER TO A FRIEND.

This treats of the Covenants of Promise, &n their connection with th one hope, one faith, one baptism, by the late Mrs. C. C. Woodruff. Many of our readers already know of the good that has been accomplished through its circulation. 10 cents each.

FUTURE PROBATION.

Is that awaiting any of the unrighteous? A 150-page pamphlet by Wm. Glenn Moncrieff. We have a good supply and will send them post paid for ten cents per copy.

GLAD TIDINGS OF THE KINGDOM OF GOD.

This tract contains 12 large size pages, and is a reprint of a work issued many years ago. It is clear and compact in style. Sent each on 30 or $1.00.

THE COMING NATION.

A lecture by H. V. Reed. This not only sets out that the Coming Nation will be the nation or United restored to Palestine, with the Scriptural reasons given. 20 pages. 10 cts or three or 25 cts.

Notes on Baptism. Written some years ago by J. H. Stephenson. It is good. Also, also Plain Salvation, with Scriptural texts. Each 2 cts each or three per doz.

Week-Day Meetings in the Light of Prophecy—a sermon preached by H. V. Reed at Colorado. 16 pages. 4 cents each, or $3.00 per hundred.

Persons Supposed to Teach Conditional Immortality, by W. H. Wilcox, which shows that they do not teach it. 3 cents each, or 25 cents per 12.

Where Do the Dead Sleep. Three Bible texts given in answer to this question. A 3-page tract 2 cents each or 15 cents per dozen.

Hades. A Bible account of this place with proof texts. Ten pages for 5 cts.

Sin Is Compared to a Sleep. The opposite darkness a deep and proof texts are given. Ten pages 5 cents.

The Sacred Bread and Plain Truths. The above sold well. 2 pages, ten copies for 10 cents

A Call to Man to Stand to God," by H. V. Reed. A contrast between the Two. 20 each or 15 for 25 cts.

Address, The RESTITUTION, Plymouth, Ind."

Popular Lectures by M. Joblin.

Brethren and Sisters. Have you loved ones who think sincerity will save them? Have you friends who think they worship acceptably while ignorant of God's promises? Have you acquaintances with false hopes of heaven, or who believe themselves immortal by nature, or who think their sins are forgiven, although they are ignorant of the Law of Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory, and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled:—"The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free; or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O.

Aids to Bible-Study and Mission-Work.

1. The gospel of the Kingdom, advocated in a series of Ten discourses. A volume of 283 pages, Cloth 25c, a Leather-bound beautifully embossed and gilt edged $1.00. 2. Twelve Words or the true meanings of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptable, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as gathered from their uses in the Holy Scriptures. A tract of 40 pages 10cts a copy. Intended as a substitute for and an improvement on the same writer's Key-Words. 3. The gospel of the Kingdom. An 8-page double column tract 10cts. per dozen; 75cts. per hundred. 4. Who are Led by the Spirit? A 4-page tract 25cts per hundred. 5. Seeking and Finding. A 4-page tract 25cts. per hundred. 6. Honouring the Son. An 8-page tract 25cts per dozen. 7. Early Lessons, 30 pages 10cts. copy. Suitable for old or young.

Write us and for sale by WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

Notice.

WILL our friends please remember that we do not have the books and tracts at this office that are advertized by Brother Joblin, or Brother Wiley Jones. Do not send to this office for them, but send to their address as given in the advertisement. This will save both trouble and delay. PLEASE REMEMBER.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. PEDERWOOD,
WM. HAILSHACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

"I Set Before You Life and Death."

TUNE—"OUTSIDE LANE."

O sad sin, yet sweet is the Savior's voice,
As he calleth to you and me;
Now "Come unto me," "Today make choice,"
I am offering Life to thee.

CHORUS.

Look not to me, O believe and live,
From heaven I came, my flesh to give
That you might eat and drink, and live,
O hear the words of Jesus

"It is written—"The wages of sin is death,"
And "The soul that sinneth dies;"
He "setteth before us Life and Death,"
"Choose Life," he lovingly cries.

"As Moses the serpent once lifted up,"
So Christ has been raised on high;
We looking to him, shall healing find,
O look ye, "Why will ye die?"

WALTER SKINNER.

Communicated.

Indiana Conference Papers.

"WHERE NO WOOD IS THERE THE FIRE GOETH OUT."

Solomon was one of the wise men of earth, indeed, he was more wise than any other in that his wisdom was a special gift of God; for the Lord appeared to him in a dream, and said: "Ask what I shall give thee, and Solomon said, give me, thy servant, an understanding heart, to judge thy people, that I may discern between the good and the bad; for who is able to judge thy, so great a people?" The request pleased the Lord and he said: "Because thou hast not asked for thy self riches and honor, I have done according to thy word. There was none like thee before thee neither after thee shall any arise like unto thee."

Our committee has done well to ask for gleanings from his proverbs and I have been asked for a few thoughts from the words, "Where no wood is, there the fire goeth out." We might take up different lines of thought from these words, but as it is the beginning of a series of meetings in which we hope to see manifested, and felt, the spirit of God, and with a desire for a good meeting, we have chosen love as the fuel with which we hope to kindle such a flame as shall ignite and set on fire the heart of every child of God till he shall not be able to hold his peace, but shall seek to excell to the edifying of the church in love: "For now abideth faith, hope and charity, the greatest of these is charity."

We as a people talk a great deal about faith,—that is right; for without faith it is impossible to please God. It must be the one faith. We also talk much of hope,—that too, is right, it is both sure and steadfast, and enters "that within the vale." We must have the one hope; but "the greatest of these is charity."

I sometimes fear that we almost lose sight of this truth in our zeal for the others.

Love is called the bond of perfection and would it not be well for us to exercise more of it, and have more on that line from our pulpits, in our prayer meetings, in our homes and among our fellow-men. It is love that has made it possible for us to become the children of God. Then, is it not essential that we make it the ruling power of our lives? By it we may be able to excuse the faults of others, thus removing the beam from our own eyes before trying to pick the mote from our brothers.

O, let us worship God in the beauty of holiness, giving unto the Lord the glory due unto his holy name. Let brotherly love continue. Be kindly affectioned, in honor preferring one another, seeing we have purified our souls in obeying the truth. What manner of persons ought we to be in our conversation and conduct? Let us not deceive ourselves.

David, in contemplating the condition of humanity and his own weakness was made to cry out, "Lord, make me to know mine end and the measure of my days, that I may know how frail I am," and after consideration of the matter he came in hel with Solomon that man at his best state was vanity. "The beginning of wisdom is the fear of the Lord."

Let us pray that he will give us understanding, that we may keep his law, yea, that we may observe it with our whole heart. May we all be able to apply our hearts unto wisdom and remember that "Where no wood is, there the fire goeth out."

MRS BARRIE BARNES.

"YET A LITTLE SLEEP, A LITTLE SLUMBER, A LITTLE FOLDING THE HANDS TO SLEEP." PROV VI 10.

Sleep is the act of taking rest in repose, of both body and mind. As our physical natures will become exhausted by constant exercise, it has been wisely arranged by the great Creator that we should have a time for sleep, by which rest and repose, our minds become invigorated and our bodily strength renewed. The wise man, however, is contemplating a different kind of sleep, or rather an abuse of this law nature; as we learn by the abuse of nature's laws we suffer physically, as well as by a close observance of them we are strengthened and renewed.

The verse just previous to our text which reads, "How long wilt thou sleep, O sluggard, when wilt thou awake out of thy sleep?" expresses the kind of sleep he has reference to. A condition of inactivity, of sluggishness, idleness, indolence, a condition that will reduce from affluence to penury and want, as in the succeeding verse, "So shall thy poverty come as one that traveleth, and thy want as an armed man."

As is this condition in nature's laws, or temporal things, so is the rule applicable in spiritual things. "I would thou were cold or hot, so then because thou art lukewarm and neither cold nor hot, I will spew thee out of my mouth." Rev. iii 15, 16. Christ [illegible] the Church of the Laodiceans teaches us, that God has no love or use for the sluggard in his cause; no more one even cold to the lukewarm; nature even teaches us this, a lukewarm drink is nauseating, while either hot or cold are palatable and satisfying. Lukewarm in actions, betokens one who is listless, indifferent, no particular interest in the cause he has espoused; just to live a quiet, easy, cheap religious life, trying to "serve two masters at the same time," which Jesus says "Ye cannot do."

But why does God prefer the cold to the middle state? We have often remarked that they who merely profess Christianity, but which is not discernible in their actions, "hiding their light under a bushel" as it were, are more detrimental to the cause than they who make no profession at all, because to make profession and go on in the ways of the world, is virtually saying that there is nothing in it, while with those who make no profession, their influence is not thought of in that light; "By their fruits shall ye know them."

Have we any among us of this lukewarm nature? Let our empty pews, our empty church treasury and our half-paid ministers answer. But is the opposite of cold, because he that spake by the Revelator preferred cold to lukewarm, was not saying that he loved the cold, no he only preferred that condition, because it carried with it no detrimental influence. As cold indicates no action spiritually, so hot indicates a state of activity, of interest, of zealousness, of earnestness, they who will "Let their light so shine that others seeing their good works may be constrained to glorify our Father which is in heaven." They who are punctual in attendance at church, not regarding the inclemency of the weather, nor absenting themselves because it is only social meeting, or because the preacher is not just their style, social, meek in spirit, recognizing and esteeming the lowly as seeing the more fortunate, working zealously in the vineyard of the Lord, sowing the seeds of charity wherever and whenever opportunity offers.

In conclusion we would say that the sluggard in the cause of Christ is as detrimental as the one in the busy world, aye more, because the great busy world can move right along and if more him, will the church, not being so strong, needs all live workers

"O Christ in whose dear name I stand,
The hours I spend and words I say
Teach me the lesson of his coming,
And be the moments like thy."

Increase the narrow span of life,
With wise designs of virtue's deeds,
So shall we wake from death's dark night
To share the glory that succeeds."

E. K. BURCHILL.

"THE FINING POT IS FOR SILVER, AND THE FURNACE FOR GOLD, BUT GOD TRIETH THE HEARTS."

In our lesson we have a beautiful simile, by which we are led to look upon God's work in the heart as a refining process, which subjects it to the closest scrutiny; the fiercest test. As gold and silver are tried by fire, so we are tried in the fiery furnace of affliction.

But how does God try us? Does the efficiency of the work depend altogether upon the afflictions imposed, or does it not largely depend upon the spirit in which they are borne? Not all metals can bear the intense heat to which gold and silver are exposed, but would be lost in the process, may not we therefore by the same figure, instead of being purified and refined, be lost. Are we passive beings in God's hands while undergoing this change, or have not we also a work to do?

Is it the plan of the Father that one being shall attain to a greater degree of purity than another, or does it not remain with each one to fix the degree for himself? God is no respector of persons, therefore will promote no one to a position, for which he has not by trial, fitted himself. Nearly all promises are conditional. God has opened up a way by which all may attain to the blessings he has promised; all may come, even the vilest sinner may come, but all must come, and all must perfect Christ [illegible] for the position which he shall fill. If God spared not his own Son this test, how much less will he spare us? What would have been the result if Christ had failed? When he prayed so earnestly in the Garden, for God if possible, to let the cup pass, would it have been a kindness to him if his Father had heeded his cry? But God forgot him, or did he "Who ordereth all things well" in his great love for his Son compel him to drink the cup! We sometimes feel that Christ was not mortal, was not tempted in all points as we are, but if he was not, all expressions to this effect are misleading. Christ in his agony was anxious to forego the death of the cross, as any other human being could have been, but after the struggle came the submission which must come to all, "Thy will, O Lord, not mine, be done."

Our heavenly Father pities us even as an earthly father pities his children, but in his infinite wisdom, permits us to pass through fiery trials, and it remains with us to decide whether we shall be saved unto great honors, saved with great loss, or lost altogether.

MRS. MARY PRICE.

THE PRACTICAL WORK OF A CHRISTIAN.

"To serve the present age,
My calling to fulfill,
Oh, may it all my powers engage
To do my Master's will."

The practical work of a Christian includes all this. To do our Master's will, it will be necessary, after giving ourselves to be what he wants us to be, to simply do what he gives us to do. If we do this—give ourselves to God, and then say: "Lord, what will thou have me to do?" it will not be long before the Holy Spirit will suggest something for us to do, though it may not be something very great. It may not be the founding of a mission school, or the building of a hospital, but if we have money it will come to us what to do with the money God has given us; but many have no money, and yet much can be done with little money or with none.

Peter said: "Silver and gold have I none, but such as I have give I thee." And we always have something, we can have faith without money. What we Christians need is to be filled with a burning zeal to serve Christ and to give up worldly ambition.

Have a mission in life. Be of some account, do not count responsibility, neither shirk it when it is laid upon you. See God's hand in every act, and note its bearing upon you personally. He has use for you somewhere, and often where you least expect it. It may be in the home in the immediate community, among the lowly and unfortunate in this life; but wherever it is, fall in line and serve him and his will from time to time as opportunity presents itself, although you have not a conspicuous place to labor, he will keep out your talents in the sphere where you can do the most for him and for others, if you follow his guidance and are faithful.

The Christian life necessitates work, but work without faith availeth nothing. "Work is not religion," says Rev. G. W. Ridout, "but there can be no true religion without work." Satan keeps many people out of the church today by getting them to believe that work will take the place of real faith in Jesus Christ. We learn from God's Word that, "For as the body without the Spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also." It is by faith that we obtain victories and some one has said that "Faith is victory itself." Lo the word has been written: "Let us lay aside every weight and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith; who for the joy that was set before him, endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right of the throne of God."

Now is the time for all Christians to be up and doing busy sowing "Seeds of promise." It is now the day when the ground is being plowed and harrowed, preparatory to the seed time. How important that it should be well pulverized and made mellow, but this is not the most important work of husbandry. It is that of planting the seed, for even though seed be sown broadcast on strong ground, or in soil ill prepared, there will be some of it sure to take root and grow. Why is it that Christians sometimes lose thought of the importance of planting seed in human hearts? Years are spent in tilling the ground, in cultivating and preparation, we go through the process of Christian care while in the home, and then years of training at school and afterwards college and yet neglect the sowing of precious seed. Education is good, culture is good, but woe unto us if we neglect the seeding. The words of Jesus are the seed. Let us sow them in our hearts, and from the great harvest let us store up and scatter in other soil. God don't want a plowed field, he wants a harvest.

We should always bear in mind that as followers of Jesus Christ we reflect him unto men; that we are responsible for the evangelization of the world and the advancement of his righteousness; that we are the messengers of his salvation. We are the witnesses for God. Our life is worth nothing for him, nor is our experience of any use to the church, unless from out of our experience we appeal to some other souls experience, unless from our heart there goes some vital testimony no matter whether it be the testimony that comes from off the lips or whether it be the silent message that our life bears to some other soul. "From faith to faith," are the victories that must win this world for God.

The late Dr. A. J. Gordon in a pastoral letter to the members of his church said: "Forget not that your first and principle business as a disciple of Christ is to give the gospel to those who have it not. He who is not a missionary Christian will be a missing Christian when the great day comes for bestowing the rewards of service. Therefore, ask daily what the Lord would have you do in connection with the work of carrying the news of salvation to perishing millions. Search carefully whether he would have you go yourself to the heathen if you have youth and fitness required for the work. Or if you cannot go in person.

Inquire diligently what 'God-mortgage there is upon your property in the interest of foreign missions—how much you owe to Christ, for redeeming you with his precious blood. I warn you when your Lord comes to reckon with you, if he finds your wealth invested in superfluous luxuries, or hoarded up in needless accumulations instead of being sacredly devoted to giving the gospel to the lost. "But remember that consecrated giving will be impossible unless there be first a consecrated giver. Therefore, I counsel you to seek the special grace and anointing of the Holy Spirit, that he may work in you that consideration of the heart and life on which so much depends."

If we Christians take to heart these words of the Divine, our practical work will be evident. In God's Word we find these words: "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this: To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction and to keep himself unspotted from the world." Our work again is made clearly apparent. The obligations and duties of a Christian life are not all eternal. They are for the most part material, and must come from the heart.

There is no virtue in one's daily actions unless it be first established in the soul. Yet the external practice of Christian virtues, and the performance of Christian duties pertain to the integrity, if not to essential character, of Christian life. As our external duties are not absolutely and under all circumstances essential, they vary both in number and frequency. According to our environments and opportunities. A merchant or any business man cannot do all that a minister is expected to do, nor a man of the world all that is possible and perhaps easy, for one who shuns society. But every one, no matter what their pursuits of life, how little or how much time they can call their own, can and are obliged to perform daily, acts of prayer and religion, and perform duties of virtue and charity.

Mr. Lowell represents Jesus as saying to Sir Launfal:

"Not what we give, but what we share—
For the gift without the giver is bare;
Who gives himself with his alms feeds three,
Himself, his hungering neighbor, and me."

Every one with a little determination and an earnest will, even though the feeblest, can accomplish something, yes, often much for Christ's sake.

God will help us if we help ourselves. Now, dear Christians, let us heed the precepts of Paul to the Thessalonians, "Now we exhort you brethren, warn them that are unruly, comfort the feeble minded, support the weak, be patient toward all men, see that none render evil for evil unto any man; but ever follow that which is good, both among yourselves and to all men.

Rejoice evermore, pray without ceasing. In everything give thanks, for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you."

MRS. MARTHA BOGUS.

Selected.

Recent Archaeology and the Bible, No. 3.

The third of the course of Lectures on "Recent Archaeology and the Bible" was delivered last night by the Rev. Dr. Nicol in Tolbooth Parish Church, Edinburgh, the subject being "Babylonia to the time of Abraham." Pointing out that it was a prominent feature of the history of Israel, as reconstructed by the highest criticism, to relegate the story of the Patriarchs to the region of myth and legend, and quoting Wellhausen, and Stade, and of most recent critics Meinhold, to this effect, he indicated some difficulties which this view had to encounter from the Biblical narrative itself. He then proceeded to describe the times in which Abraham lived—times of advanced civilization and flourishing culture—when contemporary events were being recorded or engraven on the walls of palaces and temples, when great movements of commerce and war were in progress, and when the highways connecting East and West were traversed continually by caravans and armies, in order better to determine the value of the Biblical narrative as veracious history, and to judge of the Father of the Faithful himself as a real actor in those stirring scenes. He showed that it was just upon the lands associated with the career of Abraham—Babylonia, where he was born; Egypt, to which he took refuge from famine; and Canaan, where he spent his closing years and died and was buried—that the greatest amount of light had recently been shed. Starting from the ethnographical table in the tenth chapter of Genesis, he showed that the dependence of Egyptian civilization upon the Babylonian, which is now being generally held, was quite in accord with the statements of this table, and he maintained from the researches of Eduard Glaser, Professor Hommel, and others that the Egyptian Kushu for Ethiopia and the Babylonian Kashu, represented by its Kushite dynasties of kings were originally one and the same. Taking the account given in the same chapter of the founding of Babel, Accad, Calneh, and Erech, in the land of Shinar, he proceeded to show how these mostly forgotten cities, hidden away in an obscure chapter of the Bible, had been restored to their proper places in history. In connection with Accad, he referred to the story of Sargon, and told how he in childhood was placed in an ark of bulrushes and committed to the waters of the Euphrates, just as Moses was to the waters of the Nile. Assuming Calneh to be Nippur, he showed from the discoveries at the University of Pennsylvania Expedition that in the fourth millennium before Christ a very advanced civilization existed there—domestic comfort highly developed, drainage systems and sanitary appliances, architecture and engineering, art from which Greece learned, writing in wonderful perfection, political institutions of no mean order, not to speak of temples and ritual and all the functions of a highly developed religious system. Speaking of Lagash, or Shirpurla, now represented by the ruins of Telloh, so thoroughly excavated by M. de Sarzec, he found in the palaces of that city-kingdom in the fourth millennium before Christ the prototype of Melchizedek in the days of Abraham. With reference to the kings now made known to us by the American and French Expeditions from that remote antiquity, he said it was possible to see these figures looming through such an incalculable antiquity bigger than they really were, and it was tradition only that had preserved the memory of them, we might well suspect our powers of vision. But when it was from inscriptions, vouched for by scientific inquirers as bearing the marks of contemporary origin, and from monuments whose style and finish and general characteristics proclaimed their high antiquity that we learned of those kings and warriors, we needed to have no such suspicion. When we actually handled the fragments of vases deposited as offerings in the temples of the gods, and looked upon their faces as they stand out from seal or statue or battle scene, Lugalzaggisi and Sargon and Accad ceased to be mythical personages, and became very real indeed. In conclusion, the lecturer called attention to the remarkable elucidation that had recently been obtained from the monuments of the famous campaign of Chedorlaomer, the King of Elam, a kingdom which was about as great a restoration to modern history as the Empire of the Hittites. He held that this narrative in the fourteenth chapter of Genesis, elucidated as it had been by modern research, bore all the marks of a veracious record, and carried with it as much the political importance of Abraham and his historical character as the Father of the Faithful, the ancestor of the Jewish race, and, save One, the greatest being in the world's history. The subject of the next lecture will be "Egypt and the Patriarchs."—Edinburgh Scotsman, Jan. 21, 1898.

When I think of the agencies which are ceaselessly at work to make this bad world better, I am thankful that I live.—H. M. Paushon.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates, the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, SEPTEMBER 21, 1898. NUMBER 36.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Office Editor.

Editorial Committee
J. H. WILLEY,
W. B. THOMPSON,
WM. RAILSBACK,
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, Special Contributor.

Plymouth, Indiana, Sept. 21, 1898.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "The Restitution, Plymouth Marshall Co. Ind.

Remittance should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "The Restitution."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertized in that.

When desiring a change of address give both your old and new address

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

Mount Vesuvius is again broken out and threatens to destroy the country around it.

Remember the conferences that are announced. Attend them and do the work that yet remains the little time that this dispensation lasts. The change is coming soon.

That our nation thinks the work not all done in the Pacific is proven by the sending of the battleships Oregon, Iowa and Texas on the journey to be in position to aid Dewey if necessity calls.

Last Saturday, Sept. 17, was New Year's day for the Hebrews. In the Jewish calendar this is the beginning of the year 5659, reckoning from the creation of the world, 3760 years before the birth of Christ. This year will have 353 days. Last year contained 355 days, and the year succeeding this will contain 381 days. In the Jewish calendar New Year falls upon different days each year, being regulated by calculations based upon the date assigned to the creation of the world.

The Peace Commissioners appointed by the United States sailed for Paris last Saturday, to meet the Spanish Committee and arrange final settlement of terms. Before going they were given instructions, and as we anticipated, they are to demand the entire relinquishment of all the Philippines. They are to treat with Spain as conquerers with the conquered. Spain must give up all the Philippines, Cuba and Porto Rico. Failing to submit to this, the negotiations will end, and the war be re-commenced and carried at once to the Spanish peninsula.

America having whipped Spain, is now going to set Europe another example by compelling the Turk to pay the indemnity due for murdering American missionaries during the Armenian massacres. The Sultan has three times failed to meet this obligation, and as he is not in the habit of paying attention to threats, it may be possible that this "new nation" of ours, may try to enforce settlement by the show of guns. Important events are just ahead. Watch closely the "Signs of the times." When the watchman on the tower, gazing eagerly for the first faint light he naturally looks toward the East. It is not safe to look in one direction all the time in these days, for there are signs of "day" all around. Brethren, do not sleep. Be alert and vigilant.

In its issue of Sept. 16, the Chicago Tribune, in commenting on the fact that Colonel Hay, the new Ambassador to Great Britain, is not in favor of an Anglo-American alliance, gives utterance to the following:—"We want no offensive and defensive alliances with Great Britain or any other foreign power. Such a proposition cannot be seriously entertained for a moment. We have no need for such an alliance, for the United States is great enough to "play a lone hand" in any international game of that sort which does not concern it, as would inevitably be the case if it tied itself to Great Britain.

Great Britain makes no attempt to conceal the fact that it wants our help and is willing to do almost anything in a friendly way to secure an alliance. Mr. Chamberlain, who is now visiting in the United States, has repeatedly stated in interviews that we need only to name our terms and they will be met more than half way. But there are no terms on which we could entertain such a proposition. The most that could be done would be to co-operate with Great Britain in some war against a combination of foreign powers in defense of our own rights and interests, where these happened to correspond with Great Britain's interests. Such co-operation would be of our own free will at the time and would cease the moment our rights ceased to be involved.

It is conceivable that we might join Great Britain in repelling an attack in which Russia and France sought to dispossess the British of their possessions in India or Africa or to invade and overpower the United Kingdom, provided the enemies of Great Britain also sought to interfere with our exports of food and raw materials to England. We might feel impelled to protect our own rights of trade and commerce against molestation and to fight side by side with the Britishers for that purpose. Again, it is conceivable that France might undertake, with Russia's powerful aid to seize and re-annex Lower Canada. The United States would hardly consent to stand idly by and see that thing done. Some other contingencies of this sort can be imagined, but not one of them would warrant a formal war union with any foreign power such as this British alliance talk seems to contemplate.

To be friendly with Great Britain is to our interest, and the ties of kinship and of common institutions that exist between us should never be broken or forgotten. The friendly-neutral stand taken by the British government throughout the recent war has been appreciated by the American people and has served to cement closer the informal friendship which we shall always hope to maintain, but when it comes to signing a sort of mercer that will make us a participant in every British territorial squabble we must decline with thanks. There would be too much sentiment and too little common sense in such a course to suit the American people.

This nation has set out to carve its destiny with its own hands and it neither asks for nor goes into foreign alliances. Wherever our destiny calls upon us to assist Great Britain that nation may depend upon us to go in and fight its enemies and our enemies with all our naval and military might. If the talk of an Anglo-American alliance means anything more than this it may as well be dropped, for it will amount to nothing."

Well, about all that the American friends of an Anglo-American alliance mean is just simply that an "understanding" shall be arrived at whereby the "joint interests" of the two nations shall be protected jointly. It will be apparent as we go on in "carrying out our destiny," that our "interests" are so very identical with those of England, that we will be compelled to join hands with her. An understanding such as this may be very helpful to the United States were she to try to force the Sultan to terms soon. It may transpire that this country will ere long be asking England to please "ally" with us. Watch, for God is moving nations fast these times.

Law or Gospel—Which? No. 22.

A recent Sabbatarian writer draws the "conclusion" from certain premises that the Sabbath was given at creation. There would be no need of this, if there were any evidence of such a fact. This from acknowledged authority shows that all the rank and file base their belief on the conclusions of their leaders; and if they want to believe that the Sabbath dates from creation, this is what they have to do; there is no evidence. It is absolutely and infallibly true that God rested on the Seventh day. It is just as true that he blessed and sanctified it because he HAD [after the six days creative work] rested. Prof. Bush says the Hebrew word "shabath," means ceased. It is not opposed to weariness, but to action. The rest was not repose from fatigue, but a ceasing to create. The import of the term is not that of a total inaction, as we may see from the words of Jesus, John v. 17, "My Father worketh hitherto and I work."

The whole Sabbatarian system would crumble without the Sabbath-from-creation idea; and all who reject the idea of its perpetuity are consigned to the blackness of darkness for ever. And yet the Great God did not see fit to publish a Sabbath law for some 2500 years after God's rest, or ceasing from creative work, and after mankind had been born, lived and died without a knowledge of it.

The words:—"And on the Seventh day God ended his work which he had made, and he rested on the Seventh Day from all his work which he HAD made. And God blessed the Seventh day and sanctified it because in it [the Seventh Day] he HAD rested from all his work which God created and made," may be quoted ten thousand times, but it would leave the matter of Sabbath FOR MAN from creation unproved.

The Sinai Law says, six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work, but the Seventh day,—[the next after the six days of labor] is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God. How would this rule fit a Sabbath for man from creation? On the day God ceased from creative work man was one day old; if he Sabbath law for man was already in force five more days must elapse before his Sabbath, unless he rested before he did anything, which would reverse the order in God's case, as well as in that of the law.

Let it be noticed, that we do not read that God blessed the Seventh day and sanctified it because in it he rested. Had it read that way Sabbath Advocates would have a strong case; but when we read that he blessed and set it apart [presumably for man's observance] he already. We know when he had rested from Gen. ii. 1, viz. the next day after the sixth day of creation when all was finished. We also know when he blessed and sanctified the Seventh day and sanctified it as a MEMORIAL of his own rest. It was the next day after the rain of manna for six successive days. See Ex. xvi. 22, 29; Ex. xx. 10, 11 and other places. If the Lord blessed and set apart the Seventh day for man's observance, at creation, was not that enough? Did his blessing exhaust itself? If blessed then would it not stay blessed? If so, why did he bless and set it apart again. Sabbatarians know right well how this goes against their claim, but they have been equal to the emergency. They call it a "reform."—a "reformation." The evidence of what we say lies open before us. This can only be a wicked reflection upon God: for man had nothing to do with the making of the law or the blessing of it.

"HAD RESTED"

In harmony with all this is the fact that before the giving of the law from Sinai the Sabbath was never mentioned. It is not said that any of the ancient worthies kept it; but after its enactment at Sinai it is mentioned more than a hundred times.

We are called a NO-LAW-PEOPLE. This is not true. Like Paul we are under law to Christ, he having superceded Moses, because we are told that the law ordained (Gal. iii. 19) or spoken (Heb. ii. 2) when in force meted out a just recompense for every transgression and disobedience,—and that Christ does not administer that covenant,—but a new one. Being of the tribe of Judah he could not be a priest of that Mosaic system. Both the Law and the priesthood have been changed. Heb. vii. 11-18, and this last verse positively says the preceding commandment has been annulled because it was weak and unprofitable, and chap. ix. 9 explains the nature of its weakness,—it did not perfect the conscience even when obeyed to the letter. Are we far astray when under law to Christ? This explains the action taken by a council of the Apostles at Jerusalem as recorded in the 15th of Acts, in refusing to impose the law of Moses upon Gentile believers, as demanded of the Pharisees. Those who want to know God's truth in this matter should carefully study the whole of the 15th of Acts. We guarantee that no Advent Conference ever sent out such a circular letter as that there recorded, because they deny the change of the law, the change of the priesthood and of the Mediator, partially at least, by splitting one law and making two of it, and discarding the part that suits them and retaining the remainder, although they have no priest or mediator, Aaron and Moses being dead, and Jesus cannot officiate for them, being of Judah, and besides that is Mediator of a better covenant established on better promises,—and therefore has introduced a better hope. Is it not just like sinful flesh to have its own way, even to the acceptance of what is known not to be best?

Before us lies a work by one high up in the councils of one Section of the Sabbatarian Community, and in it he says that Moses "Received from God the only law ever given to man." Is it not shameful to behold the ignorant by such a statement. Does the writer not know that a law is any rule of action or command, or decree, or statute by authority issued? Does his doctrine need such an argument? Does he not ignore every Patriarch or prophet who has spoken for God, except Moses? Does he not ignore Christ and his Apostles? Yet, verily.

But hearken to the next sentence:—"That law [given by God to Moses] was to be kept through all eternity!!!"

How does he know that? Does he know what he is talking about? Or is he drunk with something worse than wine? Just think of the Law given by God to Moses, which could not give life, and by which no one could become righteous, see Gal. iii. 21, and which was enacted for sinners, and because of transgressions, see verse 19 of the same chapter, "Was to be kept through all eternity!!!" What class of people does he expect to reach by such double-distilled foolishness? Does he mean that the 144,000 Advents after their glorification and ascension to heaven and reign with Christ there for a thousand years, and return to earth to enjoy their everlasting inheritance,—yes; does he mean that they will still be liable to want other gods? and Make graven images?

And bow down to them? and
Take God's name in vain?

Does he mean that the 144,000 Sabbatarians will keep the Typical Seventh Day Sabbath when the Anti-typical or Seventh thousand years shall have come, and gone; and the endless beyond entered upon?

Does he mean that after entering upon the Eternal state they will be liable to dishonor their father and mother, and must be restrained by the law given to Moses? If so, what if their fathers and mothers should have had the mark of the Beast, and had gone to their own place, what then?

Does he mean that the 144,000 will be liable to break out, and want to kill somebody after everybody has been made immortal?

Does he mean that some of them will want to steal something from somebody after all things have become theirs?

Does he mean that the redeemed Sabbatarians will covet their next neighbor's house 1300 miles away, after the earth has been swelled out [redacted]

Does he mean they will be liable to covet their neighbor's wives after Jesus has said in Matt. xxii. 3 that in the resurrection they neither marry, nor are given in marriage?

If this is not what he means what use will there be for the law given by Moses through eternity.

We publish this as a specimen of what is being sent broadcast for gospel, while millions are perishing for lack of knowledge, and to make it clear to all that a system which allows such things to go out for truth is a great religious fraud.

In trying to make out a consistent case Sabbatarians get deeper into the mire of fleshly thinkings.

In "The Lord's Day," by M. C. Wilcox, on p. 54, under the head of "The Law of the New Covenant," he quotes Jer. xxxi. 31-34 as the New Covenant that was confirmed by the death of Christ and says it is the everlasting covenant running parallel with the Everlasting Gospel.

In the Scripture above referred to God promises to make a new covenant with the people he made a covenant with when he brought them out of Egypt,—but not the same sort of a covenant,—that was a covenant of temporal blessings, the next is to involve heart work, while the other could be mechanically or physically obeyed. Paul is a divine commentator, and in Romans he shows that God is able to graft the natural branches in again, and will do so, and all Israel shall be saved, but not till the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled (Luke xxi. 24) and the Deliverer shall come out of Zion and turn away ungodliness from Jacob, when their blindness will end,—see Rom. xi. 25, 26, and the 27th verse being quoted by Paul from Jer. xxxi. 33, 34 is conclusive proof that God's covenant with Israel described by the prophet had not been made with them in Paul's day and could not be made with them till their blindness is removed and the Deliverer comes. v. 25, 26, and they say to him, "Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord." Matt. xxi. 9. In a word Sabbatarians confound the covenant promised to the nation of Israel in the future, with the covenant confirmed by the blood of Christ, and by which alone we can be raised as Christ was. See Heb. xiii. 20. It is useless to speak of these things to those who believe Jesus is coming as the destroyer of the whole race save themselves, instead of the Great Restorer. But we refer to it to exhibit the company they are in who believe Sabbatarianism.

Those who have the one hope set before us, believe the gospel preached to Abraham, Gal. iii. 8,—the belief of which constituted him heir of the world. Rom. iv. 13. This was the promise of the saints' inheritance, see Gal. iii. 18; and the 13th and 14th verses proves that Christ was made a curse in order that Abraham's blessing may be inherited by Gentiles. It is an everlasting inheritance and therefore it involves or embraces everlasting life.

Before dismissing this subject we will notice one more gross error made by Adventists to justify their position that two laws or covenants were made at Sinai; but that the ten commandments were neither the Old covenant, nor the New, but an independent or 3-year-old covenant. Our answer is 1st The New Testament recognizes one New Covenant in force during Gentile times—that confirmed by the blood of Christ. Luke xxii. 20. 2nd. That the New Testament recognizes only one covenant made at Sinai, and was a ministration of death, not of life. 2 Cor. iii. 7, and was represented allegorically by one woman, namely Hagar. Gal. iv. 24, and answered to Jerusalem in Paul's day in bondage with her children. 3rd. The Free Woman's children were children of promise. Gal. iv. 28, that is, of the covenants of promise, Eph. ii. 12, and Christ sets the children of promise—those who believe the promises—free from the yoke of bondage, the law from Sinai. Gal. iii. 24, and Gal. v. 1-4. 10th. That this freeing covenant was made 430 years before the Sinai bondage covenant came into existence. Lastly we review the statement that is recorded in Ex. xix. 5, 6, "Now therefore, if ye will obey my voice indeed, and keep my covenant, then ye shall be a peculiar treasure unto me above all people, for all the earth is mine," a simple proposition preliminary to a covenant he proposed to make, the contents of which he made known after the awful scenes enacted on Sinai to inspire the people with [redacted] Covenant.

THE OLD COVENANT

Jehovah's proposed covenant commences with the ten commandments, after this follows a great many laws and judgments occupying more than three chapters; all of which came from the mouth of the Lord, and Moses wrote all the words of the Lord in a book, and then made preparation for ratifying the covenant, builded an altar and offered burnt offerings, and sacrificed peace offerings of oxen. Moses then took half the blood in basins, and half of the blood he sprinkled on the altar. And he took the book of the covenant and read in the audience of the people, and they said, all that the Lord hath said will we do and be obedient. And Moses took the blood and sprinkled it on the people and said, "Behold the Blood of the covenant, which the Lord hath made with you concerning all these words." All What Words? All the words Jehovah spake as recorded in Ex. xx. 21, 22, 23, and which we are told in Ex. xxiv. 4 Moses wrote,—all the words he read out of the book of the covenant in the audience of the people. There is no propriety in saying Moses wrote all the words of the Lord, and calling it "the book of the covenant" if it contained only the 6th and 7th verses of chapter 9. Nothing but the exigencies of a false doctrine could blind one to the truth, that when in chapter xx. 1, we are told God spake all these words, saying,—

"I am the Lord thy God, which have brought thee out of the Land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage." "Thou shalt have no other gods before me." "Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image," etc., and in one continuous stream of words, called "all these words" at the end gives utterance to the covenant he proposed to make with that people, to the end of chapter 23. It began with the TEN COMMANDMENTS.

We have infallible proof in Hebrews ix. 18 that all these words, not a part of them, was the first covenant; 2ndly that it, [the first covenant] was dedicated with blood. It was the covenant containing all these words of God that was dedicated with blood,—confirmed, ratified with blood.

What would the covenant have amounted to without ratification by blood? For a moment suppose that Ex. xix. 5, 6 was the first covenant,—where or when was it dedicated with blood? If not thus dedicated, it was never of force, nor that defence of two laws at Sinai signally fails.

(Concluded next week.)

Obituary.

Eva Compton was born Sept. 22, 1866, and died Sept. 6, 1898, aged 31 years, 11 mo. and 14 days. She was united in marriage Dec. 6, 1887 with G. W. Bourdon. To this union was born one daughter, Gladys, who with the husband and father now mourn the loss of a kind, gentle and loving wife and mother.

Eva became a Christian by faith in and obedience to the gospel in 1887, since which time she has lived a devoted Christian life. Eight weeks before her death she left her home in Elwood, Ind., to visit her parents and the scenes of her childhood, in West Lebanon, Ind., and to recuperate, if possible her health, which was not good. Failing in the latter, the fatal stroke came, preventing her return to the home she loved so well.

Of her immediate family she leaves a husband and one daughter 9 years old, together with a father, mother, one brother and sister to mourn the loss of one whose place in this world can never again be filled. She had a peculiarly kind and cheerful disposition, very patient in all her sufferings, so much so that her own relatives could scarcely detect the seriousness of her illness, until the fatal moment came. For nearly two months she struggled heroically with typhoid fever, but her strength was insufficient for such a contest. All that a kind husband, father and mother, and friends could do for her was done, but all efforts were fruitless; darkness closed about her until she fell asleep. Funeral service was conducted by the writer, after which she was laid to rest with the many floral offerings, which demonstrated the high esteem in which she was held by her many friends. With sad hearts do we turn from the sorrowful scene, so many times repeated in our experience, praying the return of the Life Giver, to dry our tears and calm the troubled heart by bringing back our loved ones to our fond embrace.

L. E. Conner.

Report of Labor.

Editor Restitution:

Please allow me space in the Restitution to make a short report of the progress of the truth in South Carolina. Friday Aug. 5, we began a tent-days meeting at Guthrie Grove, four miles west of Pelzer, in Anderson Co., S. C. We had a good attendance, and several were induced to be baptized. The meeting closed on Sunday Aug. 14. The closing sermon was preached by Elder E. M. Anderson, after which several were baptized, and Aug. 31 was set for the time to baptise others that were not ready at this time. On Saturday, Aug. 21st, Bro. Garrett baptized Brother Long, a Baptist minister, who from this time on will preach the gospel. These are persons were baptized at the different times, Mr. Frank James, Mrs. James Harris, Mrs. Pack, Mrs. B. Z. Chandler, Mrs. John Brewer, Mrs. Wm. Hammond, Miss Rose Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Pack, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Martin, Mrs. Joseph Brewer, Miss Alice Brewer, Miss Bell Wall, Miss Essie Davis, Mrs. James Hammond, Mr. Wm. Brewer. Mr. Wm. Brewer and Miss Bell Wall were united in marriage. We now have a church of 46 baptized believers. May the good work go on.

John Anderson.

A WAR ATLAS.

The exact locality of many places mentioned in the news of the War between the United States and Spain is not known to the general reader, and so recourse is had to geographies. We have decided to offer our readers a complete War Atlas of sixteen pages of maps, showing all the territory where a conflict can occur, besides some valuable statistics. This will be mailed to you for 25 cts. Send orders at once, and get the position of the places named that you can better understand how the various complication will affect the nations of the world. Address,—The Restitution, Plymouth, Ind.

A catechism. What is a saloon? A saloon is a place authorized by law to sell mixtures of fusel-oil, logwood, alcohol, nux-vomica and other poisonous drinks, at a profit of from two hundred to three hundred per cent.

Poetry.

Communicated.

Conference Report.

Report of the Annual Conference of the Church of God of the Abrahamic faith in Indiana held at Rensselaer, Sept. 1-5, 1898.

The business meeting was called to order on Friday morning by the president Bro. Austin. The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved.

The treasurer sent a report of the finances, but as there had since been some paid to the secretary his report was accepted which was as follows:

Amount subscribed and paid to secretary to date Sept. 1, 1898.

Antioch subscribed $57.50, paid $52.50, due $5.00.

Bracken subscribed $60.50, paid $55.50, due $5.00.

Argos subscribed $33.75, paid $27.50, due $6.25.

Plymouth subscribed $59.50, paid $49.50, due $10.00.

Rensselaer subscribed $78.50, paid $78.00, due $.50.

Scircleville subscribed $9.25, paid $5.50, due $3.75.

Eagle Creek subscribed $11.00, paid $9.50, due $1.50.

North Union subscribed $13.00, paid $13.00.

Isolated member subscribed $21.00, paid $21.00.

Collections $33.23, paid, $33.23.

Tent fund $143.00, paid $67.00, due $76.00.

Cash $1.00.

Whole amount subscribed $521.23.

Whole amount paid $413.23.

Due on subscription $108.00.

Whole amount paid out of treasury $280.64, balance in treasury $132.58, deducting from this the tent fund $67.00, leaves a balance of $65.58 evangelical fund. By an error the subscription taken at the last June meeting at Antioch was counted in with the evangelist fund, where it should have been with the tent fund.

Bro. Zilmer, the evangelist, submitted his report from Jan. 20 to Sept. 1, 1898, which was accepted.

Days in employ of Conference 121, amount due him at $1.67 per day, $202.07; traveling expense $7.69, total $209.76. Amount paid him up to Sept. 1, 1898, $194.19. Subscribed on evangelist fund $5.00, total $195.19, leaving a balance due him of $10.57. Number of discourses in Indiana 83, number in Ohio 26. Number baptisms in Indiana 3, received into church 4, funerals 5. Baptized in Ohio 10; baptized in Wisconsin 1; total number 14.

On roll call of churches Plymouth, Bracken and Rensselaer responded by delegates, but Argos and Antioch being represented by members were by mutual consent enlisted as delegates.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Pres. F. L. Austin; First Vice Pres. D. E. Vanvactor; Second Vice Pres. J. L. Wince, Secretary A. C. Roberts; Treasurer L. B. Boggs.

A committee consisting of Bros. Wince, Wagoner and Burnham and Sisters Dickson and Boggs was appointed to consider the question of evangelizing the coming year.

The committee reported favorable to the appointment of some one in each organization to look after the collection of means to meet the expense of an evangelist, and also favored the employment of Bro. A. H. Zilmer as evangelist.

It was moved and carried that we make Bro. Zilmer an offer of $50.00 per month and car fare to evangelize during the coming year. Bro. Zilmer accepted the proposition.

On motion it was ordered that the further arrangements of evangelical work be placed in the hands of the executive board, which comprise the officers of the Conference. It was further ordered that the president appoint one member in each church to collect money for the evangelist work and report quarterly.

As there are several churches which are unable to support themselves it was ordered that the executive board be empowered to render such aid to these as was in their power and as they see fit.

An extension committee consisting of Bros. Wagoner, Wince, Zilmer, Abel Grant and Harry Evans whose duty is to look to the furtherance of evangelical work.

The board met at Bro. Austin's on Saturday p. m. for further transaction of business. It was ordered that Bro. Zilmer be empowered to use his own judgment in regard to his work in evangelizing in case of absence of advisement of board, and that he be empowered to receive any funds and receipt the same and turn over to the secretary, and that all funds for evangelical and tent work not received by him, be forwarded to the secretary who shall receipt the same and turn it over to the treasurer. And should he go to outside the State to evangelize, he would still be in the employ of the Conference, and the organization for whom he shall work pay to the Conference the same as the Conference pays [illegible] empowered to collect the same and turn in to the secretary.

I think that I will express the sentiment of all who were privileged to be there that not withstanding the excessively warm weather, we had a good enjoyable meeting and one which we trust will eventually result in much good. A little company of us gathered on the bank of the river on Sunday morning, and witnessed one sister immersed in the all-saving name. She with her husband and little child drove a number of miles to attend the meeting. May she never grow weary in the Master's cause and finally be rewarded with all the faithful.

The ministers present were Bro. Wagoner, of Rochester; Bro. Wince, of Pierreton; Bro. Zilmer, of Plymouth; and Bro. Austin of Rensselaer.

The plan of the programme was carried out, those having part and were not able to be there sent their papers.

There were many from abroad who attended the Conference: E. G. Bulsizier, Bro. and Sister E. Cox, Clermont, Ind.; Sister C. Yeoman, Rossville, Ill., Bro. and Sister M. Lemert, Burnettsville, Ind.; Bro. J. L. Wince Pierreton, Ind.; Bro. J. F. Wagoner, Rochester, Ind.; Sister Geo. Sigler, Mt. Ayer, Ind.; Bro. Chas. W. Willey, Kans.; Bro. J. H. Willey, direct from Michigan; Bro. and Sister A. C. Roberts, Sister Lizzie Dickson, Sister Dora Dickson, Bro. A. H. Zilmer, Bro. and Sister A. R. Underwood, Plymouth, Ind.; Sister Frank Boggs, Sister Myrtle Boggs, Bro. and Sister D. E. Vanvactor, Argos, Ind.; Bro. S. D. Fahrney, Bro. and Sister Adakson, Sister Dean, Sister Elvey, Sister Whitehead, Bro. Thompson, Chicago, Ill.; and many others whose names we did not learn. A happy coincident was the unexpected reunion of Bro. J. H. Willey's brothers and sisters; some of them had not seen each other for thirty-two years and were not recognized by the others when they came into the church. The three brothers and two sisters met, we know not, perhaps for the last time in this life. But we are glad to know they are all rejoicing in the same hope.

We were glad to be there and mingle with the good brothers and sisters of Rensselaer. They spared no means for our comfort and enjoyment, and should we not meet here again, may we all meet at that grand reunion where parting will be no more, is our prayer.

F. L. AUSTIN, Pres.
A. C. ROBERTS, Sec.

[P. S. It would appear to one not informed as if the several churches named had subscribed to the Evangelist fund, and some were behind in payment. That there may be no wrong impression we wish to state that while this is credited to the different Churches, the subscriptions were made by individual members of these churches, and the organizations are not responsible for their payment.—Ed.]

The business meeting of the Thirteenth Annual Conference of the Church of God in Nebraska was called to order at 2 p. m. on Friday, Aug. 26. The president being absent, Bro. G. M. Myers was elected chairman. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Then followed the reading of reports:

Secretary's report: received in May, $89.23; April and May $69.91; June $12.25; July $51.50; Aug. $84.50; total $287.39.

Evangelist's report: received for year $287.39; expenses $17.99; less expenses $269.40. Number baptized 18.

Treasurer's report for last quarter: received in July $31.50; August $84.50; total $116.00. Paid Elder Adams $116.00.

Moved that we proceed to the election of officers. Motion seconded and carried. The votes of the churches at Orinoque and St. Paul were read. Both churches voted that the old officers be re-elected. Moved that the secretary cast vote for the entire Conference for old officers. Motion seconded and carried.

Remarks in regard to the work of evangelist in visiting a number of churches regularly. Moved that the Conference Board direct the movement of the evangelist as to the places he will visit and hold meetings for the next three months. Motion seconded and carried.

Moved that the churches throughout the State be requested to make their wants known to the board in regard to the work of the evangelist. Motion seconded and carried.

Moved and carried that Bro. J. P. Gleam's certificate be renewed for another year.

Moved that we adjourn to call of chair. Motion seconded and carried.

The long-looked for meeting at Omaha has been held, and is now a thing of the past; but its memory still lingers in the minds and hearts of those who attended, and they will ever regard it as one of the brightest and happiest events of their lives. The joy we experienced in meeting with old friends, in greeting new ones, and in talking and hearing of the blessed truths of the gospel will only be excelled when all of the faithful ones meet and greet each other in the soon-coming kingdom of God. Oh, may we all be there!

Your Sister in Christ,
RENA M. GORTON, Sec.

Conference Notice.

The Annual Conference of the Church of God in Southern Kansas and Northern Oklahoma will be held at Blackwell, Okla. (D. V.) commencing Oct. 7, and closing Oct. 16, 1898. We are very anxious to have this a meeting that will strengthen and upbuild, "Where no wood is, the fire goeth out." Let all come and come with fuel for a profitable meeting. Bro. A. H. Zilmer will be with us during this Conference, and for a few weeks afterwards. The following point only having been reported: three miles west and three south of Newkirk, Oklahoma. We wish to use these few weeks to the very best advantage, so all knowing of a desirous field make it known to the Secretary and the Committee will consider all points and favor the ones where they deem the best work can be done. The programme will be published later. It is the desire that all come prepared to stay on the grounds so they can attend every session. The business meeting will be the first Saturday in the afternoon.

ELLA M. VICKERY, Sec.

Low Rates to Omaha—Every Day via Pennsylvania Lines for Trans-Mississippi Exposition.

Excursion tickets to Omaha are on sale daily at principal ticket offices of the Pennsylvania Lines may be obtained up to October 15th inclusive. The return limit includes November 15th. For special information about the low fare and quick through time over this route, apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines, or address F. Van Dusen, A. G. P. Agt., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Selections.

Growth of Expansion Idea.

Now that the President has instructed, or at least authorized, the Peace Commissioners to stand fast for the retention of all the conquered Spanish territory it is interesting, not to say astonishing, to look back a few months and trace the rapid but inevitable growth of this expansion idea among the people and in the President's mind.

Eight months ago we had no idea of making war on Spain. Six months ago the people were clamoring for war, the President was opposing it, and nobody had any idea of adding a square mile of territory to the union. Four months ago the thrill of Dewey's victory had created the idea of national expansion all over the country, but the administration had scarcely begun to think of. Two months ago the country had begun to catch the thought of the people and had determined on the annexation of Porto Rico, but he still believed in giving up the Philippines. Today the logic of the situation and the will of the people have brought the President and the outside world alike to the conclusion that all the Spanish colonies must come under American control and that the United States must henceforth be a world nation and not a hermit nation.

The war idea awoke full armed at the sound of the infamous explosion by which Spanish treachery sent the Maine and 260 of its seamen to the bottom of Havana harbor Feb. 15. The expansion idea was born an infant, yet a sturdy and growing one, on the morning of May 1, when Dewey and his gallant fleet sunshed the Spanish navy in Manila harbor and planted the American flag on Philippine soil at Cavite. Between those two events no one thought of the American people was to put a stop to the hideous cruelty under which the Cuban insurgents were living and the Cuban reconcentrados dying, and incidentally to avenge the crime of the Maine. The Spaniards were to be driven out of Cuba and the Cubans set free at the cost of a war on our part. Where the war would end no man knew or cared, but there was no thought of territorial aggrandizement in the patriotic enthusiasm that sent the soldiers of the nation to the front at the President's call last April. The idea of expansion came later as the result of the irresistible logic of events, but when it did come it came with a rush and a sweep like some irresistless flood, carrying the nation on to a wider and manifest destiny.

First came the cry of mercy for the oppressed Cubans and of vengeance for the Maine infamy. That it was seen that to punish Spain would lead straight to a war. What the dimensions of the war would be no man could foretell in March last. Thinking men began to see, however, that we would have to invade Cuba, drive the Spanish army out of the island, and destroy the Spanish fleet. The American people did not hesitate at the task. We must stop the civil war in Cuba at any cost, help the insurgents, and save Weyler's victims from starvation and death. What was to be done with Cuba afterward? The question was left, like men of action, for future events to determine. While the nation was pondering over these things there came the startling news Dewey's brilliant victory at Manila. We had Spanish territory on our hands in the Orient, and the people began to think and their ideas began to expand.

But while we kept on thinking we also kept on fighting. The blockade of Cuba went on apace, and then came the invasion of the island by the army. The destruction of Cervera's fleet at Santiago proved anew that Spain was as weak as it was vicious and that it could never hold any colonies again, even if we gave them back. The Philippines were in our hands and the people kept on thinking. Santiago fell and Toral surrendered with his 25,000 wretched Spanish soldiers. Porto Rico dropped—nay, rushed—into our arms. Spain sued for peace, showed an inclination to accept our terms as conquerors, and formally surrendered all right and title in Cuba and Porto Rico, while the Philippines still practically remained in our hands to do with as we found best.

Meantime an active discussion was going on all over the country as to what should be done with these conquests, and by the time the war closed the idea had gathered strength that we should keep them all. Widespread and earnest discussion still continued among Americans everywhere, and each day the policy of territorial expansion gained more converts and objectors grew less aggressive. It was seen that the past policy of this government ever since the revolution had been to gain territory, and it became plain that we had as much right to go abroad to the Asiatic islands to expand our domain as we had had in previous generations to take Russian, Spanish, or French territory on the American continent by war or purchase. The effect on our institutions, on our foreign commerce, and on the growth of liberty everywhere was seen to be full of promised benefits. The nations of Europe besought us to hold the Philippines, and the law abiding elements in every Spanish colony called upon us to protect and govern them and to fulfill the solemn obligations which we had incurred.

These months of intelligent discussion wrought a revolution in American people themselves. Millions who at the outbreak of the war would have denounced the idea of holding or annexing a foot of Spanish territory came out of that campaign of education with the fixed belief that we could not wisely or honorably do less than hold every foot of Spanish territory we had conquered. The great, expansive, inspiring idea of becoming a world nation had proved irresistible.

The logic of events had compelled us to move on and out into the wider sphere of the powers that rule the earth. The President, while holding a conservative attitude befitting his great responsibilities, yet kept his ear close to the people and his finger on the public pulse. At last he has evidently decided to act in accordance with the people's will, knowing that a great thinking nation that has never gone wrong on any great issue could not be mistaken now. Such is the story of the evolution of the epoch-making idea of national expansion, which is the crowning glory of the war with Spain.—Tribune.

Anglo-American vs. European Combination.

The Rt. Hon. Sir Richard Temple, an English baronet, has contributed a paper to the North American Review for September, under the title, "An Anglo-American Versus a European Combination," which will attract the attention of all thoughtful readers. The article in question is devoted to a statement of the comparative strength of these combinations in case of war. Upon the one side he places the United States and the British Empire, with their belongings, and on the other side the three great powers, France, Germany, and Russia. While Austria could not contribute much in force or resources, the writer places it on the side of Germany, and in such case Italy to the British side. Japan is not included on either side.

As to the factor of population, the writer assigns to the European combination 224 millions, mostly white; 61 millions colored; in all 285 millions, of which Russia alone furnishes 136 millions. On the other side, the population of the United States is set down at 70 millions and that the United Kingdom and self-governing colonies at 55 millions, a total of 125 millions. In all parts of the world the British Empire has a total of 350 millions, so that the grand total would amount to 475 millions, or more than one-third of the population of the globe while the power of expansion would augment enormously the status of the Anglo-American population. The latter combination would lose nothing by the comparison of area, as it has 15½ millions of square miles to 13 millions for the European combination. The total coast line of the European combination would hardly exceed 17,000 miles, with only one harbor of the first rank—Hamburg—while the Anglo American combination has 62,000 miles of coast and 18 first rate harbors. The writer says in this connection: "The United States has 3,000 miles on the Atlantic, with the harbors of Boston, New York, Baltimore, and New Orleans, and 2,000 miles on the Pacific, with the harbors of San Francisco and Portland, together with 3,000 miles for Alaska and its islands. A portion of the population is indeed inland, but more than half, perhaps nearly two-thirds, is on or within reach of the coast." In this enumeration of harbors the writer has omitted to mention Portland, Me., Portsmouth, Mobile, Galveston, Philadelphia, Seattle Charleston, San Diego, Savannah, Havana, Porto Rico, Manila, Hawaii, and the Ladrones. The European combination would have 79,500 miles a railroad, the Anglo American 285,000 miles. The total trade of the former is 1,600 millions and of the latter 1,120 millions annually, while the former has 11 millions of shipping tonnage to the latter's 8½ millions. The annual output of coal of the United States and Great Britain is 405 millions, of the European combination 188 millions, while that of iron is 25 millions and 20 millions respectively. The total revenues on the Anglo-American side are $1,855,000,000, while those of the European combination are $2,025,000,000. The peace establishments of the French, German, and Russian armies may be two millions, while that of the European combination is 1,030,000. The Anglo-American navy would number 110 ships, that of the European combination 381.

These are the main points of the writer's comparison, briefly stated, but there are other points to be considered. First, it is not reasonable to suppose that Germany would enter into such a combination as the writer contemplates, to engage in a struggle with the United States; and, second, such a war would be of necessity a war at sea. The European combination undoubtedly would seek to invade England; and in its sea defense is the position where it is strongest. Its navy is more powerful n w than that of Russia, France, Germany, and Austria combined. Our navy can be increased quickly so as to exceed that of France. We have unlimited raw material—iron and coal—and also a degree of mechanical skill and ability which is far greater than that of any European power.

But how could our country, for instance, be interested in the question of the possession of British India by Russia? We could not be expected to send a great army there to help England to hold it. As to China, it is hard to conceive that we want any of its territory. We ask nothing more than a free chance to trade with the Celestials on as good terms as any other power would enjoy.—Tribune.

We are a World Power.

The President has notified the Czar that the United States will send a representative to the international conference which he has called.

The State department gave out this item of news as a routine matter and it has apparently attracted small attention. Yet is it not in reality the statement of an epoch-making event? Does it not directly entail consequences of the most far-reaching character? Does it not mark the end of our era of isolation, the beginning of our era of active and conspicuous participation in the politics and policies of the family of civilized nations from which we have hitherto striven to hold aloof?

Less than six months ago our interest in Europe and Europe's interest in us were general, not particular. Then came the Spanish war—to drive one more European nation from this continent and, as it was generally supposed, to isolate us still further. We had not been at war ten days when this delusion of further severance from world politics was blown to atoms by the shells from Dewey's guns.

The Czar's conference is purely for the discussion of world problems and politics. Six months ago he would have invited us as a matter of courtesy, but would have anticipated our probable declination. What did we care politically whether Europe was convulsed over questions of Eastern Hemisphere frontiers? Today the Czar invites us and he expects us to accept. And we do accept, not after long hesitation, but promptly and as a matter of course.

In its quiet, brief announcement the State department has officially informed the world that hereafter Europe cannot reckon well without taking us into account; that we are a world power, with a mighty sword to toss if we will, into the scales of world adjustments.—New York World.

Cheap Trips to the Northwest, West, and Southwest.

Persons contemplating business or pleasure trips to the Northwest, West or Southwest may arrange for an enjoyable journey at low fare by communicating with C. L. Kimball, Asst'l Gen'l Passenger Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines, Cleveland, O. He represents the short Lines to Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville and Cincinnati, the gateways to the Northwest, West and Southwest. Tell Mr. Kimball where you wish to go, and he will cheerfully furnish full information about special low rates and quick through time.—Oct. 31.

You Can Go to Chicago Sept. 25th, for $1.00.

From Plymouth via Pennsylvania Lines excursion train at 5:30 a. m. central time; returning leave Chicago 8 and 11:30 p. m.

The Vandalia road new schedule in effect Sept. 19, shows trains north at 7:34 a m, 12:08 m, 10:11 p m. South at 5:33 a m, 12:43 m, and 7:33 p m.

Illinois State Conference.

To the Church and all the Brethren of the one faith in Illinois:

You are hereby invited to come to a Conference to be held at Lanark, Ill., to commence September 30, and continuing over Sunday. This meeting was first intended to be held the last Sunday of October, but the brethren saw fit to make this change as to TIME of the meeting.

Brothers and sisters of the one faith, do come to this meeting, and show by your presence that we are watching and waiting for the Lord's appearing. Now, brethren and sisters of the whole State of Ill., will you please report yourself in person or by letter at this Conference, that we may know who you are and where you are. We should like to know the strength of the brothers and sisters in the State, and if you can not come, please write a letter to be read in Conference.

J. M. GLOTFELTY, Sec.

We want every brother and sister in the entire State who reads this notice, to understand that you are each one individually invited. We must hear from you. The Master's business entrusted to your care demands your PERSONAL ATTENTION, and in a congregated capacity we can best unite our forces to advantage. Be in earnest, correspond with the Secretary at Lanark, Ill.

W. H. WILSON.

PROGRAMME FOR ILLINOIS CONFERENCE.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 30.

FORENOON.

10:00—Social Meeting.

10:30—Sermon—"Cultivation of Brotherly love." A. J. Eychaner.

AFTERNOON.

2:00—Papers by Eddy Renner and Media Mitchell.

3:00—Discussion on the plans of organization.

7:00—Social Meeting.

7:30—Sermon. D. M. Hudler.

SATURDAY FORENOON.

9:30—Short talks from the Brothers and Sisters.

10:00—Paper—"Baptism, its Necessity and Object," by Miss Jessie May Wilson.

11:00—Sermon—"Duties of Baptized Believers." A. J. Eychaner.

AFTERNOON.

2:00—Conference Work and Organization. We want all to be present at this meeting.

7:00—Social Meeting.

7:30—Sermon—"Who Made the Bible?" W. H. Wilson.

SUNDAY FORENOON.

9:00—Bible Class led by W. H. Wilson.

9:30—Paper—"Sunday School Work," by Mrs. Ruth Whitehead.

10:30—Sermon—by A. J. Eychaner. Breaking of Bread. Service conducted by W. H. Wilson.

AFTERNOON.

2:30—Social Meeting, followed by closing Business Meeting.

3:00—Sermon. The Blessed Hope, by W. H. Wilson.

6:00—Young People's Meeting—Essays and Papers.

7:30—Sermon. D. M. Hudler.

J. M. GLOTFELTY, Sec'y.

P. S. An effort is being made to get reduced rates on Railroads, if we succeed due notice will be given.

Good Chance to Visit the East at Low Fare.

Persons going to Pittsburgh over Pennsylvania Lines on cheap tickets to be sold via that route October 8th to 18th, inclusive, account Knights Templar Conclave will have the privilege of buying low rate excursion tickets from Pittsburgh to points in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and to Baltimore and Washington, over the Pennsylvania Route, by depositing excursion tickets with Joint Agent after reaching Pittsburgh. Full and particular information furnished in reply to inquiries addressed to nearest Pennsylvania Line Ticket Agent, or to C. L. Kimball, Ass't General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O.—oct 13

As to be perfectly just is an attribute of the Divine nature, to be so to the utmost of our abilities is the glory of man.

Low Rates to Pittsburgh for Knights Templar Conclave.

Elaborate arrangements are completed for the Knights Templar Conclave at Pittsburgh in October. You may enjoy it all by going on low rate tickets to be sold over Pennsylvania Lines October 8th to 18th, inclusive. After taking in the sights and festivities, interesting side trips may be made from Pittsburgh at small cost by depositing return coupon of Pittsburgh tickets with Joint Agent at that place. For particulars apply to nearest Pennsylvania Line Ticket, Agent or address C. L. Kimball, Ass't General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.—oct 13

Conference Notice.

The Quarterly Conference of the Church of God, in Michigan, will be held, the Lord willing, at Brady, Kalamazoo County, Michigan, commencing Friday evening Sept. 30th, 1898, and continue over the following Sunday. Friends coming from the north reach Vicksburg via Grand Rapids and Indiana R. R., which leaves Grand Rapids at 2.10 p. m. Teams will meet all trains on Friday and Saturday, to convey passengers to the place of meeting. Those coming from Hastings will take the Grand Rapids and Indiana R. R. at Kalamazoo, all friends coming from the north will be met at Vicksburg. Those coming from the south will be met at Mendon.

Able speakers are expected to be present, and an earnest invitation is extended to all to attend and hear the truth. Come all that can and help to make this our Quarterly Conference as interesting as possible.

EMMA LACKMAN, Sec'y.

To the Brethren in Michigan

Have you noticed the call for our conference? Will you all make a special effort to be at the meeting? The brethren in Brady and surrounding country are a very generous people, and will make ample preparations for all, and they don't want to be disappointed. Let us make the meeting a grand success. Remember, we are God's stewards. The cause of truth he has put in our hands the success of the cause depends upon our personal efforts. Don't say "I can't come." Where there is a will there is generally a way.

Yours, working for the Master.

B. W. WOODWARD.

Bro. Underwood:

Will you please announce through THE RESTITUTION as follows:—

I will be at the Illinois Conference to be held at Lanark, the first Sunday in October—the Lord willing—after which I will visit and hold meetings at Antioch, Dixon, Paines Point, and other places. Will the Elders at those places write me and arrange the dates?

A. J. EYCHANER.

Dear Brother Underwood:

Please announce through the RESTITUTION the following appointment. The Lord willing, I will be at Hazel, in the neighborhood of Brethren Woods and Rogers, Jasper Co., Ill., to hold meetings for some days to commence on Friday night before the 2nd Sunday in October, the date of commencing will be Oct., 7th, and continue as long as thought best.

J. S. HAVEN.

Pennsylvania Lines Excursions to Pittsburgh for Knights Templar Conclave.

Excursion tickets to Pittsburgh account Knights Templar Conclave will be sold October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th and 13th via Pennsylvania Lines. For special information inquire of nearest Pennsylvania Line Ticket Agent, or address, C. L. Kimball, Ass't General Passenger Agent, Cleaveland, Ohio.—oct 13

List of Appointments.

Hampton, Iowa, Sept. 22 to 28.
Ashton, Ill., Oct. 1 to 5.
Silver Creek, Ill., Oct. 6 to 9.
Adaline, Ill., Oct. 13 to 16.
Dixon, Ill., Oct. 20 to 23.
Lanark, Ill., Oct. 27 to 30.
Rock Falls, Ill., Nov. 2 to 13.
Muscatine, Iowa, Nov. 15 to 27.
Ripley, Ill., Dec. 1 to 4.

Brethren, if above appointments and dates do not suit, will you write me at once?

Yours in hope of the coming kingdom,

D. M. HUDLER.

Reduced Fares to Various Points via Pennsylvania Lines.

Excursion tickets will be sold via Pennsylvania Lines as indicated in the following paragraphs. Although concessions in fare are authorized for meetings of certain Orders, tickets may be obtained by any person whether a member of the Order or interested in the event. The reduced rates will be open to everybody.

To Pittsburgh, Pa., October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th 12th and 13th, good returning until October 17th, account Knights Templar Triennial Conclave. Return limit may be extended until October 31st.

During the excursion season special rates will also be in effect via Pennsylvania Lines for special and local events. For particular information please apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines or address C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.

Send to this office and get a "War Atlas" only 25 cts post-paid.

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing. Said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 20th of April, 1898, providing notice is given through THE RESTITUTION that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all remittances to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 340, Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. S. J. Sigler,	$10 00
J. L. Wince,	5.00
F. L. Austin,	10.00
Edgar Hatch,	1.00
Agnes Dilworth,	2.00
Mrs. Mary E. Thompson,	15.00
One who believes that God from little offerings can work out great results	10.00
A Friend of Truth	1.00
Mrs. S. A. Wickizer,	7.00
Mrs. A. M. Sipe,	20.00
Mrs. Mary J. Riggs,	2.00

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donor request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

John Compton, Blair, Neb.
J. H. Stevens, Shawnee Mound Mo.
S. R. Clinkenbeard, Bonham, Texas.
P. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
L. M. Chesebrough, Galesburgh, Mich.
Norton Gould, 4810 Saratoga st, Omaha, Neb.
Dr. J. E. Rollis, Ashton, Kan.
A. G. Winchester, Riverside, Kan.
L. C. Bratchaw, 165 Broadway, Alliance, Ohio.
W. L. Eicholtz, Scholls, Ore.
E. Hayt, Box 384, Grand Rapids, Mich.
S. Roxana Wince, Plymouth Ind.
C. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Heap, Dudley, Worchestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Scircville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Chisnville, Ark
J. J. Cady, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prine, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Gladbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 528 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
D. L. Kern, 4507, S. N. St. Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Glenn, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hull, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Sidell, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
T. E. Adams, Osawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Attica, Kan.
D. M. Hudler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. G. Haupt, Laurel, Neb.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, Okla.
W. D. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Primmer, Jessup, Io.
Mollie Babcock, W. R. C. Home, Madison, Ohio.
J. Dunaway, Bullard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
H. T. Baker, Box 1098 Decorah, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Arcola, Col.
J. R. Iglesia, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Monmouth, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Ruthbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 927 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Stoffle, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 44, Viola, Idaho.
Elder H. M. Williams, Portland, Kan.
B. Wilson, 1905 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
D. T. Halstead, Andover, S. D.
John Poore, 2912 West Cozaing Ave. Parsons, Kansas.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
R. S. Bwiggins, Odessa, Mich.
H. F. Tyler, 2714 6th ave, Tacoma, Wash.
Miss Emma Jaskunas, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 884 Grand Rapids, Mich.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt binding, fifth edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Twelve Words;" one of "Early Lessons;" and one of "Honoring the Son,"—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

Excursions to Chicago.

Commencing July 17th and continuing every Sunday until further notice the Pennsylvania Lines will sell One Dollar round trip excursion tickets from Plymouth to Chicago. Special train will leave at 7:15 a. m. central time; returning leave Chicago 8 p. m. and 11:30 p. m. Excursionists have all day to look about the great city.

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in the Church Cor. Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. Sunday School 12:00 a. m. Prayer and social meeting Thursday evenings. Yearly convenant. W. B. Thompson and W. Tate Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 626 West Third Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Services every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Brethren from a distance and all others of like faith are cordially invited. Sentafoe, M. Joblin, Evangelist.

The Chicago Church, Van Buren Hall corner of Madison St., and California Ave. Services Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God, at Argos, Ind., meet in their house on Michigan St., on following Lord's day by J. F. Wagoner on the 1st Sunday, in the month. Sunday School at 9 o'clock and Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God at Salem, Ohio, the second Lord's day of the week, at 10:30 a. m. A cordial invitation is extended to all lovers of truth, to meet with us, and they will be welcomed by the Church meeting at No. 9 Depot St., Salem, Ohio.

The Church of God, at Andover, S. D., hold services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in Mills Hall. Andover is on the direct line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R. about 200 miles to Aberdeen, thirty miles east thereof.

The Church of God, in Loudon, Neb., meets every Sunday, at the house of Thomas Green, to study God's Word. Union Sunday School at 10:00 a. m. Sunday and Social meeting every two weeks. We have no regular preacher. Address William Elder, Sarah Selleck, Secy.

Ainsworth, Neb. Sunday School every Sunday at R. Cheney's house, at 1:00 p. m. followed by services at 2:00. All are welcome.

Church of the Blessed Hope, of West Seattle, Wash. This church regularly meets for public and church service every Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. Brethren known to the church, or coming properly endorsed by some orderly letter, will be heartily welcomed. At present we meet in the School House on top of the hill; other services come every week, and every Lord's day in Seattle.

The brethren of the Church of God at Bruce Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. in Bible class and Sunday school. Communion at 11:00 when prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors address Brother George Knife, Kessler, or H. L. Lehman, West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at Hammond, Ind., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. to break bread and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Aulton, Elder.

The Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Bowery Hall, on Willoughby Ave., near Broadway.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Gladbrook, Ia., every Sunday morning and evening, by A. J. Eychaner. Traveling brethren will find a welcome. Sunday school at 11:30 a. m.

The church at Fisher and Dutton, Mich., have preaching as often as Bro. and Sister Woodward can be present. Sunday School of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich., have preaching every four weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The church at Union Center is presided over by Brother L. L. Chase.

The congregation at Scholls, Oregon, meet every Sunday—a Bible study by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren from a distance meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Tresler.

The Church of God, at Niagara Falls, N. Y. meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 10th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the Kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon. Assisted occasionally by Elders W. L. Steele and Wm. Prosser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Salvation Fike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okla., meet at the Academy in my place, one and one-half miles northeast of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commune with the broken Body and spilt-of Blood of our Savior Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God of Waterville, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Mountainview School House, near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Corbaley, Pastor.

The Church of God, in Batavia, N. Y. meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 p. m. for worship, in private houses. All lovers of Truth, and traveling brethren are cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Gayer, Sec'y and Treas. J. E. Forsythe, Leader.

The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to stop and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Faithfully yours, Grant Mackumer.

The Church of God at Attica, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Attica for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays in each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver, Pastor.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No. 1231½ Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio; where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private houses, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday at the Union Chapel Church, Winterhode, Ind., for Bible Reading at 11 a. m. All are invited. Little Weeks, Secy.

The Church of God meet for preaching every third Sunday, in the Flint School House, in Grant Co., Oklahoma, in J. R. Fisk's neighborhood five miles south and four miles east of Caldwell, Kansas. Meeting Saturday night, and 10:00 a. m. Sunday, and also Sunday evening. All are welcome. J. R. Fisk, Elder. S. C. Oliver, Evangelist.

Your name and address are cordially [illegible] Sunday [illegible] Sunday [illegible]

EXAMINE

The label on your paper, and if it bears a date previous to this time please RENEW NOW. Do not wait or other notice to be sent, but PLEASE RENEW TODAY.

SEND THE RESTITUTION to some poor person as present for 1898. The cost is only One cent a week.

NICKEL PLATE

All trains arrive at and depart from Van Buren Street Union Passenger Station, Chicago.

Delivered Colored Porters speak English and attend every day coaches on through trains, handling exceptionally clean cars exclusively.

[illegible]

During Rose Blooming season Nos. 2, 4 and 6 through to Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, New York and Boston; also Nos. 5 and 10 to Chicago. Meals are served at "a la carte." Dining Stations and in Nickel Plate Dining Cars at supper and meal hours. Rotation check fool to destination. On receipt of postage will send our rate sheets showing lower than all other lines, reserve coach seats.

For rates and detailed information address H. F. Brown, General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O., or Local Ticket Agent.

Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway.

Schedule in effect May 15, 1898. Central Time.

[illegible]

L. E. LOREE, Gen'l Manager. E. A. FORD, Gen'l Passenger Agent.

GENERAL PASSENGER OFFICE, PENN'A. LINES, PITTSBURGH, PA.

For rates, time of trains, through tickets, sleeping car reservations, and further information call on ticket agents of the Pennsylvania Lines.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

VANDALIA TIME CARD

In effect June 19, 1898.

Trains leave Plymouth, Ind.

GOING SOUTH.

No. 14, Ex. Sun. For St. Joseph	7:31am
No. 6, " "	12:08pm
No. 20, " " " "	5:57pm
No. 8, " " South Bend	10:11pm
No. 16, Sunday only, for St. Joseph	8:24am

GOING NORTH.

No. 21, Ex. Sun. For Terre Haute	5:33a m
No. 3, " " " "	12:30noon
No. 7, " " " "	5:57 p m
No. 15, " " Logansport	7:33pm
No. 17, Sunday only "	8:10pm

For complete Time Card, giving all trains and stations and for full information as to rates, through cars, etc., address T. A. Downs, Agt., Plymouth, Indiana, or

E. A. FORD,
Gen. Pass. Agt.,
St. Louis, Mo.

Books and Tract List.

A LETTER TO A FRIEND.

[illegible] and Pardon, or who have no use for a God who consigns sinners to Eternal Torment, and are ignorant of Jehovah's beneficent purpose to fill the earth with his glory, and bestow Eternal Life upon believers of the Gospel, so they can enjoy it for ever? If so, send for Popular Lectures by Bro. Joblin, entitled: "The Kingdom of God;" "Old Mother Earth to Be Born Again;" "Strangers from the Covenants of Promise;" "Vain Worship;" "No Immortality Out of Christ;" "Hope Begotten by the Resurrection of Christ;" "God's Love and Solicitude for Mankind;" and "What Shall We Do to be Saved?"

Each Lecture of 16 pages $1 per 100 post free or an assortment of the whole, same price. Address M. Joblin, 624 Woodland Av., Cleveland, O.

Aids to Bible-Study and Mission-Work.

1. The gospel of the Kingdom, avocated in a series of Ten discourses. A volume of 283 pages, Cloth 25c. a Leather-bound beautifully embossed and gilt edged $1,00. 2. Twelve Words or the true meanings of Hell, Soul, Spirit, Ghost, Paradise, Incorruption, Incorruptable, Immortal, Immortality, Forever, Everlasting, Eternal, and their originals as gathered from their uses in the Holy Scriptures. A tract of 40 pages 10cts a copy. Intended as a substitute for and an improvement on the same writer's Key-Words. 3. The gospel of the Kingdom. An 8-page double column tract 10cts. per dozen; 75cts. per hundred. 4. Who are Led by the Spirit? A 4-page tract 25cts per hundred. 5. Seeking and Finding. A 4-page tract 25cts. per hundred. 6. Honouring the Son. An 8-page tract 25cts per dozen. 7. Early Lessons. 30 pages 10cts. copy. Suitable for old or young.

Written and for sale by WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

Notice.

WILL our friends please remember that we do not have the books and tracts at this office that are advertized by Brother Joblin, or Brother Wiley Jones. Do not send to this office for them, but send to their address as given in the advertisement. This will save both trouble and delay. PLEASE REMEMBER.

The Restitution

ON TRIAL

Three Months For 25 Cents.

WILL YOU TRY IT?

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON.
J. H. WILLEY.
A. R. UNDERWOOD.
WM. BAHLSHACK.
D. T. BALSTEN.

One Year 81.50, Six Months 75 Cents, Three Months 40 Cents.

Poetry.

Praise.

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, SEPTEMBER 28, 1898. NUMBER 37.

Communicated.

Indiana Conference Papers

SOME THOUGHTS ON THE STUDY OF THE BIBLE.

When your committee asked me to write a paper they kindly allowed considerable latitude as to its subject matter. I shall try to confine what I have to say to, "Some Thoughts on the Study of the Bible."

In a general way we may say that the Bible should be studied as other books, but occupying a field peculiarly its own it demands our attention in a special manner not accorded to other books.

The Savior said, "Search the Scriptures." John v. 39. Notice the force of the word "search." As Webster defines it it is "To look over or through, for the purpose of finding something." The Bible, the same as other books, must be read for a purpose. But the purpose for which books are read vary as widely as the nature of the contents of the books.

In taking up any work of an historical character the intelligent reader wishes to know three things. 1st. He wishes to know as much as possible of the author. 2nd. He wishes to know the customs of the people dealt with. 3rd. He wishes to know their history.

No one has either the time or inclination to read all that is published today, and when a new work appears, before giving his money for it and his time and attention to its perusal, the wise individual very naturally inquires as to the ability and reliability of the author. His inquiries must be answered in terms of what the author has done. This serves not only to establish the author's ability but enables him to get more meaning out of the author's words. To illustrate: Were the inventor of a machine to describe it his description might fail to be understood. Yet if the machine were seen in operation the description would become perfectly clear. The man's thought is set forth in his work, and his work and the description of it are mutually helpful in obtaining his full thought.

With God's Word before us, and his works all about us shall we not accord him the same privilege we give to man? Shall we not get as much as possible of his thoughts from his works?

We believe that he who studies aright the works of the Bible's Author will know that "God is not the author of confusion." And if he study the starry heavens he will feel that "The heavens declare the glory of God." If he study the sun with all its splendor and attractive force he will have a grander, nobler idea of the "Sun of Righteousness." And if he considers the solid rocks he will have a higher conception of the "Rock of Ages," and will more certainly seek shelter there.

In "The Gospel of the Kingdom," Wiley Jones gives this "common sense" rule for the study of the Bible. "All the plain texts from Genesis to Revelation, relating to any particular subject, must be taken together, impartially compared, and the expressions of one of them restricted by those of another, and explained in mutual consistency. Then, the doctrine fairly deduced from them all in conjunction is the doctrine of the Bible on that particular subject."

If the Bible be studied in this way, and with a proper regard for the works of the Creator there will be no excuse for the agnostic's "I don't know," or for his deliberately putting himself into that whirlpool of destruction in which he is constantly circling, never getting outside the radius of his own circumstances, and never advancing.

Men speak boastfully of "science," and of their believing science in preference to the Bible. They want "science" to account for everything. Science is all right. But what so-called science has not undergone radical changes within the last few years? And what is called science today in all probability will not be so called a few years hence. Science may attempt to account for some things, but it can never make a world nor a blade of grass. It is asserted by those who ought to know that science has demonstrated no truth that is out of harmony with the teachings of the Bible.

Let us notice a few customs prevailing at the time of Christ. "Arise, and take up thy bed, and go thy way into thine house." Mark ii. 11.

We may better understand why the palsied man was told to take up his bed when we are told that, "The word bed, wherever used in the Bible, must be understood to refer only to the mattress on which people slept. It was much thinner than anything we know under that name.....which was rolled up and taken away during the day, and only spread at night, in no fixed place, but at the will of the sleeper."

In those days the rank of slaves varied from those doing the lowest drudgery to those whose condition was nearly as good as that of the citizen. "Shoes were only soles strapped under the foot. To unloose their clasp (or latchet), bring them, or carry them away, was the work of the lowest slave."

From this we may see the humility of John the Baptist, when in speaking of Christ he says, "There cometh one mightier than I after me, the latchet of whose shoes I am not worthy to stoop down and unloose."

"He said therefore, a certain nobleman went into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom, and to return. And he called his ten servants, and delivered them ten pounds, and said unto them, Occupy till I come." Luke xix.

"This parable is based on the fact that the kings of Judea in those days used, before commencing their reign, to go on a journey to Rome in a far country to be invested with the royalty; after which they would return and reign in Judea."

Figurative language must be interpreted by the literal and in harmony with the literal. Read the parable and notice that this was a "nobleman" and not a king when he went into a far country. But when he had returned, having received a kingdom he was then a king.

Christ has gone, but will soon return a King. He would not receive a crown from the people. John vi. 15. Neither would he accept it from Satan. Luke iv. 8. He will accept it of him who said, "Ask of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession." Psa. ii. 8.

The theme of the Bible is the Kingdom of God. Around this central thought all others are arranged.

"But seek ye first the kingdom of God; and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." Matt. vi. 33.

We are told the kingdom is "nigh at hand." "When ye see these things come to pass, know ye that the kingdom of God is nigh at hand." Luke xxi. 31.

"Can you not discern the signs of the times?" Matt. xvi. 3.

"And what I say unto you I say unto all, Watch." Mark xiii. 37. It is our duty to watch, and as much as possible discern the signs of the times.

Daniel, in his interpretation of the great image, chap. ii., and of the four beasts, chap. vii., has delineated the course of events from his own time until Christ's second coming.

As much of what I wish to say is better said in "The Gospel of the Kingdom," than I can say it I shall quote freely from that excellent book.

The author gives a summary of the two visions as given by Hippolytus, who was martyred A. D. 235. "The golden head of the image, and the lioness, denoted the Babylonians; the shoulders and arms of silver, and the bear, represented the Persians and Medes; the belly and thighs of brass, and the leopard, meant the Greeks, who held the sovereignty from Alexander's time; the legs of iron, and the beast dreadful and terrible, expressed the Romans, who hold the sovereignty at present; the toes of the feet, which were part clay and part iron, and the ten horns were emblems of the kingdoms that are yet to rise; the other little horn that grows up among them meant the anti-christ in their midst; the stone that smites the earth and brings judgment upon the world was Christ."

It must be remembered that Hippolytus wrote before the division of the Roman Empire.

The author "for greater clearness" presents the visions of Dan ii. and vii. in a chart in parallel form and says: "Some things are represented by the beasts which could not be represented by the metals; hence the one set of symbols is supplanted by the other.... "That the Roman was that fourth great empire is proved by its closely succeeding the third, and having authority to send out a decree from Rome "that all the world should be taxed." Notice how beautifully the Bible is its own interpreter in all this great succession of empires, telling us which would succeed which, and that the glorious and eternal Kingdom of God shall succeed them all.....

"Well, taking the Bible in one hand and history in the other, we find by the logic of historical events, that we are living in the very last extremity of the image, in the very last days of mortal rule, and on the verge of [redacted] moment when the [redacted] will crush into dust [redacted] ernments and fill the earth with the Kingdom of God. When Paul wrote to the Thessalonians he certainly did not place the advent in an indefinite future, but plainly taught that some generation of believers—those who "are alive and remain"—shall be eye-witnesses of it, and that it would occur after a certain power then existing should be taken out of the way, and the man of sin developed. 1 Thes. iv. 16, 17; 2 Thes. ii. 8.

"But signs even more vivid than those already considered are given for the comfort and warning of waiting and watching ones, by which they may know that "the morning cometh and also the night,"—the morning of endless joy for the righteous, the night of eternal death for the wicked. Isa. xxi. 12. The constant drying up or wasting away of the power symbolized the 'great river Euphrates' is one of those signs. See Rev. xvi. 12-15. Anciently the Assyrian empire, bordering on that river, was the political Euphrates, and that nation, extending itself and conquering its neighbors, was compared to that river overflowing its banks. Isa. viii. 7. Hence the wasting away of that empire or nation might have been aptly compared to the drying up of that river. There can hardly be a doubt but that, in symbolic language, the Turks are the modern Euphrates. (Waters, in the very next chapter, 'are peoples and multitudes and nations and tongues.' Rev. xvii. 15.) .....But why call this drying up a sign of the advent? Because it is announced under the same vial (the sixth) with the announcement of the Lord's coming.....

"The rapid decline of "the sick man," as the Turk has been called, brings England upon the scene to look after her interests in his estate. And this becomes on the prophetic horizon another bright streak of the coming dawn, for it leads us to hope for a great improvement of Palestine and for a speedy gathering there of the number of Jews which prophecy requires to be in the land at the Lord's coming. There must be some gathering there, for when Gog marches against them in the latter days they are described as the people that are gathered out of the nations, which have gotten cattle and goods. Ezek. 12-16.

"And simultaneously with the decline of Turkey is the aggrandizement of Russia, and her encroachment upon the Turk. This too is a sign, for prophecy requires that in the latter days a vast military host shall come out of the north parts' with many allied bands against the mountains of Israel, and the Jews gathered there; but that host shall then perish at the presence of the Lord, which indicates that he will come at that time. Ezek. xxxviii. 15-23.

The question is asked "But why suppose that Gog, the land of Magog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal' means Russia?" The answer is "Because history and geography point that way." The author discusses the question at some length and quotes from Maury's geography and other sources to sustain his position. He then gives his reasons for believing that the "Merchants of Tarshish" points to the British forces, and in regard to Ezek. xxxviii. he adds: "This prophecy therefore seems to point to the British forces and their allies assembled about Palestine to defend the British route to India; and indeed to defend India itself; for it seems probable that the snatching of India from England will be one of the motives with which Russia will invade the land of Israel. These military movements will produce a vast confluence of peoples to Palestine. One of the effects of the sixth Vial, besides drying up the Euphrates, is to gather "the kings of the earth and of the whole world to a great assemblage in a place called in the Hebrew tongue "Armageddon" the name being in the Hebrew tongue indicates the place to be in the Hebrew land i. e. Palestine. [redacted] Chamberlain [redacted] eth the wrath of man praise him, and so the movements of the Russians, the Turks, the Jews, and the British appear to be one grand system of signs, all converging to the formation of that crisis in Palestine which will bring the Lord Jesus personally upon the scene. We live in an age of rapid movements, and the advent crisis may be quickly formed. It will be sure to take the great, stupid, sleepy, surfeiting, avaricious, and wicked world entirely by surprise. 1 Thess. v. 3, 4. But oh, how ardently does the Christian yearn for that event! and his fervent prayer is, 'Come, Lord Jesus, come quickly.' 'Wherefore, beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent that ye may be found of him in peace without spot and blameless." 2 Pet. iii. 14.

It may be asked why the decline of the Turk is simultaneous with the aggrandizement of Russia, and why it brings England "upon the scene."

The answer to the first seems to be this: In 1453 the Turk took Constantinople, the head of the Greek church, and endeavored to trample out the religion and political spirit of the Greek. Russia, from the start, embraced and championed the Greek faith. Besides inheriting the quarrel with the Roman Catholics she was now the antagonist of the Turk. That antagonism still exists. So what is Turkish loss is Russian gain.

At first "the eastern question" was of a religious nature, but became in part a political question by Russia's endeavoring to get possession of the countries of the eastern empire, and especially of Constantinople. This would afford her great political and commercial advantages. Having the sympathy of the Greeks Russia rose rapidly in power. She schemed for political and commercial ascendancy. Her national policy became threatening to western Europe. They shaped their policy to thwart Russia's scheme. This feeling entered into all alliances and combinations of the western nations.

The treaty of Paris, which closed the Crimean war, took the eastern question out of Russia's hands and put it into the hands of the "great powers of Europe." This makes all those nations interested in "the sick man's estate," and especially a strong, commercial nation like England.

Everything seems to be moving rapidly in fulfillment of prophecy. Prophecy is becoming history so rapidly that we feel that the time is near when the God of heaven will set up a kingdom. Then for the righteous there will be no more pain, sickness or sorrow, but joy and peace forever. May the prayer, "Thy kingdom come," soon be exchanged for the song of the redeemed.

G. M. ALEXANDER.

Extracts From Letters.

Dear Restitution:

I would briefly state that Brother Zilmer last Saturday night closed a series of meetings in this place, (Fonthill, Ont.) resulting in good. There were four baptized, and I think his labors left a good impression on the minds of those who heard. He delivered ten discourses which were listened to attentively which he put forth in his zealous manner. I would just say that I think he is the right man in the right place, and I would heartily recommend him to all who may need his services. We were glad to see him and sorry to have him leave. If the Lord will we hope to enjoy a visit from him again sometime. May God bless him abundantly in his labor of love, and make them successful in winning many souls to Christ, is my prayer.

P. H. BOYK.

Dear Brethren and Sisters:

I love to study and get hold of the ideas of those who are so much better versed in the great plan of redemption through our Redeemer. What a world this will be when the author of sin and misery [redacted] and peace shall [redacted] Even so, Come Lord Jesus.

J. A. WILLIAMS.

Dear Restitution:

I believe we are nearing the end of the present order of things. All things point that way, and the Word also teaches us that the watchers "shall not be in darkness with the rest of the world, but that we shall know of his parousia among us, while the world shall go on with its affairs as usual saying, "Where is the promise of his parousia?" Although I am of the poor of this world, I am watching and waiting 'till my change comes. May the Lord bless your good efforts.

F. W. CHANDLER.

Editor Restitution:

I have just returned from a meeting I held at Wenatchee, Wash. One person was immersed, one came forward to be baptized soon, and another put in membership who was previously immersed. I believe others will obey soon as there is apparently a good interest awakened. Recently there have been some additions to the church near Waterville. Alas! how few are heeding the call to prepare for the coming kingdom of God. In hope.

RICHARD CROSSLEY.

Dear Restitution:

I was glad to see in the paper that there was to be a conference in the state of Illinois, this year. As Brother Wilson said, it does seem as if there was a lack of interest on the part of each individual, (probably I am a little too severe in using that word,) no doubt we are each one of us interested and anxious to see the work go forward, but as every thing that is worth doing well needs some one at the head of it to start it and push it along, and I am sure that we have such an one in Brother Gutfelty, I also feel certain that as it has been published in THE RESTITUTION, that each one will feel that they have a part in this work and will make a special effort to have this meeting a success. We certainly cannot help but see the need of true proclaimers of God's truths as they are laid down in his Holy Book, as we each day of our lives come in contact with our fellowmen, and see how indifferent they seem to be about their future welfare. My prayer to God is that we may each one more fully realize our responsibilities, that we not only owe to God, but that we are to a certain extent our Brother's keeper. We may not all be ministers of the gospel, or have very much of this world's goods, but we can have the love of God shed abroad in our hearts that as we come in contact each day of our lives with those about us that they may see that we have been with him and learned of him, and that there is a pleasure in serving our Master. Though our life may be silent our actions may be such that many may turn from their sinful ways and be led to Christ. I ask an interest in your prayers, that I may ever be found on the Lord's side striving to do right in all things.

May God bless you all is my prayer.

N. M. HENRY.

Dear Restitution:

I am happy to say that our labors at Fonthill, Ont., were not in vain. It was my happy privilege to immerse four believing ones into the Anointed on the 16th inst. Closed the meeting on Saturday and spoke for our church at Niagara Falls, N. Y., on Sunday and Monday evening, and will also speak there tonight. From there I go to Randolph, Pa., to spend a few days at that place in the interest of the truth.

Yours in the blessed hope,

A. H. ZILMER.

Dear Restitution:

I want to keep the dear old RESTITUTION coming, as it is all the church I have to go to, as I am one of the isolated ones. The last sermon I heard preached of the one faith was by Brother Herman, in Nebraska, over three years ago. O how we would like to have him here to preach for us, or someone else of the same faith.

Yours in the true faith,

M. A. ALLEN.

Conference Notice.

The Annual Conference of the Church of God in Southern Kansas and Northern Oklahoma will be held at Blackwell, Okla. (D.V.) commencing Oct. 14 and closing Oct. 23, 1898. We are very anxious to have this a meeting that will strengthen and upbuild, "Where no wood is, the fire goeth out." Let all come and come with fuel for a profitable meeting. Bro. A. H. Zilmer will be with us during this Conference, and for a few weeks afterwards. The following point only having been reported: three miles west and three south of Newkirk, Oklahoma. We wish to use these few weeks to the very best advantage, so all knowing of a desirous field make it known to the Secretary and the Committee will consider all points and favor the ones where they deem the best work can be done. The programme will be published later. It is the desire that all come prepared to stay on the grounds so they can attend every session. The business meeting will be the first Saturday in the afternoon.

ELLA M. VICKERY, Sec.

Low Rates to Omaha—Every Day via Pennsylvania Lines for Trans-Mississippi Exposition.

Excursion tickets to Omaha are on sale daily at principal ticket offices of the Pennsylvania Lines may be obtained up to October 15th inclusive. The return limit includes November 15th. For special information about the low fare and quick through time over this route, apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines, or address F. Van Buson, A. G. P. Agt., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Cheap Trips to the Northwest, West, and Southwest.

Persons contemplating business or pleasure trips to the Northwest, West or Southwest may arrange for an enjoyable journey at low fare, by communicating with C. L. Kimball, Ass't Gen'l Passenger Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines, Cleveland, O. He represents the short Lines to Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville and Cincinnati, the gateways to the Northwest, West and Southwest. Tell Mr. Kimball where you wish to go, and he will cheerfully furnish full information about special low rates and quick through time.—Oct. 31.

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations, the restoration of Israel, the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

The Restitution.

A. E. [illegible]

Entered at Office.

J. H. WILLEY

W. H. HUDSON.

W. H. HALLOCK.

Subscription [illegible]

Publication [illegible]

Important Notices.

[illegible]

Please notice the change of date on the Cook report at Blackwell, Okla.

Mount Vesuvius continues to threaten destruction to Naples, and other towns near.

The Cretan question is a hair to Ireland. The Sultan apparently has two [illegible] and a contrast, and he [illegible] The four powers England, [illegible] and Italy now demand that the Mussulmans disarm or leave the island. Germany keeps out. The Emperor intends to visit the Holy Land soon and wants no hard feelings with the Porte. The trouble in Africa seems over, with England in possession of Fashoda, France being too much absorbed with domestic cares to be able to do much outside work. The wheel turns amazingly fast these days, and what new combinations among the nations will arise [illegible] is hard to guess. The Czar's call for peace seems to have cured the opposite.

That our readers may better understand why such a tempest has been stirred up by the appearance at Fashoda of a few Frenchmen, we give the following from a daily paper, showing the object of each nation in its operation in Africa. "The French are bent on seizing and holding a wide belt east and west across the continent from the Niger country on the Atlantic to some point on the Red Sea. The British are equally determined to complete an unbroken stretch of territory running the whole length of the continent, north and south, from Egypt to Cape Colony. There is still an unallotted region where these two belts must cross, and Fashoda is at its center. The gravity of the present situation therefore arises not from any value that may attach to Fashoda but from the fact that two great national projects here come into natural and deadly conflict. If the British complete their strip of territory and build their transcontinental railway along the east coast of Africa, then the French will be shut out from their colonial and commercial [illegible] on the Red Sea or the Indian Ocean. If the French complete their transverse belt [illegible] the British right of way will be broken and the British [illegible] plans defeated. The ruin of the other must grow out of the [illegible] and it will hardly be the British. If the French engineers and their Abyssinian allies refuse to defeat the project, here is likely to be trouble, and a fight might easily lead to larger issues than Fashoda will ever see. All things, however, [illegible] party sees right or wrong, Great Britain will have its way in the end."

Only last week the English seemed to have the whip hand in the Chinese muddle. With Li Hung Chang dismissed from office, and the French contrary, were to be honored. The Chinese Emperor issued edicts looking to wide reforms throughout the whole empire and the nation seemed to be waking up and ready to take very decided steps in advance, when suddenly the world is startled by the report that the Emperor is a prisoner, that the Empress Dowager has assumed the reins of government, and that the Emperor is [illegible] Germany. Advices received [illegible] stopping the reforms proposed. Li Hung Chang to be Prime Minister, and the [illegible] Russia and the United States [illegible] and English people [illegible]

[illegible] upon [illegible] Emperor, and [illegible] Christmas as if she [illegible] We [illegible] following [illegible] Chronicle-Tribune [illegible] of [illegible] to [illegible] power [illegible] in [illegible]

Washington, Sept. 21.—The British battleship [illegible] Admiral H. Seymour [illegible] the Empress dowager [illegible] Chinese [illegible] suddenly [illegible] by the Emperor's orders, [illegible] recalled from [illegible] Gen. Gordon by the battle [illegible] Victoria, [illegible] cruiser [illegible] Admiral [illegible] Before leaving [illegible] Alexandria [illegible] Admiral Seymour [illegible] Chinese [illegible] Emperor [illegible] the case of the viceroy [illegible] the power of Peking [illegible] the power of sending a fleet of [illegible] to China.

Shanghai, Sept. 21.—It is reported that Kang Yu-wei, the Cantonese reformer, who is now [illegible] the Empress dowager, is [illegible] to Japan. The Emperor's life, which recently [illegible] from Peking, arrived at Nagasaki, [illegible] and came [illegible] of [illegible] Canton [illegible]

New York, Sept. 21.—Lord Salisbury, who has [illegible] to lose much all the European [illegible] during his vacation, seems to have the Chinese puzzle [illegible] to [illegible]

The deposition of the Emperor of China, after creating a suspicion of court plot, is now accepted as proof that the combinations of interests hostile to England has again triumphed. It implies the restoration of Li Hung Chang to power, a great increase in Russian prestige, and a very pending decline in British influence.

[illegible] of the Emperor [illegible] to [illegible] of the shrewish, ineffectual Empress would be regarded as a passage from a comic opera if the Englishmen [illegible] felt sure they could afford to laugh over it. They have an academic interest in the reforms which the Emperor has encouraged by his liberalizing edicts, but they understand the practical significance of the triumph of reaction which restores [illegible] enemy in China as the power [illegible] across the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Poetry.

The Invited Guest.

I gave Heaven my Master
Didn't like me as an heir
That then God in a fit of pique
Gave back the keys of Paradise.
Then when I saw such a corner
At the Lord's Supper of the ages,
That would speak by Christ forever,
We make it the world's pulpit.

Would prove with self-disproval
It wedding-garment spread,
Should I clean my child-like hidden
And show him a heart dead,
And a breath exhaled,
Were I fooled till all the
Of childhood time and
All thankful and prize-song,

Leave Bread and peace and come in,
With the last meek look of day,
With love-light and a star in it,
When naught more shall grieve or sway
More wild and strange And deeper
Sought of that his gift draw
Content in rags and cobwebs,
To stay, and starve and die.

Yet [illegible]
Mine sin and kept the claim,
With Christ on golgotha,
Where [illegible]
And of the radiant wedding
Where member fast is sealed,
And lay [illegible] guests are flocking
With Jesus at their head.

Its gifts, and natural pleasures,
The Christ-child bid Oh come,
And in his Charity rescue
Have sent [illegible]
These thoughts, my heart [illegible]
He died! He died for me!
And soldier of the heavens,
I will take my stand for Thee.

The world's my Master's now,
While he obtain eat duty,
How can I fight on heaven at
To other lords I pray?
The smile beside me until,
Fast beats the glowing desk
Some throw it magic shuttle,
And spin—turn the wheel.

The hire is good the painter,
Is patient labor wait,
The envy does the bidding
Of Sloth or Potentate,
The [illegible] soldier,
In [illegible] Wars,
Bids monarchs and Neighbors follow
When the star of glory shines,

Each servant at his calling
For some dear Master's eye
Across the need of duty,
In golden [illegible]
And [illegible]
That earn [illegible],
With natural heed and medial,
And loyal [illegible]

The [illegible]
[illegible]
To [illegible]
They [illegible]
I see thy servants charges,
Oxen, [illegible]
And Red [illegible]
[illegible]
—S. Reading Wines, in Recreation of 1885.

Selected.

Chinese Getting Their Eyes Open.

At last under the continued gentle nudgery from Japan, Russia, England, America, Germany, and the rest, the Emperor of China is really waking up and beginning to look out. The outside world is bigger than he thought it was and vastly more interesting, and he seems to be terribly in earnest. It is true he is but one, and not all Chinamen are like him. But he stands for some 100 millions of them and is at least their nominal ruler and leader. Once he fairly gets into the middle of the road and facing the sunrise of the new order of civilization, the rest of the people will have to follow. It may come too late to save the integrity of the empire as a political structure. A certain partition of the country with distinct "spheres" of foreign influence seems now foredoomed. What Russia has got Russia is not likely to let go. The same is equally true of Great Britain and the other powers. The destiny is unmistakeably manifest that the West is bound to lay its controlling hand on the East.

The Emperor has not only begun to see a great light, but is displaying a wholly new and extraordinary eagerness to see more of it. Mr. Yano, the Japanese representative at Peking, in an interview the other day, says that "both the Emperor and Empress-dowager have now definitely embraced liberal views; they read the newspapers; lose no opportunity of conversing with men of liberal views; are steadily and with all prudent celerity issuing proclamations and inaugurating measures to bring about a new era." Only a little while ago the Emperor sent out to the American missionary book store in Peking to buy sample copies of all the books they had in stock. When brought to him, as he did not fancy the smell of them, he set a whole army of copyists at work to reproduce them for his perusal. The edict issued by him just a few days ago shows that nobody could be more interested in the "university extension" idea than he. Accordingly, branches of the Imperial university at Peking, distinctly modern and Western in its scheme of education, are ordered to be established at various provincial centers.

Although it was Japan which so rudely knocked the sun-spangled from the Chinese beauty and conceit, the two countries are well known to be on the friendliest terms with each other, and the Japanese representatives in China have lost no opportunity of urging upon the Chinese authorities the necessity of adopting the Western educational ideas and methods.

Of course, the Emperor has not had all these good things to travel; it is often so much easier to learn than it is to make up. The imperial government is between two fires—the foreign and the provincial. Some things which it would willingly, perhaps gladly, do, it cannot do. It will be obliged to wait for the new yeast to do its dough—and an enormously big portion of the human loaf it is to work out its transformation. Meanwhile, although one cannot but pity the Emperor in this sore pinch of destiny between the old and the new, he is deserving of the respect and sympathy in his disposition to do the best he can in adjusting himself to the new and the inevitable.

And now that America has come to be among the foremost and most powerful of world powers, China will see in us no enemy, but in all ways the truest of friends. Moreover, since Dewey's guns at Manila signalled the full advent of the new epoch in the history of the far East, or, as we might as well call it, the far West, it becomes ever so much easier for the Emperor of China and his awakening people to think of America as a neighbor and to learn from it lessons in civil government and the popular enlightenment which they need most of all to learn.

America, then, salutes China, not as an empire about to die, but rather as one on the eve of experiencing the beginnings of a great resurrection.

England and Russia Wrangle About a Railway Line.

The friction between England and Russia, arising from the attitude assumed by the Chinese government in regard to railroad concessions in the Celestial empire, has become the all-absorbing topic of the hour among foreign diplomats. In view of the large American interests in the far East the trend of affairs is also being closely followed in this country. At the close of the war between China and Japan, England and Russia, both watchful for an opportunity to increase their power in the Chinese realm, stepped in and gained control through "leases" over the territory which had been occupied by the Japanese troops. Russia took Port Arthur and the surrounding country on the north of the Gulf of Pe-Chi-Li, while England acquired control of Wei-Hai-Wei, on the south of the gulf.

At the present time there is only one railroad in China, which was built by Li Hung Chang and is under the control of the government. The trouble now threatening between Russia and England has arisen through the application by China of a contract with the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank to build a road from Tientsin via Shan-Hai-Kwan to New-Chwang. The bank is owned almost entirely by English capitalists, although a few Americans hold stock in it. The proposed new road was an important part of the railroad system under development in China.

At its northern terminal it was to have connected with the Manchurian road, which formed the connecting link with the great transsiberian route. On the south it would have tapped, through Tientsin and the road reaching to the Yang-tse River, the rich valley which is China's chief source of agricultural wealth. The proposed road, which the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank held the contract to build, ran through the Russian sphere of influence. Consequently Russia brought great influence to bear upon the Chinese government to prevent the carrying out of the terms of the contract. Russia's Charged Affaires at Peking, M. Pavloff, appeared before the Yamen and protested and threatened. Li Hung Chang was made to feel the Czar's determined opposition to English aggression, with the final result, as now announced, that China repudiated the contract with the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank.

The [illegible] between Tientsin and Hun-kow is being financed ostensibly by French and Belgian capital, but, as a matter of fact, Russia is supplying the money. This road runs through the English sphere of influence. In view of this fact disinterested persons are trying to figure out the justice of Russia's opposition to an English road in its sphere of influence when Russia is infringing in a similar manner upon English property. Another peculiar feature of the controversy is found in Russia's demands regarding the financing of the two roads. No matter what nation supplies the money, Russia insists that, in case of the road running into her sphere of influence, it should in no manner be mortgaged with the possibility of its falling into the hands of an alien power. At the same time Russia insists that all liens on the road running to the Yang-tse River through British territory shall be under the Czar's control.

In 1896 an agreement was made between the Chinese government and the Russo-Chinese Bank, a branch of the Russian Ministry of Finance, by which was created the Chinese Eastern railway company. In reality this was merely an offshot of the Siberian road. Its object was to connect the latter from a point near Nertchinsk, in the transbaikal district, with the terminal Vladivostock by a line carried across Manchuria. In connection with her recent negotiations for the lease of Port Arthur and Talien-Wan, Russia claimed the right to carry her railway down into the Leao-Tong Peninsula.

The agreement signed in March permits Russia to extend a branch line to Talien-Wan, or, if necessary, to the most suitable point on the coast between New-Chwang and the Yalu River. The North of China extension, as provided for in the contract with the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, would have spoiled such a scheme by connecting New-Chwang with Tientsin and Peking. Russia's plan would have left that important treaty port out in the cold, and the bulk of the Manchurian trade would have been driven down to Talien-Wan and Port Arthur, instead of passing, as hitherto, through New-Chwang. That was another consideration which weighed heavily with Russia in her determination to control all railway [illegible] tention from the [illegible] proposed rail[illegible] Chwang as surveyed covered [illegible] tance of about 350 miles. The Franco-Belgian (Russian) railroad from Tientsin to Hankow will be about six hundred miles long.

Germany has also obtained important concessions in connection with the acquisition of Kiao-Chou, while France has rights of a similar nature in southern China.

As for the United States, a deep interest is being taken by the State department at Washington in the contract given to Dr. Yung Wing by the Chinese government, which is considered one of the most valuable yet granted.—New York Tribune.

Will the Jew Return to Zion?

The fact that the Jews are not in possession of Palestine may be accepted as a proof that there is not a strong desire among them as a people to regain their ancient and historic domain. There is a shadowy belief, based upon the declarations of the ancient Hebrew prophets, that Israel will be once again restored to its early heritage, but it may be recalled that at the Zionist conference at Basle in August of last year neither England, the United States, Italy nor Holland was represented, while the object of the conference—which was to create for the Jewish people a public legally assured home in Palestine—was received in other countries with opposition and indifference.

In Germany the union of German rabbis issued an appeal calling on Jews in the name of religion and patriotism to stand aloof from the movement. The chief rabbi in England called Zionism an egregious blunder, and the leading rabbis of France and Belgium condemned it. In those countries alone—as for example, Russia—where the anti-Semitic sentiment is very strong, is any pronounced feeling or favor regarding the creation of a Jewish state in Palestine.

In the 3,000 years in which the Jew has been a wanderer on the face of the earth, the sentimental ties binding him to the land of his nativity have been greatly weakened. In the darkest days of his bitter persecution he might well have cast his eyes to the holy city whither the tribes went up in the days of Solomon and David, and to be sung and glorified by the memories of the tall cedars of Lebanon and the dewy rose of Sharon. But the descendants of Israel have found other lands as fair as the plains of Judea. Other rivers as cool and [illegible] as Jordan flow in [illegible] lakes that are as [illegible] as the Galilee, and they have found rest for their feet in far away countries that were never dreamed of by the ancient [illegible].

Sentiment aside, and a spirit of national consciousness [illegible] as very strong in the Jew would lead to the rebuilding of Jerusalem by the people to whom it once stood as the foundation, of all that was sacred in the body. If this desire should ever become general among the Hebrews, its accomplishment would follow through the exercise of that power which has enabled Jews the arbiters of finance in the world. They would have to engage the infidel Turk with [illegible] of arms, but with [illegible] with which [illegible] has their ancient kingdom. The thrift of the Jews is not permitted to interfere with his own gratification, if his sentimental spirit should [illegible] that stage where the Jewish state with its capital at Jerusalem should seem good in his sight, the equality of the Turk will be the influence which shall remove from the holy city the emblem of the crescent.

Such a change would be hailed with a feeling akin to joy by all Christendom, to whom the occupation of Jerusalem by its original founders and possessors would seem vastly more befitting than the rule of Mohammedanism. Here the persecuted Jew might find an asylum from his oppressors, and worship the God of Abraham and of Isaac and of Jacob in peace and without fear of molestation. But not even such a sanctified refuge, ennobled by memories which shine like undimmed gold, would call again to Zion the great multitude of Jews who have found peace and prosperity in the new world, who occupy places of influence and power in Europe, and who, by the force of a tenacity which has been proof against all persecution, have identified themselves with the advancing interests of modern civilization.—Kansas City Star.

Declares it is Destiny.

[illegible] Chamberlain [illegible] for the [illegible] [illegible] House of [illegible] in which [illegible] occasion for weeping on your shoulder. You are seventy millions and able to take care of yourself. I only want to point out the identity of your interests and ours.

It isn't aggression. They call England a land grabber and all that. Now, your position in the Philippines and ours with regard to Egypt are almost parallel. The Anglo Saxon everywhere looks at things the same way.

Your country is growing; you can't resist its development. For a hundred years you have followed Washington's advice. I do not think you can find another instance in history where one man's word has been so followed. It had been treated as an inspired utterance. But conditions have vastly changed.

It is not supposable that Washington would have maintained the same attitude if conditions had essentially altered, as they must have altered in a hundred years.

Your constitution does not forbid the idea of growth and expansion. It provides for the disposition of new territory and other property of the United States.

Speaking wholly as an outsider, a spectator, not an advisor, the situation was similar to the Egyptian problem England faced. The United States could not shirk its responsibilities any more than the English could. You can't get out any more than we could get out of Egypt. You can't hand the Philippines over to Aguinaldo. The natives are so unused to self-government as far as the rear of America and England, they cannot be left to themselves. There would be outbreaks, then revolutions, then anarchy.

You say, "Hand them over to England." But how do you know we should want to take them? Russia, France, Germany are jealous, but not of you. Your keeping the islands would not mean such a readjustment of conditions as if any other power had them.

These people never in human [illegible] can come up to your and our civilization. You could not give [illegible] equal state representation, etc., but they might be [illegible] advanced.

Thousands of people have been made happier, healthier, and better. If left alone they [illegible] [illegible] selves, kill one another, and devastate things generally.

Men do not naturally fight solely for the [illegible] [illegible] don takes that as [illegible] as [illegible] Galilee, and they have found rest for their feet in far away countries that were never dreamed of by the ancient [illegible].

[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [

Illinois State Conference.

To the Church and all the Brethren of the one Faith in Illinois:

You are hereby invited to come to a Conference to be held at Lamark, Ill., to commence September 30, and continuing over Sunday. This meeting was first intended to be held the last Sunday of October, but the brethren saw fit to make this change as to time of the meeting.

Brothers and sisters of the one faith, do come to this meeting, and—dear by your presence that we are watching and waiting for the Lord's appearing. Now brethren and sisters of the whole State of Ill. will you please report yourself in person or by letter at this Conference, that we may know who you are and where you are. We should like to know the strength of the brothers and sisters in the State, and if you can not come please write a letter to be read in Conference.

J. M. GLOFFELTY, Sec.

We want every brother and sister in the entire State who reads this notice, to understand that you are each one individually invited. We must hear from you. The Master's business entrusted to your care demands your PERSONAL ATTENTION, and in a congregated capacity we can best unite our forces to advantage. By so doing last, correspond with the Secretary at Lamark, Ill.

W. H. WILSON.

PROGRAMME FOR CONFERENCE.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 30

FORENOON.

10:00—Social Meeting.

10:30—Sermon—"Cultivation of Brotherly Love." A. J. Eychaner.

AFTERNOON.

2:00—Papers by Eddy Kenner and Medin Mitchell.

3:00—Discussion on the plans of organization.

7:00—Social Meeting.

7:30—Sermon. D. M. Hudler.

SATURDAY FORENOON.

9:30—Short Talks from the Brothers and Sisters.

10:00—Paper—"Baptism, its Necessity and Object," by Miss Jessie May Wilson.

11:00—Sermon—"Duties of Baptized Believers." A. J. Eychaner.

AFTERNOON.

2:00—Conference Work and Organization. We want all to be present at this meeting.

7:00—Social Meeting.

7:30—Sermon—"Who Made the Bible?" W. H. Wilson.

SUNDAY FORENOON.

9:00—Bible Class led by W. H. Wilson.

9:30—Paper—"Sunday School Work," by Mrs. Ruth Whitehead.

10:30—Sermon—by A. J. Eychaner. Breaking of Bread. Service conducted by W. H. Wilson.

AFTERNOON.

2:30—Social Meeting, followed by closing Business Meeting.

3:00—Sermon. The Blessed Hope, by W. H. Wilson.

6:00—Young People's Meeting—Essays and Papers.

7:30—Sermon. D. M. Hudler.

J. M. GLOFFELTY, Sec'y.

LATER.—Some changes have been made in program too late to advertise.

Reduced rates can be had for ten or more, from any one place. No general order could be obtained.—J. M. G.

Good Chance to Visit the East at Low Fare.

Persons going to Pittsburgh over Pennsylvania Lines on cheap tickets to be sold via that route October 8th to 13th, inclusive, account Knights Templar Conclave will have the privilege of buying low rate excursion tickets from Pittsburgh to points in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and to Baltimore and Washington, over the Pennsylvania Route, by depositing excursion tickets with Joint Agent after reaching Pittsburgh. Full and particular information furnished in reply to inquiries addressed to nearest Pennsylvania Line Ticket Agent, or to C. L. Kimball, Ass't General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, O.—oct 13

Low Rates to Pittsburgh for Knights Templar Conclave.

Elaborate arrangements are completed for the Knights Templar Conclave at Pittsburgh in October. You may enjoy it all by going on low rate tickets to be sold over Pennsylvania Lines October 8th to 13th, inclusive. After taking in the sights and festivities, interesting side trips may be made from Pittsburgh at small cost by depositing return coupon of Pittsburgh tickets with Joint Agent at that place. For particulars apply to nearest Pennsylvania Line Ticket Agent or address C. L. Kimball, Ass't General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.—oct 13

Conference Notice.

The Quarterly Conference of the Church of God, in Michigan, will be held, the Lord willing, at Brady, Kalamazoo County, Michigan, commencing Friday evening Sept. 30th, 1898, and continue over the following Sunday. Friends coming from the north reach Vicksburg via Grand Rapids and Indiana R. R., which leaves Grand Rapids at 2.40 p. m. Teams will meet all trains on Friday and Saturday, to convey passengers to the place of meeting. Those coming from Hastings will take the Grand Rapids and Indiana R. R. at Kalamazoo; all friends coming from the north will be met at Vicksburg. Those coming from the south will be met at Meadow.

Able speakers are expected to be present, and an earnest invitation is extended to all to attend and hear the truth. Come all that can and help to make this our quarterly Conference as interesting as possible.

EMMA LOCKWOOD, Sec'y.

To the Brethren in Michigan

Have you noticed the call for our conference? Will you all make a special effort to be at the meeting? The brethren in Brady and surrounding country are a very generous people, and will make ample preparations for all, and they don't want to be disappointed. Let us make the meeting a grand success. Remember, we are God's stewards. The cause of truth he has put in our hands the success of the cause depends upon our personal efforts. Don't say "I can't come." Where there is a will there is generally a way.

Yours, working for the Master.

R. W. WOODWARD.

Bro. Underwood:

Will you please announce through THE RESTITUTION as follows:—

I will be at the Illinois Conference to be held at Lamark, the first Sunday in October—the Lord willing—after which I will visit and hold meetings at Antioch, Dixon, Paines Point, and other places. Will the Elders at those places write me and arrange the dates?

A. J. EYCHANER.

Dear Brother Underwood:

Please an[illegible]
FICTION, th[illegible]
The Lord w[illegible]
in the n[illegible]
Woods and[illegible] to hold me[illegible]
commence on Friday night before the 2nd Sunday in October, the date of commencing will be Oct., 7th, and continue as long as thought best.

J. S. HATCH.

Pennsylvania Lines Excursions to Pittsburgh for Knights Templar Conclave.

Excursion tickets to Pittsburgh account Knights Templar Conclave will be sold October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th and 13th via Pennsylvania Lines. For special information inquire of nearest Pennsylvania Line Ticket Agent, or address, C. L. Kimball, Ass't General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.—oct 13

List of Appointments.

Hampton, Iowa, Sept. 22 to 28.
Ashton, Ill., Oct. 1 to 5.
Silver Creek, Ill., Oct. 6 to 9.
Adaline, Ill., Oct. 13 to 16.
Dixon, Ill., Oct. 20 to 23.
Lamark, Ill., Oct. 27 to 30.
Rock Falls, Ill., Nov. 2 to 13.
Muscatine, Iowa, Nov. 15 to 27.
Ripley, Ill., Dec. 4 to 4.

Brethren, if above appointments and dates do not suit, will you write me at once?

Yours in hope of the coming kingdom.

D. M. HUDLER.

Reduced Fares to Various Points via Pennsylvania Lines.

Excursion tickets will be sold via Pennsylvania Lines as indicated in the following paragraphs. Although concessions in fare are authorized for meetings of certain Orders, tickets may be obtained by any person whether a member of the Order or interested in the event. The reduced rates will be open to everybody.

To Pittsburgh, Pa., October 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th 12th and 13th, good returning until October 17th, account Knights Templar Triennial Conclave. Return limit may be extended until October 31st.

During the excursion season special rates will also be in effect via Pennsylvania Lines for special and local events. For particular information please apply to nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Lines or address C. L. Kimball, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Cleveland, Ohio.

Send to this office and get a "War Atlas" only 25 cts post-paid.

Indiana Tent Fund.

We the undersigned promise to pay the sums set opposite our names for the purchase and equipping of a tent, to be used in Indiana for the purpose of evangelizing. Said tent to belong to the Indiana Conference, and to be under the control of the Executive Board of said Conference. Said subscription to be paid by the 20th of April, 1898, providing notice is given through THE RESTITUTION that enough has been subscribed with which to purchase said tent. All notices of subscription and all remittances to be sent to A. C. Roberts, Box 210, Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. S. J. Sigler.	$10.00
J. L. Wiser.	5.00
F. L. Austin.	10.00
Edgar Hatch.	1.00
Agnes Dilworth.	2.00
Mrs Mary E Thompson.	15.00
One who believes that God from little offerings can work out great results.	10.00
A Friend of Truth	1.00
Mrs. S. A. Wickizer.	5.00
Mrs. A. M. Siple.	10.00
Mrs. Mary J. Riggs.	2.00

Our Helping Fund.

We whose names are given herewith, believing that it is our duty to provide a fund to be used in sending THE RESTITUTION to those too poor to pay for it themselves, do cheerfully give the amount set opposite our names for the purpose of aiding the managers of the paper to supply the needy ones. This fund to be applied as the donor request, (or when left to the publisher to decide) only for those who themselves state their circumstances and need, or whose case is presented by some one known to be trustworthy.

N. M. Henry.	.25
Mrs. E. C. Gilbert,	1.50

P. O. Addresses.

Persons requesting their address published may have their names inserted here.

J. M. Fike, Phoenix, Crimea.
J. B. Adams, Hamburg, Iowa.
John Compton, Blair, Neb.
J. H. Stevens, Shawnee Mound, Mo.
S. G. Clinkenbeard, Bonham, Texas.
P. B. Stouffer, Bayard, Iowa.
B. W. & M. A. Woodward, Dutton, Mich.
J. M. Chesebrough, Galesburgh, Mich.
[illegible] 1810 Saratoga st, Oma[illegible]
[illegible] Kan.
[illegible] Riverside, Ky.
[illegible] 155 Broadway
[illegible]
[illegible] 84, Grand Rapids, Mi[illegible]
Rosann Wiser, Petersburg, Ind.
P. A. Saylor, Tempe, Arizona.
Silas Rose, Dudley, Worcestershire, England.
J. S. Hatch, Sevierville, Ind.
J. F. Wagoner, Box 251, Rochester, Ind.
Geo. Kidwell, Chismville, Ark
J. J. Cody, Holbrook, Neb.
J. T. Prine, Edison, Neb.
A. J. Eychaner, Shellbrook, Ia.
W. L. Winslow, 523 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan.
B. L. Kean, 1507, S. S. St., Tacoma, Wash.
J. P. Glenn, Fair Haven, Kan.
John W. Hull, Dexter, Ill.
L. E. Conner, Sidell, Ill.
B. F. Boyer, Seven Fountains, Va.
F. E. Adams, Osawkie, Kan.
S. C. Oliver, Alden, Kan.
D. M. Hudler, Muscatine, Iowa.
J. G. Haupt, Laurel, Neb.
J. R. Fisk, Caldwell, Kan.
M. L. Adams, Linden, Okla.
W. S. Townsend, Salem, Ohio.
J. M. Prinner, Jessup, Ia.
Mollie Butcher, W. R. P. Rome, Madison, Ohio.
J. Conaway, Ballard, Wash.
S. T. Hook, Pike, Ind.
H. T. Baker, Box 1038 Decorah, Iowa.
A. T. Morris, Arvata, Cal.
J. R. Oglevie, North Branch, Kansas.
G. W. Smith, Marmon, Ind.
Mrs. Mollie Rathbun, Cedar Bluffs, Kan.
D. Howard, Scotland, Conn.
J. Ogilvy, 627 South Los Robles Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
W. O. Steffe, Pomona, Cal.
E. W. Knapp, Box 11, Viola, Idaho.
Elder H. M. Williams, Portland, Kan.
B. Wilson, 1305 G St. Sacramento, Cal.
D. T. Halsted, Andover, S. D.
John Fouse, 2012 West Corning Ave. Pasadena, Cal.
J. C. Mitchell, Crowley, La.
Kansas.
R. S. Driggins, Odell, Mich.
H. F. Tyler, 2714 6th ave. Tacoma, Wash.
Miss Emma Jackman, Treasurer of "Ladies Evangelical Aid Society," Box 384 Grand Rapids, Mich.

Presents for Friends.

I hereby offer until further notice one copy of "The Gospel of the Kingdom," leather gilt binding, fifth edition; one copy of same in cloth binding; one copy of "Twelve Words;" one of "Early Lessons;" and one of "Honoring the Son,"—all five for the low price of one dollar. This offer is made for the good of the cause of truth.

WILEY JONES, Manchester, Va.

Excursions to Chicago.

Commencing July 17th and continuing every Sunday until further notice the Pennsylvania Lines will sell One Dollar round trip excursion tickets from Plymouth to Chicago. Special train will leave at 7:15 a. m. central time returning leave Chicago 8 p. m. and 11:30 p. m. Excursionists have all day to look about the great city.

List of Churches.

Church of God, Plymouth, Ind., meet in the Christ Church, Corner Garro and Water Streets, every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. Sunday School 12:00 m. Prayer and [illegible] Meeting Thursday evenings. You are [illegible] W. H. Wilson and W. Tuttle, Elders.

Church of the Blessed Hope, 926 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. [illegible] at 10:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Bible lessons and all lovers of truth are [illegible] Visitors welcome. Manuel Rose, Elder.

The Church of God at [illegible] Ind., meet at Wilmot Hall on [illegible] Sunday at 11:00 a. m. Visitors welcome.

The Church of God at [illegible] meet at their house on Mechanic [illegible] ing by J. F. Wagoner on the [illegible] the month. Sunday School [illegible] Social meeting every Thursday evening.

The Church of God [illegible] day of the week [illegible] ren, and would be pleased to [illegible] and those who [illegible] preach with us. If they will [illegible] meeting, according to the [illegible] West Day St., Sabbath, etc.

The Church of God, at Modesto, S. D., [illegible] services each Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in the Rail Road Avenue Christian Church. The [illegible] Modesto & San Pedro R. R. passes west to Modesto. Party [illegible]

The Church of God, in Pleasant View, [illegible] every Sunday at the Prairie Church, to study God's Word. Then Sunday school every Sunday at 10 o'clock. Preaching every Sunday at 11:00 o'clock. Everybody welcome. [illegible] known by the [illegible] or coming [illegible] by friend, or letter, will be heard with welcome. At present we meet in the School House on top of the [illegible] come [illegible] bring [illegible] South.

The Church of the Chosen Few at [illegible] Creek, Ohio, meet every Sunday at 10:00 a. m. for Bible class and Sunday School. Communion at 11:00 when prayers and exhortations are made to our Father, the Giver of every good and perfect gift. All visitors welcome. Brother George Knife, Kessler or H. L. [illegible] West Milton, Ohio.

The Church of God at [illegible] Ind., meet every Sunday at 2:00 p. m. for [illegible] and exhort each other to love and good works. L. Anthon, Elder.

The Church of God at Brooklyn, N. Y., meet every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in Benson Hall, on Willoughby Ave., near Broadway.

Preaching at Park Hill church in Chelbrook, every Sunday morning and evening, by A. [illegible] Inquirers will find a [illegible] at 10 a. m.

[illegible] Mich. Preaching at office as Bro and Sister Woodward can be present. The Churches of God at Brady and Prairie Grove, Mich. have preaching every two weeks. Sunday School at Prairie Grove every Sunday. The Church at Raisin Center is [illegible] by Brother L. C. Chase.

The [illegible] Church of Christ, Oregon, meet every Sunday at 11:00 o'clock by means of Sunday School, or preaching, or both, and would be pleased to have all lovers of truth, and brethren in distress meet with us. The Elder is W. W. Fike.

The Church of God at Niagara Falls, N. Y., meet every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. for worship at the Church, on the corner of Cleveland Avenue and 16th St. All are welcome.

The Church of God near Vancouver, Washington, meet every fourth Sunday either at Felida or Lake Shore. The gospel of the kingdom is proclaimed at this place by Elder Edwin E. Grant of Scholls, Oregon. Occasionally by Elders W. L. Skeels and Wm. Prasser both of Scholls, Oregon. Services at 11 A. M. Social meetings at 3 P. M. Valentine Fike, Sec.

The Church of God at Linden, Okla., meet at the Arbor on my place, one and one-half miles northeast of Linden, every third first day of the week, to worship our Heavenly Father and commemorate the broken Body, and spilled Blood of our Savior, Jesus the Beloved. All are welcome. M. L. Adams, Elder.

The Church of God of Waterville, Wash., meet every Sunday for preaching and public worship, at Mountainview School House, near town. Brethren and Sisters coming this way will be made welcome with us. Richard Corbaley, Pastor.

The Church of God in Batavia, N. Y., meet every Tuesday and Thursday evenings for prayer and Bible study, also on Sunday at 3:00 p. m. for worship, in private houses. All hungered Truth, and traveling brethren cordially invited to stop off and meet with us. A. W. Gover, Sec'y and Treas. A. E. Forsythe, Leader.

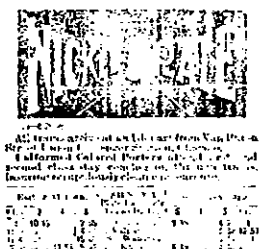
The Church at Millbrook, Mich. have preaching every four weeks by Brother or Sister Woodward. Sunday School every Sunday. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening. Lorenzo Decker, Elder, Ransom Lake, Sec'y. All lovers of truth are cordially invited to any and all of these gatherings.

The Church of God at Dixon, Ill., meet every Sunday for Bible study and Sunday School. Faithfully yours, Grant Mechanicsburg.

The Church of God at Alden, Kansas, meet in their house in the city of Alden for preaching on the 2nd and 4th Sundays in each month at 11 o'clock a. m. All are welcome. S. C. Oliver, Pastor.

The Church of God meets every Sunday at 10:30 a. m. in hall on 3rd. Floor, No 1231½ Euclid Ave. near Wilson Ave. Cleveland, Ohio, where all of like precious faith are welcome.

The Church of God, known as Union Chapel Congregation meet each fourth Sunday, at private homes, for the purpose of breaking bread and social services. Also on the second Sunday at the Union Chapel House, Waterford, Ill., for Bible Reading at 11 a. m. All are invited. Lizzie Woods, Sec'y.



All trains are run on Eastern Standard Time. Pittsburgh Standard Time is one hour faster. [illegible] Limited Parlor [illegible] second class day coaches on [illegible] between Chicago and Pittsburgh. [illegible] Ticket Agents. [illegible]

[illegible] Pennsylvania Railroad System.

[illegible] Westward. [illegible]
Pittsburgh lv.
Allianee ar.
Canton
Massillon
Wooster
Mansfield
Crestline ar.
Bucyrus
Lima
Van Wert
Fort Wayne
Ar. Adrian
Columbia ar.
Fairmount
Peru
Wabash
Converse
Marion
Kokomo
Elwood
Tipton
Sheridan
Noblesville
Indianapolis lv.
Chicago ar.

[illegible] Eastward. [illegible]
Chicago lv.
Indianapolis
Noblesville
Sheridan
Tipton
Elwood
Kokomo
Marion
Converse
Peru
Fairmount
Columbia ar.
Ar. Adrian
Fort Wayne
Van Wert
Lima
Bucyrus
Crestline ar.
Mansfield
Wooster
Massillon
Canton
Alliance ar.
Pittsburgh lv.

[illegible] Eastward. [illegible]
Chicago lv.
Valparaiso
Kouts
Wanatah
Hanna
Wellsboro Junction
Kingsbury
La Porte
Westward. [illegible]
La Porte
Kingsbury
Wellsboro Junction
Hanna
Wanatah
Kouts
Valparaiso
Chicago ar

The Restitution.

—ISSUED WEEKLY BY—

A. R. UNDERWOOD, Publisher

—FOR THE—

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

W. D. THOMPSON,
J. H. WILLEY,
A. R. UNDERWOOD,
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

One Year $1.50. Six Months 75 Cents. Three Months 40 Cents.

Walter Trudinger
316 Kilowna

The Restitution.

"The Restitution of all things Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his Holy Prophets."

VOLUME XLVII. PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, OCTOBER 5, 1898. NUMBER 38.

Oregon State College
Oregon State

Poetry.

One Upward Lift.

If you were toiling up a weary hill,
Bearing a load heyond your strength to bear,
Straining each nerve untiringly, and still
Stumbling and loosing foothold here and there;
And each one passing by would do so much
As give one upward lift, and go his way,
Would not the slight, reiterated touch
Of helpful kindness lighten all the day?

There is so little, and there is so much,
We weigh, and measure, and define in vain:
A look, a word, a light, responsive touch,
May be the minister of joy to pain.
A man may die on honor, walled in gold,
A crumb may quicken hope to stronger breath:
And every day we give or we withhold
Some little thing that tells for life or death.

—Susan Coolidge.

Communicated.

In-Diana Conference Papers

THE RELATION AND CONDITION OF THOSE WHO ENTER THE KINGDOM OF GOD.

Adam is the head of the human race, and of course we partake of his nature, and that is, a fallen nature. He was made of dust of the ground and placed in the garden of Eden, and commanded to dress it and eat of all the fruit of it, except the fruit of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, this he was not to eat, or touch, least he should die. He did eat, and the sentence came, and that was death. "So by the offence of one, judgment came upon all men to condemnation." So this is our condition by nature, on account of the relation we sustain to Adam. So we see by nature we are lost in death. Oh! what a helpless condition, "without hope and without God in the world."

We will consider the condition we must sustain to our heavenly Father, in order that we may have an entrance into his heavenly kingdom. Man must be regenerated or made new. In his natural condition he cannot enter the kingdom. "Flesh and blood cannot enter the kingdom" on account of their corruptible nature. Now the new man. We will commence by saying, Man must be begotten and born in order to be a perfect new man.

Jesus commissioned his Apostles to "Go and preach the gospel to every creature, and he that believeth shall be saved, and he that believeth not shall be condemned," and John says: "Those that receive this gospel purify themselves even as he is pure."

How are we justified? Justified by faith. Justified in what? In what we do by having faith. The Word says, "Repent and be baptized for the remission of sins." Why are we baptized? It is a symbol of our faith. We believe Jesus died and rose again the third day. He rose after the power of an endless life. We too go down into the water and come up to walk in newness of life. Now our faith and works agree. Now we are justified before God in the forgiveness of our sins. Now we are in the begotten condition.

Paul in 1 Cor. says, "He had begotten them by the gospel." John speaking of this class says, "Now are we the sons of God, but it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that when he shall appear, we shall be like him for we shall see him as he is." Then have we the spirit of Christ? Oh, yes. It comes through faith in God's Word. John says if we "have not the Spirit we are none of his."

Now we remain in this begotten condition till the Lord comes, then we are to be born again, changed from the corruptible to the incorruptible. Our bodies changed from the corruptible to the incorruptible. Then we are the sons of God by birth. Then we will know as we are known. That is,—we will know as God knows. Why? Because we will have the heavenly nature, that is, the same that is spoken of in 1 Cor. xv., "For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality. So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory. O death, where is thy sting: O grave, where is thy victory." This takes place when Christ comes for his saints. The dead are raised incorruptible, the living changed and all caught up to meet the Lord in the air, and so shall they ever be with the Lord.

The next in order is the wedding. This unites the church and Christ, now they are Bride and Bridegroom—that is after the marriage takes place. O what an idea! To be the Bride of Christ! Is it possible for poor mortals as we are to attain to such a high calling as this? Yes, if we are overcomers. This high calling consists in being made "Kings and priests unto our God," which we have a promise of in Rev. v. 10. This is the promise to the faithful. Now the world has no priesthood. Christ is a Priest over his own house, which is the Church. Heb. x. 21. This is the time of "taking out a people for his name." Acts xiv. 15. "Many called but few chosen." We see this by the parable of the sower. Matt. xiii. 18. When Christ comes and raises up the tabernacle of David that is fallen down, in order that the residue of people might seek after the Lord, then the world will have a Priesthood. When Christ comes with all his saints, the saints are to be priests unto God over what, if not over the residue? Not over one another, certainly not. So it must be over the residue, so then the world will have a Priesthood. Then the work of restitution will commence, that is, making all things new. Then the law will go forth from Zion and the Word of the Lord from Jerusalem. Then the gospel that was preached to Abraham will be due. That in him and his Seed all the nations should be blessed. Then the covering or vail that is over the nations will be taken off. Isa. xxv. 7.

This shows that the nations will be enlightened; light into shine "more and more until the perfect day." After the kingdom is set up it will be due then to say: "The Spirit and the Bride say come, and whosoever will may come, and take of the water of life freely." Prior to this it is stated that no man can come to me except the Father draw him." John vi. 44. This is the time of the election, taking out a people for his name. The conversion of the world is after the kingdom is set up. We see in Daniel ii. 44, the God of heaven is to set up his kingdom. It breaks in pieces all other kingdoms, and it is to take their place, and this kingdom is to be given to the people of the saints of the Most High." Dan. vii, 27. "Whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom."

We see according to Zech. xiv. 5, that Christ and the saints come to the Mount of Olives, the Mount cleaves in the midst and there is a valley, so we see by this that this is the beginning of making the earth new. And we see in Rom. xi. 26, that Christ is coming to Zion, and is going to deliver and "turn ungodliness from Jacob." So we see the good work commenced in the earth, and man, that is, the regeneration or making a new of all things spoken of. We see by the Scriptures that the gospel was first preached to the nations of Israel. The first command was not to go to the Gentiles but to the "lost sheep of the house of Israel," and we see some of them received it. We see by what Paul says in the 11th of Romans that Israel hath not attained what she sought for; but the election hath attained it, and the balance were blinded on account of their rejecting the gospel. Was that condemnation, death without mercy or death to all eternity? Oh no, Jesus says, "O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, how oft would I have gathered you as a hen gathers her chickens under her wings; but you would not. Behold your house is left unto you desolate and ye shall not see me henceforth, till ye shall say: Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord." In Ezek. we see that the Lord is going to "bring them up out of their graves" and he is going to "take their stony hearts away and give them a heart of flesh." So we see Israel is to be restored back to their own land, that was given to their fathers according to the prophet, and never to be removed out of it. Ezek. xxxvi. and xxxvii. So the good work goes on.

John says in Rev. v. 21, "He that sat upon the throne, behold I make all things new." Then will be fulfilled what Paul says in Eph. i. 10, "That in the dispensation of the fullness of time he might gather together in one all those in Christ, both which are in heaven and which are on earth even in him." Also in Rom. viii. 21, "Because the creature itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God." What a blessed hope for the future. When sin and all its consequences are in the past. When "the lion and the lamb shall lie down together, and when a child can play around the hole of the cocatrice's den. When none shall harm nor molest in all God's holy mountain." When sickness and death is all done away; when tears are wiped off all faces; when it will be joy and gladness to all hearts; when we will meet our loved ones, our fathers, mothers, brothers, sisters, also our dear companions. Oh, what a meeting that will be. Never to be separated any more at all. Under such circumstances who would not say, "Come Lord Jesus, come quickly," "Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." This is our prayer, "Come Lord Jesus, come quickly."

I. G. ROBERTS.

PATIENCE IN CHRISTIAN CHARACTER BUILDING.

My attention was called especially to this subject about three years ago, on hearing the first chapter of James read at one of our Sunday morning social meetings. Of course I had read the chapter and had heard it read frequently previous to this time, but it had not impressed my mind so forcibly as on this occasion. The fourth verse arrested my attention sharply; it reads "But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect, and entire, wanting nothing."

The language is so strong, and the result so promising, that I immediately made up my mind, that here is an element in Christian building that is worthy of my most earnest study and investigation, and I immediately entered upon the work, and I had not proceeded far before I found that I had struck it rich, and it paid from the start.

And I must acknowledge that I was surprised at the extent and importance of the subject, and the vital necessity of patience in building up, filling in, and rounding out, and embellishing, and completing and perfecting, the life and character required of God's children, to prepare and qualify them to stand approved in the presence of the Son of God, our King and Savior, when he shall come to gather his tried and faithful ones to himself, and shall say, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter into the joys of thy Lord. Thou hast been faithful over a few things, thou hast patiently endured the trials and temptations that have come to you for my sake. Come, now, inherit the kingdom prepared for you, and receive the crown of life promised to all the faithful ones."

It may be of interest to some to know the plan that I adopted in the investigation of this subject. In the first place I hunted up the meaning and uses of the words patience, patient, and patiently, etc., and found that they were taken or translated from several original words with slight difference of meaning, in the different and various connections in which they are used.

I do not know any better way to illustrate the manner of my investigations than to give a few Bible quotations in which the words occur. I used Young's Analytical Concordance in my work. I found the word patience to mean forbearance, long suffering.

Heb. vi. 12, "That ye be not slothful, but followers of them who through faith and patience inherit the promises."

I found the greater number of quotations to mean endurance and continuance. Luke xxi. 19. "In your patience possess your souls." The Diaglott reads, "By your patient endurance preserve your lives." This is emphatic, study the chapter, it is important.

I also found the word in its various [illegible] to mean: forbear, bear long, [illegible] will, to remain unmoved, [illegible] in tribulation, continuing in prayer."

To forbear, suffer long, 1 Thes. v. 14, "Now we exhort you, brethren, warn them that are unruly, comfort the feeble minded, support the weak, be patient toward all men."

To wait, to expect. Psa. xl. 1, "I waited patiently for the Lord, and he inclined unto me, and heard my cry." And many other quotations to the same effect.

I also found that patience is a product of faith, and also a test of faith. James i. 3, "Knowing that the trying or proof of your faith worketh or produces patience." Also Jas. i. 12. "Blessed or happy is the man that endures temptation, or trial, for when he is tried, or become an approved person, he shall receive the crown of life which the Lord has promised to them that love him."

But in order to claim the promise and the crown we must "let patience have a perfect work, that we may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing, or deficient in nothing." That is, in connection with the graces and virtues that belong to Christian character, we will be thoroughly equipped with everything necessary to the upbuilding of our lives after the example of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. But if deficient in this grace we cannot be successful in our work, but must fail.

I also found that the work of patience in connection with other Christian graces and attributes in Christian character building is progressive work, a warfare, a race, finished and perfected only, and not until the coming of the Lord.

1 Tim. vi. 11, 12, "But thou, O man of God, flee these things and follow after, or pursue, righteousness, godliness, faith, love, patience, meekness. Fight the good fight of faith, lay hold on eternal life, whereunto thou art called."

Heb. xii. 1-2, "Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us. Looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith, who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God."

2 Pet. i. 5-9. "Giving all diligence, add to your faith, virtue, knowledge, temperance, patience, godliness, brotherly kindness, love. For if these be in you and abound they make you that ye shall neither be barren, nor fruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ."

But remember the 9th verse: "But he that lacketh these things is blind, and cannot see afar off, and hath forgotten that he was purged from his old sins."

But let us give earnest heed to the 10th verse, "Wherefore, the rather, brethren, give diligence to make your calling and election sure, for if ye do these things ye shall never fall, For so an entrance shall be ministered unto you abundantly in the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ."

I find also that we should not only be patient under all trials, in all cares, but should rejoice in the same. James says, "My brethren, count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations, knowing this that the trying of your faith worketh patience."

Also Paul in Rom. v., "And not only so, but we glory in tribulations also, knowing that tribulation worketh patience, and patience experience, and experience hope; and hope maketh not ashamed because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Spirit which is given unto us."

And 1 Peter ii., "For this is thankworthy, if a man for conscience toward God endure grief, suffering wrongfully. For what glory is it if when ye be buffeted for your faith ye shall take it patiently? But if when ye do well and suffer for it ye take it patiently, this is acceptable with God. For even hereunto you were called because Christ also suffered for us, leaving an example that ye should follow his steps."

Can we stand the test and follow in the steps of our great Example? Yes, in his name, and by his grace, we may come off more than conquerer through him that loves us. Perhaps there is no place or condition in life that calls for more patience, and love, and forbearance than in the church, among our own brothers and sisters in Christ. It is so easy to find fault and criticise each other if things do not go just to suit our own ideas and notions, and get out of patience and blame somebody else for everything that goes wrong.

I once read in some paper that each one of us ought to carry about with us a good sized cemetery to bury the faults of our friends in, and it struck me very forcibly that it was a first rate idea, for if we could keep the faults of friends out of sight, it would save us a world of trouble and heartburning, yea, and lots of evil speaking and backbiting, and estrangement and coldness toward each other. And in many cases the work of the Lord is hindered and our Christian characters are injured thereby. Paul puts it very nicely in his letter to the Colossians 3rd chapter to which I think we all should take heed and also practice. "Put on, therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, bowels of mercies, kindness, humbleness of mind, meekness, longsuffering. Forbearing one another and forgiving one another, if any man have a quarrel or complaint against any, even as Christ forgave you, so also ye. And above all things put on charity, which is the bond of perfectness. And let the peace of God rule in your hearts, to which also you are called in one body and be ye thankful."

One thing more I wish to call attention to. We are admonished to be patient until the coming of the Lord. This has tried the patience of the waiting Church through all the long dark centuries since Christ left the earth. How long, O Lord, how long, has been the cry of his waiting and suffering Church through all these ages. Says James, the Apostle, "Be patient, therefore, brethren, unto the coming of the Lord. Behold the husbandman waiteth for the precious fruits of the earth, and hath long patience for it, until the early and the latter rain. Be ye also patient, stablish your hearts, for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh."

But while we are patiently waiting for the Lord's coming, we may still pray, "Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in heaven, and come Lord Jesus and come quickly." Then

"O Christian, toil on, work—work while the day,
And soon a bright crown you will gain:
In the land of the blest, the weary shall rest,
From labor, temptation and pain;
There is rest over there, blessed rest, over there,
Sweet rest on that heavenly shore.
Yes, there's rest over there, sweet rest,
Where sorrow will come never more."

Then dear ones, let us exhort one another daily while it is called day, lest any of us be hardened through the deceitfulness of sin, for we are made partakers of Christ, if we hold the beginning of our confidence steadfast unto the end.

"For whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning, that we, through patience, and comfort of the Scriptures might have hope. Now the God of patience and consolation grant us to be like minded one toward another, according to Christ Jesus, that we may with one mind, and one mouth, glorify God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

WASHINGTON TUTTLE.

Oregon State College
Oregon

The Restitution.

THE RESTITUTION advocates the final "restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." As a means to this end the establishment of the kingdom of God on the earth, with the Christ as King of kings, and the immortal saints as joint-heirs with him in the government of the nations; the restoration of Israel; the literal resurrection of the dead; the immortalization of the righteous, and the final destruction of the wicked; eternal life only through Christ, and many other kindred truths. Also a hearty belief of the gospel, repentance and immersion in the name of Jesus Christ for remission of sins, pre-requisites of the forgiveness of sins, and a holy life as essential for final salvation.

HOW CAN WE BEST UTILIZE MUSIC IN CHURCH WORK.

Ever since the morning stars sang together and all the sons of God shouted for joy at the creation, music has been a moving power on the hearts of men. It swells the breast with joy, soothes the troubled brow in distress and heals the wounded spirit. It enlists, excites and intensifies every feeling, every element of human nature. Yea, its harmonies and influences reach throughout all nature. "Music hath charms to sooth the savage breast." It has been one of the greatest civilizing agencies through the march of progress for past centuries and is today one of the most potent agencies in the onward advance of man's development. Music is one of the fine arts which appropriates the phenomena of sound to the purposes of poetry and has a province of its own in many respects wholly distinct from, yet analogous to that of the other arts. It is the eternal harmony that pervades all nature—God's throbbing soul that ebbs and flows through all the universe.

One of the highest attributes to music is that religion causes it and is one of the highest proofs that religion brings joy to the heart, that when men have found God they want to sing. At the birth of our dear Savior the angels sang "Glory to God in the Highest and on earth peace, good will toward men."

Paul in Eph. v. 19, says: "Be not drunk with wine but be ye filled with the Spirit: speaking to yourselves in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your hearts to the Lord."

"David, the sweet singer of Israel, says: "Serve the Lord with gladness: come before his presence with singing." And again "Then was our mouth filled with laughter and our tongue with singing." Thus we see that holy men of old and the inspired apostles of Jesus Christ were touched with the significance of music as a method of worship and today with our improved instruments and systems of music, it can be and is more potent than ever to inspire the heart of the true worshiper to breathe out swelling emotions of reverence in song and tune to the God they adore; to the Christ they love. And there is no other sphere of religious work where its influence is more advantageous than in the church and the Sunday School. In the Sunday School we seek to teach the child religion and in the child emotions are very strong, and it will be interested in music when spoken language would often fail. Then after the interest is enlisted by the harmony of sounds it can be gradually led to intellectual thought and finally to the great truths of God. Let us then try to excite the sentiment of love in the Sunday School by means of the music.

In the first place there should be a leader and one that is willing to spend some time during the week teaching the smaller ones songs. The songs should be simple and within their grasp. Occasionally it would be well to have a separate class furnish all the music.

Another way to interest them is by the special exercises as Children's Day, Easter, Christmas, etc. Then is it not important that we utilize the power of music on the young? Make their lives full of song.

Henry Ward Beecher said, "We can sing away our cares easier than we can reason them away. The birds are the first to sing in the morning; the birds are more without care than any thing else I know. Sing in the evening. Singing is the last thing that robins do. When they have done their daily work, when they have flown their last flight and picked up their last morsel of food, then on a top twig they sing one song of praise. I know they sleep sweeter for it. They dream music, for some times in the night they break forth in singing and stop suddenly after the first note, startled by their own voice.

Oh, that we might sing morning and evening, and let song touch song all the way through. Oh, that we could put songs under our burdens, and extract the sense of sorrow by song! Then these things would not poison us so much. Sing in the house; teach the children to sing.

STELLA TABER.

The Restitution.

A. R. UNDERWOOD, OFFICE EDITOR.

EDITORIAL COMMITTEE
J. H. WILLEY,
W. D. THOMPSON.
WM. RAILSBACK.
D. T. HALSTEAD.

M. JOBLIN, SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

PLYMOUTH, INDIANA, SEPT. 28, 1898.

Important Notices.

All persons addressing us should give their name, postoffice, county and state, plainly and distinctly.

All letters should be addressed to "THE RESTITUTION, Plymouth Marshall Co., Ind."

Remittance should be sent by bank draft, postoffice money order, or registered letter. Money sent in either of the above ways is at our risk, money sent loose in letters is at the risk of the sender. It is folly to think that you can fold bills in a letter so that no one can tell it, for one who handles mail matter can almost invariably tell a letter with money in it. Take warning and send safely.

All remittances should be made payable to the order of "THE RESTITUTION."

We cannot hold ourselves responsible for the return of manuscripts. Authors should preserve a copy for themselves.

In ordering books or tracts get the latest copy of the paper you have and order only what you see advertised in that.

When desiring a change of address, give both your old and new address.

By complying strictly with the above you will save us much annoyance, and your order will be much more promptly attended to.

BROTHER A. H. Zilmer will preach at the Plymouth Church next Sunday at the usual hours morning and evening.

OUR paper is a day late this week. The reason being that in company with Brother W. D. Thompson and wife, the Editor and wife drove over to Brady school house and attended the Michigan Conference. The trip was very enjoyable, and the meeting again with old friends and the forming of new acquaintances, was indeed pleasant. May we each so live that we may meet and enjoy each others society in the coming kingdom.

THE Peace commissioners from this country have demanded from Spain the entire group of Philippines, and the Spaniards are so surprised they have asked time to consider. It is among the possible events that war may be resumed, though it hardly seems as if single-handed Spain would again venture to try arms with America. She may delay final action for some weeks, but she is doomed to lose her possessions to some one else if not to the United States.

THE situation in China is so serious that the United States government has seen fit to order two ships from Admiral Dewey's fleet to proceed at once to Taku, and nearer if possible to the City of Pekin. There is grave danger that the native Chinese will attempt to kill foreigners, and the city may be occupied by marines from the ships of the different fleets in order to protect the consuls. Minister Conger says:—"serious danger yet. Considerable anxiety for future. Foreign fleets assembling at Tien-Tsin. Some Ministers ordering marines to Pekin for legation guards. The interests of the United States in China are large enough to make it necessary to send protection to the seat of trouble, and there was no hesitation by the Navy Department in acting affirmatively on Secretary Hay's request. American missionaries are plentiful in the Flowery kingdom, and any outbreak would probably result seriously for them, as the fanatical followers of the non-progressive party would be likely to attack 'the foreign devils.'" The ships sent are placed at the disposal of the American Minister, and by prompt action trouble may be avoided.

"Bountiful Crops and a Great Volume of Business."

This is the word brought to us from all parts of the country; the east, west, north and south seem to have been quickened into new industrial life and energy,—and those at the helm of large enterprises report orders that will tax their productive facilities for months to come; and others are taking steps to double their output. And Eastern capitalists say that the Great West is getting so well on its feet, financially, that it can move its crops without advances from them,—which is something quite new. The Secretary of the Kansas Board of Agriculture says the product of the live stock market this year is about twelve millions greater than last year.

Taking it for granted that those of like precious faith with us, who, in obedience to the divine command have been diligent in business, fervent in spirit, sowing to the Lord, have received a goodly share of God's bounties, we are wondering what effect it will have upon the cause of God and Truth. For several years there has been a great shortage in the Lord's treasury. Fewer Evangelists have been kept steadily at work, and the publisher of THE RESTITUTION has had a hard struggle to keep his head above water. Scarcity of employment, slow collections of business men, and indifferent crops through unpropitious seasons and unremunerative prices, together with other things, have made it very hard to make both ends meet, and so keep the banner of truth a waving, although, with the assistance of certain ones who realized their stewardship, it continues to this day.

With the turn of the tide of business prosperity there is no necessity for such a condition of things; and we cannot believe that the expectants of crowns and welcome plaudits, when Jesus comes, will suffer this hand-to-mouth state of affairs to continue.

Events are crowding events in rapid succession in confirmation of the grand truths we have espoused and which are committed to our trust; and our working day may close very soon. Depend upon it, it behooves those who have taken the name of the Lord upon them, to look about them and see what they can do to further his cause. They have been called out as witnesses for the True Witness. This is their imperative duty. They are enlisted to do this. They are obliged to consider themselves "the light of the world," if they are in any relation to Christ at all. A small part of this obligation may be discharged by living godly lives; this would doubtless have a salutary effect on a few intimate acquaintances, but there will be no saving power in such an influence, apart from the truth. It requires gospel to save people, and the people generally have not been trained to distinguish between the effects of pious living and the sanctification produced by obedience to God's Truth.

It is the light of life.—the light of the gospel, that men must be illumined with, before they can secure an inheritance with the saints in light. Of late facilities for sowing seeds of truth have multiplied so fast and are furnished so cheaply that they are in reach of all. For the trifling sum of three cents per week THE RESTITUTION would regularly visit a family or friend, and be the means, perhaps, of lending one or more of earth's loved ones to accept the call to God's kingdom and glory, and at the same time secure crowns of rejoicing in the day of God for whoever may have brought Jehovah's beneficent purposes to their notice.

By all the love of Christ and of God we entreat those who are today rejoicing in hope of the glory of God, and who want to show their gratitude to him for crowning the present year with his goodness, to determine, to secure by the first of January, 1899, a thousand additional subscribers, if permitted by life and circumstances to do so.

In Christ, and the Result of It.

There was a time when Paul was not in Christ for he speaks in Rom. xvi. 7, of some who were in Christ before him. And as he in Gal. iii. 27 says, "For as many of you [Galatians] as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ," it would be safe to conclude from this, that he had gotten into Christ the same way. But we have the direct proof that he did, in Rom. vi. 3, 4, for he there includes himself with the beloved of God, called saints, at Rome, in this way:—"Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ, were baptized into his death, therefore we are [have been] buried with him by baptism into death;—that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life." And so, when we turn to the history of his conversion and see that he took the medicine he prescribed for others,—and read in Acts xxii. 16, and Acts ix. 18, that at the word of Ananias, "And why tarriest thou? Arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins," he "arose and was baptized,"—the evidence is complete that he practiced what he preached.

This, together with the wording of Rom. vi. 3 and Gal. iii. 27: "Know ye not that so many of us"—no others—as were baptized into Christ, were baptized into his death;" and "For as many—no others—as have been baptized into Christ, have put on Christ," shows the tremendous importance attaching to this divine formula, viz., this baptism into Christ, and this putting on Christ. "And if ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's Seed and heirs according to promise," Ver. 29. If words have any meaning,—If not baptized into Jesus Christ, we are not baptized into his death; and we have no connection with his death in the case no interest in it, and, so far as we are concerned, he died in vain. And if we are not planted in the likeness of his death what ground have we to hope to be raised as he was, in view of Rom. vi. 5? And if we are not baptized into him, and put him on, as stated Gal. iii. 27 when, or where, or how do we become his? Where does the transfer take place if we set aside the means to that end? And if we do not thus become his, how do we become Abraham's seed? And if Abraham is not our father, Faithwise, what claim have we on his promised estate; or, in the words of the Spirit: "[Heirs] [with Abraham] according to the promise? And this means to be blessed as he will be blessed; Christ having been made a curse to that end, see Gal. iii. 13, 14.

To be blessed with the Father of the faithful, must we not believe with the father of the faithful? Could Abraham become our father in any other way? Does it not stand to reason as well as Scripture that if Abraham is blessed with the blessing promised him,—and is addressed because he believed what was promised him, is it not necessary for us to believe what was promised him in order to become heirs according to the promise?

Are we not plainly told in Rom. iv. 13 that a promise was made to Abraham that he should be the heir of the world? And was it not the belief of the promise that he should be the heir of the world, that made him the heir of the world? Who can deny it, when we read that his faith was reckoned to him for righteousness? Who can deny it when verse 16 clearly shows that the same promise made to Abraham, is made sure to all who believe it as he did.

Reader, read Romans 4th chapter over and over again, till the great truth is deeply stamped upon your mind, that Abraham's seed faithwise, —yes: Abraham's seed faithwise, become such by believing what was promised him and his Seed, v. 13. The promise to Abraham's seed, as well as to himself, was made because his faith was reckoned to him for righteousness. Primarily the Seed was Christ, see Gal. iii. 16. Secondarily all those who become Christ's by faith and obedience, Gal. iii. 27; thus the acquiring of joint-heirship is made clear; Christ is Abraham's Seed; by union with Christ we become Abraham's Seed too; and consequently heirs according to the promise, not a promise, remember, but the promise made to Abraham.

We next invite attention to the fact that all who become Christ's, and therefore Abraham's Seed, have been called or invited according to the Eternal Purpose of God. Eph. i. 11, and Eph. iii. 11, and we learn from 1 Thess. ii. 12 that it was a call to God's kingdom and glory,—and the object for which they are called to that kingdom and glory is learned from Galatians iii. 8 and Gen. xii. 3. In Abraham and his seed, [the Christ, and, as we have seen, all who are Christ's and thus become Abraham's Seed or children] all the families or nations of the earth are to be blessed.

If asked how, In Abraham, and his Seed, the Christ, and those who are his, all nations are to be blessed? We reply, by means of the kingdom he called them to see, 1 Thess. ii. 12, and to which he invites them when he comes, in the language of Matt. xxv. 34, "Come ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for [in the Eternal Purpose] from the foundation of the world."

If asked what the next event in the divine programme may be? We reply that, according to promise they now reign with Christ, because they have already, in the mortal state, suffered with him. 2 Tim. ii. 12. And besides being kings, they will be priests as well. "Joint-heirs with Christ" is the way it reads, and as he is to be a priest upon his throne (Zech. vi. 13 and Psa. cx. 4) they will be priests upon theirs,—see their triumphant song in Rev. v. 9, 10.

It is senseless to talk about reigning on the throne of a kingdom where there are no subjects to reign over; and hence the next question that confronts us is,—Having been placed in authority and power, over whom will this vast multitude of glorified Seed of Abraham exert it? Over whom will they reign? We answer, in the words of the To-Be King of kings and Lord of lords, speaking from heaven on this subject in Rev. ii. 25, "Hold fast till I come; and he that overcometh, and keepeth my works unto the end, to him will I give power over the nations."

Remember the promise was that all nations were to be blessed in Abraham and his Seed. Only one, the Christ, of Abraham's Seed, is as yet qualified for the mission of blessing all nations; and he is waiting for the rest of them. The gospel call all down the ages has picked out the Seed to begin this work along with the glorified Jesus, after being made like him and invested with Almighty Power. They will do what human instrumentality failed to do.—fill the earth with the glory of God. Religionists suppose that God has from the beginning endeavored to convert the world of mankind. Do they not know that God never fails to do what he determines to do? It is so, whether they know it or not. The gospel has been doing all it was intended to do ever since the germinal promise to Eve in the Garden, that the Seed of the Woman would bruise the head of the Serpent. It has from that time to the present been doing all it were intended to do,—viz.: To take out from among earth's inhabitants a people for God's name, to be used for his glory during the age soon to dawn, in the way indicated above; that is, to rule the world in righteousness till the whole earth reverberates with Jehovah's praise.

A righteous government is the first blessing to be granted all nations. But in order to thus bless them, unrighteous governments must be put out of the way. Dan. ii. 44 shows that God's kingdom will break in pieces all human governments and occupy all the territory; but this does not annihilate the masses of the people. Psa. lxx. 6 shows that it is the heads [rulers] over many countries that are to be wounded. If the United States had sent to Spain and destroyed its government, it would not have destroyed the people,—they would have granted the victory; so, when the overcomers obtain power over the nations and break them in pieces as a potter's vessel it is only preparatory to the kingdoms of this world becoming the kingdom of our Lord and his Christ, Rev. xi. 15, and then the prediction of Dan. vii. 14 will be fulfilled, and dominion and glory, and a kingdom that all people, nations and languages should serve him. These are the subjects of the Son of Man. Dan. vii. 13, and the saints, verse 18 whom Paul says shall reign with him; and the 72nd Psalm gives a glorious picture of the condition of those subjects, and the grand result is said to be exactly what the gospel of Abraham promised him,—"Men shall be blessed in him, [the Messiah,—Abraham's Seed] all nations shall call him blessed, and the inspired Psalmist is full to overflowing at the prospect, and shouts, "Blessed be the Lord God, the God of Israel, who only doeth wondrous things, and blessed be his glorious name for ever, and let the whole earth be filled with his glory. Amen and Amen."

Without fear of successful contradiction, we affirm that the kingdom Jesus preached the coming of, and commissioned his disciples to preach the coming of, Matt. xxviii. and Mark xvi. is to be set up when he comes to earth and seats himself upon the throne of glory promised him, see 2 Tim. iv. 1. Secondly, that it is then, —when Jesus comes and sets up the kingdom Daniel foretold, and breaks up the kingdoms of men, chap. ii. 44, and has saints bind the kings in chains, and the nobles with fetters of iron, which all the saints share the honor of, Psa. cxlix. 6-9,—then it is, that the blessing of all nations beings, as promised to Abraham.

This is the kingdom the gospel of which Jesus said should be preached in all the world for a witness, Matt. xxiv. 14. As those who believe that gospel and render heartfelt obedience to it in baptism, are in Christ, what would be the condition of those who believed they were going to heaven at death, and by baptism endeavored to secure a claim to it? Would they be in Christ? If a person believed that Jesus was coming to destroy all the wicked and glorify the righteous and fit up the earth as their everlasting home, could there be any kingdom where there were only kings and priests? How could all nations be blessed in Abraham and his Seed after they were burnt up? Would it not be awful bad news instead of good if the Lord was coming to destroy the nations instead of blessing them? Seeing Jesus has been anointed by God to be King of the Jews on the throne of David, Luke i. 30, and all nations shall call him blessed, Psa. lxxii. 17, because he blessed them, is it not another gospel which promises something entirely different? And if Jesus has been anointed to reign with his saints over mortal subjects for a thousand years, till all know the Lord from the least to the greatest, is it not a grand delusion to virtually ignore the Anointed and rejoice [with him while he is doing the gospel concerning it?

Is it not criminal to allow men to think they are in Christ when they believe what millions? Isa. ix. 6, 7; Psa. lxxii, Jer. xxiii. 5 and Acts x. 36, 37 and hundreds of other Scriptures, including Acts iii. 19-21 with not a warning that ignorance of the covenants of promise leaves men without God, without Christ and without hope see Eph. ii. 11, 12. A man who believes these things of the kingdom and the name himself, as gospel, and allows that something else will answer for others is not obeying the injunction in Jer. xxiii. 28 "He that hath my Word, let him speak my Word faithfully. What is chaff [which man may mix in with it] to the wheat, saith Jehovah?"

Selected.

United States as a Factor in the Development of the Continents and Islands of the Pacific.

A short time before the outbreak of the recent Spanish American war a discussion took place at a Washington luncheon table between two distinguished American public men. One of them was a strong believer in the "forward" policy, who accepted, and even glorified in, the title of jingo; the other was "conservative" and an opponent of external expansion and aggressive activity. The latter remarked that the United States should have no concern with militarism and imperialism. "We are a pacific power," he said.

"I guess so," replied the other gentleman. "But we intend to spell pacific with a large P."

The words seem prophetic already. The appearance of the United States as an actor in the drama which is being enacted on the shores and waters of the Pacific Ocean may turn out to be the most abiding and important result of the brief struggle with Spain. The American republic made its sudden dash into military and naval activity through a series of events which many people regard as fortuitous. But if there had been no tale of outrage in Cuba, and no shattering of the Maine in Havana harbor, the United States would not have been able to maintain its attitude of passivity and freedom from international complications much longer. A manifest destiny, if ever nation had one, has been driving it in the direction along which it has moved with startling rapidity since the spring of the present year. The change has been accelerated by the circumstances which forced on intervention in Cuba and the rupture with Spain; but it was bound to come in any case.

It is a curious fact, which may possibly receive explanation from some historian of the future, when history has become more scientific than it is at present, that a whole chain of causes has been steadily drawing the United States on the way of imperialism. Two years and a half ago the present writer pointed out that the novel interpretation of the so-called Monroe doctrine asserted by President Cleveland and Mr. Olney, in the Venezuela dispute, was not to be taken as a merely personal eccentricity on the part of a particular administration. The motives and principles which induced Mr. Olney to declare that the United States was entitled, if it so pleased, to intervene in a quarrel between two governments having possessions in South America might also furnish the warrant for intervention in the Caribbean Sea, or the Pacific, if the interests of the republic seem to be affected or menaced in either of these regions. It would not have been difficult to demonstrate that there were other quarters of the globe in which, on the general Olney doctrine, the Washington government might feel itself called upon to act. The theory has been re-asserted in a broader and more emphatic form by Mr. Olney himself in the course of the last few months. Here is a passage which may be worth quoting:

"In our country, as well as in monarchies, tradition and custom are strong. This policy of international isolation was formulated by Washington in his farewell address, and has come down to us indorsed by a long line of great statesmen. It is a rule that could hardly have been more closely adhered to if it were in the constitution itself. There are many cases to which laxity cannot be excused by an appeal to that time-honored rule. If in Turkey we can protect our missionaries by making a temporary alliance, and not without it, we should do it. Or if our trade with China were ruined by its partition among other nations, we would be justified in making such a temporary alliance. The rule has been outgrown by our natural development and expansion. Washington said that the time might come when we might take part in European affairs. We are always offering our moral support until the nations of the earth think we have nothing else to offer; that we are making swaggerers, who exhaust support our blustering words, and consequently we are today, through this policy of isolation, left with no friends among the nations of the globe. . . . No foreign question arises nowadays, but as soon as it is hinted that the United States should interfere and play its part in a manly fashion, then the cry of "jingo" goes up, and all we do is some lat tardily to tender our "moral support," is that the position for a great nation to take? It is not enough for us to pose and to call upon the world to look upon us and admire us; we must do something to justify our claims to be worthy of notice."

There is no man in America whose opinions have had more weight with the thinking portion of the American people than the distinguished strategist, Captain Mahan. If this able and suggestive writer has had a profound influence upon our own views, not merely of naval strategy but of international relations, he has, just as truly been even more effective with his own countrymen. No one who has studied the pages of Captain Mahan's books with any attention can have failed to see that the drift of his teaching is to urge upon the United States the paramount necessity of equipping itself with a strong navy and a sufficient military establishment, in order to play its part in that new sphere on which he foresees that the country will be bound to enter. It is extremely significant and interesting that the regions marked out by the Captain as the special points for the display of American activity are those where the sailors and soldiers of the United States have been hard at work in the last few months. At any time during the last seven or eight years Captain Mahan has been endeavoring to impress upon his countrymen that the future has in store for them two gigantic responsibilities. In the first place, they have to exercise a controlling and paramount influence in that enclave of blue water which washes the shores of North, South and Central America and the West Indian Islands; and, secondly, they have to realize that they must bear a large part, if not the largest part, in the struggle for the economic, military, and political development of the continents and islands of the Pacific Ocean. And these two things—supremacy in the Caribbean and the Mexican Gulf and the maintenance of ineffective influence in the Pacific—are so closely connected that both together are likely to determine the character of American foreign policy for some time to come.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Pennsylvania Excursion to Fort Wayne.

For the free Street Fair at Fort Wayne the Pennsylvania will run special trains Thursday and Friday Oct. 6th and 7th, leaving Plymouth at 7.30 A. M.; returning, leave Fort Wayne 11 P. M. Those dates round trip rate $1.00. Excursion tickets will also be sold for regular trains Oct. 4th to 7th inclusive, good returning until Oct. 8. J. E. HANES, Agent.

Christianity is a help in business. God issues a bond: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." When we fulfill the requirements, when we meet the conditions, we may be certain that God will pay the bond.—Park.

As the servant of a nobleman, money is exceedingly valuable, for it furnishes opportunity to enlarge the scope of charity and benevolence. As the master of it, it rapidly ruins it, develops the meaner qualities of human natures and makes its possessor a mere caricature.

You Can Go to Chicago October 9th, for $1.00.

From Plymouth via Pennsylvania Lines excursion train at 5:30 A. M. central time; returning leave Chicago 8 and 11:30 P. M.

Poetry.

Standing in the True Favor of God.

"Not I, but Christ liveth in me"
Together with him crucified God:
From the law of sin I am free,
By the law of faith put to deal.

Called unto liberty I am—
Liberty from sin through the blood;
Made free in the Lord, now I stand
Without blame before him in love.

From sin, in his blood I've been cleansed;
Robed whiter than snow by the Lord:
Not lived with corruptible gems,
I now am all-one-ment with God.

Subsidssive to God's holy will:
My heart pierced and cleft through the Rock
My longings the Lord doth fulfill
I lack it, by reason of love.

My all hid in Jesus, the stone
Quickly the rod Shepherd smote:
Hi-rock, in sweet pensive divine,
Whose veinings is lustrous with gold.

God's wave-tepid and sanctified flows
Of holiness shed from above,
Ever roll on my heart to keep true,
And perfect peace with the Lord.

Now Mary's good portion is mine;
In choosing that glorious part,
The Lord by his Spirit divine,
Now dwells in my sanctified heart.

Anointed and sealed by the Lord,
The pledge of the Spirit I hold.
Not looking to self, but to God,
God's will, is the will of my soul.

A branch of the Vine grafted in I pure,
In my soul his life-current flows;
Made one with the Lord, I'm secure:
The way for my feet he doth show.

Thus walking in newness of life
In newness of Spirit to serve,
I will wage the glorious strife
Without an delay, or reserve.

By faith I have entered his rest,
His glories I've caught in my heart:
Now leaning on Jesus' breast,
I stand with God's chosen, apart.

"Now steadfast and sure is my hope,"
"It entereth within the veil:"
No longer in darkness I grope,
My Guide will never falter nor fail.

Led by the still waters, and blest;
O, blissful and transporting state:
I have found my Refuge and Rest:
For the Lord I'll patiently wait.

Joyful and precious the story,
O tell it ye saints, one and all,
That sures the lordship and glory,
For Christ is our all, and in all.

The glory, dear Savior, is thine;
Imprinting thy light on our souls,
Dear Lord, by reflection we shine,
Thy glory and praise to extol.

Reflecting the beams of thy love
Our eyes string to heavenly lays:
We'll sing on the hills of our God,
Of the narrow and straight holy way.

Mrs. D. W. Carr.

Communicated.

The Difference between Begettal and Birth.

"Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born again." John iii. 7.

Teacher. I request

PINE WOOD'S BIBLE CLASS

to unite in an investigation of the above topic. Very often those who teach the people, speak of being "born again," when in fact they had not advanced beyond the begettal stage in the new life. (zoe life) which may in some cases prove abortive before the period of birth arrives. I wish to ask is it necessary to be born again?

Albert. It is indeed.

Teacher. On what do you base your proof?

Albert. John iii. 3, "Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the Kingdom of God." (Part with the psuche and take zoe life.) It is important the topic should be understood, on this account.

Teacher. What does the birth consist of?

Albert. See verse 5, "Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of WATER and of the SPIRIT, he cannot enter the Kingdom of God."

Teacher. What three steps are necessary to arrive at a full stature of complete manhood in Christ?

Albert. 1st by begettal, 2nd by growth or development, 3rd by birth.

Teacher. By what power is the begettal produced?

Albert. See James i. 18, "Of his own will BEGAT he us with the Word of truth, that we should be a kind of FIRST FRUITS of his creatures." There are two points here, the begettal is "of his (God's) own will, and the means producing it, "the Word of truth." The psuche life comes by man's will.

Teacher. What is "the Word of truth" which produces the begettal?

Albert. See 1 Cor. xv. 15, "In Christ Jesus I have BEGOTTEN you THROUGH THE GOSPEL."

Teacher. Does the sonship commence when they have gone no further than simply believed?

George. No, Sir. That is the begettal only. See John i. 12, "As many as received him, to them gave he POWER to become sons of God, even to them that believe on his name." We must distinguish between the "POWER TO BECOME sons of God," and, BEING sons. To whom has he given "THE POWER?" To them that believe on his name.

Teacher. When does the begotten believer become a son?

George. When born. "Born of water." John iii. 5. In other words: "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." If not "born of water," "he cannot enter into the kingdom of God," no matter how much he believes. The begettal must come to birth, before a son can exist. This is otherwise spoken of in the Scriptures as the "washing of regeneration and the renewal of the Holy Spirit." To regenerate is to bring to birth again, in the "washing of regeneration" or "the bath of the new birth."

Teacher. Who are in Christ?

George. See Gal. iii. "As many of YOU as have been baptized into Christ, have put on Christ."

Teacher. What is he then?

George. See 2 Cor. v. 17. "If any man be in Christ, he is a NEW CREATURE." The beginning of zoe life.

1. "I have begotten you through the gospel." 1 Cor. iv. 15.

2. "Born of water." John iii. 5.

3. "If any man be in Christ he is a new creature." 2 Cor. v. 17.

4. Growth. "As NEW BORN BABES, desire the sincere milk of the word that ye may grow thereby." 1 Pet. ii 2.

5. "Strong meat belongeth to them that are of FULL AGE." Heb. v. 14.

Teacher. Having passed the above elementary stages what is such an one?

George. He is a son of God, he is "born again."

Teacher. In John iii. 5, we read, "Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." The birth of the spirit being distinct from the birth of WATER, what does it mean? We read the phrase "born of God," frequently in the Bible, does it mean the same as born of the spirit?

Arlon. The phrases "Born of God," and "Born of the Spirit," are as different as anything can be. We are "born of God" now while in mortality, but with regard to the birth of the spirit, says Jesus: "They are the CHILDREN of God." Why? Because, "Being the CHILDREN of the resurrection." "It is sown a natural body; it is raised (born) a SPIRITUAL body." 1 Cor. xv. 44.

Teacher. What peculiarity does Jesus point out to distinguish those "born of the spirit?"

Arlon. He says in John iii. 6: "That which is born of flesh is flesh, and that which is born of the Spirit is SPIRIT." It is either one thing or the other. We cannot have the spirit and flesh nature at the same time

Teacher. Yes, that is true, but don't Jesus give something that is marked and peculiar about those who are "born of the Spirit?"

Arlon. Oh yes, there is something quite distinctive. That is seen in v. 8, "The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but thou canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth: so is EVERY ONE that is BORN OF THE SPIRIT." The peculiarity is, they will be able to travel through space unobserved as the wind. This will be the peculiarity of "every one that is born of the spirit." The flesh and blood nature cannot do this. Jesus after his resurrection did this. He could suddenly appear to his disciples, in a closed room, and then vanish away again. His person was none the less real and tangible than was his flesh and blood body. The spirit substance cannot be governed by the laws which govern flesh and blood. It is superior to the law of gravitation. It enabled him to ascend to his Father without the aid of wings, or any other method known to man. "So when this mortal shall put on immortality, and this corruptible shall put on incorruption," they also will rise superior to nature, and ascend to meet the Lord in the air.

